FOR
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: SATURDAY FEBRUARY 1, 1890 | NO 27

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackerlin, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoa nut Sugar Wafers
Lemon Biscuits—Bondoir biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES &C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carlings
PELLER'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.

And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS,
UNDERCLOTHING,
TRUNKS and
VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES

See for yourselves and Call at
S G RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS.

BOOK BINDING
TAMMADGE
FRONT St Belleville

WANTED.

A SMART YOUNG GIRL to act as cashier in a retail store. One with a knowledge of book keeping preferred. Apply at once in own handwriting. Address, BOX 225, P O. Jan 27, d3i

OAK and Tamarac timber in round or sq delivered here. Apply at Commercial Hotel. A. ECCLES.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay; salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

WOOD FOR SALE.

ALREADY supply of dry blocks, in Pine, Hemlock, and Ash, AT THE RATHBUN COMPANY, Eagle Mill. 6tf

HOUSE WANTED

BY small family, within five minutes walk of the post office, by the 1st of March. Must have modern conveniences. Reasonable rent paid. West Belleville preferred. Address 'B' box 293. 1wd

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL RETURBSON,
Belleville, P. O.

OPERA - HOUSE

SATURDAY, FEB'Y 1ST,

THE JOSIE MILLS
Dramatic Co
And Grand Silverware Gift Distribution. Also a Gold Watch Given Away at Each Performance!
FRIDAY evening, the great Play entitled
ONLY AN IRISH GIRL
CHANGE OF PLAY EACH NIGHT.
POPULAR PRICES!
15 cents and 1 Number
25 cents and 2 Numbers,
35 cents and 3 Numbers.
The Watch and Silverware to be given away now on exhibition at Riggs.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.

THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

OUR TEAS
Relieve Thirst and Dissipate Sorrow.

Can we say more in their favor
And who can say our
Then are pria s right? If so, and an ever increasing sale points that way; here in your midst—on the corner of Front and Hotter Streets.
Tea Drinkers have an Elysium.
The latest crop Teas, direct from the place of growth, and the choice of Pickings can always be had by purchasing at
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods warranted FIRST CLASS. Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Write for terms giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

I don't care who appointed to the Baltimore post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that Pocock use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking powder. I am done wit th powder contain-

SCOTT'S EMULSION
DOES CURE CONSUMPTION
In its First Stages.
Palatable as Milk.
Be sure you get the genuine in Salmon color wrappers, sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

ALBERT COLLEGE FOREIGN MISSION BAND

1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church, Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7:30 p m.

Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant, D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.

Saturday Evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg, our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Juro Kono Victoria University, Cobourg.
Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel
Students will fill the Programme.
No charge for admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection to defray expenses.
ALL WELCOME.
J. WHALE,
Chaplain Mission Band.
14567

"ICE!! ICE!!"

Having Stored a large quantity of Ice I am prepared to supply City Customers at last year's prices, which will be furnished on application. Contracts can be made by applying to
D. R. LEAVENS,
Box 506.

FOUND.

A SILVER WATCH on Taylor's Hill, Owner can recover same by proving property and paying for advertisement.
Apply to
GEO. E. FAX,
21 Geo. Ritchie's

LOST.

A CALF SKIN wallet was picked up and left at this office, which contains bank books and papers, of value only to the owner. It can be recovered by paying for this advertisement.

SAFE WANTED

SECOND HAND. Apply at this office.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow me to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "La grippe" or Russian influenza," as is will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and cartarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing
FULFORD & Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

NEIL MCNEIL Leith, Ont,
THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of nervous bone, brain and muscle are derived is yet manufactured by a man in which practices on weak, Uninterrupted rough digestion may be insured, the secretion activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier or introducer of vitality.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuits than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.
What Baking Powder Shall we use

MONEY FOR ALL

WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS' Nurseymen, Roc Y. 1398 dw

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of furriers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

CASHIER SILCOTT FOUND.

THE DEFAULTER RUN TO EARTH IN TERREBOMME, QUE.

He Says That He Is Not So Black as He Has Been Painted—Not Afraid of the Detectives—The Forgery Charge Denied—His Dulcinea With Him.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—Craven Edward Silcott, the missing cashier of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the United States House of Representatives, who decamped with $90,000, the proceeds of forgeries of the names of members who were accustomed to draw their pay through him, has at last been traced to Terrebonne, a little village about 36 miles from Montreal on the Canadian Pacific Railway. With him is Louise Thibault, the frail beauty for whom it is said he went wrong, and the erring pair were seen at the house of her aged parents, who are connected with the Mason estate at Terrebonne.

When interviewed Silcott said: "This is neither the time nor the place to speak of defalcation, but the time will come when those who are now hardest against me will know I was not so much to blame. As to the charges of forgery, that is all bosh. There is a scoundrel by a member of the House to whom I did not advance his pay every month and received notes as receipts. When I left Washington for New York I had not the remotest idea of leaving the United States. As proof of this I have only to point to the fact that on the Wednesday before last Thanksgiving I drew $50,000 from the Treasury and with $14,000 of this amount I took up the notes of some thirty members which had been discounted in the National Metropolitan Bank. As to the other money I am accused of decamping with, I assure you I had but very little when I left New York.

CRAVEN EDWARD SILCOTT.

"There is something else I wish you to contradict, and that is the stories that I was a big winner at the races. This is not true, for my losses far exceed my winnings. It was to keep up and be hale-fellow-well-met with these same members of Congress who now are running me down that I first went to the races. My curse on the races! I wish to God I had never gone near them."

"Was it true that you went to Buffalo from New York?"

"Yes, that was true, but it was not true that I bought two tickets at the Grand Central Depot. Nor is it true that I had been to the company of Fred Miller on my last visit to New York."

"There is another thing I want stated and that is that Miss Thibault, of whom such hideous falsehoods are told, had nothing to do with my fall. Had I always taken her advice I would be in a different position today?"

"Would you tell me how you left the States?"

"From Buffalo I went to Detroit, then crossed to Windsor, Ont, and then went to Toronto where I remained at a private boarding house until I was joined by Miss Thibault. We remained there a couple of weeks and then came on here to Terrebonne to visit some of her friends."

"Then the story published in some papers that you and the lady had been in a boarding house on Sanguinet-street in Montreal is untrue?"

"There is not a word of truth in it. We were never in Montreal. We went from Toronto to Ottawa and then to St. Martin's Junction and then here.

"And your plans for the future?"

"I have none. Had you come 24 hours later you would not have found me, for I leave here to-morrow."

"Will you tell us your destination?"

"I will not, but this I will say: I do not care a cent for all the detectives in the United States and Canada. I would face arrest to-morrow, and that is all they could do, for they would be as far from that $5000 reward as ever."

"How so?"

"I have obtained the best legal advice in Canada and feel assured that I have committed no offence for which I could be extradited. The day will come when I will not appear as black as I am now painted. Good night." And thus the interview was brought to a close.

THE BIG TELEGRAPH SUIT.

A Victory for the Montreal Company—The Case Dismissed.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—Judgment was rendered this morning by Justice Wurtele in the case of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company against the Montreal Telegraph Company, dismissing the action with costs, given a verdict against the defendants to pay the costs of providing unnecessary proof.

The decision had not such a bearing on the stock market as was expected. Montreal Telegraph opened at 99¾ asked and 99¾ bid, at which price sales were effected. The price gradually rose until 101 was asked and 100½ offered. The transfer amounted to 2050 shares.

The Temiscouata's Short Line.

HALIFAX, Jan. 31.—John Herbert Beatty and E. D. Boswell appeared before a joint meeting of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce this afternoon and presented the claims of the Temiscouata Railroad Company's scheme for a short line from Edmundston to Moncton to the favor of Halifax business men. The matter was discussed by those present and further consideration postponed till next Tuesday.

He's in Canada.

DETROIT, Jan. 31.—Godfrey J. Lochbihler, Secretary of the Local Board of Civil Service Commissioners and Bond Clerk of the Custom House, is short $3000. A warrant for his arrest has been issued, but Lochbihler has gone across the river.

A G.T.R. Brakeman Loses His Hand.

CATTARAUGUS, Jan. 31.—Brakeman Gunter of Niagara Falls had his right hand crushed to a pulp while coupling cars at the Grand Trunk station this morning.

A Barrell Full of Money.

a good thing to have, but health is better than wealth. Preserve your health by using Cockerly's made with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Montreal Diamond Robber Run to Earth in the Queen City.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—On the afternoon of Jan 20 last two men were seen in front of W. R. Walker's jewelry store, Notre Dame-street, Montreal. After remaining quiet for a moment or two one of them leisurely proceeded to the store door and inserted a short, stout piece of wood in the handle, thus preventing any possible egress from the place. Another fellow, when he saw that his companion had got through with his share of the work, deliberately smashed in the plate glass fronting with a piece of rock which he had concealed under his coat. In the hole thus made he inserted his hands and calmly scooped up two or three trays of diamond rings and gold watches and then fled down the street. The clerks were helpless for a minute or two through fear of his

he Daily Ontario

ELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 1 1890

DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays, and delivered by carrier in cities at parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—10 cts. per week.

WEEKLY ONTARIO is published every Thursday morning and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for Dollar a year.

ERTISEMENTS This Daily ONTARIO first insertion 75 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 2 cents per line; Business not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

FICE TISEMENTS in WEEKLY ONTARIO, 10 cent per line each insertion.

DING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

THS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attended the charge for death notice is 25 cents.

TRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reasonable rates.

Business Letters, Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. E. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

HE WARDEN.

Hastings county has had many able wardens, but Mr. N. Vermilyea the present occupant of that honorable position is entitled to a place in the front rank with the best of them. He presides with dignified courtesy and keeps the machinery running smoothly evidently knowing how to administer oil to save friction. He is a young man but has been in the council for some ten years, and always showed a broad, liberal comprehension of the duties of his position. The council recognized his ability last year and knew that he would be a candidate for the chair of magistracy of the county this year and readily assented to an arrangement whereby the Reform and Conservative members should alternate in nominating a man for the position. The Conservative members unhesitatingly acknowledge that his services have been of a valuable benefit to the county. He inaugurated the scheme for forming the committee on county bridges. The council being convinced by the able manner in which he advanced his views, of the feasibility of the plan, formed the committee, and appointed Mr. Vermilyea chairman. The result has shown that his idea of what could be accomplished by the committee was no day dream, and it also showed Mr. Vermilyea to be a man of more than ordinary executive ability. Comparing the work done with the amounts expended upon county bridges with the amounts expended before the bridges committee was organized and it is once perceived that there is a considerable saving made for the county, about half the sum being now expended that was yearly appropriated for this service five years ago. Nor is this all the advantage that the county derived from the committee. Where wooden bridges stood, that were a continual expense to the county, there can now be found substantial iron, steel and stone bridges. It is doubtful if there is another county in the province that has so many on bridges as Hastings. The plan of replacing worn out wooden bridges by iron structures is being carried out as the finances of the county permit and it is being done as has been pointed out, at a saving to the county as compared with the old system. In a few years from bridges alone will span the rivers and creeks of the country. Mr. Vermilyea has done valuable service to the county on the finance and public property committees and in the administration of justice committee, in arranging an intricate question between the county and the city of Belleville and the county and the town of the Trenton, he succeeded in doing his full duty to his constituents. His public career has been a success and the secret of it is that he never attempted any duty but he called his best of his powers to his aid and habitually did it to the best of his ability. It was consequently well done.

It is probable that Mr. Vermilyea will be nominated as the candidate of the Reform party to represent the East riding at Toronto. If such should be the case he will carry his constituency by a large majority. This fact is recognized even by the Conservatives. The same ability that has characterized his career in the county council will mark his course in the higher legislative body.

MARITAL INFELICITIES.

Some of the Domestic Woes That Will be Aired This Session.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—The divorce petitions of which notice had been given were presented in the Commons to-day.

David Philip Clapp of Harriston, Ont., asks a divorce from his wife Alice Mae Clapp, nee Macdonald, to whom he was married in 1878. In his petition he alleges that in March, 1887, his wife deserted his house in his absence and proceeded to Detroit and there lived with one Frederick W. Pingle of Harriston as his wife. He alleges also other instances of adultery.

Emily Walker, nee Herald, of Hamilton asks that her marriage with Alfred Percy Walker be declared null and void. Her petition states that they were married on Nov. 1, 1884, by Rev. George A. Forneret, but petitioner never lived with or cohabited with Walker either before or since the ceremony. She was under 21 years of age at the time of marriage, having been born on May 3, 1864, and Walker was also underage, being born on Dec. 1, 1863. The petitioner's father was dead and the marriage was without the knowledge or consent of her mother. Soon after the ceremony Walker went to Guelph, Belleville, and subsequently to Texas. He is now believed to be living at Brooklyn, N.Y. The marriage was not made known till about ten months after it took place, and Walker has always refused to live with petitioner.

Hughes Forbes Keefer of Vancouver, B.C., formerly of Thorold, asks divorce from Rebecca Ann Keefer, nee Tisdall, to whom he was duly married in March, 1871. His petition alleges adultery with one Frank Simpson at Thorold in 1885 and on divers occasions since.

Christiana Tilman Glover of Burlington, Ont., nee Tilman, asks divorce from Christopher Columbus Glover, formerly of London but now of Michigan. They were married in April, 1874. Petitioner said they lived together only three days, when he sent her home to her father's house and that shortly after wards he was discovered to be living in open adultery with one Hattie Glover, now living with him in Michigan as his wife. The petitioner asks custody of a male child born of the issue of her marriage with Glover.

Losses Caused by Flames.

HAMILTON, Jan. 30.—Fire at 2 o'clock this morning did $200 damage in a restaurant in York-street, kept by Mrs. Evans and her daughter. The two women, who were nearly overcome by smoke, were rescued from a second-story window. Constable Johnston gave the alarm from the box at King William and James-streets, and was knocked down by an electric shock.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 30.—Fire this morning destroyed the two-story building occupied by the Language Manufacturing Company. Loss $25,000.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES IN QUEENSTOWN, IRELAND.

"What is in a Name?"—The Name of Jesus is an Easy Name—It is also a Mighty Name and Shall swallow up all Other Names.

Queenstown, Jan. 26.—While the steamer from Liverpool was lying in this harbor a few hours to-day waiting for the mail, many of the passengers went ashore. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., was among the number, and took advantage of the opportunity to preach. His subject was "What is in a Name?" and his text, Philippians ii, 9: "A name which is above every name."

The eminent preacher said:

On my way from the Holy Land, and while I wait for the steamer to resume her voyage to America, I preach to you from this text, which was one of Paul's rapturous and enthusiastic descriptions of the name of Jesus. By common poverty we have come to believe that there is nothing in a name, and so parents sometimes pour of her favorite heroine, Indian regardless of the title given them, and not thinking that that particular title will be either a blessing or a help. Strange mistake. You have no right to give to your child a name that is lacking either in moral meaning. It is also far from overall prudence. Jehoiakim or Tiglath-Pileser. Because you yourself may have an exasperating name, is no reason why you should give it to those who come after you. But how often we have seen some name, filled with jargon, rattling down from generation to generation, simply because some one a long while ago happened to be afflicted with it. Institutions and enterprises have, sometimes without sufficient deliberation, taken their nomenclature. Mighty destinies have been decided by the significance of a name. There are men who all their life long hold, and tinds to get over the influence of some unfortunate name. While we may, through right behavior and Christian demeanor, outlive the fact that we were baptized by the name of a dedger, or an infidel, or a cheat, how much better it would have been if we all could have started life without any such incumbrance. When I find the apostle, in my text and in other parts of his writing, breaking out in raptures of admiration in regard to the name of Jesus, I want to inquire what are some of the characteristics of this appellation. And O! that the Saviour Himself, while I speak, might fill me with His own presence, for we never can tell to others that which we have not ourselves felt.

First, this name of Jesus is an easy name. Sometimes we are introduced to people whose name is so long and unpronounceable that we have sharply to listen, and to hear the name given to us two or three times, before we venture to speak it. But within the first two years the little child claps its hands, and looks up, and says "Jesus." Can it be, said all the families represented here to-day, there is one household where the little ones speak of "father," and "mother," and "brother," and "sister," and not of "the name which is above every name! Sometimes we forget the titles of our very best friends, and we have to pause and think before we can recall the name. But can you imagine any freak of intellect in which you could forget the Saviour's designation? That word "Jesus" seems to fit the tongue in every dialect. When the voice in old age gets feeble and tremulous, and indistinct, still this regal word has potent utterance.

Jesus, I love thy charming name,
'Tis music in my ear;
Fain would I sound it out so loud
That heaven and earth might hear.

Still further, I remark it is a beautiful name. You have noticed that it is impossible to dissociate a name from the person who has the name. So there are names that are to me repulsive—I do not want to hear them at all—while those very names are attractive to you. Why the difference? It is because I happen to know persons by those names were pleasant and attractive. As we cannot dissociate a name from the person who holds the name, the consideration makes Christ's name so unspeakably beautiful. So sooner is it pronounced in your presence than you think of Bethlehem, and Gethsemane, and Golgotha, and you see the loving face, and hear the tender voice, and feel the gentle touch. You see Jesus, the one who, though banqueting with heavenly hierarchs, came down to breakfast on the fish that rough man had just hauled out of Gennesaret. Jesus, the One Who, though the clouds are the dust of His feet, walked footsore on the road to Emmaus. Just as soon as that name is pronounced in your presence, you think of how the Shining One gave back the centurion's daughter, and how He helped the blind man to the sunlight, and how He made the cripple's crutches useless, and how He looked down into the babe's laughing eyes, and, as the little one struggled to go to Him, flung out His arms around it and impressed a loving kiss on its brow, and said: "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." Beautiful name—Jesus! It stands for love, for patience, for kindness, for forbearance, for self-sacrifice, for magnanimity. It is aromatic with all odors and accordant with all harmonies. Sometimes I see that name, and the letters seem to be made out of tears, and then again they look like gleaming crowns. Sometimes they seem to me as though twisted out of the straw on which He lay, and then as though built out of the thrones on which His people shall reign. Sometimes I sound that word "Jesus," and I hear coming through the two syllables the sigh of Gethsemane and the groan of Calvary; and again I sound it, and it is all a ripple with gladness and acting with hosanna. Take all the glory of book binders and put them around the page where that name is printed. On Christmas morning wreathe it on the wall.

Let it drip from harp string and thunder out in organ's diapason. Sound it often, sound it well, until every star shall seem to shine it, and every flower shall seem to breathe it, and mountain and sea, and day and night, and earth and heaven acclaim in full chant: "Blessed be His glorious name forever. The name that is above every name."

Jesus, the name high over all,
In heaven and earth and sky.

To the repenting soul, to the exhausted invalid, to the Sabbath-school girl, to the snow white octogenarian, it is beautiful. The old man comes in from a long walk, and tremblingly opens the door, and hangs his hat on the old nail, and sets his cane in the usual corner, and lies down on a couch, and says to his children and grandchildren: "My dears, I am going to leave you." They say: "Why, where are you going, grandfather?" "I am going to Jesus." And as the old man faints away into heaven. The little child comes in from play and throws herself on your lap, and says: "Mamma, I am so sick, I am so sick." And you put her to bed, and the fever is worse and worse, until in some midnight she looks up into your face and says: "Mamma kiss me good-bye, I am going away from you." And you say: "My dear, where are you going to?" And she says: "I am going to Jesus." And the red cheek which you thought was the mark of the fever, only turns out to be the carnation bloom of heaven. Oh, yes; it is a sweet name spoken by the lips of childhood, spoken by the old man.

Still further: it is a mighty name. Rothschild is a potent name in the commercial world, Cuvier in the scientific world, Irving a powerful name in the literary world, Washington an influential name in the political world, Wellington a mighty name in the military world, but before any one name shall the earth so potent to awe, and lift, and thrill, and rouse, and agitate, and bless, as this name of Jesus. That one word unhorsed Saul, and flung Newton on his knees on ship's deck, and to-day holds 400,000,000 of the race with omnipotent spell. That name in England to-day means more than Victoria, in Germany, means more than Emperor William; in France, means more than Carnot; in Italy, means more than Humbert of the present, or Garibaldi of the past. I have seen a man bound hard and fast in sin, Satan his hard task master, in a bondage from which no human power could deliver him, and yet at the pronunciation of that one word he dashed down his chains and marched out forever free. I have seen a man overwhelmed with disaster, the last hope fled, the last light gone out; that name pronounced in his hearing, the sun drowned, the clouds scattered, and a torrent of eternal gladness poured into his soul! I have seen a man hurrying headlong to infidelity, defiant of God, full of scoff and jeer, jealous of the judgment, reckless of an impending eternity, at the mere pronunciation of that name blanch, and cower, and quake, and pray, and sob, and groan, and believe, and rejoice. O, it is a mighty name! At its utterance the last wall of sin will fall, the last temple of superstition crumble, the last juggernaut of cruelty cease to press. That name will first make all the earth tremble, and then it will make all the nations sing. It is to be the first word at every gate of honor, the insignia on every flag, the battle shout of every conflict. All the millions of the earth are to know it. The red horse of carnage seen in apocalyptic vision, and the chariots of death are to fall back on their haunches, and the white horse of victory will go forth, mounted by Christ, who hath the moon under His feet, and the stars of His tiara. Other dominions seem to be giving out; this seems to be enlarging. Spain has had to give up much of its dominion. Austria has been wonderfully depleted in power. France had to surrender some of her favorite provinces. Most of the thrones of the world are being lowered, and most of the sceptres of the earth are being shortened, but every Bible printed, every tract distributed, every Sunday school class taught, every school founded, every church established, is extending the power of Christ's name. That name has already been spoken under the Chinese wall, and in Siberian snow caves, in Brazilian groves and in eastern pagodas. That name is swallow up all other names. The cross is to cover up all other crosses. The empire is to absorb all other dominations.

All crimes shall cease, and ancient frauds shall fail,
Returning justice lift aloft her scale;
Peace o'er the world her olive wand extend,
And white robed innocence from heaven descend.

Have you ever made up your mind by what name you will call Christ when you meet him in heaven? You know He has many names. Will you call Him Jesus, or the Anointed One of the Messiah, or will you take some of the symbolical names which on earth you learned from your Bible?

Wandering some day in the garden of God on high, the place shoon with eternal springtide, infinite luxuriance of rose, and lily and amaranth, you may look up into His face and say: "My Lord, Thou art the rose of Sharon and the lily of the valley."

Some day, as a soul comes up from earth to take its place in the firmament, and shine as a star for ever and ever, and the lustre of a useful life shall beam forth tremulous and beautiful, you may look up into the face of Christ and say: "My Lord, Thou art a brighter star—the morning star—a star for ever."

Wandering some day amid the fountains of life that toss in the sunlight and fall in crash of pearl and amethyst in golden and crystalline urn, and you wander up the round banks of river to where it first tingles its silver on the rock, and out of the chalices of love you drink to honor and everlasting joy, you may look up into the face of Christ and say: "My Lord, Thou art the fountain of living water."

I am staggered with the thought that notwithstanding all the charm in the name of Jesus, and the fact that it is so easy a name, and so beautiful a name, and so potent a name, and so enduring a name, there are people who find no charm in those two syllables. O come this day and see whether there is anything in Jesus. I challenge those of you who are farther from God to come at the close of this service and test with me whether God is good, and Christ is gracious, and the Holy Spirit is omnipotent. I challenge you to come and kneel down with me at the altar of mercy. I will kneel on one side of the altar and you kneel on the other side of it, and neither of us will rise up until our sins are forgiven, and we ascribe, in the words of the text, all honor to the name of Jesus, you pronouncing it, I pronouncing it—the name that is above every name.

"Over the Teacups."

"Seneca" has seen three generations grow up, the son repeating the virtues and the failings of the father, the grandson showing the same characteristics as the father and grandfather. He knows that if such or such a young fellow had lived to the next stage of life he would very probably have caught up with his mother's virtues, while, like a graft of a late fruit on an early apple or pear tree, do not ripen in her children until late in the season. He has seen the successive ripening of one quality after another on the boughs of his own life, and he finds it hard to condemn himself for faults which only needed time to fall off and be succeeded by better fruitage. I cannot help thinking that the recording angel not only drops a tear upon many a human failing, which blots it out forever, but that he hands many an old recording book to the imp that does his bidding, and orders him to throw into the fire instead of the sinner for whom the little wretch had kindled it.—(Dr. Holmes in Atlantic Monthly.

Nothing Small About Him.

"And this is to be the last interview I shall ever have with you, Miss Harris," said the rejected lover, brokenly, "I take the opportunity to make you a present of all the bouquets, books and trinkets I have sent to you during the last six months, together with the numerous theatrical entertainments, concerts and lunches you have enjoyed at my expense."

"To make me a present of them!" exclaimed the young woman haughtily. "I do not understand you, Mr. Spoonamore."

"I give them to you absolutely, Miss Harris," said he, picking up his hat. "Heretofore I have looked upon them merely as investments."—(Chicago Tribune.

Mixed Both of Them.

Mother—"John, you went to church as usual to-day?"

Son—"Yes, mother."

Mother—"What was the text?"

Son—"Well, or—you see I didn't get there in time to hear the text."

Mother—"What was the gist of the sermon?"

Son—"I can't tell. You see, mother, I came out just before he got to the gist."—(Exchange.

ETIQUETTE POINTS FOR BOYS.

Keep step with any one you walk with.

Never play with a knife, fork or spoon.

Use your handkerchief unobtrusively always.

Hat lifted in saying "good-by," or "how do you do?"

Do not take your napkin in a bunch in your hand.

Rise when ladies leave the room, and stand till they are out.

In the dining room take your seat after ladies and elders.

Let ladies pass through a door first, standing aside for them.

Let a lady pass first always, unless she asks you to precede her.

If all go out together, gentlemen stand by the door till ladies pass.

Eat as fast or as slow as others, and finish the course when they do.

Hat lifted when offering a seat in a car or in acknowledging a favor.

Look people straight in the face when speaking or being spoken to.

Rise if a lady comes in after you are seated, and stand until she takes a seat.

In the parlor stand until every lady in the room is seated, and then say, "Be seated."

Cover the mouth with hand or napkin when obliged to remove anything from it.

Do not look toward a bedroom door when passing. Always knock at any private room door.

Hat off the moment you enter a street door, and when you step into a private hall or office.

Always precede a lady up stairs, and ask her if you may precede her in passing through a crowd or public place.—(Yonkers Gazette.

ATCHISON PHILOSOPHY.

Our lightest pain—the window pane.

A word to the wise is not always sufficient.

Promising is as easy as forgetting that you promised.

Give a woman a sealskin, and she dreams of diamonds.

All the tears in the world will not blot out a bad action.

Advice is like a blank check; it all depends on who gives it.

The boy who knows most about Greek is a poor boy to send for sugar.

Many people have nothing more substantial in life worth their hope.

A skunk is very objectionable animal, but people talk about him a good deal.

To whom does an old bachelor whose mother is dead go when he wants to grumble?

The trouble with being patient is that people lose faith in the strength of your complaint.

Some children grow so fast that the shoes that fit them at night are too small in the morning.

When a man gets mad, he stays mad; when a woman gets mad, she looks for some excuse to get over it.

A girl in society will admit that a girl out of society is very nice, but she also adds that she is different.

Fashion devotes pages to the description of evening dresses for children. In the good old fashioned days the only evening dress a child had was a night dress.

You all speak lightly of the man who rides a free horse to death, but you all have the habit. Every one of you imposes on good-nature daily. It is so easy to be blind to your own faults while criticising the faults of others.—Atchison Globe.

PROVERBS IN ALPHABET ORDER.

A grain of produce is worth a pound of chaff.

Boasters are cousins to liars.

Confession of a fault makes half amends.

Denying a fault doubles it.

Envy shooteth at others and woundeth herself.

Foolish fear doubles danger.

God reaches us good things by our hands.

He has hard work who has nothing to do.

It costs more to revenge wrongs than to bear them.

Knavery is the worst trade.

Fearing makes a man fit company for himself.

Modesty is a guard to virtue.

Not to hear conscience is the way to silence it.

One hour to-day is worth two to-morrow.

Proud looks make fowl work in fair faces.

Quiet consciences give quiet sleep.

Richest is he that wants least.

Small faults indulged are little thieves that let in greater.

The boughs that bear most hang lowest.

Upright walking is sure walking.

Virtue and happiness are mother and daughter.

Wise men make more opportunities than they find.

You never lose by doing a good act.

Zeal without knowledge is fire without light.—Yenowine's News.

SOME OLD CHARMS.

For ague a very well salted herring, split open, was applied as hot as possible to the soles of the feet.

To allay hemorrhage a toad, well dried in the sun and put into a bag, was hung round the neck by a string sufficiently low to touch the region of the heart.

Children were passed through the split stem of a tree for the cure of the rickets, but the fracture must be afterward bound up sufficiently tight to insure cohesion.

Toothache could be charmed away by a few leaves of the "shepherd's purse," placed in the sole of the shoe on the inverse side of the body to that in which the tooth was aching.

A preparation of garlic and honey smeared on the person was said to act as a charm against the bites of dogs and reptiles, or the sting of numerous insects, likewise affecting their cure.

The teeth of old age were fixed firmly in the gums by an infusion of powdered jet, while water in which the beryl had been steeped afforded a valuable wash for strengthening the eyes, besides insuring the mutual love of a wedded couple.

An excellent recipe for weak or sore eyes was the expressed juice of the calyx of the red honeysuckle; provided always that the flowers were gathered unseeing, repeating nine paternosters in honor of the Trinity, nine more "to greet Our Ladye," and a creed. Rest and sleep were acquired after application.—The Hospital.

Almost Blind.

Boss of a Gang of Men (to a bystander)—Are you looking for work, sir?

Lazy Bystander—Yes he moves to take up an easy position at the post corner)—Yes, but my eyesight is poor.—West Shore.

Logic.

"Ma," said a little girl, "Willie wants the biggest piece of pie, and I think I ought to have it, because he has eaten one pie two years ago I was borned."—Phila. Times.

CUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention to this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Dr. Carson's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be effected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, with no appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For dyspepsia, its attendant bilesogens, Heartburn, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is relief, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only purifies the blood, but invigorates the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but deputates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It acts, but never forces, Nature, invigorated by it, will do the rest, regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretions, and provides a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

JENKS' DREAM.

Jenks had a queer dream the other night. He thought he saw a prize-fighters' ring, and in the middle of it stood a doughty little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant pigmy proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accounts for the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, strong pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or tiny sugar-coated Granules, easily "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the mildest and only genuine Little Liver Pills.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are Little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-bilious Granules. One a Dose.

SICK HEADACHE, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They are gently laxative or strongly cathartic, according to size of dose. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

Copyright, 1885, by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslows Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

100 PAIRS —OF— SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTING

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY $4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

DAIRYMEN, —OF— EASTERN ONTARIO, While in the City try and make time to call upon

W. W. CHOWN & CO

Front Street

We are the Largest dealers in this section in

Cheese Factory Goods.

and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,

W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

A GREAT SALE, OF ALL WINTER GOODS.

nderclothing Gloves and Mitts, Flannel Shirts, Mufflers, Coat scarf, Socks, Sashes, Wool Cuff, Cardigan Jackets at great reductions to clear

A. E. FISH & CO

he Noted Shirt Makers and Gents' isher, Laundry Office,

Good morning HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.,

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Announce that they intend closing our all ODDS AND ENDS such

Matchings of Dinner Sets, Bed Room Sets, Odd Lots of Tumblers, Wines, Goblets and all kinds of Glassware.

These Goods we will clear out at Greatly Reduced Prices

We find we also have a number of very fine Dinner Sets and Tea Sets in which some of the pieces are short. All of which we will close out at very low figures

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

MENIER CHOCOLATE UNRIVALLED. UNEQUALLED. PUREST IN THE WORLD. CONTAINS NO CHEMICALS OF ADULTERATIONS. Paris Exposition, 1889 3 GRAND PRIZES. 3 GOLD MEDALS. Ask your Grocer for MENIER CHOCOLATE (YELLOW WRAPPER). BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

SURE CURE FOR "LA GRIPPE"

"THE SPIDER AND THE FLY"

PRICE 15 Cents; For Sale at

C. B. SCANTLEBURY'S

adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED

TO THE EDITOR:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and Post Office Address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M.C., 186 West Adelaide St. TORONTO, ONTARIO.

No Pimples on baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema. Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he scratched his hair, his scalp was covered with eruptions, which at times would seem to be almost a sight to behold. He would scratch and bleed until he was a sight to behold. He would scratch and bleed until he was a sight to behold. He would scratch and bleed until he was

CARPETS

We have the Cheapest Carpets in the City.

READ OUR PRICES.

Hemp Carpets from.... 8cts per yd.
Union Carpets from.... 30cts "
Wool Carpets from.... 40cts "
Tapestry Carpets from.... 30cts "
Brussels Carpets from.... 70cts "

We have a line of Tapestry Carpets at 25cts that quite equal to purchases elsewhere under 30cts to $1.00. They are A. 1 value.

We invite a visit to our Carpet Rooms NO CLIMBING OF STAIRS NECESSARY As they are reached by our Hydraulic Passenger Elevator. Our Showrooms are very far Elegant and our assortment of Carpets, Rugs, Oilcloths and other House Furnishings is the largest between Toronto and Montreal.

Bargains given now during stock taking.

Bargains given in all winter Goods.

Bargains in Remnants.

Special Bargains in Furs, Robes, Ladies' Jackets, Men's Coats, etc.

Remember we have removed to our new Store where we have plenty of room to show our very large stock.

Jas. W. Dunnett

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Jan. 21, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 1 1890.

Emmanual Reformed Episcopal Church
METROPOLITAN BLOCK, CAMPBELL ST
GROUND FLOOR
Rev. Wm. Henry Barnes, Rector.
SEPTUAGESIMA SUNDAY
11 a. m.—The Holy Communion.
Sermon—What Does St. Paul mean by being a "Castaway?"
3 p. m.—Sunday school and pastor's Bible class.
7 p. m.—A field for unemployed character.
Monday, 7:30 p. m.—Young People's Association.
Friday, 7:30 p. m.—Conference for Bible Study.

Bridge Street Methodist Church
SUNDAY FEBY. 2ND.
Sermon at 11 a. m and 7 p. m. by the Rev. W. J. Smith of Victoria University.
Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.
Strangers welcomed to both church and Sunday school.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Mennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 468, Belleville will be attended to by
S. R. HUFFMAN,
Tuner.
dly

A Relic.

Edward Murdock formerly of North Hastings, now in British Columbia, has an old clay pipe which the late Louis Riel dropped when he made his last attempt to escape the soldiers.

A Pointer for Advertisers

Advertising is an art practiced by many and understood by few. Printers' Ink, a weekly journal published in New York, indicates how when and where to advertise how to write an advertisement, how to display one, what newspapers to use, how much money to expend—in fact discourses on every point constituting profitable discussion. Subscription price $2 a year.

Masonic Officers.

At a regular meeting of Marmora lodge No. 222, A. F. & A. M., held on the festival of St. John the evangelist, the following officers were duly installed for the ensuing year:

J S Ackerman, W M; G Bleecker, S W; M Develin, J W; R Prout, P M and Chaplain; W E Gladney, treas; A GAnnagin, sec; D O Bell, S D; D Laskock, J D; W Bonner, D S; F Mason, I G; John Hamilton, tyler.

Lost.

You have lost your appetite if you have had the pipes but have found it if you have visited Goldsmiths Uptown Fish Store. This week we have frozen salmon, fresh halibut steak, fresh bluefish, haks, cod, haddock, flounders, frozen sea herring, shell lobster, oysters. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish, etc. Ciscoes and several other kinds expected in a day or two. Near Wallace's candy store; opposite Goldsmith's old stand. 29 1w

A Busy Firm.

Messrs. Carter & Deans, of Deseronto, are pushing business with energy on their Huntingdon property. They have forty men engaged in lumbering operations, they have a portable saw mill at work cutting seven or eight thousand feet of lumber daily besides quantities of car sills for several railway companies. They are also getting out 1,000 telegraph poles and 25,000 cords of wood.

Billy Carter of this city, is the head of this firm.

Slow Trains.

Deseronto Tribune.

By the present arrangement of trains it is impossible to go from Deseronto to Belleville, transact business and return home under fourteen or eighteen hours, unless a person takes the 2.45 a. m. train. This arrangement is injurious to Belleville, put the board of trade are afraid to ask for a change, because the Grand Trunk manufacturer: "Mr. Harry Corby has brought down with him from Belleville his splendid team of dark brown thoroughreds. The turn out is the envy of Mr. Corby's other members and is certainly one of the finest to be seen on the st eets of the capital. The sleigh is a brand new one from George Brown's a well known establishment at Belleville."

A VIGILANT OFFICER.

A Theft Which was Never Expected to be Discovered.

Stephen Cummings of Thurlow was arrested today on a warrant for alleged stealing an astrachan overcoat from W. F. Casey, on Dec. 3, 1888. At the time Mr. Casey reported to the police that he had lost the coat somewhere between S. S. Hyman's and Cambellton. Until a few days ago the disappearance of the coat has been a mystery and the police were unable to get the slightest trace of the article. On January fourth last Officer Stonebury was in West Brook looking up Chas. Powley on a charge of larceny, when he saw an astrachan coat hanging in the hallway of the hotel at which he was stopping. The officer's memory at once wandered back to the occurrence in 1888 and his suspicions were aroused. The landlord stated that he had purchased the coat from Chas. Edward Powley for whom the officer held a warrant. On inquiry Powley told the officer that he had purchased the coat from Stephen Cummings for $10 and on the strength of this information the officer asked permission to take the coat to Belleville until he had sifted the matter to the bottom. Mr. W. F. Casey at once identified the coat as the one he had lost and a warrant was issued for the arrest of Cummings. The officer deserves credit for his close attention to duty.

At the police court today the prisoner was remanded until Monday.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Events of the Corridors and Chapel for the Past Week.

The nomination of officers for the Philomathian took place today at 1 p. m.

W. P. Heron preaches the quarterly meeting sermon on Sidney circuit tomorrow.

Several of the boys were attracted to Miss Alexander's concert Monday evening and speak highly of the selections.

Prof. Dyer gave his popular lecture on the Paris Exposition at Sidney town hall on Thursday evening to a large and appreciative audience.

Mr. J. Whale and Mr. Alf Fish who have been quite ill are recovering slowly. Mr Fish will leave on Monday for his home in Newtonbrook, near Toronto.

The Polymnian Society gave an excellent programme on Saturday evening last consisting particularly of vocal and instrumental solos and readings from "Josiah Allen's Wife."

Rev. Geo. M. Grant, D.D, LL, D. of Queens University will lecture in Bridge St. church on Friday evening Feb. 7th, in the interest of the Missionary Society of this college. On this account there will be no Philomathian next Friday night.

The Philomathian Society last evening was undoubtedly one of the best of the term, each one performing his part admirably. Rev. Mr. Pickett, ex honoris, of the Society dropped in and gave the students some good thoughts in his usual genial style. He promised to give in the near future a lecture "Bundle of Stories," which he is preparing. Misses Robeson and Conner favored the Society with instrumental music while a number of the boys furnished vocal solos, recitations, readings &c.

Mr. W. Robinson, by special request gave the old favorite "Cradbrand."

Woman Against Woman.

The Josie Mills Dramatic Company again catered to a large audience at the opera house last evening, producing for the first time in this city that charming society drama "Woman Against Woman." It was played to perfection, Josie Mills, the adventuress was indeed a marvel of fine acting and she is fast becoming a favorite with Belleville theatre goers. Her support was strong, so much so that the performance was carried on without the least sign of a hitch or flaw. O. V. Morton was as usual, quite delicious. Miss Gertrude Berkley and A. E. Hall were good as indeed was every member upon the programe. The costumes were elegant. The usual number of prizes were fairly distributed, Miss Minnie Corbett winning the gold watch. Tonight they appear for the last time in a grand bill, being the production of Mr. Haystead's own popular play "Only an Irish girl" and they will no doubt have a large house as they have some fine scenes especially for its production.

The Trent Valley Canal.

In the House of Commons in reply to Mr. Carron it was stated that the Trent Valley Canal Commissioners were appointed in 1887. The entire cost to the country up to the present time of the Trent Valley Canal Commissioners has been $2,291 The report of the Commission will be received this session of Parliament.

As was anticipated the commissioners have done barely enough to have something to report upon and will keep the date of what they are going to do hanging before the electors to do service at the approaching elections. Three years have passed since the commission was appointed and all that has been accomplished is the wasting of $2,291 of the people's money. This is a fair sample of the work that the government intends to do.

Kissed Another Man's Wife.

"You scoundrel," yelled young Jacob Green, "At his good neighbor, Brown.—
"You kissed my wife upon the street,—
I caught it a block you down."
"That's where you're wrong," good Brown replied,
In accents mild and meek;
"I kissed her that I've not denied,
But kissed her on the cheek—and I did it because she looked so handsome—the very picture of beauty and health. What is the secret of it?" "Well" replied Green, "since you ask it, I will tell you: she uses Dr. Pierces Favorite Prescription. I accept your apology. Good night." "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy for the delicate derangements and weaknesses of females, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of giving satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it returned.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Apparently Honest.

On Thursday a pocket book came to the ONTARIO office through the post marked "immediate." "please advertise." The wallet was found to contain two bank books and a memorandum of some real estate transaction which seemed to be of value to the owner. The book was advertised and shortly after the paper went to press the owner called and claimed his property. It was then learned that the book when lost contained a small sum of money which the finder had appropriated to his own use and sent what was of no value to him to the press to find the owner.

DIED.

POWER—On Saturday morning—Capt William Power, of Canifton, aged 68 years.

The funeral will take place from his residence, Canifton, on Monday, at 10 o'clock a. m., to the R. C. cemetery.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

STILL AT LARGE.

OFFICERS SO NOT CARE TO MAKE THE ARREST.

It is no Secret That the Man Wanted is at Home—Screened by his Friends.

Why has not Thomas Doyle been arrested? Are there not enough police officers in Hastings county to arrest a man over whose head hangs the grave charge of literally cheating a man's power off? Caleb Seay stated to a reporter today that an officer, went to Melrose with a warrant and after being informed at Doyle's house that he was not at home walked across the street to Eagan's hotel and sat down.

When asked why he did not arrest his man he said that he was not at home. When the officer was informed by a by-stander that Doyle at that moment was in his house and only required some one brave enough to arrest him, the officer stated that he thought the matter could be settled and as the story goes jumped in his rig and returned home.

A prominent citizen of Melrose stated to a reporter of the ONTARIO to-day that Doyle was still in the township and the neighbors are indignant that some steps have not been taken to probe the matter to the bottom. John Eagen, the victim, is still in a very uncomfortable position. The attending physician has been compelled to remove a part of the injured organ to prevent blood poisoning.

Constable Garrat indignatly repudiates this story and says that Seay has falsely represented the case. The constable said: "A warrant to arrest Thos. Doyle was placed in my hands on the night of Jan. 22. Before day light I was at his house in Melrose, Mrs. Doyle met me at the door and said her husband was not home and gave me permission to search the house. She told me that the reports being circulated to the effect that her husband was in Melrose were entirely false; I then searched the house my satisfaction. Mr. Milligan ex-reeve of Tyendinaga also informed me that Doyle was not in the house. I then crossed over to Eagen's house and after a few words left for home, but not until I had been informed by several persons that Doyle was not in the house. Mr. Eagen came to me with an order from Mr Flint, M. to deliver up the warrant which I did. Eagen told me that he was going to give it into the hands of Constable Archie Collins of Tyendinaga. On Tuesday last I met Collins how told me that he had never seen the warrant."

According to Constable Garrett's statement he is not to blame. In the meantime the warrant has been taken from his hands and he has nothing more to be responsible for. Now the question is who has the warrant and what are the authorities doing to protect society? People from Melrose do not hesitate to say that Doyle is still at home and is informed by friends when an officer approaches and conceals himself.

IN MEMORIAM.

Notes on the Life of the Late Captain Power of Canifton.

Capt. William Power who has been ailing for several weeks past breathed his last at seven o'clock this morning at his home in Canifton where he has lived for the last thirty years with his sister. The deceased captain never recovered from the effects of a fall he received on the slippery sidewalk on Campbell street in the early part of the winter. Heart disease was supposed to have been the immediate cause of his death although he was nearly seventy years of age. He was born in Tipperary county, Ireland, and came to this country when only sixteen years of age. He settled almost immediately in Belleville, although at various times engaged on large St. Lawrence and Ottawa steamers. He was created a captain in the army in 1866 and by this title he has been most familiarly known ever since. He had lived in Belleville for over half a century and at one time owned the old Dominion house. He was also engaged in the butcher business and afterwards ran a livery. In these pursuits he acquired a considerable fortune which will leave his children in comfortable circumstances. He owned the Quinte hotel in this city, besides other real estate and Power's hotel at Canifton. He also owned at the time of his death two extensive farms in Sidney. He married the late Mary Jane McCormack sister of J. McCormack of this city, some twenty two years ago. Three children were born, William, Thomas and Maud all of whom are still living. Two sisters also survive the deceased captain, Mrs. McGaffrey, of this city and Miss Power of Canifton.

His demise will be regretted by a large circle of acquaintances with whom he was held in popular esteem and respect. The old gentleman often made it his boast that he had not an enemy in the world and if he had he certainly was not aware of it. A remarkable trait in his nature was his passionate love for horseflesh of which he always had a large stock. It can be safely said that probably no man in Canada owned so many flyers in their time as the late Captain. His best horse was Lady Kate which won the Queen's plate at Toronto in 1866. The remains will be buried on Monday at ten o'clock at the R. C. cemetery here.

ON THE MEND.

Report on the State of the Afflicted at the Institute.

Principal Mathison of the Institute has issued a circular to the parents of pupils under him in which he says:—

"We have just passed through a most critical period in the history of the institution, and following an epidemic of measles of which we had 97 cases, la grippe made its appearance, and claimed as victims 187 pupils, 3 teachers, several officers and 12 domestic servants. Counting all those who were ill of measles and la grippe in the institution and on the grounds, the number totals up to nearly 300 cases since the 1st of December last. This state of affairs was a very unusual one for us as the members of our large family have enjoyed general good health,—for weeks and weeks at a time there were no sick ones and the hospitals were unoccupied for two sessions. Teachers, officers and employees stood at their posts until compelled to leave them on account of illness, and extra help in the domestic department only added to the number of sick ones to be attended to. In our emergency healthy pupils assisted very materially in doing the work of the house, as the boys did the scrubbing and the girls the dormitories and dining room work."

He also says "I cannot commend too highly the services of the trained nurses kindly sent us by Miss Hollingworth, the lady superintendent of the Marine and General hospital, St. Catherines." For 18 hours out of the 24 in each day they were at the bedsides of the sick, ministering to their every want. Without their aid we would have been in a sad plight. We are also indebted to Miss Lake, of Belleville, for efficient services freely given prior to our getting our hospital arrangements completed.

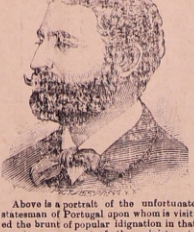
To-day out of 245 pupils only 5 are unable to go to school and their ailments are slight.

Should not be Witout it.

SIRS,—We have used your Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for severe coughs and colds and can recommend it to be just what it is represented to be. We would not be without it.
H. SABINE,
Cataract, Ont.

ENGLAND'S ULTIMATUM.

Senhor M. de Gomez, Ex Minister of Foreign Affairs Portugal.



Above is a portrait of the unfortunate statesman of Portugal upon whom is visited the brunt of popular indignation in that country, on account of the ministry to which he belonged yielding England's full demands in the matter of certain territory in Africa the possession of which had been a subject of negotiation between the two powers.

England's ultimatum, imparted to Senhor Gomes, demanded the recall of the Portuguese forces, officials and expeditions of every kind from the banks of the Shire, beyond the confluence of the Ruo, and south of the Zambezi, and from Mashonaland. If Portugal failed to reply in twenty-four hours the British Legation at Lisbon would board the British ship Enchantress and await a reply at Vigo. The Portuguese government replied to George Glynn Petre, the English minister resident, that Portugal yielded to strong pressure from a power of the first rank, being too weak to withstand it, would order the withdrawal of the Portuguese from the Shire and Mashonaland, while reserving all rights of the Portuguese Crown in those territories. Thus the power which had done the most in the exploration and settlement of interior Africa has "squelched" the claims made against her by Portugal. Senhor de Barros Gomes was the author of that singular reply to Lord Salisbury's despatch on the claims of Portugal to dominions also claimed by England, in which were recited many obscure historical incidents extending over two centuries and a half beginning with a session, which he claimed of "the ancient empire of Monomotapa"—believed by many to be a fabulous empire—to a Portuguese Governor of Mozambique in 1630. Following this dispatch came news of the doings of Major Serpa Pinto, in Africa, which were unfriendly to British interests, and regarding which took place that correspondence between the two governments which resulted in the downfall of the Portuguese ministry.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

John Gullet, Tweed, is in town.

D. Stroud, Montreal, is in town.

W. Pulls, Bay City, is at the Queens'.

W. Johns, Oshawa, is a guest at the Queens'.

J. P. Casey, Hamilton, is at the Kyle house.

C. H. Clarke, Chicago is at the Kyle house.

John Paton is stopping at the Kyle house.

M. Robinson, ex-warden, Hungerford, is in town.

Inland Revenue Inspector Hamilton is in the city.

Ald. La Roche, has returned home from Toronto

J. C. Gold, St. Paul, is registered at the Kyle house.

D. J. Carson, Y. S., left for Ottawa today where he will locate.

School Inspector J. Johnston returned yesterday from the teachers' convention held at Madoc.

Mrs. E. S. Rathbun and Miss Jessie Rathbun are enjoying a visit this week among friends in Toronto.

P. P. Clarke, reeve of Limerick, is lying at the point of death in consequence of injuries sustained by a fall several months ago.

F. S. Charters, Watertown; J. J. Dingman, Norham; F. S. Maclennan, Lancaster; C. E. Seay, Toronto, are registered at the Anglo American.

Mr. T. B. German, ex-deputy reeve of North Fredericksburg, has returned from Belleville and entered upon the study of law. He has articled himself to Mr. John English of Deseronto and will pursue his studies in the office of that gentleman. Mr. German will doubtless prove an ornament to his chosen profession.—Napanee Express.

TOWN TALK.

The North Hastings teachers association met this week.

The vital statistics for January are:—Marriages, 10; deaths, 21; births, 13.

John Brown has been elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy in the Madoc village council.

PROSE—West to north winds; mostly fair and colder today. Eastery winds with snow or rain tomorrow.

Dorland Clapp, of the fifth concession of Sidney, yesterday received word that his mother was dying in Grand Rapids, Mich.

A. W. Vermilyea returned from Bloomfield on Wednesday, where he has been holding a successful revival. He leaves today for Wellington, where he expects to hold meetings for the next two or three weeks.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorewend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Prof's goods are known throughout the country as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

Great discount sale at the syndicate store. Previous to moving from the old Shulis stand we will hold a big discount sale at both our stores, a discount of 10 per cent allowed off all bills except white and grey cottons
J. PATERSON
6 d 1 w

A Popular Supply.

The Rev. J. M. Hodson, B. A., is to be in Port Hope to attend a missionary anniversary. His pulpit here will be filled by the Rev. W. J. Smith, of Victoria university, who became a favorite while supplying for the Rev. Mr. Hodson in the summer.

The Orpheus Club.

Lovers of high class music should not forget the recital by the Orpheus music club at the Oddfellows' hall on Wednesday evening next. Miss Maud Burdette will take a prominent part and this is sufficient guarantee to warrant a crowded house. Prof. Tourjee, the violinist will render several selections. Other talent will also contribute largely to the success of the entertainment.

KINDNESS REWARDED.

A NAPANEE WOMAN WHO HAD SOME PROPERTY.

She Slighted Her Unkind Relatives and Left $60,000 to a Benefactor.

The Napanee Express says that for some time past there has resided in the town an aged lady named Mrs. Margaret Hopper, who unknown to her relatives was possessed of a large property estimated at over $30,000. Mrs. Hopper has resided for several years with her relatives, nephews and nieces, in this section of the country until a few months ago when it became known that a change of habitation was not only possible but probable.

It seems the relatives did not suspect so large a treasure was in store, and acting on some real or supposed grievance Mrs. Hopper fancied some attention might be paid to her wants, and feeling aggrieved determined to change her habitation. Acting on this resolution she removed to the pleasant home of Mr. Herman Ming, one of our large hearted citizens. Here she met with that kindness which the aged appreciate and determined to reside with the family until death called her away, on Wednesday morning last.

Some time ago Mrs. Hopper, who was a practical housekeeper, called in a lawyer, eminent in his profession, and two distinguished medical gentlemen and in their presence made a will, the effect of which (giving that she was capable of making a legal will. By this document all former wills are revoked and the bulk of her property is bequeathed to Mr. Herman Ming, in recognition of his kindness in caring for an old lady. Mr. Ming thus becomes possessed of more than a competence. We say it serves him right. Long may he live to enjoy the just reward for kindness to the aged.

CULLED FROM EXCHANGES.

Pithy Paragraphs Picked From County Papers.

Hay reaches $8.50 per ton in Kingston.

Mr. W. H. Branscombe, dentist, Picton, has had the grip.

Mr. G. B. Newbery, Picton, has gone to Omaha, Nebraska.

The schooner Ella Murton, was built in the Deseronto shipyard.

Mr. Philip Roblin has given up his farm at Green Point and will remove to Picton.

A mile track has been bushed out on the ice at Picton. A winter race is spoken of.

Mr. W. Jamieson, of Deseronto, lost a horse valued at $150 in the bay the other day.

Mr. Zack Herrington's g. g. Prince Edward, will be at Trenton and other ice races.

Mr. Fred Peel of Toronto, has been engaged as director of the Citizens' band, Deseronto.

The warden of Prince Edward is 77 years of age and is probably the oldest in the province.

The Presbyterian church spire, Picton, has been taken down. It was badly damaged by the recent gales

Over 400 convicts in the Kingston penitentiary were attacked by la grippe and have recovered from it.

A Kingston sport offers to sail from Nine Mile Point to Oswego in an open sail boat any of these days for $50.

Mr. Sidney A. Whaley, of Murray, is looking after the position of bridge tender on the Murray canal at Lovett's bridge.

Messrs. A. Coe and Robt Rollins, Madoc both of whom were seriously ill during the past few weeks are now able to be up.

E. D. O'Flynn preached in the Methodist church, Madoc, last Sabbath evening, owing to the illness of Rev. O. R. Lambly.

The Bisco house, Napanee, is once more open to the travelling public. Mr. C. A. Cornell is in charge, and there is no better hotel man in Ontario.

If there is no ice before February 15th on lake Ontario, various vessels have chartered to load ice from the back lakes and carry it to United States ports.

The Napanee Beaver claims that John Potter, Ernesttown, had a machine for taking the husks off the oats which were the same as any other kind in so far as the hulls were concerned.

The directors of the proposed Brighton, Warkworth and Norwood railway give notice of their intention to apply to the Ontario legislature for an extension of their charter which has lapsed.

Mr. R. Birrell, who is well known in Prince Edward as a former agent of the Watrous Co., Brantford, has accepted a position as travelling agent for the Sawyer-Massey works, of Hamilton. His headquarters will be at Napanee.

Word has been received from California that Mrs. Jason Parks, the mother of the Warden of Lennox and Addington, is dangerously ill, and that but little hope is entertained for her recovery. Mrs. Parks is nearly eighty years of age.

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority requiring artificial aid. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but the time this will all disappear and capillary additions will be prevalent. As a proof of this stands Prof. Dorewend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he has a fair sample of his goods, it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorewend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorewend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Ontario and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13 with a new line.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nervilene cures Neuralgia, toothache, chills and spasms. Nervilene cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervilene cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nervilene cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nervilene cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervilene is the best remedy in the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Ts Polson's Nervilene.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslows Soothing syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Swimming Niagara.

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time,

STILL SOBERING.

The Intelligencer Questions Mr. Dingman's Veracity

The ONTARIO has completely exposed the hypocracy of the Intelligencer in the liquor license question by showing that it named the five hotels licensed by grits, on its own responsibility, and falsely represented the suggestion as emanating from the Ministerial Association. The exposure was so completely substantiated by Rev. Mr. Dingman's letter which says that the names to which reference is made as deserving to be cut off were never under discussion by the Ministerial Association, that the Intelligencer has no chance to escape, except by challenging the veracity of the reverend gentlemen and this it does not scruple to do. In its extremity it says Mr. Dingman's utterances are misleading that they are open to suspicion. The respected clergyman will suffer nothing by the insinuation. The intelligencer insinuates upon his veracity. The fact stands out all the bolder that the Intelligencer deliberately falsified when it said the hotels had been named by the Ministerial association. The Intelligencer named the Globe, Balmoral, Woodbine, Canadian and Mr. Ferguson's hotel as places which should be refused a license, and urged the council not to take action to reduce the number of licenses now issued unless the license commissioners would undertake themselves to refuse licenses to the taverns named by the council and yet it has the effrontery to say that we misconstrue its meaning in claiming that it expressed a wish to have a certain five cut off. The Intelligencer seems to regret what it has said and would gladly crawl out if it could find a place large enough. Its many squirmings and denials only confirm the impression that it projected a scheme that it had no faith in, thinking it should do none of the hotel men harm, but would find favor in the eyes of the W. C. T. U.

CANDY-EATING IS INJURIOUS.

A Physician Pronounces It Particularly Harmful to Children.

The candy-eating habit is quite prevalent among children, and to a considerable extent among older persons, says Dr. H. Reynolds. It is not a harmless indulgence, as many persons seem to think. It is a cause of ill-health among children and the predisposing cause of many acute attacks, of disease of various kinds. Much dyspepsia, indigestion and many bilious attacks are directly or indirectly due to candy eating. Candy produces a condition of the stomach which is very unfavorable to the patient when attacked by severe disease.

Most of the candy sold nowadays, contains a considerable portion of glucose, a kind of sugar made from starch, and which more easily ferments or sours in the stomach, than does cane sugar. An excess of sugar of any kind in the stomach leads to ferment, becomes sour, sometimes acid to excess, and so produces great irritation of the stomach, resulting in a catarrhal condition, bilious attacks and other derangements of the digestive organs.

Eating nuts along with the candy, renders it still more injurious, as the nuts are hard to digest. Peanut and cocoanut candy are especially a hurtful compound, and all prudent parents should forbid their children eating it. None of the candy is cooked with substances which are injurious, and adulterated with a kind of white clay, rendering it still more objectionable.

A child who is in the habit of eating much candy, and has thus brought its stomach into an irritated condition, takes cold from a slight exposure and is easily made sick by a slight indiscretion in its diet, resulting in a severe attack of vomiting, diarrhoea or febrile disturbance. Much of the sickness among children may be traced to this cause.—(New York Journal.

John B, a Picton horse, is in the hands of a Kingston trainer.

PROF DORENWEND COMING

WITH HIS IMMENSE DISPLAY OF

HAIR - GOODS

HE WILL BE AT

QUEENS' HOTEL

WED. & THURS, FEB, 12TH & 13TH.

When every lady should make it a special point to call and see the Professor's Fine Styles. His assortment this visit will be superb. SWITCHES, BANGS, FRONTPIECES, WAVES, WIGS, TOUPEES, etc., articles of which every lady should have one or other for the sake of health, appearance and economy. Even if she has an abundant growth of hair she should have one in order to meet the requirements of a fashionable head dress. As an advertisement, as Prof. Dorewend has done, ladies call on him whether they intend to buy or not. If they do not get something now they may later on, and while there is opportunity it is just as well to learn particulars. For gentlemen who are bald, Prof. D has Toupees and Wigs, that are most perfect. They fit like a Glove, and are as natural as life. He will do their friends a favor if they will prevail on them to visit the Professor. Remember

AT QUEENS' HOTEL, ON WEDS & THURS., FEB, 12 & 13th.

BANKRUPT SALE

OF

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK"

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 per cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES.

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: MONDAY FEBRUARY 3, 1890 | NO 28

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIFS

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASO :—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
New Scott Shell Almonds,
New Sicila Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

Wall Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackerlin, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coco nut SugarWafers

Meen Biscuits—Bendoir biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore, the Holidays

WINES &C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
36 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchie's

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.
And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS,
UNDERCLOTHING,
TRUNKS and
VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES
—|o|—
See for yourselves and Call at
S G RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

When Riley was sick, he gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she stuck to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
E ERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W WGHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN &CO.;

WANTED.

A SMART YOUNG GIRL to act as cashier in a retail store. One with a knowledge of book keeping preferred. Apply at once in own handwriting. Address, BOX 226, P O. Jan 27, d31

OAK and Tamarac timber in round or delivered here. Apply at Commercial Hotel.
A. ECCLES.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

WOOD FOR SALE.

A READY supply of dry blocks, in Pine, Hemlock, and Ash.
AT THE RATHBUN COMPANY, Eagle Mill. 6td

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

THE ORPHEUS MUSICAL CLUB
OF BELLEVILLE,
Will give a Series of Chamber Concerts in the Oddfellow's Hall The first Musicale will be given on the evening of FEBRUARY 5th, 1890
Soloists for the Evening:
MISS MAUD BURDETTE.
MISS MATTIE DIAMOND, Elocutionist.
MR. HORACE TOURJEE Violinist.
MISS MABEL WILSON, Accompanist.
Assisted by the Orpheus Orchestra under the direction of W. E. RIGG.
Season Tickets for the entire course may be obtained at a reduced rate. On sale at Rigg Music Store.

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

OUR TEAS
Relieve Thirst and Dissipate Sorrow.
Can we say more in their favor
And who can say less?
Then prie sright? If so, and an ever increasing sale points that way; here in your midst—on the corner of Front and Hotel Streets.
Tea Drinkers have an Elysium,
The latest crop Teas, direct from the place of growth, and the choice of Pickings can always be had by purchasing at
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Performed
TOILET —— SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine,
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.
CAPITAL - - $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates
Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. P. C PHILLIPS, Manager

I took Cold, I took Sick,
SCOTT'S EMULSION
RESULT:
I take My Meals, I take My Rest,
AND I AM VIGOROUS ENOUGH TO TAKE ANYTHING I CAN LAY MY HANDS ON; getting fat too, for Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda NOT ONLY CURED MY Incipient Consumption BUT BUILT ME UP, AND IS NOW FITTING
FLESH ON MY BONES
AT THE RATE OF A POUND A DAY.
TAKE IT PLEASANT, AS EASILY AS ILK MILK.
Scott's Emulsion is put up only in Salmon color wrappers. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

ALBERT COLLEGE
FOREIGN MISSION BAND.
1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.
Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7:30 p m.

Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant, D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.

Saturday evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg, our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Juso Kono Victoria University, Cobourg.
Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel
Students will sing the Programme
No charge for admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection to defray expenses.
ALL WELCOME.
J. WHALE.
14567 Chaplain Mission Band.

"ICE!! ICE!!"
—|o|—
Having Stored a large quantity of Ice I am prepared to supply City Customers at last year's prices, which will be furnished on application. Contracts can be made by applying to
D. R. LEAVENS.
Box 506.

FOUND.

A SILVER WATCH on Taylor's Hill. Owner can recover same by proving property and paying for advertisement.
Apply to
GEO. E. FAX,
21 Geo. Ritchie's

LOST.

A CALF SKIN wallet was picked up and left at this office, which contains bills, books and papers, of value perhaps to the owner. It can be recovered by paying for this advertisement.

SAFE WANTED

SECOND HAND. Apply at this office.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS,

In the Goods of Charles Muncaster Deceased.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 110, sec. 36, that all persons having claims upon or against the estate of Charles Muncaster late of the city of Belleville in the County of Hastings, deceased, who died on or about the 11th day of December 1889, are, on or before the 1st Day of March 1890, to send by post prepaid, or to deliver to Messrs. Sherry & Macauley barristers, Bridge street, Belleville, solicitors for Thomas W. Muncaster the executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, a statement in writing of their names and addresses and full particulars of their claims and the nature of all securities (if any) held by them.
And notice is hereby further given, that after the said last mentioned date, the said executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice shall have been given as above required. And the said executor will not be responsible for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose claim notice shall not have not been received as aforesaid, at the time of such distribution.
Dated at Belleville, the 27th day of January A D, 1890.
SHERRY & MACAULAY,
Solicitors for the above named executor, R. W. MUNCASTER. 4td

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy something at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.
What Baking Powder Shall we use

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and prove choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. 13j8wdw

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 30 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than reported goods can be sole for. Shop and manufactory, Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

BISMARCK AND WILLIAM.

CHANCELLOR AND KAISER NOT ON GOOD TERMS.

The Man of Blood and Iron Maintains a Sulky Silence While the Emperor Corrects the Campaign — The Proposed Franco-German Alliance.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Daily incidents strengthen the impression that there is a serious divergence of views between Prince Bismarck and the Emperor, or those having the immediate confidence of the Emperor, upon the proper course of the Government in some important internal concerns. The Prince's objection to the tone of the Speech from the throne has been commented upon for some days. The fact that the objectionable part was the reference to labor troubles and that Von Berlepsch has been appointed to a place in the ministry, giving him control of those things practically in place of Bismarck, seems to imply that the Emperor intends that those things shall be in the hands of one in sympathy with the ideas set forth in the speech.

Within those few days the Emperor has received successively all the leaders of the different groups included in the Cartel coalition, and he is in conference every day with some prominent member of the Government groups, having a free interchange of views and communicating his own ideas on the proper management of the elections. There is a great contrast between his demeanor and that of Bismarck, who, though he has accorded interviews to various leaders, has maintained a singular reticence as to the policy to be pursued in the elections. His silence embarrasses the Government candidates as to the ground they shall take. He has been asked to make a speech before the Lower House of the Diet expressing the Government's policy, but he has declined to do so.

Prince Bismarck's letter to the German ambassador to the Vatican is published obviously to influence the opinions of Catholic voters. It declares the Government sees with pleasure the establishment of Catholic missions in German colonies, promises that all religious orders shall be admitted, including the Jesuits, and that all may rest assured of the protection of Germany. Cardinal Rampolla has responded expressing the extreme satisfaction of the Pope at this step and making his congratulations upon this further advance towards complete concord.

The new Reichstag is convoked for the middle of March. It is likely to present a formidable phalanx of Socialists who, combining with the Centre party and German Liberals, will easily outvote the Government group.

The Foreign Office regards the agreement between the Germans and Czechs in Bohemia as a triumph for the diplomacy of Bismarck and the personal influence of Emperor William. Incessant efforts have been made by Bismarck through the German ambassador at Vienna to induce Emperor Francis Joseph to adopt a policy that should tend to recover for the Germans the greater share in the government of the Austrian empire. The semi-official declaration in the facts put forth from Vienna admits that the foreign policy of the empire weighed with the Emperor as a main consideration in the case, that it was necessary to end race quarrels to enable Austria to stand on an equality with her allies in the triple alliance and be respected by Russia as a vastly more constituted power. In consequence of the German triumph in Bohemia a meeting of the Emperors is projected at Breslau.

Colonel Stoffel's pamphlet on a Franco-German alliance excites the greatest interest. The Koluische Zeitung says the idea that Germany would buy peace from France by a cession of Alsace and Lorraine is the merest chimera, that no generation of Germany will ever dare cede an inch of German soil soaked with the blood of its fathers. The only value Stoffel's argument has is the fact that now, while his countrymen in France are wild with Russomania, he warns them against the danger of Slavdom and the influence of a vast barbaric state in the councils of Europe.

The Boisen Courier and The National Zeitung believe that Stoffel's warning to France against an alliance with Cradom will fall on deaf ears now as did his warning in 1870 against the precipitation of France unprepared into a great war.

THE FRENCH WAY.

Much Speedier and Quite as Effective as a Libel Suit.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The Marquis de Mores, well known in America in connection with a gigantic but unsuccessful dressed beef enterprise, feeling insulted by certain articles in La Nation, sent his friends MM. Feuillant and Dion to M. Dreyfus, the editor of that journal, to demand satisfaction. The gentlemen were referred by M. Dreyfus to MM. Lockroy and Pichon. Arrangements were made for a hostile meeting. The weapons chosen were pistols and it was agreed that six shots should be exchanged and if neither party was touched the seconds should decide whether the duel should proceed. The distance was to be twenty metres.

The fight took place at 1½ this morning on the Belgian frontier near Commines. The Marquis was cool and calm, the editor was somewhat nervous but showed no signs of fear. At the first fire M. Dreyfus was struck in the right arm, the ball burying itself in the biceps but not breaking the bone. The bullet was immediately extracted by the surgeon, and although there was considerable effusion of blood the wounded man finding his other arm was not disabled demanded that the fight should be continued. While the seconds were consulting M. Dreyfus fainted from loss of blood, whereupon the physicians of both parties declared the gravity of the wound rendered him hors de combat. This put an end to the contest.

Father Labelle in Paris.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—M. Labelle, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture of the Province of Quebec, lectured last evening before the Geographical Society. He urgently appealed to Frenchmen to go to Canada and cultivate the soil.

Cable Flashes.

It is reported Austria and Hungary are about to resume cash payments.

There was a collision on the railway at Halle Saturday in which three persons were killed and eight injured.

The Russian Government has decided to establish a new marine station near Liban at a cost of 13,000,000 roubles.

It is decided that the different organizations of Good Templars in England shall reunite and form one organization.

The Riforma (Rome) says Russia has made an intervention in reference to the Italy-Abyssinian treaty. The Italian troops have left Adowa and recressed the March into Italian territory.

GOOD BUT GREEN.

The New Orleans Fog Badly Pounded by Kilrain.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—For a purse of $2000 Jake Kilrain and Felix Vacquelin, the latter a local heavy weight, had a contest tonight with soft gloves. They were called 4-ounce gloves, but looked a little less than 4. The crowd showed enthusiasm when Vacquelin shock hands with Kilrain. At 3.49 the referee called time and the fight commenced. Kilrain made the fight scientifically and showed all the generalship for which he is noted. In the first round he tried to draw Vacquelin on, but the latter was wary and never once assumed the offensive.

In the second round Kilrain squeezed the unwieldy mass of Vacquelin in a clinch, so that when he let him go Vacquelin dropped to one knee. When Kilrain found his rival weakening he rushed the fighting. When the round ended Vacquelin's jaw was swelling up and his ribs were rosy.

In the third round Vacquelin was confident and swung out his right, but relapsed to the defensive when he failed to reach. Meantime Kilrain kept pounding Vacquelin's sore jaw and when the round ended Vacquelin was nearly ready to fall when his seconds pulled him away.

Cleary urged Vacquelin to continue the fight, but the big fellow's sore leg had swollen from the exercise and he said he would not go on. He was far from being knocked out, although his lip was cut and his jaw and sides were very sore. He said he had no business to fight at all, but would not back out. Under the circumstances Cleary threw up the sponge and Kilrain was declared the victor. Kilrain said his opponent was a good man, but green. Mike Donovan remarked that Kilrain was the best man in the world but he was sick at Richburg.

THE HALDIMAND WRIT.

Nominations Fixed for Feb. 13, Polling a Week Later.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—Haldimand's next polling day is fixed for Feb. 20, nominations being on Feb. 13. The writ has been issued directed to Mr. Reighbardt, returning officer. The organizers of both parties have been in Ottawa the greater part of the time since Mr. Colter was unseated and are no doubt well primed for the contest.

The last created vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Senator Rodier has been filled by the appointment of Hon. Mr. Masson, who sat for the division until appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec.

Concerning the Turner vacancy and the confirmation of his seat, it is given some time ago that the new senator would come from this side of Toronto, the name of Peter MacLaren, Perth's millionaire alderman, is prominently mentioned.

Dr. Landerkin says his tariff resolutions are serious business and he is going to continue the crusade he commenced last session until the drawback system or he himself disappears. He says there are some 40 different drawbacks. The resolutions of which he has given notice refer to only five but he will attend to others in their turn.

MONTREAL CIVIC ELECTIONS.

Little Interest Excited—Few Changes in the Council.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—The civic elections were held to-day and excited only the mildest interest. The following is the result: Mayor, Jacques Grenier (neutral). Centre ward, Ald. Farrel; St. Mary's ward, Ald. Jeannotte; St. Louis, Ald. Boisseau; St. Ann's ward, Ald. Malone; St. James ward, Mr. Lamarche; Hochelaga, Mr. Gauthier; St. Gabriel's, Ald. Tansey. In all the other wards election was by acclamation and in every one the former aldermen were elected except in St. Antoine, where Mr. Sinney replaced Ald. Archibald. From this it will be seen that the composition of the new council will be the same as of the old except for Mr. Lamarche, Mr. Gauthier and Mr. Shorey.

AMONG THE RAILWAYS.

The C. R. & N. Reduces Freight Rates—Boston and Nebraska Tariffs.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—The Chicago, Burlington & Northern Railroad has cut freight rates between Chicago and St. Paul from the present rate of 60 cents to the old rate of 40 cents a hundred pounds. This is due to reductions by other lines.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Chairman Walker of the Interstate Commerce Railway Association has authorized the Omaha road in connection with the "Soo" line and Canadian Pacific to make as low rates from Boston to Nebraska points by way of St. Paul as any made by way of Chicago. The decision is due to the fact that an outside line will soon compete with the lines in the association.

THE CHAMPION SKATER.

Hugh McCormick of New Brunswick Takes Away Paulsen's Title.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Feb. 2.—Hugh McCormick of New Brunswick defeated Alex Paulsen in the 10-mile race this afternoon and takes the title of champion skater of the world, which Paulsen had held for eight years. The time was very fast and the track bad. A fair start was made at 3.35 o'clock. McCormick made his first 5 miles in 27 mins, and his last in 19½. He had scored half a dozen laps at first four and then the two skaters kept along easy and close together till the 23th lap when McCormick increased his lead and breaking the record on the 26th lap ½ of a mile ahead of Paulsen. Time 46½ mins. Three hundred dollars was up as a purse. The leading Scandinavians backed Paulsen heavily. Five thousand people were present, fully 1000 coming from St. Paul, Minneapolis and other cities.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Emma Taylor Gets a $1800 Verdict—Senator Macdonald's Illness.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—The Taylor-Johnston seduction case was concluded Saturday night, the jury bringing in a $1800 verdict for the plaintiff.

Lilly White, who was reported missing in Saturday's dispatch, has turned up at Whitby.

Murderer Thomas Kane, in jail under sentence of death, had a case of la grippe. His counsel goes to Ottawa to-day to see what can be done to secure a commutation or arrest of sentence.

Senator Macdonald's condition continues critical.

One of the Lost.

MOUNT JACKSON, Ont., Feb. 2.—Capt. Andrew Hussey, postmaster here, died of grippe on Friday. His ancestor, Capt. Hussey of Kent, Eng., came over in the Mayflower.

Charged with Wife Murder.

Moncktown, N.B., Feb. 2.—Harry W. Cole was arrested here this evening charged with murdering his wife by beating her while intoxicated yesterday.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to procure relief, I finally used Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

DEATH IN THE FLAMES.

TERRIBLE SCENES AT A BOSTON BOARDING HOUSE FIRE.

The Inmates Shut Off from Escape by the Rapid Spread of the Conflagration—Some of the Victims Roasted and Others Killed by Jumping.

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—A terrible fire occurred on North-street early this morning resulting in the death of at least six persons. The fire originated mysteriously in the clothing store, No. 235 North-street, kept by a Jew, whose name is unknown. The flames quickly communicated to the floors above, which were occupied as an Italian lodging house, and contained a large number of lodgers. So quickly was the place wrapped in flames that escape for many of them was impossible and they were roasted to death. Others attempted to escape by jumping from windows and thereby received serious injuries. Five are already dead, and one other was said to be dying when removed to the hospital. The damage to the building will not be large. Only one of the five victims has been identified, this being a woman, Mrs. Dolla Scanlon, about 40 years old. The other dead are three men and one child.

Besides these five there were seven others removed to the Police Station, where they received medical attendance and were taken to the hospital. Their names are given as follows: Mrs. Dolla Gillmartine, very badly burned about the body; Guiseppe Cerolio, 3 years old, severe burns about the legs, chest and side; Ludovico Mulani, broken ribs, caused by jumping from a third-story window; Peter Lombardzio, shoulder broken by jumping from window; Francesca Letiere, slight injuries about the head and body; Bernard Gilmartine, husband of Hannah, injured about the legs and body; an unknown man, terribly burned, said to be dying. With the exception of the children noted above the other sufferers are between 30 and 40 years of age. The building is a four-story brick structure and the three upper stories were filled with lodgers and boarders, there being in some families six and eight persons.

The complete list of killed is: Madalina Clarolene, 34 years old; Filamond Clarolene, Giovanni Clarolene and a boy son of Filamond Pusqualina Clarolene, Felice Conte, Martine Marchione, Rosa Marchione, Emila Marchione, infant daughter of Marchione, Raffaeli Petrilizel, Tomaso Petrilizel, Bella Scanlan.

It is now believed that the fire resulted from a kerosene lamp thrown in a drunken row. Albert Smith, who lives in the rear of the burned building, says that just before midnight he heard a row in the back room of the burned house. Smith looked out and saw three men quarreling; one man threw a lighted lamp at another and the flames followed. Smith made haste to escape with his family and saw no more.

Losses Caused by Flames.

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—Sear's block in Boston was burned to-day. Loss over $300,000.

Hull's block in Danbury, Conn., is reported burned. Loss $350,000.

MANGLED MINERS.

Fatal Explosion in a Shaft at Wilkesbarre, Pa.—Colliers Entombed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 1.—A fall of rock took place in the Nottingham shaft of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Co. in No. 5 plane this morning which drove the accumulated gas into the gangways were 10 men were at work with naked lamps. An explosion soon followed. Peter Hein was cut upon the head and his hands and face were badly burned. John Crossin with his mule was buried beneath the falling rock. His body has not been recovered. William Roberts, a driver boy, is also missing. John S. Humphries, a miner, died while being removed from the mine. His body was burned to a crisp. Joseph Dunsan, fire boss, was badly burned. His injuries are said to be fatal. Joseph Jones was fatally burned. John P. Tomas was burned on the face and hands. David Fox is seriously burned and his recovery is doubtful. Thomas Lake was slightly cut on the head.

Five men are imprisoned in the mine and there is little hope of their being taken out alive. When the fall of rock took place John Dunston, the fire boss, was on his way from the fifth to the sixth lift carrying his naked lamp. This, it is said, fired a body of gas which exploded with great force, shattering the gangways and breaking the timbers, and causing large quantities of roof rock and coal to fall. The debris closed the outlet for the miners who were in the interior of the mines making repairs, entombing John Crossin, David J. Williams, John Davis, Edward Morris, and an unknown man. It not known when those outside will be able to reach those men. It is firmly believed they are all dead.

The Nottingham shaft, which was the greatest anthracite coal mine in the world, is nearly a total wreck. It had at one time an output of 3000 tons a day, and belongs to the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company $500,000 profit last year.

LOST AT SEA.

Three Men Swept Overboard from the Steamer Jersey City.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The steamer Jersey City from Bristol Jan. 20 which arrived here to-day had heavy gales from the west during the entire passage. On Jan. 19 she encountered a terrific hurricane which lasted 34 hours, bearing two boats from her davits, starting the funnel, smashing ventilators, washing battings and tarpaulins from No. 4 hatchway and flooding the hold. During the hurricane the vessel was going with all possible speed and would not steer. Seas broke over the ship continually. On the 19th a heavy sea struck the ship on the starboard side. The watch were then reefing the maintrysail and endeavoring to keep the ship's head to the sea. Boatswain Albert Davis of Boston, Alfred Tuplin, carpenter, and Gustay Weber, seamen, were washed overboard and drowned. William Stanbury had a leg broken and a Dalmatian was injured in both legs and in the head.

HALIFAX, Feb. 1.—The steamer Colina arrived here to-day from Glasgow. She had a very rough passage of 14½ days. The vessel was damaged by tremendous seas and her cabin was flooded several times. One day the steamer was stuck fast for 36 hours in a vast field of ice, studded with about 300 icebergs, some of them being of immense proportions.

Lincoln Conservatives' Choice.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 1.—At a meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of the County of Lincoln, held in Victoria Chambers here this afternoon, Eugene F. Dwyer, reeve of Port Dalhousie, was nominated to represent that party in the next election for member of the Ontario Assembly by a vote of 159 to 116 over A. H. Pettit of North Grimsby.

The Candid Truth.
USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I had no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specifi for croup and sore throat; it never

THE BANK WRECKERS.

President Classen and Broker Fell Unable to Procure Bail.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—President Classen of the Sixth National Bank failed to procure bail to-day and was obliged to go to Ludlow Jail until Monday. Broker Fell's wife and sister offered to go on Fell's bond, but the wife's property did not seem adequate, and as the sister's property is in New Jersey and therefore not acceptable in a New York court, Mr. Fell was obliged to go to jail. Mr. Leland has advanced $500,000 to guarantee payment of the Sixth National depositors in full.

One of the bank wreckers is charged with squandering thousands of dollars upon an American burlesque actress now in London. It is alleged that the real leader of the syndicate which got possession of the Sixth National was James A. Simmons, the contractor, who had many large financial and contracting schemes on hand. Simmons took 795 of the 1995 shares sold by Leland. His whereabouts are unknown. Wallack, Fell's partner, and president of the Lennox Hill Bank, and Kilduff, another partner, are also said to be missing.

The assets of the Equitable (face value) are $160,505. There are said to be $100,000 of Sixth National Bank stock hypothecated with another bank, the par value of which is $50,000; market value not yet determined. This will make the total $100,505. The liabilities are: Capital, $100,000; certified checks, $4435; due depositors, $31,118; due banks (10 per cent), $196,505. This shows a deficiency of $148,553. There is also evidence of an actual liability which does not appear on the books of the bank of $150,000 certification.

The total liabilities of the Lennox Hill Bank are $349,692.55; the total assets $370,875.94, leaving a deficiency of $178,816.61. The liabilities include the capital stock of $100,000.

O'REILLY'S BOOKS.

The Land League Treasurer's Accounts Reported Correct.

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—The auditing committee of the Irish National League has completed its examination of the accounts of Dr. Charles O'Reilly, treasurer of the league. The committee found that the books were kept in a model manner in all respects. It reports as follows:

Balance on hand at the last national convention in August, 1886	$ 21,285 78
Receipts since that date	251,922 79
	$273,208 57
Expenditures of all kinds	$ 22,225 27
Remitted to Ireland	227,448 08
	249,673 35
Balance on hand	$23,535 22

HORRIBLE!

A Kansas City Infant Fatally Mutilated by Rats.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 1.—The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Reeves, lying in a basement here, died to-day from wounds inflicted by rats last night. Mrs. Reeves was awakened by the infant's cries. The child's nose was bitten off, and horrible wounds appeared on both cheek bones; the scalp was torn away from the top of the head down to the ears, and the skull was gnawed in one place so that the brain were exposed.

A 12-YEAR-OLD MURDERER.

Joseph Bacon of Missouri Kills His Little Sister and Brother.

LOUISIANA, Mo., Feb. 2.—Yesterday at Eola Joseph Bacon, a 12-year-old negro, murdered his sister and brother, aged 8 and 5 years, as they were at play in bed. The former he shot with a gun and the latter he dispatched with an axe, severing the head from the body. He then walked to this place, 15 miles, and told his grandmother he had accidentally killed the children.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICS.

Peru Adopting United States Political Machinery.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 1.—A democratic assembly composed of three delegates from each department of the republic met to-day and proclaimed Nicolas de Pierola the party's candidate for the presidency. This is the first time that an assembly of such nature has been organized in Peru.

Brazil Recognized by Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Mr. Valente, the Brazilian minister here, to-day received an official communication from the Mexican minister stating the Mexican Government had formally recognized the Republic of Brazil.

The Crisis at Rio.

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 1.—The Cabinet had a meeting Thursday night which lasted until 2 o'clock yesterday morning. After studying fully the subject which gave rise to the crisis, the members of the Government arrived at a harmonious decision regarding measures to be adopted. Minister of Commerce Roberio has resigned and has been succeeded by Francisco Grizerio.

Influenza in Uruguay.

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 1.—It is reported that the president of the republic has been attacked by influenza. The disease has assumed an alarming character and has become epidemic. One newspaper reportedly stated that 4 men have been attacked during the past 15 days.

Suicide from Grief.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Fred W. Fuhrmann, purser of the steamship Oceanic, committed suicide yesterday. Fuhrmann expected to meet his wife on his arrival in port Jan. 21. He waited patiently Mrs. Fuhrmann's arrival until yesterday, when he received word from his friends in the east that his wife had died. The purser was so overcome with grief that he killed himself.

Prohibition Repeal in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 2.—The first bill for the repeal of prohibition has been introduced in the State Senate. It proposes a township option, a special election on the application of 100 citizens, and if license is voted for then the applicant must have his petition signed by 35 freeholders in the township or ward in the district in which he resides.

An Insolvent Railway.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 1.—In the United States Circuit Court to-day a petition was presented asking for the sale of the Allegheny Valley Railway. The road has been in litigation for some years. The petitioners represent $52,500,000 of the income bonds. They allege the road is in default to the amount of over $6,000,000. March 14 was fixed for a hearing.

Acted in Self-Defence.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Robert Gibbons, the witness for the defence in the Cronin case who was shot by Police Captain Schuettler in a saloon row, rendered a verdict tonight that Schuettler acted in self-defence. Schuettler was immediately released from custody.

I don't care who is appointed to the Balti-more post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that mi Pcook use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. I am done with powder contain

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 3 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays, and delivered by special carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and, if not paid for in advance in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Wite notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the Order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Proprietor.
Belleville, Ont.

REFORM RALLY

The reformers of East Hastings will meet at Canifton town hall on Friday, Feb 14th to discuss matters of importance to the party and select candidates for both the local and Dominion houses. Mr. W. T. R. Preston of Toronto and other prominent members of the party from abroad are expected to be in attendance. A rousing meeting is expected and desired as the platform for the party in both houses will be fairly laid down.

BUNGLING MANAGEMENT.

The bungle that the government made of the printing bureau at Ottawa and the construction of the Murray canal, are fair instances of the way the business of the country is being conducted and the sums of money that are being squandered, some $300,000 were spent to equip the bureau, the plea being that the government would do its own printing. The scheme was a failure and last year, notwithstanding this tremendous outlay, the government paid $192,695.54 to tory newspapers throughout the country to do work that was intended to be done at the bureau.

The cost of the Murray canal has far exceeded the estimates and is not finished yet. Last year the government expended $215,316.46. Of this sum Contractor J. D. Silcox got $204,600; Robert Weddell, $800 and James McCrudden, bridge tender, got $300 for a horse and has lost weight since because he had no more to sell at the same figure. The canal is not completed and the estimates submitted to the house last week has an item stating it will require at least $150,000 to put the ditch in navigable condition. If the work could be completed for this amount the people might well congratulate themselves that the end has been reached but the estimate this year is only a repetition of what has been done ever since the original estimate was exceeded. Because the government says that it is believed $150,000 will complete the work is no guarantee that the expenditure will end with that sum. The same statement has been made repeatedly and no doubt will be heard again. This bungling management may be expected as long as the present incapable ministry is allowed to stand.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

No wonder that the Trenton bridge builder is a zealous tory. Besides the liberal prices he got for the bridges over the Murray canal, he received, last year $6,930 34 for work on the Trent canal and $2,600 on the Welland canal. It pays him to work at election time.

Mr. A. F. Wood, of Madoc, was one of the arbitrators and valuators on canals last year and received for his services the neat sum of $3 056 39. For 195 days service he received $1,950. His travelling expenses, $1,106.39. Most of his labor was in connection with the commission to enquire into alleged irregularities in the management of the Welland canal. The press of the country has shown what a farce the commission was. The enormous amount charged for travelling shows that Mr. Wood is a gentleman who likes to see the world.

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this will all disappear and capillary additions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stands Prof. Dorwend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorwend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorwend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frompieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslows Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teathing or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Prof's goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indigenes. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL. For Sale by D. M. Waters Belleville.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

LATE LONDON TOPICS.

THE DUKE OF FIFE ENTERS THE FIELD OF POLITICS.

It is Thought Likely That His Grace is to be the Next Governor-General of Canada—Parnell's Clarion Call to the Irish Party.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—It is noted as a sign of the times that the Duke of Fife, who recently married the Princess Louise of Wales, has entered the field of politics. The Duke, however, is not to be restrained by royal conventionalities. He is too ambitious for that. He regularly attends political meetings and assiduously coaching himself for a public career. The only explanation the political world can give of his erratic proceedings is that he aims at vice-royalty, and it is hinted that he may follow the precedent of the Marquis of Lorne and succeed Lord Stanley of Preston as Governor-General of Canada.

Mr. Parnell although invisible is not inactive. His address to the Irish party sounds like a clarion call. He has weighty work on hand. It is believed that at this session the question of Home Rule for Ireland is to be settled. Mr. Parnell acts as if he wished to have every member of the party think so. His influence is felt in every direction. He will leave no stone unturned to further the cause. He intends to produce the whole mass of Piggott's letters, forgeries and all.

Mr. Davitt, speaking of the forthcoming documents and testimony, says the revelations they will make will be startling even to a world jaded with the proceedings of the special commission. Mr. Parnell no longer seeks his own vindication from the accusations of The Times. In the interest of the cause he supports he proposes to disclose and denounce to the world the nefarious conspiracy which was formed against its leaders in order to kill it, and complete the investigation, which the special commission refused to allow him to do and which it left undone.

DILKE'S NEW BOOK.

Unprotected Coasts and Imperial Federation Discussed.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Sir Charles Dilke's new book, "The Problems of the Greater Britain," is well received and promises an immense sale. The writer deals chiefly with the questions of the resources and defences of Great Britain and embodies in his work much of the condemnatory matter which formed the basis of the articles he published some time ago calling attention to the defenceless state of England's coast. He insists that imperial defensive measures after the plan of those adopted by Germany are absolutely essential and also strongly recommends that England follow the German system of federation as speedily as possible.

Imperial federation, he asserts, is bound to come sooner or later, and the sooner the better. It must not, however, be forced upon Canada and Australia, which are the best and most reliable political labor guides that England has, and whose solution of the great problem of the exact relations of capital to labor and vice versa must ultimately be accepted by the home country. Altogether the book, which is issued in two volumes, is a stronger presentment of the problems to be confronted and cogent suggestions for dealing with them than has yet been set forth by any recognized authority upon the matters treated of, and it is safe to predict that it will be heeded.

Salisbury Breaking Down.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Lord Salisbury has yielded to the political pressure brought upon him and has abandoned his proposed trip to the Continent, for the present at least. His health is very poor and it is believed that at the Cabinet council which is to be held within a few days he will pave the way for his early resignation from the Foreign Office, the recent exactions of which have told heavily upon his physical and vital resources. Speculation is rife as to the Cabinet changes which will result from his withdrawal from the Foreign Department, but nothing worthy of serious acceptance is evolved from the labors of the self-constituted slate-makers, whose vaticinations are as varied as they are absurd.

Hartington Going to Egypt.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Marquis of Hartington will take his departure for Egypt on Friday, to be absent indefinitely. He has rallied somewhat from the shattered state in which his recent illness left him, but is still greatly in need of the change he seeks. He has deputized Sir Henry James to act as the parliamentary leader of the Unionists in his absence, and instructed him to consult with Mr. Chamberlain upon questions of great importance. The measure of Mr. Chamberlain's acquiescence in this arrangement is not stated.

The Anglo-Portuguese Situation.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Portugal sent a lengthy note to the European powers to-night appealing to them for arbitration of Portugal's differences as to territory with England and claiming the right to make such appeal under the treaty concluded at the Berlin conference. It was the hint that Portugal might call in the continental powers to adjudicate in matters which he regarded as none of their business that caused Lord Salisbury to launch the thunderbolt of the ultimatum. The actual appeal now made will not tend to improve England's temper. The situation has been dangerously complicated by the obstinate and insubordinate behavior of the Governor of Mozambique. He continues to defy all orders from Lisbon and refuses to deliver up the territory claimed by England. If this statement is confirmed there is no doubt that a British squadron will seize Delogoa Bay.

Mobbed by Angry Portuguese.

LISBON, Feb. 2.—During a circus performance here to-day the clowns represented Major Serpy Pinto and Castellar and burlesqued the struggle in Makalolo. The audience became frenzied with anger and started in to mob the show. They seized and tore down the flags and were only stopped from the most extreme conduct by the police. As it was the circus was wrecked. Many arrests have been made.

Trial of the Bishop of Lincoln.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The trial of the Right Rev. Edward King, Bishop of Lincoln, on a charge of having violated certain requirements of the ritual of the Established Church, will begin before the Ecclesiastical Court next Tuesday. One of the points of the Bishop's defence is that the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Primate of all England, has repeatedly observed the same forms in conducting services as those which the former is alleged to have practiced. It is predicted that the trial will result in the Bishop's acquittal.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL CO., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the Horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enabled to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this no animal, is phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise".

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries &c. Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario, Canada. Office—Post St opposite Ritchie's. French Office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, Q.C. F. L. M. ANDERSON. W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

The E. Redick
ATTORNEY, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell
SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 must 6% on any terms Low charges Office Pinnell's Block.

Francis S. Wallbridge,
GRAVELEY & WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.
BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c. — Office Mc Anney Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

Sherry & Macauley.
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Offices next door to office of G. E. Thompson and Canadian Express, Bridge street, Belleville. Thousands greater. GEO. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY

William N. Ponton
BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer. Office over Express Company Office, Corner Front Bridge Bridge street, Belleville. Private funds to loan at lowest rates of interest

John A. Foster,
BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville.

Henderson & Henderson
BARRISTERS, Solicitors &c. Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont.
G. G. E. HENDERSON, Q.C., | F. G. HENDERSON
County Crown Attorney
Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co House

McDonald & Ormsby
SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public, Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville. Corner Victor Block Madoc.
A. McDONALD.

Bell & Biggar
BARRISTERS Attorneys etc Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario.
JOHN BELL, Q. C. B. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

N. TRACY, M.D.
CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal.

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon
GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Vet. Office—Front St., Belleville. (Douglas old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. F. Wise & Son, Druggists; Ed. Rooney, Brooks Telephone connects

Elizabeth Embury M.D., C.M.
QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of Women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holt and's Jewellery store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.
DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. 256 College Avenue Toronto.

E. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M. P.H.M.S (HOMOEOPATHIST)
Graduate of Philadelphia College of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical Society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St. Belleville.

G. Foster
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butle
Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all and Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,
SURGEON Dentist, Front Street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,
SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Of Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.,
CAPITAL $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest rates of interest
Payment can be made to fail due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary to employ in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Four per cent interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal.
OFFICE—Masonic Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. F. O PHILLIPS, Manager.

CITY STEAM BAKRY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $675,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

I don't care who appointed to the Baltimore post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that Mr Pecock use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking powder. I am done with powder contain

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY
DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD
In spite of additional imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of Prof. Loisette, it is still a pleasant misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of these attempts to rob him of the fruit of his labors, all of which demonstrate the unlooked superiority and originality of his teaching! Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized throughout the world as the standard Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his system by correspondence, showing that his system is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 FIFTH Avenue, N.Y.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFER AND Indian Pain King
For sale only at
R. TEMPLETON.

FOR SALE.
A few hundred large size cedar post A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood
NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator.
P. S.—Old Iron wanted.
W. H. VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
A TRUE CURE
FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
TRY A BOTTLE AND BE CURED.
A CERTAIN CURE FOR CONSTIPATION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP
DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OR ADULTS SWEETAS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?
In 1890
The Home Seeker — Takes 160 free acres in the Valley of Montana, reached by the Manitoba Railway.
The Health Seeker — takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker — takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the Great Northwest.
The Manufacturer — takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist — takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.
The Traveller — takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher — takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the Mission at Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone — will receive maps, books and guides of the regions reached by the Great Northern, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

AN XTENISVE —ASSORTMENT OF— FANCY BALL PROGRAMS
—Just opened out at the—
"ONTARIO" OFFICE

TO WEAK MEN
Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

FOR MEN ONLY!
APOSITIVE CURE for LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, Impotence, Nervous Debility, Nightly Emissions, Loss of Power or Excessive Use of Stimulants or Tobacco, Wakefulness, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Impotency, Sterility, Loss of Sexual Power in either Sex, Wasting Diseases, Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood

No Pimples on baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and pure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.
MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES of a old sore caused by a long spell of sickness of a fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to his name which is H H Casey, merchant.
JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and proof and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily and permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.
Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston
Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strain, Weakness relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

VARIANT - HOME - STOVES

AND

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

WITH

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R. CHOWN,

FOR THE

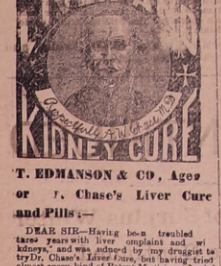
PICKLING SEASON

Pure Cider Vinegar,
English Malt Vinegar,
White wine Vinegar,
(Pure and Fresh.

Spices.
(Whole Ground)

Mixed Pickling Spices (whole) Celery Seed Mustard Seed, Tumeric Currie Powder, etc, etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
83 to 87 Bridge St.
Also Front Street, opp Rich



T. EDMANSON & CO, Agents
or D. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,
HENRY LIGHT.
PS—You can use this for your benefit.

M. C. ROBLIN,
—ISSUER OF—
MARRIAGE LICENSES
agent for the Lancashire Insurance
Front St opp Ang-o-American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF "ALLAN QUATERMAIN" "SHE" "JESS"

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY.

This story is supposed to be founded upon a manuscript found in the papers of Allan Quatermain, which were given to the author as literary executor. In it Quatermain tells the story of his marriage.

CHAPTER I.—Describes Allan's first meeting, when a child, with Stella Carson, at a Christmas gathering. Stella's dress caught fire and Allan extinguished the flames. Stella's mother was Spanish, and she eloped with a cousin, leaving Stella with her father, Squire Carson. He determined to leave England on account of the disgrace, and at about the same time Allan's mother died and Allan's father took him to South Africa, where Mr. Quatermain became a missionary among the Kaffirs. When Allan was 30 his father died.

CHAPTER II.—Allan sold the effects and decided to go on a journey of trade and adventure. Among his men was a Kaffir named Indaba-zimbi, a witch doctor. Between him and another witch doctor there had, two years before, been a lightning contest, which resulted in the death of his contestant.

CHAPTER III.—Details the start of the expedition. Quatermain describes his first elephant hunt.

CHAPTER IV.—Quatermain discovered a large body of Zulus, and was surprised by two of their scouts. Acting upon the impulse of the moment, he shot both of them and captured a third. The Zulus had been following a party of Dutch Boers, consisting of seventeen or eighteen men, their women and children, and a large number of cattle, with which they were removing to the north. For two days the cattle and some of the women and children were sent away, while Quatermain, the witch doctor and some of the boys remained. The next morning, by a ruse, Quatermain and Indaba-zimbi were captured by the Zulus.

CHAPTER V.—Quatermain discovered that Indaba-zimbi had betrayed him into the hands of the Zulus, who at first offered him no harm. The camp of the Boers was attacked and destroyed. One little child only was saved alive and Quatermain preserved her by fighting a duel with and killing a Zulu warrior. The witch doctor had said that Quatermain was a spirit. The Zulus determined to kill him, but were prevented by Indaba, who pretended himself to kill Quatermain and then bring him to life again. This frightened the Zulus, and Indaba said Quatermain, with the child, made their escape.

"IF is all very wonderful," she said when I had done, "very wonderful, indeed. Do you know I went out this morning with Hendrika and the dogs for a ride, meaning to get back home by midday, for my father is ill, and I do not like to leave him for long. But just as I was going to turn, when we were about where we are now—yes, this was the very bush—an ortbe got up, and the dogs chased it. I followed them for the gallop, and when we came to the river, instead of turning to the left as bucks generally do, the orbe swam the stream and took to the bad lands beyond. I followed it, and within a hundred yards of the big tree the dogs killed it. Hendrika wanted me to turn back at once, but I said that we would rest under the shade of the tree, for I knew that there was a spring of water near. Well, we went; and there I saw you all lying like dead; but Hendrika, who is very clever in some ways, said no—and you know the rest. Yes, it is very wonderful."

"It is, indeed," I said. "Now tell me, Miss Stella, who is Hendrika?"

She looked round before answering to see that the woman was not near.

"Hers is a strange story, Mr. Allan. I will tell you. You must know that all these mountains and the country beyond are full of baboons. When I was a girl of about 10 I used to wander about a good deal alone in the hills and valleys, and watch the baboons as they played among the rocks. There was one family of baboons that I watched especially—they used to live in a klaaf about a mile from the house. The old man baboon was very large, and one of the females had a gray face. But the reason why I watched them so much was because I saw that they had with them a creature that looked like a girl, for her skin was quite white, and, what was more, that she was protected from the weather when it happened to be cold by a fur belt of some sort, which she tied round her throat. The old baboons seemed to be especially fond of her, and would sit with their arms round her neck.

"For nearly a whole summer I watched this particular white-skinned baboon, till at last my curiosity quite overmastered me. I noticed that, though she climbed about the cliffs with the other monkeys, at a certain hour a little before sundown they used to put her, with one or two other much smaller ones, into a little cave, while the family went off somewhere to get food—to the mealie fields, I suppose. Then I got an idea that I would catch this white baboon and bring it home. But of course I could not do this by myself, so I took a Hottentot—a very clever man when he was not drunk—who lived on the stead, into my confidence. He was called Hendrik, and was very fond of me; but for a long while he would not listen to my plan, because he said that the babyans would kill us. At last I bribed him with a knife that had four blades, and one afternoon we started, Hendrik carrying a stout sack made of hide, with a rope running through it so that the mouth could be drawn tight.

"Well, we got to the place, and, hiding ourselves carefully in the trees at the foot of the kloof, watched the baboons playing about and grunting to each other, till at length, according to custom, they took the white one and three other little babies and put them in the cave. Then the old man came out, looked carefully round, called to his family, and went off with them over the brow of the kloof. Now very slowly and cautiously we crept up over the rocks till we came to the mouth of the cave and looked in. All the four little baboons were fast asleep, with their backs toward us, and their arms around each other's necks, the white one being in the middle. Nothing could have been better for our plans. Hendrik, who by this time had quite entered into the spirit of the thing, crept into the cave like a snake, and suddenly dropped the mouth of the hide bag over the head of the white baboon. The poor little thing woke up and gave a violent jump, which caused it to vanish right into the bag. Then Hendrik pulled the string tight, and together we rolled it so that it was impossible for our captive to escape. Meanwhile the other baby baboons had rushed from the cave screaming, and when we got outside they were nowhere to be seen.

"Come on, miss," said Hendrik; 'the babyan will soon be back.' He had shouldered the sack, inside which the white baboon was kicking violently, and screaming like a child. It was dreadful to hear its shrieks.

"We scrambled down the sides of the kloof and ran for home as fast as we could manage. When we were near the waterfall, and within about 300 yards of the garden wall, we heard a voice behind us, and there, leaping from rock to rock, and running over the grass, was the whole family of baboons headed by the old man.

"'Run, miss, run!' gasped Hendrik, and I did like the wind, leaving him far behind. I dashed into the garden, where some Kaffirs were working, crying, 'The babyans! the babyans!' Luckily the men had their assegais with them, and ran out just in time to save Hendrik, who was almost overtaken. The baboons made a good fight for it, however, and it was not till the old man was killed with an assegai that they ran away.

"Well, there is a little hut in the kraal at the stead where my father sometimes shuts up natives who have offended him. It is strongly built, and has a barred window. To this hut Hendrik carried the sack, and, having untied the mouth, put it down on the floor, and ran from the place, shutting the door behind him. In another moment the poor little thing was out and dashing round the stone hut as though it were mad. It sprung at the bars of the window hung there, and beat its head against them till the blood came. Then it fell to the floor, and sat there crying like a child, and rocking itself backwards and forwards. It was so sad to see it that I began to cry too.

"Just then my father came in and asked what all the fuss was about. I told him that we had caught a young white baboon, and he was angry, and said that it must be let go. But when he looked at it through the bars of the window he nearly fell down with astonishment.

"'Why!' he said, 'this is not a baboon, it is a white child that the baboons have stolen and brought up!'

"Now, Mr. Allan, whether my father is right or wrong, you can judge for yourself. You see Hendrika—we named her that after Hendrik, who caught her—she is a woman, not a monkey, and yet she has many of the ways of monkeys, and looks like one, too. You saw how she can climb, for instance, and you hear how she talks. Also, she is very savage, and when she is angry or jealous she seems to go mad, though she is as clever as anybody. I think that she must have been stolen by the baboons when she was quite tiny and nurtured by them, and that is why she is so like them.

"But to go on. My father said that it was our duty to keep Hendrika at any cost. The worst of it was that for three days she would eat nothing, and I thought that she would die, for all the while she sat and wailed. On the third day, however, I went to the bars of the window place and held out a cup of milk and some fruit to her. She looked at it for a long while, then crept up moaning, took the milk from my hand and drank it greedily, and afterwards ate the fruit. From that time forward she took food readily enough, but only if I would feed her. But I must tell you of the dreadful end of Hendrik. From the day that we captured Hendrika the whole place began to swarm with baboons which were evidently employed in watching the kraals. One day Hendrik went out towards the hills alone to gather some medicine. He did not come back again, so next day search was made. By a big rock which I can show you they found his scattered and broken bones, the fragments of his assegai and four dead baboons. They had set upon him and torn him to pieces.

"My father was very much frightened at this, but still he would not let Hendrika go, because he said that she was human, and that it was our duty to reclaim her. And so we did—to a certain extent, at least. After the murder of Hendrik the baboons vanished from the neighborhood, and have only returned quite recently, so at length we ventured to let Hendrika out. By this time she had grown very fond of me; still on the first opportunity she ran away. But in the evening she returned again. She had been seeking the baboons, and could not find them. Shortly afterwards she began to speak—I taught her—and from that time she has loved me so that she will not leave me. I think it would kill her if I went away from her. She watches me all day, and at night sleeps on the floor of my hut. Once, too, she saved my life when I was swept down the river in flood; but she is jealous, and hates everybody else. Look how she is glaring at you now because I am talking to you!"

I looked. Hendrika was tramping along with the child in her arms and staring at me in a most sinister fashion out of the corners of her eyes.

While I was reflecting on the baboon woman's strange story, and thinking that she was an exceedingly fine-looking customer, the path took a sudden turn.

"Look!" said Stella, "there is our house. Is it not beautiful?"

It was beautiful indeed. Here on the western side of the great peak a bay had been formed in the mountain, which might have measured eight hundred or a thousand yards across by three-quarters of a mile in depth. At the back of the indentation the sheer cliff rose to the height of several hundred feet, and behind it and above it the great Babyan peak towered up towards the heavens.

TO BE CONTINUED

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda, hence is the best that can be made.

Nerve Pain Cure.
Polson's Nervoline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nervoline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nervoline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervoline.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE
Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK
Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD
they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE
is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.
CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
Small Pill, Small Dose, Small Price.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle
Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it one evening for ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervoline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes, toothache in one minute, lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try a ten-cent bottle first? Large bottles 25c, sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure, Nervoline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites
sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and find it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Foot
away precious time and money, and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold en Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Dangers Of Delay
If we were to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow a neglected cold, how differently would our course be; could we realize our danger, how speedily we would seek a cure; but with many it is only when the monster disease has fastened its fangs upon our lungs that we waken to our folly. What allows a neglected cold! it is not diseases of the throat and lungs, bronchitis, asthmat consumption, and many other diseases of like nature. It worse than madness to neglect a cold, and it a folly not to have some good remedy available for the frequent complaint. One of the best medicines for diseases of throat and lung is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine is composed of several medicinal herbs, which exert most wonderful influence in curing consumption and other diseases of the lungs and chest. It relieves at once and easy expectoration, loosens the cough and drives the disease in the system.

Death Dealing Drugs
SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

A Cure for Deafness.
THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

SYMPTOMS—and sure; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Tyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keeps its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent preparation is the main a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the name and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods,
for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees, A. Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and what he can you wan any his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing.

GUARDIAN
Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England
Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... $6,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.
W. H. CAMPBELL, Agent.
Office:—Robertson Block

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER
PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.
Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, or any other adulterant.
E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.
CHICAGO, ILL.
THE CELEBRATED IMPERIAL BREAST CAKES.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY!
How Lost! How Regained.

KNOW THYSELF.
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE
A Scientific and Popular Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotency of the Blood.

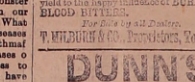
EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES
Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxing, Nervous and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation, and unlawful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 800 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.
For Sale by all Dealers.
T. MILBURN & Co., Proprietors, Toronto.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from subsequent thereon 36 pages, 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. This Good and Invaluable Work is the authority by the National Medical Association. Address P. O. Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WH PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt.
Donnelly.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. It is safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

BANKING OFFICE
—Or—
U. E. THOMPSON
BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE.
American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.
Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed.

THE POPULAR

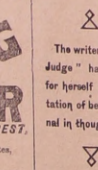
NEW STORY

The writer of "The Judge" has earned for herself the reputation of being original in thought.

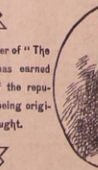
The stories in this paper are new and moral in tone. They may be read by all who can read.

MRS. ELIA W. PEATTIE.

"The -:- Judge."

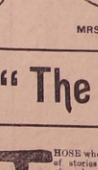


THOSE who are fond of stories will be pleased to learn that the new story to be published in these columns will be the best that has been published in a newspaper for many years. It is original in conception and differs from the usual style. The characters are clean cut and well brought out.



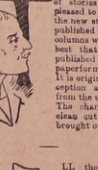
THE story is a prize story. It was selected out of hundreds. It is not by an amateur, however. Mrs. Elia Peattie is one of the best story writers of to-day. She has earned for herself the reputation of being one of the foremost in the ranks of lady authors. Her articles appear in the best magazines.

ALL the incidents are vividly described and the author never keeps her reader waiting for interesting passages. The whole story is full of interest. There is no murder. There is the judge who tells quaint legal incidents. There is a live newspaper man. There is enough humor to enliven the more heavy part of the story. There is a good plot well worked out.



"I AM delighted with "The Judge," said a critic who has read the story. "The Judge" will more than satisfy the average story reader. It will please all. The man who thinks it "the old story" will learn that he has not yet fathomed all the incidents that occur in every day life. The woman who says "Oh, it is all about love" will find something interesting to her.

WHEN you have started in "The Judge" you will continue to buy the paper from day to day till it is finished. No doubt about this. Toward this story will be like reading in a new field of novel literature. There are so many surprises, yet they are consistent.



WITH each chapter the reader becomes fascinated and waits anxiously for the next. Those who read "The Judge" will say it is a powerfully written and the interest well maintained. The author has chosen a new field for her incidents. There is a freshness about the story that gives it zest and the reader never becomes weary of it.

Be sure and get the first instalment. There is no long preamble. The writer introduces her characters in rapid succession and one scene quickly follows another.

HOLIDAY GOODS
PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

THE WESTERN
Assurance Company.
FIRE AND MARINE INS.,
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.
FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.
Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.
Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.
WM. SMEATON

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN, CURES OR RELIEVES
and every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

WANTED
GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address
J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries, (Mention this paper)

FIRE INSURANCE
The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.
THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.
THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, secondary to the one plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.
Losses paid in 1886-7 ..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1886 ..... $186,266.74.
THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.
No charge for Policy or survey on city property.
OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts, Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs.
JAMES BOOTH, Agent.

—THE—
GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE
With Patent Duplex Grate
is equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH
Oval round or Square Fire Pot
—FITTED WITH—
Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Case or any other kind of Grate.
FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y
THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the contents, barns, and farm property, take no mercantile manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having been in business forty years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two millions in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies annually, with a yearly income of over $500,000. Capital, $300,000 all paid up, and deposited with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or country property will find this company a safe one as rates reasonable.
F. M. CLARK,
District agent, Belleville.
W. HARVEY, agent, Ivanhoe
3, Martin agent Shilling.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. RUPTURED OR DEFORMED
Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment in the world for the kind of CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE. Every description which has 30 years experience in this specialty can supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made specially for each case and sent same day. Also supplies Shoulder Braces, Supporters, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Bandages, Crutches, etc. Always in stock. Prompness, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.
Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Mechanical & Mfr.
165 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO, ONTARIO.

CARPETS

We have the Cheapest Carpets in the City.

READ OUR PRICES.

Hemp Carpets from.... 8cts per yd.
Union Carpets from.... 35cts "
Wool Carpets from..... 65cts "
Tapestry Carpets from.... 30cts "
Brussels Carpets from.... 75cts "

We have a line of Tapestry Carpets at 75cts that cannot be purchased elsewhere under 90cts to $1.00. They are A. 1 value.

We invite a visit to our Carpet Rooms NO CLIMBING OF STAIRS NECESSARY As they are reached by an Hydraulic Passenger Elevator. Our Carpet Rooms are very large and our assortment of Carpets, Rugs, Oilcloths and other House Furnishings is the largest between Toronto and Montreal.

Bargains given now during stock t in

Bargains given in all winter Goods.

Bargains in Remnants.

Special Bargains in Furs, Robes, Ladies' Jackets, Men's Coats, etc.

Remember we have removed to our new Store where we have plenty or room to show our very large stock.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Jan. 21, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 3 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by S. R. HUFFMAN, Tuner.
dly

Died in Michigan

Mrs. Clapp, of Grand Rapids, Mich., formerly of the fifth concession of Sidney, died in that city on Saturday last. The remains will be brought home for burial.

Curlians

The local curlers are practicing night and day for the brush on Thursday with the Ogdensburg team. The players are in good condition and if the cold weather continues feel confident of success.

Mrs Francis Brenton

Mrs. Brenton wife of Francis Brenton, Thurlow township treasurer, died at Corbyville this morning from the effects of la grippe. She leaves a family of six grown up children. She was sixty years of age and was universally respected by all who knew her.

Bridge Street Church

Bridge street congregation expected to have Mr. W. J. Smith of Victoria University, preach to them yesterday but he was a victim to the prevailing epidemic and Mr. Anderson, who seems to have a fondness for the city, appeared in his stead. He preached morning and evening.

After the Necessities of Life

John McCreary's bake shop on Station street was broken into Saturday and several loaves of bread were stolen. An attempt to break the lock had been made the previous night but without success. On Saturday an entrance was effected by mean of a false key. The guilty parties have not been arrested.

David May Stay There.

David Conlin, who disappeared from Westport last spring, has toured up in Ireland. He wants his wife to send him money to return but she won't, saying: "I have myself and Mike to grub for, and the Lord knows that's enough. If he holds his hand on his kiss till I send for him he will never want a patch."

The Belleville Corps.

"Tramp" submits the following Salvation army news from Belleville in the War Cry "Braves are hard on the enemy's track, taking a few prisoners now and again. We spent Sunday with the comrades here. Two souls cried for salvation at night. The band boys are getting along well, they are just going into uniform. "Oh, that will be joyful!"

Best of the Season

Miss Nora Clench, assisted by Mrs. Caldwell and Mr. Fred Warrington will appear at the Belleville opera house on Monday next. The guarantee list is growing and from the names that appear upon it it is evident that the elite of the city will be present. The Leitpziger Nachrichten says of Miss Clench, "She rises a bright star in the heaven of art."

Free School Books.

The district assembly of Knights of Labor, recently in session at Kingston, decided by resolution that the District Assembly petition the Provincial Government to establish a government printing bureau in which government printing shall be done, and for the printing and distribution, under the superintendence of the various inspectors, free school books to pupils in all the public schools.

Wednesday's Entertainment.

The citizens are looking forward to the next recital of the Orpheus Musical Club in the Odd Fellows hall on Wednesday evening next with considerable interest. The soloists for the evening will be Miss Maud Saurdette, Miss Matie Diamond, Miss Mabel Wilson. They will be assisted by the Cecelia Orchestra under the direction of W. B. Riggs. It will be a treat to lovers of high class music and one which should not be lost sight of.

Lost.

You have lost your appetite if you have had the grippe but have found it if you have visited Goldsmith's Uptown Fish Store. This week we have frozen salmon, fresh halibut steak, fresh bluefish, bake, cod, haddock, flounders, frozen sea herring, live lobster, oysters. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish, etc. Cicoees and several other kinds expected in a day or two. Near Wallace's candy store; opposite Goldsmith's old stand. 29 1w

FATAL FIRE.

A DWELLING ON FIRE AND ITS AWFUL CONSEQUENCES.

Four of a Family Die From Injuries Received—Death Finally Relieved Him From Agony

(Special to the ONTARIO.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3rd, 9.55 a. m.—It is reported that the Home of Secretary Tracy at Washington was destroyed by fire this morning and several servants were burned to death.

10:05 a.m.—Later reports from Washington say that Mrs Tracy is dead. Mrs. Tracy dying. The secretary injured but probably not fatally by fire this a. m.

10:10, a. m.—It is reported that Mrs. Tracy is dead. Sec'y Tracy has been unconscious since his rescue and is very low.

10:20 a. m., latest reports—Sec Tracy is dead.

A MENTAL COLLAPSE.

A Prominent Citizen Pronounced Dangerous to Society.

George Grant, late boot and shoe merchant, was arrested yesterday afternoon at his residence on Taylor's hill, on a charger of lunacy, dangerous to be at large. Following is the information sworn out before J. J. B. Flint, P. M.

"Whereas on the second day of Feb. 1890, information on oath was laid before me that George Grant is insane and dangerous to be at large and whereas the hearing of the same is adjourned to the fifth of Feb. and it is necessary in the meantime that the said George Grant should be kept in safe custody.

CHARLES EDWARD POWLBY.

Charged With Another Offence—His Kingston Record.

Stephen Cummings was arraigned before Magistrate Flint today on a charge of stealing an astrachan coat from C. W. Casey, of Thurlow. He indignantly denied all knowledge of the theft and stated that he had never seen the coat in his life. It will be remembered that Cummings was arrested on the statement of Charles Edward Powley that he had paid Cummings $10 for the coat. County Crown Attorney, Geo. E. Henderson, Q. C. thought it advisable to drop the case against Cummings and swear out an information against Powley which was accordingly done. As there is a case now pending against Powley the magistrate committed him for trial.

Although the Kingston papers deny that Powley ever resided in the Limestone city. B. M. Britton, Q. C., county crown attorney there, writes the local authorities that Powley had served sixteen months there for stealing flour near Colinnaby, and three months for carrying fire arms. It is also stated that he has been flogged for a serious offence and to day there is a suspended sentence of seven years hanging over his head for stealing at Kingston. His wife was instrumental in getting him off by pleading that she had no means of livelihood and a large family to support.

XVI BATT OFFICERS

Wholesale Changes in the Prince Edward Infantry.

To be major, Captain Alexander McDonnell, R S 1, from No. 3 company, vice M D Strachan, deceased.

No. 3 company, Consecon, to be captain, Lieutenant Benjamin Alexander Wycott, R S 1, from No. 5 company, vice A McDonnell, promoted. 2nd. Lieutenant Robert Carwin, having failed to attend annual drill, his name is hereby removed from the list of officers of the active militia.

No. 4 company, Picton, to be lieutenant provisionally, Charles Donald Wilson, gentleman, vice Charles Roy Davis, whose resignation is hereby accepted.

No. 5 company—The headquarters of this company are hereby changed from 'Mountain View' to 'Demoresville.' To be captain provisionally, John Allison Sprague, Esq, vice John Roblin Anderson, whose resignation is hereby accepted. To be lieutenant provisionally—Samuel James Cotter, gentleman, vice B. A. Wycott, promoted into No. 3 company. To be 2nd lieutenant provisionally—George Edward Boulter, gentleman, vice Ridley Anderson, whose resignation is hereby accepted.

No. 6 Company, Redneville, the resignation of Captain James Benson, is hereby accepted.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

A Questionable Act of the Court of Revision.

The court of revision on Saturday did a wrong act in remitting $100 taxes on the building now occupied Mr. J. W. Dunnet and owned by Mr. John Bell, Q. C. This is a dangerous precedent. It is a matter of surprise that Mr. Bell should make the claim and still more so that the Court should grant it. If Mr. Bell cannot pay his taxes who in the city can? There are numerous vacant stores in the city the owners of which have equally as good claim for remittance and may flood the court with petitions. In the interest of the city the matter should be reconsidered. A hundred dollars to Mr. Bell is no more than so many cents to other tax payers still the last cent will be required of them.

A NOCTURNAL VISITOR.

A Thurlow Farmer has a Vision at his Window.

"Doc" Sine of the second concession of Thurlow, told a curious story to Officer Cook to-day. Last night while sitting in his house reading he casually glanced toward the window when he beheld a strange face peering at him. Mr. Sine made a step towards the window when the figure disappeared like a shadow. After searching carefully all traces of the strange visitor were lost and Mr. Sine was unable to identify his features. It was no doubt some thief who had planned to pilfer the house and suspected that the occupants had left the light burning.

PARNELL'S GOOD FORTUNE

He Settles the Times Libel Case for Five Thousand Pounds.

(Special to the ONTARIO.)

LONDON, Eng. Feb. 3.—The Parnell suit against the Times for libel has been settled. The trial of the suit was to have begun today, but when the case was called the counsel announced that the suit had been compromised, the Times paying Parnell five thousand pounds damages.

Mrs A N Pringle

The death of Mrs. Pringle, wife of ex Ald Pringle at an early hour this morning removes an old resident closely identified with the early history of Belleville. She was in her seventieth year. She comes of the best U. E. Loyalist stock the Bay of Quinte district can boast of and has lived in Belleville over half a century. The children who survive the loss of a kind and affectionate mother are John, Henry, William, Erastus and Mrs. Robert Bogle. The deceased was highly respected for her many acts of kindness and was dearly beloved by all who were acquainted with her. The funeral will take place at 2:30 Wednesday.

Rev. R. M. Pope preached missionary sermons in West Belleville Methodist church yesterday.

LOSS OF THE QUINTE.

Mr. Platt Moved For Returns of Investigation

Mr. Platt, in the House of Commons, moved for a copy of report made and evidence taken by the court of enquiry ordered by the department of marine to investigate the loss of the steamer Quinte, which was burned on Bay of Quinte in the autumn of 1889.

Mr. Tupper.—There is no objection to the motion passing, but I would like to inform the hon. gentleman that it will take some time before the department will be ready to bring down the return. The evidence has been taken, and it is very voluminous, and the final decision has not been reached. If it meets the wishes of the hon. gentleman, this motion can pass, and as soon as the matter is decided, the papers will be brought down.

Mr. Platt.—How long a time is expected to elapse before the decision is reached?

Mr. Tupper.—Not an unreasonable time. Simply sufficient time to allow me to look into the papers, which have only just reached the department. Motion was agreed to.

IN MEMORIAM.

An Old Resident of Sidney Passes Away.

Thos. Jones, one of the oldest residents of Sidney, died at his home yesterday at the age of sixty-four years. He had been ailing with a lung trouble for several years past and a couple of weeks ago he was prostrated with a severe attack of influenza which hurried his death. The deceased was born in the township and had ever since lived there. He married Sarah Jane Roblin, daughter of David Roblin, who survives him. Two children are also left to mourn the loss of a father. David Austin and Mrs. Marshall Vandewaters. He will buried in White's burying ground to morrow.

HOW THE TAX MONEY GOES.

The Civic Committees—Proposed New By laws.

The various committees have prepared their report to be submitted to the city council to night. The fire committee recommend that Wm Macoun be paid $34.30; W. D. Dunnet, $27.05; Geo. Ritchie & Co. $19.40; Thos. F. Meagher, $10.40; John Lewis, $3.63; Fred Dusenberry, $2.

The executive committee recommended that the proposal for the pavement of the market square be laid over until a future date.

The water and gas recommended the payment of $100 to James Hodge; W. P. Clarke, $14.0; J. W. Walker, $2.11; John Muddleston, $30.25.

Printing and stationery committee; Ralph Smith & Co. $17.50; Geo. Bishop & Co, Montreal, $37.95; E. Harrison, $2.10; T. S. Carman, $51.70.

Contingent—James Patterson, $50 cts; Lewis Bolyen, 50cts; J. A. Forte, $4.

The executive also recommended the passage of a by-law, re surities of city treasurer; a by-law as regards the forming of a new standing committee to be called a "Committee on railways and industries," and a bylaw to borrow $46,000. Also they recommend that the solicitor and chairman of finance be authorized to look after the passage of the act in the local legislature to consolidate the city's debt.

A Paper Worth Reading

A representative of the well known firm of Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont, proprietors of Nasal Balm is in town this week in the interest of his firm, and among other advertising matter is distributing a paper which may be regarded as a curiosity. It is called The Golden Age and, proports to be printed in the year 1998, and is filled with items and paragraphs of events that may reasonably be expected to occur at that date. It deals also with the transaction of Canada from its present condition to an independent republic and its gradual absorption of the United States, and this article, to say the least, is ingenious. All the matter is breezy, spicy and readable, and much of it decidedly novel. We would advise our readers to get a copy of The Golden Age and give it a careful perusal. Any of our readers who have not received a copy of this paper can do so by sending their address on a postal card to Messrs. Fulford & Co.

Only an Irish Girl.

The Josie Mills dramatic company closed a five night's engagement Saturday evening by the production of the above play. There was a large audience and the play was well put on. This company has given the best of satisfaction while in Belleville, and when they return, which they intend to do shortly, they may be confident of liberal patronage. The presents given away were costly and numerous and all were satisfied with the mode of distribution. Saturday evening Miss Katie Morris won the gold watch. At the matinee Mrs. Jas. Mackie, jr., won the grand prize, a silver berry dish. They left this morning for Kingston, where they open their second engagement.

Proposed Railway Extentions.

The Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway company seek power from parliament to extend their line of railway westerly to Sault Ste. Marie, with a branch to Sudbury; also to extend their line easterly to the River St. Lawrence and to Ottawa; also for power to build branches from their line to any iron or any other mines situated in the counties of Lennox, Lanark, Hastings, Frontenac, Peterboro', Victoria and Nipissing district; also for power to change the name of the company, and for power to construct a bridge for railway purposes across the St. Lawrence from some point within the county of Leeds, between Sir William Island and Rockport, to some poin in the state of New York.

The Old Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling ill;
A headache off; a daily chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
Now lif e no more the weary head,
The struggle's o'er; the man is dead.

Such is the fatal progress of consumption How often is repeated the old, old story. Yet not half so often as it was before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Cartarrh Remedy. 50 cents.

DIED.

JONES—At Sidney on Sunday, Feb. 2nd, 1890, Thomas Jones, aged 64 years and 9 days.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 1st concession of Sidney on Tuesday February 4th, at 11 o'clock a. m. to White's church, Front of Sidney, where the remains will be buried in White's burying ground.

Friends are requested to accept this notice.

PRINGLE—Mrs. Pringle, wife of A. N. Pringle, at Belleville, Feb. 3, 1890 aged 68 years, 10 months.

Funeral from late residence North Front Street, Wednesday, 5th at 2:30 Services at two o'clock at the house.

TO CONTEST THE WILL.

RELATIVES CLAIM SHE WAS OF UNSOUND MIND.

How Miss Hopper Became Acquainted With Mr. Meng—She Voluntarily Entered his Home.

In connection with Miss Hopper bequest of $30,000 to Herman Meng, the Beaver says:

"The acquaintanceship began in rather a peculiar manner. Some years ago Miss Hopper was accustomed to visit occasionally at Mrs. Ashton's, who then lived in the western part of Mr. Meng's house. During these visits the old lady became slightly acquainted with Mr. Meng and family. In the year 1888 Miss Hopper started to visit some one at Kingston but at Napanee missed the train. She came over from the station to Mr. Meng's and asked to be allowed to wait until the next train. Mr. Meng, when he came in from his work at six o'clock, invited the old lady to stay with him for a few days and she accepted. Afterwards she went on to Kingston. About a week later Miss Hopper came back and again called. She then stated that she would keep her all winter and they consented. In the spring she expressed a wish to go to David Young's her old home on the front, and she went. A week or so ago Mr. Meng was surprised to see her return. The old lady then stated definitely that she wished to live and die with Mr. Meng and family, and it was agreed.

The nearest relations of the deceased are several nephews and nieces, who reside on Amherst Island, among them John Howard and Mrs. Hall. Rumor has it that there will enter an action to have the will set aside on the ground that Miss Hopper was not in a mental condition to execute a will at the time she died.

D. H. Preston, Q. C., who for many years has had full control of Miss Hopper's business, was not aware till after her death that she had made a will. The day the will was executed he was in Toronto, and he was not afterwards consulted in regard to the matter. For weeks previous to her death the ladys mind wandered continually and she was not capable of doing any business. The relatives are very much exercised over the unexpected announcement of a will and reports of a litigation are rife. They maintain that she has been more or less peculiar for years, and that for a long time past her mind was clouded and that she has been mentally incapable of transacting business. It is contended that in this condition she was easily influenced to the prejudice of her natural heirs. In case an attempt is made to set aside the will this will, no doubt, be the plea upon which proceedings will be taken.

"La Grippe" for Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dullopressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD & Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

Jandiemas Day

Yesterday was Candlemas day. According to tradition the condition of the sky on that day controls the duration of the winter weather. The bear is supposed to emerge from his winter quarters and if he should see his shadow, will return for another six weeks, should the sky be overcast, and no shadow be visible he goes on his tramps and winter is over. If this be true; the age of the tradition entitles it to some respect; the duration of winter depends altogether upon the bear. If he was an early riser he saw his shadow and we are in for six weeks of cold weather. If he was inclined to take his time about it its most people are on Sunday, spring will soon be knocking at the door.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

Col. Lazier is able to resume business.

A. Moore, Kingston, is registered at the Queens.

W. Z. Ball, Richmond, Ohio, is at the Queens.

J. M. Carroll, Lindsay, is at the Anglo American.

Mr. C. Vantiess, Trenton, is stopping at the Kyle House.

C. Fraser, Picton, is registered at the Anglo American.

A. G. Northrup will be able to leave his house in a few days.

A. A. McDonald, barrister, Madoc, was in the city on Saturday.

Geo. Easterbrook and wife, Tweed, are at the Dominion house.

Messrs. R. S. Elliot and R. E. Lazier have passed their barrister's examination.

F. E. Gill, advance agent of the Belle Stevenson Dramatic company, is in the city.

Principal Mathison, of the institution for deaf mutes is able to attend to his duties.

Archbishop Cleary is in Peterboro attending a meeting of the bishops to consider matters of provincial importance.

Rev. A. Robertson who fell from the top of a ladder last week has never since recovered consciousness. It is not probable that he will recover.

TOWN TALK.

On Friday Mr. Corby, M. P, presented labor petitions from Local Assembly No. 2900 K. of L. Belleville to the Dominion parliment.

Great discount sale at the syndicate store. Previous to moving from the old Shultz stand we will hold a big discount sale at both our stores, a discount of 10 per cent allowed off all bills except white and grey cottons J. PATERSON
4t d 1 w

Dr. George, pastor of the John street Presbyterian church, will lecture on his travels at a rural settlement near Cobourg tomorrow night.

Prof. Loisette's memory system is creating greater interest than ever in all parts of the country, and persons wishing to improve their memory should send for his prospectus free as advertised in another column.

Swimming Niagara

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time.

MARY WANTS $10 000

Millionaire Huggins Housekeeper Sues Him—She Claims He Deceived Her—He Tells a Different Story.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Gifts of sealskins silks and diamonds were the result of Mary J. Mann's acquaintance with the millionaire hotel proprietor, Samuel J. Huggins. Nevertheless she is dissatisfied, and a few days ago brought suit against him for $10,000, making the general allegation that the services she had rendered as his housekeeper for over seven years entitled her to that amount.

Mr. Huggins has filed an answer in the Supreme Court that he has paid her well.

Mrs. Mann told her lawyer that she had seen only twenty-one years when in September, 1883, she took a room at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, of which Mr. Huggins is proprietor. That gentleman declares that she was at least seven years older. Mrs. Mann is according to her attorney, Ambrose H. Purdy. In September, 1883 she arrived in this city, from England, and went to the Cosmopolitan Hotel. She had a draft with her for £500 sterling.

A WOMAN OF FASCINATING BEAUTY,

Mr. Huggins, who is a tall stalwart, fine looking man, although perhaps sixty years of age, with a full, florid face, a neatly trimmed, snowy beard, dresses stylishly and has agreeable manners, went up to her apartments to tell her that he would have the draft cashed.

When he saw her he was captivated. He suggested that instead of the single room she had she occupy the finest suite of apartments in the house. Trips to Manhattan Beach and other resorts as well as dinners at which the waiters were well tipped, followed.

Mr. Huggins, she said, asked her to take charge of his elegant home, No. 319 West Fifty-first street. She accepted soon after she came to New York, and from that time, she alleges, occupied

THE POSITION OF WIFE TO MR. HUGGINS

The servants, her lawyer asserts, addressed her as Mrs. Huggins, and bills for seal skin sacques and other things purchased for her by Mr. Huggins were made out in Mrs. Huggins' name.

Every year she went to Europe and remained away two or three months. Sometimes Mr. Huggins was with her, sometimes not. As she admitted, she had a royal time while her reign as housekeeper lasted.

It ended on November 27, 1889. On that day, she said, a fragile lady entered the house, said that it was her home, that Mr. Huggins was her husband, that she had been in a private insane asylum for years, and that she had just been released.

Finding this to be so, Lawyer Purdy says, Mrs. Mann departed, leaving all her dresses temporarily in the house and went to England to visit her parents. She returned a fortnight or so ago.

Mr. Huggins said that he met Mrs. Mann in the hallway of the hotel, not in her room, and that she asked him to cash for $25, which he did, as he had done for any other guest. He needed a housekeeper as his wife was then an invalid and in a private asylum; and engaged her, verbally agreeing to pay her $40 a month.

A DRAFT ON A CANADIAN BANK

Mr. Huggins admitted that he allowed her to go to Europe and summer resorts annually. He said that in June, 1886, his wife returned home while Mrs. Mann was in Europe, and that the yarn about her coming back last November, and directing Mrs. Mann to quit the house was, therefore imaginary.

An Arab This Time

The Brockville Recorder says:—Rev. Dr. James Wad-el-Ward, a native of Jermasalem, will preach to-morrow in the George street Methodist church. Dr. Wad-el-Ward is a member of the masonic fraternity in Jerusalem, and is a full blooded Arab.

100 PAIRS —OF— SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTING

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY $4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

A GREAT SALE, OF ALL WINTER GOODS.

Underclothing, Gloves and Mitts, Flannel Shirts, Muffler Coat scarfs, Socks, Sashes, Wool Cuff Cardigan Jackets at great reductions to clear

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents' Furnisher, Laundry Office.

BANKRUPT SALE —OF— BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 per cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES.

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles, Coon Coats, Corsican Lamb & other coats Black and Grey Robes, Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER, HATTER & FURRIER.

There is hardly any other disease which undermines the health and happiness of thousands of families as HERNIA OR

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE AND DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Will visit professionally, Belleville, Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th, 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

FOR—
Portland and I Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: TUESDAY FEBRUARY 4, 1890 | NO 29

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASO—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS.
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars

New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
Including
Macaroons, Toy Crackerlis, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoa nut Sugar Wafers

Assorted Biscuits—Bondoir biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Saltimore for the Holidays

WINES, &C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling Philip's Best Milwaukee Lager, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.

And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS,
UNDERCLOTHING,
TRUNKS and
VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES

See for yourselves and Call at

S G RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

If a Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.,

THE ORPHEUS MUSICAL CLUB
OF BELLEVILLE,
Will give a Series of Chamber Concerts in the Oddfellow's Hall. The first Musicale will be given on the evening of FEBRUARY 5th, 1890
Soloists for the Evening:
MISS MAUD BURDETTE.
MISS MATIE DIAMOND, Elocutionist.
MR. HORACE TOURJEE, Violinist.
MISS MABEL WILSON, Accompanist.
Assisted by the Conn's Orchestra under the direction of W. E. RIGGS.
Season Tickets for the entire course may be obtained at a reduced rate. On sale at Rigg's Music Store.

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

OUR TEAS
Relieve Thirst and Dissipate Sorrow.
Can we say more in their favor
And who can say less?
Then are they right? If so, and as ever increasing will points that way; here in your midst—on the corner of Front and Hotel Streets.
Tea Drinkers have an Elysium.
The late crop Teas, direct from the place of growth, and the choice of Pickings can always be had by purchasing at
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

ALBERT COLLEGE
FOREIGN MISSION BAND
1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.
Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church. Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7:30 p m.
Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant, D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.
Saturday Evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg, our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Juso Kano Victoria University, Cobourg.
Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel Students will fill the Programme.
No charge for admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection to defray expenses.
ALL WELCOME.
14567 J. WHALE, Chaplain Mission Band.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 138 sdw

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KITCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

TEN POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS THINK OF IT!
As a Flesh Producer there can be no question but that
SCOTT'S EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites
Of Lime and Soda
is without a rival. Many have gained a pound a day by the use of it. It cures
CONSUMPTION,
SCROFULA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS AND COLDS, AND ALL FORMS OF WASTING DISEASES. AS PALATABLE AS MILK.
Genuine made by Scott & Bowne, Belleville. Salmon Wrapper; at all Druggists, 50c. and $1.00.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

WANTED.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply Feb. 4 1w MRS. W. W. LEE Hotel street.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. ANDERSON, Feb 4 dif cor. Ann and Charles sts.

A SMART YOUNG GIRL to act as cashier in a retail store. One with a knowledge of book keeping preferred. Apply at once in own handwriting. Address, Jan 27, d34 BOX 225, P O.

OAK and Tamarac timber in round or delivered here. Apply at Commercial Hotel, A. ECCLES.

WOOD FOR SALE.

A READY supply of dry blocks, in Pine, Hemlock, and Ash. At THE RATHBUN COMPANY, Eagle Mill. 6d

LOST.

A PURSE containing calling cards, Mrs. W. A. Ingram, and a $5.00 bill, and two foreign silver coins, receipts, etc., either in front of Reid's Crystal hall or on Queen st. The finder will be rewarded by leaving at J. H. Gordon's Queen st. MRS. W. A. INGRAM, Belleville, Feb. 3, 1td.

THE Members of the Belleville, Moira and Eureka lodges are requested to meet at the Masonic Hall on Thursday the 6th, inst at the hour of 1:30 p. m. to attend the funeral of our late brother William Foley.
CAPT. WATERS,
W. M. the Belleville, No. 128.
W. LATIMER
W. M. Moira, No. 11.
H. McINNICH,
2d W. M. Eureka, No. 282.

OPERA -- HOUSE
MONDAY EV'G. FEB. 10,
First appearance in Belleville of the
NORA CLENCH
CONCERT COMPANY
With the Following distinguished Artists:—
MISS NORA CLENCH,
VIOLINIST.
MRS. CALDWELL,
SOPRANO.
MISS COLVIN,
PIANIST.
MR. FRED WARRINGTON,
BARITONE.
MANAGER - - - J. W. BAUMANN
Reserved Seats — — 75cts.
Admission — — 50 and 35cts
Plan of Reserved Seats at W. S. Riggs' Music Store. 6d

THE ANNUAL - MEETING
—OF THE—
REFORM - ASSOCIATION!
—OF—
EAST - - HASTINGS!
—AND A—
MASS MEETING
For the selection of Candidates for both the
HOUSE OF COMMONS,
—AND—
LOCAL LEGISLATURE
Will be held at the
TOWN HALL, CANIFTON,
—ON—
FRIDAY, FEB. 14,
At 2 o'clock p. m.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.
N. VERMILYEA, Secretary. J. M. HURLEY, President.
Belleville, Feb'y 1st, 1890.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

DEBATE ON DR. LANDERKIN'S REBATE MOTION.

The First Division of the Session—The Alaska Boundary—The Banking Act Amendments—A Press Gallery Sensation—The Printers Compromise.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The first division of the session on parliament took place to-day on Dr. Landerkin's motion that:

Whereas distillers are allowed a rebate of duty upon corn imported for use in the manufacture of spirits for export, it is in the opinion of this House unjust and unfair that farmers and stockraisers who import corn to feed cattle or other stock for export should also receive a similar rebate.

The yeas and nays were called for shortly before 6 o'clock but the whips could scare up only a slim representation and the motion was defeated, 54 to 74.

The Liberal doctor from South Grey has entered upon a vigorous campaign against drawbacks. Speaking in support of his motion he said that this was part of a fight he was going to wage to the end against the system, which was legislation in favor of the manufacturing classes against the masses. He dwelt at length upon the hardships he alleged the farmers suffered by reason of the discrimination dealt with by his resolution.

Mr. Corby quoted facts and figures to show that the rebate granted the distillers was very gratifying, being only $600 in five years, and as a distiller he did not care whether it was abolished or not. But he fancied that the farmers would very decidedly object to such an extension as proposed, which would bring foreign corn into competition with our own coarse grains and depreciate the value of the latter.

Dr. Sproule followed, stating that this accorded with his experience as a practical farmer. Mr. McMillan of Huron and Mr. Fisher spoke in support of Dr. Landerkin's attack.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell made a vigorous defence of the drawback system. It was singular, he said, that the defects were only now being talked of, for the system was no new thing but had been part of the statute law since before the gentleman opposite were in power. The particular clause objected to had been re-enacted in 1877 in the Consolidated Customs Act. If the system was so bad as represented he wondered that an extension should be asked for, as was done in this motion, but he did not agree that the system was bad and thought that it might with advantage be extended. Canada ought to be as liberal as the United States in this way, so that bounties offered by that country might not give their manufacturers undue advantage over ours. Canada's policy was to encourage her tariff as to induce manufactures of every possible article in this country.

Then the House divided with the result stated. It was a strictly party vote except that Dr. Brien of Essex was with the majority. The vote exhausted the energies of the House and at 6.10 they adjourned for the day.

Mr. Masson, who succeeded the late Captain Labelle in the representation of Richelieu, was introduced to the House yesterday by Sir John Macdonald and Hon. J. A. Chapleau. He was warmly applauded as he took his seat. Mr. Masson is one of the wealthy men in the House and he has every appearance of being a gentleman of culture as well as of means.

Hon. John Carling has promised that he will forward the transportation companies to ascertain how it is that rates from eastern points to the northwest are lower for Burdpass emigrants than for French Canadians from the States desiring to return to Canada and proceed to the Northwest. Mr. Doyon brought the matter to his attention.

Hon. Charles Tupper says he is investigating that tar and feather outrage on the Baltic with a view to ascertaining to what extent the captain is to blame.

Hon. John Haggart says the railway mail clerks' complaints will receive due consideration.

Hon. G. E. Foster says there will be no legislation this session respecting benevolent societies.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney said in answer to a question that it is a mistake to suppose there is any difficulty about the boundary between Alaska and the Dominion. That was defined by the treaty of 1825 known as the St. Petersburg Treaty. All that was wanted now was a survey, and though the United States had been invited to join in having this made they had made no response. The proposed Banking Act amendments were brought up again by Mr. Casey, who moved a resolution affirming that the Government should guarantee the absolute soundness of all paper currency issued and circulated as money and make all such currency legal tender. His idea, he said, was not that this motion should be voted upon, or that the Government should at this time declare its policy, but he wished merely to raise a discussion which might be of benefit in solving the problem presented by the expiration of bank charters. He spoke at some length in support of his plan.

Hon. G. E. Foster said the Government would give due consideration to the remarks made by Mr. Casey in framing the bill, which would shortly be submitted to Parliament.

Mr. Casey's motion was then withdrawn.

This is the amendment Mr. Barron proposes to the Franchise Act: "In regard to each and every name sought to be added by way of solemn declaration there shall be a distinct and separate declaration and the qualification of the person so sought to be added shall be set forth in the body of the declaration and not in a schedule attached thereto."

Mr. Brown to-day presented petitions from Toronto bearing several hundred signatures in favor of his Bill. He also presented a petition bearing the names of several of Hamilton's best known residents. On the other side petitions were presented by Mr. Brien from Leamington, Mr. Small from Godarich Peterboro, Hamilton and Montreal, Mr. McNeil from Wiarton, Mr. Wilson of Lennox from Ridgetown and St. Thomas, Mr. Jamieson from Almonte and Carleton Place and Mr. Dawson from Port Arthur.

Mr. Bechard gives notice of this resolution: "That it is expedient to bring in a bill to prevent frauds in the sale of cereals and seed grain." He offered the bill itself to-day, but as no notice had been given it was ruled out of order.

NOTES AND GOSSIP.

A Press Gallery Sensation—The Printers Accept a Compromise.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Quite a sensation was caused in the press room this evening by the appearance of Sergt. Phil Moylan, the handsome man of the Ottawa police force, in quest of Mr. Fred Williams, the parliamentary correspondent of The Montreal Gazette, whom having found, he presented with a summons to appear at the Police Court tomorrow morning to answer to a charge of having falsely and maliciously libelled no less a person than Mr. William C. Van Horne, general manager of the Canadian Pacific. The paragraph upon which the charge is based appeared in The Gazette's Ottawa correspondence Saturday and was to the effect that when complaint was made to Mr. Van Horne that one of his gilbordinates had, in reply to a question, told the customer to go to shed, the manager had replied: "You need not go," only that and nothing more. Mr. Van Horne does not think this is a becoming manner and is quite sanguine that the circulation of the paragraph, Mr. Williams is one of the most conscientious members of the gallery and his associates wish him safely out of his pending courting experience.

Hon. Mr. Chapleau's answer to the bureau printers' demand for an increase from $11 to $13 per week was presented at a meeting of the union to-night. He offered a compromise, $12 per week and three holidays each year without pay being docked. After a hot debate the union decided by a vote of about 4 to 1 to accept the offer.

The barley tests going on for the past two years have come to a very satisfactory conclusion. A bulletin just issued from the Central Experimental Farm states that it has been found that the two-rowed variety, which our farmers desire to grow to cater for the English market, can be grown in many parts of Canada more profitably than the six-rowed variety which is given exclusively and for which there is no market in England and a gradual decreasing demand in the States.

Two more blue books were tabled to-day, the report of the Public Works Department and the Civil Service List.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—St. Lawrence market was quiet to-day. Prices are practically unchanged. Dealers continue to ask 55c. for fresh eggs in spite of the fact that they are buying them at 14c. They will probably come down in a day or two. In New York eggs are quoted at 13½c.

Butter—Dealers continue to complain of the large receipts of poor butter, and many will not take any more. Dairyries are in the proportion of one box of good to three and four of poor. The blame seems to lie at the doors of country storekeepers who will take any amount of poor butter from farmers for the sake of getting their custom and will pay as much for low grade as for choice, for fear of offending the farmer who offers the poor stuff by paying him less than his neighbor.

Poultry—Receipts light. Turkeys, 18c.; geese, 8 to 9c.; chickens, 60 to 75c.; ducks, 90c. to $1.

Dressed hogs—Are tending firmer in sympathy with Chicago. Saturday evening a car averaging 175 lbs. sold at $5.50. That is about as high as dealers care to go.

STREET MARKETS.

Wheat—300 bushels sold at 88c. for red and white, 84 to 85c. for spring and 70 to 71½ for goose.

Barley—Sales, 1000 bushels at 36 to 45c.

Peas—Unchanged, 300 bushels selling at 55 to 57c.

Oats—About 500 bushels sold at 29 to 30c.

Hay—Receipts moderate and with small demand. Prices were easy at $10 to $12.

Straw—Firmer on a good enquiry. Half a dozen loads sold at $7 to $8.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports:—Wheat, firm; demand improving; holders offer sparingly. Corn steady; demand improving. Spring wheat 7s 3½d; red winter 6s 11d; No. 1 Cal. 7s 2½d. Corn 3s 10½. Peas 5s 6d. Pork 54s 6d. Lard 51s 9d. Bacon, long clear heavy, 29s 6d; light 29s, short clear 28s 6d. Tallow 34s 6d. Cheese, white and colored, 51s 6d.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat nil, corn quiet. Cargoes on passage—Wheat steadier, corn slow. Mark Lane—Wheat rather firmer, American corn quiet and Danube steady, flour slow and probably cheaper. London—Good shipping No. 1. Cal. wheat, prompt male, 34s 9d, was 34s 6d; do. nearly due, 33s 9d, was 33s 9d. French country markets quiet. Weather in England frosty. Liverpool—Spot wheat, more enquiry; corn, moderate demand; No. 1 Cal., 7s 2½d, ¼d dearer; Walla, 7s, unchanged.

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

Hotelman Pittman Begins Two Suits for Alleged Libel.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—On Saturday writs were issued at the instance of J. Pittman, proprietor of the St. Nicholas Hotel, against William Stroud and John White. The former is the well-known manager of the old Clipper Baseball Club and the latter is a cigar manufacturer in Mamaltsville. Mr. Pittman brings action against each for $2000 damages for slander. According to the declaration of the plaintiff the defendants circulated stories regarding his financial standing which materially affected his credit and injured his business.

Robert O. Fielding was to-day committed for trial on the charge of forgery.

Windsor Notes.

WINDSOR, Feb. 4.—The importation into Windsor and Essex County of butterine and oleomargarine, prohibited under a heavy fine by the Dominion law, is alleged to be very considerable at present.

C. Fowler of Wellington-avenue got the greater part of his right hand taken off in an accident that occurred while he was coupling cars in the M.C.R. yard here early this morning. His brother lost a hand in a similar work in the same yard two years ago.

A Blow at Polygamy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The Supreme Court to-day decided that the law of Idaho depriving polygamists of the right to vote is constitutional. The court finds that the teaching and practice of polygamy is an overt act in support and aid of a crime.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

The Manitoba millers will leave for Ottawa on Friday.

Manitoba is trying to organize a Provincial Baseball League.

Sir Joseph Hickson writes Superintendent Stuff that the Hamilton Junction Railway has no connection with the Grand Trunk.

Hamilton ice dealers are going to Barrie and Orillia for their supplies.

McCoil, the Parkhill hotel man who was charged with the death of the farmer, Charles Blanchard, has been exonerated by the coroner's jury.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter for croup and I must say I find it the best remedy for it. Minnie Field Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and sore throat; it never ATTEMPTED POISONING.

A PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND SENSATION.

The Wife of a Prominent Charlottetown Barrister Narrowly Escapes Death From Arsenic Administered in Her Medicine—A Mysterious Veiled Woman.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Feb. 3.—This city is greatly excited over a case of alleged poisoning, the victim of which moves in the first society. For some time past Mrs. J. M. Sutherland, wife of J. M. Sutherland of the firm of Davies & Sutherland, barristers, of which L. H. Davies, M.P., is the senior partner, has been under the care of Dr. Johnstone. Mrs. Sutherland grew steadily worse and Dr. Johnstone became suspicious that his medicine was being tampered with. It was analyzed and found to contain arsenic as well as the medicine prescribed. The patient was being slowly poisoned.

The doctor communicated with Mr. Sutherland, but what steps were taken to discover the would-be murderer has not yet transpired.

The interest in the case has been increased by the sudden disappearance from the city of a well-known woman who left Charlottetown closely veiled at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and crossed on the ice from Cape Traverse to the mainland. The police are now investigating the matter.

WINNIPEG'S SENSATION.

An Attack in the House on Premier Greenway's Private Character.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—The Legislature resumed this evening and the actual work of the session began with the discussion of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. The public galleries were crowded. Petitions were presented from a number of municipalities by the French members protesting against the proposed abolition of separate schools.

Attorney-General Martin gave notice that he would introduce the new Municipal Bill Wednesday.

Sensation was created by the bringing up of a certain scandal affecting Premier Greenway which has been the theme of whispered conversations in Winnipeg for some days. It was brought up by E. J. Wood, member for Cypress, on a question of privilege. Mr. Wood said that he considered it his painful duty to move a resolution affecting every member of the House.

He began moving a resolution but at once, and before Mr. Wood could utter more than two or three words Attorney-General Martin jumped to his feet and raised the point of order that the matter in question was not one which could be brought up as a question of privilege by Mr. Wood. Any member could rise to a question of privilege about matters reflecting on himself, but another member could not do it for him. Only the person affected could bring up such a motion in this way and others would have to follow another procedure and bring it up as a motion, of which notice would have to be given.

Speaker Winram sustained the objection, contending that this resolution had reference to a street rumor affecting the private life of the Premier and did not come within the province of the Legislature. Members of the Legislature, he said, were there to discuss the business of the country, not scandals.

Mr. Wood then said he would give notice that on Wednesday he would move the motion, which he began to read, but before he had spoken two words the point of order was raised and the Speaker ruled it out. Mr. Wood said he would bring the matter up again on Wednesday.

Mr. Thompson of Emerson moved the address in reply and Mr. Harrower of Shoal Lake seconded it, making unimportant speeches.

THE M'GREEVY TICKET WINS.

Annual Meeting of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—At the annual meeting of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company to-day the ticket headed by Hon. Thomas McGreevy was elected, receiving 9718 out of a total of 13,002 votes cast.

The annual report showed:

Gross receipts	$930,586
Gross expenses	865,130
Net profit	$65,810
Balance Jan. 1, 1889	10,605
Total balance	$96,115

A Young Heiress.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—A young French girl named Marie Anne Jeanne Catellier, who lives at 7 St. Urbain-street, has come into a fortune, part of which was quite a surprise. Her grandmother, aunt and mother have lived together in the same house for many years. The grandmother died 18 months ago, the aunt on the 5th of last month, and the mother, who was a widow, two days later. After the death of the latter, and before the house was being cleaned up, there was an interesting find. Three leather bags were hauled out of their hiding, and inside of each was a tin box. Inside of each tin box was a miscellaneous collection of bank bills and gold and silver pieces, including several French gold coins. The whole amounted to $15,000, most of which it is believed has not seen the light of day for many years. Some of the money is dated sixty years back. It is believed that the dead ladies each owned one of the bags into which they dropped their savings. The estate on the whole amounts to about $60,000, and the heiress, who is 15 years of age to-morrow, has no nearer relative than an aunt. A tutor and sub-tutor have been appointed.

THE ASSEMBLY'S SHORT SITTING.

Five Minutes of Routine—A Score of Petitions Presented.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The Assembly met yesterday only to adjourn. At 3.10 Speaker Baxter took the chair; five minutes later he declared the House adjourned.

The London Trades and Labor Council presented a petition through Mr. Meredith asking that the Assembly pass a bill compelling every city, town or municipality in the province to publish annually its assessment rolls in some newspaper in the municipality or in pamphlet form in time to be submitted to the Court of Revision.

Then there was a petition presented by Mr. Harcourt relative to the Dunnville & Smithville Railway Company and asking that they be given power to construct a road from Dunnville to Smithville.

Mr. H. E. Clarke sent in a petition signed by Abl. E. A. Macdonald and others asking for the incorporation of the village of Chesley.

The Candid Truth.

Minnie Field Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and sore throat; it never

I don't care who s'appointed to the Balimore post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that m Peook use Imperial Cream Tartar Bak ower. I am done with powder contain

THE WASHINGTON FIRE HORROR.

Latest Details—A Struggle Against Death—Only Three Victims.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Tracy endeavored to escape the raging element by dropping herself from her bedroom window and in her effort to descend the distance to the ground she grasped the narrow stone window sill and lowered herself as far as she was able. Those who saw her in her perilous position shouted to her to hold on, but either she did not hear or her strength failed her, for after hanging a moment between life and death she fell 40 feet into an area way before anything could be done towards rescuing her or relieving her fall. She was immediately taken to the home of a neighbor, Dr. Rheim, and placed upon a lounge in the sitting-room. She was perfectly conscious and did not seem to suffer pain. Occasionally she complained of an oppression near her heart and found a difficulty in breathing, she talked awhile, coughed slightly and then became silent. The physicians looked at each other significantly. Mrs. Tracy was dead. The immediate cause of her death was supposed to be injuries to her heart, sustained by her fall from the window, which flooded her lungs with blood. It is said that had she delayed her attempt a couple of minutes ladders and mattresses and other means of safe escape would have been at hand. Her body was soon removed to the residence of Attorney-General Miller.

Almost at the same time two bodies were taken from the burning building—one was found by Chief Parts, the other, Miss Clarke, and the other was that of the French maid, Josephine. That of the former was found by Chief Parts lying on the floor in the second floor hall at the back of the house. The body was not greatly disfigured by the fire. She had evidently died from suffocation. The chief lifted the lifeless body in his arms and though the stairway was ablaze brought it safely out into the street. It is said Miss Tracy could have saved herself if her strength had held out a few minutes longer. She fell in the hallway of the second story a few yards from the bathroom, which, had she reached it and closed the door, would have insured her against the fire and smoke until assistance could have reached her.

Of the French maid little is known save that her dead body was found in her room on the top floor of the house, burned beyond recognition. Both the bodies of Miss Tracy and her maid were taken to an undertaker's establishment in the vicinity.

The remains of Mrs. Tracy and Miss Tracy lie to-night in caskets in the centre of the East Room of the White House, beneath the crystal chandeliers whose light less than a week ago shone upon them as they gaily greeted their numerous friends at the last presidential reception. No final arrangements for the funeral have been made as yet.

Owing to the calamities which have befallen the households of Secretaries Blaine and Tracy a large number of invitations for receptions, dinners and dancing parties to have been given during the present week by prominent society people have been recalled. Among them were those of Sir Julian and Lady Pauncefote for Wednesday evening. Next President and Mrs. Harrison have recalled the invitations to the state dinner in honor of the Supreme Court set for Thursday next.

CAMP 20 WANTS ITS BOOKS.

State's Attorney Longenecker Angry and Refuses the Request.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—State's Attorney Longenecker was busy with the telephone all day, talking about the "gall" of the representatives of Camp No. 20 in demanding the books of the camp now in the possession of the State. The latest request for the books was made by the attorney for the camp.

"I told John O'Connor, treasurer of the camp, some time ago," Judge Longenecker said, "that he would have to get an order of court, and I will not give up the books without it."

"Then give me the books which you did not introduce in evidence," said the attorney. "I represent a corporation which wants to renew its organization, and these books are necessary."

"No, I will not give them up," was the reply. "Camp No. 20 is a treasonable organization. Its objects are opposed to the laws of the country and I don't propose to help them in any way. You can't have the books."

The Eighth Deadly Sin.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Feb. 3.—Last Monday evening the family of Thomas Cavanagh gave a party at their home in this city. Father Glenn, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, visited the house and taking the names of the persons present warned them that a law of the church forbade dancing after dark. Some of the guests left the house, but the majority remained. Yesterday at both masses the names of the dancers were read and a statement was made on behalf of Mrs. Cavanagh, accusing him and blaming the wife and daughter, who, it is charged, insisted on continuing the party contrary to the wishes of the husband.

A Bold Thief Captured.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Feb. 4.—The police here have succeeded in running down a bold thief who has been operating in this vicinity for over six years past. His name is Edward Perkins. When the room which he occupied were searched to-day there was $3200 worth of goods found. He had a small printing press and type and was engaged in counterfeiting Groton Ferry tickets on an extensive scale. He has confessed his guilt.

Voted for Revision.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The New York Presbytery to-day by a vote of 93 to 43 voted to adopt a report favorable to the revision of the Confession of Faith. The Presbytery has been discussing the matter for some time.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—The Chicago Presbytery to-day voted in favor of revising the Confession of Faith.

A Chicago Editor in Jail.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Judge Grinnell has overruled the motion of Lyman J. Gage, former editor of The Times, for a new trial, passed sentence and gave him thirty days to file a brief to carry the case to the Supreme Court. Wait is now in jail.

A Bad Outlook for the Ice Crop.

ROMPORT, N.Y., Feb. 3.—The outlook for harvesting an ice crop along the Hudson is very discouraging. The weather's extremely mild and what little ice has formed in the upper Hudson from this point to Albany is rapidly disappearing.

A Lucky Guesser.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Mr. Stevens, general superintendent in the hat and fur house of Bill & Caldwell of this city, won The World's prize of a trip to Europe for the nearest guess to Nellie Bly's time in her trip around the globe.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 4 1880

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by carrier carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents ... the year, payable ...

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning and sent, postpaid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in the DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cents per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Money Orders and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The writ for Haldimand is issued. Nominations on the 13th inst., polling a week later.

La grippe has reached the camps of the Indians in the north west. It is said that the red men are simply terrorized by the ravages of the epidemic.

Mr. J. A. Gemmill, a prominent authority on divorce law, in a lecture Friday before the Ottawa Legal Society stated that the practice by Canadians of obtaining divorce in the United States was much more extensive than was generally supposed. In the state of Illinois alone 199 persons resident in Canada obtained divorces in the period from 1867 to 1880, and he apprehended that the rate was quite as great in other states adjoining Canada.

To Work on the Double Track

On Wednesday night male prisoners were released from the Perth gaol, on the authority of the Minister of Justice. These men were confined for vagrancy, but received word that they could get work on the double track construction of the Grand Trunk Railway, between Gananoque and Belleville, they made application to the proper authority, and thereupon received their liberty. Previous to their departure the gaol was chuck full, no less than thirty-five prisoners being in durance vile, a good share of whom were down with the grippe.

The Old Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling ill;
A headache off; a cold chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
Now life is more the weary load,
The struggle's over; the man is dead.

Such is the fatal progress of consumption. How often is repeated the old, old story. Yet not half so often as it was before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. 50 cents.

Literary.

Harper's Weekly will celebrate the Judiciary Centennial by publishing on February 6th, portraits of the present judges of the Supreme Court and of all the predecessors of Chief Justice Fuller. Elihu Root will contribute the accompanying article. Four of the portraits of the Chief-Justices have been engraved from the paintings in the Capitol which have been loaned to the New York Bar Association for exhibition at the centennial.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh.

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (40 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD & Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winlows Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces nature quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Prof's goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Review on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Mixture is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indiscretion. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, (QUE) Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

Swimming Niagara.

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES

THE THUNDERER EXLPAINS WHY IT SETTLED.

Comments of the London Press—A Bloodthirsty Portuguese Governor's Proposition—The Queen's Speech—Stanley to Spend Another Month in Cairo.

LONDON, Feb. 4—The Times says upon the Parnell libel case, which it settled by paying Mr. Parnell £25,000 and all costs including lawyers' fees:

"After our withdrawal of the letters it was clear we had no legal defense, therefore no alternative was open to us but to come to terms or abide the verdict of the jury. As we had at the outset challenged such action we cannot complain at having been taken at our word. The Times claims that the result will not affect the larger questions at issue.

The Telegraph condemns the grave oversight of The Times in its course toward Parnell without first being certain it was able to prove its assertion.

The Morning Post says the result of the trial will not tend to shake public confidence in The Times in particular and journalism in general.

The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Lord Salisbury will return to town Wednesday and will hold a cabinet council at which the form of the Queen's speech will be determined upon. The Queen will summon the Privy Council Saturday and will then sign the speech.

Good for the Catnip Crop.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—An English firm, dealing in nitrates, guano and other fertilizers, has secured a consignment from Egypt of many thousand mummies of cats which were buried in ancient tombs as sacred animals. These mummies are said to be, when ground to powder, the best fertilizers in the world, even better than nitrate.

A $300,000 Fire in London.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—An extensive fire occurred in Gresham-street today. The buildings burned were chiefly those of the large establishment of James & Pike, mantle makers. Loss $300,000.

Drinking Again.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A special to The Daily News says the Governor of Oporto has advised that all Englishmen in Portugal be placed in vessels with dynamite time-fuses and sent to sea and take the chances of their lives in what may follow.

Serpa Pinto to Enter Politics.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Major Serpa Pinto has accepted the invitation of the Portuguese Republicans to join their ranks and become one of the leaders of the party. He will throw up his commission in the army so that he may be free to return home and enter upon a political career.

The Kaiser Talks.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Emperor William attended yesterday a performance of the cadets at the Military College at Lichterfelde. In an address he said: "Officers should be distinguished by the simplicity and moderation of their lives and their manners. Complaints are heard from various parts of the empire about the men being treated with undue severity. Officers should not be overbearing and harsh in dealing with their men. On the contrary they should exercise great patience and demand of no one more than he is able to perform. At a time when the monarchy is much and frequently assailed it is the duty of all officers to give it the support of the most exemplary conduct."

Stanley to Remain a Month in Cairo.

CAIRO, Feb. 3.—Henry M. Stanley and Dr. Parke, the chief medical officer of Stanley's recent expedition, will remain at Cairo until March. Dr. Parke will be attached to one of the Egyptian hospitals.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Young Liberals Favor Canadian Independence—Young Conservatives Contra.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The Young Liberals last evening debated and with fair dissenting votes adopted a resolution favoring Canadian independence. The Young Conservatives voted for the continuance of British connection.

The condition of Hon. John Macdonald at a late hour last night continued to be critical. Yesterday morning the patient was seized with a chill followed by great prostration.

Chief Ranger John G. Howard died at noon yesterday in Colborne Lodge, High Park, after an illness of a few days.

The City Council last night appointed Mr. W. J. Jennings, City Engineer at a salary of $5000 per annum.

Some time ago Reuben Barnes was sent to the Kingston Penitentiary for three years for perjury in a liquor case against him. George Gloster and Mrs. Mary Barnes gave evidence in the same case and yesterday both were arrested to answer charges of perjury. Detective McGrath found Gloster in the city and Detective Alf. Cuddy got Mrs. Barnes in Lindsay.

A motion was made yesterday to Mr. Justice Robertson at Osgoode Hall for the discharge of John A. Watson from the Toronto jail, where he was confined in August last on a case issued at the instance of Miss Kirby of Vaughan, who obtained judgment against him at the last Spring Assizes at Toronto for $5000 for damages for seduction and breach of promise. The order for discharge was granted.

Burnt to Death.

HALIFAX, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Bennett, wife of Stipendary Bennett of Spring Mill, was working near her kitchen stove when her dress caught fire. When her cries brought assistance she was wrapped in flames and was so horribly burned that she died a few hours afterwards. She was 62 years old and leaves a husband and two sons.

Not to Be Tempted Away.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 3.—Rev. W. J. Armitage, rector of St. Thomas' Church, who had been tendered a call to one of the wealthiest churches in Halifax, had announced from the pulpit last evening that he had decided not to sever his connection from his congregation here.

A Pugilistic Alderman.

HALIFAX, Feb. 3.—In the Police Court today Ald. A. W. O'Donnell was fined $10 for assaulting Ald. Dennis at a meeting of the City Prison Committee. The matter is being investigated by a special committee and O'Donnell will probably be expelled from the City Council.

La Grippe in Kleinburg.

KLEINBURG, Feb. 3.—William R. Capner, an old and respected citizen, died to-day of pneumonia induced by la grippe. The disease has a firm hold here. There are many serious cases.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. Kenedy & Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which affect this no animal, is phenomial sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

"If a woman is pretty,
To me 'tis no matter,
Be she blonde or brunette,
Or be she her look at her."

An unhealthy woman is rarely, if ever beautiful. The peculiar diseases to which so many of the sex are subject, are prolific causes of pale sallow faces, blotched with unsightly pimples, dull, listeless eyes and emaciated forms. Women so afflicted, can be permanently cured by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; and with the restoration of health comes that beauty which, combined with good qualities of head and heart, makes woman angelic of loveliness.

WARRANTED. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. It is a positive specific for all those painful disorders, irregularities and weaknesses with which so many women are afflicted.

Copyright, 1880, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS

Purely Vegetable!
Perfectly Harmless!

UNEQUALED AS A LIVER PILL.

Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. One tiny Sugar-coated Pellet a dose. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, whose appetites and peace are marred by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the rest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a sure remedy for relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but operates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthly bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this grandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, tumours and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask fos Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the cerns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Please inform our readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease By timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy free to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express P. O. address. Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C.
164. West Adelaide st, Toronto, Ont.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Manner will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair nutriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot fail to make a very Druggist sells it. It is money well spent. See Dorwends advertisement in another col.

Pleasant Running Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moist sre; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue sum ms form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents 14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.—

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak. Unintentional rough digestion may be insured, the vegetable activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier introduced into Canada.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada. Offices: Front St. opposite Ritchie's. Branch Office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, Q.C. P. J. S. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

Henry Bedick.

ATTORNEY, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Asney Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent.

W. A. P. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 loan at 6% on easy terms. Low charges. Office Pinney Block, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.) BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c.—Office Mc Ananey Building, corner of Front and Pinnes streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

Sherry & Macaulay.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to offices of G. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Bridge street, Belleville, Ont. G. G. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY. Private and Company funds to loan at low est rates of interest.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer, Office over Express Co's Office, Ponton's Block, Bridge street, Belleville. Private funds to loan. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada.

John A. Foster,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office—Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. Money to loan.

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c., Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. G. G. J. HENDERSON Q.C., F. W. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney. Clerk of the Peace (Office at Court House)

McDonald & Ormsby

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville. W. N. MCDONALD. W. B. ORMSBY.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario. JOHN BELL, Q. C. H. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

N. THRASHER, M.D.,

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank of Montreal.

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Donelas old Stand) Dentistry a specialty. References R. J. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brooker's Telephone connected.

Elizabeth Embury M.D., C.M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holland's jewellery store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S.E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. 60 College Avenue Toronto.

B. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S

(HOMOEOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington.

Charlie Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases Terms liberal. Auctions held at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

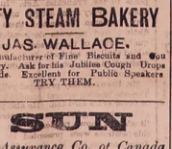
DENTISTS

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.

SURGEON Dentist, Front Street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Belford's Building, Front Street Belleville.



FOR BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

CITY STEAM BAKERY

JAS. WALLACE.

Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

SUN

Life Assurance Co. of Canada

Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.

Income for 1889 ..... $975,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.

James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE'S

FRONT St Belleville

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which follow the announcement of the great event of the Chicago Exposition, the genuine Memory Discovery and Training Method of Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized as the most remarkable intellectual system of the Nineteenth Century. His Prospectus sent post free, gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his Memory Discovery, showing that Prof. Loisette's Memory System is not only advertised, but actually taught. Address, Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE,

BLOOD PURIFIER

AND

Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R. TEMPLETON.

FOR SALE.

A few hundred large size cedar post A Canadian Wagon, would exchange for wood

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator.

For Old Iron wanted.

W. H. VANTASSEL, Agt.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP. CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The HomeSeeker Takes 160 free acres in the famous Red River Valley of Montana, reached by the Manitoba Railway.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and wooded Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Garden of America, takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Traveller takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Any one will receive maps, books and guides of the regions reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

SAFE WANTED

SECOND HAND. Apply at this office.

AN XTENISVE

ASSORTMENT OF

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Hoodus, Conn.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE CURE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, Impotence, Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lost Power, Sexual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Wasting Diseases, Premature Old Age, Impotency, Loss of Power in Either Sex, caused by Indiscretion, Excess, Tobacco or Opium, Wakefulness, Pimples on the Face, Aversion to Society, Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Sight, Premature Decay, Nervous Prostration, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Wakefulness, Blotches on the Face, Cold Feet, Cold Hands, Hot Flashes, Night Sweats, Nervous Irritability, Nervous Headache, Nervous Weakness, Sleeplessness, Sexual Exhaustion, Sexual Decay, Sexual Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, Sexual Debility, Nervous Debility, Nervous Prostration

No Pimples on baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema. Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the Cuticura Remedies. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that we had all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

For Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the Cuticura Remedies of a old sore caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—could as a dollar. He requests me to use his name, which is H H Carson, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Ten.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily cures every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price Cuticura, 50c; Soap, 35; Resolvent, $1.50. Prepared by the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strain, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Iugle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

ORIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R. CHOWN,

FOR THE

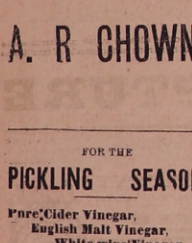
PICKLING SEASON

Pure Cider Vinegar,
English Malt Vinegar,
White wine Vinegar,
(Pure and Fresh)

Spices.
(Whole Ground)

Mixed Pickling Spices (whole), Celery Seed, Mustard Seed, Tumeric, Currie Powder, etc, etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 to 37 Bridge St.
Also Front Street, opp Etck



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents

or, Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills. At any house a box they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottles of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT.

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

M. C. ROBLIN,

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Fronts $6 op Ang Asserlim.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

The space of ground, embraced thus in the arms of the mountain, as it were, was laid out, as though by the cunning hand of man, in three terraces that rose one above the other. To the right and left of the topmost terrace were chasms in the cliff, and from each chasm fell a waterfall, from no great height, indeed, but of considerable volume. These two streams flowed away on either side of the inclosed space, one toward the north, and the other, the course of which we had been following, round the base of the mountain. At each terrace they made a cascade, so that the traveler approaching had a view of eight waterfalls at once. Along the edge of the stream to our left lay a well placed Kaffir kraals, built in orderly groups with verandas, after the Basuto fashion, and a very large part of the entire space of land was under cultivation. All of this I noted at once, as well as the extraordinary richness and depth of the soil, which for many ages past had been washed down from the mountain heights. Then I followed the line of an excellent wagon road, on which we now found ourselves, that wound up from terrace to terrace, my eye lit upon the crowning wonder of the scene. For in the center of the topmost platform or terrace, which may have inclosed eight or ten acres of ground, and almost surrounded by groves of orange trees, gleamed buildings of which I had never seen the like. There were three groups of them, one in the middle and one on either side, and a little to the rear; but, as I afterwards discovered, the plan of all was the same. In the center was an edifice constructed like an ordinary Zulu hut—that is to say, in the shape of a beehive, only it was five times the size of any hut I ever saw, and built of blocks of hewn white marble, fitted together with extraordinary of the principles and properties of arch building, and with so much accuracy and finish that it was often difficult to find the fronts of the massive blocks. From this center hut ran three covered passages, leading to other buildings of an exactly similar character, only smaller, and each whole block was inclosed by a marble wall about four feet in height.

Of course we were as yet too far off to see all these details, but the general outline I saw at once, and it astonished me considerably. Even old Indaba-zimbi, whom the baboon woman had been unable to move, deigned to show wonder.

"Oh!" he said, "this is a place of marvels. Who ever saw kraals built of white stone?"

Stella watched our faces with an expression of intense amusement, but said nothing.

"Did your father build those kraals?" I gasped at length.

"My father! no, of course not," she answered. "How would it have been possible for one white man to do so, or to have made this road? He found them as you see."

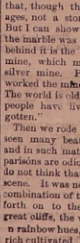
"Who built them, then?" I said again.

"I do not know. My father thinks that they are very ancient, for the people who live here now do not know how to lay one stone upon another, and these huts are so wonderfully constructed that, though they must have stood for ages, not a stone of them had fallen. But I can show you the quarry where the marble was cut; it is close by, and behind it is the entrance to an ancient mine, which my father thinks was a silver mine. Perhaps the people who worked the mine built the marble huts. The world is old, and no doubt plenty of people have lived in it and been forgotten."

Then we rode on in silence. I have seen many beautiful sights in Africa, and in such matters, as in others, comparisons are odious and worthless; but I do not think that I ever saw a lovelier scene. It was no one thing—it was the combination of the mighty peak looking forth on to the everlasting plains, the great cliffs, the waterfalls that sparkled in rainbow hues, the rivers gliding the rich cultivated lands, the gold specked green of the orange trees, the flashing domes of the marble huts, and a thousand other things. Then over all brooded the peace of evening, and the infinite glory of the sunset that filled heaven with changing hues of splendor, that wrapped the mountain and cliffs in cloaks of purple and of gold, and lay upon the quiet face of the water like the smile of a god.

Perhaps, also, the contrast and the memory of those three awful days and nights in the hopeless desert enhanced the charm, and perhaps the beauty of the girl who walked beside me completed it. For of this I am sure, that of all sweet and lovely things that I looked on then, she was the sweetest and the loveliest. Ah, it did not take me long to find my fate. How long will it be before I find her once again?

CHAPTER VIII.



AT LENGTH the last platform, or terrace, was reached, and we pulled up outside the wall surrounding the central group of marble huts—for so I must call them, for want of a better name. Our approach had been observed by a crowd of natives, whose race I have never been able to determine accurately; they belonged to the Basuto and peaceful section of the Bantu peoples rather than to the Zulu and warlike. Several of these ran up to take the horses, gazing on us with astonishment, not unmixed with awe. We dismounted—speaking for myself, not without difficulty—indeed, had it not been for Stella's support I should have fallen.

"Now you must come and see my father," she said. "I wonder what he will think of it, it is all so strange. Hendrika, take the child to my hut and give her milk, then put her into my bed; I will come presently."

Hendrika went off with a somewhat ugly grin to do her mistress' bidding, and Stella led the way through the narrow gateway in the marble wall, which may have indeed nearly half an "off" or three-quarters of an acre of ground in all. It was simply laid out as a garden, many European vegetables and flowers were growing in it, besides others with which I was not acquainted. Presently we came to another door, but, as it was then that I noticed the extraordinary beauty and finish of the marble masonry. In the hut and facing the gateway was a wooden door, rather rudely fashioned of Bucken pout, a beautiful reddish wood that has the appearance of having been sedulously pricked with a pin. Stella opened it, and we entered. The interior of the hut was the size of a large and lofty room, the walls being formed of plain polished marble. It was lighted somewhat dimly, but quite effectively, by some skylights in the roof, from which the rain was excluded by overhanging eaves. The marble floor was strewn with native mats and skins of animals. Bookcases filled with books were placed against the walls, there was a table in the center, chairs seated with rimpi or strips of hide stood about, and beyond the table was a couch on which a man was lying reclining.

"Is that you, Stella?" said a voice that even after so many years seemed familiar to me. "Where have you been, my dear? I began to think that you had lost yourself again."

"No, father, dear, I have not lost myself, but I have found somebody else."

At that moment I stepped forward, so that the light fell on me. The old gentleman on the couch rose with some difficulty and bowed with much courtesy. He was a fine-looking old man, with deep-set dark eyes, a pale face, that bore many traces of physical and mental suffering, and a long white beard.

"Be welcome, sir," he said. "It is long since we have seen a white face in these wilds, and yours, if I am not mistaken, is that of an Englishman. There has been no Englishman here for ten years, and he, I grieve to say, was an outcast flying from justice," and he bowed again and stroked his long beard.

I looked at him, and then of a sudden his name flashed back into my mind. I took his hand.

"How do you do, Mr. Carson?" I said.

He started back as though he had been stung.

"Who told you that name?" he cried. "It is a dead name. Stella, is it you? I forbade you to let I pass your lips."

"I did not speak it, father. I have never spoken it," she answered.

"Sir," I broke in, "if you will allow me, I will show you how I came to know your name. Do you remember many years ago coming into the study of a clergyman in Oxfordshire and telling him that you were going to leave England for ever?"

He bowed his head.

"And do you remember a little boy who sat upon the hearthrug writing with a pencil?"

"I do," he said.

"Sir, I was that boy, and my name is Allan Quatermain. Those children who lay sick are all dead, their mother is dead, and my father, your old friend, is dead also. Like you he emigrated, and last year he died in the Cape. But this is not all the story. After many adventures I, one Kaffir, and a little girl, lay senseless and dying in the bad lands, where we had wandered for days without water, and there we should have perished, but your daughter Miss"—

"Call her Stella," he broke in, hastily. "I cannot bear to hear that name. I have forsworn it."

"Miss Stella found us by chance and saved our lives."

"By chance, did you say, Allan Quatermain?" he answered. "There is little chance in this; such chances spring from smoke will than cures. Welcome, Allan, son of my old friend. Here we live as it were in a hermitage, with Nature for our only friend, but such as we have is yours, and for as long as you will take it. But you must be starving, talk no more. Stella, it is time for food. To-morrow we will talk."

To tell the truth I can recall very little more of the events of that evening. A kind of dizzy weariness overmastered me. I remember sitting at a table next to Stella, and eating heartily, and then I remember nothing more.

I awoke to find myself lying on a comfortable bed in a hut built and fashioned on the same model as the center one. While I was wondering what time it was, a native came bringing some clean clothes on his arm, and, luxury of luxuries, produced a bath hollowed from wood. I rose feeling very different man; my strength had come back again to me. I dressed and, following a covered passage, found myself in the center hut. Here the table was set for breakfast with all manner of good things, such as I had not seen for many a month, which I contemplated with healthy satisfaction. Presently I looked up, and there before me was a more delightful sight, for standing in one of the doorways which led to the sleeping huts was Stella, leading little Tota by the hand.

She was very simply dressed in a loose blue dress, with wide collar, fastened in at the waist by a little leather belt. In the bosom of her robe was a bunch of orange blooms, and her rippling hair was tied in a knot behind her shapely head. She greeted me with a smile, asking me how I had slept, and then held Tota up for me to kiss. Under her loving care the child had been quite transformed. She was neatly dressed in a garment of the same stuff that Stella wore, her fair hair was brushed; indeed, had it not been for the sun blisters on her face and hands, one would scarcely have believed that this was the same child that Indaba-zimbi and I had dragged for hour after hour through the burning, waterless desert.

"We must breakfast alone, Mr. Allan," she said; "my father is so upset by your arrival that he will not get up yet. Oh, you cannot tell how thankful I am that you have come. I have been so anxious about him of late. He grows weaker and weaker; it seems to me as though the strength were ebbing away from him. Now he scarcely leaves the kraal; I have to manage everything about the farm, and he does nothing, but read and

TO BE CONTINUED

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieves all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their great remark. le success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents. Five for $1. Sold everywhere, or send by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Poison's Nerve Ointment, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. Its great thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerveine is the best remedy in the world. Will kill of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; headache in one minute. Come back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottle only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25c. Sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Poison's nervepain cure. Nerveline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil; palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Fury Docks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Feel

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold en Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Dangers Of Delay

If we were to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow a neglected cold, how differently would our course be; could we realize our danger, how speedily we would seek a cure; but, with many it is only when the monster disease has fastened its fangs upon our lungs that we waken to our folly. What allows a neglected cold it is not diseases of the throat and lungs; bronchitis, asthma, consumption, and many other diseases follow in its wake. It worse than madness to neglect a cold, and it is folly not to have some good remedy available for the frequent complaint. One of the best medicines for diseases of throat and lungs is Dickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine is composed of several medicinal herbs, which exert most wonderful influence in curing consumption and other diseases of the lungs and chest. It produces a free and easy expectoration, helps injurious matter out of the system.

Death Dealing Drugs

Such as Calomel, Morphine, etc are not remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is used internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

SYMPTOMS—Moist sure; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and beard in its natural color, as a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known the world over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you wan say his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars whereon you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,210,800
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. R. CAMPBELL,
Agent.

Office—Roberts Block

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY OTHER ADULTERANT

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ILL.

THE CITY OF CHICAGO

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskilful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for the PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

THE BEST TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humours of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other kindred complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H Parker, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

HACYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS &c.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt.

Thos. Donnelly.

HACYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

BANKING OFFICE

—Of—

U. E. THOMPSON

Bridge St., Belleville,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed.

THE POPULAR

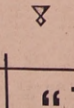
NEW STORY.

The writer of "The Judge" has earned for herself the reputation of being original in thought.

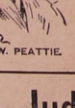
MRS. ELIA W. PEATTIE.

The stories in this paper are new and moral in tone. They may be read by all who can read.

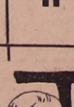
"The Judge."



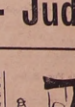
THOSE who are fond of stories will be pleased to learn that the new story to be published in these columns will be the best that has been published in a newspaper for many years. It is original in conception and differs from the usual style. The characters are clean cut and well brought out.



THE story is a pri story. It was selected out of hundreds. It not too sensational, however. Mrs. Elia W. Peattie is one of the best known and most popular of to-day. She has earned for herself the reputation of being one of the foremost in the ranks of lady authors. Her article appear in the best magazines.



ALL the incidents are vividly described and the author never keeps her reader waiting for interesting passages. The whole story is full of interest. There is a murder. There is the judge who tells quaint legal incidents. There is a live newspaper man. There is enough humor to enliven the more heavy part of the story. There is a good plot well worked out.



AS delighted with "The Judge," said critic who has read the story, "The Judge" will meet than satisfy the average story reader. It will please all. The man who thinks the world and what it learn that he has not yet fathomed all the mysteries of life and what in every day life. The woman who says "Oh, it is all about love" will find something interesting to her.

WHEN you have started "The Judge" you will continue to buy the paper from day to day till it is finished. No doubt about this. To read this story will be like reading in a new field of novel literature, there are no dull surprises, yet they are consistent.

WITH each chapter the reader becomes fascinated and waits anxiously for the next. Those who read "The Judge" will say it is powerfully written and the interest will maintained. The author has chosen a new field for her incidents. There is a freshness about the story that gives it zest and the reader never becomes weary of it.

Be sure and get the first instalment. There is no long preamble. The writer introduces her characters in rapid succession and one scene quickly follows another.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America

Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Lake Depot

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE BILIOUSNESS, DIZZINESS, DYSPEPSIA, DROPSY, INDIGESTION, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, JAUNDICE, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, ERYSIPELAS, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE.

And every disease arising from disordered STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEYS and BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Prop'rs, TORONTO.

WANTED

persons paid weekly. I want 125 free beginners. Outfit and Establishment guaranteed free. Address at once for terms. J. W. MARSHAL, Manager for Maple City, Ont., Gen. Agent. (Mention this paper)

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and liberal inducements. Previous experience not required. Write at once for terms, over 30 years established. Address J. KEAY & SON, Toronto.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, England. Capital ..... $15,000,000.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo, Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium notes, on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Assets ..... $77,400.85.
Losses paid in 1888 ..... $26,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England, Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St.

JAMES BOOTH, Agent.

—THE—

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

is equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking Apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

—CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Grate or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their contents, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not entitled to assuming that safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable record of success, having paid nearly $ ro millions in losses. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of $600,000 Cash, $600,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties insuring in future their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District Agent, Belleville

W HARVEY, agent, Ivanhoe
J. Martin agent Marlbing.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect, you by mail at Toronto price with 2 rupees. Every order made especially for each case and warranted. Large supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Promptness, honorable dealing and the well boot goods have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address C. HAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Mechanist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

CARPETS

We have the Cheapest Carpets in the City.

READ OUR PRICES

Hemp Carpets from.... 8cts per yd.
Union Carpets from.... 30cts "
Wool Carpets from.... 60cts "
Tapestry Carpets from.... 30cts "
Brussels Carpets from.... 75cts "

We have a line of Tapestry Carpets at 75cts that cannot be purchased elsewhere under 90cts to $1.00. They are A. 1 values.

We invite a visit to our Carpet Rooms NO CLIMBING OF STAIRS NECESSARY As they are reached by our Hydraulic Passenger Elevator. Our Carpet Rooms are very large and our assortment of Carpets, Rugs, Oilcloths and other House Furnishings is the largest between Toronto and Montreal.

Bargains given now during stock taking.

Bargains given in all Winter Goods.

Bargains in Remnants.

Special Bargains in Furs, Robes, Ladies' Jackets, Men's Coats, etc.

Remember we have removed to our new Store where we have plenty or room to show our very large stock.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Jan. 21, 1890.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 4 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN,
Tuner.

dly

Kingston Penitentiary.

The estimates for 1890-91 contemplate a total expenditure on the Kingston Penitentiary of $155,263.23 as compared with $152,688.68 last year or an increase of $2,574.55.

A Tramp's Ingratitude.

Mayor Drennan of Kingston, who had a $120 fur coat stolen from him recently has recovered the property at Prescott. It was stolen by a tramp whom the mayor had befriended.

Popular Music.

Tecumseh waltz by Miss Ida F. Richardson and dedicated to Dr. Horace A. Yeomans; was recently issued by the Anglo Canadian music publishers, Toronto and has proved a popular work. It is sprightly music and will awaken more than a local demand. Miss Richardson is the daughter of Mr. Fred. Richardson, this city.

A Satisfactory Pastorate.

By a unanimous vote of the official board of the Methodist church, Camilton, the conference was asked to return Rev. R. T. Courtice for the third year and Rev Mr. Hallett for his second year. To make this request effective, Mr. N. S. Reed advocated the earnest united action of all interested to secure them their salary in full this year which was heartily agreed to by all present.

Royal Arcanum Officers.

The following officers were installed at the meeting of the Royal Arcanum last night: F Landenberger, regent; F E Redick, V regent; R O Hulme, past regent; W J Drummond, orator; J F Simson, secretary; A G Northrup, collector; W N Ponton, treasurer; D H Sargent, guide; E Donald, warden; W E Foster, sentry.

Customs Returns.

Goods entered for consumption at the port of Belleville during the month of Jan 1889-90.

IMPORTS.	VALUE	DUTY
1889.....	$ 13818	$ 3892 21
1890.....	14149	3620 74
EXPORTS	VALUE
1889.....		$ 40250
1890.....		21147

A Loose Utterance.

During the course of his remarks on the license question last night at the city council Ald Gordon for Colborne ward attempted to heap an uncalled for insult on the license commissioners when he said that he was sorry to say that they were men not of high reputation. Probably you could not set them the example in good citizenship Ald. Gordon. Are you ashamed to be identified with, or can you point to a better record, then A G Whitter, Henry Bleecker, James Clark, or J. M. Grange? They are above reproach in the community and any attempt to slander them will only react on those who make the attempt.

Young Peoples' Entertainment.

The Young People's Association of St. Andrew's church gave another of their enjoyable entertainments in the Sunday school rooms last evening. There was a large attendance and the programme was voted, at the close, one of the best that has been offered by the association this season. The choir, Misses B. Lake, Keler, Phippen, Master Phippen and Messrs Devlin, Rutherford, Gillet and Edgar furnished the instrumental and vocal music. The event of the evening was the address from Rev. Dr. Smith, of Kingston, on "The Boys I Know," which was instructive and instructive. Refreshments were served at the close of the programme.

Lost.

You have lost your appetite if you have had the grippe but have found it if you have visited Goldsmiths Uptown Fish Store. This week we have frozen salmon, fresh halibut steak, fresh bluefish, lake, cod, haddock, flounders, frozen sea herring, shell lobster, oysters. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish, etc. Cuccos and several other kinds expected in a day or two. Near Wallace's candy store; opposite Goldsmith's old stand. 29 1w

One of the female inmates of the Kingston jail gave birth to a child on Friday night.

CIVIC LEGISLATION.

THE COUNCIL DEALS WITH QUESTIONS OF THE HOUR.

The Market Not to be Paved Just Yet—Why the Loan is Necessary—Aldermen Afraid of Their Qualification.

The city council held its second regular meeting last night. Mayor Tickell presiding. All the members were present except Ald. Bogart.

Health Inspector Hyde presented his annual report which was a highly satisfactory one.

The Ontario Rifle Association asked for a grant of $10.

Charles Coleman applied for the position of lamp lighter in Murney ward.

All of which were referred to their proper committees.

The reports of the different committees were read. They have already been published in the ONTARIO.

Ald. Petrie occupied the chair in committees of the whole on repairs.

Ald. Porter referred to the pavement of the market square and stated that the executive committee thought that it was too early to ask for an appropriation for this improvement. They could consider it when the estimates were brought down.

Ald. Hay said they could now get the stone dressed at an exceptionally low price. He thought it advisable to proceed with the work at once.

Ald. Wallbridge said that the stone could be purchased now at nearly one-half the usual rate. He thought the work should be completed before the time suggested by Ald. Porter.

Ald. Porter said that it was a question whether they would have the amount—$500—to expend in this improvement.

It was laid over until the next meeting.

In reference to the proposed by-law to appoint a committee on railways and industries, Ald. Porter said that it was apparent to every citizen that there was necessity for this move. The idea was to have it operate jointly with the board of trade. As relating to the railways he thought it was a matter that should receive the closest attention of the council. The back country was being tapped from the east and west and he believed it would be wise for the committee to move in the matter while parliament was now in session.

To old members of the council, Ald. Porter said that it would not be necessary to explain the borrowing of the $40,000 this year. The city's account was now already considerably overdrawn and it was necessary to secure funds to supply the immediate demands of the city. The loan could be secured at the Bank of Commerce at 5½ cents. He moved the adoption of the report.

The committee arose and reported.

Ald. Porter introduced a by-law to appoint sureties for the city treasurer in $10,000. Also a by-law to appoint a committee on railways and industries; and a by-law authorizing the city treasurer to borrow at the Bank of Commerce $40,000.

When the council went into committee of the whole on by-laws, Ald Skinner in the chair, the by-laws were adopted and numbered.

Ald. Skinner introduced his motion in reference to the qualifications of the aldermen. He did not think any of the members could reasonably object to the motion. He was not aware that there were any of the aldermen who could not qualify yet insinuations had been thrown out on the streets to that effect.

Ald. Wallbridge took objection to the motion as Ald. Skinner could not point to a single alderman who could not qualify.

Ald. Porter did not think he could qualify. He was prepared to question the oath of office taken by the aldermen when they assumed the duties. If the solicitor should report that there were aldermen who could not properly qualify for office the council had not the authority to expel them.

Ald. Yeomans said that he understood that the city solicitor at one time was authorized to look into the matter.

The solicitor explained that he had formerly examined the assessment roll which duty the city clerk now performed.

Ald. Luscombe said that his name had been handed around as one who could not qualify. He repudiated the rumors. He had also heard Ald. Munley's name mentioned in this connection.

Ald. Munley said that he had sufficient property to cover the qualifications of every man in the ward; and he wished further to state that he had earned it by honest labor. (Laughter).

Ald. Yeomans thought that the investigation asked by Ald. Skinner was quite in order. If all the aldermen could qualify the insinuation thrown out that they could not should be resented and this could only be done by a proper investigation.

Ald. Hanley thought that the matter should be promoted by an individual outside of the council. The aldermen had sworn to the qualifications when they took their oath of office.

Ald. Williams could see no objection to the motion.

Following are the yeas and nays.

Yeas—Gordon, Skinner, Vandusen, Williams and Yeomans.—5

Nays—Foster, Petrie, Turner, Hay, LeRoche, Graham, Manley, Smith, Parrott, Luscombe, Henry, Wallbridge, Porter, Starling and Hanley.—15

Ald. Hay gave notice "that at the next meeting of the council he would move to do away with barb-wire fences within the city limits."

Ald Skinner gave notice of a motion to reduce the number of wards and aldermen in the city.

The council adjourned.

The Bond Street Prophet Speaks.

Sunday night Rev. Dr. Wild treated the congregation of Bond street church to a dissertation on the questions of the day. He announced himself as utterly opposed to annexation, and turning his attention to the equal rights question, stated that if Manitoba abolishes seperate schools and the dual language system, millions of immigrants from the older world will flow into the Northwest. The preacher also referred to the controversy between Mr. Meredith and Archbishop Cleary, characterizing the latter as headstrong, erratic, and an unsafe writer.

Canada's Violinist.

Miss Nora Clench who will appear here on Monday next, is a great favorite with lovers of good music at Toronto. The Empire of Nov. 7th says:—

"Next came the star of the evening, our talented and modest Canadian violinist, Miss Nora Clench. Miss Clench originally came from St. Marys, Ont., and studied with Mr. J. W. Bauman, of Hamilton. About four years ago she went to Leipzig, where she has studied under the celebrated Brodsky. Miss Clench has improved wonderfully, having made enormous progress while in Europe. Her playing is remarkable for purity of intonation, which is sweet and clear; in fact in the highest positions her tone is exquisite. Her technique, especially in the left hand, and in the most rapid harmonics and double stoppings is wonderful. But it is in the artistic rendition of her numbers that Miss Clench shows the spirit of the true musician."

Belleville was visited by a hail storm to-day.

A NORTHERN OUTLET.

AN EFFORT TO TAP THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

The Council Take the Matter up—A new Standing Committee Appointed.

At the meeting of the city council last night the question of railway connection with the Canada Pacific Railway was again brought up and vigorously discussed until nearly midnight. Ald. Hanley set the ball rolling by moving the following resolution:

"That his worship the mayor and city solicitor be a committee to Ottawa to press upon the government the necessity of granting a subsidy for connection with the C. P. R."

The mover spoke urgently of the necessity of prompt action in this matter. It was a great inducement to encourage manufactures to locate in Belleville, and without the connection it was almost useless to hold out a bait to industries. The port would be a matter of little consideration when compared with the great advantage the line would be to Belleville.

Ald. Porter expressed himself in a similar strain. It was a matter of vital importance to Belleville to have the connection and that as soon as possible. He believed the local representatives at Ottawa were exerting every possible influence to get this connection with the C. P. R.

Ald. Wallbridge was in favor of supplying this connection at once. Other subsidies would be granted to lines all over the country and Belleville would probably be cut off if she did not put in her claim at the proper time. There was nothing like speaking out for once rights.

Ald. Yeomans thought it wise to give the matter further consideration. He agreed with the previous speakers that Belleville did not have the shipping facilities that she would have if she had connection with the C. P. R.

Ald. Skinner agreed with everything already said. He thought it was high time to be up and doing in this matter. He quoted from a newspaper where the Deseronto, Napanee & Tamworth railway were making every possible effort to tap the very best mines in Hastings.

Ald. Gordon understood that a deputation to Ottawa would be of great assistance to the local members in promoting this much desired end. It was of vital importance to every business man in Belleville.

Ald. Porter moved that the following be a committee on "industries and railways": Ald. LaRoche, (chairman), Wallbridge, Sterling, Henry, Graham, Luscombe and Hanley.

The motion of course was unanimously adopted and no doubt a definite move will be made in this direction by Belleville in the very near future. The new city council could not promote a more worthy scheme and one which would be received with great favor in the eyes of the people.

HEALTH INSPECTOR HYDE.

He Gives an Annual Account of his Stewardship.

Health Inspector Hyde presented his annual report to the city council last night. During the year he caused to be removed from the market the following goods which were unfit for consumption: Hogs, 15; 7 loads of beef; 7 baskets of fowls; 6 baskets of butter; 10 tubs butter; 4 baskets of bad eggs; 12 bags of potatoes; 9 bags of apples. A clause in the report reads: "I paid particular attention to all packages labelled a certain weight and saw that the buyers were not defrauded. I wish to call your attention to the general pollution of water in the city. Since the water works system has been established. In almost every house there is a cess pool. These places are badly ventilated. If there is an outlet it is only emptied into the public streets. There is sometimes a stable and a privy pit and if there happens to be a well in the vicinity the ground being porous the soakage must naturally lead in that direction and as a result the water is poisoned. Instead of privy pits the dry earth system should be adopted. All garbage and other refuse should be kept in heaps and disinfected with earth and carted away in the spring to low sites. Where there is a defective system of drainage diptheria proves fatal. To prevent the spread of disease the sanitary law should be carried out. The board were good enough to recommend me to your honorable body for an increase in salary. I trust you will give this matter your honorable consideration.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Sarah Bleecker Relict of Col. Henry Bleecker.

On Thursday last all that was mortal of Sarah Bleecker, relict of Colonel Henry Bleecker was conveyed to the grave.

The very large number of residents of Sidney and adjoining townships, that assembled to pay their last tribute of respect, attested the esteem and regard in which the venerable deceased lady was held.

Mrs. Bleecker, whose maiden name was Sarah Leavens, was born at Bloomfield, Prince Edward County on March first 1818 and moved on Lot 13 in the 3rd concession of Sidney when she was eighteen years of age.

In October 1839, she married Colonel Henry Bleecker, a grandson of one of the founders of Belleville, Capt. John Walden Meyers, and continued to reside upon lot thirteen alluded to until a short period prior to her death.

For thirty-five years she was a consistent member of the Methodist church and by her daily walk and conversation, portrayed the many graces which adorn christian character. Two children survive her John E. Bleecker and Henry G. Bleecker, both respectable residents of their native township. Henry was for a number of years reeve of Sidney and finished his municipal career by passing through the Warden's chair.

Time has indeed brought many changes since Mrs. Bleecker settled in Sidney and the old residents who bore the burden and heat of the day are fast being gathered home. The beautiful christian life led by this "mother of Israel" and her triumphant death should form powerful incentives to her many friends to walk in her foot-steps.—Com.

ICE BOATING ACCIDENT.

Prof. Green Probably Fatally Injured While Enjoying His Favorite Pastime.

Prof. Green met with a serious if not fatal accident while ice boating on the bay yesterday. Together with several friends the professor was enjoying a spin under a heavy head of wind when suddenly one of the skates got into a crack in the ice and whirled the boat sideways throwing the occupants on to the ice. The professor was picked up for dead but revived sufficiently to walk to his home on Dissoriel street. He then became unconscious when two doctors were summoned, but as yet the victim has not recovered consciousness.

Great discount sale at the syndicate store. Previous to moving from the old Shoe stand we will hold a big discount sale at both our stores, a discount of 10 per cent allowed off all bills except white and grey cottons. J. PATERSON
4t d 1 w

LIQUOR LICENSES

DEPUTATIONS KNOCKING AT THE WRONG DOOR.

The W. C. T. U. Ministerial Association and Royal Templars Wait Upon the Council.

Deputations from the W. C. T. U. the ministerial association and the royal templars of temperance waited on the city council last night, praying for a reduction of the number of liquor licenses in the city.

Ald. Vandusen moved that the prayer of all the petitions presented to the council dealing with this matter, be granted and that the number of licenses reduced to twenty.

Mrs. John Lewis was the first speaker on behalf of the W. C. T. U. She urgently pressed for the granting of the petition. In her estimation there were too many hotels to suit the convenience of the travelling public. She also had the assurance of the chairman of the license commissioners that if a reduction was made first class hotels would not be cut off. She said the W. C. T. U. were doing all in their power to educate public opinion, but the city council would not come to their assistance. She pleaded on behalf of their children that the reduction of the licenses should be made.

Rev. G. H. Copeland, representing the ministerial association, was the next speaker. He felt that it was the unanimous feeling of a large part of the community that the liquor licenses should be reduced.

Rev. J. G. Dingman, secretary of the association, read an address which he had prepared for the edification of the council. It prayed that the council would grant the prayer of their petition. He said that they did not approach them from a political stand point. There was no politics in the matter. They were promoted only by feelings of kindness towards humanity. Was God to be ignored for the sake of party? He designated the hotels as holes of vice and sin.

Dr. Nash was the speaker on behalf of the R. T. of Temperance. As a medical man he believed that drink was the cause of untold sickness. A man who was addicted to drink was not a healthy man and he would remove this temptation from his path. He felt that the council did not want to hear a long speech and consequently would resume his seat.

Ald. Yeomans said he had not given the matter any special attention until this year. He felt that the request of the petitioners was very reasonable when compared with other cities.

Ald. Porter said that it would be necessary to look at the history of the license question in order to arrive at a proper conclusion in the matter. Formerly the municipal councils had the authority to deal with the licenses of saloons and hotels, but the government had seen fit to assume the responsibility. The commissioners had the power to say who shall or shall not have a license. The council did not have the full power. He could not support the prayer of the petitioners. If five licenses were struck off the city would loose a revenue of $1,200. This would increase the taxation to one third of a mill. The council had gone as far as they could in the matter of seeing that the law was carried out.

Ald. Skinner was in favor of the reduction. He was perfectly willing to leave the matter in the hands of the commissioners.

Alds. Luscombe and Gordon supported the reduction.

Mrs. J W. Dunnet pressed for a reduction of the licenses.

After mature consideration Ald. Petrie had come to the conclusion that if the licenses were reduced it would not lessen the sale of liquor one iota.

Ald. Williams said he had given the subject considerable thought. He believed the only remedy for intemperance was total prohibition. He thought that the matter of licenses had wisely been assumed by the government. It was a source of great annoyance to the municipal councils. He thought the petitions should be presented to the license commissioners and that the council should make no recommendation.

Ald. Wallbridge here felt it his duty to cast a slur on the local government. He said the commissioners were a partizan body and would cut off the licenses of conservatives and would not cut off those aimed at by the ladies.

Ald. Hanley here indignantly arose to his feet and resented the insults which Ald. Wallbridge was attempting to hurl against the Reform party. He had understood that politics were to be left out of the discussion and he took strong objection to the remarks of the last speaker.

Ald. Williams also felt that Ald. Wallbridge's words were uncalled for. During the evening several allusions had been made in a similar strain and he arose to a point of order.

When Ald. Wallbridge continued he said that he had heard that Wm. Dodens license was to be cut off. If this was a fact he thought it would be highly improper.

Ald. Vandusen spoke at length on the reduction of licenses.

When the vote was taken the motion to reduce the number of licenses was lost by a large majority.

Ald. Porter moved the adoption of the report.

Ald. Vandusen moved in amendment that that portion of the report dealing with the licenses be not adopted but referred back.

When the vote was taken it stood:

YEAS.	NAYS.
Gordon,	Wallbridge,
Hanley,	Foster,
Luscombe,	Graham,
Parrott,	Hay,
Skinner,	Henry,
Smith,	LeRoche,
Vandusen,	Manley,
Yeomans—8.	Petrie,
	Porter,
	Starling,
	Turner,
	Williams—12.

Wife Beating and Incest.

Chief McKinnon has discharged his duties faithfully and well at Hamilton and won the approval of the commissioners and the press. In his annual report he touches upon two subjects which will apply to Belleville as well as to Hamilton. He says:

Other offences which have of late been more numerous than usual are those of wife-beating and incest. With regard to the first I would respectfully recommend the use of the lash as the most effective deterrent. To such brutalized natures as those of men who beat and otherwise maltreat their wives, the ordinary punishment of fine and imprisonment has but little deterring effect. With them the dread of physical pain is the best guarantee that the offence will not be repeated. With regard to the horrible crime of incest, of which we have had several cases of a peculiarly loathsome character. I think it is a pity that it is a crime under the law as well as a social crime. I think it would be well to have a special act of parliament passed dealing in a most rigorous manner with this abominable offence.

DIED.

WALKER.—The wife of J. M. Walker, Feb 3rd, aged 81 years, 5 months. Funeral Thursday, Feb 6th, at 10 o'clock a. m.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private people.

James Gordon was better to-day.

J. H. Fulford, of Brockville, is in the city.

C. H. Keefer, C. E., Toronto, is in the city.

James Mander, Kingston, is at the Queens'.

G. Hawthorn; Oshawa, is at the Anglo American.

J. S. Miller, Napanee, was in the city yesterday

John Moffitt, Blyth, is registered at the Dominion.

A. G. Northrup was able to resume business to-day.

J. W. Riley Oshawa, is registered at the Anglo American.

John Kellock, Kingston, was at the Kyle house yesterday.

Was Ald. Bogart afraid to face the music at the city council last night?

A. Knox, grocer, who has been confined to his room for several weeks on account of illness is improving.

Rev. Mr. Harvey, of Stirling, preached at St. Mark's church, Kingston, Sunday morning and at St. Georges in the evening.

Lieut. Stairs, R. E., a graduate of the R. M. C., who accompanied Stanley on his last expedition, has received the fourth class of the order of the Medjidieh from the Khedive of Egypt.

TOWN TALK.

The school board is supposed to meet to-night.

The influenza epidemic is fast disappearing from Brockville.

The new Presbyterian church, Kingston, will be opened on the 16th inst.

Chapman's Maid has been taken to New castle for the winter races by Dennis Lake.

The plan for Miss Nora Clench will open at Biggs' tomorrow. Miss Clench's entertainment will be the musical event of the season.

An excellent programme has been prepared for the first entertainment of the Orpheus Club to be given at the Oddfellow's Hall tomorrow evening.

The Orangemen of South Hastings met this afternoon in their hall on John street and appointed officers for the ensuing year.

PROBS—Easterly winds, partly cloudy weather with light snow in northern and rain in south-western Ontario, a little lower temperature.

The boys who tore the shutters from Caverly Bros. grocery windows last night will have an introduction to the magistrate if the act is repeated. Their names are known.

Messrs. R. Gordon and F. Ketheson addressed the Young People's Association at the Bridge Street church last evening. There was a large attendance.

Chas. Caverly has purchased the Dorland property, north Front street, at a private cash sale. It is said that the sum paid was less than $4,000. The property was recently offered at auction sale when the highest bid was $900. The trust company at Toronto who then held the mortgage bid it in.

An Interesting Coincidence.

A Montreal correspondent writes: "It was an interesting coincidence in the Hunter and Crossley revival in St. James church on Monday that Mr. Hunter so tenderly referred to the presence of the Rev. W. Henderson, of London conference now residing here, as the man who helped him to enter on a christian life, and took him out into the work as a local preacher; and towards the close of the service Mr. Henderson's little boy, Willie, at Mr. Hunter's request, went forward in tears publicly seek the Lord for the first time."

100 PAIRS —o— SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTING

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

A GREAT SALE, OF ALL WINTER GOODS.

Underclothing, Gloves and Mitts, Flannel Shirts, Muffler Coat scarf, Socks, Sashes, Wool Cuff, Cardigan Jackets at great reductions to clear

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents' Furnishers Opposite Post Office.

BANKRUPT SALE —OF— BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES. "GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 per cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES.

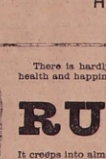
We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles, Coon Coats, Corsican, Lamb & other coats Black and Grey Robes, Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER, HATTER & FURRIER.

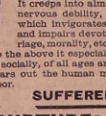


There is hardly any other disease which undermines the health and happiness of thousands of families as HERNIA or

RUPTURE

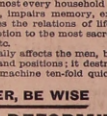
It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.



SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE AND DEFORMITY



can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Will visit professionally Belleville, Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th, 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED

TO THE EDITOR:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and Post Office Address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M.C., 186 West Adelaide St., TORONTO, ONTARIO.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HOW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 5, 1890 | NO30

100 PAIRS
SCOTCH AND ENGLISH
PANTING
ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00
NOW
MADE TO ORDER ONLY
$4.75
—AT—
A. N. REID & CO.
Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.
And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS, UNDERCLOTHING, TRUNKS and VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES
See for yourselves and Call at
S G RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W. W. CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods,
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.,
CAPITAL - - $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates.
Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Four per cent interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent. No fines. No commission.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

—THE—
ORPHEUS MUSICAL CLUB
6 BELLE VILLE,
Will give a Series of Chamber Concerts in the Oddfellow's Hall. The first Musicale will be given on the evening of
FEBRUARY 5th, 1890
Soloists for the Evening:
MISS MAUD BURDETTE.
MISS MATIE DIAMOND, Elocutionist.
MR. HORACE TOURJEE, Violinist.
MISS MABEL WILSON, Accompanist.
Assisted by the Creelia Orchestra under the direction of W. B. RIGGS.
Season Tickets for the entire course may be obtained at a reduced rate. On sale at Rigg's Music Store.

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 182.

OUR TEAS
Relieve Thirst and Dissipate Sorrow.
Can we say more in their favor
And who can say less
Then are prie s right? If so, and an ever increasing sale points that way; here in your midst—on the corner of Front and Motel Streets.
Tea Drinkers have an Elysium.
The late strong Teas, direct from the place of growth, and the choice of Pickings can always be had by purchasing at
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET — SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

ALBERT COLLEGE FOREIGN MISSION BAND
1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.
Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church, Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7:30 p m.
Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant, D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.
Saturday Evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg, our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Juzo Kono. Victoria University, Cobourg.
Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel
Students will fill the Programme.
No charge for admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection to defray expenses.
ALL WELCOME.
J. WHALE.
Chaplain Mission Band.
14567

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Seeds, Shrubs, Ornamental, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, ROCH.
13 8 w3w

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS
A full Line of
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

Bermuda Bottled.
"You must go to Bermuda. If you do not I will not be responsible for the consequences." "But, doctor, I can afford neither the time nor the money." "Well, if that is impossible, try
SCOTT'S EMULSION
OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL.
I sometimes call it Bermuda Bottled, and many cases of CONSUMPTION, Bronchitis, Cough or Severe Cold
I have CURED with it, and the advantage is that the most sensitive stomach can take it. Another thing which commends it is the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites which it contains. You will find it for sale at your Druggist's, in Salmon Wrapper. Be sure you get the genuine.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

WANTED.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. W. W. LEE, Hotel street.
Feb. 1w

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. ANDERSON, cor. Ann and Charles sts
Feb 4 dtf

THE Members of the Belleville, Moira and Eureka lodges are requested to meet at the Masonic Hall on Thursday the 6th inst at the hour of 1.30 p. m. to attend the funeral of our late brother William Foley.
CAPTAINS,
V. M. the Belleville, No. 123, WLATIMER
W. M. Moira, No. 11, McMINNICH,
W. M. Eureka, No. 283,
2td

OPERA -- HOUSE
MONDAY EV'G. FEB. 10
First appearance in Belleville of the
NORA CLENCH
CONCERT COMPANY
With the Flowing distinguished Artists:—
MISSNORA CLENCH, VIOLINIST.
MRS. CALDWELL, SOPRANO.
MISS COLVIN, PIANIST.
MR. FRED WARRINGTON, BARITONE.
MANAGER - - - J. W. BAUMANN
Reserved Seats — — 75cts.
Admission — — — 50 and 35cts
Plan of Reserved Seats at W. B. Rigg's Music Store
6td

THE ANNAL - MEETING
OF THE
REFORM - ASSOCIATION!
OF
EAST - HASTINGS!
AND A
MASS MEETING
For the nomination of Candidates for both the
HOUSE OF COMMONS,
AND
LOCAL LEGISLATURE
Will be held at the
TOWN HALL, CANIFTON,
ON FRIDAY, FEB. 14,
At 2 o'clock p. m.
GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.
N. MILYEA, Secretary. J. M. HURLEY, President.
Belville, Feb'y 1st, 1890.

To does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast an abundant natural growth the major portion artificial addition. Many are startled and agitated at the hair but in tithis will all disappear and capillary addition will more prevalent. As a proof of standard Prof. Durwend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. We be first introduced them in Canada and it did be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of using Prof. Durwend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Durwend makes periodical visits to the important towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bands, Ties, Wigs, Switches, Toupees, etc. He at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL

TWO-ROWED BARLEY TO BE FURNISHED FARMERS AT COST.

Mr. Burdett Proposes to Squelch the Bulliless Oats Swindle—The House Spends a Three-Hours' Sitting in Supply—A Few Items Passed.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—To help the farmers to carry out the recommendation contained in the experimental farm bulletin issued yesterday, the Government upon the recommendation of Hon. John Carling have decided to expend $25,000 in the purchase in England of the very best two-rowed barley to be used as seed by such as desire to substitute it for the six-rowed variety now grown. The great difficulty in making the change would be in securing proper seed at first, and the Government has thought it well to remove the possibility of failure by importing this large quantity of seed barley. It is not proposed to have a free distribution of it, but all farmers desiring to purchase will be supplied with the seed at the cost of importation.

The House spent three hours yesterday in committee of supply, but only three trifling items were passed. There were some lively passages at arms between the Opposition critics and Hon. Mr. Colby over cab hire and lunches. The House adjourned at 6 o'clock with the statement heard before that there would be a night sitting to-morrow.

Mr. Burdett of East Hastings will endeavor to have passed an act that will kill one of the cleverest swindles ever practised upon the Canadian farmer. Three years ago there came to the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward smooth-tongued gentlemen who proposed to certain selected farmers a capital and easy way to make money. They said: "You buy of us new ten bushels of seed oats at $10 a bushel and we will enter into a bond to buy of you next year 20 bushels at $10, and sell for you all the rest that you raise at $7.50 a bushel, taking 35 per cent. off for our commission." Several farmers bit eagerly, and next year, just before harvest time the agents turned up again as they had promised. Going confidentially to several of their first farmers' neighbors they again discoursed in this way: "You see how Smith will make a nice sum out of his transaction with me last year that I can make you a similar offer now." In this way the first farmers' oats were sold to his neighbors, and the agent would find himself with a large number of good farmers' notes on his hands, which he promptly "shaved." In some cases these scoundrels came back the third year, and might have gone on considerably longer had not the press exposed the swindle. It is calculated that local note shavers hold as the result of these negotiations at least $40,000 in notes that the farmers of these counties will have to pay. Mr. Burdett's bill, which is a copy of an Ohio measure, proposes to make it a criminal offence to sell or offer for sale, to buy or offer to buy, grain seed or other cereals at a fictitious price, or a price equal to or more than twice the market price, for which the person found guilty of the offence may be imprisoned from one to three years or fined from $100 to $500.

The Government have received a petition numerously signed by Quebec merchants asking that Mr. Grandbois, M.P. for Temiscouata, be appointed collector at Quebec.

A large deputation representing the boot and shoe manufacturers of the whole Dominion waited upon the Ministers of Customs and Finance to-day to press for an increase of duty from 25 to 35 per cent. They complained of injury to their business by United States competition. The ministers paid great attention to their complaint and closely questioned the deputation as to the extent of competition and probable effect of the increase asked for. The petition presented was signed by upwards of 40 firms of Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Victoria, B.C., and other places.

After a two weeks' holiday the Senate met at 8½ this evening. A new member, Hon. Edward Murphy, was introduced by Senators Smith and Ogilvie. Senator Macdonald of British Columbia introduced a bill respecting offences relating to the law of marriage. This is aimed at the threatened polygamy in the Mormon settlement in the Northwest, and provides for heavy fines and imprisonment of persons violating the provisions of the act and their disfranchisement. Senators Smith and Paquet made feeling references to the death of the late Senator Macdonald of Toronto.

The report of the commission who visited Scotland and Holland to seek improved methods of curing and packing fish is nearly ready for issue. It will be distributed in the spring. Mr. Mason to-day presented a petition from the County Council of Grey asking an increase in the per diem allowance to volunteers who drill in camp.

If a bill introduced by Hon. Charles Tupper to-day becomes law the sawdust nuisance will become a thing of the past except for the damage already done. The Governor-general-in-Council will no longer have power to except any streams from the operation of the act for the protection of navigable waters, and lumbermen who are now throwing sawdust in the rivers will have a year in which to make preparations for otherwise disposing of it.

The Railway Convention.

OSHAWA, Feb. 4.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Council held last evening the Railway Committee of the Council were empowered to appoint delegates to attend the convention of representatives from the surrounding towns called to discuss the question of better railway facilities.

Whitefish Fry for Lake Ontario.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The United States Fish Commissioner yesterday sent between four and five million whitefish fry for planting in Lake Ontario at Sackett's Harbor, Claremount and Black River bays.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

The stove works of Abram Cox at Lansdale, Pa., have been destroyed by fire. Loss $80,000.

The window glass manufacturers of the west have agreed to advance prices 10 per cent.

Pinkerton Detective Price and Deputy-Sheriff Gray have arrested at Eagle Bridge, N.Y., a hard character named Edward Scully on suspicion of the murder of Magnie Hourigan, who was murdered mysteriously at Greenwich about four months ago.

FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil in the nick of time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and sore throat; it never MURDERED, BUT BY WHOM?

THE JURY'S VERDICT IN THE SPEARS TRAGEDY.

The Pharmacy College Council—A Short Session of the Assembly—False Charge Against a Doctor—Death of Senator Macdonald of Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—A month has gone by and old Mrs. Jane Spears' murderer is still at large. Coroner Johnson and his jury after four or five sittings and examining many witnesses, closed their enquiry at the Police Court last night, the jury returning a verdict of wilful murder against a person or persons unknown.

The council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy held their first session yesterday afternoon in the college building, St. James-square. The president informed the council that he had written to the heads of the various pharmacy colleges in the United States asking that the Ontario College of Pharmacy diplomas be received in those states in lieu of examination. In reply to his communications he had received answers from 12 states. Of these, 19 stated that they would receive the Canadian diplomas, viz.: Missouri, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Georgia, Florida, District of Columbia, Illinois, Alabama, Connecticut and North Dakota. As these comprise a population of nearly 18,000,000, the number of states that the advantages offered to the college were considerable.

The Ontario Assembly sat for a few minutes yesterday and transacted routine business. The usual supplies pending the bringing down of the estimates were voted. Mr. Hardy introduced a bill governing the working of mines. It is in effect an application of the Factory Act to mines, provides for inspectors, the non-employment of women and children, etc. The Opposition sent up a batch of enquiries in the shape of notices of motion.

County Crown Attorney Badgerow stated to the Police Magistrate yesterday that he believed Carrie McIlwain had made a false charge against Dr. Henry Wallwin. He therefore asked that the case, criminal operation, be remanded for a week and the doctor be allowed out on his own bail. The application was granted.

The Equal Rights Association have named Ald. William Bell as one of their candidates for a Toronto seat in the Ontario Assembly.

There was an impressive ceremony at Loretto Abbey yesterday morning when three young ladies, Misses O'Donohoe, Leith and Finnigan, formally renounced the worldly life and entered on the religious by taking the veil. The Archbishop presided over the ceremonies, which were witnessed by a large number of the clergy and the sisterhood.

At the meeting of the Separate School Board last night there was much bandying of epithets. Trustee Hennessey called Trustee Walsh a liar and the latter replied "You are a contemptible puppy, sir, and a dirty swell-head." A subsequent challenge to fisticuffs outside was not accepted.

A despatch received from Ottawa last night says that the Minister of Justice has decided not to interfere with the case of Thomas Kane, sentenced to be hanged on Feb. 12 for the murder of his wife. Kane has not yet been informed of the result of his counsel's application. He will be hanged on the same gallows on which William Harvey expiated his crime at Guelph.

Death of Senator Macdonald.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Hon. John Macdonald, Senator, died at Oaklands at 9 o'clock last night. His family and pastor were with him as he passed from an unconscious sleep to death. The late Mr. Macdonald was born in Perthshire in December, 1824, came to Canada at an early age, completing his education at Halifax and Toronto. After a varied mercantile career in Gananoque, Toronto and Jamaica, he commenced business on his own account in 1849 in this city and has since built up the large wholesale house which bears his name. In politics he was an independent Liberal, in religion a consistent and earnest Methodist. He was chosen Senator in November, 1887.

Manitoba Coal.

MINGO, Man., Feb. 5.—The first carload of coal from the Turtle Mountain coal fields went through here this week to be distributed at different stations along the line. The coal has been tested at different places, both in stoves and in stationary engines, and burns well, giving out a great heat. One million tons of coal were shipped from the Pennsylvania coal mines to Manitoba last year. Rock took about $4,000,000 out of this province. Now there has been a bed of coal fully as good if not superior to the Pennsylvania article found only 13 miles southwest of Deloraine at the west end of the Turtle Mountains and 215 miles from Winnipeg. The find is destined to build up the country around Deloraine and give cheap fuel to the whole province, thus saving millions of dollars to Manitoba, besides giving employment to thousands of men. The prospective emancipation from the sway of the Pennsylvania coal barons is hailed with delight here.

"Psycho" Train's Scheme.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 5.—The mania for globe trotting has found lodgment in the brain of George Francis Train. George is full of the idea. Eighty days or even seventy days is slow for him. He is certain this mundane sphere can be circumnavigated in sixty, and without wings, too.

"I'll go," he says, "and show the world that I'm not dead yet. Highwaymen, pirates and railway accidents will be overcome and George Francis Train will get around the world in sixty days."

Train's proposed route is via the Canadian Pacific Railway and steamship line from Boston to Hong Kong in twenty-two days; either via Brindisi or Marseilles to Southampton, and thence across the Atlantic to New York. He declares that he will start next week and on his return in April will build a theatre in Boston. He goes, he says, to advance the interests of American shipping, commerce and trade.

Printers v. Machines.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 5.—The printers of this city are greatly excited because E. A. K. Hackett, proprietor of the Fort Wayne Sentinel and the Indianapolis Sentinel, has gone to New York to purchase type-setting machines for both newspapers. It is feared by members of the local Typographical Union that these machines will enable the newspapers to dispense with the services of most of their compositors.

Halifax and the Grand Trunk.

HALIFAX, Feb. 4.—The Chamber of Commerce to-day discussed at length the proposal of the Grand Trunk Railway to connect with Halifax. The Chamber unanimously adopted a resolution that it ask the Dominion Government to assist the project in every way.

WHEN working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

RIOUX' CLAIM.

To the Seigniory of Trois Pistoles—Quebec's New Auditor.

QUEBEC, Feb. 4.—A Frenchman named Rioux, residing in the department of the Loire, is claiming the Seigniory of Trois Pistoles, worth several hundred thousand dollars, and has employed lawyers here to press his claim, which is a family one.

Mr. Hector Verret, secretary of the Quebec Harbor Committee, has been offered and accepted the vacant position of provincial auditor. The assistant auditor will not be promoted, but his salary, it is said, will be raised.

Premier Mercier has received one more honor and privilege from Rome in the permission to have mass celebrated in his own residence.

Cardinal Taschereau, who was reported seriously ill with la grippe, has now recovered and was able to see a few intimate relations yesterday.

The Beauharnois Air Line Railway Bill passed the committee to-day at the Legislature.

SYMPATHY FROM THE QUEEN.

Secretary Tracy and Mrs. and Miss Wilmerding out of Danger.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—This evening Sir Julian Pauncefote received this message:

British Minister, Washington:

Queen deeply deplores calamity to Mr. Tracy's family. Enquires after him and sympathizes.

PONSONBY.

To this Secretary Tracy replied as follows:

Mr. Tracy begs the British Minister to convey to Her Majesty his sincere thanks for her gracious message of sympathy, and in reply to her enquiry to say that his surviving daughter and grandchild are out of danger.

Mr. Tracy is entirely out of danger.

A Fraternal Fraud.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 5.—George Taft was arrested here yesterday charged with defrauding Rochester Lodge 660 F. & A.M. and Kislingbury Lodge K. of P. of money. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Monroe County Penitentiary. He has been defrauding Masonic, Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias and Ancient Order of United Workmen lodges all over the country. He gave the names here also of George Marr and F. P. Jones. He stole the credentials of the last named from Midlothian lodge, K. of P. at Temple, Tex., and with this secured admission to the secrets of other lodges. He is wanted in Illinois, Virginia, Ohio and other States.

The U.S. Judiciary Centennial.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The dinner in celebration of the Supreme Court's Centennial was held to-night at the Lenox Lyceum. The banquet hall was a mass of flowers and vines and presented a beautiful picture. A dozen large tables were arranged in various positions about the hall and each was decorated with handsome Japanese vases filled with fragrant flowers. Covers were laid for 820 guests and nearly every seat was occupied. Ex-Minister Phelps spoke the speech of the evening. Amongst those present were Chief Justice Fuller, ex-President Cleveland, Senator Evarts and Chauncey M. Depew.

A Messenger From the Skies.

GRANDBURY, Tex., Feb. 5.—A meteor fell on the larger of the two Comanche peaks the other night. It came on an incline of about 45 degrees and struck the edge of the peak, knocking boulders into the valley. It came from the south. It was very bright, fairly illuminating the peak as it fell. The celestial visitor bounded down the mountain side, barely missing Major Torres' house at the foot of the peak. The meteor weighs several tons. Fragments brought in by those who went to see it contain nuggets of what is believed to be gold.

Losses Caused by Flames.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 4.—The Government reduction works were completely destroyed by fire this morning. Loss $25,000. The works were established in the Centre Cariboo mining district by the Local Government last summer for the purpose of testing British Columbia ores, were completed in November and their operations were very successful. It is thought that the Government will rebuild at once.

An Ice Dam Threatens Atchison.

ATCHISON, KAN., Feb. 4.—Heavy ice has formed above the city in a narrow place in the river and backed up such a volume of water backed up so that it was forced through the government works constructed on the Missouri as a protection to the city. The current is rapidly cutting this away. Unless the ice dam breaks the government works, costing $50,000, the railway bridge and the town of East Atchison will be at the mercy of the river.

A Scarcity of Money.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—Bankers generally agree in stating that there is a great scarcity of money in the country, that payments are very bad and that notes are in large volume of late. An official of the Bank of Montreal while admitting this carcity of money and very bad payments said that the outlook for a fairer to-day was a little better than had been expected.

He Had No Small Vices.

GOSHEN, N.Y., Feb. 4.—Teller George A. Denniston, jr., of the National Bank of Orange County, who committed suicide here yesterday, proves to be a defaulter in about $20,000. The bank officers never suspected him. He never played cards nor drank, was always on duty and never took a vacation. It is supposed the money was lost in speculation.

Sale of the Fort Scott Railway.

TOPEKA, KAN., Feb. 4.—The St. Louis, Fort Scott & Wichita Railway was sold at auction to-day by order of the United States courts. The Union Trust Company of New York was the purchaser at $6,000,742. This amount covers the first mortgage. By this sale a second mortgage held by Dillon & Sage of $1,274,328 is wiped out.

The Linseed Oil Trust.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—It is stated that the National Linseed Oil Trust will be transformed into a corporation with a capital of $18,000,000. The reasons are similar to those actuating the whisky and other trusts which have taken like action.

Dividends Discontinued.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—On account of the expending of resources in the strike troubles the dividends on Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred will be discontinued. The officials of the company state they have no floating debt and do not propose to create one.

Jury Briber Graham's Flight.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—John Graham, under indictment for attempt to bribe jurors in the Cronin case and who was to be put on trial to-day, has fled from the country and is now on his way to Mexico. He has been out on bonds of $35,000.

I don't care who appointed to the Baltimore post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that my Pook was Imperial Cream Tartar Baking powder. I am done with powder contain

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 4 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays, and delivered by carrier to all parts of the City for six dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—Edgar Publisher, every THE WEEKLY ONTARIO is published every Thursday morning, and sent, postpaid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in THE DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY ONTARIO, 10 cents per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—20 cents each insertion. When notice of marriage attached the charge for double notice is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Registered Drafts, Money Orders, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of THOS. C. CANADAY,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The tory papers are making great adoo because Dr. Platt of Prince Edward county was not in the house when the vote was taken in Mr. Mulock's motion for a loyal address to the Queen. If Dr. Platt's business called him from the capitol he certainly cannot be blamed. He is too well known as a loyal citizen to be injured by such cheap nonsense as the tories are harping. If he had seen fit to rotten egg the governor general or burn the parliament buildings there would be some sense in what is said.

Health Inspector Hyde has done more to benefit the pockets of those who buy on the market and see that only wholesome goods are offered than any other officer in the employ of the city. He is a public benefactor in that respect and yet he is the worst paid official in the employ of the council. He has petitioned for increase pay and a salary that would at least supply him with the necessities of life would not be objected to. He has benefitted every citizen by seeing that just weights are given on the market.

The council could not have touched a subject of more vital importance to the city than railway connection between the city and the C. P. R. line to the north. The growing trade of the place demands the outlet; the increasing manufacturing industries demand it; the very future growth of the city demands it. Belleville if she would grow and become a commercial centre must have the highways of commerce to the surrounding country. If opportunities for securing those roads are neglected and neighboring and rival towns tap the country and secure the trade we must, as a city, be content with our present growth. The council has started on the right line and intelligent perseverance will accomplish the result aimed at.

In another column appears an article from the Salvation War Cry, which is of peculiar interest. It is simply a warning to soldiers to have nothing to do with kind hearted people who are moved to sympathy by the hardships that many of the officers are forced, from circumstances, to endure. These benevolent people are represented to be the agents of the devil and are to be avoided. The author of the article is evidently possessed with a fear that a taste of the comforts of life will weaken the resolve to submit to privations and perhaps thin the ranks of the army. Genuine kindness will, in most cases, prevail against insane bigotry and unless the soldiers are appealed to in some other manner to endure for the Lord's sake they are apt to see through the bugabear and lose faith in the sincerity of their advisers.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh." from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers t the fac; that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dulloppressive headache accompanying the di ease. No family shouldbe without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and cartarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD & Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

What Breakfast a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing at a retail drug store. Nothing makes butter or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslows Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces nature quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothe the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhoea, whether arising from teathing or any other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S large SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who has bare bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will sesscnbe at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Friday Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show Devlin fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Prof's goods are The cheapest in the country over as the very finest from and any gentleman who has the misfortune "To be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's savreguards.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Family on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an unrivalled preparation for the permanent. This cure of all diseases resulting from evil habits or excess. Sold at $1.00 per package or six packages for $5 receipt of price to any address free shell if charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

Swimming Niagara

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly cure and invigorate the entire system at the same time.

Routed.

If the various animals hunted by man could ever stop to laugh during these encounters, there would no doubt be ample cause for such pastime, for, seldom as the fact appears in books of "sport," man does not always occupy the dignified corner of a position. Parker Gillmore was one day searching for a stubbock in the African forest, aided by Chuming, his companion, and three natives. They had seen traces of a wart hog, but resolved to postpone his slaughter until after that of the steinbock had been accomplished.

The old native led the way, and we followed, expecting momentarily an indication that our services were required in front, when suddenly that aged warrior rushing at least four feet into the air. I saw something big and grizzly between his legs, and understood that, instead of being the assailants, we were attacked, and by a vlacke vark. Shoot I could not, and so sprang on one side into a perfect tangle of waite-bit thorns, where I was effectually entangled.

Convinced that the danger was over, I turned slowly round to see how it had fared with Chuming. I was scarcely in a laughing humor, but I could not suppress a giggle on seeing my friend hanging by his hands to a bough, his knees close to his chin, and his face wearing an expression of extreme disgust at being forced into such violent exercise and such an undignified position.

Beyond him was one of the darkies perched on the top of a big tree, and further on the other one fleeing in search of a similar refuge. Tableau: Five good men and true routed by a warthog.

"Why didn't you shoot him?" exclaimed Chuming as he straightened himself and dropped to the ground.

"Because I thought I might hit the old man. Why didn't you?"

"Because I thought I might hit you."

So we laughed over the absurdity of the whole affair, and then, like considerate white men, jeered at the natives for want of pluck.—Youth's Companion.

Some Emperors.

Whatever my own opinion of kings may be, I do not think much of Emperors, says London Truth. That adventurer, Louis Napoleon, became one by blood and perjury, and in order to strengthen, as he imagined, his dynasty, he dragged his country into an unsuccessful war. In Germany they have an Emperor a vain, flighty lad, who is endowed with a devouring wish to force on a European war in order to equal or surpass the martial renown of his grandfather. In Russia there is an Emperor skulking in the recesses of his palace, last one of his faithful subjects should shoot him, and under the delusion that he is God's vicergent on earth.

In Turkey there is an Emperor (for by this term world sultan be translated) who allows his soldiers and his civil servants to starve, while he makes a purse for himself, and who encourages in his dominion the worst of atrocities. Of all living Emperors, now that Dom Pedro has been retired from business, the Emperor of Austria is the best. He is a decent, well meaning man, whose chief merit is that he has shared power with his subjects, and quieted Hungary by giving it home rule. On the whole, therefore, I think that the most sensible course of those afflicted with an Emperor is civilly to conduct him to a ship and order the captain to land him wherever he likes, provided that it be outside of what he was pleased to call his empire.

A Fan for Monaco's Princess.

A very beautiful fan has been painted by Mlle. Abbema for the new princess of Monaco lately the Duchesse de Richelieu. The fan is to be presented by the Monagesque maids and matrons to their princess on the occasion of her entry into the delightful domains of her husband. On the left of the painting is the ancestral home of the Grimaldis, casting the shadow of its severely plain outlines on the cerulean sea and sky.

To the right rises Monte Carlo, with its background of mountains, while in the centre of the two landscapes appears the allegorical figure of the principality, leaning one hand on the armorial insignia of the Grimaldis, and with the other scattering flowers over the fruitful land. The landscape is in pastel and the figure in gouache. The reverse side of the fan is ornamented with anemones and branches of the mimosa, the whole being mounted in mother of pearl set off with precious stones. The work is worthy of the artist by whom it has been done.—London Telegraph.

APHORISMS.

What a new face courage puts on everything! A determined man, by his very attitude and tone of his voice, puts a stop to defeat and begins to conquer.—Emerson.

Then gently scan your brother man,
Still gentler sister woman;
For though they gang a kennie wrang,
To step aside is human.
—(Burns.

After all, the joy of success does not equal that which attends the patient worker.—Augusta Evans.

Music touches every key of memory and stirs all the hidden strings of sorrow and of joy. We love it for what it makes us forget, and for what it makes us remember.—Brittain.

Instruction ends in the school room, but education ends only in life. A child is given to the universe to educate.—(Robertson.

If thou art wise thou knowest thine own ignorance, and thou are ignorant if thou knowest not thyself.—(Luther.

There's beauty all around our paths,
If but our watchful eyes
Can trace it midst familiar things,
And through their lowly guise.
—(Mrs. Hemans.

Six things are requisite to create a happy home. Integrity must be the architect and tidiness the upholsterer. It must be warmed by affection, lighted up with cheerfulness and industry must be the ventilator, renewing the atmosphere and bringing in fresh salubrity day by day; while over all, as a protecting canopy and glory, nothing will suffice except the blessing of God.—(Hamilton.

No thoroughly occupied man was ever yet very miserable.—(Landor.

The Figure Nine.

I wonder if anyone besides myself has ever noticed the peculiarities of the number 9? That when an error has arisen from any transposition of figures the difference between such transposed numbers of figures is universally a multiple of the numeral 9! For instance suppose an error occurs in bringing out a trial balance or cash settlement of the amount in question, or that the sum short or over can be divided by 9 without any remainder, there is a strong probability that the mistake has been made by transposing figures; at any rate if such a mistake takes place by reason of transposition, the sum in question will divide by 9 without remainder. To illustrate this: If 97 has been put down 79, the error will be 18, or twice 9 exactly; if 322 be set down 223, the error will be 99, or 11x9, and so on between any transposed numbers. These errors are prevalent and 9 is a first-class detective to ferret them out.

An Unwanted Burial.

"Colly is buried in thought."
"For goodness' sake don't resurrect him."
—Kenowise's News.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

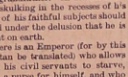
THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr R. J. KENDALL CO., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal. It is phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

A little child, tired of play, had pillowed his head on a railroad track and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passing stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death. Perhaps you are asleep on the track, too. You are, if you are neglecting the warning cough, the hectic flush, the loss of appetite, growing weakness and lassitude, which have unconsciously crept upon you. Wake up, or the train will be upon you! Consumption, which thus insidiously fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach, must be taken in time, if it is to be overcome. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case of Consumption, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Copyright, 1885, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.



$500 REWARD

offered for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head, by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Only 50 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be effected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, restless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and a disagreeable sensation in the mouth, acid and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into it, separates it from foul matter by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, never does so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It does not never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the fluid, and cause urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthly bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this secular medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask fon Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the sphemeral and the short lived, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop the raid of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

Ambers Lung and Liver Balsam.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Please inform our readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease By timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy free to any of your readers who send me their express P. O. address. Respectfully,

DR. T. A. SLOCUM,
164 West Adelaide st. Toronto, Ont

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To rekindle its life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great Female Magic will do this work, it works in accordance with nature supplies fresh nourishment, to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot find it to miss it, very Druggist sells it. It is more well spent. See Dorenwends advertisement in another column.

Pleasant Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moist, or intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

14,000,000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this world could make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

Nervous Debility.

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak. Uninterrupted good digestion may be insured, the secretive activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier extant. Sold by druggists everywhere.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & etc Belleville Ontario Canada. Office—Front St. Opposite Station. Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, F. J. M. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, K. C. L.

H. Corby Bredick

BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public Conveyancer, Office—Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest 6 per cent

W. A. P. Ormond

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 loan at 6% on easy terms. Low charges. Office 3 rind. Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.) BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c. Office Mc Annany Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private funds to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to office of G. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Bridge street, Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, B. A. D. MACAULAY Private and company funds to loan at low est rates of interest.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer. Office over Express Co's Office, Bridge street, Belleville. Private funds to loan. Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Foster,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitor &c., Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. GEO. E. HENDERSON, Q.C. | F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney. Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co. Hen e

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public, Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co.' Office Campbell Buildings, opposite Post Office Belleville. W. N. MCDONALD. E. CREAM.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario. JOHN BELL, Q. C. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

R. TRACY, M.D.,

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Office—Bridge street, next door to the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. P. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rose, Brockville Telephone connection

Elizabeth Embury M.D., C.M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Residence over Hall and's jewelry store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S.E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College, Surgeon and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. 229 College Ave., Toronto.

S. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S (HOMOEOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St, Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charles Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all case Terms liberal. A orders left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

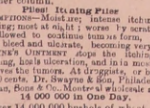
DENTISTS

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo Amer Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward.

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Of Ward's Hotel Bold st. Front Street Belleville.



BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A SPECIFIC CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE and all DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

CITY STEAM BAKERY

JAS. WALLACE.

Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cream Cake best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

SUN

Life Assurance Co. of Canada

Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.

Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.

James Little,
Genera Agent, Belle

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE

FRONT St Belleville

Prof. Loisette's

MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which mislead the unwary, and practical results of the system, the original claims and unsurpassed superiority of Prof. Loisette's Memory Discovery and Training Method are recognized by the best of the leading lights of science throughout the world. Prof. Loisette's Prospectus and testimonials, containing opinions of people in all parts of the globe on his method, sent free on application. Office for Canada, Prof. Loisette's Art of Memory Institute, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R. TEMPLETON.

FOR SALE.

A few hundred large size cedar posts. A Canadian Wagon, would exchange for wood

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel sod frame swing tooth Harrow and Cultivator

P.S—Old iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

DELOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM EVEN THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

ARE YOU ONE OF THE?

In 1890

The Home Seeker takes the fertile acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Alberta, and reachesby the Manitoba Railway.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lake and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the fortune opportunity of the fertile new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery in America, takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast

The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursion from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rocky the Nations at Park, the Pacific Ocean, Oregon and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, books and guide on application from reached by a St. Paul Minneapolis Manitoba Railway, by Oscar F. Whitney, G. & T. A. St Paul, Minn.

SAFE WANTED

SECOND HAND. Apply at this office.

AN XTENISVE ASSORTMENT OF FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

TO WEAK ME!

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn

FOR MEN ONLY

A POSITIVE CURE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, General and Nervous Debility, Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Men, Impotency, Nocturnal Emissions, Premature Decay, Wasting Diseases, Spermatorrhoea, Syphilis, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Blood Poisons, Pimples on Face, Blotches, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Blood Poisons, Pimples on Face, Blotches, Emissions, Loss of Power, Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nervous Prostration, Headache, Wakefulness, Lost Power, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Impotency, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dizziness, Wakefulness, Nervous Prostration

No Pimples on baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Head all gone. Felt covered with scurvy. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Most by when one year old my baby was had with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with crusts, which the doctors said was small fever and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and believe that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now out roly well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H Carter, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin Beautifier externally, speedily permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, scurfed, pimply, scrofulous, hereditary skin diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, w ith loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35; RES. LVENT, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strains Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster the first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Iagle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

OVBIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

HAPPY -- THOUGHT -- RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R CHOWN,

FOR THE

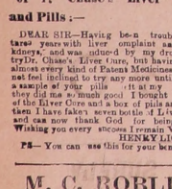
PICKLING SEASON

Pure Cider Vinegar,
English Malt Vinegar,
White wine Vinegar,
(Pure and Fresh

Spices.
(Whole! Ground)

Mized Pickling Spices (whole)
Celery Seed Mustard Seed, Tumeric
Carrie Powder, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 to 37 Bridge St.
Also Front Street, opp Exch



T. EDMANSON & CO, Agts

or r. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills :—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled years with liver complaint and wi kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I had a sample of your pills at my house, and they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours.

HENRY LIGHT.

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

M. C. ROBLIN.

—DEALER IN—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Fire Stoves Agent for American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS &c

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

Just then Hendrika entered, bearing a jug of coffee in one hand and of milk in the other, which she sat down upon the table, casting a look of little love at me as she did so.

"Be careful, Hendrika; you are spilling the coffee," said Stella. "I don't you wonder how we come to have coffee here, Mr. Allan? I will tell you—we grow it. That was my idea. Oh, I have lots of things to show you. You don't know what we have managed to do in the time that we have been here. You see, we have plenty of labor, for the people about look upon my father as their chief."

"Yes," I said, "but how do you get all of these luxuries of civilization?" and I pointed to the books, the crockery, and the knives and forks.

"Very simply. Most of the books my father brought with him when he first trekked into the wilds; there was nearly a wagon load of them. But every three years we have sent an expedition of these wagons right down to Port Natal. The wagons are loaded with ivory and other goods, and come back with all kinds of things that have been sent out from England for us. You see, although we live in this wild place, we are not altogether cut off. We can send runners to Natal and back in three months, and we generally do so once or twice in a year."

"Have you ever been with the wagons?" I asked.

"Since I was a child I have never been more than thirty miles from Babyan's Peak," she answered. "Do you know, Mr. Allan, that you are, with one exception, the first Englishman that I have known out of a book. I suppose that I must seem very wild and savage to you, but I have had one advantage—a good education. My father has taught me everything, and perhaps I know some things that you don't. I can read French and German for instance. I think that my father's first idea was to let me run wild altogether, but he gave it up."

"And don't you wish to go into the world?" I asked.

"Sometimes," she said, "when I get lonely. But perhaps my father is right—perhaps it would frighten and bewilder me. At any rate, he would never return to civilization. It is his idea, you know, though I am sure I do not know where he got it from, nor why he cannot bear that our name should be spoken. In short, Mr. Quatermain, we do not make our lives; we must take them as we find them. Have you done your breakfast? Let us go out, and I will show you our domain."

I rose and went to my sleeping place to fetch my hat. When I returned, Mr. Carson—for, after all, that was his name, though he would never allow it to be spoken—had come into the hut. He felt better now, he said, and would accompany us on our walk if Stella would give him an arm.

So we started, and after us came Hendrika with Tota and old Indabazimbi, whom I found sitting outside as fresh as paint. Nothing could tire that old man.

The view from the platform was almost as beautiful as that from the lower ground looking up to the peak. The marble kraals, as I have said, faced west, consequently all the upper terrace lay in the shadow of the great peak till nearly 11 o'clock in the morning, which was a great advantage in that warm latitude. First we walked through the garden, which was beautifully cultivated, and one of the most productive that I ever saw. There were three or four natives working in it, and they all saluted my host as "Baba," or father. Then we visited the other two groups of marble huts. One of these was used for stables and outbuildings, the other as storehouses, the center hut having been, however, turned into a chapel. Mr. Carson was not ordained, but he earnestly tried to convert the natives, most of whom were refugees who had come to him for shelter, and he had practiced the more elementary rites of the church for so long that I think he began to believe that he really was a clergyman. For instance, he always married those of his people who would consent to a monogamous existence, and baptized their children.

When we had examined these wonderful remains of antiquity, the marble huts, and admired the orange trees, the vines and fruits which thrive like weeds in this marvelous soil and climate, we descended to the next platform and saw the farming operations in full swing. I think that it was the best farm I have ever seen in Africa. There was ample water for purposes of irrigation, the grass lands below gave pasturage for hundreds of head of cattle and horses, and, for natives, the people were most industrious. Moreover, the whole place was managed by Mr. Carson on the co-operative system; he only took a tithe of the produce—indeed, in this land of seeming plenty, what was he to do with more? Consequently the tribesmen, who, by the way, called themselves the "Children of Thomas," were able to accumulate considerable wealth. All their disputes were referred to their "father," and he also was judge of offenses and crimes. Some were punished by imprisonment, whipping and loss of goods, other and graver transgressions by expulsion from the community, a fiat which to one of these favored natives must have seemed as heavy as the decree that drove Adam from the Garden of Eden.

Old Mr. Carson leaned upon his daughter's arm and contemplated the scene with pride.

"I have done all this, Allan Quatermain," he said. "When renouncing civilization first, I wandered here by chance; seeking a home in the remotest places in the world, I found this lonely spot a wilderness. Nothing was to be seen except the site, the domes of the marble huts and the waterfall. I took possession of the huts. I cleared the patch of garden land and planted the orange grove. I had only six natives then, but by degrees others joined me; now my tribe is a thousand strong. Here we live in profound peace and plenty. I have all I need, and I ask no more. Heaven has prospered me so far—may it be so to the end, which for me draws nigh. And now I am tired and will go back. If you wish to see the old quarry and the mouth of the ancient mines, Stella will show them to you. No, my love, you need not trouble to come. I can manage alone. Look, some of the head men are waiting to see me."

So he went, but still followed by Hendrika and Indabazimbi, we turned, and, walking along the bank of one of the rivers, passed up behind the marble kraals, and came to the quarry, whence the material had been cut in some remote age. The pit opened up a very thick seam of the whitest and most beautiful marble. I know another like it in Natal. But by whom it had been worked I cannot say. Not by natives, that is certain, though the builders of the kraals had condescended to borrow the shape of native huts for their model. The only relics of these buildings which I ever saw was a highly finished bronze pick axe which Stella found one day in the quarry. After we had examined the quarry we climbed the slope of the hill till we came to the mouth of the ancient mines situated in a kind of gorge. I believe them to have been silver mines. The gorge was long and narrow, and the moment we entered it there was from every side a sound of groaning and barking, that was almost enough to deafen one. I knew what it was at once; the whole place was filled with baboons, which clambered down the rocks towards us from every direction, in a manner that struck me as being unnaturally fearless. Stella clung to my arm.

"It is very silly of me," she whispered. "I am not at all nervous, but I cannot bear the sight of those animals ever since they killed Henlrik. I always think that there is something human about them."

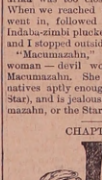
Meanwhile the babons came nearer, talking to each other as they came. Tota began to cry, and clung to Stella. Stella clung to me, while Indabazimbi put as bold a front on the matter as we could. Only Hendrika stood looking at the brutes with an unconcerned smile on her monkey face. When the great apes were quite near, suddenly called out aloud. Instantly they stopped their hideous clamor as though at a word of command. Then Hendrika addressed them.

From the mouth of Hendrika came a succession of grunts groans, squeaks, click and every other abominable noise that can be conceived To my mind the whole conveyed an idea of expostulation. At any rate the baboons listened. One of them grunted back some answer, and then the whole rob drew off to the rocks.

I stood astonished, and without a word we turned back to be kraal, for Hendrika was too close for me to speak. When we reached be dining hut Stella went in, followed by Hendrika. But Indabazimbi plucke me by the sleeve, and I stopped outsid.

"Macumazahn," e said, "Baboon woman—devil woman. Be careful, Macumazahn. She oves that Star (the natives aptly enoug called Stella the Star), and is jealous. Be careful, Macumazahn, or the Starwill set!"

CHAPTER IX.



IT IS very difficult for me to describe the period of time which elapsed between my arrival at Babyan's Peak and my marriage with Stella. When I look back on it it seems sweet as with the odor of flowers, and dim as with the happy dusk of summer eves, while through the sweetness comes the sond of Stella's voice, and through the gom shines the starlight of her eyes. think that we loved each other from te first, though for a while we said no word of love. Day by day I went about to place with her, accompanied by little Tota and Hendrika only, while she attnded to the thousand and one matters which her father's ever growing weakne had laid upon her; or, rather, as tindrew on, I attended to the business and he accompanied me. All day through we were together. Then after supper, wh the night had fallen, we would walk gether in the garden and come in at ligh to hear her father read aloud, someuns from the works of a poet, sometimefrom history, or, if he did not feel wellStella would read, and when this was ne Mr. Carson would celebrate a shorform of prayer, and we would separate ill the morning once more brought ohappy hour of meeting.

So the weeks sent by, and with every week I grew to sow my darling better. Often I wondnow if my fond fancy deceives me, or indeed there are women as sweet and de as she. Was it solitude that had given ch depth and gentleness to her? Was this long years of companioning with nure that had endowed her with such scullar grace, the grace we find in opens flowers and budding trees? Had sk aught that murmuring voice from sound of the streams that fall continually hout her rocky home? was it the tenderness of the evening sky beneath which love loved to walk, that lay like a shlow on her face, and the light of the eving stars that shone in her quiet eyes At the least, to me she was the realization of the dreams which haunts the sle of sin stained men; so my memory pinte her, so I hope to find her when at ast the sleep has rolled away and the vered dreams are done.

SEE CONTINUED

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from fire 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and Etish Soda Sheaces is the best that can be made.

Neuraline Pain Cure.

Polson's Neuline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea olera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sw sickness and summer cmaint. Nervoline cures neuralgia, toache, lumbago and sciatica. Nervoline curepains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sam ple and lar ge boes, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervoline.

Their gratlaction and good effect on the system fily make them a perfect little pill. Ty please those who use them. Carter Little Liver Pills may well be termed Perfection."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured ache would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

HEAD

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is not worth less for its price, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute (same back) one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Fury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cents and $1.

Don't Feel

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Dangers of Delay

If we were to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow a neglected cold, we would be wilderd. Of course he; could we realize our danger, how speedily we would seek a cure; but with many it is only when the monster disease has fastened its fangs upon our lungs that we wakes to our folly. What follows a neg ected cold it is not diseases of the throat and lungs, bronchitis, asthma, consumptin, and many other diseases of like nature. Is worse than madness to neglect a cold, and it a folly not to have some good remedy available for the frequent complaint. One of the best medicines for diseases of throat and lung s Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. Th edicinel is composed of several medicin a erbs, which exert most wonderful nance in curing consumption and ehe sasses of the lungs and chest. It ro otes a free and easy expectoratn hes ir tajion and drives the disse in the system

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Haggard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and for injuries.

SYMPTOMS—Discharge; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tu rs form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 ents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent preparation for the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1 00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want any his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars which you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper, wh n writing

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Insurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 29,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL,
Chief Agent.

Office:—Robertson Block

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH & VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY
UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

MERRAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY OTHER ADULTERANT.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.
MANUFACTURER OF
THE CELEBRATED "COW BRAND" YEAST CAKES.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Eruptions, Scrofula, Nervous Debility of the Heart, Nerves, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

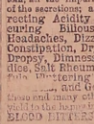
For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto, Ont.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass., or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM
CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,
Thos Donnelly.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. It is safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BANKER, BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed

THE POPULAR

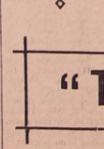
NEW STORY.

The writer of "The Judge" has earned for herself the reputation of being original in thought.

MRS. ELIA W. PEATTIE.

The stories in this paper are new and moral in tone. They may be read by all who can read.

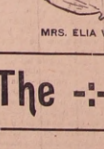
"The Judge."



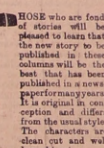
THOSE who are fond of stories will be pleased to learn that there is a new story to be published in these columns will be the best that has been published in a newspaper for many years. It is original in conception and differs from the usual style. The characters are clean cut and well brought out.

ALL the incidents are vividly described and the author never keeps her reader waiting for interesting passages. The whole story is full of interest. There is a murder. There is the judge who tells quaint legal incidents. There is a live newspaper man. There is enough humor to enliven the more heavy part of the story. There is a good plot well worked out.

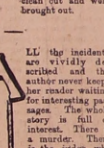
WHEN you have started "The Judge" you will want to buy the paper from day to day till it is finished. No doubt about this. To read this story will be like reading in a new field of novel literature. There are so many surprises, yet they are consistent.



THE story is a prize story. It was selected out of hundreds. It was not by an amateur, however. Mrs. Ella W. Peattie is one of the best story writers of to-day. She has earned for herself the reputation of being one of the foremost in the ranks of lady authors. Her articles appear in the best magazines.



"I AM delighted with "The Judge," said a critic who has read the story. "The Judge" will more than satisfy the average story reader. It will please all. The man who thinks it "the old story" will learn that he has not yet fathomed all the mysteries that occur in every day life. The woman who says "Oh, it is all about love" will find something interesting to her.



WITH each chapter the reader becomes fascinated and waits anxiously for the next. Those who read "The Judge" will say it is powerfully written and the interest will maintained. The author has chosen a new field for her incidents. There is a freshness about the story that gives it zest and the reader never becomes weary of it.

Be sure and get the first instalment. There is no long preamble. The writer introduces her characters in rapid succession and one scene quickly follows another.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc.

CHARLES FOLCLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,
FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.
Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.
Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.
WM. SMEATON
Late Popham

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEYS, LIVER, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Capital not necessary. Previous experience Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. VT. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple City Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee adjustment of losses against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.
Losses paid in 1889..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1888..... $195,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville.

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

—CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Grate or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN, N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty-two years, they can point to a honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million dollars of assets. Are writing 60,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of $100,000 enables desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District Agent, Belleville
W HARVEY, agent, Ivanhoe
J. Martin agent Marlbg.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable manufacturers of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send for illustrated catalogue, valuable information of a system which took 30 years to perfect—will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made expressly for each case and warranted. A. Leggo, Shoulder Braces, Supporters, Knee Caps, Ankle Supports and Leather Stockings. Abdominal Supporters, Crutches, etc. Prompt attention. Always in stock. Reliable and honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO, ONTARIO

REMNANTS!

We are now stock taking at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

and are throwing out all Remnants and odds and ends of stock and are

JOBBING THEM OFF

at what they will bring. We have more remnants than usual this season as a result of our

Great Removal Sale

and we will sacrifice them so as to get our stock into good snap for the coming Redictions in all classes of Winter Goods.

Remnants of Carpets

Very Cheap.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville, Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 5 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 498, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.

dly Tuner.

Curling.

Group No. 1., comprising Ogdensburg, Port Hope, Brockville and Belleville will play here to-morrow to see who will represent this district in the final play for the Ontario tankard.

A Run off Near Trenton

A Pullman car which went west with this morning's express left the track about a mile and a half this side of Trenton. The auxiliary left here at nine o'clock to set things to rights. The express and passenger trains from the west were delayed by the accident.

Miss Clench.

Miss Clench who will appear here on Thursday is accorded by the press of Canada and Northern New York to be the best lady violinist on the stage. Mrs. Caldwell is a favorite with a local audience and Mr. Warrington is one of Toronto's favorites. An excellent programme is promised, one that music lovers cannot afford to miss. The concert will be the musical event of the season.

Married at St Michael's.

Miss Katie M. Lynch, third daughter of the late P. P. Lynch, was married at 7 a. m. to-day (to Mr. Andrew O'Laughlin, Lindsay. The bride was attended by her sister Helena, and the groom by his brother Terrance, The ceremony was performed in the presence of the family by Mgr. Farrelly. The bride looked charming and was the recepient of numerous gifts, testimony of the esteem in which she is held. The honeymoon will be spent in the west when the happy couple will locate in Lindsay.

The Orpheus Club

The first production of the Orpheus musical club at the Oddfellows Hall to-night will no doubt be greeted with a large house. A first class programme has been arranged embracing the following selections: Recitation, The Road to the Trenches, Miss Marie Diamond; cornet solo selected, Prof. W. B. Riggs; song, O Luce Di Quest Anima, Miss Maud Burdette; piano solo, Polonaise Op. 18, Miss Mabel Wilson: selection, Trans Jolie, orchestra; song, Esmeralda, Miss Maud Burdette; violin solo, Polish National Dance, Mr. Homer Tourjee; recitation, The Clown's Baby, Miss Matie Diamond, March des Volunteers, orchestra.

Board of Trade on the Move.

The council of the board of trade met last night to consider the advisibility of strengthing the hands of the deputation appointed by the city council to deal with "railways and industries." L. W. Yeomans presided and together with Geo. Pope and N. B. Falkiner were appointed to cooperate with the city council. A telegram was sent to H. Corby, M. P. last night asking his advice as to the influence a deputation would have on the government. An answer was received to the effect that a strong resolution would do but that a deputation would be better. It is likely that the deputation will proceed to Ottawa at an early date.

The Old Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling of ill;
A headache; a nasty chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
Now life's no more the weary head,
The strength's o'er; the man is dead.

Such is the fatal progress of consumption How often is repeated the old, old story. Yet not half so often as it was before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr, Sage's Catarrh Remedy. 50 cents.

MARRIED.

O'LAUGHLIN—LYNCH—At St. Michael's church, Belleville, by the Rev. Mons. Farrelly, V. G. on Wednesday, Feb. 5th, Katie M. daughter of the late, P. P. Lynch, to A. O'Laughlin, of Lindsay. No cards.

DIED.

SERVISS. On Wednesday morning, Feb. 5th, Polly Almira Serviss, wife of the late D. Serviss, aged 78 years.

Funeral will take place from her late residence George St., on Friday the 7th inst at 2 p. m.

ALLEGED SWINDLES.

IRREGULARITIES OF A NAPANEE BUSINESS MAN

A Merchant Who was Always in not Water but Kept His Credit Good. He Tried his Hand at Borrowing to Good Account—How His Operations Were Carried on.

(From our own Correspondent.)

NAPANEE, Feb. 5. (Special)—Most startling developments have been made during the past two days in regard to the business of Geo. J. Ham who has been carrying on business as a grocer here for four or five years. He has always been regarded as a hard working man and no suspicions have ever been cast upon his honesty. He was generally hard up and was noted for wanting to borrow small sums ranging from $25 to $50. His discounts were very liberal and people often wondered how he could dispose of his paper at such a sacrifice. He had no bad habits and was economical in his mode of living. It was an open secret that his mother-in-law had come to his rescue on one or two occasions and had tided him safely over the difficulty. About two weeks ago some of his creditors began to press him. He assured them that he would settle all of his obligations in a few days. He sent for his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bredin, of Kingston and upon her arrival a statement of his liabilities were laid before her amounting in all to about $3,000. Thinking, the world place him on his feet again she advanced the money and paid off the creditors whose claims had been presented to her.

Everyone was greatly surprised to learn a few days ago, that he had absconded. Few believed it as everyone supposed his difficulties had been settled. The report of his departure, called forth other creditors whose claims had not been settled. They had not been alarmed at the previous report of his difficulty as they all had notes endorsed by men whose standing was perfectly good. A rumor was soon afloat that some of these notes were forgeries. Enquiry was at once made which resulted in the disclosure of the most rascally and deliberate system of fraud and forgery that was ever heard of in this district. For the past few years he has been forging notes and renewing them with other forgeries in the most fearless manner. The full extent of his alleged crimes is not yet known but $4,000 or $5,000 worth of notes have already been brought to light. They vary from $250 to $900. Upon some are single names while others purport to be joint notes and others are endorsed by one and two parties. The names with which he has taken most liberty are those of Mrs. Bredin his mother-in-law; R. M. Briscoe, his brother in-law; William Sicker, a farmer in Fredicksburg; and J. G. Alcombrack, of the same place. Not content with this he forged the names of others as witnesses. In some instances the forgeries are clumsily done, while in others the genuineness of the signature would not be doubted without a very careful examination By some means he had obtained the genuine signature of witnesses to a forged note. In one instance he forged a mortgage and got a witness to swear to the execution of it under the impression that he was sworn to something else. He has outlined no variety His latest achievement was to obtain $200 from a Tronto merchant who took a security an assignment of a car load of pork, which never existed. He is supposed to be on his way westward. The great mystery is what did he do with the money It was only two weeks ago he was so hard up that he paid one man in town one dollar for holding over a $15.00 check. He will undoubtedly be brought back and plenty of rope will be given to expend his wholesale forgery. He has a wife and two small children who have the sympathy of the public in their trouble and there is no doubt but that the recent revelations are a greater surprise to herand her mother than they were to the general public.

ORANGE OFFICERS.

Annual Meeting of the East Hastings Lodge.

The Orangemen of East Hastings met in their hall on John street yesterday afternoon and selected their officers for the ensuing year. Nathan Hill presided. Rev W. H. Barnes, pastor of the Reformed Episcopal church was present. The following are the officers:

County Master, Prof Mather, Corbyville. Past County Masters, Thos. Wills, Belleville; Hon M Bowell, M P, Ottawa; Geo D Dickson, Q C, Belleville; Wm Johnson Belleville; Robert Gordon, Tweed; F M Clarke, Belleville; P P Pettit, Frankford; R T Porter, Thomasburgh; Mathew Hill, Shannonville; deputy county master, Jas D Clarke, Belleville; county chaplin, D T Rutledge, Belleville; county secretary, W H Gordon, Belleville; county treasurer Thos Wills Belleville; director of ceremonies, A Collins, Plainfield; lecturer, W H Craig, Tweed; deputy county lecturer W F Campell, Thomasburg; W Robinson Thomasburg. The impressive installation service was performed by Mro W Johnson, P G M O E.

SETTLING DAY.

Merchants Breathe Easier as the Crisis is Over.

Yesterday was the worst day in all the year for mercantile men. In Belleville as in every other city under the smile of the heavens the fourth of February—set ling day—is being looked upon to come extent as a Waterloo. There was considerable comment in Belleville for several weeks past among business men, and the question was, "What the result will be over quietly?" As far as could be learned, however, the likelihood is that there will be very little trouble The retailers have been cautious in their purchases, and the wholesale men have been careful not to force goods upon them, consequently, if the banks are liberal and it is altogether likely they will be, the crisis will be called one—will pass uneventfully. Business men are sanguine and if some sleighing comes during this month trade will be brisk. It is confidently expected that the careful conservatism of the mercantile houses in giving lines of credit only to good men, and also limiting credits, as has been the tendency during the past two years, will have the desired effect of keeping trade on a sound basis.

NO REBATE ALLOWED.

Stock Raisers Sat Upon by the Government.

Dr. Landerkin introduced a resolution in parliament that farmers and stock raisers who import corn to fatten hogs for export should receive a rebate of duty similar to that granted to distillers upon malt imported for use in the manufacture of spirits for export

The debate was an interesting one while it lasted. Mr. Corby of West Hastings made his maiden speech and it is interesting to note that he recorded himself against the farmer. He stated that during the past five years the distilleries had become entitled to $300 for rebates, and of the duty $400 had been claimed showing that they did not regard the principle of any great weight, although during the same period they had paid over $400,000 duties on imported corn. The resolution was voted down.

The heavy down fall of rain last night raised the water in the river several inches.

AMELIASBURG MATTER

INTERESTING WEEKLY BUDGET FROM OVER THE BAY.

Ravages of Influenza—Death of an Old and Respected Citizen—A Meeting of Cheesemen—The Township Assessor

Last year at this date we had plenty of snow and cold weather.

The "grip" still continues to afflict the people. Some have had a pretty serious time of it, all resulting from carelessness and exposure.

Dr. Filo who has been a victim is now able to get around although very weak. Dr. Nash has been attending patients in town.

Mrs. Arnely Quackenbush has been very sick and is not free from danger yet. Her husband has returned home from Anarbor Mich, where he is taking a course in medicine. Dr. Cook is attending her.

Mrs. Sprague mother of Messrs. John George and Lawrence Sprague was buried on Friday last at the "Union." Mrs. Sprague was over 80 years of age and was taken away with la grippe The deceased lady was highly respected and leaves in addition to three sons and four daughters a sorrowing husband to mourn her sudden death. Mrs. Geo. Sprague was unable to attend the funeral on account of the prevailing epidemic.

A little son of Mr. Chas. Lauder was taken with influenza at Mrs. Sprague's funeral and lay in fits for two or three hours.

Mr. Ralph Murray, agent for the Rathbun Co. at Rossmore was taken down with influenza last week, but is doing nicely now.

Several families here are down with whooping cough. This seems to be the "grip" makes the case very serious.

A child of Robt Cummings was buried on Sunday. Cause not known—age two months.

The annual meeting of the Redneville Cheese Factory was held at Redneville on Saturday. Considerable fault finding was done with the way Mr John Peck, the salesman last year had conducted the business. The principal complaint was the enormous expense which reached over two cents per lb of cheese. The following board of directors were appointed for 90 who will meet and select a President from their number. Wm. Dempsey, W. R. Dempsey, W. Weese, John Peck and W. J Anderson. The milk on the routes will be drawn by Mr. Ass Brickman and Geo. Bonter.

Mr. Ed. Brickman bought a fine horse of Jas R. Anderson to go in the shipment to B. C. next month.

The appointment of W. W. Anderson as assessor is not regarded as a good one, considering his age. It is an undisputable fact that the assessor should be a person of years, instead of a young person of comparatively little or no experience in valuing real estate.

The general opinion here is that if the Mail is guilty of the charge made against it by the Globe and Empire it should be run body and breeches out of the country.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A Special Meeting to Wind up the Year's Business.

A special meeting of the board of education was called last night to close up the business of the old year. Irvine Diamond presided. Those present were: W R Carmichael, S T Harris, John Martin, S A Moore, Thos McGinnis, J H Simpson, H W Taylor, Dr Tracy, Wm Tennat, Hugh Walker and Thos Wills.

Adam Hailoway, Louis Bolyea, J. Callighan and James Patterson applied for the position of scavenger in the place of Michael Palmer, deceased. Adam Halloway was appointed.

H. J. Crawford, formerly teacher in the high school here, asked for $36.05 for certain holidays. Referred to the finance committee.

The following accounts recommended by the finance committee were ordered to be paid: Hattie Huff, $19.83; J Berton, $900; Tokell & Sons, $1.50; W H Pringle, $4; J Bonar, $2; H Tammadge, $2; R Taylor, $2; A McGinnis, $4; Intelligencer Co, $41.55; Jas. Mullion, $12.40; M Palmer, $7.77; A McGinnis, $16.31; F P Salter, $360; R Elvins, $325; John Johnson, $33; Dr. Wright, $32; A G Vermilyea, $4.

On motion Dr. Tracy the chairman left the chair and Thos. Wills was appointed to take his place.

Moved by Mr Tennat, seconded by Dr. Tracy "That a hearty motion of thanks is hereby tendered to the chairman for the courteous and efficient manner in which he has presided over the board for the past two years."

Messrs. Walker, Moore, McGinnis, Tennat and Dr. Tracy expressed the pleasure they had experienced around the school board while Mr. Diamond had presided over these deliberations.

Mr. Diamond in a few words thanked the members for their kind expression of good feeling. He said it had not been his intention to accept the chairmanship for another term but was willing to step down and out to give way to other members plenty of whom were capable of filling the position with dignity and grace.

The board adjourned.

The New Board Organizes.

The board of education met for organization at one o'clock this afternoon. Irwin Diamond, chairman, declined to again be a candidate for the office. Wm. Tennant was then elected chairman by acclamation and escorted to his seat by Irvine Diamond and Rev. M. W. Maclean.

The standing committees were formed with few changes. The chairmanships are the same as last year.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Belleville's Most Beautiful Belle.

A fashionable wedding took place this afternoon at 5:30 on Dundas St., being the marriage of Miss Ella L. Ransome, one of Belleville's handsomest belles, to Will L. Ball, manager of the Eastern Townships Bank, Quebec. The bride was attired in a becoming pale colored travelling dress and looked charming. She was assisted by Miss Minnie Falkiner, daughter of Dr. Falkiner, while Geo. Brook, B. C. L., of Richmond, did the honors for the groom. Miss Falkiner was dressed in a charming pink colored silk. Dr. Carman was the officiating clergyman assisted by Rev. J. M. Hodson, pastor of Bridge St., Methodist church. The bride was the recipient of numerous elegant presents valued at over $500. Nearly a hundred invitations were issued. Friends were present from Toronto, Delta, Montreal, Quebec, Picton and Detroit, The happy couple left by the evening train for an extended trip to the west when they will return and visit Boston and other large eastern centres

LOST.

You have lost your appetite if you have had the grippe but have found it if you have visited Goldsmith's Uptown Fish Store. This week we have frozen salmon, fresh halibut steak, fresh bluefish, bake, cod, haddock, flounders, frozen sea herrings, shell lobster, oysters. All kinds of pickle and smoked fish, etc. Clocoes and several other kinds expected in a day or two. Near Wallace's candy store; opposite Goldsmith's old stand. 29 1w

BEWARE OF FRIENDS

DOCTRINE THAT ARMY SOLDIERS ARE FIEND ON.

Friends to ill fed Officers are Agents of the Devil—Army Lasses who Receive Courtesies from Dudes Should Set Wary.

Salvation War Cry.

"Hail, Master!" said Judas Iscariot, as he placed that traitor's kiss upon the Saviour's cheek, and thus fulfilled that most hellish of all bargains that were ever made. I have often thought that of all the sufferings and trials the Lord had to pass through, there were none others so bitter and cutting as this deceitful, devilish act, done under the cloak of friendship and with a token of affection. Never did devils conceive anything more cunning nor deceptive, and I feel sure it must have been one of the most successful devices yet discovered for destroying the children of God, for it is still in vogue, and is largely practiced by the arch-fiend of hell, in destroying Salvation Army soldiers.

* * * *

"You know, my dear boy, it is all right to be a Christian, and I am so pleased to think you have taken a stand for Christ, but I do not see why you should join that low crowd. Your father and mother go to church, and you know they are good Christians. I see no reason why you should not join the church and go with them. It would be more respectable for one thing and it would be so much nicer for all to go together."

Such was the strain of reasoning adopted by a so-called friend of a certain young man, who had a short time previously been out to the penitent-form and had promised God to follow Him wherever He led, even though his friends should all forsake him. In his own heart the young man felt a peculiar drawing towards the Army, and there certainly was no other respectable place he could go to, for he did not felt so much at home. If he did as he felt he would be an out-and out soldier, but—well, there were his friends (?) The devil knew it was no use trying to drive the young man back by force, for He was a true, stout-hearted lad, and would not shrink from a bit of persecution. He therefore adopted the "friend" plan, and approached him as an angel of light, assuming an air of regard for his welfare, and presuming to give him some good advice. The scheme was only too successful, for the young man listened to this "wolf in sheep's clothing," quenched the prompting of the Spirit in his own heart, and went to church. The result was that the Spirit left him, and though he hung on for a while to his profession, his evil desires and sinful habits very soon got the better of him, and having no strength in himself, he became a total wreck. He conferred with flesh and blood, instead of obeying the Spirit, and he proved to his bitter sorrow the truth of the text which says, "Except a man hate father, mother, etc., for My sake, he cannot be My disciple."

Not only is this the case with deceitful, smooth tongued old women and their pies and cakes, but it also applies on the other side of the house as well. In almost every town can be found young women who were once in the Army work, and being used of God in winning souls, but who are now hitched up to some young dude or the other, and in many cases are out of the Army entirely. In these cases the young men were soldiers indeed; but in all cases it caused the young men to be warm friends and staunch supporters of the said damsels. If they wanted to go anywhere, the young men were right on hand with their fares; if they wanted clothes, shoes, food, delicacies, or anything else within reason, it was promptly provided, though sometimes it was rather mysterious where the money came from to pay for these things. Of course, when these maidens grew weary in well doing, and commenced to look around for a man, these young men who had been so faithful in the small things, it is quite natural, were none the less so in the great things, but were right on hand to meet the demand. It is true some of the young men—and I might add some young women too—have made good strikes in cases like these, as far as the world is concerned, while others have sold themselves for less than a mess of pottage (for God knows some of them do not look good as that to eat); but one thing they certainly have not got—that is, the peace and joy they once had when right with God!

Converts, beware of friends! Soldiers, beware of friends! Officers, beware of friends! If ever you tried the spirits, do so in the cases of those who pose as friends!

This is only a sample of hundreds of cases, not only of sons, but also daughters, husbands, wives, parents and others, who have made a stab to follow God in the way He has led; but they allowed the devil, under the garb of friends, to come in between them and the Spirit of God, and have thus become entangled again with the yoke of bondage. Reader, beware! "He that loveth father, mother, sister, brother, wife, houses, lands, or anything more than me is not worthy of me." Saith the Lord.

* * * *

"They tell me Mrs.——is quite a friend of the Army, and has been very good to officers. Is that so?"

"Well," came she reply, "I suppose in one sense she has been a good friend, for she used to bring them plenty of food, and stuff like that, but spiritually, I believe she has been a terrible curse to every officer who has been at all free or friendly with her. For instance, there is Lieut.——. She used to be a grand girl, when she first came to——, and she had a wonderful influence with most of the people, until she got too well acquainted with this lady, and then she lost ground, both in her own soul and with the people."

How true this is of loss of so-called friends, whom officers meet. Of course there are lots of true friends, who help the Army along, and without whom, in most places, the officers would be pretty badly pressed sometimes to carry on the other hand, what a lot of officers have been betrayed into the hands of the devil and the world, and brought into no end of trouble, by the descendants of Judas Iscariot, with their tokens of affection—pies, cakes, etc.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

E. Davis, Brockville, is at the Queens.

John Caskey, Madoc, was in the city yesterday.

P. R. Samuels, is registered at the Dominion house.

Jas. Reid and R. Ranfield, Walkerville, are stopping at the Dominion house.

W. C. Mikel and R. E. Lazier have been sworn in as barristers at Toronto.

Miss Helena Hunt, of Rochester, N. Y. formerly of Toronto is in the city the guest of B. C. McCargar.

J. and R. Brenton, of Piteston, Pa., arrived in the city last night to attend the funeral of their late sister-in-law, Mrs. Francis Brenton, who was buried in the cemetery here to-day.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy something at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

CORRECTION.

Ald Gordon's Tangle—What He Meant and did not Mean to Say.

MR. EDITOR:—Your statements as to what I said about the license commissioners on Monday night as contained in yesterday's paper was not correct.

What I said did not refer directly to the commissioners or any political party. The idea that I desired to express was that I was sorry that the reputation of politicians was such (judging from the discussion) that one party had but little confidence that the other would do the right—I have not the slightest ground for casting a reflection upon the character of the commissioners, and certainly would not do so.

I think my refusal to consider politics in the matter under discussion might rather have been taken as an express n of confidence in the gentlemen than otherwise. Respectfully yours,

W. H. GORDON.

The ONTARIO does not doubt but this is the meaning which Ald. Gordon would have the citizens attach to his utterances in the city council on Monday night, but what he did say, and what was inferred by the other members of the council on the question at issue, Mr. Gordon said the "license commissioners, he was sorry to say were not of high reputation," and as the subject under discussion was associated with the commissioners of West Hastings it was naturally inferred by his hearers that he considered these gentlemen his remarks were directed.

However, as the ONTARIO is not entirely exempt from the liability of making a mistake, other citizens who were present at the meeting have been asked the inference which they drew from Ald. Gordon's remarks.

Jas. J. Flint, P. M., said today: "To my recollection Mr. Gordon spoke in a depreciatory tone of the commissioners. I thought that he meant to infer that they were disreputable and I took it as a reflection on the commissioners."

Jas. Jenkins, proprietor of the Hub, who was in the audience said: "I can't remember the exact words used by Mr. Gordon but I do remember that they cast an insinuation on the license commissioners."

Ald. Yeomans said that he did not think Mr. Gordon meant to say what he did say. He believed he spoke generally and referred to the commissioners on the whole as men of not bright reputation.

Ald. Stirling thought the ONTARIO had not misrepresented Ald. Gordon's remarks.

The fact is it was Ald. Gordon's maiden speech and in the flury of so important a moment it is not probable that he has a clear recollection of what he did say. The ONTARIO has nothing to do with what he meant to say, but rather what he did say.

TOWN TALK.

The Dorland Cash was purchased for $1.800.

Mrs. Clapp who died at Grand Rapids on Saturday was brought to the city today for burial.

The plan for Miss Clench's concert was opened to-day and is filling rapidly. There is every indication of there being a bumper house.

We have a lot of remnants of shirtings. They are fast colors and will be sold cheap. 2: A. E. FISH & CO.

Mr. Burdett gives notice of a motion in favor of the introduction of a bill in parliament to prohibit frauds in the sale of cereals and seed grain.

SINGULAR DIVORCE CASE.

Married for fun They Find the Knot Tight and Want to Be Free.

One of the most singular of the divorce cases which will engage the attention of parliament this year, at more especially the gentlemen of the Upper Chamber, will be the application of Mrs. Walker, sued by Emily Walker, ne Herald, of Hamilton. Mrs. Walker, ne Miss Herald, for she scarcely knows which designation is legally correct, in 1885 was a seventeen year-old girl. She and certain Mr. Alfred Percy Walker were on the coast of a play which was being produced by an amateur dramatic company in Dundas. Somebody proposed that the spectators should be treated to the spectacle of a marriage between the actor and Walker and Miss Herald agreed to enact the principal roles. It was all in fun; but as a clergyman officiated the dreadful thought was afterwards suggested that Miss Herald was matrimonially tied as tight as if the ceremony had taken place in a cathedral whose bench of bishops present. Walker had intended leaving home the next day, and followed out his intention. He was in Guelph for a time, then came to Belleville but finally went to Texas. Mis Herald has not seen him since figuring with him in what she suppose was a mock marriage for the diversion of friends. Walker is now living in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he is employed. Miss Heald was engaged at the time of the alleged marriage, and the suitor is still faithful, waiting, and anxious to get some person or body in authority to satisfy his sweetheart that he is a spinster. The ground upon which the application is made that is Miss Herald was married without the consent of her parents, and that her husband deserted her. Of course Walker will offer no opposition to the granting of the divorce.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your addre, we will mail you our illustrated pamphl explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.

fSd&wly

SHIRTS!

—|o|—

OPENED TODAY

2 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LIEN,
FANCY FLANNEL,
—AND—
CEYLON FLANNEL!

—o—

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASURE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents Furnishers, Laundry Office.

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 per cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

PROF DORENWEND COMING

WITH HIS IMMENSE DISPLAY OF

HAIR - GOODS

HE WILL BE AT

QUEENS' HOTEL

WED. & THURS, FEB, 12TH & 13TH.

When every lady should make it a special point to call and see the Professor's Fine Styles. His assortment this visit will be superb. SWITCHES, BANGS, FRONTPIECES W. W. WIGS, TOUPEES, etc., articles of which every lady should have one or other for the sake of health, appearance and economy. Even if she has an abundant growth of hair she should have one in order to meet the requirements of a fashionable headdress and to save her own hair. It is a difficult matter to explain the full benefits of wearing Hair Goods, in an advertisement so Prof. Dorenwend asks that ladies call on him whether they intend to buy or not. If they do not get something now they may later on, and while there is an opportunity it is just as well to learn particulars. For gentlemen who are bald, Prof. D has Toupees and Wigs, that are most perfect. They Sit like a Glove, and are as natural as life. A visit to the Show Rooms will be well repaid. Persons who are already wearing the Professor's Goods will do their friends a favor if they will prevail on them to visit the Professor. Remember

AT QUEENS' HOTEL, ON WEDS & THURS., FEB. 12 & 13th.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES.

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during thisweek

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO,

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED

TO THE EDITOR:

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I am glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and Post Office Address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M.C., 186 West Adelaide St., TORONTO, ONTARIO.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: THURSDAY FEBRUARY 6, 1890 | NO 31

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars

NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

mail Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, and specially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Cracknells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoa nut Sugar Wafers

ween Biscuits—Bendoir biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES, &C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
ass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.

And Tumbling right after him are our

HATS, SHIRTS,
UNDERCLOTHING,
TRUNKS and VALISES!

AT BED ROCK PRICES

See for yourselves and Call at

S G RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.
CAPITAL - - - $50,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates
Payment can be made in full due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Pinn Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent. No fines. No commission
J. P. C PHILLIPS, Manager.

MONEY FOR ALL

WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, ROCH. 13pwdw

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KERNEROSS,
Belleville, P. O.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.

THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 133.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon

W-W CHOWN & CO
Front Street

We are the Largest dealers in this section in

Cheese Factory Goods.

and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,

W. W. CHOWN & CO.

ALBERT COLLEGE
FOREIGN MISSION BAND

1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church, Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7:30 p m.

Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant, D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.

Saturday evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg, our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Juan Keno Victoria University, Cobourg.

Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel
Students will fill the Programme.
No change or admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection to defray expenses.
ALL WELCOME.

J. WHALE,
Chairman Mission Band.
14587

WE

Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed

TOILET — SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine,

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS

—A full Line of—

Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at

D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada

Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.

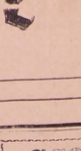
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.

James Little,
Genera Agent, Belleville.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers
TRY THEM.

SCOTT'S EMULSION



Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES of Lime and Soda

Scott's Emulsion is a perfect Emulsion. It is a wonderful Flesh Producer. It is the Best Remedy for CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.
PALATABLE AS MILK.
Scott's Emulsion is now put up in salmon color wrapper. Avoid all imitations or substitutions. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

HORSES WANTED.

I WILL be at the G Ross house a few days to buy a car load of fine horses.
21d D. GILMORE.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6d

WANTED.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply at
Feb. 1 Hotel street.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. ANDERSON, cor. Ann and Charles sts
Feb 4 6d

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods New and Old CLEAN Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

FARM FOR SALE.

$2,500 will buy 8 0 acres of good land fenced well watered rails in the township of Tyendinaga north, 1 part lot 20 fourth concession known as the Shea farm. All cleared, 57 acres with buildings and 50 acres with out buildings, 15 acres with out buildings. All cleared in the township of Sidney 3 miles from Belleville. Houses and lots to exchange for farm property.
20 shares of stock in the Hastings loan and investment society. For full information apply to. R. SAMSON YOUNG.
1mwtfd Belleville Post Office

OPERA -- HOUSE

MONDAY EV'G. FEB. 10

First appearance in Belleville of the

NORA CLENCH
CONCERT COMPANY

With the Following distinguished Artists:—

MISS NORA CLENCH,
VIOLINIST.

MRS. CALDWELL,
SOPRANO.

MISS COLVIN,
PIANIST.

MR. FRED WARRINGTON,
BARITONE.

MANAGER - - - J. W. BAUMANN

Reserved Seats - - - 75cts.
Admission - - - 50 and 35cts
Plan of Reserved Seats at W. B. Riggs Music Store. 6td

OUR JAPANESE - FRIEND
MR. INZO KOUO,

Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our

Japan Teas

Those using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.

Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers,
Victoria Buildings.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co., enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. A Shop and manufactory, Front St East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

THE FRANCHISE ACT.

A BRISK DEBATE ON AN EVER FRUITFUL TOPIC.

Dr. Wilson Demands a Return to the Provincial lists for Dominion Elections—Mr. Laurier Follows Up the Attack—Sir Hector in Reply.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—There was a brisk debate this afternoon on that ever fruitful topic the Franchise Bill. It was brought about by this motion, presented by Dr. Wilson of Elgin:

That in the opinion of this House the Electoral Franchise Act ought to be repealed and that it is preferable to revert to the plan of utilizing for the elections of this House the provincial franchise and voters' lists.

Dr. Wilson spoke at great length in denunciation of the Franchise Act as expensive and cumbersome. When he took his seat no one on the Ministerial side rose to speak and it looked as if a vote would be taken without discussion. Mr. Laurier therefore rose to taunt the Government supporters about their silence. It seemed, he said, that upon this occasion as formerly they were prepared to vote for the bill but not to give reasons for their vote. The force of numbers would carry the day but not the force of reason. He thought that if the real opinion of the House was expressed it would be that the act had proved even worse than anticipated and was an unmitigated evil. He denounced it as an interference with the rights of the provinces and a menace to the Federal principle.

He held that it was dangerous to depart from the principle of a division of powers amongst the several localities. The variations in the property qualifications showed this. The best judge to determine what kind of real estate should command a vote was surely the local Legislature where the real estate is situated. In the United States it was found that the franchise was different in every state and the same reasons which necessitated variation there applied with equal force to Canada. In his province, for instance, there was a strong feeling against manhood suffrage and although a Liberal of the Liberals he could not say that he favored that principle.

A conclusive proof of the folly of the Franchise Act was that Government were absolutely ashamed to put the people to the expense of carrying it out, and in place of annual revision there had been but two in five years. He thought it could not be too soon removed from the statute book.

In the absence of Sir John Macdonald the House was in charge of Sir Hector Langevin, who very seldom indulges in a long speech, but made an exception on this occasion. He justified the silence on the Government side, saying that they saw no occasion to join in this attempt to renew a debate which had on a previous occasion taken up the whole time of the House and had ended in a conclusive endorsation of the measure. Since the act was passed there had been an election held under it and he had heard of no difficulty; the law had worked well, and if expensive at the beginning, the Government had endeavored to lessen the cost and he thought with success. He contrasted the cost of the Franchise Act with the cost of the previous one and drew a comparison between the position in Canada and that in the States. Here the Federal executive was directly responsible to the people, but in the States this was not so. No matter how Congress might disapprove of the action of the President or his mode of governing the country, they had no means of removing him but by some rule for his four years. The States prospered under their constitution, we prospered under ours, and it was a happy thing that we were so well suited with our different ways.

If any changes were shown to be desirable this Government, as a progressive Government open to conviction, would like to have them brought forward, but as for the resolution now proposed he had confidence that the House would vote it down by a large majority.

Mr. Paterson of Brant followed with a vigorous denunciation of the Franchise Act and spoke until within a few minutes of 6 o'clock.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau rose to reply to him but both sides of the House cried: "Six o'clock," and the Speaker left the chair, the debate standing adjourned.

After recess when the House reassembled for the first night sitting of the session private bills were in order for the first hour. One bill after another was called until the end of the list was reached but none of the members were ready to proceed. Sir Hector therefore moved the adjournment and the House arose at 8¼.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

York County Council has decided to abolish toll gates.

Port Stanley will have a summer resort to be called "New Orchard Beach."

Mr. George McBroom has resigned the Secretaryship of the London Fair Board.

The St. Lawrence River is very high and the streets of La Prairie village are flooded.

Mr. A. W. Morris, Montreal, has met his creditors and promised to pay all claims in full.

The winter in the far Northwest of Canada is said not to be severe and game food is plentiful.

The Grand Trunk offers to enlarge the work of their Hamilton shops if the Beach difficulty is settled by declaring it to be the understanding of the Senate that the rights of the United States to the harbor of Pagopago, ceded by Samoa in the treaty of 1878, were not affected by the Berlin treaty of 1889. This resolution was discussed for an hour or more to-day, friends of the treaty arguing that it was unnecessary and that its passage would only complicate matters. The vote on a motion to table the resolution disclosed the fact that no quorum was present and the Senate then adjourned. There is a large majority in favor of laying the resolution on the table. A motion made yesterday to reconsider the vote by which the treaty was ratified was not acted upon.

Uncle Sam Congratulates Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The House held only a brief session to-day. No business was transacted, the members desiring to attend the funeral of Mrs. and Miss Tracy.

In the Senate Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported the following joint resolution, which was placed on the calendar: "Resolved, that the United States of America congratulate the people of Brazil on their just and peaceful assumption of the powers, duties and responsibilities of self-government, based upon the free consent of the governed, and on their recent adoption of a republican form of government.

THE CANDID TRUTH.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to purpose, I was persuaded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and sore throat; it never

FLOOD AND AVALANCHE.

ELEMENTAL DISASTERS IN THE FAR WEST.

An Oregon City Under Water—Great Havoc Caused by Heavy Rains and Melting Snows—An Idaho Town Buried by a Snow Slide.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 5.—The town is flooded. Owing to the fact that few business houses took time by the forelock yesterday nearly all the Front-street houses had to clear their first floors. At 11 o'clock this morning Superintendent Campbell gave orders to the bridge officers to permit no vehicles to cross the bridge. Half an hour later the order was made applicable to pedestrians. At 3 p.m. yesterday a drift of 600 cords of cottonwood broke loose and floated down against the dry-house and a few minutes later a building from Oregon City came along and struck in the same place. The dry-house was carried away, containing about $9000 worth of oak and ash lumber. Three other buildings on the factory side are liable to be carried away, representing $15,000 worth of property in danger of total loss.

No trains have arrived or departed since last Saturday. Between Troutdale and Conneville there is hardly a stretch of 100 yards of track that is not covered with sand. In some cases the earth covers the track to the depth of two feet. The Southern Pacific is dead, and as its southern wires are down there is no means of learning the state of the road. No trains are moving at all. At 3 o'clock this afternoon no pedestrians except those dressed in gum boots could frequent Front-street from Washington to Ash, the water being two feet deep at some points on that street. At Stark-street the east side of First-street was beginning to flood.

The situation of the Canadian Pacific steamer Danube seems to be extremely perilous. She is moored at the wharf just south of the east side approach of the railway bridge with her bow pointed down the street. A great mass of logs and driftwood is lodging against her stern and the mass is increasing. She is right where the terrible current spends its full force on her, and there is no way by which she can be relieved from her situation. Her bow is only a few yards from the railroad bridge and it would seem almost impossible to move her and prevent her from being swept against the steel bridge just below. All afternoon great trees pounded against the mass accumulated at her stern. She is held to the wharf by about 40 lines.

AN UNPRECEDENTED FLOOD.

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Will Not Cover the Loss.

JACKSONVILLE, Ore., Feb. 5.—A phenomenal rain storm has prevailed in Southern Oregon since last Friday, which in connection with the melting snows in the mountains has caused the greatest flood known since that country was settled. The damage cannot be estimated as yet, for postal communication is so uncertain and limited that only surmises can be made of the ravages of the water. On the line of the Southern Pacific railroad in the Rogue River many small ranches have been badly damaged, if not ruined, and miles of fencing have been swept away. Much of the finest soil in the country has been washed down to gravel and bed rock, and the spectacle of fields flooded, roads washed out and bridges and culverts demolished is common.

The fertile Bear Creek valley has not escaped the visitation. Part of the valley has presented the appearance of a turbid sea for days and communication between its many towns has been almost suspended by the swollen foothill streams. Bear Creek itself has borne along a good deal of wreckage, including fences, outbuildings and even barns and houses, and has wrought much destruction in undermining and sluicing off the deep alluvium that composes its banks.

In the Applegate region there are few bridges left. Many people were obliged to leave their homes for safety. Great damage has been done to the mining interests of the section by the bursting of dams and reservoirs, the breaking and filling of ditches and the loss of flume boxes and machinery. The Oregon & California Railway track in Southern Oregon has been washed away for miles and the roadbed is seriously damaged along the whole line.

There has not been a mail from either the north or south for several weeks. No estimate can be made of the loss to the country in bridges and private property. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will not cover it.

NORTHERN PACIFIC DENIALS.

Railway Officials Vainly Attempting to Conceal the Facts.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 5.—The damage from the snow blockades in Oregon, California and Southern Washington seems about to be followed by a much greater loss by floods. The heavy snow filled valleys as well as railroad cuts and milder weather had begun to make way with the drifts when last Friday an unusually heavy rain set in. It is reported Portland is flooded and entirely cut off from the outside world but the public reports of the Northern Pacific Railway officials indicate otherwise. The city may be partially under water but the Northern Pacific trains, it is asserted, are arriving there from the east with comparatively little delay.

From another source it is learned that the Southern Pacific's California line is still blockaded and suffering severely from washouts along the streams, which are rising rapidly from recent rains and melting snows. The latest reports from Portland is that the Union Pacific line is again closed, this time owing to heavy rains, melting snow and snow slides along the Columbia river between The Dalles and Portland, where the road suffered so severely two years ago from the same causes.

THE AWFUL AVALANCHE.

An Idaho Town Buried by a Snow Slide—Three Men Killed.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., Feb. 5.—The town of Burke, Idaho, in the Coeur d'Alene mining district, was nearly destroyed yesterday by a disastrous avalanche.

Half the business houses are in ruins. Three men were killed and the terror-stricken inhabitants fled to the towns of Gem and Wallace.

Particulars are meagre as the wires are down.

The Steamship Subsidy Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Congressman Felton of California before the House Committee on Merchant Marine advocated the Farquhar subsidy bill. He showed how American steamship lines on the Pacific Ocean are under great disadvantage in competing with the subsidized Canadian steamers. An American line gets $250 per annum from the Government for carrying mails from San Francisco to British Columbia while Canada pays for the transportation of her mail $17,000 per annum.

WHEN I was working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

THE ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

A 15-Minute Sitting—A Big Shower of Petitions.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—Yesterday witnessed another short session of the Assembly, the order paper has begun to fill up, and there will soon be more work to be done. There was a big shower of petitions, some which those from labor organizations figured conspicuously. Mayor Clarke of Toronto presented the heaviest batch of these.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time:

To amend the Public Health Act—Creighton.

To amend the Ontario Election Act—Whitney.

To amend the Ditches and Watercourses Act—Mr. Waters.

Mr. Creighton moved for an "Order of the House for a return, giving the dates, number of acres, location or other description of each free grant made since the first of July, 1867, under the authority of section thirteen of the Public Lands Act with the names of the persons or corporations to whom each of these grants was made, with the purposes for which the were made. Also all correspondence respecting these grants or any other grant applied for under the said section." Mr. Creighton pointed out that no information so far as he know, had been brought down on this matter since Confederation, and thought it was time the House should know something of it.

Hon. Mr. Hardy asked that the date fixed for the returns asked for be extended back 10 years, so that information on the matter in question before as well as after Confederation could be secured.

Mr. Creighton had no objection to the so long as it did not delay the bringing down of the information asked for.

Then the House adjourned after a fifteen minutes session.

PRIMED WITH LIQUOR.

A Cowardly Attack on a Little Band of Evangelists at Hull.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—A board of evangelistic workers announced a few days ago that meetings would be held every Tuesday evening in Hull, Que., commencing last evening. The gang was comprised of Miss Bertha Wright, accompanied by a number of young ladies, Rev. Francois Rondeau, Alex. Ross, F. Gilbert and Mr. Prappier, a colporteur. On opening the doors of the hall last evening, a crowd of about 200 French-Canadians well primed with liquor, rushed in and filled the place. For a time their interruption were confined to noise, etc., but on being remonstrated with they made an attack upon the speaker and singers. For a time everything was in confusion, missiles being thrown and blows freely given but not returned. The young women of the band joined hands and formed a circle around the speakers, and the roughs refrained from striking them, but continued their efforts to separating the little band. In this way they managed to drag Mr. Prappier outside the building, where he was virtually battered before being rescued by the police. Mr. Gilbert also had a narrow escape, having in a like manner been dragged outside. Mr. Ross suffered the severest treatment, he remained unconscious for some time. Finally the police managed to clear the hall and took the evangelists to the station, fighting off the crowd with their batons all the way. Some of the young women were badly hurt by the missiles that were thrown. No arrests have yet been made.

THE PRAIRIE PROVINCE.

Adoption of the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5.—In the Legislature this afternoon the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was taken up clause by clause. When the clause intimating changes in the school law was reached Mr. Prendergast moved in amendment:

"That whereas secular schools were repugnant to the religious character and convictions of the people, and whereas separate schools were given under the constitution, that clause be amended by adding: The total abolition of separate schools would be a gross infringement on the constitution as well as an injustice to the Catholic minority and that a secular system of education would be contrary to the spirit of this Christian country."

The amendment was lost and the clause carried, 25 to 8, the other members of the Opposition refusing to vote against it on the ground that the Government had not announced its policy regarding separate schools and that it was customary to pass the address as a matter of form.

A Lucky Escape.

BRAMPTON, Feb. 5.—This morning as No. 6 G.T.R. passenger train was between Malton and Brampton Newsboy Thornton, with an armful of books, was blown from the train as he was passing between the cars. He was not missed till the train reached Brampton. The engine was sent back to recover what was thought would be a horribly mangled corpse, but to the surprise of the trainmen they overtook Thornton walking quick time toward Malton. His escape is miraculous, as the train was on a down grade and running very fast. The only injury received was a severe scratch on the face.

The Charlottetown Sensation.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Feb. 5.—Mrs. Sutherland is a little better and may recover. Mrs. Weeks is still too ill at St. John to be brought back. She indignantly denies all complicity in the crime and expresses great willingness to return. She is a dashing young widow of 28, lived opposite the Sutherlands and was on terms of intimacy with Mr. Sutherland. The pills she left the city the telegraph wires were cut.

Sheep Breeders in Council.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 5.—The Standard American Merino Sheep Breeders' Association held its annual meeting here today. The following scale of points was adopted: Rams must weigh 110 pounds in carcass, clip 25 pounds of wool and scale 75 points to a standard. Ewes must shear 12 pounds of wool and weigh 70 pounds in carcass. They can be scaled or not as the breeder desires.

A Skater Drowned at Stratford.

STRATFORD, Feb. 5.—While skating on Victoria Lake here this afternoon Michael Walsh, of G.T.R. yardman, broke through the ice and was drowned. The body was recovered after an hour's search. Deceased was 28 years of age and a single man.

Navigation Open in the Hudson.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 5.—A tow was sent from here to New York to-day. Navigation is open along the Hudson for nearly 100 miles.

Tenders will be asked for a stone and iron bridge over the Thames at Bothwell to cost $25,000.

I don't care who appointed to the Baltimore post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that Peck use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. I am done with powder consists

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 6 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—18½ cents a week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for one Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Wire notice of funeral attached the charge for double notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

All letters, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

BULL LESS OATS

It is more than passing strange that legislation is necessary to save the farmers of Canada from the hands of swindlers and that too when the farmer knows that he is putting his hand in the fire. What is come to be known as the bull-less oats swindle affords the most striking illustrations known in the country of the gullibility of farmers and their willingness to bite when the fraud has been exposed. There are several instances in this county where farmers, possessed of a full knowledge of the risk they were running were willing to take their chances of making and getting out before the bubble burst. It is to protect farmers from the temptation offered by unscrupulous agents that Mr. S. B. Burdett of East Hastings, has introduced his bill in parliament making such transactions as the bull-less oats business punishable by imprisonment or a fine of from $100 to $500. In this county the men who suffer loss are those who can least afford it. The victims were cautious at first but becoming inspired by the success of others who disposed of their crops, and being behind hand and in need of a few hundred they thought if they could also meet with success it would place them upon their feet. The results of their deal was disastrous. They have the oats but there is no demand and their notes have to be met. Some of them are irretrievably involved. The straightened circumstances of so many farmers, for it is surprising how many are in the soup, paralyzes trade and all branches of the community feel the effects of the swindle. The financial trouble of the farmer curtails his purchases from the retailer and the retailer is left with stock in hopes to sell and his purchases from the jobber are light and the jobber buys less of the manufacturer so that the branches effect the root and the whole machinery of commerce is involved and suffers in consequence of this wide spread roguery. Mr. Burdett's bill is timely and in the interest of commerce as well as in the interest of the Canadian farmer.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The Board of Trade, ever alive to the city's interests have taken hold of the project to secure railway connection with the C. P. R. From the practical course they have pursued in communicating with the local members of parliament to ascertain what procedure would have most effect on the government, it is evident that they mean to have an immediate understanding in the matter. The united action of the city council and board of trade will it is hoped, have the desired effect.

NUN'S ELOPEMENT.

Her Younger Sister's Fiance Falls in Love With the Nun—The Black Veil Laid side for Orange blossoms

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb 5.—A romantic story of the elopement and marriage of a nun from Notre Dame College, in this city, has just come to light. Sister Mary Margaret was the name which Cora La Chanonne assumed two years ago, when she took the black veil and became a teacher in Notre Dame College. Her unmarried sister, Bertha, was recently engaged to Charles Perkins, an ironmoulder. Bertha and her betrothed paid several visits to Cora, and young Perkins seemed greatly fascinated with the nun. Bertha noticed his infatuation and asked him to decide between them. He chose the nun, and the younger sister acquiesced. Cora obtained a dispensation from the Mother Superior releasing her from her vows, and also one from the Archbish. She eloped with Perkins, was married, and after a brief honeymoon returned to the home she had been furnished for the younger sister.

The Old Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling ill;
A headache oft; a daily chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
Now life's no more the weary head,
The struggle's over; the man is dead.
Such is the fatal progress of consumption.
How often is repeated the old, old story. Yet not half so often as it was before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, 50 cen's.

TOOK HIS REVENGE.

Wronged Husband's Summary Proceeding.

MARIANA, Ark., Feb. 5.—Saturday one Kelly, a timber man employed near Alligator Bayou, heard that his wife, from whom he had been separated a year, was intimate with a boy 19 years old. He started for the house, and finding Mrs. Kelly and the boy there opened fire on the latter, killing him instantly. Mrs. Kelly fired twice at her husband, who then killed her also. Kelly's wounds are only slight. Kelly then went to the house of a man named Owens, made him saddle his horse and start out with him, ostensibly to Forest City to give himself up. As nothing has been heard from him at that place it is feared Owens has also been murdered. An old grudge, it is said, existed between them.

Swimming Niagara.

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist in an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

CANADIAN AFFAIRS DISCUSSED IN LONDON.

The Cabinet Elaborating the Queen's Speech ... Proposed Increase of the French Navy.—Emperor William as the Friend of the Workingman.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The directors of the Bank of British Columbia state in their report that owing to the new branches recently opened there has been a large increase in the bank's operations generally. They decided to recommend an increase of the capital to the extent of £100,000 sterling, and the declaration of a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, with a bonus of 3 per cent.

There has been some talk on 'Change the last day or two concerning the able rumors of the construction of a line of railway to the Pacific Ocean north of the Canadian Pacific and connected with the Northern Pacific, but the scheme is generally regarded as visionary.

The French Navy.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Admiral Krantz, Minister of Marine, proposes important additions to the French navy for next year. He plans includes the construction of 73 new craft, of which there will be 10 heavy ironclads, 11 cruisers of various classes, 3 torpedo cruisers, 5 torpedo despatch boats, 1 other despatch boat, 3 gunboats, 10 seagoing torpedo boats, 35 first-class torpedo boats.

Elaborating the Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Cabinet Council sat two hours to-day elaborating the Queen's speech.

The French, German and Austrian ambassadors all had interviews with Lord Salisbury.

Lord Salisbury has arranged for the immediate occupation of the Makalolo country and the Shire River district.

The Kaiser as a Labor Reformer.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Emperor William, in a rescript to Prince Bismarck, refers to his desire to ameliorate the position of the workingmen. He desires that the ambassadors of France, England, Belgium and Switzerland shall be officially asked whether their Governments are disposed to come to an international agreement with Germany with a view to meeting the needs and wishes of workmen as revealed in the recent strikes and labor disputes. When the principle of the Emperor's proposal is accepted Prince Bismarck is empowered to invite all the nations interested to attend a labor conference.

THE ANCASTER MYSTERY.

Who Was the Murdered Man?—Carelessness with Firearms.

HAMILTON, Feb. 5.—There have been no fresh developments regarding the mystery of the gruesome find on Ed. Passmore's farm, beyond the fact—which seems to be pretty well established—that it cannot be the skull of James Harris, to whom it was at first supposed to belong. He was drowned at Buffalo. Dr. Richardson, however, is confident that the skull is that of a negro, and he is equally confident that the man on whose shoulders it once rested was murdered. The hole is directly in the centre of the crown, and must have been made while the skull was green. It is such a hole as would have been made by a bullet of No. 22 calibre.

John Meinke, 16 Nightingale-street, has reported to the police that a rifle ball was fired through a window in his house last night, falling at the foot of his daughter, who was sitting at the piano.

Joseph Pittman, formerly of Toronto, has withdrawn his action for slander against William Stroud of this city.

Thomas Sharp, lunatic, escaped from the asylum yesterday.

A DYNAMITE PLOT.

Discovery of an Infernal Machine in the Capitol at Washington.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A Washington despatch to The Evening Sun says: A startling discovery was made at 2.30 this afternoon in the rotunda of the Capitol. Concealed in one of the spittoons was found a small box about the circumference of a silver dollar and an inch thick. It was filled with a dull-looking compound with a cap attached and something that was apparently designed for a fuse. The box was taken charge of by the Capitol police and the captain of the watch experimented with a a minute quantity of the contents. The results showed that they consisted of explosives of a high power. The design of depositing the box in the rotunda is yet a mystery.

Up Goes Window Glass.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 5.—The American Window Glass Importers' Association, including representatives of every glass importing firm in the country, met here to-day and advanced the price of window glass 5 per cent for the next five days, at the end of which time there will be an advance of 10 per cent. This advance is attributed to an increase of 20 to 40 per cent in the price of glass in Europe and to the advance made by the American window glass manufacturers. The next meeting will be held here March 6, when it is very likely there will be another rise in the price.

La Grippe Invades Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 5.—The influenza epidemic is increasing in Mexico. Whole settlements of Indians have been attacked and the death rate is high. In Guadalajara the disease is especially prevalent. The military hospitals are unable to accommodate the large number of sick.

Six Sailors Drowned.

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—The Steamer Plamemore from London, reports that on Jan. 26 she took off Captain Putte and seven of the crew of the ship Josephine (Norwegian), from New York for Dantzic, with a cargo of oil. The ship was abandoned in a sinking condition. Five men were washed overboard by a heavy sea and one man fell off the jibboom.

An Edge Tool Combine.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 5.—The American Axe and Edge Tool Company was formed here today. It comprises all the axe and edge tool companies in the country, having purchased their plants. The capital stock is $4,000,000. The company will employ 10,000 men. The alleged object is not to advance prices, but to economise production.

$25,000 Refused for Bow Bells.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 5.—The Hermitage stud of this city to-day declined an offer of $25,000 for Bow Bells, 2, by Bletchmer, dam Beautiful Belle. He is a full brother to the noted Bell Boy and will be shipped from Palo Alto to Nashville next week.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh, Falls Vt., publishers of A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner al the diseases which afflict this no animal, is phenomial sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

"There was a frog who lived in a spring,
He caught such a cold he could not sing."

Poor, unfortunate Jacchinni! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "green house" is utterly spoiled by a cold in the head, or on the lungs, or both combined. For the reason mentioned "croakers" are not aware that any remedy was ever devised by which they could know that the human singers may keep their heads clear and throats in tune by the timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by druggists.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh in the Head, no matter of how long standing, while for all lurking, troublesome, throat and lung affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively unequaled. It cures the worst lingering coughs and bursts up the deep seated strength of those who have been reduced by wasting diseases. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all diseases for which it is recommended, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it refunded.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

Dr. PIERCE'S PELLETS

regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. They are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. One a Dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and constipation. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into scurvy, disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and as little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, restless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the seat of life seems in a Hindoo Idol, oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is hope, will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is an rich tonic liquid, a vegetable preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by invigorating the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, never does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartics. Drastic, but never force, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this smaller medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, eruptions, impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their medium have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, or Costiveness, it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease By timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy free to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

DR. T. A. SLOCUM,
164, West Adelaide st., Toronto, Ont

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a peculiar feature of Dakoot in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplies fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to miss it. very Druggist sells it. Be money well spent. See Dorenwends advertisement in another column.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moistures, intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore.

WARNER'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

18 000 000 in One Day

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into savory, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak. Uninterrupted good digestion may be insured, the secretive activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the old Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier introduced into Canada.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada, Office—Front St opposite Ritchie's Branch Office Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. FLINT, Q.C. F. J. M. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

Tim Bredick

ABLE TIM. Solicitor Notary Public Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $300,000 to loan at 6% on easy terms Low charges Office Sterling, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C. BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c., Office Mc Bean Annany Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

William H. Ponton

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer. Office over Express Company's Office, Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville. Private funds to loan. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Poli,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. Private funds to loan.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to office of G. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Bridge street Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, Q. C. D. MACAULAY Private and Company funds to loan at low est rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Attorneys etc Solicitor &c. Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont.
G. E. HENDERSON Q.C., F. G. HENDERSON
County Crown Attorney
Clerk of the Peace Office at Co Hall

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Buildings, opposite Post Office Belleville and Madoc Block Madoc.
A. McDONALD.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc Offices—Corner bridge and Front streets Belleville, Ontario. Money to loan.
JOHN BELL, Q. C. H. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

N. TRACY, M.D.,

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal.

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.
OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas oldStand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. P. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville Telephone connection.

Ellsworth Embury M. D., C. M.

QUEENS UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Hill and's jewellery store, opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. E. Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, will be at the Dorcas Street General Hospital, Toronto, every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Office and residence 276 Queen Street East, Toronto.

S. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S. (HOMOEOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbott.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licences, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. O. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,

SURGEON Dentist, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A SURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT OF MANY OF THE CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

CATARRH.

"CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Catarrhal diseases are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated which is by cleansing, soothing and healing applications, three times daily, followed by the patient once in a month, for a few weeks, is proving to be not a snuff or ointment; both have been tried in vain by reputable physicians for years. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free by addressing Dr. Nevins & Dixon, 305 King St. West, Toronto, Canada. Mention this paper.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE

FRONT St Belleville

Prof. Loisette's

MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which abide the exposed disappointment they will meet with the genuine discriminating people will not be competitors, and inspite of false attempts to rob him of the fruit of his labors, full of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his technical Prof. Loisette's Art of Memory Perfecting is recognized today in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Modern Mental Culture. Prospectus post free on application of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that their acquirements are "Marvelous beyond belief" afterwards that any book can be learned in a single Perusal of the Prospectus post free.

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King

For sale only at R. TEMPLETON

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

FOR SALE.

A few hundered large size cedar post. A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new Cultivator frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

P S—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

D LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Homeseeker takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.

The Miner takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, books and guides of the regions reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. St Paul, Minn.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE ELECTRO VITALIC CURE for EARLY OR LATE EXPOSURE, Loss of Vitality, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, General and Nervous Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young, Robust, Noble Manhood fully restored. Has no Failures and Strengthens Weak, Undeveloped Organs or Parts of Body. Absolutely no Stimulants. Cures in Less Time than any other Electric Appliance. Sent on trial. Illustrated pamphlet with full particulars, proofs, etc., mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

SAFE WANTED

SECOND HAND. Apply at this office.

AN XTENISVE ASSORTMENT OF FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the "ONTARIO" OFFICE

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. A Shop and manufactory, Front St, East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

There is hardly any other disease which undermines the health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which inspires the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE OR DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Will visit professionally, Belleville, Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

30 Million Pounds MENIER CHOCOLATE

DRANK AND EATEN EVERY YEAR.

WHY? BECAUSE of all CHOCOLATES It is the purest and best.

Paris Exposition, 1889 { 3 GRAND PRIZES. 5 GOLD MEDALS.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER.

—FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.—

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

THE CRYSTAL HALL

Announce that they intend closing our all ODDS AND ENDS such as

Matchings of Dinner Sets, Bed Room Sets, Odd Lots of Tumblers, Wines, Goblets and all kinds of Glassware.

These Goods we will clear out at Greatly Reduced Prices

We find we also have a number of very fine Dinner Sets and Tea Sets in which some of the pieces are short. All of which we will close out at very low figures

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch, Manager.

The best Food to impart Strength

This is the testimony of all who have used

JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF

The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food

It con ains "Albumen"—"Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phosphates. In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

Call an see them at

CONGER BROS,

We sell our Stock of Crockery China and Glassware to CASH, as well as given away as Prizes with our TEAS and COFFEES and ELEVATOR BAKING POWDER

CAP casure to show goods.

No Pimples on baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema. Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he had all of his hair, his scalp was covered with eruptions, which the doctor said was scald head and that the hair would never grow again. Knowing this, and from physicians I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now going all and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and surest of all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has a skin diseased child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—cured for a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. CARSON, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 50c. SOAP, 35c. RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

VARIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

HAPPY -- THOUGHT -- RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R. CHOWN.

FOR THE

PICKLING SEASON

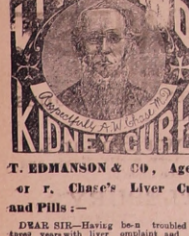
Pure Cider Vinegar,
English Malt Vinegar,
White wine Vinegar,
(Pure and Fresh

Spices.

(Whole Ground)

Mixed Pickling Spices (whole)
Celery Seed Mustard Seed, Tumeric
Currie Powder, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 to 37 Bridge St.
Also Front Street, opp Rink



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, and they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain, Yours, HENRY LIGHT.

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

M. C. ROBLIN.

—DEALER IN—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance. Front St opp Agg's American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS &c.

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT. AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

At last there came a day—the most blessed of my life—when we told our love. We had been together all the morning, but after dinner Mr. Carson was so unwell that Stella stopped in with him. At supper we met again, and after supper, when she had put little Tota to whom she had grown much attached, to bed, we went out, leaving Mr. Carson dozing on the couch. The night was warm and lovely, and without speaking we walked up the garden to the orange grove and sat down there upon a rock. There was a little breeze which shook the petals of the orange bloom over us in showers, and upon our faces their delicate fragrance fan and wide. Silence reigned around, broken only by the sound of the falling waterfalls that now died to a faint murmur, and now, as the wavering breeze turned, boomed loudly in our ears. The moon was not yet visible, but already the dark clouds that floated through the sky above us—for there had been rain—showed a glow of silver, telling us that she shone brightly behind the peak.

Stella began to talk in her low, gentle voice, telling me of her life in the wilderness, how she had grown to love it, how her mind had gone on from idea to idea, and how she pictured the great rushing world that she had never seen as it was reflected to her from the books which she had read. "It was a curious vision of life that she had; things were out of proportion in it; it was more like a dream than a reality—a mirage than the actual face of things. The idea of great cities, and especially of London, had a kind of fascination for her; she could scarcely realize the rush, the roar and hurry, the hard crowds of men and women, strangers each to each, feverishly seeking for wealth and pleasure beneath a murky sky, and treading one another down in the fury of competition.

"What is it all for" she asked, earnestly. "What do they seek? Having so few years to live, why do they waste them thus"

I told her that in the majority of instances it was actual hard necessity that drove them on, but she could scarcely realize it. Living as she had done, in the midst of the teeming plenty of the fruitful earth, she did not seem to understand that there are millions who from day to day know not how to stay their hunger.

"I never want to go there," she went on. "I should be bewildered and frightened to death. It is not natural to live like that. God put Adam and Eve in a garden, and that is how he meant their children to live—in peace, and looking always on beautiful things. This is my idea of perfect life. I want no other."

"I thought that you once told me that you found it lonely," I said.

"So I did," she answered innocently, "but that was before you came. Now I am not lonely any more, and it is perfect—perfect as the night."

Just then the full moon rose above the shoulder of the peak, and her rays stole far and wide down the misty valley, gleaming on the water, brooding on the plain, searching out the hidden places of the rocks, wrapping the fair form of nature as in a silver bridal veil through which her beauty shone mysteriously.

Stella looked down the terraced valley; she turned and looked up at the scarred face of the golden moon, and then she looked at me. The beauty of the night was about her face, the scent of the night was on her hair, the mystery of the night shone in her shadowed eyes. She looked at me, I looked at her, and all our hearts' love blossomed within us. We spoke no word—we had no words to speak, but slowly we drew near, till lips were pressed to lips as we kissed our eternal troth.

It was she who broke that holy silence, speaking in a changed voice, in soft deep notes that thrilled me like the lowest chords of a smitten harp.

"Ah, now I understand," she said, "now I know why we are lonely, and how we can lose our loneliness. Now I know what it is that stirs us in the beauty of the sky, in the sound of water and in the scent of flowers. It is love that speaks in everything, but till we hear his voice we understand nothing. But when we hear then the riddle is answered and the gates of our heart are opened; and, Allan, we see the way that wends through death to heaven, and is lost in the glory of which our love is but a shadow.

"Let us go in, Allan. Let us go before the spell breaks, so that whatever comes to us, sorrow, death or separation, we may always have this perfect memory to save us."

I rose like a man in a dream, still holding her by the hand. But as I rose my eyes fell upon something that gleamed white among the foliage of the orange bush at my side. I said nothing, but looked. The breeze stirred the orange leaves, the moonlight struck for a moment full upon the white object.

It was the face of Hendrika, the babyan woman, as Indaba-zimbi had called her, and on it was a glare of hate that made me shudder.

I said nothing; the face vanished, and just then I heard a baboon bark in the rocks behind.

Then we went down the garden, and Stella passed into the center hut. I saw Hendrika standing in the shadow near the door and went up to her.

"Hendrika," I said, "why were you watching Miss Stella and myself in the garden?"

She drew her lips up till her teeth gleamed in the moonlight.

"Have I not watched her these many years, Macumazahn? Shall I cease to watch her because a wandering white man comes to steal her? Why were you kissing her in the garden, Macumazahn? How dare you kiss her who is a star?"

"I kissed her because I love her, and because she loves me," I answered. "What has that to do with you, Hendrika?"

"Because you love her," she hissed in answer, "and do I not love her also, who saved like from the babyans? I am a woman as she is, and you are a man, and they say in the kraals that men love women better than women love women. But it is a lie, though this is true, that if a woman loves a man she forgets all other love. Have I not seen it? I gather her flowers—beautiful flowers; I climb the rocks where you would never dare to go to find them; you pluck a piece of orange bloom in the garden and give it her. What does she do? She takes the orange bloom, she puts it in her breast, and lets my flowers die. I call to her—she does not hear me—she is thinking. You whisper to some one far away, and she hears and smiles. She used to kiss me sometimes; now she kisses that white brat you brought, because you brought it. Oh, I see it all! I have seen it from the first; you are stealing her from us, stealing her to yourself, and those who loved her before you came are forgotten. Be careful, Macumazahn, be careful, lest I am revenged upon you. You, you hate me; you think me half a monkey; that servant of yours calls me baboon woman. Well, I have lived with baboons, and they are clever—yes, they can play tricks and know things you don't, and I am cleverer than they, for I have learnt the wisdom of white people also, and I say to you, 'Walk softly, Macumazahn, or you will fall into a pit,' and with one more look of malice she was gone.

I stood for a moment reflecting. I was afraid of this strange creature who seemed to combine the cunning of the great apes that had reared her with the passion and skill of human kind. I foreboded evil at her hands. And yet there was something almost touching in the fierceness of her jealousy. It is generally supposed that this passion only exists in strength when the object loved is of another sex from the lover, but I confess that, both in this instance and in some others that I have met with, this has not been my experience. I have known men, and especially uncivilized men, who were as jealous of the affection of their friend or master as any lover could be of that of his mistress; and who has not seen cases of the same thing where parents and their children were concerned? But the lower one gets in the scale of humanity the more readily this passion thrives; indeed, it may be said to come to its intensest perfection in brutes. Women are more jealous than men, small hearted men are more jealous than those of larger mind and wider sympathy, and animals are the most jealous of all. Now Hendrika was in some ways not far removed from animal, which may perhaps account for the ferocity of her jealousy of her mistress' affection.

Shutting off my presentiments of evil, I entered the center hut. Mr. Carson was resting on the sofa, and by him knelt Stella holding his hand, and her head resting on his breast. I saw at once that she had been telling him of what had come about between us; nor was I sorry, for it is a task that a would-be son-in-law is generally glad to do by deputy.

"Come here, Allan Quatermain," he said, almost sternly, and my heart gave a jump, for I feared lest he might be about to require me to go about my business. But I came.

"Stella tells me," he went on, "that you two have entered into a marriage engagement. She tells me also that she loves you, and that you say that you love her."

"I do indeed, sir," I broke in: "I love her truly; if ever a woman was loved in this world I love her."

"I think heaven for it," said the old man. "Listen, my children. Many years ago a great shame and sorrow fell upon me, so great a sorrow that, as I sometimes think, it affected my brain. At any rate, I determined to do what most men would have considered the act of a madman, to go far away into the wilderness with my only child, there to live remote from civilization and its evils. I did so; I found this place, and here we have lived for many years, happily enough, and perhaps not to without doing good in our generation, but still in a way unnatural to our race and status. At first I thought that I would let my daughter grow up in a state of complete ignorance, that she should be nature's child. But as time went on, I saw the folly and the wickedness of my plan. I had no right to degrade her to the level of the savages around me, for if the fruit of the tree of knowledge is a bitter fruit, still it teaches good from evil. So I educated her as well as I was able, till in the end I knew that in mind, as in body, she was in no way inferior to her sisters, the children of the civilized world.

She grew up and entered into womanhood, and then it came into my mind that I was doing her a bitter wrong, that I was separating her from her kind and keeping her in a wilderness where she could find neither mate nor companion. But though I knew this, I could not yet make up my mind to return to active life; I had grown to love this place. I dreaded to return into the world I had abjured. Again and again I put my resolutions aside. Then at the commencement of this year I fell ill. For a while I waited, hoping that I might get better, but at last I realized that I should never get better, that the hand of death was upon me."

"Ah, no, father, not that!" Stella said, with a cry.

"Yes, love, that, and it is true. Now you will be able to forget our separation in the happiness of a new meeting." And he glanced at me and smiled. "Well, when this knowledge came home to me, I determined to abandon this place and trek for the coast, though I could know that the journey would kill me. I should never live to reach it. But Stella would, and it would be better than leaving her here alone with savages in the wilderness. On the very day that I had made up my mind to take this step Stella found you dying in the bad lands, Allan Quatermain, and brought you here. She brought you, of all men in the world, you, whose father had been my dearest friend, and who once with your baby hands had saved her life from fire, that she might live to save yours from thirst. At the time I said little, but I saw the hand of Providence in this, and I determined to wait and see what came about between you. At the worst, if nothing came about, I could learn that I could trust you to see her safely to the coast after I was gone. But many days ago I knew how it stood between you, and now things have come about as I prayed they might. God bless you both, my children; may you be happy in your love; may it endure till death and beyond it. God bless you both," and he stretched out his hand toward me.

TO BE CONTINUED

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Dislress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEAD ACHE

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEADACHE

they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's Nerviline pain cure. Nerviline

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Foot

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold en Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Cream Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerviline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerviline.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue ulcers form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcerations, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

DR. DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent mixture to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and wherever you may any his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper, wh n writing

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 20,216,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT,
Office:—Rowe'ss Block Front Street

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Exercising and stuffing the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful Pretenders. Possess this great Medical Work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, W. H. Parker, M.D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston. Mass. To whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. CHICAGO, ILL.

MANUFACTURERS OF THE CELEBRATED DOMESTIC SUNNY SWEET CAKE.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Shortness of the Breath, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the powerful influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from improper or excessive for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. This Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street,

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt,
Thos. Donnelly.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. It is safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed

THE POPULAR

NEW STORY.

The writer of "The Judge" has earned for herself the reputation of being original in thought.

MRS. ELIA W. PEATTIE

The stories in this paper are new and moral in tone. They may be read by all who can read.

"The -:- Judge."

THOSE who are fond of stories will be pleased to learn that the new story to be published in these columns will be the best that has been published in a newspaper for many years. It is original in conception, and differs from the usual style. The characters are clean cut and well brought out.

THE story is a prize story. It was selected out of hundreds. It is not by an amateur, but by Mrs. Elia W. Peattie is one of the best story writers of to-day. She has earned for herself the reputation of being one of the foremost in the ranks of lady authors. Her articles appear in the best magazines.

ALL the incidents are vividly described and the author never keeps her reader waiting for interesting passages. The whole story is full of interest. There is a murder. There is the judge who tells quaint legal incidents. There is a live newspaper man. There is enough humor to enliven the more heavy part of the story. There is a good plot well worked out.

I AM delighted with "The Judge," said a critic who has read the story. "The Judge" will more than satisfy the average reader. It will please all. The man who thinks it "the old story" will learn that he has not yet fathomed all the incidents that occur in every day life. The woman who says "Oh, it is all about love!" will find something interesting to her.

WHEN you have started "The Judge" you will continue to lay the paper from day to day till it is finished. No doubt about this. Toread this story will be like reading in a new field of novel literature. There are so many surprises, yet they are consistent.

WITH each chapter the reader becomes fascinated and waits anxiously for the next. These who read "The Judge" will say it is powerfully written and the interest well maintained. The author has chosen a new field for her labors. There is a freshness about the story that gives it zest and the reader never becomes weary of it.

Be sure and get the first instalment. There is no long preamble. The writer introduces her characters in rapid succession and one scene quickly follows another.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc.

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Toronto Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White" Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pepsan

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN.

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, OR BLOOD.

Established over 20 years

All goods warranted first class. Write once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. All goods warranted first class. Write once for terms. Address

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital, ... $15,000,000.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium notes, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.
Losses paid in 1888..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1888..... $136,260.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on any property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle Street.

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

is equal to an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Oven or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO. OF WATERTOWN, N.Y.

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the contents therein, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to severe fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two millions in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $600,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of $105,000 Parties desiring to insure their dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District Agent, Belleville
W HARVEY, agent Stirling.
J. Martin agent Stirling.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada, CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send one cent stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made expressly for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Navel Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Physicians, hospitals, benevolent dealing, and the very best goods have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO, ONTARIO

REMNANTS!

We are now stock taking at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

and are throwing out all Remnants and odds and ends of stock and are

JOBBING THEM OFF

at what they will bring. We have more remnants than usual this season as a result of our

Great Removal Sale

and we will sacrifice them so as to get our stock into good snap for the spring Reductions in all classes of Winter Goods.

Remnants of Carpets

Very Cheap.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 6 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Clennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN,
d1y Tuner.

Shift of Head Gear.

William McDonald had a Persian lamb cap stolen from him last night while doing up the town. When he came to his senses this morning his head was graced with an old corduroy cap worth about fifteen cents.

Surrogate Court.

Samuel Maclearn, Port Hope, applies for administration of the estate of his late mother Mary Westfall who lived in Sidney recently. The estate is a small one amounting to $400 to be divided equally among son, daughter, and husband.

Rev Dr Wild's Farewell.

Dr. Wild is not enjoying the best of health, and will preach farewell sermons to his congregation next Sunday. He will go to San Francisco and thence to the Holy Land, and may be away between four and six months.

Rev. Dr. Grant.

Dr. Grant of Queen's University will lecture at Bridge street church to-morrow evening under the auspices of the Albert College foreign mission fund on "The need of more specialization in mission work."

Mock Parliament.

At the regular meeting of the mock parliament this evening the member for Winnipeg will introduce a resolution favoring the abolition of the Canadian senate. It is expected that this step will provoke a lively discussion upon this important Canadian issue.

C P. R. Connection.

L. W. Yeomans and A. N. Reid have left for Ottawa to interview the minister in reference to securing a subsidy for the proposed C. P. R connection at Tweed. Ex-Ald. N. B. Faulkner who is now in Montreal, is expected to join them. The matter will be urgently pressed upon the government by L. W. Yeomans will proceed to New York on business.

Not Improving.

Rev. R. Robinson is conscious but his condition is no better. The result is uncertain.

Prof. Greene of the institute is still in a critical condition. It was thought at one time yesterday that he had recovered consciousness. If reason had returned it was only for a brief period. Contusion of the brain is what the doctors have to contend with.

Murcheson Society.

At the last meeting of the Murcheson society O. C. Geenleaf presented a weather report showing that the wind had travelled during January at an average rate of three miles an hour. The water fall was 2¾ inches. The barometer registered a maximum 30.71, mean 30.13 and minimum 29.44. The maximum of the thermometer was 48 degrees above zero., mean 24 degrees and it attained a minimum of 3 degrees below zero. S A. Gardiner also read an interesting paper on the causes of the variations of the barometer.

North Hastings Teachers.

At the North Hastings Teacher's Institute recently held at Madoc, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President—Wm Mackintosh, I P S.
1st Vice—Jos Reid, H M H S, Stirling.
2nd Vice, A H Watson, HMHS, Madoc.
Recording Sec—D Marshall.
Corresponsing Sec—Miss L Chapman.
Treasurer—J B Morton.
Librarian—Miss M Mackintosh.
Delegates—Geo Sine and D Marshall.
Committee of Management—Messrs. Williams, Sager, Meiklejohn, Ames, MacArthur, Clarke and Misses Hales and Tivey.

Bread Thieves Detected.

William Oatham and Fred Percy were arrested at the Station school house today on a charge of stealing bread from John McCreary's bake shop on Station street on Saturday last. The boys who are only about twelve years of age pleaded guilty. Entrance was secured to the shop by means of false keys. Another juvenile named Frank Young, when he heard the police were after him left the school before the officers could arrest him.

The youth Frank Young was afterwards arrested at his home by an officer. When the boys were arraigned before the magistrate he administered a severe reprimand and dismissed them with the injunction that he would not deal so leniently with them if they ever appeared before him again on a similar charge.

HE WANTED THE BODY.

A CREDITOR'S PLAN TO RECOVER A LOAN.

A Thurlow man who Would Interrupt a Funeral to get his Money.

As striking an example of what man will do for money, as the country now produces is related of a resident of Thurlow. He had a claim against a certain person who lived and died in the United States. A friend of the deceased became involved and gave notes to satisfy his creditors. The deceased went to his rescue and between them matters were patched up. As soon as it could be done without exciting suspicion the parties left the country. It was then that the note holders found that their paper was valueless. Both the parties have paid the debt of nature. The last to die was the one who had given assistance, and friends brought the remains to Canada for burial. A holder of a note signed by the deceased, hearing that the body was to arrive in expected to have sought advice from a local lawyer to ascertain if there was any law that would allow him to seize the body until the claim should be satisfied. Lawyers have hard things said of them but there is one in town, at least, whose feelings were outraged by the proposition and the world be chant, it is stated, was informed that his proposition was not in accord with the law as it is read in this enlightened era.

ORPHEUS MUSICAL CLUB

The First of a Series of Popular Entertainments

The Orpheus Musical club presented their first programme to a select audience in the Oddfellows' hall last night. Miss Maud Burdette, Belleville's Albani, never Can any nation stand the disintegrating sang to better advantage and her appearance was the signal for enthusiastic applause from the audience. Her song entitled 'O Luce Di Quest Anima' was enthusiastically encored. Prof. Toerjee also won new laurels for himself. His violin solo entitled the 'Polish National Dance' was received with much favor by all present. The popular professor has established a reputation among the music loving citizens which cannot easily be shaken and his friends will be pleased to learn that he intends assisting himself with several musical entertainments during the winter. Miss Matilda Diamond rendered a recitation entitled "The Road to the Trenches." It was one of the best features of the evening and she was forced to appear a second time on the platform. Prof. W B. Rigps gave a cornet solo to the delight of all present. Miss Mabel Wilson gave a piano solo while the Cecelia orchestra also contributed largely to the entertainment of the evening.

It may here be mentioned that the Orpheus musical club intend to give periodical rehersals embracing some of the best musical and vocal talent in the Bay city. Every effort should be made to encourage the promoters in their praiseworthy efforts

Amusements.

The entertainment by Miss Nor Clench assisted by Mrs. Caldwell, Miss Colville and Mr. Fred Warrington will be one of the best music events of the season. The Buffalo Courier of Nov. 27th says: The feature of the evening was the violin playing of Miss Nora Clench, who is a Leipsic graduate and has just returned to her home in St. Marys, Ont. She brings with her the highest recommendation of that celebrated school, and she is a pupil of whom her masters may be more than proud. It is not bestowing too much praise to speak of her as an artist, for she has the true artistic expression, combined with marvelous facility as an executant. Her playing of the Aires Hongrois was repeatedly interrupted by the audience with applause, and she was compelled to play an encore after declining twice to appear. The prophecy of the COURIER years ago is certainly fulfilled, and Miss Clench is now one of the most charming concert players upon the stage.

TOWN TALK.

T. A. Ostrander, grocer, Picton, has assigned for the benefit of his creditors.

Walter Fanning shipped a car load of horses to Highgate Centre Vt., yesterday.

The next meeting of the W. C. T. U. will (D. V.) be held on the 14th inst. at 3. p. m. in he M. T. Hall.

We have a lot of remants of shirtings. They are fast colors and will be sold cheap. 2: A. E. FISH & Co.

Haverley's Minestrels which were to have appeared here in April have cancelled their date. They have changed their route entirely.

PROBS.—North-west to north-east winds; partly cloudy weather with local falls of snow; not much change in temperature.

Notwithstanding the increased asylum accommodation provided by Mr. Mowat we notice that the Belleville Intelligencer is still at liberty.—Hamilton Times.

The morning express which jumped the track near Trenton yesterday was not righted until three p. m. Traffic was suspended on the road and all the trains were late.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.
f6d4wly

Literary.

The brother of President Harrison's private secretary, Mr. A. J Halford, has written for the March number of the Philadelphia Ladies' Home Journal an article on "Mrs. Harrison's Daily Life in the White House," prepared with the consent and assistance of Mrs. Harrison. A new portrait of the lady of the White House especially taken for this article and a view of the up-stairs family rooms of the Executive Mansion are among the illustrations which will accompany Mr. Halford's first magazine effort.

Successful Advertising.

Mr. R. J. Devlin, of Ottawa, one of the most successful advertisers in Canada and the writer of the spiciest advertisements published in any papers in the Dominion, in his regular advertising space in the Ottawa papers on Saturday said:

"By a judicious use of printers' ink since the 15th of January, I have sold over five thousand dollars worth of furs in excess of what I had a right to anticipate.

"In connection with the above I may add that although printers' ink is of great assistance to the merchant it is not everything.

"If the merchant advertises what he has not got or exaggerates in any way, or if the articles are not as represented all the advertising in the world is useless—worse than useless."

Mr. Devlin's experience is that of all successful advertisers, and we give it for the benefit of those who may think "that advertising does not pay."

PROTESTANTS VS. CATHOLICS.

And in Death as in Life They are Still Divided

To the Editor of the Ontario.

Sir,—I notice in the 'death record' published yesterday, that in the official returns of our medical health officer, who therein does as the (so called) law directs, that there is perpetuated what has so often struck me both in this and other connections as a retrograde exception to the boasted progress of our modern civilization and our social compact. I mean the separation, even after death, as in life, of our protestant and roman catholic fellow citizens. It is bad enough to have our young people growing up side by side, yet separated in a national school sense. And for this I always contend that protestants are as much responsible as Roman catholics who in past years having been insulted perforce in everything, have now claimed the right to schoolastic and religious isolation. In the light of the past no one can wonder at this and no one can quarrel with this from any other stand point than the national, which concerns alone the greatest good of the greatest number and the safe pilotage of the ship of state. But what does call for protest from every citizen of whatever creed, is the carrying out of this policy of demarcation and disintegration into other things than the religions of fellow citizens and making the sensitive barbed wire barriers more impassable, by the acts of the churches or the law; verily in some cases the 'strength of sin is the law.' In our ordinary business, everyday relationship as citizens, does the thought ever enter into the mind of any well disposed and well balanced man 'Am I dealing with or speaking to a protestant or a Roman Catholic?' I hope not, yet I am told there is fanaticism generated partly by educational prejudice and partly by warped association, strong enough for even this. process which seems to be more frictional every year and which is gradually covering over the traces of charity, tolerance and good-will! We must unite to promote union at home before we expect an all-powerful federal union with others. The problem will not be solved nor the end attained so long as ecclesiastics and laymen are separated nor so long as even the angel death is officially presumed to visit Protestants and Roman Catholics in diverse fashion. We learn monthly that (as per report) 21 persons died—4 still born; 5 from consumption; 4 from congestion of the lungs; 4 from old age; 1 from general debility; and 1 infant 3 months old. All this is very interesting and we are not told how many were Anglicans, how many Methodists, how many Baptists; then why is it necessary to tell us that of these 21, 17 souls were Protestant and 4 souls were Roman Catholic? If the law goes so far as this why not go farther and insist on a careful and critical analysis as to what creed were the five little innocents adherent, whose early departure from the "rack of this rough world" is above chronicled. Not content with the present, the report deals with a carefully tabulated record of past mortality showing that sometimes the P's and sometimes the R. C's (to use the elegant nomenclature employed) had the advantage. Here it is:—"The following were the deaths in January for the past five years: 1889, 10 P's, 3 R C's; 1888, 12 P's, 5 R C's; 1887, 16 P's 7, R C's; 1886 "8 P's 11 R C's; 1885, 20 P's, 9 R C's.

Might we not with equal reason (or want of it) make our newspaper reports of say municipal election meetings, read some way in this line: "Mr "Tickell had a booming meeting at his head-quarters last night. Several clergymen representing their respective Denominations lent him their encouragement. There were at least 200 souls present of whom 149 were P's and 51 R C's, or "Mr. Anderson hasten much of "an undertaking on hand w on he spoke "to the Mayoralty. He is a lawyer and "we believe a Presbyterian, but on this "point he will not commit himself. There "were not more than 90 souls present at "this meeting last night of whom 60 were P's and 30 R C's." Of course I am well aware that ridicule will not cure, but ridicule sometimes opens our eyes to an unnatural state of division to which we are becoming too accustomed.

Other instances might be multiplied in which the Pharisaic idea of "come not near me" is fostered particularly in sensitive minds and by means of which the whole national life is insensibly tinged though often repetition. When Canada is liberal enough to cast off her swaddling clothes and recognize that we all have one aim, one destiny and should have one national life independent of sectional creeds made sectional deliberately by herself it will be time enough to talk about Independance and not before. Meanwhile let us annex ourselves to ourselves and have a little more honest reciprocity from which strength and self-respect will flow. Much can be accomplished by open individual (as distinguished from political) discussion and endeavor. He is the freeman whom the truth makes free, but the truth wants light and sometimes humanly speaking a little electricity to give it the dynamic force required to penetrate humanity.

Yours &c.
W. N. PONTON.

An Afflicted Family

Wm. Foley aged 60 years, living just outside the city limits on the Kingston road, has a desolate household. Today while two years ago he had two sons and a daughter who were the pride and hope of his life. Two years ago his daughter aged 25 years, contracted a heavy cold which resulted in consumption and finally caused her death. A few months later his youngest son aged 19 was prostrated by typhoid fever which proved fatal. About the same time his oldest son, then working at the Grand Trunk had his leg broken. He recovered and about six months ago contracted an illness which resulted in his death on Tuesday. He was buried at 2:30 to-day at the age of 23 years. The father and mother are the sole survivors of the household.

Gokey v Doble.

Miss Kate A. Gokey, the plaintiff in the late breach of promise of marriage suit for $10,000 against Samuel Doble, is now residing a few miles from Toronto with some kind-hearted people who took charge of her for the present. She is recovering, from the effects of her collapse after the trial, but dreads to meet any member of her own family since the exposure of the case. She is, in fact, concealed from them. Her sister came from Guelph a few days ago, but was compelled to go home without finding her.

Lost.

You have lost your appetite if you have had the grippe but have found it if you have visited the Marshall Pitson Fish Store. This week we have frozen salmon, fresh halibut steak, fresh bluefish, bake, cod haddock, flounders, frozen sea herring, shell lobster, oysters. All kinds of pickle, and smoked fish, etc. Cisicoes and several other kinds expected in a day or two. Near Wallace's candy store; opposite Goldsmith's old stand. 29 1w

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

RAILWAY SMASH.

TRAIN HANDS KILLED NEAR ST. THOMAS.

A Midnight Disaster on the Michigan Central—Cars Piled as High as the Station House—The Injured—Miraculous Escapes.

(Special to the ONTARIO.)

ST. THOMAS, Ont, Feb. 6.—A terrible accident occurred on the Michigan Central railroad at Yarmouth centre about four miles east of this city about midnight last night, whereby engineer John Cook, one of the oldest on the line lost his life. Several trainmen were injured and much valuable property destroyed. The accident was a side collision between an east bound train which consisted of 35 cars of stock and a west bound train made up of empties and heavies loaded with coal. The latter train was on the main line and had right of way. The accident happened at a switch where the east bound train was supposed to come to a stop. This however, it failed to do, and the engines struck each other with a terrible crash just opposite the station house. The cars of the west bound train piled up one on top of the other until they rested on the roof of the station. Engineer Cook of this train was instantly killed. Fireman King had a miraculous escape. The engineer and conductor of the other train jumped and escaped injury, but Fireman Elliott was caught between the cab and tender. He however managed to extricate himself. Brakeman Thompson was thrown into the ditch and badly injured. The chief loss is on the westbound train of which a dozen cars were wrecked.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

James White, Madoc, is in the city.

Charles Lockerty, tobacconist, is seriously ill.

C. Kinsley, St. Paul, is at the Kyle House.

W. D. McRae, Kingston, is at the Kyle house.

John Turner, Campbellford, is at the Queen's.

W. McConnell, Guelph, is at the Queens.

Geo. Martin, Tweed, is at the Anglo American.

W. E. Gladney, ex-reeve of Marmora, is in the city.

James McCormack, Tamworth, is at the Dominion.

L. T. Tilson, St. Paul is at the Dominion house.

J. Mitchell, Kingston, is registered at the Anglo American.

L. D. Williams, Camden East, is registered at the Dominion.

The late Mrs. J. M. Walker was buried in the cemetery to-day.

Mr. William Rees, formerly of this office, now of Rochester, is home on a short visit.

Rev. Dr. DeWitt Talmage and his family arrived Tuesday on the steamer Aurania. The doctor is in fine health.

Rev. John Davidson, of North Williamsburg, is dead. He was 76 years old. He was probably the oldest minister in the Presbyterian church in connection with the church of Scotland, in this country, being one of those who declined to join the union of the Presbyterian bodies which now constitute the Presbyterian church in Canada.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians 'lightning catarrh,' from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers t the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of 'la grippe' or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the di ease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and cartarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing Fulton & Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

"Yes, Joe was a great fellow to get out of paying bills. Why, he fell off a thirty foot ladder the other day and got out of paying a doctors bill."

'How did he manage it?'

'Broke his neck.'

"If it hadn'd been for me little Harry Parker would have gotten a good licking today, ma. He struck me, you know."

"And what did you do, my son?"

"I didn't hit him back."

He—Why, I love you so much, Ethel that I'd die for you if you'd marry me.

She—I'd marry you if I believed it.

Landlady—So you came here for your health? Do you expect to live here?

New Boarder (who is in delicate health) No, not if I board with you.

Editor (writing to professional humorist)—Send some more 'grip' jokes.

Humorist (writing back)—Can't; I've got it.

Suddenly she rose while the car was going up the Jarvis near Fromfield street, on which no cars stop. The conductor hurried forward and warned her not to get off. She got off, and fell down, of course The car was stopped and she was lifted up and immediately resumed her seat in the car saying:

'Served me right; I have myself to blame for it.'

'Don't you want to stop here, madam?' said the conductor.

'No, I do not. I only got off because you told me not to do so.'

'Did you ever see that picture of the world resting on the back of a turtle?'

'No. I've seen one representing the earth revolving on a terra pin.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Prof's goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

HE PROSPERED ABROAD.

A Former Belleville Boy who has Accumulated Thousands.

J. M. Ashton, an old Belleville boy and a graduate of Albert College, was in the city to-day. Since he left Belleville ten years ago and located in Tacoma, W. T., he has amassed a large fortune in real estate. When he located in Tacoma it was only marked by a few houses. He immediately purchased land in the vicinity which soon after realized him a fortune. He is now solicitor for the Northern Pacific and has a large practice in the state. He was formerly student in the law office of Geo. D. Dickson, Q. C., here and studied in Dalton McCarthy's office in Toronto. Mr. Ashton is at present the guest of his sister Mrs. McMahon, wife of the late Eugene McMahon. When Mr. Ashton was seen by a reporter of the ONTARIO to-day in reference to free trade he expressed himself emphatically in favor of closer trade relations. He spoke glowingly of the prospects of the western country and thinks that free trade with the United States is the only salvation for Canada. Already there are hundreds of young Canadians getting rich in Tacoma. "Many of your so called loyal Tories in this country," Mr. Ashton continued, "would be effectually cured of a loyal protection sentiment after a residence of five or six months in the States. One thing I cannot understand, why should Canada spend millions of dollars annually to encourage trade with Spain and similarly situated countries while she does little or nothing to promote commerce with a country at her own doors possessed of sixty millions of people, and her natural market."

Mr. Ashton left to-night for New York. From there he will go to Washington and then back to Tacoma.

RAILWAY TRAVEL

Baggage Smashers to be Made to Pay for Their Fun

A bill is before the house of commons which will compel railway companies to do for the travelling public what no one person has been able to accomplish. The bill reads:

All railway trains for the conveyance of passengers shall be drawn up at the stations or other stopping places so as to enable passengers to alight from the car on to a platform which shall be constructed at each station or stopping place.

Passengers baggage shall not be thrown or cast from the baggage car to the platform, but proper appliances shall be provided on which baggage not removed by hand, shall be removed undamaged from the baggage car to the platform.

For neglect to comply with the provisions of this act damages may be recovered in a court. There is no appeal from the judgment of such a court.

Do Not be Deceived.

All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

BANKRUPT SALE
—OF—
BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS and VALISES.
"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK"
Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 per cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened
SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have
HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS
In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.
BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,
AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES.
We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:
Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts
Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out
COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.
J. BRASIER,
HATTER & FURRIER.

SALE CONTINUED
The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week
Terms of sale—Cash.
Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890
GEO. RITCHIE & CO.,

THE NEWEST
Of Fine Stationery is the Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes
—ALSO—
The Grey and Brown Holland.
With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at
C. B SCANTLEBURY'S
adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS
Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is
HALMA,
A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."
J. C. OVERELLS

100 PAIRS
SCOTCH AND ENGLISH
PANTING
ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00
NOW
MADE TO ORDER ONLY
$4.75
—AT—
A. N. REID & CO.
Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!
OPENED TO-DAY
3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of
FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,
FANCY FLANNEL,
—AND—
CEYLON FLANNEL!
Newest Designs!
Elegant Patterns!
COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE!
A E FISH & CO
The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents' urnishers, Laundry Office,

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Brantford Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: FRIDAY FEBRUARY 7, 1890 | NO 32

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
mail Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
Including
Macaroons, Toy Crackbells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coco nut Sugar Wafers
noon Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Salimore for the Holidays
WINES &C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
ass's, Guiness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 182.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W. W. CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

ALBERT COLLEGE
FOREIGN MISSION BAND
1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.
Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church. Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7:30 p m.
Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.
Saturday Evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg, our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Juno Keno Victoria University, Cobourg.
Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel
Students will fill the Programme.
No charge for admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection at the door.
ALL WELCOME.
J. WHALE,
14567 Chaplain Mission Band.

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET — SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

Stop that
CHRONIC COUGH NOW!
For if you do not it may become consumptive. For Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility and Wasting Diseases, there is nothing like
SCOTT'S
EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES
Of Lime and Soda.
It is almost as palatable as milk. Far better than other so-called Emulsions. A wonderful flesh producer.
SCOTT'S EMULSION
is put up in a salmon color wrapper. Be sure and get the genuine. For sale by all Dealers at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

HORSES WANTED.
I WILL be at the G hon house a few days to buy a car load of horses.
2td D GILMORE.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.
FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.
A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. w d

WANTED.
A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply to MRS. W. W. LEE, Feb. 1 Hotel street.
A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. ANDERSON, Feb 4 dtf cor. Ann and Charles sts
RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now. Best selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurseryms. Rochester, N. Y.
WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All good Work wanted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE, Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

FARM FOR SALE.
$2,500 will buy $ 0 acres of good land fenced with 3 rails on 2 sides in the township of Tyendinaga north, part lot 20 fourth concession known as the Shea farm. All cleared. 50 acres with buildings and 30 acres with out buildings, 15 acres with out buildings. All cleared in the township of Sidney 3 miles from Belleville.
Houses and lots to exchange for farm property.
20 shares of stock in the Hastings loan and investment society. For full information apply to, R. SAMSON YOUNG,
1 m w 1 s d Belleville Post Office.

OPERA -- HOUSE
MONDAY EV'G. FEB. 10
First appearance in Belleville of the
NORA CLENCH
CONCERT COMPANY
With the Following distinguished Artists:—
MISS NORA CLENCH,
VIOLINIST.
MRS. CALDWELL,
SOPRANO.
MISS COLVIN,
PIANIST.
MR. FRED WARRINGTON,
BARITONE.
MANAGER - - - J. W. BAUMANN
Reserved Seats — — 75cts.
Admission — — 50 and 35cts
Plan of Reserved Seats at W. S. Riggs Music Store. 6td

—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurance in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
Genera Agent, Belle

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurseries Rochester, N.Y. 13j6w dw

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

OUR JAPENESE - FRIEND
MR. INZO KOUO,
Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our
Japan — Teas
These using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

TO THE PUBLIC.
MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. A Shop and manufactory, Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

THE FRANCHISE DEBATE.

AN AFTERNOON AND NIGHT OF TALK IN THE HOUSE.

The Topic Likely to Occupy Another Day —Sir Adolphe Caron Presents His Report —Davin's Amendment to McCarthy's Northwest Bill.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—In the House to-day Hon. J. A. Chapleau resumed the debate on the motion made by Dr. Wilson of Elgin for repeal of the Franchise Act. Succeeding Mr. Chapleau Messrs. Casey, McDonald of Huron, Lister and Edgar for the motion and Curran against occupied the time of the House until recess.

After recess the discussion was continued at tiresome length, no new fact worthy of mention being brought out. The speakers were Messrs. McMullen, Platt, Sproule, Armstrong, Campbell, Tisdale, Mitchell, Hesson, Lauderkin, Wallace, Welsh, McMillan of Huron, Watson and Daly.

Mr. Laurier astonished the House at 11 o'clock by announcing that it would take at least another day to finish the debate and suggested its adjournment. This was agreed to and the House rose.

The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne having been elaborately engrossed was a few days ago formally presented to His Excellency. Sir John Macdonald to-day presented a polite acknowledgment from Lord Stanley.

Bills to incorporate the Interprovincial Bridge Company and the Short Line Railway Bridge Company were introduced and read a first time.

The Militia Report.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—Sir Adolphe Caron presented his report to Parliament to-day. In keeping with the practice of French members this session the minister spoke in French in announcing what he was handing in, and Mr. Peter Mitchell noticing this fact elicited the laughter of the House by politely requesting in French that the minister should make his remarks in English.

The report is replete with recommendations looking to improvement of the condition of the force. General Middleton urges that to increase the usefulness of military schools there should be a more liberal issue of ammunition for use there, and he advises that permanent corps should be armed with the Martini. He expresses a hope that the bill providing for pensions for staff officers and members of the permanent corps will shortly to be submitted to Parliament. He advises the department to issue ammunition at a lower price to militiamen desiring to use it.

Lieut.-Col. Otter, R.A.M.C. of No. 1 district, recommends that the pay of volunteers who drill in camp be increased by 25 cents a day, so that municipalities need no longer be called upon to keep the volunteers.

Lieut.-Col. Otter, R.A.M.C. of No. 2 district, repeats his recommendation that city corps should annually spend some time under canvas.

Supt. Prevost of the Quebec cartridge factory asks that he may be permitted to make the Martini ammunition in addition to the Snider, to which he has hitherto been confined.

What somebody in authority does not know about rifle shooting is exposed in one portion of the report, where data said to have been furnished by the superintendent of the cartridge factory are given which tends to show that the Snider ammunition of 1889 is superior to that of 1888. Comparative scores are given for certain matches of the Dominion Rifle Association, but shooting men will be surprised to learn that the statistics quoted are those of the standing match at 200 yards and the skirmishing match, whilst it is well known that in both of these the quality of the ammunition has but an infinitesimal influence on the result.

But as a crowning effort the Snider ammunition and rifle are set up as producing better results than the Martini outfit. Here is the paragraph:

"In the Dominion of Canada match 78's were counted just this year and in the Governor-General's match fired with Martini the 62's were not counted out, showing better general scoring with the Snider than with the Martini under the same conditions of range."

For the benefit of those unacquainted with the procedure it may be mentioned that all the scores made in the Governor-General's match are published and that the lowest made by anyone was a 62 to the credit of a gentleman who retired without completing his tale of shots, and the mistake has been made of gravely comparing this with the last prize-winning score in the Dominion match. Truly, comparisons are odious, the shooting men will say when they note this one.

The Anti-French Bill.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—As anticipated there is to be an amendment offered to the motion for the second reading of Mr. McCarthy's Northwest Bill. This has been given notice of by Mr. Davin as follows:

That said bill be not read a second time, but whereas the Northwest Territories Act, with clause 110 included, was passed before a large population had entered, it is expedient that the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories be authorized to declare whether or not the French language shall continue to be used as one of the official languages, and that no change shall be made until there has been an appeal to the electors.

Notes And Gossip.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—In the Senate to-day Mr. McInnes of British Columbia advocated the establishment of a Canadian Government print.

The Senate will be under the leadership of Senator Lacoste until the recovery of Senator Abbott, who is quite ill in Montreal and it is said may be confined to his house for several days yet.

Mr. J. G. Hare of Hamilton interviewed the Minister of Customs to-day to ask that the duty on carriages be made a dutoreen in place of specific.

This morning the Crockery Association, which was organized yesterday afternoon in this city, waited on the Minister of Finance and Minister of Customs, requested the removal of the duty on such raw materials as are used in the manufacture of crockery. They also desired that the duties on the cheaper grades of crockery be increased so as to give the Canadian trade more protection.

A meeting of Orangemen was held to-day to discuss the Orange Bill. It is understood that strong representations are being made against the introduction of the act for incorporation this session as it is looked upon as a bribe to the brethren for their squirming over the Jesuits' Estate Bill.

A meeting of the members of Parliament favorable to the presence and the Legislative Committee of the Canadian Alliance was held in the tower room to-day to take into consideration what course they should pursue in the House this session in regard to prohibition. After a long discussion it was ultimately decided not to introduce any resolution this session asking for prohibition.

The first meeting of the Railway Committee for business this session was held to-day, Sir Hector Langevin in the chair. An act to amend the act to incorporate the Alberta Railway & Coal Company was passed. It provides for the construction of a railway, three feet gauge, from the Letbridge coal mines, belonging to Sir Alexander Galt, to the American frontier.

A deputation arrived here to-day and, accompanied by Mr. Corby, M.P., waited on the Government and asked for a subsidy to the Toronto & Lake Nipissing Railway.

THE NATIONAL SITUATION.

Mr. David's Talk on Annexation, Independence and Imperial Federation.

QUEBEC, Feb. 6.—In his lecture before the Tuilon Liberal Club here last night on "The Political National Situation," Mr. L. O. David, M.L.A. for Montreal East, dealt with the questions of annexation, independence and imperial federation from the French-Canadian standpoint. He did not pronounce in favor of annexation, but said that rather than accept imperial federation it would be infinitely better for the future of the Canadian race to accept a political union with the United States. As for independence under present circumstances he considered that it would be fatal to the French-Canadians, who would only count as one to five in the whole population and be completely swamped by the Anglo-Saxon element constantly recruited by immigration.

Mr. H. J. Cloran has arrived with his report on the jury system, comprising a large type-written document containing reports of the existing laws and making certain recommendations which are as yet not revealed to the vulgar eye.

The Archbishop of Ottawa had an interview this morning with the Premier regarding the Temiscamingue Railway.

Lumbering in the Lake St. John district is being pushed with great activity and work is offered to every available man, although the want of enough snow hampers operations.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN MONTREAL.

The Canada Atlantic's New Steel Bridge Completed.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—In the case of John Ross v. the Canadian Pacific Railway for a claim of $200,000, Mr. Fleet yesterday made application for a copy of the correspondence between Mr. Ross and Mr. Smellie, which the court granted. His first application for the letter book was refused.

The Canada Atlantic Railway steel bridge over the St. Lawrence at Coteau Landing is now complete and freight trains will make the initial trips over the whole works. It has a length of 1¾ miles. There are 17 fixed spans: one is 139 feet, two are 175 feet each, ten are 217 feet each and four are 223 feet each, while the swing span covers 335 feet and the main channel.

The earnings of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending Feb. 1 are $341,186 as against $317,765 for the same period in 1889, showing an increase of $23,421 for 1890.

The plasterers went on strike to-day for an increase of pay from $2 to $2.40 per day of 8 hours, or $3 for 10 hours. About 200 men are involved.

PROVINCIAL Y. M. C. A.

Proceedings of the Annual Convention in Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 6.—The annual convention of the Y.M.C.A. commenced here this afternoon, Mr. Gartshore in the chair. About 100 delegates were present. Services opened with devotional exercises, after which different committees were appointed. Mr. F. Cockshutt was appointed president and Mr. Weir of Toronto secretary.

The evening service was very largely attended, opening with devotional exercises, after which the delegates were welcomed in addresses by S. M. Thomson, president of the Brantford association, Mayor S. G. Read and Rev. John Kay, president of the Ministerial Alliance of Brantford.

The provincial secretary's report was given, showing the association to be in very flourishing condition, after which an address was made by Mr. G. H. Wells of Montreal.

The Flour Market Very Dull.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—The Northwestern Miller says: The flour output last week was 108,130 barrels. A larger production will be recorded the current week. Millers agree that seldom has the flour market been as dull as at present. Those who have reduced their output very largely find it difficult to sell the little they are producing. The export enquiry has become very faint, the lowest prices made by millers in many cases failing to elicit even a counter proposition. There is a trifle more interest shown in low grades, the heavy advance in offal causing them to be used as a substitute for feed.

Losses Caused by Flames.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 6.—A fire which started on Brown's wharf here last night caused a loss of $100,000, the chief sufferers being Frank Dudley, lumber, $13,000; schooner Prescott Hazeltine, $15,000; J. H. Hamlin & Co., cooper shop, $40,000; Mark F. Emery, storehouse, $6000, Portland Yacht Club, $28,000; Whiting & Co., on molasses, $8000.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 6.—The Greenland Mat Factory, owned by Joseph Wild & Co., was burned this morning together with McFarland & Doty's paper mill and a lumber yard adjoining. Total loss, $250,000.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 6.—A fire last night in the big building occupied by the American Malting Company caused a loss of $75,000.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

The convention of the Episcopal diocese of California has elected Rev. W. F. Nichols of Philadelphia assistant bishop of the diocese.

A Kansas justice of the peace has decided that corn is fuel. It is so used in that State.

Ten thousand colored people in Canada have sent the Governor-General a loyal address.

A cable says four millions sterling of one pound silver notes are being printed by the British Government.

The Club National, Montreal, it is said, will pass a resolution declaring its hopes of Canada's independence.

Representatives of the English Brewery Syndicate are at Halifax negotiating for the purchase of two breweries and a distillery in that city.

London Board of Trade and London West Council have replied to the Provincial Secretary's tax exemption questions, and favor the abolition of many of the present exemptions

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

150 MINERS KILLED.

TERRIBLY FATAL EXPLOSION IN A WELSH COLLIERY.

Sixty Mutilated Bodies Exhumed — Gas Dislodged From Flooded Pits Causes the Disaster — Identification of the Mangled Dead Impossible.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—An explosion occurred to-day in a colliery at Aberschan, in Monmouthshire, ten miles northwest of Newport. Three hundred miners were imprisoned, and for several hours no communication could be had with them. An opening was finally effected, and by noon 100 of them had been rescued. A number of those rescued were severely injured. Rescuing parties are still searching for those remaining in the mine, but it is feared it will be impossible to rescue them.

Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon 40 bodies had been taken out from the mine. Fifty miners are still imprisoned. It is not known whether they are dead or alive. The owners of the colliery estimate that 130 persons have lost their lives by the explosion.

The cause of the explosion was the flooding of pits adjacent to that in which the explosion occurred. By the flooding of these pits gas was evolved and forced into the pit where work was in progress and there it was ignited and exploded. There must have been a great quantity of gas, as the explosion had tremendous force. It was heard at a distance of a mile. All the gearing in the shaft was thrown into the air as if from the mouth of a volcano and simultaneously a vast bright volume of flame shot upward followed by a dense heavy column of smoke.

The first party of rescuers organized endeavored to penetrate the pit through the old workings. They got far enough to be able to see groups of the dead, but could not reach them and were compelled to retreat by the suffocating volume of smoke that rose in that direction. Upon the first appearance of a diminution of smoke the rescuers went down the main shaft and reached the scene of the catastrophe. They rescued a large number of miners yet alive but all very badly burned, and they brought out 60 dead bodies nearly all so mutilated that the recognition of their identity is impossible. The latest estimate of the dead is 150.

STANLEY'S NATIONALITY.

The Khedive Puts the Question to Him Direct.

CAIRO, Feb. 6.—The Egyptian Government, desiring to ascertain whether Stanley was an American or an Englishman, ordered Riaun Pasha to ask him the question. Stanley replied after a moment's hesitation. "Neither; I am a cosmopolitan; the world is my country."

During his last visit to the United States Stanley once said that on his previous lecturing tour his life was made miserable by being constantly asked, "Mr. Stanley, where were you born?" In the early days of his newspaper career he was known as an American, but after his discovery of Livingstone, when fierce light was thrown upon his early history, it became known that he was born in Wales. In early life he was known under the name of Rowlands. His mother, to whom he was devoted and whom he always visited when in England, died a few years ago. He took the name of Stanley from his benefactor in New Orleans.

A paragraph published recently in an English paper, The Western Mail, says that "when Stanley was a boy he attended the St. Asaph Union School and the schoolmaster had so high an opinon of him that he used to put him in charge of the schoolboys during his absence. The boy was quite equal to the task of maintaining discipline. He would allow no one to question his authority. Rather than suffer any one to take liberties with him he would give the boys a good thrashing all round, and this he used to do so effectually that no boy was found bold enough to dispute his authority."

The Bishop of Lincoln's Trial.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A sensation has been caused in clerical circles by the Archbishop of Canterbury allowing counsel for Dr. King, Bishop of Lincoln, who is charged with ritualistic practices, to recognize the propriety of the use of lighted candles on the communion table before the Privy Council, although such practice has for a long time been pronounced illegal.

Australian Federation Conference.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 6.—The Federation Conference met to-day. The Prime Minister of Victoria was elected to preside over the deliberations.

AMBITIOUS CITY NOTES.

The Alleged Lottery Case in Court—A Disappointed Investor.

HAMILTON, Feb. 6.—The first of the three charges under the Lottery Act preferred against Dr. Ellis of the Wizard Oil Company, who has been giving nightly concerts in the Palace Rink for many weeks past, was investigated by the Police Magistrate this morning. The charge was that on the night of Jan. 23 the defendant (through his agents) sold a bottle of oil to complainant, together with a song-book, admission ticket to one of any other concerts and a numbered coupon-ticket entitling him to a chance in the drawing for a silver-plated tea set—all for $1. Complainant did not draw the tea-set. After hearing evidence and argument the Magistrate reserved his decision.

The Railway Committee this afternoon were visited by a deputation from St. Catharines and Thorold in reference to the application of the Niagara Central Railway for right of way through the city. Dr. Ollie denies the report that the Niagara Central has sold out to the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg road. He expects to get a subsidy clear through to Toronto.

John McInerney, a young moulder, was today committed for trial on the charge of stealing 800 cigars from Andrews' factory.

Cuba's Governor Seriously Ill.

HAVANA, Feb. 6.—Governor-General Salamance is ill. Twelve physicians consulted today and pronounced the patient's condition dangerous. A meeting of the authorities will be held to consider what action will be taken in the event of his death. The Vice-Governor-General has assumed command of the island.

Defiant Montana Democrats.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 6.—After adjournment of the Senate yesterday the eight Democratic Senators, incensed at the ruling of Lieutenant-Governor Rickards in counting them present, took trains in different directions. They say they are going beyond the State line to get out of the reach of the sergeant-at-arms. Their continued absence will block all legislation.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I go no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

THE Canadian Truth. USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and sore throat; it never FINALLY FINALLY.

The Samoan Treaty is Ratified and Mr. Edmunds is Sore.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—An executive session of the Senate was held to-day on motion of Senator Sherman, who desired to close the record upon the ratification of the Samoan treaty. Senator Edmunds' motion to reconsider the vote of Tuesday by which the treaty was ratified was taken up and laid on the table, 39 to 13. Then Mr. Edmunds' resolution, declaring the sense of the Senate upon the rights of the United States to the Harbor of Pago-Pago under the treaty of 1878 to be that those rights are not disturbed by the Berlin treaty of 1889, was considered. Senator Sherman, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, made a statement to show the Berlin treaty did not affect these rights at all and the passage of the resolution was unnecessary. A motion to table the resolution prevailed by the same vote as that by which the motion to reconsider the ratification was tabled. Thereupon Mr. Edmunds, who is the senior member of the committee, stated he desired to be excused from further service on the Committee on Foreign Relations. It was suggested that this was a matter for action in legislative session and the matter was dropped.

Congratulations Exchanged.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The confirmation of the Samoan treaty by the United States Senate affords general satisfaction here. Count Bismarck called upon Minister Phelps to-day and congratulations were exchanged upon the ratification of the treaty.

Greed v. Safety.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Nearly thirty persons representing the Lake Carriers' Association, the Cleveland Vessel Owners' Association, and a number of individual vessel owners from Chicago, (Grand Haven, Detroit, Bay City, Toledo, Cleveland and Buffalo, were before the House Committee on the Merchant Marine to-day to protest against the passage of Representative Farquhar's bill to increase the safety line of loaded vessels and to prevent loss of life and property from overloading on the lake. The bill proposes that all vessels above twenty tons carrying passengers and navigating the lakes and tributaries shall be inspected, measured and marked by the surveyor of tonnage for reserve buoyancy or free board, the same to be set off above a load water line in order that there shall be provided for each vessel a safe sea-going proportion of the buoyancy of the hull. In vessels with more than one deck the properly bulwarked and wave stopped deck with strength sufficient to bear the shipping of seas shall be taken as the free board deck whether the same shall be the upper deck or one below it.

The Washington Fire Horror.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The inquest into the Tracy fire disaster was held to-day. Chief Bingham of the Fire Department testified that he and the fire marshal agreed the fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the library. He thought the servant who opened the front door had fastened it by forgetting to close it. Had the door been shut and the draught up the stairway been shut off all in the house would have been saved. Several other witnesses corroborated, adding nothing new to the story already published.

HEROIC ENGINEER COOKE.

He Stuck to His Engine and Lost His Life —A M. C. Smash.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 6.—A terrible accident occurred on the Michigan Central Railway at Yarmouth Centre, about four miles east of this city, at 11¼ last night, whereby Engineer John Cooke, one of the oldest and best known engineers on the line, lost his life. Several trainmen were injured and much valuable property destroyed.

The accident was a side collision between two freight trains—an east-bound in charge of Conductor Thomas Cahill and Engineer Daniel Darrach, and a west-bound, Conductor Abbot, Engineer John Cooke. The latter train was on the main line and had right of way. The accident happened at the switch where the double track becomes a single one and the east-bound train was supposed to come to a stop before entering the switch. This it failed to do and the two engines struck each other when exactly opposite the station house. The east-bound engine appears to have struck the other about midway, and sliding along it stopped with its nose in the ground. The west-bound engine was almost demolished by the shock, and the death of its engineer, John Cooke, must have been instantaneous.

The escape of the telegraph operator in the station was miraculous. He was standing in the doorway when the collision occurred, and as the cars came tumbling toward him he jumped for his life and escaped through a back window. Engineer Cooke and his fireman, W. King, evidently did not apprehend any danger, and how King got out of the cab alive, when his mate met death, he can give no very clear account. Conductor Cahill was on Engineer Darrach's engine as they approached the switch, and seeing that a crash was inevitable jumped, followed by Darrach, but Elliot, the fireman, a green hand, hardly comprehended what was the matter and had no time to jump. He found himself tightly wedged between the cab and tender, and when he came to he was falling timbers, breaking iron and hissing steam. With some difficulty he extricated himself and was found on a pile of ties. He is now in the railway hospital.

When the crash came the engineer and fireman of the east-bound train jumped. Engineer Darrach escaped without injury. Fireman King of the west-bound was injured in jumping. Engineer Cooke stuck to his engine and attempted to stop his train and sacrificed his life in so doing. The last seen of him he was reversing the lever of the engine.

Brakeman Thompson was thrown from the top of the train into the ditch and badly injured. The injured are:

L. G. Thompson, brakeman, left arm bruised, but no bones broken, and bad scalp wound on back of head.

John L. Elliott, fireman, bruised about the legs badly shaken up generally.

W. King, fireman, badly cut about nose and face.

The chief loss is on the west-bound train, of which perhaps a dozen cars are piled up in a mass of wreckage. Clearing the track is going on as fast as possible.

Carnegie's Gift to Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 6.—Andrew Carnegie has offered to spend $1,000,000 for a central free library and branches for Pittsburg provided the city will maintain them. It is believed the council will accept the offer. The free library for Allegheny City, on which Mr. Carnegie expended over $300,000, will be opened by President Harrison next week.

I don't care who appointed to the Baltimore post office, said General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that the Pecoik nee Imperial Cream Tartar Baking powder. I am done with powder contain

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 7 1890

BARLEY.

The barley crop is one of great importance to the farmers of Canada. The annual product of this cereal for the past seven years in Ontario alone is estimated by Mr. Blue, in his Agricultural Statistics of Ontario, at nearly twenty millions of bushels, while the crop for 1888 is put at over twenty three million bushels. Statistics from the other provinces in the Dominion are not available, but their products would largely augment the figures given. Canadian barley is usually of good quality, and the surplus, not required for home consumption, has heretofore commanded a ready sale, at remunerative prices to maltsters in the United States, and such sales have averaged during the past eleven years, 9,135,455 bushels annually, yielding an average yearly revenue to Canadian farmers during this period of $6,587,582. The report of barley has materially increased of late years, and as the country becomes more thickly settled and a larger area of land brought under cultivation there will, no doubt, be still larger quantities of this grain to dispose of. During the eleven years referred to, the production of barley in the United States has increased from about 42 million bushels in 1878 to 58 millions in 1889, but the increasing consumption has kept up with the increased supply, and hence the demand for Canadian barley has until recently been maintained.

The demand for barley for the manufacture of beer in the United States has of late been materially lessened by the use of various substitutes. From official returns published in the United States, it appears that while 2½ bushels of barley were used in the manufacture of a barrel of beer in 1888, only one bushel was used for the same quantity in 1889, the balance being chiefly made up of corn, rice and glucose. As these ingredients enable the brewer to make his beer at less cost than from barley alone, it is scarcely probable that Canadian barley, however good it may be, will continue to find a market in the United States in such quantities and such prices as in the past.

It is important then for Canada, that other outlets be provided for the surplus barley, and the only other country which requires more barley than it produces is Great Britain. The average importation of barley into the United Kingdom for the past eleven years has been about 39 millions bushels, the imports for 1888 having been over 49 million bushels. A considerable quantity of this is six-rowed barley, but that is used only for grinding and distilling, and commands but a low price; the grain used for malting for which there is a very large demand is two-rowed barley, and of this there are many varities, all of which, when of good quality, bringing relatively high prices. The quote of barley which Canada has sent to Great Britain for the ten years ending with 1887 averages 112,000 bushels. In 1878 it was 524,569 bushels, in 1887 only 5,827 bushels, showing that we have practically lost the small market we had there, and for the reasons that we have not grown the varieties of barley which the English malster requires, and that our six-rowed barley has commanded a better price in the United States than could be obtained for it in Great Britain.

The British brewer's preference for two rowed barley is very strong, and the question is sometimes asked whether that preference is founded on the greater intrinsic worth of this sort, of prejudice arising from long usage. To submit this point to a practical test, a sufficient quantity of the best two rowed malting barley was imported from Great Britain in the early part of 1889 and a like quantity of the best six rowed barley purchased here. These were sent to a competent Canadian malster and brewer and both lots made into beer, and from the report received of the results of this comparative test we learn that the two rowed barley yielded 13 per cent. more of extract than the six rowed, showing that the preference for this barley is well founded. The covering or husk forms about one-sixth of the weight in two rowed barley, and from one-fourth to one-fifth of the six rowed; this will account for the difference.

It must ever be borne in mind that on no account should the two rowed and six rowed varieties of barley be mixed, for when that is the case the sample is of little value for malting purposes, and for this reason: In the manufacture of malt the barley is first steeped to soften it, and when it has reached the proper condition is spread on the floors of the malt house to germinate, growth is allowed to advance to a certain stage and then suddenly stopped by rapid drying. The plumpl rools of the two rowed barley take longer to soften and are slower in germinating than the comparatively thin grains of the six rowed, hence the latter will pass through the different stages in the process and be ready for drying from one or two days sooner than the two rowed. To leave the six rowed that length of time on the floor after it is ready for drying would result in decay and the growth of mould which would seriously injure the quality of the malt. For this reason no maltster will have anything to do with mixed barleys.

The results submitted of the tests of five leading varieties of two rowed malting barley over a very large area in Canada are sufficient to show that even in an unfavorable season for barley growing there is a wide territory over which two rowed barley for the English market can be grown with advantage, and the yield obtained from the samples sent out as well as in field culture at the Experimental Farms would indicate that heavier crops of two-rowed barley of the varieties named could be raised than of the six rowed barley. It is not practicable to entirely change any important crop in a single season, especially when it covers so large an area; it is better for many reasons that such a change should come more slowly, but it does seem feasible to bring this about to a very large extent within a comparatively short time. The Government has decided to ask in the supplementary estimates for a vote of $25,000, to be invested in two rowed barley seed for sale at cost to the farmers who wish to invest.

DOMINION NEWS NOTES.

DID "ROLLY" MOFFATT BET ON O'CONNOR.

Another Brief Sitting of the Ontario Assembly—Declaration Day Shows a Government Majority of Two in Prince Edward Island.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—On the Police Magistrate's charge sheet yesterday morning were entered four charges against William Rowan Moffatt: one of larceny, two of embezzlement and one of forgery. The third forgery case was proceeded with. The specific charge is that on Aug. 27 Moffatt feloniously, with intent to defraud, did cause to be paid to Edward Gegg the sum of £52, by virtue of a certain forged instrument, to wit, a telegram in cipher, which signified: "The Alliance Bank (limited), London. Deposit for credit of Edward Gegg with City Bank £52. ONTARIO BANK." Mr. George Hogarth of the G. N. W. Telegraph Company produced a copy of the telegram. He did not recognize the handwriting of the person who wrote it. He also produced a despatch from the Alliance Bank, in which they stated that they refused payment, as Mr. Gegg was unknown to them. W. H. Smith, local manager of the Ontario Bank, was called, identified Moffatt's handwriting in the despatches produced by the previous witness. He produced a copy of a despatch written in Moffatt's handwriting in answer to the refusal of the Alliance Bank: "We confirm cable of 27th inst. for deposit, placing £52 to the credit of Edward Gegg." It was Mr. Moffatt's duty to use the cipher code between the Ontario and Alliance Banks. Besides the manager only Mr. Moffatt was supposed to use or understand the code. They could not find any trace of this amount, which, in the regular course of business, should have been carried through the books of the other officials of the bank. The other accountant, in his evidence, stated that the prisoner was in the habit of using other names than his own in order for money, but not without a slip or without provision having first been made for the payment of the money. As far as they knew this was not done. Other evidence having been given Moffatt was committed for trial on this and also on the fourth charge of forgery. Further proceedings will take place in the Police Court on Monday.

The Ontario Assembly held another five-minute session yesterday. A number of petitions were presented, none of them of general interest, and the report of the committee to strike standing committees was read and quietly acquiesced in. In reply to Mr. Smith (Frontenac) the Attorney-General said it is not the intention of the Government to introduce during the present session legislation to establish employment agencies in the different counties or centres of business in the province. Mr. Marter was told by Mr. Hardy that one Spencer had been appointed Police Magistrate of Muskoka at a salary of $400, with a like sum for traveling expenses, all of which was paid out of the fund for the administration of justice. Mr. Marter also informed that no crown timber agent at Rat Portage had absconded, but that a bush ranger who had collected some fees had skipped with about $1500 of provincial funds.

The funeral of Chief Ranger John George Howard took place yesterday. The body was interred in the unique mausoleum which he had prepared for himself and wife in High Park. The name of the park will be changed to Howard Park. The funeral of the late Senator Macdonald took place to the Necropolis. It was attended only by members of the family, the deceased having requested that there be no pomp or ceremony.

A TOO-CONFIDING GIRL.

And an Old Brute—An Old Tale Retold in Toronto Township.

BRAMPTON, Feb. 6.—Near Burnhamthorpe, in Toronto township, lives Dennis Carrigan with two daughters, the youngest of whom, a bright girl of 14 years, astonished the family by giving birth to a child some four weeks ago. No suspicion of the interesting event was had even on the part of the young girl until the day of confinement.

The fair young victim then told her story, implicating James Donnelly, a man over 50 years of age, who had been living with the family for many years. She said that he had persuaded her there was nothing wrong about his actions and she had yielded to him repeatedly.

Donnelly, who had cleared out on receipt of the news, was arrested at Scarboro and brought here and tried before the Magistrate on Monday, being committed to a higher court. He came before Judge Scott in the afternoon and got 18 months in prison at hard labor. The judge administered a severe rebuke to the prisoner for his inhuman conduct and would have inflicted the whole penalty of two years only that Donnelly gave an order for $85 due him to be used in supporting the child.

P. E. I. ELECTIONS.

Sixteen Government and Fourteen Opposition Members Elected.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Feb. 6.—Declaration day results in the return of 16 Government and 14 Opposition members. Some of the majorities are exceedingly close and petitions will be filed against the return of several members. Provincial Secretary Ferguson, whose election was in doubt, has been returned by 6 majority over Kelly.

Addington Reform Convention.

HARROWSMITH, Feb. 6.—The Liberal convention held here to-day was attended by a large number of delegates. Speeches were delivered by H. M. Deroche, ex-M.L.A., and Provincial Organizer Preston. The party was thoroughly organized in every township throughout the county. The selection of a candidate was postponed until some future meeting.

Prairie Province Legislators.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6.—The question of whether The Manitoba Gazette shall be printed in French went over to-day and is first on the order paper for to-morrow.

Premier Greenway stated that the Government was considering the matter of supplying seed grain to farmers.

Legal Imbroglio Fired at Players.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—John I. Rogers, solicitor for the Philadelphia League Baseball Club, to-day filed in court three separate bills in equity against Fogarty, Sanders and Farrar of last year's Philadelphia team. The court is asked to restrain the defendants from playing baseball with any other club or organization in 1890 other than the plaintiff's club. Henry M. Love, president of the Players' League Club, is made co-defendant and the court is asked to enjoin him from employing Fogarty, Sanders or Farrar.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner of the diseases which afflict this no animal, is phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise.

"WHAT MEDICINES ARE MOST CALLED FOR?"

asked the reporter of an old druggist.

"Why, Dr. Sarsaparilla and Burdock," he replied. "They are sold under a positive guarantee that they will, in every case, give satisfaction; or the money is promptly refunded. He (Dr. Sarsaparilla) is the king of those chronic weaknesses, nervous and other derangements peculiar to women, and with unfailing success. It cures weak back, bearing-down sensations, irregularities and weaknesses common to the sex, and being the most perfect of tonic medicines builds up and strengthens the entire system. The demand for it is constantly and I am pleased to say with scores of cases cured by it."

Returning after a few moments' absence, the venerable sleuther of the penile remarked, "the number of sarsaparillas and other, so-called, 'blood medicines' is legion; but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery outsells them all and it is the only blood-purifier out of the many which I am obliged to keep among my shelves, that is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all cases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it is refunded."

"In the line of pills," remarked the old gentleman, "the little Sugar-coated 'Pellets' put up by Dr. Pierce lead all others, both in amount of sales and the general satisfaction they give my customers."

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

$500 OFFERED

for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its mild, soothing and healing properties, it was to issue oublig rams, of how long standing. By druggists, 50 cents.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and a little attention at this point may save mouth of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, ceeless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pursued by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a certain source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a vegetable preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food into healthy nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never causes griping and will prove, like a drastic cathartic. It acids, but nerve tonics, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this secular medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, and all skin diseases arising from impure blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me good."

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslows Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To keep it in the life and energy will pass the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature's laws and is a delicate and yet powerful stimulant. Mr. Dorenwend has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is the most remarkable hair restorer and preparation of nature known to science. Hundreds of testimonials are in the hands of the proprietor, and they are from the most prominent people in the land. Mr. Dorenwend's Magic Hair Restorer is a delicate and yet powerful stimulant and is the most remarkable hair restorer and preparation of nature known to science. Hundreds of testimonials are in the hands of the proprietor, and they are from the most prominent people in the land. Mr. Dorenwend's Magic Hair Restorer is a three single applications

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy now one year old, was to be bald with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most agreeable, pleasant, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H CARSON, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 75c SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only instantaneous pain killing, strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Jugle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

GRANT - HOME - STOVES

AND

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R CHOWN,

FOR THE

PICKLING SEASON

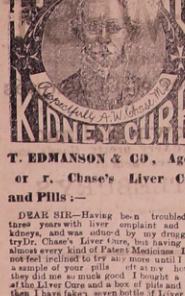
Pure Cider Vinegar,
English Malt Vinegar,
White wine Vinegar,
(Pure and Fresh

Spices.

(Whole Ground)

Mixed Pickling Spices (whole) Celery Seed Mustard Seed, Tumeric Curry Powder, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
35 to 37 Bridge St.
Also Front Street, opp Rich



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills. At my house, they did me so much good I bought a bottle at the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT,

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

agent for the Lancashire Insurance, Front Shop Ann opposite Rich.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS &c

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

I took it, and Stella kissed him.

Presently he spoke again:

"It is my intention," he said, "if you two consent, to marry you next Sunday. I wish to do so soon, for I do not know how much longer will be allowed to me. I believe that such a ceremony, solemnly celebrated and attended by the witnesses, will, under the circumstances, be perfectly legal, but of course you will repeat it with every formality the first moment it lies in your power to do so. And now, there is one more thing; when I left England my fortunes were in a shattered condition; in the course of years they have recovered themselves, the accumulated rents, as I heard but recently, when the wagons last returned from Port Natal, have sufficed to pay off all charges, and there is a considerable balance over. Consequently you will not marry on nothing, for of course you, Stella, are my heiress, and I wish to make a stipulation. It is this. That so soon as my child occurs you shall leave this place and take the first opportunity of returning to England. I do not ask you to live there always if might prove too much for people reared in the wilds, as both of you have been; but I do ask you to make it your permanent home. Do you consent and promise this?"

"I do," I answered.

"And so do I," said Stella.

"Very well," he answered; "and now I am tired out. Again God bless you both, and good night."

CHAPTER X.

IN THE following morning I had a conversation with Indabazimbi. First of all I told him that I was going to marry Stella.

"Oh!" he said, "I thought so, Macumazahn. Did I not tell you that you would find happiness on this journey? Most men must be content to watch the Star from a long way off, to you it is given to wear her on your heart. But remember, Macumazahn, remember that stars set."

"Can you not stop your croaking even for a day?" I answered angrily, for his words sent a thrill of fear through me.

"A true prophet must tell the ill as well as the good, Macumazahn. I only speak what is on my mind. But what of it? What is life but loss, loss upon loss, till life itself be lost. But in death we may find all the things that we have lost. So your father taught, Macumazahn, and there was wisdom in his gentleness. Oh! I do not believe in death; it is change, that is all, Macumazahn. Look now, the rain falls, the drops of rain that were once water in the clouds fall side by side. They sink into the ground; presently the sun will come out, the earth will be dry, the drops will be gone. A fool looks and says the drops are dead, they will never be one again, they will never again fall side by side. But I am a rain maker, and I know the ways of rain. It is not true. The drops will drain into the river and will be one water there. They will go up into the clouds again in the mists of morning, and there will again be as they have been. We are the drops of rain, Macumazahn. When we fall, that is our life. When we sink into the ground, that is death, and when we are drawn up again to the sky, what is that, Macumazahn? No! not when we find, we lose; and when we seem to lose, then we shall really find. I am not a Christian, Macumazahn, but I am old, and have watched and seen things that perhaps Christians do not see. There, I have spoken. Be happy with your star, and if it sets, wait, Macumazahn, wait till it rises again. It will not be long; one day you will go to sleep, but on your eyes will open on another sky, and there your star will be shining, Macumazahn."

I made no answer at the time. I could not bear to talk of such a thing. But often and often in the after years I have thought of Indaba-zimbi and his beautiful simile and gathered comfort from it. He was a strange man, this old rain making savage, and there was more wisdom in him than in many learned atheists—those spiritual destroyers who, in the name of progress and humanity, would divorce hope from life, and leave us wandering in a lonesome, self consecrated hell.

"Indaba-zimbi," I said, changing the subject, "I have something to say," and I told him of the threats of Hendrika.

He listened with an unmoved face, nodding his white head at interval as the narrative went on. But I saw that he was disturbed by it.

"Macumazahn," he said at length, "I have told you this is an evil woman. She was nourished on baboon milk, and the baboon nature is in her veins. Such creatures should be killed, not kept. She will make you mischief if she can. But I will watch her, Macumazahn. Look, the Star is waiting for you; go, or she will hate me as Hendrika hates you."

So I went, nothing loath, for attractive as was the wisdom of Indaba-zimbi, I found a deeper meaning in Stella's simplest word. All the rest of that day I passed in her company, and the greater part of the two following days. At last came Saturday night, the eve of our marriage. It rained that night, so we did not go out, but spent the evening in the hut. We sat hand in hand, saying little, but Mr. Carson talked a good deal, telling us tales of his youth, and of countries that he had visited. Then he read aloud from the Bible, and made us good night. I also kissed Stella and went to bed. I reached my hut by the covered way, and before I undressed opened the door to see what the night was like. It was very dark, and rain was still falling, but as the light streamed out into the gloom I fancied that I caught sight of a dusky form gliding away.

The thought of Hendrika flashed into my mind; could she be skulking about outside there? Now I had said nothing of Hendrika and her threats either to Mr. Carson or Stella, because I did not wish to alarm them. Also I knew that Stella was attached to this strange person, and I did not wish to shake her confidence in her mistress if it was absolutely necessary. For a minute or two I stood hesitating, then, reflecting that, if it was Hendrika out there, there she should stop, I went in and put up the stout wooden bar that was used to secure the door. For the last few nights old Indabazimbi had made a habit of sleeping in the covered passage, which was the only other possible way of access. As I came to bed I had stepped over him rolled up in his blanket, and to all appearance fast asleep. So, it being evident that I had nothing to fear, I promptly dismissed the matter from my mind, which, as may be imagined, was indeed fully occupied with other matters.

I got into bed, and for awhile lay awake thinking of the great happiness in store for me, and of the providential course of events that had brought it within my reach. A few weeks since and I was wandering in the desert a dying man, bearing a dying child, and with scarcely a possession left in the world except a store of buried ivory that I never expected to see again. And now I was about to wed one of the sweetest and loveliest women in the whole world—a woman whom I loved more than I could have thought possible, and who loved me back again. Also, as though that were not good fortune enough, I was to acquire with her considerable possessions, quite sufficiently large to enable us to follow any plan of life we found agreeable. As I lay and reflected on all this I grew afraid of my good fortune. Old Indaba-zimbi's melancholy prophesies came into my mind. Hitherto he had always prophesied truly. What if these should be true also? I turned cold as I thought of it, and prayed to the power above to preserve us both to live and love together. Never was prayer more needed. While its words were still upon my lips I dropped asleep and dreamed a most dreadful dream.

I dreamed that Stella and I were standing together to be married. She was dressed in white and radiant with beauty, but it was a wild, spiritual beauty which frightened me. Her eyes shone like stars, a pale flame played about her features and the wind that blew did not stir her hair. Nor was this all, for her white robes were death wrappings, and the altar at which we stood was formed of the grave, and there an open grave that yawned between us. So we stood waiting for one to wed us, but no one came. Presently from the open grave sprang the form of Hendrika. In her hand was a long knife, with which she stabbed at me, but pierced the heart of Stella, who, without a cry, fell backwards into the grave, still looking at me as she fell. Then Hendrika leaped after her into the grave. I heard her feet strike heavily.

"Awake, Macumazahn! awake!" cried the voice of Indaba-zimbi.

I awoke and bounded from the bed, the cold perspiration pouring from me. In the darkness on the other side of the hut I heard sounds of furious struggling. Luckily I kept my head. Just by me was a chair on which were matches and a rush taper. I struck a match and held it to the taper. Now in the growing light I could see two forms rolling one over the other on the floor, and from between them came the flash of steel. The fat melted and the light burnt up. It was Indaba-zimbi and the woman Hendrika who were struggling, and, what was more, the woman was getting the better of the man, strong as he was. I rushed toward them. Now she was uppermost, now she had wrenched herself from his fierce grip, and now the great knife she had in her hand flashed up.

But I was behind her, and, getting my hands beneath her arms, jerked with all my strength, she fell backwards, and, in her efforts to save herself, most fortunately dropped the knife. Then we flung ourselves upon her. Heavens! the strength of that she devil! Nobody who has not experienced it knows what it is. She fought and scratched and bit, and at one time nearly mastered the two of us. As it was she did break loose. She rushed at the bed, sprung on it, and bounded thence straight up at the roof of the hut. I never saw such a jump, and could not conceive what she meant to do. In the roof were the peculiar holes which I have described. They were designed to admit light, and covered with overhanging eaves. She sprung straight and true like a monkey, and, catching the edge of the hole with her hands strove to draw herself through it, but here her strength, exhausted with the long struggle, failed her. For a moment she swung, then dropped to the ground and fell senseless.

"Ou!" gasped Indaba-zimbi. "Let us tie the devil up before she comes to life again."

I thought this a good counsel, so we took a rein that lay in the corner of the room, and lashed her hands and feet in such a fashion that she could scarcely escape. Then we carried her into the passage, and Indaba-zimbi sat over her, the knife in his hand, for I did not wish to raise an alarm at that hour of the night.

"Do you know how I caught her, Macumazahn?" he said. "For several nights I have slept here with one eye open, for I thought she had made a plan. Tonight I kept wide awake, though I pretended to be asleep. An hour after you got into the blankets the moon rose, and I saw a beam of light come into the hut through the hole in the roof. Presently I saw the beam of light vanish. At first I thought that a cloud was passing over the moon, but I listened and heard a noise as though some one was squeezing himself through a narrow place. Presently he was through and hanging by his hands. Then the light came in again, and in the middle of it I saw the babyian frau swinging from the roof, and about to drop into the hut. She clung by both hands, and in her mouth was a great knife. She dropped, and I ran forward to seize her as she dropped, and grip her round the middle. But she heard me come, and, seizing the knife, struck at me in the dark and missed me. Then we struggled, and you know the rest. You were very nearly dead to-night, Macumazahn."

TO BE CONTINUED

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE SICK HEADACHE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

ACHE

is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure. Nerviline

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Fury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold on Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and Bicarbonate Soda hence is the best that can be made.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerviline cures sprains, bruises, cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy in the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerviline.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is used internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

DYSPEPSIA—no sture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; serse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it in natural color. Use a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and silkiness. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you wan any thing in the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Insurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 26,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, Agent.

Office—Jordan Street, Toronto.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotency and the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and undermining the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful pretenders.

Consult the Specialist. Possess this great binding, embossed, full gilt, 125 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescriptions, prospectus, sent in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus free. If you apply now. The celebrated GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially by mail or in person, at the office of No. 4 Bulfinch Ist., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

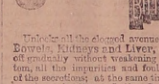
PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST,

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY ADULTERANT SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. CHICAGO, ILL.

THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKES.

THE ACT TO HEALTH.



Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off every impurity from the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity and Stimulating the system, Curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Flutterings of the Heart, Nervous Debility, General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the beneficial influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Price $1.00 per Bottle. For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 36 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded by the authority by the National Medical Association Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass., or Dr. W H Parker, graduate of Harvard Medical College, "25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,
Thos Donnelly.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

BANKING OFFICE

—Of—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed

THE POPULAR

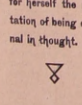
NEW STORY.

The writer of "The Judge" has earned for herself the reputation of being original in thought.

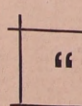
MRS. ELIA W. PEATTIE.

The stories in this paper are new and moral in tone. They may be read by all who can read.

"The Judge."

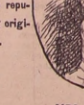


THOSE who are fond of stories will be pleased to learn that the new story to be published in these columns will be the best that has been published in a newspaper for many years. It is original in conception and differs from the usual style. The characters are clean cut and well brought out.

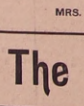


ALL the incidents are vividly described and the author never keeps her reader waiting for interesting passages. The whole story is full of interest. There is no murder. There is the judge who tells quaint legal incidents. There is a live newspaper man. There is enough humor to enliven the more heavy part of the story. There is a good plot well worked out.

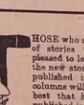
WHEN you have started "The Judge" you will continue to buy the paper from day to day till it is finished. No doubt about this. To read this story will be like reading in a new field of novel literature. There are so many surprises, yet they are consistent.



THE story is a prize story. It was selected to be published as the best story from the number received. Only one of the foremost in the ranks of lady author. Her articles appear in the best magazines.



"I AM delighted with "The Judge," said a critic who has read the story. "The Judge" will more than satisfy the average story reader. It will please all. The news who thinks it "the old story" will learn that he has not yet fathomed all the incidents that occur in every day life. The woman who says "Oh, it is all about love!" will find something interesting to her.



WITH each chapter the reader becomes fascinated and waits anxiously for the next. Those who read "The Judge" will say it is powerfully written and the interest well maintained. The author has chosen a new field for her incidents. There is a freshness about the story that gives it zest and the reader never becomes weary of it.

Be sure and get the first instalment. There is no long preamble. The writer introduces her characters in rapid succession and one scene quickly follows another.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc.

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Accident Insurance Coy of North America.

Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y Agency "White" Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Popham

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write a card for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1888 ..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1888... $185,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Is equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Ons or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN, N.Y.

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the insured. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two millions in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $600,000. Capital, $600,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000. Parties desiring to insure their safe dwellings or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District agent, Belleville

W HARVEY, agent, Trenton
J. Martin agent Shirling.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FOOT SPINAL DISEASE A SPECIALTY. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of our system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Trustee price with truss. Every order made especially for each case and satisfaction guaranteed. Specialty for Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Rupture Crutches, etc. Pessaries, always in stock. Correspondence strictly private. Lady assistant. Goods sent to any address. Establishment of 60 years standing, and the very highest testimonials as to reliability and fair dealing.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

REMNANTS!

We are now stock taking at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

and are throwing out all Remnants and odds and ends of stock and are

JOBBING THEM OFF

at what they will bring. We have more remnants than usual this season as a result of our

Great Removal Sale

and we will sacrifice them so as to get our stock into good snap for the spring Reductions in all classes of Winter Goods.

Remnants of Carpets.

Very Cheap.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 7 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.

dly Tuner.

Overcoat Stolen.

C. Fothergill, stopping at the Queen's hotel, reported to Chief of Police Newton last night that an overcoat belonging to him had been stolen from the rack in the hall about 7:30. The chief is looking up the case.

Claiming a Pension.

F. Prior, post master at Wallbridge, in Sidney township, may secure twenty-five years back pension from the United States government. He served as an army nurse throughout the whole civil war, and as several nurses have already been awarded pension Mr. Prior thinks he has just grounds for his application.

Powley Gets Three Months

Chas. Edward Powley was sentenced to three months in the Central prison today by Judge Lazier for the larceny of twenty-five pounds of pork from Mr. Powell, Station St. On the charge of stealing an astrachan coat from C. W. Casey, of Toronto, he elected to be tried by a jury at the spring assize.

A Narrow Escape.

Chas. Nutbrown, son of the janitor of Albert College, narrowly escaped being drowned in the bay yesterday afternoon while skating. The ice on which the young man ventured was very elastic, refused to bear his weight and suddenly gave way. He went into the water up to his shoulders but fortunately was able to extricate himself with but the loss of a skate.

Relics of a Great Fray.

No. That fringe that you find on the shore of the lake at this season is not seaweed. It is hair that has come loose in the course of the prevailing difference between the editors of the Toronto Empire and the Toronto Mail. The hair has blown over; not so the difference.—Rochester Union and Advertiser.

Death From a Cancer.

Isaac Phillips brother of John Phillips of this city died in Brooklyn, N. Y. last week. For several years past he had been afflicted with a cancer in the mouth. The physicians refused to cut it out for fear that the patient would bleed to death. Three hours before deceased breathed his last the cancer commenced to bleed and medical aid was powerless to check the flow. He bled to death.

Weather Reports.

No wonder the public has come to look upon probabilities and improbabilities as synonymous as applied to the weather reports issued daily from Toronto. The meterological services issue a monthly review and the November number is just to hand. If the weather prophets are no keener in making out their daily reports than they are in issuing the monthly review, it is no wonder that they do not keep up with the changes of wind.

A Novel Crank.

Battle Creek, Mich., has produced the most novel crank yet in the shape of a man who requested the City Recorder to order all the saloons in town not to sell him anything to drink. The Recorder took the sensible drunkard around to all the gin mills, told the proprietors to take a good look at him and not to sell him budge on pain of prosecution. A tippler who often makes the rounds of the saloons on this kind of an errand, but this is the first known instance where the tippler himself did it.

The Wrong Body.

Thos. Johnson, Tweed, who recently found the body of his father in the dissecting room at Queen's Medical College, Kingston, and ordered its removal, has now discovered that the wrong body was sent to him. Johnson was repeatedly notified that he had the wrong body but it was only the other day that he was induced to examine the corpse to see if it was his father. He has wired the demonstrators of anatomy at the college.

"Examined the body. Not the right one. Await your instructions. Will write and explain."

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL. Qua Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

EXTRAVAGANT MANAGEMENT.

Mr. Burdett Speaks Against Waste of Public Money.

In discussing the Attorney General's report, the discussion arose out of a motion to vote $2 000 for contingent expenses of the High Commissioner, it was brought out that the departments had paid out $10,.00 for newspapers during the past year. Mr. Burdett member for East Hastings in speaking of the extravagance of the government said:

I understand there are some ninety new members serving in this new parliament who had no seat in the house of commons prior to 1877, and, therefore, they are in no way responsible for the extravagance since then. Life is too short and time too valuable to have both continually wasted in recriminations of the sort indulged in to-day. This government incontinually in the habit of declaring that the Mackenzie government was the very worst, and that they are the very best government that administered the affairs of the country, and whenever they are charged with extravagance or waste of public money, they shelter themselves behind the argument that they are as good as the Mackenzie government or at least no worse than that government which they continually pretend was the worst government that ever existed in Canada. I do not think that extravagance on the part of the return government in 1877 would justify extravagance on the part of the government to-day. Governments, like individuals, ought to improve, and if the Mackenzie Government was extravagant, the present government is not only guilty, in permitting that extravagance to go on, but of continuing a bad practice. They cannot possibly shelter themselves behind the alleged extravagance of the Mackenzie Government, when they cannot justify the items of expenditure which are brought under discussion. The point is, whether we are entitled to take $10,000 of the people's money and literally waste it in subscriptions to subservient newspapers, or newspapers that are practically of no use to the public or the country. Can it be possible that the departments require all these newspapers? No man can reasonable say that they are required in the interests of the public service. Why, then, is this money wasted in subscriptions to these papers which are not wanted? Enterprising newspapers are able to live without Government patronage or Government pay, and I submit it is our duty, instead of continually indulging in recrimination and saying, "You are as bad as we are," to set ourselves to work to lop off a great many of these useless branches of extravagance. It is perfectly manifest, no matter who is to blame for it, that the public expenditure is increasing year by year and day by day. It is evident that the resources of the country are becoming exhausted and the time is come when we, as representatives of the people, ought to put our hands to the wheel and see if we cannot put an end to these absurd expenditures in some way or other. All I ask is that both parties should unite and pruna down those accounts and lop off these things that ought not to exist, and we would soon find that we would have a public free of growth health and vigor. I repeat, our time is too valuable to have it continually wasted by Government supporters trying to prove, when charged with extravagance or mismanagement, that they are no worse than the Mackenzie Government was ten or twelve years ago—that Government which they are continually boasting was turned out for its extravagance. If that be true they ought, by their own admission, to step down and out, or else very largely reduce these expenditures.

ARCHBISHOP CLEARY.

Again Denounces the Course Pursued by Mr Meredith Regarding Catholic Education.

Archbishop Cleary, while at Tweed recently, took occasion to speak upon the course pursued by Mr. Meredith in regard to Catholic education. He opened with a declaration of the supreme importance of Catholic education for the youth of the diocese, and pointed out that in the present day an everlasting contest between the kingdom of God and the spirit "of wickedness in high places" is waged in the school room; that this is the battle ground chosen by agents of Satan against the Saviour of the souls of little ones. "The diabolical spirit of hatred of religious education," he said, "has found its way, unfortunately into Ontario, Satan has raised his standard here, and has sent forth from the gates of hell his army of demons to propagate his wicked maxims throughout the cities and towns of this province. The pseudo-Conservative leader has yielded to influence and framed a policy to run a sword through the Catholic church and sever the bands between the bishops and the faithful people. In defence of their rights the successors of the apostles in this country are compelled to submit to obloquy, direct calumny and other persecutions. The proposition is to set aside the divine influence and authority of their apostolic office, and place it under the control of party politicians and the protection of state craft and the pseudo-conservative leader, that all catholic parents will conspire to aid in its accomplishment. Never did that weak minded gentleman more grevious error. Parents and I and all the Catholic people of Ontario will prove to this politician that he shall not succeed in his effort to set the people against their chief pastor." He held that Catholics educated children according to the constitution, and the Provincial Government is sworn to protect and defend them in doing so. He then announced the establishment of a seperate school in Tweed.

THE BELLEVILLE DELEGATES.

The Interview With Sir John—Will Receive Due Consideration.

Mr. Corby yesterday introduced to Sir John Macdonald a delegation consisting of Messrs G. S. Tickell, mayor of Belleville; Ald. Porter, City solicitor Henderson, and Messrs. L. W. Yeomans, A. N. Reid and A. McGinnis, of the Belleville board of trade, who urged that a subsidy be granted to the Bay of Quinte and Lake Nipissing Railway Company to enable them to build thirty miles of the road from Belleville to Bridgewater this year. The company's case was strongly put by Mayor Tickell, Mr. Corby and other gentlemen, and Sir John said the representations would receive due consideration.

The Old Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling ill;
A headache off; a cauty chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
New life's no more the weary head,
The struggle's over; the man is dead.
Such is the fatal progress of consumption
How often is repeated the old, old story
Yet not half so often as it was before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, 50 cents.

A SOCIAL SENSATION.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND IN A FERMENT.

Sudden Disappearance of a Dashing Young Widow—The Wife of a Premier Lawyer Dosed in a Mysterious Way With Arsenic—Telegraph Wires Cut—The Widow Arrested After Contracting Pneumonia.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Feb. 6.—The greatest social sensation in the history of Prince Edward Island prevails here over the attempt to poison Mrs. Sutherland. This woman who so mysteriously disappeared from Charlottetown was Mrs. Robt. T. Weeks, the dashing widow of the late junior partner of Davis, Sutherland & Weeks. She lived opposite Sutherland and though not friendly with the wife was said to be on intimate terms with Mr. Sutherland. Mrs. Weeks is of 28, the daughter of Rev. J. M. McLeod, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church in Charlottetown and now stationed at Vancouver, B. C. Affairs reached a crisis when Dr. Johnston made the astounding discovery that arsenic had been mixed with the medicine administered to his patient and informed Mr. Sutherland of the fact. That night at midnight Mrs. Weeks surreptitiously left the city and drove 30 miles to Cape Traverse, where a crossing was effected over nine miles of ice over the straits of Northumberland to the mainland of New Brunswick. The crossing is made on ice boats, in which the mails are carried. Mrs Weeks was thickly veiled and kept her face concealed from the couriers during the journey and took to slide across the ice. The usual fare is $2 for the passage, but she paid $20 and insisted upon going that night.

A HANDSOME BRUNETTE,

TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT.

On Monday the telegraph wires between Charlotte and Cape Traverse were cut so that no communication could be had with the mainland. Mrs. Weeks reached Moncton safely and caught the night train for St. John, where she arrived at midnight and proceeded to the hotel Dufferin, where she obtained a room without registering. The exposure in crossing on the ice had heavily greet. She contracted a heavy cold, which was followed by a serious attack of pneumonia. On Tuesday the telegraph wires were repaired and messages were sent by Attorney-General McLeod to Halifax, St. John and other cities on the mainland, giving a description of the missing woman and upon the charge of attempting to poison Mrs. Sutherland. Mrs. Weeks denies the charge, declares she has not been in Mrs. Sutherland's house for eighteen months, admits that she left Charlottetown and expresses her desire to return as soon as she is able. She is now under the survillance of a detective and will be taken back as soon as it is safe to do so. Mrs. Sutherland is reported to be a little better to-night and may recover. What steps the husband of the victim has taken to run to earth the would-be murderer of his wife, or on what evidence Mrs. Weeks is to be arrested, has not been made public. The general opinion is that it is just as necessary for Sutherland to clear his skirts as it is for Mrs. Weeks to prove her innocence.

REQUESTING HER ARREST

CULLED FROM EXCHANGES.

Pithy Paragraphs Clipped from County Exchanges.

Mr. Chas. Nix, of Madoc, while on his way to the factory on Wednesday slipped and fell breaking his leg below the knee.

Revival services are contemplated in connection with the Methodist church, Queensboro' to begin February 19th with a four days meeting.

The Madoc Village council has appointed C. F. Aylsworth village engineer and A. B. Ross high school trustee.

Mrs Allen, of Cornwell, who has eloped with Tudhope, the lacrosse player, is the wife of Capt. Edwin Allen of the North-West mounted police.

TOWN TALK.

The river is still open.

The water in the river rose a foot last night.

We are having winter weather again, minus the snow.

John Walker was fined $2 at the police court today for drunkenness.

Michael Ryan, an old resident nearly eighty years of age is dying at the hospital.

The police report that a case of leather was stolen Wednesday from the G. T. R. station.

Chapman Maid, driven by Dennis Lake, won the three minute trot at Newcastle yesterday.

It is stated Stephen Cummings who was dismissed on a charge of stealing a fur coat has left the country.

The Trenton race dates are fixed for Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Several local sports will go.

PROBS.—Strong easterly winds to-day increasing cloudy, followed by clear or rain to-night; rising temperature.

Caverly Bros. grocers of this city have purchased the stock of J. Chambers, provision merchant, Madoc, at seventy cents on the dollar.

The Rev. Dr. Grant of Queens University will lecture to the Albert college missionary society at Bridge St. church to-night.

Mr. Sprague of Prince Edward, introduced the petition of the local assembly of Knights of Labor to the Ontario Legislature.

Preparation is being made at Albert College for the Annual Charter-Day concert on Friday, 14th inst. An excellent programme will be presented.

Reeve Cross of this village, is now recognized as one of the most influential members of the county council. He will be warden before long.—Madoc Review.

Jas. Boyce, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce is removing to Toronto and will sell by private sale on Saturday and Monday his entire stock of household furniture, organ, book-case and stoves at residence Octavia street. House to let.

An old man evidently from the rural districts, with a humorous countenance and cladpin an ancient garb, created much amusement at Akron, Ohio, for the passengers of a street car. His attention was attracted to the fare indicator at the end of the car. Looking at his watch for a moment he remarked: "Wall, I guess I'm twelve slow." Everybody laughed but the old man.

The Nine Hour Movement.

The public meeting called last night by the Carpenter's Union to discuss the nine hour movement did not materialize. The attendance was small and it was thought advisable to adjourn the discussion until a further date when efforts will be made to secure H. Lloyd, of Toronto to address the meeting.

Do Not be Deceived.

All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

A NEW BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

A Purely Canadian Undertaking—A Lodge to be Opened Here.

Joseph Maclean, of Toronto, Supreme Grand Organizer of the "Sons of Canada Benevolent Association," is in the city in the interests of that order. He has already met with encouraging success and a lodge will be established in Belleville at an early date. At the last meeting of the Grand Lodge held in Toronto last February there were only ten lodges in the Dominion—seven in Toronto; one in Hamilton, one in Bowmanville and one in Barrie. Since then however, Mr. Maclean has organized no less than sixteen, throughout Ontario and at every point is meeting with gratifying success. The motto of the society is the advancement and elevation of Canadians. The union of all in one benevolent brotherhood, who are Canadians, either by birth or adoption, irrespective of political opinion or religious belief. The mutual advancement of the members of the association. To assist any of its members requiring needful help in every proper and lawful manner. To secure to any of its members in case of illness, a weekly allowance and to minister to their necessities. To defray the burial expenses of deceased members and to provide for their bereaved families.

A CHURCH ROW AT WATERTOWN.

All Because the Boys and Girls Wanted to Dance.

As told in last Tuesday's Watertown Times, a surprise party was tendered Miss Anna Cavanagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cavanagh last Monday evening at her parent's residence. No. 73 Massey street. The Cavanagh family are members of St. Patrick's church. When the musician was about to enter Mr. Cavanagh's house last Monday evening he met Rev. Father Glenn, of St. Patrick's church and they entered together. The priest took a seat in the house and informed the young people assembled there that he would do the calling off, at the same time taking from his pocket a memorandum book in which he wrote the names of those present. He then informed the party that it was against the rules of the Catholic church to dance after dark and added that he would publicly announce the names of all those who continued to dance, from the altar on the following Sunday. The priest soon departed and a few of the guests wended their way homeward, but most of the dancers staid and enjoyed themselves until the early hours of the next morning. But Father Glenn kept his promise and the announcements were made at both masses at St. Patrick's church Sunday. The names of several very respectable young ladies and gentlemen were read off as violators of the rules of the church, and the priest also stated the blame rested on the shoulders of the Cavanagh family for daughter, as they allowed the dance to continue against the wishes of Mr. Cavanagh who protested in vain. The affair caused considerable comment among the Catholics since then. That dancing was not allowed after dark is evidently a new rule to the church, as the fact was not generally known until the Cavanagh party was held on Monday night.

DWELLING BURNED.

Fred Root Loses House and Furniture Through a Defective Furnace.

Fred Root's house on Foster Avenue was gutted by fire at 10:30 last night. The family had been away visiting for several weeks and Mr. Root had only started a fire in the furnace during the day in order that the family could occupy the house to-day. Neighbors state that the fire originated in the cellar near the furnace. When the doors were forced open the smoke was so dense that an entrance could not be effected and what little furniture was taken out was so damaged by fire and smoke that it will be of little value.

The house was insured in the Mercantile for $1,400.

No Rebate to Distillers.

Mr. Kirkpatrick gave notice on Wednesday evening of the following resolution, which he will press to-night.

Resolved, that it is expedient to provide that no rebate or drawback be allowed for duty paid on foreign corn made into whiskey, or on foreign malt made into beer and afterwards exported from Canada.

The provision for these rebates is made in the Customs act. A few days ago it was discussed in the House. It was then pointed out that while distillers and brewers get a rebate on the duty they pay on their raw material imported for use in manufacturing spirits for export, the farmer who imports corn to feed cattle for export receives no such advantage. The government upheld the discrimination, but it is apparent now at least one Ministerialist sees the unfairness of the discrimination.

In the discussion referred to Mr. Corby while enjoying the advantages afforded the rebate on corn spoke and voted against the farmer enjoying a similar favor.

A Fortune in a Hole.

An old farmer in the Granite State one Sunday morning started to wind up his great silver watch, and found that the key was filled with dirt. Being unable to dig the matter out with a pin, the farmer drilled a hole in the key, and, with a single breath, blew all the dust out. Then he sat down to think, and within a month had patented that hole. To-day in Lebanon, N. H., there is a large factory running by electric power, wherein are manufactured daily thousands and thousands of watch keys of every possible size, shape and design. Each one of these keys contains the hole which had been patented by the farmer. The latter has already made a fortune.

Potter's Want Protection.

The pottery of Hart Bro's & Lazier of this city was represented on the deputation of crockery manufacturers that waited upon Hon. M. Bowell and Hon. Mr. Foster yesterday. They asked that the duty on crockery be increased and that certain raw materials used in the industry be put upon the free list. The manufacturers complain that a large quantity of imported goods is not appraised at the proper value, and that on this account they labor under great disadvantages. They say that the industry is becoming a very important one in Canada, and therefore is entitled to protection.

Lost.

You have lost your appetite if you have had the grippe but have found it if you have visited Goldsmiths Uptown Fish Store. This week we have frozen salmon, fresh halibut steak, fresh bluefish, bake, cod, haddock, flounders, frozen sea herring shell lobster, oysters. All kinds of pickle, and smoked fish, etc. Clams and oysters other kinds expected in a day or two. Near Wallace's candy store; opposite Goldsmith's old stand. 29 1w

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. feb4w1y

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

R. Grass, Trenton, is in town.

E. W. Law Kingston, is in town.

Dr. Kedland, Toronto, is in the city.

H. W. Stroud, Montreal, is in the city.

J. J. Leahy, Kingston, is at the Kyle house.

Geo. H. Downey, Whitby, is at the Kyle House.

J. W. McRae and wife, Ottawa, are at the Queen's.

Wm. McRosie, Kingston, is at the Anglo American.

C. H. Clark, Chicago, is at the Kyle House.

C. S. Petter, Cornwall, is stopping at the Queen's.

S. Benson, barber, is afflicted with an attack of influenza.

John Filson, St. Paul, is registered at the Dominion

C. T. Gould, St. Paul, is registered at the Kyle House.

James Stanley, proprietor of the Central Hotel, Brighton, is ill.

J. J. Turner, Peterboro, is registered at the Anglo American.

M. K. Ketchum, Brighton, is confined to his room with influenza.

Wm. Beamish, of the customs office here, has taken the place of customs officer Maguire, Trenton, during his illness.

Mr. Jean Kono is the guest of Alderman Gordon. Mr. Kono is a native of Japan. He delivers an address at the Tabernacle Sunday evening.

Mr. Gretwin, water inspector, G. T. R. has been offered by the company a more responsible position at Gravenhurst, which he has accepted and leaves for his new field of labor. He will not remove his family until spring.

Miss May Donnelly formerly of this city, now attending the Toronto College of Music was one of the Barnettes from the college which gave a successful concert at Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. T. H. Brown, of Belleville, was in town to-day, says the Woodstock Standard, renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Brown is an old Woodstock boy, and always has a good word to say of his native town. He left for New York at noon.

A. W. Roblin of this city has secured a good position on the road for a large Chicago boot and shoe firm. Mr. Roblin's friends will be pleased to hear of his success. He will work between Montreal and Toronto.

Rev. S. T. Bartlett who preaches in the Tabernacle on Sunday is the guest of Rev. G. H. Copeland. Mr. Bartlett commenced to preach before he was 17 years of age, and was known in the west as the boy preacher.

Ed. H. Barnstead, jr., late advance representative for Zera Semon's big show, has joined Jones Mills dramatic company, and will act as advanced representative for her company. Mr. Barnstead, as an advance advertiser, has few equals.

100 PAIRS SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTING

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY $4.75

AT

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS, ENGLISH REGATTA, OXFORD LINEN,

FANCY FLANNEL, AND CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASURE!

A. E. FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents' Furnishers, Laundry Office,

BANKRUPT SALE OF BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES. "GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 per cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their origin price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES.

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles, Coon Coats, Corsican, Lamb & other coats Black and Grey Robes, Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO,

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B. SCANTLEBURY'S

adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELL'S

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Barrels and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE —LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: SATURDAY FEBRUARY 8, 1890 | NO 33

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASO—

is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
mall Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackerlis, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coco nut SugarWafers
noon Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES &C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
ass's, Guiness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda. Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Hitchie's

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.

And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS,
UNDERCLOTHING,
TRUNKS and
VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES

See for yourselves and Call at
S G RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belle

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, Roc'r. 1318wdw

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W-W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;
dtd

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

ALBERT COLLEGE
FOREIGN MISSION BAND
1ST ANNUAL CONVENTION.
Evening Meetings in Bridge Street Church, Feb'y 7th and 8th at 7.30 p m.
Friday Evening, Feb. 7th:
Address—"The need of more Specialization in Missionary Work." Rev. Principal Grant, D. D., Queen's University, Kingston.
Saturday Evening, Feb'y 8th
Address—"Africa." F J Livingstone, Victoria University Cobourg. our representative who will go to Africa.
Address—"Japan." Jiro Kono Victoria University, Cobourg.
Sunday 2 p m. Albert College Chapel Students will fill the Programme.
No charge for admittance to any of these meetings.
Silver Collection at the door.
ALL WELCOME.
J. WHALE.
14567 Chaplain Mission Band.

OUR JAPENESE FRIEND
MR. INZO KOUO,
Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our
Japan — Teas
Those using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

SCOTT'S
EMULSION
DOES CURE
CONSUMPTION
in its First Stages.
Palatable as Milk.
Be sure you get the genuine in Salmon color wrapper; sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon to the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.
dtd

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6cd

WANTED.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply to MRS. W. W. LEE.
Feb. 1 Hotel street.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. ANDERSON,
Feb 4 dtf cor. Ann and Charles sts

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay. Address Stone Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All good Wages paid. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly, Liberal inducements to beginners. No experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N.Y. Mention this Paper

OPERA -- HOUSE
MONDAY EV'G. FEB. 10
First appearance in Belleville of the
NORA CLENCH
CONCERT COMPANY
With the Following distinguished Artists:—
MISS NORA CLENCH,
VIOLINIST.
MRS. CALDWELL,
SOPRANO.
MISS COLVIN,
PIANIST.
MR. FRED WARRINGTON,
BARITONE.
MANAGER - - - J. W. BAUMAN
Reserved Seats - 75cts.
Admission - - - 50 and 35cts
Plan of Reserved Seats at W. B. Riggs Music Store. 6td

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.
CAPITAL - - $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest rates.
Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.
Four per cent interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. P. O PHILLIPS,
Manager

TO THE PUBLIC.
MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sole for. Shop and manufactory, Front St East Opposite City Hall. Belleville.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

THE DUKE OF ORLEANS PLANS A COUP D'ETAT.

By the Prompt Action of the Authorities the Plot is Thwarted—Conspiracy to Proclaim the Monarchy in France—Table Notes.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—By prompt action the Government has nipped in the bud what was apparently intended to be a Royalist coup d'etat, and the only consequence is that the Duke of Orleans, eldest son of the Count of Paris, is tonight in custody.

The Duke arrived in Paris to-day bearing a letter written by the Count of Paris announcing to the faithful and to all others the Count's abdication of his claims as a pretender to the throne of France. In virtue of this abdication all the Count's claims, rights, and titles descend to his eldest son, Philippe Louis Robert, Duke of Orleans. This gentleman is therefore the pretender to the throne in virtue of his claims as the heir of Louis Philippe and also as the heir of the old Bourbon line. The Duke also brought with him a manifesto addressed to the people of France.

His coming into the country was a violation of the law banishing all the heads and direct heirs of reigning families. There is some reason to believe that the movement was made in concert with the most determined opponents of the Republic, as the Duke repaired immediately to the house of the Duke of Luynes, the present head of a family that has always adhered with uncompromising heroism to the old monarchy.

In that house the young gentleman was King of France—in theory.

On Feb. 6 the Duke of Orleans attained the age of 21.

The abdication of his father, the manifesto and the movement were all apparently planned with regard to that date, and in order to electrify France with the demonstration that the fortunes of the monarchy were now in new hands and that the crown now belonged on the head of a preux chevalier, who would dare something for it and not fold his hands in a quiet corner like another Chambord.

But the Government was promptly informed of the presence of the Duke in Paris and of his whereabouts.

The law which the Duke violated by coming into France was made purposely for excluding his father and himself as enemies of the Republic. This law had been remitted only in favor of the Duke d'Aumale.

Therefore the Duke was at once arrested at the house of the Duke of Luynes. He was taken to the prefecture of police where his identity was proved and where the procès-verbal of his violation of the law of banishment was drawn up. He was then detained at the Conciergerie.

In the afternoon he was arraigned before the military authorities at the Central Bureau. In response to the enquiry as to the objects of his visit to France, he said that having attained his majority he had come to place himself at the disposal of the military authorities.

This dash of audacity is regarded as a happy stroke and is sure to make him friends, for a French boy who wants to take his chance for of conscription is a somewhat unusual and captivating figure. Nevertheless M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, ordered that the Duke be held in custody.

Further disposition of the case will depend on whether it is discovered that there was any plot for a general Royalist movement behind this incident.

Everybody remembers that the Royalists of France were at a given moment ready to rise, but that Henry V. would not face the peril of placing himself at their head.

People are now asking whether the young Prince has come here in response to a similar invitation. It is the only view in which the case has a serious aspect. Aside from this it seems only a mad boyish prank over which nobody is likely to become very fierce.

The young pretender is related to all the royal families in Europe.

CONTRADICTORY STORIES.

The Duke's Family Said To Be Innocent of Any Complicity.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—The Duke of Orleans has lately resided at Lousanne, Switzerland. He left there in company with the Duke of Luynes, who is only one year his senior. It is said none of his family were aware of his intention to enter France and the family is ignorant of any plans he may have had, if he had any other than that alleged by himself when in custody.

It is also reported that he did endeavor to enlist as a private soldier but was refused at the recruiting office for some informality in his application; that he went to the Maire to endeavor to overcome this difficulty and was there referred to the ministry and that finally as he could not get a satisfactory response to his request to be permitted to perform his three years' military service as an enlisted man, he wrote a polite letter to M. de Freycinet which was carried by the Duke of Luynes. This letter was to the effect that he had no intention to remain in Paris nor to create any difficulty; that he was legally precluded from holding any rank in the army, but that he was ambitious of the honor of serving France as a private soldier.

Shortly after this he was arrested. Contradictory stories are afloat as to all the details of the case, and particularly as to the report of the abdication of the Count of Paris. One of the first things made public was the report that the Duke had with him the document of abdication. As the Count of Paris has been at sea some days on his way to America, this gave the appearance of long considered preparation to the movement. It is now positively denied that the Duke has any such document or that the Count of Paris has signed any act of abdication.

Massacred by Somalis.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—A despatch to La France from its correspondent at Obock states that the Somalis, instigated by the English, attacked a French caravan on route to Harrar and massacred the persons belonging to it.

The Portuguese Anglophobes.

OPORTO, Feb. 7.—The students in this city to-day made a demonstration in front of the poet Anthero Quental, president of the Northern Patriotic League. They became riotous and smashed the windows of the leading social club because it has not expelled Englishmen belonging to it and had admitted others. The Progressist and Republican papers in Portugal continue to violently attack England.

A Flurry in Pig Iron at Glasgow.

GLASGOW, Feb. 7.—There was a collapse in the pig iron market here to-day, owing to the temporary suspension of payment by M. S. Wells, a prominent broker.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

THE GREAT RIVER OF THE WORLD.

The Amazon One Hundred Miles Wide at Its Mouth.

The Amazon, if the Para River be included as the southern channel, is 100 miles wide at its mouth. Para itself, the northernmost city of Brazil, lies at the gateway of the most wonderful river system of the world. It is the commercial and distributing point for 40,000 miles of navigable water. The Amazon watershed embraces twenty-five degrees of latitude and fifty-five degrees of longitude. Its western sources are in the Andes of Peru and Ecuador, only a few leagues from the Pacific. Its northern tributaries traverse the borders of Guinea and Columbia, while southway the headwaters of the Negro, mingle with those of the Orinoco, in the western spurs of the Sierra de Pacaraima.

On the south the Madeira has innumerable sources in the mountain levels of Bolivia, while the Tapajos, the Xingu, and the Tocantine penetrate the central provinces of Brazil. If a comparatively small group of southern provinces be left out of the account, the Amazon, with its tributaries, forms the water system for an area larger than that of the United States. It furnishes the only means of communication between the smaller centres of population in fully one half of the territories of Brazil.

Between most of its leading tributaries are broad stretches of impenetrable forests which have never been explored by white men. It is the Amazon alone that renders any form of government possible in the heart of South America. Within the range of the 40,000 miles of navigable water, settlements have been made, rubber farms opened, and magistrates empowered to conduct local administration. Para, lying at the southeastern outlet of the Amazon, less than 100 miles from the sea, is the metropolis of this wonderful valley. It is a city with perhaps 50,000 inhabitants, and with as much commercial enterprise as is possible under the equator.

The commerce of the Amazon is nominally carried on under the Brazilian flag. Foreigners are not allowed by law to own steamers or sailing vessels employed in inland navigation; and hence it is necessary for the English capitalists who constitute the carrying trade of the river, to assign their interests to Brazilians. There are forty steamers owned by an English line, which receives a large annual subsidy from the Brazilian Government for plying between various ports and villages on the main tributaries; and in return for this financial support, it is well satisfied to fly the national flag. Two other companies have eight steamers, under similar conditions; and there are as many as a dozen more on the river and its tributaries, which sail under the Brazilian flag. These sixty steamers are gradually opening the Amazon valley to commerce. Only the smallest vessels are now running beyond Manaos at the junction of the Negro, but next year the largest English vessels will make regular trips to Yquitos, 3,750 miles from the coast.

Some of the tributaries are only navigable for long distances at high water during certain months of the year, but the lower villages on their banks are visited by steamer as often as once or twice a month. This river trade is almost completely in the hands of the Portuguese merchants and the mercantile houses represented at Para. Manaos, with a population of 15,000, is the most flourishing town west of Para. The other settlements, with few exceptions, are straggling villages inhabited mainly by negroes, Indians, and half-breeds.

The forests of the Amazon, consisting mainly of hard wood, are not available for commercial requirements. The finest of rosewood and mahogany are used there for firewood. Even if there were a demand for the hardwood lumber at Para, it could not be floated and brought to market on a large scale owing to the density of the woods and the lack of roads and clearings. The one tree which is a source of wealth in these immense forests is the rubber tree. It is found everywhere, from the low-lying delta opposite Para to the Tapajos, the Madeira, and the Negro, and probably thousands of miles beyond those great tributaries. In the interior roads are impracticable, and the rubber trees that are milked lie along the rivers, where the farms can be approached. The milk can only be drawn at certain levels of the river, for the trunks of the trees are often fifteen or twenty feet under water after the rainy seasons.

When the conditions are favorable the bark of the trees is tapped and the milk drawn off in cups to be compacted and rolled together layer by layer like a snowball. It is then cooked or smoked over a fire made of sticks—a process that involves contraction in cooling and imparts elasticity to the substance—and then it is ready for shipment to Para and New York. The operation of such farms and the opening of new veins of trees in the trackless swamps and forests require the employment of native labor under the most incoherent conditions of equatorial heat and rains. If there be any quarter of the world where nature seems to command inaction and indolence, it is in these vast stretches of the Amazonian forest. Nowhere else can existence be sustained with so small an expenditure of effort.

On an acre of cleared land beans can be raised in sufficient quantity to keep soul and body together with the adventitious aids of nuts and fruit from the woods. A torpid, semi-idiot existence seems to be the imperious requirement of the climate. The Indians, half-breeds, and negroes in the villages can live, if they choose to do so, with what may be described as the minimum of human labor involved in obtaining a livelihood. They instinctively resist all appeals to ambition and self-interest. The efforts of rubber farmers and agents to induce them to share in the dangers and labor involved in exploring the forest and striking new veins of rubber trees are ordinarily futile; and the employment of even the poorest classes of labor is carried on under almost insuperable difficulties.

No Typewriters in Rome.

Newton Bacmillan says: "When I was in Rome with American ball-players I concluded one day to go down into the Eternal City's business centre and hunt up a typewriter to do some correspondence. I couldn't find such a thing as a typewriting-machine. I don't believe there are any, or if there are they are in the private houses of people from England, who are merely sojourning there. I met one young Roman who occupies, or did, a place as private secretary to somebody. He had heard of a typewriter, but had never seen one. In a spirit of levity I said I recommend that if I could secure the Vatican I might find one, but that if I did, I wouldn't be allowed to use it. The young Roman laughed and said he didn't think there was such a thing in the Vatican. And then he told me something else which was interesting. He said:

"The Pope dislikes the innovation, for he is anxious not to break up the admirable school of penmanship which flourishes at the Vatican. There is no such writing in the world as that which is seen on the documents sent out by the Curia. All the copying clerks of the first rank are priests and monks, and many of them real artists in calligraphy. They are allowed to exercise their fancy in the tracing of illuminated capitals and ornamental rubrics and margins, but there must nor be a single erasure on a page which has to be issued in the Pope's name. A misplaced comma causes whole page to be rewritten."—Chicago Tribune.

The Candid Truth.
USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and sore throat; it never

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

MR. LAURIER ATTACKS THE DISTILLERS' CORN REBATE.

The Leader of the Opposition Offers an Amendment to the Motion to Go Into Supply—The Commercial Paper Bill Discussed.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The distillers' rebate of import duty paid on corn subsequently exported in the shape of whisky is to be attacked by Mr. Laurier with a resolution for its discontinuance to be moved in amendment to the motion to go into supply. As Mr. Laurier's intention was not publicly stated until to-day it would appear as if he had stolen the thunder of Mr. Kirkpatrick, who a few days ago put a notice to the same effect on the order paper. But it was explained to-day that Mr. Laurier intended to move his amendment last Tuesday, but deferred it to suit the convenience of the Finance Minister with the understanding that supply would be moved again to-day and he would then have an opportunity.

To-day Sir John Macdonald requested that it be further deferred, as it being Friday a large number of members did not desire to stay for a division. He guaranteed Mr. Laurier that he would not be forestalled by Mr. Kirkpatrick's motion, and to ensure this an opportunity would be given him at the close of to-day's business to make his motion, leaving the debate for another day. Mr. Laurier said that was quite satisfactory and the House then went into committee on Sir John Thompson's bill to amend the act respecting bills of exchange, checks and promissory notes.

To-night's was a decidedly lively session of the House, which spent all the time in Committee of Supply, nominally discussing contingencies of civil government but really wrangling about all sorts of matters foreign to the appropriation under consideration. There was an air of fun and the crowds in the galleries remained until a late hour to enjoy it.

The first row was raised by David Mills, really in continuation of the spat he had a few days ago with Mr. Tupper over the comparative statement of printing and advertising which he had presented to the House. Mr. Mills represented that Mr. Tupper had made a wrong interpretation of that statement. The minister replied rather warmly and then Mr. Davies continued the attack, speaking for the first time this session and in his loudest and most emphatic strain.

Mr. Tupper retorted that Mr. Davies had got badly left in the recent P.E.I. election and that was no doubt because he had made there such wild statements as he made to this House.

Dr. Landerkin rose to have a little fun out of the episode and ask the minister whatever in the world his respected father, the High Commissioner, would say if he knew that his son had so far forgotten his example and counsel as to present an extravagant statement to the House. As a former Nova Scotian he blushed for the minister and proceeded to give him some advice.

Everybody laughed except the minister, who opened out on Dr. Landerkin in his livelliest strain. He accused him of buffoonery and insolence, expressed surprise that he should act the part of a clown and jester, described his style of argument as better fitted for a barroom than for Parliament.

"No, I won't retract," declared Sir Adolphe. "It is insolence and I will call it so." At last the Chairman restored quiet and asked Mr. Casey to state his objection. That gentleman then demanded that the expression "insolence" be retracted.

Chairman Wood looked undecided for a moment, and Sir Adolphe attempted to continue, amidst an uproar from the House. Mr. Casey's voice being loudest in cries of "Order" he was called to order himself by Mr. Wood, who then rose and quietly remarked: "The member must withdraw the expression objected to."

"No, I won't retract," hastily answered Sir Adolphe, but a moment's reflection showed him that the chairman's word was law, and he declared that if he had used any expression that was not parliamentary he would certainly withdraw it at the request of the chair.

Dr. Wilson then wound up the discussion in characteristic fashion: "Insolence, indeed" was to give Mr. Laurier an opportunity of moving the amendment spoken of early in the day. This the leader of the Opposition did in the following words:

"That this House do not go into Committee of Supply, but that it be resolved, That no rebate of duty should be allowed on corn imported for use in the manufacture of spirits."

In a brief and concise address in support he expressed his desire that no classes should be exempt from the operation of certain laws from which other classes were not exempt.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, who appeared a bit vexed, rose to explain that he had put his notice on the paper in entire ignorance of Mr. Laurier's intention and thought Government had intimated it privately to the Finance Minister on Tuesday; it was only to-day that he had heard of it.

Mr. Laurier admitted that it might have been better if he had spoken publicly.

Sir John Macdonald then defended the practice of private communications between the Government and Opposition on these subjects, showing it to be quite in accord with English usage, and wound up the proceedings by moving the adjournment of the debate.

The House adjourned at 11½

The Persian Monarch Disabled.

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—The steamer Iowa, from Liverpool, reports Jan. 31 she signaled the steamer Persian Monarch, from London for New York, with the loss of her propeller and heading east under sail.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

THE WORST IN YEARS.

A BIG STORM CREATES HAVOC IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Fatal Hurricane at Blairsville—A Factory Destroyed and Two Men Killed—Heavy Snow Reported at Many Points—Winter Is Here at Last.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 7.—The worst storm in years has been raging throughout Western Pennsylvania since morning to-day. Snow, hail, rain and wind have been playing havoc. At Blairsville the large glass factory was demolished by the wind. Charles E. Barr, general manager, and Mr. Binney, one of the firm, were instantly killed, and a workman whose name could not be learned injured. Mr. Barney's body was immediately taken from the wreck. It was mangled almost beyond recognition. At Uniontown the roof was blown off the Methodist Episcopal Church, a part of it alighting on the house of John Brown, just north of the church, crushing it to pieces.

The Heaviest This Winter.

HARRISONBURG, Va., Feb. 7.—The heaviest snow storm this winter set in this morning and is still raging. The weather is quite cold. There was a heavy fall of snow to-day in Patrick and Henry counties.

Pittsburg's First Snowfall.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 7.—A heavy snow and sleet storm began here before noon and the ground is now covered with several inches of snow and hail. This is the first snowfall of the winter. At Connellsville the snow storm was accompanied with terrific wind. The old National locomotive works were blown down and a number of smaller buildings demolished but no one was injured. It was the worst mountain storm known in years.

A Dakota Blizzard.

MINNEWAUKAN, N.D., Feb. 7.—A severe snow and wind storm is raging here. The roof of the court house has been blown off.

SYRACUSE, Minn., Feb. 7.—The worst blizzard within the recollection of the oldest inhabitant is raging. The wind is from the north and the air is a cloud of snow. The mercury registers 10 degrees below zero and it's growing colder.

The Pacific Blockade.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 7.—Fourteen hundred sacks of delayed eastern mails and a large number of passengers arrived here by boat from The Dalles last evening, having been transferred from the Union Pacific train at that point.

HAMILTON'S DREAM.

The Ambitious City Turns Its Gaze Toward the Gas Wells.

HAMILTON, Feb. 7.—A question that is going to be a live one in Hamilton before long is that of natural gas. In a few months the construction of a pipe line from here to Port Colborne will be as interesting a topic to Hamiltonians as the railway question is at the present time. Within a radius of one mile from this city, wells have been discovered with a combined capacity of 12,000,000 feet per day. There seems to be a tremendous supply of gas in the neighborhood. The nearest wells of any extent to Hamilton can be heard 2½ miles away. It is said funds are already in hand for laying a pipe from the wells to St. Catharines, a distance of 24 miles. To reach Hamilton is one of the schemes of the promoters. With a supply of cheap gas Hamilton would speedily become a second Pittsburg.

A matter of considerable interest to the yeomanry of the Niagara peninsula came up at a special session of the Ninth Division Court before Judge Muir this morning. It involved the question whether a fertilizer known as the Sure Growth phosphates, manufactured by the Dominion Fertilizing Company of this city, was as good for encouraging the productiveness of mother earth as the agent of the company represents it to be. The immediate cause bell which led to the fight regarding the quality of the fertilizer arose from the fact that a farmer named F. R. Wilson, living in Louth township, county of Lincoln, repudiated a note for $120 when it came due. The farmer had purchased three tons of the stuff, and on April 22 gave a note for the price. When the note came due it was not paid, and the proprietor of the company, W. A. Freeman, sued for the amount. The case was not finished to-day.

The directors of the North and South Wentworth Agricultural Society and the Grand Central Fair yesterday agreed upon a basis of union and the fair of 1890 will be a joint one as in past years.

A. D. Stewart has announced his intention of resigning his seat in the City Council owing to a doubt as to his property qualification, the question turning upon the phrase "last revised assessment." He will seek re-election.

William the Labor Reformer.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 7.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says the project of Emperor William for the amelioration of the condition of the workingmen will arouse sympathy everywhere. No government but one conscious of its own power could attempt such a task because in the event of failure none but such a government would possess the necessary means to prevent those wrongly understanding its intentions or seeking to turn them to their own purposes from disturbing the public peace and causing disquiet among the labor element of the country.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—The Post of this city, while recognizing the humane sentiments and the absence of prejudice that actuated the issue of the imperial rescript, says it is unable to shut its eyes to the fact that the path upon which the Government has thus entered is one of great difficulty and not devoid of danger. It recalls the words of Napoleon III., who in 1863 announced a European congress before he had obtained the consent of even one other power. The Post concludes the optimistic terms of who handled the subjects with encouraging words to persons advising a friend to jump into an abyss of unknown depth.

Mr. Whyte's Appeal Sustained.

QUEBEC, Feb. 7.—The Court of Queen's Bench to-day reversed the judgment disqualifying for seven years John Whyte, ex-M.L.A. for Megantic. The Chief Justice read the opinion holding that the charges of corruption were not proven.

Hanged.

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Feb. 7.—Sam Dill (colored) was hanged to-day for the murder of Joe Grimes.

GREENSBORO, N.C., Feb. 7.—Lige Moore, the murderer of Laura Watt, was hanged here to-day. He died protesting innocence. Two other murderers were hanged in this state to-day, John Wilson in Yancy County and Bankey in Montgomery County.

I don't care who appointed to the Balmoral post office, and General Johnson to the President, but I do insist that the Pook use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. I am done with powder contain

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 8 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by carrier carriers to all parts of the City for sale at Fifteen cents per week—Ninety cents a month—Ninety cents per week.

THE WEEKLY ONTARIO is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar

ADVERTISEMENTS Six Dollars per Column for first insertion for one month or longer at reduced rates; Ten cents per line for first insertion, and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY ONTARIO, 10 cents per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached to the charge for death notice is filed.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The civil service of Canada is so completely burdened with the younger sons of English families that it has been necessary to amend the civil service act so that in future one of the qualifications for admittance to the Canadian service will be that the applicant shall be a resident of the country for five years.

It is hoped that while Sir John gave the Belleville railway deputation the stereotyped assurance that he would give their representations "due consideration" that the assurance in this instance means more than is ordinarily the case. The ice is now only broken and if anything is to be accomplished the steps that have been taken must be followed by still further agitation. If the city shows that it is in earnest the end aimed at will be attained.

The Chicago Daily News has a book of clippings collected within the past six months, which contains over 200 cases of poisoning due to druggists mistakes, and it says that this number is only about 3 per cent of the total number of deaths from that cause. This would make over 15,000 deaths per year due to druggists mistakes. This is the American record but the only surprise is that the death rate is not even greater when the lax law regarding the qualification of druggists is taken into account. In fact the only qualification recognized in the west is the financial ability to meet one's bills.

Mr. McCarthy has filled his role as Sir John's man Friday to the very end. He threatened before parliament met to introduce a bill to do away with the French language, in an official sense, in the northwest territories but the country was a little skeptical of his intentions. He introduced the bill however, but the difficulty it was suppose its introduction would cause the government was readily overcome. Mr. Davin of Regina has given notice that when Mr. McCarthy's bill comes up for its second reading he will move an amendment that whereas the northwest territories act was passed before a large population had entered, it is expedient that the legislative assembly of the N. W. T. be authorized to declare whether or not the French language shall continue to be used as one of the official tongues, and that no change shall be made until there has been an appeal to the electors.

The government will support the motion which is no doubt not new to Sir John or Mr. McCarthy and the question will drop. If Mr. McCarthy is sincere in his agitation he will try the same measure for Quebec and seek to amend the enactment authorizing the dual language in the commons.

Nye and Riley Dissolved Partnership.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the great American funny man and the famous dialect poet, have dissolved partnership. The news receives a convivial bath of Riley. The latter although on probation broke loose Friday, and since then he has been in a dazed condition. Mr. Nye says Riley's conduct has been such that in justice to the public the combination had to end. Manager Walker confirms Mr. Nye, and says Riley's case is hopeless. All dates will be cancelled, and Mr. Nye will remain in Louisville for several days perfecting new plans.

'La Grippe' or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure in the cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and cartarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your druggists it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD & CO.,
Brockville, Ont.

Prof. Dorenwend Coming

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this will all disappear and capillary additions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stand Prof. Dorenwend's record. He is a manufactured Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but he public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorenwend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorenwend makes per colorial visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Pompieces, Fangs, Waves, Wigs, Curls, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13. Go early to see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE. Sold by D. H. Waters Belleville.

A LETTER OF SALUTATION.

DR. TALMAGE ADDRESSES A LETTER TO HIS SERMONIC READERS.

Journeyings in Palestine and Syria—A Tempest Strikes the Travellers on Mount Hermon—Through Apostolic Lands and Scenes—His Desire on the Eve of His Return.

Constantinople, January, 1890.—On leaving America I addressed some words of farewell to my sermonic readers, and now, on my way home, I write this letter of salutation, which will probably reach you about the Monday that will find me on the Atlantic ocean, from which I cannot reach you with the usual sermon. I have completed the journey of inspection for which I came. Other work I have left to others that I might seeing the Holy Land. I did not feel competent for such a work until I had seen with my own eyes the scenes, on board of Hermon, but it will take twenty years of sermons to tell what I have seen, and felt, on this journey through Palestine and Syria.

All things have combined to make our tour instructive and advantageous. The Atlantic and Mediterranean and Adriatic and Ægean, and Dardanelles, and Marmora, seas have treated us well. Since we left New York we have had but a half day and one night of storm, and that while crossing Mount Hermon. But let only those in robust health attempt to go the length of Palestine and Syria on horseback. I do not think it is because of the unhealth of the climate in the Holy Land, that so many have sickened and died here or afterward, as a result of visiting these lands, but because of the fatigues of travel. The number of miles gives no indication of the exhaustion of the way. A hundred of miles in Palestine and Syria on horseback demand as much physical strength as four hundred miles on horseback in a region of easy journey. Because of the near two months bright sunlight by day, and bright moonlight and starlight by night, the half day of storm was to us the more memorable. It was about noon of Dec. 18 that the tempest struck us and drenched the mountains. One of the horses falls and we halt amid a blinding rain. It is freezing cold. Fingers and feet like ice. Two hours and three-quarters before encampment. We ride on in silence, longing for the terminus of to-day's pilgrimage. It is, through the awful inclemency of the weather, the only dangerous day of the journey. Slip, and slide, and tumble and climb, and descend we must, sometimes on the horse and sometimes off, until at last we halt in the hovel of a village, and instead of entering camp for the night we are glad to find this retreat from the storm. It is a house of one story, built out of mud. My room is covered with a roof of goat's hair. A feeble fire mid floor, but no chimney. It is the best house of the village. Arabs, young and old, stand around in wonderment as to why we come. There is no window in the room, but two little openings, one over the door and the other in the wall, through which latter opening I am progressing. But the door is open, so I have some light. This is an afternoon and night never to be forgotten for its experiences and acquaintance with the hardships of what an Arab considers a luxurious apartment. I set that night by a fire, the smoke of which, finding no appropriate place of exit, took lodgment in my nostrils and eyes. For the first time in my life I realized that chimneys were in territories not a second. The only adornments in this room were representations of two tree branches in the mud of the wall, a circle supposed to mean a star, a bottle hung from the ceiling, and about twelve indentations in the wall to be used as mantles for anything that may be placed upon them. This storm was not a surprise. Through pessimistic prophets we had expected that at this season we should have rain and snow and hail, throughout our journey. For the most part it has been sunshine and tonic atmosphere, and not a moment has our journey been hindered. Gratitude to God is with us the dominant emotion.

Having visited the scenery connected with Christ's life I was glad to close my journey by passing through the apostolic lands and seas. You can hardly imagine our feelings as we came in sight of Damascus, and on the very road where Saul was unhorsed at the flash of the supernatural light. We in no wain, like him, to be flung to the earth, but we did hope for some great spiritual blessing brighter than any noonday sun, and a new appreciation for usefulness. Our long horseback ride was ended, for a carriage met us some miles out and took us to the city. The impression our coming receives as it rides along the walled gardens of the place are different from those produced by any other city. But we cannot describe our feelings as we entered the city about which we have heard and read so much, the oldest city under the sun, and founded by the grandson of Noah; nor our emotions as we came through the street called Straight, along which good Ananias went to meet Saul; and by the site of the palace of Naaman, the leper, and saw the river Abana, as yesterday we saw Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus that Naaman preferred to wash in rather than the Jordan. Strange and unique Damascus! It is worth while to cross the Atlantic and Europe to see it. Though it has been the place of battle and massacre, and of ancient affluence and splendor as well as it is of present prosperity, to me its chief attraction arises from the fact that here the scales fell from Paul's eyes, and that chief of apostles began that mission which will not end until Heaven is peopled with the ransomed spirits. So also I saw day before yesterday Patmos, where John heard the trumpets and the waves of the sea dashed to his feet, reminding him of the songs of Heaven, "like the voice of many waters."

But this letter can only give a hint of the things we mean to tell you about when we get home, where we expect to be before the month is ended. I baptised by immersion in the Jordan an American whom we met, and who desired the solemn ordinance administered to him in the sacred waters. I rolled down from Mount Calvary, or "place of a skull," and bathed for the second time in our new Bethesda Tabernacle. We bathed in the "Dead Sea" and in "Gideon's Fountain," where his three hundred men lapped the water from their hands as they passed through; and we sailed on Lake Galilee and stood on Mount Zion and Mount Moriah and Mount Hermon; and and I saw the place where the shepherds heard the Christmas anthem the night Christ was born; and have lost at Nazareth, and Capernaum, and at by "Jacob's Well," and saw Tel-el-Kebir of modern battle, and Megiddo of ancient battle, at which place the Israelites crossed the desert, and slept at Bethel, where one ladder was let down into Jacob's dream, but the night I slept there the heavens were full of ladders—first a ladder of clouds, then a ladder of stars, and all up and down the heavens were the angels of beauty, angels of consolation, angels of God ascending and descending, and I was on nearly all the fields of Hercules, and Solomonic, and Davidic, and Mosaic, and Abrahamic history. I took Rome, and Naples, and Athens, and Alexandria, and Cairo on the way out, and take the Greek Archipelago, and Constantinople, and Vienna on the way back. West more than gold in Fifi goodness grant me in the way of natural scenery, and classic association, and spiritual opportunity! Ah yes! I can think of something gladder than that He can grant me. Safe return to the people of my beloved flock, the field of my work, and the land where my fathers died, and in the dust of whose valleys I pray God I may be buried.

Charities of the Vanderbilts.

A great deal is written about the wealth of the Vanderbilt families, and occasionally the account of their charitable gifts appears in the newspapers. It is, however, always contrary to the wishes of the members of the family that their charities should be made public. It has never been published anywhere, although it is a fact, that there is a rule in each of the Vanderbilt households that, whatever the cost of running the house, the same amount in each instance is given to the poor. I am told that this rule is followed to the letter, a book of expenses for this purpose is kept, and it is recorded all of the household expenses, including even the hire of servants and the cost of boxes at the opera. So that whenever the expenses of the families increase, the donations to the poor are increased correspondingly. One can fancy how large these donations must be from the statement that in one of the families there are no less than thirty servants, while all the family expenses will probably run up to several hundred thousand dollars a year. When this amount is given away at the end of the year there shall be little or no publicity given to the fact of the magnificent donation. Even with this doubling of expenses none of the Vanderbilts is able to live up to his income and investing large sums in new enterprises.

Fine Weather for Railroads.

Paul Morton, of the C., B. and Q., says there ought to be a special thanksgiving in this country for the weather we have had. It may not suit some folks, but railroad people would cheerfully contribute any sum of money if they would have this sort of weather every Winter. Tellme—have you heard of any accident on any railroad this Winter on account of a broken rail? I suppose you know that extreme cold weather causes rails to snap like glass, and whenever these things occur you hear of railroad accidents, and big ones. And railroad accidents mean death to many people and the cost to companies is enormous. People never stop to think of the great loss which ensues to companies on account of accidents. An ordinary accident that would detain business for an hour will cost $10,000. A mild Winter is only a blessing to the travelling public and railroad companies for the reasons I have mentioned, but for another. Severe Winters freeze up the creeks, and when the break-up comes in the Spring, there is the flood and the washout along the roads, and these cause accidents innumerable and create a great deal of trouble and sometimes makes serious accidents. Railroad people are satisfied with this weather.—Chicago Tribune.

A Dress Made of Rattlesnakes.

We publish a description of the "rattlesnake dress" in yesterday's paper for to-day, Mrs. Donaldson, who is making the dress, is really an artist in her line of business, such as you seldom find in a place of this size. The dress is Eiffel shade, a rich shade of brown, fine and beautiful in texture. It is a tailor-made gown, strictly on the severe English style; a perfectly plain skirt, with a panel about seven inches wide of the tanned skin of the rattlesnake. The panel is a beautiful specimen of its kind. A polonaise, also severely plain, closed at the side with straps of rattlesnake and buckles. A vest, V shape, of the skin, and collar and cuffs of the same. With it will be worn a helmet shaped hat, trimmed with material to match the dress, but the vizor will be covered with snake skin. The shoes, the uppers made of material the same as the dress and tipped with rattlesnake, complete this unique costume. It will be wonderfully pretty and effective and an object of envy to some of your fair dames who delight in original and charming costumes. The lady for whom the costume is made is from Ocala, and came to Tampa, especially to secure Mrs. Donaldson's work for her dressmaking.—Tampa (Fla.) News.

Little Bob Burdette.

Bob Burdette is a little man physically, with small eyes under overhanging brows. He talks in a short, sharp, quick, curt way, and when he has his hat on his head is as numerous in his speech as in his writing. He has come to regard funny writing as a grind and wants to get out of it. He is devoted to the memory of his wife, who died several years ago. He is very religiously inclined and frequently occupies the pulpit, but to his credit it can be said he has not tried to make a religious crown of himself. He is called "Deacon" Burdette at home, but it is pretty hard for the general public to think of him as "Deacon." They prefer to look upon him as "Bob." He writes a great deal of serious editorial writing for which he never gets any credit. He is not a dude, but he does wax his mustache. He prefers the quiet of the country to the noise of the city. He hates lecturing worse than teeth-pulling, but the public is bound to hear him, and he goes out the platform to satisfy the popular clamor and to get $100 a night.

A Woman as Steamboat Mate.

Helena has within its boundaries a lady who has the distinction of being the only female steamboat mate in the United States. She is a young married lady named Mrs. Mary Simmons. She is only 24 years of age, and has lived continuously on the river for eight years, and is perfectly acquainted with all the details of the management of steamboats. Her husband is Mr. W. W. Simmons, Captain of the transfer J. F. Joy, owned and run by the Lineham Ferry Company of this place. Mrs. Simmons applied for a master's license, but, owing to a recent act of Congress requiring a year's experience as mate before one was qualified as master, she was unable to procure the license. She will serve her apprenticeship for the year on the transfer boat Joy, of which her husband is Captain. She procured her license in December, 1889, in the Galena, Ill., district, to act as mate on steamboats, and railroad transfer boats, on the Mississippi River and its tributaries, on steamers of 200 tons burden or less.—Memphis Appeal.

England's Export of Horses

It appears that the value of the horses which have been exported from England during 1889 was £523,565, against £393,731 during 1888. The number of horses was 13,255, there having been exported 5,357 mares, 4,919 geldings and 2,979 stallions. During 1888 the total number was 12,945. Of the mares 1,188 were sent to Canada, most of these, however, being really destined for the United States; 384 went to Belgium, 700 to Holland, 434 to France, 418 to the United States direct and 1,733 to other countries. Of the stallions, 2,008 were sent to Canada and the United States, 78 to France, 81 to Holland 15 to Belgium and 8,466 to other countries.—London Truth.

Yesterday your reporter was ramming about Charlotte. When in Biddleville, a suburban village, mostly populated with negroes, an extraordinary scene was witnessed. In front of a small cabin a pulpit had been erected. In this stood a negro "preaching" at the top of his voice. There was no one except the reporter and the preacher near, and the former stood and listened, but could not understand a word of the sermon, it was found that the preacher was Robert Bell. Two years ago he was fired from the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Biddleville because he would go into the church barefooted. He was warned against this offense, and heeding it not, one Sunday as he attempted to enter the pulpit minus shoes, half a dozen good, pious deacons seized him and fired him from the church. On that day Bell declared that he would preach three times every day in his own yard, and he does it, although no one goes to hear him.

A Negro Turning White.

Alderman Will Hunsaker, of Anna, Ill., who has just returned from Pulaski, in Pulaski County, reports that a negro farmer who has lived in that vicinity for years is turning white. The first indication of the change was the appearance of small white spots on his face. These have grown until some of them are as large as a silver dollar, and they are still getting bigger. As the rest of the skin turns white it is a coal black, and those white spots give him an odd, piebald appearance. His health is not affected by the color of his skin, and he has not yet seemed uneasy about it.—St. Louis Republic.

Within an hour after Mrs. Madison Wear of Dallas, Texas, was made a bride, her husband abused her and drove her from his house, dragged to her of the number of men he had killed, and demanded all of her property, and now she seeks a divorce. The fair are still in the honeymoon.

LONGFELLOW'S MAIDEN, who is—

"Standing, with reluctant feet,
Where the brook and river meet,
Womanhood and childhood fleet!"

is a type of thousands of young girls who are emerging from the chrysalis stage of their existence, as they enter upon their "teens." Nervous, excitable, irritable, stirred by strange, unknowable forces within them, such a mystery unto herself, our girls need the tenderest care, the most loving, patient oversight, and the aid of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, to safely carry them through this critical period, during which, in too many live, alas, are sown the seeds of distressing forms of disease peculiar to the female sex. But this boon to womankind will prevent all such diseases, or cure them if they have already seized a victim. Woman owes it to herself, to her family, and to her social station, to be well and strong. Let her then not neglect the sure means of cure. "Favorite Prescription" is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. Sold by druggists: $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

Dr. PIERCE'S PELLETS

regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. They are minute, mild and perfectly harmless. One a Dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

A NEW STATE BRIBED.

North Dakota to be the Future Home of an Old Lottery.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The passage by one branch of the North Dakota Legislature of a bill chartering and legalizing a lottery in that state has attracted much attention in Washington official circles in view of advices that this action is in behalf of a branch of the Louisiana Lottery, against which the Post-office Department and the Department of Justice have been waging war for years. At the White House it is intimated that reports have reached the President that persons who had been appointed to office or were candidates for appointment were promoting this legislation. It was added that should this prove to be true it would likely prove fatal to their official prospects. A further remark was: "It was not believed to be possible that the new State would adopt a measure that would put so indelible a stain upon its reputation."

Postmaster-General Wanamaker said: "It is a cause for great alarm when a new state proposes to spread this evil over a new country and extend a species of gambling that ruins the young and deludes the ignorant for the enrichment of a few unscrupulous stockholders. If this taint of legislation is to succeed, Congress will be invoked to enact laws to suppress this iniquitous business everywhere."

The charter of the Louisiana State Lottery shortly expires and without an amendment to the constitution of the state it cannot be renewed. The profits of this gambling enterprise are over $5,000,000 per annum and it goes without saying that no money or effort will be spared to prolong its existence. Measures have been taken looking to the necessary constitutional amendment in Louisiana, but finding that the scheme could be worked at less expense in North Dakota the emissaries of Mr. Dauphin have turned their energies in that direction. The new state is bankrupt, starting out with a treasury deficit and with an annual revenue far below the actual expenses of government. To this pauper community the Louisiana company has offered $100,000 upon the passage of the act referred to in the despatch and $100,000 per annum thereafter. The Governor of the state, it is known, will veto the act, but it is believed that the glittering bribe held out has secured a two-thirds majority of the legislators necessary to pass the bill over the veto, and the probability is that in the near future Gens. Beauregard and Early will pay their monthly visits, for which they receive $30,000 per annum each, to the capital of the new state instead of to the great cotton mart of the South.

THE YAKUTSK MASSACRE.

Participants in the Dreadful Tragedy Confirm the Reports.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—George Kennan has given to the Associated Press a resume of the correspondence received by him relating to the massacre of Russian exiles at Yakutsk on April 9 last, the occurrence of which has been strenuously denied by the Russian Government. Mr. Kennan's correspondents, who were among the exiles at the time and eye-witnesses of the atrocious murder, fully confirm the published reports.

The Government casualties were one soldier killed and the governor and a soldier slightly wounded. The exiles killed were Sergius Pik, Zophin Gurevitch, Paul Potbelnof, Peter Mukhanof, Gregory Shura and Jacob Notkin. Twelve others were severely wounded. Three months later the survivors were tried by court martial on the charge of armed resistance. The trial was a mere mockery of justice. Three of the prisoners were hanged, Kohan Bernstein, who had been severely wounded and was unable to stand, was taken to the scaffold on a cot-bed from the hospital, the noose put around his neck and the cot taken from under him. He was choked to death. Fourteen others, including four women, were sentenced for different terms ranging from 10 to 15 years.

PROVINCIAL Y.M.C.A.

Second Day of the Convention—Interesting Papers and Addresses.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7.—At the Y.M.C.A. Convention to-day G. A. Wilson of Toronto read a paper on "The Relation of the College Missionary Society to the College Y.M.C.A.," urging their union. G. B. Meadow read an address on "The Relation of the Board of Directors to the General Secretary," on which there was an interesting discussion. Rev. A. Sandier of Brantford gave an address on "How Can We More Legally Benefit Young Men Through Our Bible Classes," Mr. Gander said it was better to lead a few to high attainments than to be popular, draw the crowd and send them away but little better than they come. We can increase the usefulness of our bible classes only through increasing the efficiency of our teachers and giving more time to preparation and collateral reading. The speaker urged the necessity of asking questions that would require some thought to answer. F. M. Pratt of Hamilton took the subject, "By What Means Can We Secure the Best Men on Our Directorate?" Mr. Pratt contending that they should be chosen from the most earnest business men, consulting the pastor with reference thereto.

GOSSIP FROM QUEBEC.

Father Turgeon Interviewing the Premier—The Harbor Works.

QUEBEC, Feb. 7.—L'Electeur to-night calls attention to "another instance of French Canadian liberality and freedom from creed and race prejudice" in the unanimous election of Mr. John Fosse, brother of the late Senator Fosse, as mayor of St. George, county of Beauce, a parish containing over 6,000 Roman Catholics and not more than 25 or 30 Protestant electors.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King For sale only at R. TEMPLETON

CUT OF SORES.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and constipation. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Backed by innumerable testimonials, by day, copious at night, and a little refreshed in the morning, without appetites and pressed by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence, to him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of costiveness and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Hop Bitters or Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poisons and alcohol, and effectually forces digestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but invigorates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, or causes a violent purge and vomit, like drastic cathartic, it aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes blood diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this wonderful medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpy and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a facsimile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the humblest, and has for its strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop there loss of disease use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

Earnest Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button. It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind.

Pocket mirrors of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. Dorenwende Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishing to the glands of the roots of the luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to miss it. Every Druggist sells it. It is money well spent. See Dorenwende advertisement in another column.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often become ulcerated and painful. DOCTOR WAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents.

Over 1 cook book on the Ball.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent gave an address on "How Can We More Legally Benefit Young Men Through Our Bible Classes," Mr. Gander said it was better to lead a few to high attainments than to be popular, draw the crowd and send them away but little better than they come. We can increase the usefulness of our bible classes only through increasing the efficiency of our teachers and giving more time to preparation and collateral reading. The speaker urged the necessity of asking questions that would require some thought to answer. F. M. Pratt of Hamilton took the subject, "By What Means Can We Secure the Best Men on Our Directorate?" Mr. Pratt contending that they should be chosen from the most earnest business men, consulting the pastor with reference thereto.

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE
FRONT St Belleville

BANKRUPT SALE
OF
BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.
"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."
Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened
SATURDAY, FEB 1ST

GREAT REMNANT SALE.
Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have
HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS
In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their origin l price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.
BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

SALE CONTINUED
The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week
Terms of sale—Cash.
Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890
GEO. RITCHIE & CO,

THE NEWEST
Of Fine Stationery is the
Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes
ALSO
The Grey and Brown Holland
With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at
C. B SCANTLEBURY'S
☞ adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS
Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is
HALMA,
A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."
J. C. OVERELLS

MENIER CHOCOLATE
Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 5 GOLD MEDALS.
LARGEST CHOCOLATE MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD
YEARLY SALE EXCEEDS 30,000,000 POUNDS.
PUREST, HEALTHIEST AND BEST.
Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER Menier Chocolates and take no others.
For Sale Everywhere.
BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.
DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL
Announce that they intend closing our all ODDS AND ENDS such Matchings of Dinner Sets, Bed Room Sets, Odd Lots of Tumblers, Wines, Goblets and all kinds of Glassware.
These Goods we will clear out at Greatly Reduced Prices
We find we also have a number of very fine Dinner Sets and Tea Sets in which some of the pieces are short. All of which we will close out at very low figures
W. J. REID & CO
Benj. Birch, Manager.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year of age was so bad with eczema that we had all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now silken and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most pure, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that very mother who has a diseased child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSIDE, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by the use of CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—cured for a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H CARRS, merchant.

JOHN W MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin Beautifier extremally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp, Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

ORIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R. CHOWN,

FOR THE

PICKLING SEASON

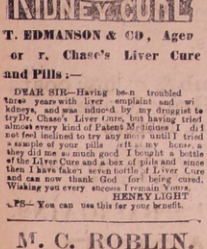
Pure Cider Vinegar,
English Malt Vinegar,
White wine Vinegar,
(Pure and Fresh)

Spices.

(Whole) (Ground)

Mixed Pickling Spices (whole) Celery Seed Mustard Seed, Tumeric Curry Powder, etc, etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 to 37 Bridge St.
Also Front Street, opp Rtch



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents

or r. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. Having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills off a new house, as they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours.

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

M. C. ROBLIN,

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance
Front St opp Ang o-American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF "ALLAN QUATERMAIN" "SHE" "JESS" &c

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

"Very nearly, indeed," I answered still panting and arranging the rags of my night dress around me as best I might. Then the memory of my horrid dream flashed into my mind. Doubtless it had been conjured up by the sound of Hendrika dropping to the floor—in my dream it had been a grave that she dropped into. All of it had been experienced in that second of time. Well, dreams are swift; perhaps time itself is nothing but a dream, and events that seem far apart really occur simultaneously.

We passed the rest of the night watching Hendrika. Presently she came to herself and struggled furiously to break the rein. But it was too strong even for her, and, moreover, Indaba-zimbi uncerenoniously sat upon her to keep her quiet. At last she gave it up.

In due course the day broke—my marriage day. Leaving Indaba-zimbi to watch my would-be murderess, I went and fetched some natives from the stables, and with their aid bore Hendrika to the prison hut—that same hut in which she had been confined when she had been brought a baboon child from the rocks. Here we shut her up, and, leaving Indaba-zimbi to watch outside, I returned to my sleeping place and dressed in the best garments that Mabyo and Kraals could furnish. But when I looked at the reflection of my face, I was horrified. It was covered with scratches inflicted by the nails of Hendrika. I doctored them up as best I could, and went out for a walk to calm my nerves, which, what between the events of the past night and of those pending that day, were not a little disturbed.

When I returned it was breakfast time. I went into the dining hut, and there Stella was waiting to greet me, dressed in simple white and with orange flowers on her breast. She came forward to me shyly enough; then, seeing the condition of my face, started back.

"Why, Allan! what have you been doing to yourself?" she asked.

As I was about to answer, her father came in leaning on his stick, and catching sight of me instantly asked the same question.

Then I told them everything, both of Hendrika's threats and of her fierce attempt to carry them into execution. But I did not tell my horrid dream.

Stella's face grew pale as she flew on her breast, but that of her father became very stern.

"You should have spoken of this before, Allan," he said. "I now see that I did wrong to attempt to reclaim this wicked and revengeful creature, who, if she is human, has all the evil passions of the brutes that reared her. Well, I will make an end of it this very day."

"Oh, father," sae Stella, "don't have her killed. It is all dreadful enough, but that would be more dreadful still. I have been very fond of her, and, bad as she is, she has loved me. Don't have her killed on my marriage day."

"No," her father answered, "she shall not be killed, for, though she deserves to die, I will not have her blood upon our hands. She is a brute and has followed the nature of brutes. She shall go back whence she came."

No more was said on the matter at the time, but when breakfast—which was rather a farce—was done, Mr. Carson sent for his head man and gave him certain orders.

We were to be married after the service which Mr. Carson held every Sunday morning in the large marble hut set apart for that purpose. The service began at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour all the natives on the place came up in troops, singing as they came, to be present at the wedding of the "Star." It was a pretty sight to see them, the men dressed in all their finery, and carrying shields and sticks in their hands, and the women and children bearing green branches of trees, ferns and flowers. At length, about half-past nine, Stella rose, pressed my hand, and left me to my reflections. At a few minutes to ten she reappeared again with her father, dressed in a white veil, a wreath of orange flowers on her dark curling hair, a bouquet of orange flowers in her hand. To me she seemed like a dream of loveliness. With her came little Tota in a high state of glee and excitement. She was Stella's only bridesmaid. Then we all passed out towards the church hut. The bare space in front of it was filled with hundreds of natives, who set up a song as we came. But we went on into the hut, which was crowded with such of the natives as usually worshiped there. Here Mr. Carson, as usual, read the service, though he was obliged to sit down in order to do so. When it was done—and to me it seemed interminable—Mr. Carson whispered to me that he meant to marry us outside the hut in sight of all the people, so we went out and took our stand under the shade of a large tree that grew near the hut facing the bare space where the natives were gathered.

Mr. Carson held up his hand to enjoin silence. Then, speaking in the native dialect, he told them that he was about to make us man and wife after the Christian fashion and in the sight of all men. This done, he proceeded to read the marriage service over us, and very solemnly and beautifully he did it. We said the words, I placed the ring—it was her father's signet ring, for we had no other—upon Stella's finger, and it was done.

Then Mr. Carson spoke. "Allan and Stella," he said, "I believe that the ceremony which has been performed makes you man and wife in the sight of God and man, for all that is necessary to make a marriage binding is, that it should be celebrated according to the custom of the country where the parties to it reside. It is according to the custom that has been in force here for fifteen years or more that you have been married in the face of all the people, and in token of it you will both sign the register that I have kept of such marriages, among those of my own people that have adopted the Christian faith. Still, in case there should be any legal flaw, I again demand the solemn promise of you both that on the first opportunity you will cause this marriage to be re-celebrated in some civilized hut. Do you promise?"

"We do," we answered.

Then the book was brought out and we signed our names. At first my wife signed here "Stella" only, but her father bade her write it Stella Carson for the first and last time in her life. Then several more signed, including men, including old Indaba-zimbi, put their marks in witness. Indaba-zimba drew his mark in the shape of a little star, in humorous allusion to Stella's new surname. That register is before me now as I write. That, with a lock of my darling's hair that lies between its leaves, is my dearest possession. There are all the names and marks as they were written many years ago beneath the shadow of the tree on Babyan Kraals in the wilderness, but alas! and alas! where are those who wrote them?

"My people," said Mr. Carson, when the singing was done and we had kissed each other before them all—"my people, Macumazahn yonder and the Star, my daughter, are now man and wife, to live in one kraal, to eat of one bowl, to share one fortune till they reach the grave. Hear now, my people, you know this woman, and, turning, he pointed to Hendrika, who, unseen by us, had been led out of the prison hut.

"Yes, yes, we know her," said a little ring of head men, who formed the primitive court of justice, and after the fashion of natives had squatted themselves in a circle on the ground in front of us. "We know her; she is the white babyan woman; she is Hendrika, the body servant of the Star."

"You know her," said Mr. Carson, "but you do not know her altogether. Stand forward, Indaba-zimbi, and tell the people what came about last night in the hut of Macumazhan."

Accordingly old Indaba-zimbi came forward, and, squatting down, told his moving tale with much descriptive force and many gestures, finishing up by producing the great knife from which his watchfulness had saved me.

Then I was called upon, and in a few brief words substantiated his story; indeed my face did that in the sight of all men.

Then Mr. Carson turned to Hendrika, who stood in sullen silence, her eyes fixed upon the ground, and asked her if she had anything to say.

She looked up boldly and answered:

"Macumazahn has robbed me of the love of my mistress. I would have robbed him of his life, which is a little thing compared to that which I have lost at his hands. I have failed, and I am sorry for it, for had I killed him and left no trace the Star would have forgotten him and shone on me again.

"Now, I say to you, please, once a woman is attracted to an advertisement she will read it all through, no matter how long it is or how fine the type is. Then there is no use putting an advertisement for a man in a Sunday paper. If you make it big enough to be seen in one of those enormous sheets it will be too long to be read by a man. An ordinary advertisement such as would attract him in a week-day paper, is buried in the great Sunday edition, but you can take a page on Sunday and be certain that the women will look for it all through carefully. Thousands of them buy the papers, and especially the Sunday papers, for no other thing than to read the advertisements. The big dry goods houses know that, and that is why they all use the Sunday papers so freely."

Food for Thought.

Keep your conduct abreast of your conscience, and very soon your conscience will be illumined by the radiance of God.

Home is an unmixed paradise of sweets. The elements of peace and true happiness are there, and so too are the elements of discord and misery; and it needs only the bitter spirit of the world without, to make it a pandemonium, or the loving genius of harmony, to make it the prompter of every affectionate impulse.

An enemy is always more interested in our faults and shortcomings than in our excellences, and frankly takes pains to discover them and spread them abroad. If, instead of letting this excite us to anger, we use it as a means for restraining those faults—if we are more concerned in the endeavor to avoid the mistakes for which we are criticised than the criticism itself—then our enemies, in trying to harm us, will have done us a great good. If, in those very points in which they discriminate us, we prove ourself spotless, their testimony against us will lose weight, and their influence in our disfavor will die away. But, if we are careless and indifferent at the detraction, and wrathful with the detractor, we shall confirm his evil report in the minds of those who have heard it. We are not yet so far advanced in character, that we can wholly do without the motive of fear, and the fear of what is in the power of an enemy to do to injure us may sometimes exert a wholesome restraint. At any rate, the best way to overcome it, is by watchful and circumspect conduct to put it out of his power to injure us.

Queer Facts and Happenings.

A postal card sent from Reading, Pa., to Stroudsburg, fifteen miles away, one year ago, has just reached its destination.

There lately passed across the Red Sea from the African to the Arabian shore a flight of locusts calculated to have covered over 2,000 square miles.

It required barrels to hold the mail of a Colorado ranchman named Paul White who had advertised for a wife, giving an accurate description of himself and his surroundings.

A boiler head in the dye house of Henry Wing, Chicago, blew out and scattered a box of pins standing near by with such force that Mr. Wing was literally stuck full of them. But he will recover.

Allen McLain of Danville, Ind., had a stripe and received a sunstroke simultaneously. In a violent fit of sneezing, he lost his voice, and has been unable to utter a word since, although apparently perfectly well.

Within a week after the wearing of a pair of new gloves by a young woman of Minneapolis, she died of blood poisoning. The doctors say that the material to which the gloves had had some contagious malady.

The United States House committee on the World's Fair have voted $1,500,000 for a building to make Government exhibits.

George R. Ham, a Nepanee grocer, has skipped with over $2,000 as the consequence of a number of charges of forgery.

The beekeepers are asking the Legislature for legislation to prevent the ravages among their bees by the use of the recently lately said is similar to glanders in horses.

Hamilton Separate School Board are drilling means of getting the Roman Catholics of the city to pay taxes to the city clerk to assess them as separate school supporters.

A deputation of the Dominion Millers' Association asked the Ontario Central Farmers' Institute to endorse their application to the Dominion Government for an increase of the duty on flour, and the latter decided to ask that wheat and its products be put on the free list.

TO BE CONTINUED

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ADVERTISING SCIENCE.

"Newspapers are the Only Satisfactory Medium, an Expert Says.

"Nobody has tried more different kinds of advertising than we have," said Mr. Chambers, of the firm of Rogers, Peet & Co., a few days ago, "we tried the different kinds more thoroughly, but we have settled down now to regular newspaper advertising, and believe that, for a permanent business, that alone pays. We were the first to use the sails of vessels in the harbor as an advertising medium. Then we took up the 'Alphabet puzzle' and gave away half a million puzzles while the craze was on. Afterwards we invented the Waterbury watch idea. We had to do something because three of our principal competitors had raised, as their stocks were being sold for next to nothing by assignees, so we decided to give a Waterbury watch with every twenty dollars' worth of goods purchased. We advertised the watches widely and sold. To wind them fast enough we had to have a regular machine worked like a sewing machine that would do the winding, and we kept several boys at work winding and setting them. Before we quit we had given away forty thousand of the watches.

"But nothing ever pays us like the ordinary newspaper advertising. The fact is, there has seemed to be a fad for a class of advertisement readers, just as there is of newsreaders. They read the advertisements over day, and, of course, the man who wants to attract them has to get up an advertisement that will do it. The day of standing advertisements in the papers, 'Go to Smith-So's for clothing,' or 'Go to Thisaud-That's for shoes' has passed, just as the day for painting signs on rocks and guaranteeing to bring a thousand people to our stores any day by the insertion of an advertisement of some specialty in the morning papers.

"We were the first firm to introduce the use of outline cuts in newspapers. An Englishman who had done caricaturing on the other side, offered to sketch a part of the entertainment of a show of some sort, and had come to this country, first brought the battery of our establishment to bear. We tried a few of the cuts as an experiment. They succeeded so well that we made them a regular feature. After a while the papers themselves began to appreciate the idea, and now that is almost the only style of newspaper illustration used. While ago we concluded to try the experiment of dropping the cuts. They are expensive, because, besides the cost of them, the papers charge double rates for the space they occupy. It has been poor economy, however. The cuts were worth much more than they cost as an advertisement, and we shall go back to them.

"Another thing about advertising of late years is the gradual increase in the truthfulness of it. People are learning that it doesn't pay to lie in an advertisement any better than it does anywhere else. The theory that a sucker's born every minute and he's just as likely to come in here as anywhere else, won't do for a permanently thriving. I think that there has been a noticeable improvement in this respect lately, and that business men are rapidly learning that honesty is the best of policy in an advertisement as well as outside of it.

"A curious thing is the difference there is between advertising for women and for men. For a man an advertisement must be short and to the point. It ought to treat of but one subject and to be written as tersely as possible. Man read advertisements in the pump; they never deliberately sit down to go through the advertisements in a paper. For the women, on the contrary, you can put in as much detail as you please; once a woman is attracted to an advertisement she will read it all through, no matter how long it is or how fine the type is. Then there is no use putting an advertisement for a man in a Sunday paper. If you make it big enough to be seen in one of those enormous sheets it will be too long to be read by a man. An ordinary advertisement such as would attract him in a week-day paper, is buried in the great Sunday edition, but you can take a page on Sunday and be certain that the women will look for it all through carefully. Thousands of them buy the papers, and especially the Sunday papers, for no other thing than to read the advertisements. The big dry goods houses know that, and that is why they all use the Sunday papers so freely."

Food for Thought.

Keep your conduct abreast of your conscience, and very soon your conscience will be illumined by the radiance of God.

Home is an unmixed paradise of sweets. The elements of peace and true happiness are there, and so too are the elements of discord and misery; and it needs only the bitter spirit of the world without, to make it a pandemonium, or the loving genius of harmony, to make it the prompter of every affectionate impulse.

An enemy is always more interested in our faults and shortcomings than in our excellences, and frankly takes pains to discover them and spread them abroad. If, instead of letting this excite us to anger, we use it as a means for restraining those faults—if we are more concerned in the endeavor to avoid the mistakes for which we are criticised than the criticism itself—then our enemies, in trying to harm us, will have done us a great good. If, in those very points in which they discriminate us, we prove ourself spotless, their testimony against us will lose weight, and their influence in our disfavor will die away. But, if we are careless and indifferent at the detraction, and wrathful with the detractor, we shall confirm his evil report in the minds of those who have heard it. We are not yet so far advanced in character, that we can wholly do without the motive of fear, and the fear of what is in the power of an enemy to do to injure us may sometimes exert a wholesome restraint. At any rate, the best way to overcome it, is by watchful and circumspect conduct to put it out of his power to injure us.

Queer Facts and Happenings.

A postal card sent from Reading, Pa., to Stroudsburg, fifteen miles away, one year ago, has just reached its destination.

There lately passed across the Red Sea from the African to the Arabian shore a flight of locusts calculated to have covered over 2,000 square miles.

It required barrels to hold the mail of a Colorado ranchman named Paul White who had advertised for a wife, giving an accurate description of himself and his surroundings.

A boiler head in the dye house of Henry Wing, Chicago, blew out and scattered a box of pins standing near by with such force that Mr. Wing was literally stuck full of them. But he will recover.

Allen McLain of Danville, Ind., had a stripe and received a sunstroke simultaneously. In a violent fit of sneezing, he lost his voice, and has been unable to utter a word since, although apparently perfectly well.

Within a week after the wearing of a pair of new gloves by a young woman of Minneapolis, she died of blood poisoning. The doctors say that the material to which the gloves had had some contagious malady.

The United States House committee on the World's Fair have voted $1,500,000 for a building to make Government exhibits.

George R. Ham, a Napanee grocer, has skipped with over $2,000 as the consequence of a number of charges of forgery.

The beekeepers are asking the Legislature for legislation to prevent the ravages among their bees by the use of the recently lately said is similar to glanders in horses.

Hamilton Separate School Board are drilling means of getting the Roman Catholics of the city to pay taxes to the city clerk to assess them as separate school supporters.

A deputation of the Dominion Millers' Association asked the Ontario Central Farmers' Institute to endorse their application to the Dominion Government for an increase of the duty on flour, and the latter decided to ask that wheat and its products be put on the free list.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Nausea, Pain in the Side, &c. While their great success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

HEAD

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents for five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerveline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerveline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute and headache in one application; headache in a few moments; all aches and pains as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pills with Nerveline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Fool

Away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Sodabence is the best that can be made ||.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerveline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerveline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerveline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerveline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago, and sciatica. Nerveline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerveline is the best remedy in the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerveline.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please the people who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

SYMPTOMS—Dry nature; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. Very popular dressing for ladies and gentlemen. Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. At Dorenwend's Hair Goods Manufactory and when you want Hair Goods Manufacturing to the Trade, for any big is the correct place to go to. Send for new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper, when writing

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 20,000,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. M. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office—Jackson Block, Peterboro.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decay, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxing of the Human System, and shutting the Velvet Portals of Life against the Unfortunate or Unwary. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautifully embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for the treatment of NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all letters for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST,

Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKES.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CONTAINING NO

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervous and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Price $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescriptions for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal was awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WH PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the 9 division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,
Thos Donnelly.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plus without premiums, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1886 ..... $77,690.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1886 ..... $196,203.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool Established, Capital $12,000,000.00.

Office—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs.

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—

GRAN UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Deckesh Anti-Clinker Draw Cos or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the r outbuilds, and farm property; this is commercial as manufacturing risks, and are therefore safe to insure in comparison with those who take up with sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having been established over two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly a two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District agent, Belleville
W HARVEY, agent, Ivanhoe
J. Martin agent Stirling.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Illustrated Catalogue for valuable information of a person which should be read by all. Sent free. Every order made specially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Crutches, Spinal Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Bandages, Crutches, etc. always in stock. Promptness, honesty in dealing and the best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist, Etc.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc.

CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

THE WESTERN Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion President and Live Stock

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Boiler Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White" Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS, or BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A specific medical work, should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can get permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to experienced. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write a once for terms.

J. W. McKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

REMNANTS!

We are now stock taking at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

and are throwing out all Remnants and odds and ends of stock and are

JOBBING THEM OFF

at what they will bring. We have more remnants than usual this season as a result of our

Great Removal Sale

and we will sacrifice them so as to get our stock into good snap for the spring Redictions in all classes of Winter Goods.

Remnants of Carpets

Very Cheap.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 8 1890.

Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church
METROPOLITAN BLOCK, CAMPBELL ST
GROUND FLOOR.
Rev. Wm. Henry Barnes, Rector.

SEXAGESIMA SUNDAY.

11 a.m—Anniversary of the Baptism of Bishop Hooper.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Pastor's Bible Class.
7 p.m—Why was Christ born in a Manger? Morning subject—"Does anything come from God to us when we wait upon him."
Evening subject—"Hope."
Sacrament of Lord's Supper at close of evening service.
Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.
Strangers welcomed to both church and Sunday school.

Bridge Street Methodist Church
SUNDAY, FEBY 9TH.

Love feast in Sunday school room at 9:30 a. m.
Services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Hodgson, B. A.
Morning subject—"Does anything come from God to us when we wait upon him."
Evening subject—"Hope."
Sacrament of Lord's Supper at close of evening service.
Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.
Strangers welcomed to both church and Sunday school.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 468, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
dly Tuner.

A Live Town.

R. P. Hamilton returned from an extended trip in Western Ontario and Michigan last night. He speaks of Woodstock as one of the most progressive towns in Canada and thinks it has a great future before it.

Missionary Meetings.

The annual Missionary meetings of the Tabernacle will be held to-morrow at 11 a. m. Rev. Samuel Thomas Bartlett of Newtonville, Toronto Conference, will preach; at 7 p. m. addresses will be delivered by Rev. Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Jono Kono of Victoria University—a native of Japan.

Miss Clench.

It is gratifying to note that the plan for the concert on Monday is filling, so that a large audience of the elite of the city is assured for Miss Cench's first appearance here. The company is purely Canadian and is accordingly the press to be equal to any talent now on the stage. As such it is worthy of the most liberal patronage.

Died at the Hospital.

Michael Ryan aged eighty one of the oldest residents in Belleville died at the hospital at one o'clock this morning. He came here from Ireland over sixty years ago and worked for several years with the late Francis McAnnany. For the past fifteen years he has lived with Geo. E. Henderson Q. C. He has no relatives living in this country and Mr. Henderson will bury the remains to-morrow.

The Grand Trunk Solicitor.

The relations between Prince Bismarck and his pupil the German emperor, are similar to those that exist between John Bell, Q. C., the honey-tongued solicitor of the Grand Trunk railway company, and the city authorities. In public the chancellor is only less cordial and kind in his demeanor towards the emperor than the emperor's demeanor towards the chancellor is kind and cordial. But the kindness and cordiality have a flavor of dramatic quality—Hamilton Spectator.

Some Fine Turnouts.

The McCoy Bros., liverymen of this city, who have their premises directly opposite the city hall, have lately added some very fine pleasure vehicles to their already large stock, making in all the finest in the city. This morning they received a new "carry all" from the establishment of Jas. St. Charles, which is a beauty. It reflects credit on the manufacturer and is without doubt the finest in the city. Their horses need no recommendation as their ability to 'get there' is well known already. All in need of a fancy turnout should not fail to give them a call.

The Railway Subsidy.

Mayor Tickell and the deputation which went to Ottawa in the interests of the Bay of Quinte and Nipissing railway returned home last night. The mayor reported the deputation as having been very favorably received and at the request of the premier a second interview was had. The claims of the city were strongly pressed at both interviews and the premier entered into full discussion of, and evinced considerable interest in the project. He was very careful on making any promises but his reply was such as not to discourage the deputation. On the contrary to make them hopeful and satisfied them that their visit was a very timely one.

The heavy fall of snow last night prevented a large market today. The railway and stage lines were all open.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

Regulations for XV Bat—Company Drill to Commence.

The following orders by Lieut Col. Lazier commanding the 15th. Batt were posted at headquarters to-day by Captain and Adjutant R. E. Lazier.

1—Squad drill will commence with the week beginning Feb y 10th next. As it is desirable that 2 companies should drill the same evening, officers commanding companies will meet on Monday 10th February at 4 p. m. to arrange nights of drill.

2—Officers commanding companies will be particular as to the recruits they take on the strength of their companies—The names of recruits will be sent in to the orderly room once a week. The Surgeon or assistant Surgeon will be present at the drill shed on Friday evening of each week at 8 o'clock commencing Friday the 15th inst. for the purpose of examining recruits, and every recruit must be examined by the Surgeon or assistant Surgeon and approved by the commanding officer before being placed permanently on the service roll. Every recruit as well as the present members of companies will sign the memorandum as to annual drill pay before being allowed the privileges of the gymnasium and drill hall. As a guarantee of good faith of anyone desiring to join as a recruit, a deposit of $2.00 will be required to be made by them with the captain of the company.

3—It is the intention of the commanding officer to procure the services of a competent instructor from one of the Royal Schools of Infantry for a couple of months commencing about the middle of the present month of February and if it is desirable that every company should be recruited to its full strength before that time.

4 A non-commissioned officer's class will be formed at once for drill instruction of the sergt-major and supervision of the adjutant. All at present acting as non-commissioned officers and others desirous of becoming such will require a certificate of fitness before being placed in orders.

The commanding officer for the purpose of improving the company drill and creating a generous rivalry between the companies, intends donating a cup or trophy of the value of at least $100, to be competed for annually. The winning company to hold it for the year. The particulars of the competition will be made known later.

6—As it is highly important to the interests of the battalion, that every company should thoroughly understand company drill before battalion drill is ordered in the spring, so that the regiment may make a creditable showing on its first trip from home, the commanding officer hopes that not only the company officers and the staff but the non commissioned officers and men will one and all take a personal active interest in having every company perfect in company drill before the season for battalion drill commences.

7.—Until further notice there will be a meeting of the officers on Friday evening of each week at 8 o'clock sharp in the officers quarters.

A TRIAL TRIP.

What the Ontario has Done in the Interest of the Public.

Nellie Ely has accomplished one of the greatest feats known to the world in going around the world in 72 days, six minutes and 11 seconds. Jennie Williams is being sent out by the ONTARIO at a great expense and large wages to see if she can go the length of our large and beautiful city of the bay by the famous street car line in nine hours, fifty nine minutes and eleven seconds. She will leave our office at eight a. m. sharp. If the cars are all on time she will accomplish the task, we think, in the time specified; but should a car be two or three hours late she will prefer to walk rather than lose her wages. The whole population will be anxiously waiting her return as it is of great importance to the travelling public to know the exact time that the whole line can possibly be traversed in. The total number of miles she will have travelled will be four or less. Should she not accomplish the trip the public will be greatly disappointed and should it be done by Jennie, she will have accomplished a more hazardous and daring feat than Nellie Ely.

The Alleged Napanee Swindle.

The Kingston Whig in referring to the troubles of Geo. H. Ham of Napanee, says a reporter called at the residence of Mrs. Brollin, in reference to the despatch from Napanee, but she was found to be absent from the city, having gone to Napanee a week ago to attend her daughter, Mrs. Ham who was ill. The members of the family, at home, had heard nothing of the affair, but were aware, however, that their mother had loaned Ham money. They were terribly surprised when told about the alleged frauds, although they were satisfied that he was not guilty of such acts.

Ham is a young man, being only about twenty-six years of age, and those who were acquainted with him in Napanee say that it cannot be possible that he has committed forgery. He was jolly and good natured.

He is Coming.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Profs goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

A Lunatic Dead.

Mrs. Mackley, of Madoc, aged 70 years who was in the county gaol here for seven or eight months and was taken to the asylum in the latter part of January, is reported dead.

Lecture By Rev Dr George.

Rev. Dr. George will deliver a lecture on "The British Isles," in John St. church S. S. room on Tuesday evening Feb 13th. Admission 15 cents. The Albert College Quartette will furnish music.

Army Litigation

The Salvation Army authorities of the United States yesterday issued a writ against Wm Corry to recover possession of the north half of lot 145 to the village of Tweed and to set aside two mortgages registered thereon. The property in question has been held by trustees, who it appears, had no authority to mortgage it.

The Old Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling ill;
A headache off; a cauld chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
Now life is no more the weary load,
The struggle's over; the man is dead.

Such is the fatal progress of consumption How often is repeated the old, old story. Yet not half so often as it may be before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. 50 cents

MISSION WORK.

A PLAIN PRACTICAL TALK FROM DR GRANT.

The Principal of Queens on Specialization in Mission Work—Different Fields Require Different Preparations.

The wind blew a hurricane last night driving the snow in blinding clouds through the streets. Pedestrianism was disagreeable in the extreme, but there were enough ardent missionary souls in the city to make a fair audience for Dr. Grant's address at church. The attendance was only a fraction of what would have greeted the speaker had circumstances been favorable. Students and teachers from the college were out in full force.

Rev. Principal Dyer of Albert college, occupied the chair. Prof. Hanna and his pupils furnished excellent music, and Rev. Dr George opened with prayer.

The speaker said he was very regretted that he had not come more in contact with the life and work of Albert college. He had never been at the building but he did not think it was altogether his fault as he never before had an invitation to mingle his interest with theirs.

In opening his lecture he said that the Christian was the highest type of man and the mission idea was closely identified with Christianity. If religion is the essence of christianity, the essence of religion is love and the mission is the outgrowth of Christian love. So powerful is the influence of love that when it gets possession of us it lifts us on a higher divine path. If Satan could believe that God is love he would be converted, but there is in his composition that puts such a belief beyond his reach. Love is the essence of God. This love is not in the church else there would be more extensive work in the mission field. From church history even after the reformation it might be inferred that schism was a virtue. Thank God men are now seeking a spirit of unity, a spirit for missionary work, showing that God is revealing his will to those who seek it and extending his dominion through the missionaries. He, the speaker, could remember when it was not possible for a christian to preach the word in China, India or Africa or to the Mahomedans. It meant death. Now those countries that were hermetically sealed are open and missionaries are flocking in. China is open to us and the British authorities of India recognize that Christianity is the power that is preparing the way for their authority. In Africa, Portugal, the last barrier that blocked the way, has been politely told to step aside and clear the way that the gospel might advance unimpeded. Young men and women had gone to foreign fields, and there were now others in his university preparing for the work. Not a few were taking a medical course intending to double or quadruple their powers. The first requisite was to determine first what country they would labor in and then fit themselves for the particular requirements of the field. Canada by means of the C. P. R. is now looking right into the eyes of forty millions of people in China, who are now just swinging from our extreme to the other. Chinamen are sending their sons to mission schools in preference to their own high schools as they are there taught English, that they may be placed in the same plain of civilization as the Englishmen. They are not particular if they don't embrace christian religion. When the possibility of such a result is spoken of they say, if my son sees fit to embrace Christianity he may, all that is wanted is that he shall cultivate the arts of the English and attain to their civilization. The Japanese are the most civilized of the Mahomedan nations. When heathens learn the arts and mechanical pursuits they want some coherent religion. The reason that Mahomedanism is spreading so rapidly and widely in Central Africa was because it was superior to the chaotic religion of the heathen and it is a question for discussion whether Mahomedanism is der mental to the progress of Christianity with those people or not. Mahomedanism spreads most among heather nations. The students of Queens decided to send a missionary to China and his advice was, as he was an arts man, to take a medical course, a special course in eyes and dentistry and the result was he found doors open to him that other missionaries could not enter. Missionaries must show the people that they can do every day duties well and it will convince them that they must know something about things heathen do not know of. The missionary must teach the heathen the necessity of useful employment. What they want is not so much ritualism as habit of industry. A man may be better qualified for one field than another, and wherever field he should enter he should show a hearty appreciation for all that is found that is good. Paul preached a genial sermon to the men of Athens and it is worth their study and finally many embraced his religion. The result would have been different if he had called them heathens and idolitors. Implicit faith in the intelligence of the people you are sent and as they become interested in the superior advantages of civilization they will ask what is the power of this Christian religion. Then the door is open and you can preach Him who is light to the life of every man.

Dr. Grant took his seat he was warmly applauded.

Prof. Holgate stated that three students from Albert College were already engaged in mission work. Donohuge and Furgeson were in China, and Walker a student last year, is now with the Indians about Fort Simpson. Another of the students has offered for the mission field of Africa. The sum of $309.91 has been collected in cash and $406.29 had been subscribed to be paid in yearly instalments.

A native of Japan, Jozo Kono and F. J. Livingstone, the young man that Albert College will send to Africa, will address a meeting at Bridge street church this evening.

On Sunday at 2 p. m. the students of Albert College will present an interesting programme at the College chapel.

Prof. Dorewend Coming.

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in recent years this will all disappear and duplications will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stand Prof. Dorewend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorewend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorewend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Front pieces, Fanes, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs Feb 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Kayoo nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is a invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL. QUE. Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

THE QUEBEC LIBERAL LEADER.

Honore Mercier Author of Quebec's Jesuit Bill.

Hon. Honore Mercier, the author of the Jesuit bill, is the son of a French Canadian farmer and was born in the Province of Quebec about 1850. He was educated at the Jesuit College in Montreal, was twice married, and is the father of a large family. He was called to the bar in 1867, and edited Le Courrier de St. Hyacinthe for two years. In 1871 he was elected to the House of Commons. In 1878 he became Solicitor-General of Quebec, and shortly after the overthrow of the Joly government was chosen leader of the Opposition. In that capacity he waged a fierce, though apparently hopeless, fight against an enormous Conservative majority in the Legislature, but at the general election of 1886 overturned the Taillon administration and became Premier. In politics Mr. Mercier is a Liberal.

COLLEGE NOTES

The Week's Events of the Corridor and Chapel

Saturday, 15th February is charter day. The event is to be celebrated by a grand concert to be held on Friday evening the 14th in the college chapel.

The favorite pastime with the students is club swinging. Prof. Hanna is in charge of a promising class. The members intend to give an exhibition at the charter concert.

The students marched in a body to Bridge St. last night to hear Principal Grant deliver his lecture on "The need of more aggressive Mission work" given in connection with our Missionary convention. The students were highly pleased at the masterly effort of Dr. Grant.

The meeting to-night in Bridge St. church promises to be full of interest. The students are desirous that their first Missionary Convention should be in every way a success and will feel highly gratified to see Bridge St. church filled this evening.

Among the number of prominent men attending the convention we notice the faces of Messrs. F. J. Livingstone, Cobourg, W. S. P. Boyce, Campbellford, W. E. Smith, Frankford who are old boys of Albert.

The election of officers for the Philomathian society took place on Tuesday evening last and resulted as follows: Hon. President, Rev. A. Wilson, B. A.; president, S. D. Gaudin; vice-president, C. C. Otton; secretary, S. L. Chisholm; assistant secretary A. A. Somers; treasurer, H. J. Richardson; chaplain, J. Snell; librarian, R. E. McKibbon; attorney, G. Coulthart; chorister, M. B. Williams; court, S. Bens, Geo. Brown, A. Grimes.

We have a live and healthy Y. M. C. A. association which does grand work spiritually for the college. The officers elected on Thursday night for the rest of the year were:—Pres. H. R. Kenny, vice-pres., E. Farnworth; rec sec., A. Y. Mawey; cor sec., M. J. Wilson; treasurer, G. Anderson.

The students assembled in the chapel at 10.30 this morning to hear Principal Grant deliver an inspiring address on college life. The doctor has had a wide experience in college life and riveted the boys attention by his remarks.

A NEEDED WINDFALL.

Pension Money to an Aged and Needy Woman.

Several days ago lawyers proceeded to the humble dwelling of Mrs. Matilda Delear, on the lake shore, and there, on a plain pine table, counted out and paid over in gold, coin and bank notes the sum of $12,637 27. The pile of money represented the pension fund which the United States Government at Washington had finally acknowledged was due to the widow of the late Francis Delear, an old soldier in the American army who died at Cobourg about three years ago last September without receiving his pension. He was a member of company "H" in the 18th regiment of Illinois infantry, who went all through the great civil war between the North and South. At the close of the war he came to Canada, and afterwards wanderings settled in Cobourg. For six years the Pension Bureau were investigating and considering his claim to an allowance for military service. Just at the time when they had decided to admit the validity of his claim the old soldier died. It has taken ever since to prove that Mrs. Delear was his widow. She is a Frenchwoman and was married to Delear in Montreal. She divided the money with her stepson who has cared for her.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

DIED.

BRADSHAW—In Belleville, on Feb. 8th, Mrs. Catharine Bradshaw, aged 56 years 3 months.

Funeral will take place at 10 a. m., Sunday, 10th inst., at the family residence Station road, to Reed's cemetery, Thurlow.

To Nervous Men

If you will send your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. d&wly

A SANDY HOOK PILOT.

Notes on the Late Captain Phillips of Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn Eagle has the following to say of Captain Phillips brother of John Phillips, this city, whose death was mentioned in yesterday's issue,

Captain Isaac O. Phillips, one of the earliest shipping merchants of this port, died of cancer of the tongue at the residence of his son-in-law, W. B. Hogsedson, 652 Lafayette avenue, a few minutes before midnight Friday.

He had been for two years a patient sufferer from the disease that caused his death. Captain Phillips up to within a few days of his demise frequented the resorts of pilots and shipping men along the New York river front.

The captain was born in Canada in 1822, and came to New York early in life. He was a thorough sailor and of a venturesome disposition, and he came naturally drifting to a seafaring business. He opened a towing and lighterage office on South street New York. His tugs Hercules and Hunters were as well known as any sailors men as their owner himself. Where other vessels would not dare to venture Captain Phillips tugs were always a sure to be found. In the early days of the shipping interests here about there was no little competition among the big owners to secure business. When a vessel was expected from a foreign port an army of tug boats were hastily sent down to Sandy Hook to bring her in. Pilotage fees in those days meant thousands of dollars, and every tug boat captain endeavored to beat his rival. A. A. Low was by far the biggest importer around the port at that time, and to pilot one of the Brooklyn merchants' teas ships into port was a prize worth striving for. Captain Phillips did the bulk of Mr. Low's work for over thirty years.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

A. N. Reid is in Montreal.

Miss Cotter, Whitby, is in the city.

Prof. Green was but little improved today.

W. Crowe, Windsor, is at the Kyle House.

E. W. Scully, Berlin, is at the Kyle House.

J. D. Huyck, Tweed, was in town yesterday.

John P. Lovell, Burk's Falls, is at the Queen's

Mrs. (Dr.) Hudson is registered at the Kyle house.

J. Eastwood, Big Spring, is at the Dominion house.

J. M. Pottlas, Deseronto, was at the Kyle house yesterday.

J. D. Potter, Fort Worth, Kansas, is at the Dominion house.

W. H. Martin, Brockville, is registered at the Dominion house.

S. B. Burdett, M. P., will be in Belleville on Thursday next.

John Hamilton, Napanee, is registered at the Anglo American.

Rev. R. Robinson was very low to-day. His death is expected at any moment.

D. O. Robin, traveller for H. Corby, M. P. has arrived in British Columbia.

Rev. S. Daw, pastor of Christ church, has returned from a ten days missionary tour in the vicinity of Cornwall.

TOWN TALK.

No police court to-day.

The water in the river is very high.

Several hundred skaters were on the bay yesterday.

Five tramps were sheltered in the cells last night.

The late Mrs. Serviss was buried yesterday in the cemetery.

Mrs. Smith, of Sidney, died yesterday at the age of about 70 years.

PROBS.—Strong west to northwest winds clearing weather turning colder.

The Annual meeting of the Belleville Gas Co. will be held on Monday, Feb. 17th.

A lady went through the ice on the bay yesterday and narrowly escaped being drowned.

"Forget me not"—Dominion Express—Parcels sent to all leading points. S. Burrows agent.

Tomorrow morning at 9:30, love feast is to be held in the Sunday school rooms of Bridge St. church.

The remains of Miss White, teacher of Tyendinaga, were buried on Wednesday. Death was caused by quick consumption.

Some of the street crossings have been in a deplorable condition since the snow storm as the banks are, in some instances, a foot above the level of the walks. This is a job requiring the street surveyors attention.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Another Short Sitting—New Measures Introduced.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.—The Ontario Assembly had another 5-minutes sitting yesterday. Another big batch of labor petitions was sent up. These bills were introduced:

Mr. Lees—An act to amend the General Road Companies Act.

Mr. Phelps—An act to amend the Municipal Water Works Act.

Mr. Wood (Brant)—An act to amend the General Railway Companies Act.

Mr. Gibson also submitted a report relating to the registration of births, marriages and deaths in Ontario for the year ending Dec. 31, 1888. The births numbered 46,055, marriages 14,551, deaths 23,734—85,238 registrations, an increase of 1049 births, 91 marriages, 530 deaths, or 1460 registrations over that of 1887. Estimating the population of the province to be 2,146,971, the ratio per 1000 living would be: Births 21.8 per 1000, marriages 6.7 per 1000 and deaths 11.0 per 1000. Compared with those of 1887 they show a very slight increase. The largest number of persons married in 1888 were Methodists, next come Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Roman Catholics. The Quakers returned the fewest marriages, 80.

Safe on the Detroit Side.

WINDSOR, Feb. 7.—A young man named Clark, the son of a wealthy South Colchester farmer, was arrested and bound over today yesterday on the charge of procuring drugs and instruments for the purpose of enabling a young girl to perform a criminal operation. After his arrest Clark promised to marry the girl, and in company with the constable went to the office of the village marriage license issuer to procure the necessary document but while Squire Richmond was filling up the blanks Clark quietly left and jumping on a passing train was soon conveyed to Walkerville, where he crossed the river to Detroit.

Losses Caused by Flames.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7.—About 12 o'clock last night fire broke out in the Central School House. With prompt action of the firemen the flames were quickly extinguished. The damage appears to be all to the central part of the main building. Loss about $7000, covered by insurance.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 7.—F. Rooth's house in Foster-avenue was badly damaged by fire last night. Loss covered by insurance.

EDMEN, Feb. 7.—J. Burton's hotel was destroyed by fire this evening. Loss $3000, insurance not known.

MAULED BY MITCHELL.

Mace Defeated by the English Champion

GLASGOW, Feb. 7.—Charlie Mitchell and Jem Mace fought four rounds here to-night for $500. Mitchell weighed 19 lbs. and Mace 185. His comparative light weight did not handicap the English champion, who won the battle. Mace was badly punished.

The match between Mace and Mitchell was short and decisive. It was fought in four rounds of two minutes each. Neither of the men had trained much. Two thousand persons witnessed it and a large number of high artisocracy gathered around the ring. The police at first objected but yielded gracefully when it was explained that the match was purely to determine points of sparring, style and fistic skill.

The contest began at 10 p.m. Mitchell forced the fighting from the first and gained the first knock-down blow. At the end of the first round it was evident that Mace had but little chance to win.

In the second round Mace was again knocked down. He arose and was a little reluctant but made upon the whole a better showing than at the outset.

In the third round he made a determined attempt to turn the tide. He landed on Mitchell's chest twice very heavily and received in return one on his forehead which staggered him. Nevertheless he faced up well. Mitchell slipped and fell. Both showed signs of distress and Mitchell was clearly done up. Mitchell had him on the ropes and punished him severely.

When time was called for the fourth round there were many doubts whether Mace could appear, but he came up, though in a bad condition. He got a very heavy punishment the rounds followed and ordered the match to cease. The judges pronounced in favor of Mitchell.

It was an interesting contest. Mitchell showed himself very clever. Mace was capital but lacked the nimble readiness of other days. He broke the little finger of his left hand in the first round. Both hit hard.

A "Blood" Fight.

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—The fight at the Union Athletic Club's rooms at the Bay Bend to-night between George Dixon the colored bantam and "Cal." McCarthy, concerning which there has been so much speculation of late, proved a most stubborn contest. The fight, although nominally for scientific points and for medals, was in reality a "blood" fight to settle the question of the bantam championship.

The fight continued for 70 rounds and closing the 70th the judges decided that it was a draw.

Broken Up by the Police.

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 7.—The Brockton Athletic Club gave a sparring exhibition tonight. About 100 members were present. The first set-to between Bob Green of Boston and an unknown was in progress when a terrific crash was heard at the windows and doors and a posse of officers appeared. A grand rush was made by the spectators to get away; several jumped through the windows, going down two stories, causing sprained ankles and bruised heads. Bob Green was arrested. The unknown escaped. The names of fifteen present were taken and all will appear in court for aiding a prize fight.

Too Fat to Fight.

NEWARK, N.J., Feb. 7.—John L. Sullivan and Joe Lannon fought three 3-minute rounds to-night before a large crowd. Sullivan was not in condition, being very fat and sluggish. Lannon fought vigorously compelling Sullivan to exert himself.

Wall Beats Goode.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—At the Pelican club boxing match for £200 Tuff Wall beat Goode Manitoba's Great Problem.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7.—The Legislature sat for only 15 minutes to-day. The consideration of the bill regarding abolishing the official use of the French language was postponed at the request of the French members. The bill will be taken up the first thing Monday.

Secretary Tracy Will Not Resign.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The Post's Washington special says: The reports that Secretary Tracy is going to resign at once are untrue. He has assured the President that he will remain at his post and endeavor to divert his mind from the horrors that have lately forced themselves upon it by close devotion to his work.

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,

FANCY FLANNEL,

AND

CEYLON FLANNEL!

New est Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASURE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents Furnishers, Laundry Office,

PROF DORENWEND COMING

WITH HIS IMMENSE DISPLAY OF

HAIR - GOODS

HE WILL BEAT

QUEENS' HOTEL

WED. & THURS, FEB, 12TH & 13TH.

When every lady should make it a special point to call and see the Professor's Fine Styles. His art of most this visit will be superb. SWITCHES, BANGS, FRONTPIECES Puffs, SWITCHES, TOUPEES, etc., articles of which every lady should have one or other for the sake of health, appearance and economy. Even if she has an abundant growth of hair she should have one in order to meet the requirements of a fashionable headdress and save her own hair. It is a difficult matter to explain the full benefits of wearing Hair Goods, as an advertisement so Prof. Dorenwend asks that ladies call on him whether they intend to buy or not. If they do not get something now they may later on, and while there is an opportunity it is just as well to learn particulars. For gent lemen who are bald, Prof. Dorenwend has Toupees and Wigs, that are most perfect. They fit like a Glove, and are as natural as life. A visit to the Sample Room will be well repaid. Persons who have already visited the Professor Good will do their friends a favor if they will prevail on them to visit the Professor. Remember

AT QUEENS' HOTEL ON WEDS & THURS., FEB, 12 & 13th.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile,
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
BLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: MONDAY FEBRUARY 10, 1890 | NO 34

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackrelle, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coco nut Sugar Wafers

Lemon Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! —O— OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES & C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchie's

DOWN GOMES
M'GINTY.
And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS, UNDERCLOTHING, TRUNKS and VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES
See for yourselves and Call at
S. G. RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,373.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nursery men, Rochester, N.Y. 1318wdw

RECAMIER PREPARATIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W. W. CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

OUR JAPANESE FRIEND
MR. INZO KOUO,
Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our
Japan Teas
Those using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.
Wolmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

When the Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.
CAPITAL - - - $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates
Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.
FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent. No fines. No commission
J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made

I took Cold, I took Sick, I took
SCOTT'S EMULSION
RESULT:
I take My Meals, I take My Rest,
AND I AM VIGOROUS ENOUGH TO TAKE ANYTHING I CAN LAY MY HANDS ON.
getting fat too, FOR Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda NOT ONLY CURED MY Incipient Consumption BUT BUILT ME UP, AND IS NOW PUTTING
FLESH ON MY BONES
AT THE RATE OF A POUND A DAY. I TAKE IT JUST AS EASILY AS I DO MILK."
Scott's Emulsion is put up only in salmon color wrappers. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purpose of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.
d

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th, Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6d

WANTED.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply on MRS. W. W. LEE, Feb. 1. Hotel street.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. ANDERSON, Feb 4 dtf cor. Ann and Charles sts

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, stating age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

OPERA -- HOUSE
MONDAY EV'G. FEB. 10
First appearance in Belleville of the
NORA CLENCH
CONCERT COMPANY
With the Following distinguished Artists:—
MISS NORA CLENCH,
VIOLINIST.
MRS. CALDWELL,
SOPRANO.
MISS COLVIN,
PIANIST.
MR. FRED WARRINGTON,
BARITONE.
MANAGER - - - J. W. BAUMANN
Reserved Seats — 75cts.
Admission — — — 50 and 35cts
Plan of Reserved Seats at W. B. Biggs Music Store. 6td

NOTICE TO CREDITORS,

In the Goods of Charles Muncaster Deceased.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 110, sec. 36, that all persons having claims upon or against the estate of Charles Muncaster late of the city of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, deceased, who died on or about the 11th day of December 1889, are, on or before the

1st Day of March 1890.

to send by post prepaid, or to deliver to Messrs. Sherry & Macaulay barristers, Bridge street, Belleville, solicitors for A. W. Muncaster the executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, a statement in writing of their names and addresses and full particulars of their claims and the nature of all securities (if any) held by them.

And notice is hereby further given, that after the said last mentioned date, the said executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notices shall have been given as above required. And the said executor will not be responsible for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose claim notice shall not have not been received a foresaid, at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Belleville, the 27th day of January A D. 1890.

SHERRY & MACAULAY,
Solicitors for the above named executor, R. W. MUNCASTER, 4td

LABOR'S MOSES.

THE KAISER'S SCHEME TO BENEFIT GERMAN WORKINGMEN.

No Practical Results Likely to Follow—Effect of the Decrees Upon the Election Canvass—Socialists Conducting the Campaign with Energy.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—Opinion inclines to the view that the Emperor's socialistic propositions will never lead to any practical result. It is altogether improbable that the European powers, if ever invited, will assent to take part in such an international conference as proposed by the Emperor. England, France, Belgium and Switzerland are named by the Emperor as involved in his scheme, but this use of the names of those states has been made without any understanding with them. His Majesty, in fact, only says he desires that the ambassadors of those nations be sounded on the subject, but he does not direct the opening of negotiations, and in fact none have been opened. No steps have been taken toward learning whether those powers approve of such a conference. The French press as a whole treats the mere idea of the conference as an insult. The Swiss, even, do not seem to like the notion that the move may interfere with their convention, to be held in May, and are exclaiming against any such interference.

The private opinion in all official circles is that no conference will ever meet. If any important result is to flow from these decrees it will be from that part of them which proposes internal changes, new labor legislation and the reform of the relations existing between employers and workers. The first fact will be the special commission, which will be convened here to prepare bills for the next Reichstag. This is to be composed in equal parts of workingmen and employers. Baron Stumm, who next to Krupp is the largest employer of labor in Rhineland, is likely to preside over this commission. Its projects will be examined by the Council of State before they are submitted to the Reichstag.

The effect of the decrees upon the electoral canvass is that they actually tend to help the Socialistic party. This is a surprise because at the first moment it did not look that way. Indeed, the theory that the decrees were played as a great stroke in the game for votes seemed to be confirmed by the staggering effect they had at the first moment upon the Socialist propaganda, for they seemed to make Socialism itself unnecessary. But the sober second thought is to the effect that the decrees are an imperial recognition that Socialism is right and wise and that what it proposes is necessary for the country and therefore people say: "If this is what we need it is better to have this great reform carried out by its friends, and why should we now abandon them to put the good cause into the hands of those who hitherto have always been its enemies?" Hence the Socialists accept the Emperor's decrees as the monument of their victory over the Chancellor, whose repeated denunciations of their ideas as purely chimerical are now forcibly quoted against him.

Since the publication of the decrees the Socialist committee has increased the number of its candidates and now contests 210 districts. The campaign, all worked by this committee from Berlin, is a display of marvelous activity, energy and intelligence. Through its perfect organization an abundant supply of money has been provided, and the richer districts assist the poorer ones. Many contributions have been received from outside of Germany, and the largest of these are from America. Many workingmen are candidates in the coal regions. A number of miners are selected as candidates in virtue of the union with the Cartellers are running well, and all differences of opinion that there might be between these parties are avoided in the canvass.

POPE LEO'S ENCYCLICAL.

The Duty of Catholics to Their Church and Country Set Forth.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8.—The latest encyclical of Pope Leo is a very lengthy document. It deals with a variety of subjects, but the ultimate object of the encyclical seems to be to show the necessity of Christian perfection. "That which is true of individual men," he says, "is also true of society, both in the family and in the state. If any state aims only at external advantage and wealth, if it is wont in its government to put aside God and the moral law, it wrongfully turns away from its end and from the teaching of Nature and nature's God called a community or society, but is rather a deceitful resemblance and a parody."

He asserts that Catholics have special duties in life, and that their first duty is to their church and then to their country. The Pope defines the mutual rights and functions of the church and the state: "The church is the multitude of nations scattered over the whole earth, differing in race and customs, whose duty it is, living each in its own state, under its own laws, to submit both to civil and ecclesiastical power." He admits that rulers of states should be free to guide their affairs, not only without the opposition but with the assistance of the church; but as the salvation of souls has been given to the church alone political power has no right of interference with the church. The church, he says, must concern herself about the laws and treaties of states because of the welfare of the state itself and because they encroach on the right of the church by passing their due bounds.

"And since the welfare of the state," the Pope concludes, "is peculiarly dependent on the direction of its governors, the church cannot give either advantage or favor to the men at whose hands she knows only oppression, who in the broad day refuse to respect her rights, and who strive to tear asunder civil and sacred polity, bound together as they are in their very essence. On the other hand she is, as she should be, the defender of those who, justly approaching what is due to the civil and Christian state, desire to work peacefully for the common good of both. And it should be remembered that whenever the church is lawfully brought in connection with public affairs those men should receive favor who are of known honesty and are likely to deserve well of the Christian name, nor is there the least reason why men should be preferred who are filled with evil intentions against religion."

The Dakota Lottery Bill.

BISMARCK, Dak., Feb. 9.—A member of the House says 20 members of that body have agreed to sustain the Governor's veto of the lottery bill when it comes. It will take 21 votes to defeat its passage over a veto. The opponents of the lottery bill think it will surely be killed either before or after a veto, while its friends are very confident of winning. Public meetings are being held all over the state to consider the question.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to purpose, tends pursuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five o l was completely cured."

AN APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

President Fitzgerald's Address to the Irish-American of America.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 5.—President Fitzgerald of the Irish National League yesterday issued this address to that organization;

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 8, 1890.

To the Officers and Members of the Irish National League of America:

Since the inception of the present Irish movement, now nearing its hour of final triumph, of some Irish-American exiles and their children in America have been the chief support and mainstay of the national struggle. The continuous financial assistance rendered from the United States and Canada to the people and leaders of Ireland has been the result of organization. The munificent aggregate created by the many contributory streams of Irish-American generosity could never have been attained had the movement depended on the uncertainty of spasmodic local action. Our enemies have recognized the tremendous force of organized effort as a most potent aid to the Irish cause, and they are now exerting all their ingenuity and utilizing their immense resources to destroy and nullify its influence by trying to create disorganization and distrust among the friends of Ireland. Secret service money is being expended and subsidized agents are employed to scatter innuendoes, to make false allegations and by every artifice to disseminate slanders in order to disrupt Irish national organization in America.

Be the impelling motive what it may, a hostile press is being utilized in this country to supplement the unscrupulous but defeated efforts of The London Times to discredit not only the national officers of the American League, but the trusted and able leaders of the movement in Ireland, whom till now you have so loyally obeyed and so generously supported. The Chicago Times of Feb. 2 says editorially:

"'Hold no convention,' is the advice to the executive of the National League in America from the gentlemen over the sea, 'but send us more money.' As to the money part, that has been the cry from time immemorial. Since 1886 the one agency of the League alone has collected $250,000 of money, and the demand is for more. Men who are living as members of the British Parliament on funds raised in America and living on the fat of the land, or gossip does them great injustice, will naturally cry with the horse-leech's daughter, 'Give! Give!'"

In The Chicago Herald of the same date we read:

"The program of the league on both sides of the ocean is identical and unmistakable. 'More funds and less investigation,' is the cry everywhere. No convention for the last three years and Parnell wants none for the present. * * * Nothing is so perfectly delightful to the free-handed patriots whom Ireland sends to this country as to lay aside their earnings until they get together enough to buy a draft and then blow the whole amount into the hands of a lot of irresponsible professional agitators for unknown purposes."

Brother Irishmen, is not this the language of The London Times and the Tory organs that for generations have been spitting their contempt upon every effort of the Irish people to ameliorate the condition of their country? Does it not seem as if the Pigott-Flanagan hirelings, baffled in England, had transferred their vile operations to America?

In this emergency we rely upon your manhood, your devotion, your common sense, not to be misled by Salisbury's reptile press, his subsidized priest revilers and those stormy petrels of faction who are now trying to demoralize your ranks. Rest assured that the ignominious defeat of The London Times will be the fate of its puny imitators on this side of the Atlantic.

Most of us have had cruel experience of the iniquitous system of land tenure in Ireland, and no instructive words of mine are needed to appraise you of the crucial exigency of the hour. I look to you confidently to move to the support of your kith and kindred in their gallant struggle against the famine-breeding system of Irish landlordism. Looking back upon their noble past, what think you would not the Irish people do for us were our situations reversed? Remember with what promptness poor starving Ireland contributed from her poverty and her living of the stricken victims of the Johnstown flood. Gratitude is a virtue indigenous to the Irish disposition and in dwelling in the Irish heart. The mite that you contribute will be your bread cast upon the waters, of which you may securely anticipate a return. Therefore I exhort you in your individual and associated capacities to make one more effort for Irish freedom. Let every branch of the league reassert and bestir itself, and let every individual determine to do his part.

Your indefatigable treasurer has shown to the world a manifest honesty and economy that disarms criticism and enlists enthusiasm. We need not assure you that your every contribution will be faithfully delivered to its rightful destination from his clean and trusted hands. Be not dismayed by your limited capacity to contribute. The 25 cents have been so faithfully entered upon his books as the $10,000 remittances. Anonymous contributions have been impossible to answer, but have been no less carefully credited. Of the our auditing committee are unimpeachable witnesses. If, therefore, there lives in your hearts a love for Ireland; if a generous inspiration still animates you for the people at home; if the brave traditions of your name and race still abide with you, of all of which I have no doubt, I feel sure you will not flag in the contest, now that the closing fight is upon us.

A general election in Great Britain is pending. With us are marshaled the Liberal hosts of England, Wales and Scotland, led by the Grand Old Man, whose marvelous vigor is sustained by the inspired consciousness of coming victory. Parnell, the sagacious and unswerving leader, maintains unshaken his touch upon the minds and hearts of our devoted people. Sacrifices will be demanded of them and us to meet this supreme emergency, so as to preserve and even strengthen the integrity of Irish representation in the British Parliament. Two years at the most, and possibly two months, will bring us face to face with the crisis. In this the last ordeal that your patriotism may be called upon to undergo, we ourselves, the liberal masses of Great Britain and the people of Ireland confidently rely upon you.

Therefore I entreat you, as honest, loyal supporters of the cause of Ireland, eschewing all local issues, ignoring all distinctions of American national politics, to rally in your integrity and associate in your might, and again give us practical evidence of your devotion to the dear old land.

An Entire Family Drowned.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Richard R. Slater, a veteran of the late war, with his wife and four children were drowned in Rinnewater Lake to day.

The Candid Truth.
"USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and throat; it never

FOR THE FARMERS.

TEN THOUSAND BUSHELS OF TWO-ROWED BARLEY ORDERED.

Successful Trials of an Improved Variet of Oats at the Experimental Farm—Sir John Thompson's Criminal Law Amendment Bill.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—The order has now been forwarded for the two-rowed barley, which the Government is to import for seed for farmers desiring to grow this crop for exportation of the English market. Ten thousand bushels have been ordered and will arrive about the middle of March. They will be distributed in two-bushel lots, and each farmer sowing this quantity will have from it all the seed he can possibly want for next year.

Experiments with an improved variety of oats have been made by direction of Professor Saunders of the Experimental Farm in various parts of the country with very satisfactory results, and a recommendation to farmers to substitute the new variety is likely to be made shortly.

Speaker Ouimet, in whose hands, as president of the D.R.A. Council, is placed the gift of the command of the Wimbledon team, has not yet announced his choice. It is generally understood, however, that the command will go to the gay soldier from the Pacific, Lieut.-Col. E. G. Prior, M.P., and that he will have as adjutant or second in command Major A. H. Todd, the officer at present commanding the Governor-General's Foot Guards, pending the appointment of a successor to Lieut.-Col. Tidbir. Major Todd will be remembered as the officer who raised and commanded the company of sharpshooters who did duty under Col. Otter in the Battleford column. He has always been a very popular officer and an enthusiastic rifleman, having frequently won the right to represent Canada at Wimbledon and made high scoring upon that famous course. Year by year the competition for the command and adjutancy increases and there will be many good officers disappointed on this occasion.

Sir John Thompson's bill to amend the criminal law, briefly referred to in my despatch of Friday night, contains these important provisions:

Any parent or guardian who procures or permits the debauching of any girl or woman in his charge shall, if the female is under 18, be guilty of a felony and be liable to 14 years' imprisonment, and if the girl is above 15 and under 21 he is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable with 5 years' imprisonment. Everyone who being married seduces or has improper relations with any woman, and everyone who seduces and has such relations with any woman of previously good character in his employment, or with any woman who is employed with him, and is in respect of her employment or work in any way subject to his control or direction, is to be guilty of a misdemeanor and to be liable to 2 years' imprisonment.

Any person who procures a male person to commit a gross indecency shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be liable to 2 years' imprisonment. Anyone who perpetrates a gross indecency in the presence of one or more persons shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to a fine of $50 or 6 months' imprisonment.

Everyone who marries or has relations with any person related to him, whether by consanguinity or otherwise more closely than the fourth degree computed according to the rules of the civil law, shall be deemed to have committed incest and shall be liable to 14 years' imprisonment.

Everyone who has unlawful relations with a girl under 13 is guilty of a felony and liable to imprisonment for life or for any term not less than 5 years and to be whipped. Everyone who attempts to have such relations with a girl under 15 is liable to 2 years' imprisonment and to be whipped. Any indecent assault upon a female renders the assaulter liable to 2 years' imprisonment, accompanied by a whipping. In any accusation under this act it shall be no defence to say that the child under 13 who is debauched consents.

A further clause is designed to cover the case of the Mormons. It provides that every male person who simultaneously or on the same day marries more than one woman is guilty of a misdemeanor. It further provides that every person who has relations with more than one woman is guilty of a misdemeanor and is liable to fine or imprisonment.

Another clause adopts the English rule with regard to jurors. It allows the judge in his discretion at any time before the jury renders a verdict to permit the jurors the use of fire when out of court and to have reasonable refreshments—such refreshments to be procured by the jurors at their own expense.

Interest deepens in Mr. McCarthy's bill as the time for its debate approaches. What the Conservatives think of the measure is indicated plainly enough by the amendments proposed by Messrs. Davin and Robert White relegating the matter to the people of the Northwest. This seems to be pretty much the view of the Opposition also, and the French Liberals, who have had a caucus on the subject, have, it is said, determined to offer an amendment to the amendment providing that the people of the Northwest should be allowed to decide the matter but that their opinion should not be asked until say 10 years hence, when settlement is more numerous.

WEST DURHAM REFORMERS.

William T. Lockhart of Newcastle Their Assembly Candidate.

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 9.—The convention to select a candidate to contest West Durham in the Reform interest at the next general election for the Ontario Assembly was held in the Town Hall here yesterday. Every part of the riding was fully represented by delegates and a large additional number of interested electors attended as spectators.

The proceedings resulted in the selection of Mr. William T. Lockhart, grain dealer of Newcastle, as the candidate. Resolutions of confidence in the Mowat Government and in Hon. Edward Blake were enthusiastically passed.

The Delaware Whipping Post.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 9.—As a result of a week's sitting of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, 16 men, of whom 3 are white, were whipped at Newcastle yesterday morning by Sheriff Allen. The total number of lashes administered was 103. The whippings took place in a driving rainstorm.

Chicago's Daily Murder.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The dead body of Mrs. Foster, colored, was found in an alley here this morning. Murder is suspected and the woman's husband has been arrested.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

Ex-Mayor Biggar returned from Ottawa on Saturday.

A. W. Dudley, Colborne, is at the Queen's.

P. H. Pearce, Peterboro, is at the Queen's.

W. J. Gurner, Napanee, is at the Queen's.

Wm. Low, Peterboro, is at the Kyle house.

L. W. Yeomans, has returned from New York.

S. Hambly, Omaha, is registered at the Kyle house.

W. O. Smith, Buffalo, N. Y., is at the Kyle house.

John C. Christie and Geo. German, of Trenton, were in the city yesterday.

Thos. Coyle, Titusville, Pa., is at the Dominion House.

Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Nora Clench, of Hamilton are guests of J. P. C. Phillips.

Miss Colvin, is a guest of ex-Ald. N. B. Falkiner.

J. W. Baumann, manager for Nora Clench and F. Warrington, baratone, are at the Kyle house.

Miss Snell of Galt, and her uncle, Miss Snell, of England, are in the city, the guests of Mrs. C. T. Rowe, Hill Side Street.

Seal Skin Sacques $1.00 Each!
This is a great offer. Just imagine the army of ladies that will besiege the store until the last sacque is gone—if the bargain is ever offered. But how much more wonderful an opportunity is that presented to every suffering womanby the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This remedy is a guaranteed cure for all those distressing ailments peculiar to the weaker sex. It is guaranteed that if it does not effect a cure money will be refunded. It is carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects on any portion of the system, and is sold under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded.
For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets; Purely Vegetable. One a dose.

Legal Intelligence.

The announcements for the spring circuit of assize and chancery courts are made as follows:

Court of assize before Armour, J. C.
Whitby—Tuesday, 11th March.
Cornwell—Tuesday, 18th March
Brockville—Tuesday, 25th March.
Kingston—Monday, 31st March.
Napanee—Monday, 7th April.
Belleville—Thursday, 10th April.
Picton — Tuesday, 22th April.
Cayuga—Monday, 28th April.
Chancery court before Robertson, J.
Ottawa, Monday, 24th March.
Cobourg, Wednesday 9th April.
Cornwall, Thursday, 17th April.
Brockville, Thursday, 24th April.
Belleville, Monday, 12th May.
Kingston, Monday, 19th May.

Prof. Dorenwend Coming
Who does not recognize that to have good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this will all disappear and capillary additions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stand Prof. Dorenwend's goods. He is a manufacturer Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorenwend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorenwend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Pompieces, Fairy Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

AN INQUEST ORDERED.

Coroner Brandon Will Investigate the Asquith Sensation.

HAMILTON, Feb. 9.—Dr. Brandon still believes that James Harris was murdered, notwithstanding the statement made by J. E. O'Reilly that he was drowned at Buffalo in July. So firmly convinced is the doctor that Harris was put out of the way, and that it was his skull which was found, that he instructed the Crown Attorney Creyer, and was instructed to hold an inquest, which will take place in the Town Hall, Ancaster, on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

MURDERED FOR MONEY.

Burglars Slay an Aged Woman and Club Her Husband Senseless.

TROY, N.Y., Feb. 9.—The house of Randolph Floyd, a farmer 71 years of age, residing near Westport, Essex County, was entered by masked burglars last evening. They demanded Floyd's money or his life and when Floyd refused to give them money he was beaten insensible and his wife was pounded to death. Floyd had recently sold a piece of land for $6,000 and the burglars knew of the house but the murderers failed to find it. They have not been caught.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

New York's Gloomy Prospects—Where the Hitch Is.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The Executive Committee of the World's Fair held a meeting this afternoon and appointed a committee of five to report on the progress of the bill pending at Albany. The prospects for New York being selected as the site are gloomy. Mayor Grant had the naming of the committee to manage the fair and selected Tammany Democrats. Platt, the Republican boss, objects to Tammany having control of the expenditure of $10,000,000, especially just pending a presidential election, and with the assistance of his followers in the Legislature has succeeded in preventing the passage of the act granting that sum in aid of the project. Unless the bill is passed Chicago is likely to get the fair.

The Western Floods.

OREGON CITY, Ore., Feb. 9.—The water has receded far enough to permit a rough estimate of the damage done here by the flood. It is thought $125,000 will cover the loss.

ROSEBURY, Ore., Feb. 9.—It is estimated by the Southern Pacific officials here that it will take 1500 men one month to repair the track damaged by the flood between here and Ashland, a distance of about 180 miles.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 9 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by carrier carriers to all parts of the City for six cents per week—fifty cents a month—$1.50 for three months.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS: Daily Ontario first insertion 15 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS, 50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notice is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remit by Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Ord should be made payable to the Order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

THE BAY OF QUINTE.

(Continued From 4th Page)

frequent mention of an Indian tribe or tribes that seemed to be part of the Mississaugas and that was referred to on maps and in the records as "Kaintas," "Kaitys." These Indians were located at different places along the Bay west of Frontenac and there is good reason to believe that they gave the name to the body of water upon and by, which they lived. This belief is strengthened by more recent investigations, which show that the bones and relics found on this sandhill undoubtedly belonged to the aborigines who probably had a burying ground there.

The real settlement of the country bordering on the Bay of Quinte began with the advent of the U. E. Loyalists in 1783. The circumstances that led to their voluntary expatriation created an intense patriotic feeling, and hence their first public acts were intended to express this feeling in the most emphatic and conscious manner. When the wilderness was surveyed the newly created townships were named after members of the royal family, or some noted person prominent in British politics. The settlement began at Kingston, which was first called "Kings town, in honor of his majesty George III. The other townships westward along the Bay were named Ernestown, Fredericksburg, Adolphustown Marysburg, Sophiasburg, Ameliasburg, &c., after children of the king. Others such as Richmond, Thurlow, Sidney, Athol, etc., were named in honor of public men, whose deeds have been recorded in history. The spirit of fervid loyalty thus introduced and perpetuated by succeeding events has been emulated with pride by children, and children's children. This accounts for the tenacity with which the inhabitants cling to British institutions, and the repugnance shown for proposed radical changes in political or commercial acts. The descendants of the U. E. Loyalists, though they differ in political sentiments as applied to the public affairs of the Dominion, are a unit in their devotion of the grand principals of British freedom.

This "Canada of ours" possesses much that may be described by superlative adjectives. There are scores of "resorts" where the sublime and the beautiful give pleasing variety of scenic views, and where the tastes of all kinds of tourists may be fully gratified. The Bay of Quinte, while abounding in beautiful scenery, is not destitute of the sublime. It is a remarkably pleasant and healthy resort, where camping, fishing bathing, and all the benefits of safe and conscious boating may be indulged in. "Twelve O'Clock Point," at the west of the bay, and at the entrance of the Murray canal, is a charming spot, and will soon have a hotel for the accommodation of visitors. Massassaga Park, about three miles east of Belleville, is the favorite summer resort for residents of the locality. It possesses all conveniences, and many persons from a distance are guests at the comfortable hotel during the summer months. The famous maskinonge fishing ground are in close proximity to the park. On the east end of Big Island, and near the pleasant village of Northport, several New York gentlemen have built cottages and made other arrangements for summer residences. This is a favorite resort resorted for black bass and other game fish.

A few miles further east is the bustling town of Deseronto, where the Rathbun company carry on a number of prosperous enterprises. The winding and picturesque Napanee river finds an outlet here, and down the reach towards Picton are several camping grounds of great attraction to wealthy Torontonians. Just as we emerge from this grand channel, Davy's Island, with its cosy cottages and shaded walks invites the summer tourist to rest and recreation; and directly opposite is "Glenora," where the famous Lake on the Mountain furnishes ample water power for manufacturing industries. "The Glen House," which nestles among lofty trees on the side of a precipitous hill, has a reputation for tempting cuisine that extends over Canada. Other attractions could be named but want of space precludes further remarks. Those who have lived many years by the shores of this delightful piece of water are wedded to its attractions, and can find no successful rivals for their affectionate regards.

He is Coming.

Wigsland toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorewind of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Prof's goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give she Syrup according to directions.

Do Not be Deceived.

All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful blouse than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

ORLEANS' ESCAPADE.

THE GOVERNMENT PLACED IN AN AWKWARD DILEMMA.

Great Excitement in Paris—What the Monarchists Hope to Gain in the Event of Boulanger's Success—Captain O'Shea's Story.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—In view of the escapade of the young Duke of Orleans an interview with his father, the Count of Paris, just before the latter's departure for America will be interesting. The Count and his other sons expect to visit the West Indies, Canada and the United States. He would visit Cuba and Canada partly on pleasure, partly to personally ascertain what were the numerous attractions those countries contain which have made the United States people anxious for annexation.

"Do you think there will ever be a revolution in France?"

"Well, that depends upon circumstances. I, of course, hope there will be and I sincerely believe that if the question of establishing a monarchy were put to a vote the people would be heartily in favor of it."

"What do you think of Gen. Boulanger's chances of becoming president of France?"

"Upon that subject I cannot express an opinion. Gen. Boulanger's absence from France of course has lessened his popularity and his success depends upon the loyalty of his friends."

"Of course he can continue to count upon the monarchists?" I ventured to suggest.

"So long as his policy is in line with ours," he replied "that is to say, so long as he continues to combat the same enemy that you oppose he may count upon the support of the monarchists."

"What do you hope to gain by General Boulanger's success should he become president?"

"We hope to convince the people by his government together with the present, that a republican form of government is not the best for France. They are already dissatisfied, with the government they have at present, and when they shall have tried Boulangerism and found it wanting they will demand a return to a dignified monarchy. This, however, will be only upon conditions which a sovereign can justly grant."

"What are some of those conditions?"

"First of all the people want universal suffrage, which no monarch should deny them when honestly demanded, and secondly they need a wise and liberal constitution. If these were granted the monarch be just, humane and irreproachable there would be no fear of revolution."

The Government's Dilemma.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The arrest of Duc d'Orleans has created great excitement among all shades of political faith, and has placed the Government in a dilemma requiring a phenomenal nicety of tact to enable it to extricate itself with dignity. Even prominent members of the Ministry are compelled to admit that they are embarrassed, hence their hesitation. If they act upon the advice of the more impetuous of their number and give the royal prisoner the full sentence of two years' imprisonment which the law prescribes, the Government fear, and reasonably too, that such course will have the effect to exalt the royal duke into greater popular prominence than ever before; while if they release him or merely conduct him to the frontier they will simply throw the law and Government into ridicule and contempt. The question of disposing of the young man is likely to lead to graver ones, furnishing France with material for political discussion for many a day.

The Duke asked for an adjournment of his case Saturday to allow him to instruct counsel. The hearing was adjourned until Wednesday. The Duke occupies a comfortable apartment in the concierge'rie.

The Duke's Defence.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The Duke of Orleans has written a letter to President Carnot appealing for permission to serve his country.

The counsel for the Duke will argue that the new recruiting law abrogates the clause in the expulsion law forbidding French princes to enter the army, and that the Duke has not therefore rendered himself liable to a penalty.

The Republican majority in the Chamber approves the attitude the Government has taken in deciding upon a simple enforcement of the law. The Left looks upon the Duke's act as a mere boyish escapade, and holds that he should be tried and sentenced to assert the majesty of the law, but that after sentence he should be pardoned and he sent out of France.

Premier Tirard Talks.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—M. Tirard, President of the Council, and M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, opened a commercial exchange at Le Mons to-day. M. Tirard in a speech condemned the agitation of the customs question. He said it behooved France to avoid entering into any imprudent engagement or flattering anyone's passions. "Let us," he said, "be devoted servitors and not courtiers of the toiling democracy." He ridiculed the rumor of dissension in the Cabinet.

CAPT. O'SHEA'S STORY.

Mr. Parnell's Accuser Unfolds His Tale of Domestic Woe.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Capt. O'Shea has emerged from behind the veil of silence regarding his grounds for his suit for divorce against his wife, and has permitted some of his intimate friends to hear his story from his own lips. Six months ago he says, the conduct of his wife and her paramour became so flagrant that he was compelled to interfere and exact from Mrs. O'Shea a promise that she would not see Mr. Parnell again. Relying upon the sincerity of this promise he gave himself no further uneasiness until he made the discovery that the promise had not been kept.

On Dec. 20, a few months subsequent to the foregoing understanding with Mrs. O'Shea, her son paid her an unexpected visit at her apartments in London. Being aware of the promise she had made to his father, young O'Shea was astounded to find in his mother's apartment, wearing apparel and other articles belonging to Mr. Parnell, which the lady evidently had not had time to conceal. Young O'Shea began pitching the effects of the Irish leader out of the window in an unceremonious manner, and was stopped by his mother, between whom and her son there ensued a painful scene of crimination and defiance. The son promptly informed his father of his discovery, and the latter, then thoroughly convinced of the hopelessness of his wife's infatuation, began the legal proceedings which are soon to be tried in the courts.

The Pope's Health.

ROME, Feb. 9.—The Pope is well, but in consequence of the death of his brother, Cardinal Pecci, His Holiness will exclude himself for a few days.

Prof. Dorewind Coming

Who does not recognize that to have good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this will all disappear and capillary additions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stands Prof. Dorewind's record. He is a manufactured Hair Goods on a large scale, when he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorewind's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorewind makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

AN OPOSSUM FARM.

Only those who have tasted the delicious meat of the opossum, can have any idea of its rare sweetness and delicacy of flavor. White as the breast of a chicken, and tender as a sweet-bread, it fairly melts in the mouth.

A farmer, on the outskirts of our town, finds yearly, in the hollow trees of the wood near which he lives, families of opossums, from whose home circles he abstracts young ones of suitable age and confines them for fattening purposes. His annual gift of a fine possum for dinner is looked forward to with infinite relish and delight. It is only where his year, by chance, that possum raising has been classed among the industries of our country.

In the form of a Griffin, the Mr. Throckmorton has surrounded ten acres of good land with a high board fence, and calls the enclosure "The Time Creek Possum Farm." A stream of water runs through its centre, and it is thickly shaded with persimmon trees, interspersed with all other fruits and logs planted in the ground. Seven or eight hundred possums, with their families, live in this grove.

They are fond of mapping, and when the desire to sleep comes, the possum climbs the most tempting tree near by, walks out to one of the branches, and wrapping its tail one and a half times around the limb of the tree, swings into space. The legs and body then drop down close to the body, with the head well up between the shoulders, forming a soft ball, resembling a peas cover on a white fur. On approaching the persimmon grove, in the afternoon, when they are taking their siesta, the appearance is described as resembling an orchard, with strange, whitish fruit depending from the boughs.

As the sleepiness of midday passes over and sunset drawn near, one sees with amazed wonder four or five little possums, perhaps, emerge from the marsupial pocket of one and another mother, and via up on to the limb above to frolic. Soon the half-awakened mothers rouse, and, stretching out both head and feet, swing backward and forward two or three times, when, grasping their tails with their fore paws, each one climbs on to the limb with the young ones, intelligently assisting her tail and pulling herself into place. She balances herself nicely, until the clever little possums have finished their plays and climb into her pocket and hide themselves in their haven of rest. When she climbs down the trees they are entirely hidden from sight.

By the time the seven or eight hundred have awakened and descended, the ground becomes so covered one can scarcely get a glimpse of it for between them. Immediately each one hastens to the creek, and after drinking thirstily, turns eagerly to the pen where they are to be fed. Of course, they are of all sizes, some weighing thirty pounds, and some scarcely a pound.

When hungry they utter a strange cry, almost a moan. Never a night hundred crooning this petition for food at one time makes the sound rise into a wild, weird wail. They are fed with the refuse of the table, garbage, meat and bones, which they gather up eagerly, and then climb contentedly to their resting places in the hollow trees and logs. In the persimmon season they are not fed, as they become fat and well-liking on the fruit of the persimmon trees.—M. Lansing, in Once a Week.

Gamblers' Superstitions.

"Did you ever notice what peculiar superstitions gamblers have?" asked a rounder. "Everybody knows that professional gamblers as a class are superstitious, but I believe every man who ever plays any game of chance has some hobby. I know a printer who is an inveterate gambler—he will speculate on any proposition. He will "jeff" with the boys in the office any time, but he won't play the bank unless it is raining. He has tried it often and says a bright, sunny day is a sure jonah. Any day when it rains he will take a lay-off if he has a stake, in order to go against the tiger. I didn't see him for some time till the other day I met him on the street.

"How are they coming, Tom?" said I. "We have been having your kind of weather so long you ought to be fixed."

"No," said he sadly, "I'm in the toughest kind of luck. Things were coming smooth, and I beat 'em day after day till I thought I couldn't lose. One day last week—what day was it when it didn't rain?—I came down with all my winnings, except what I'd paid out for cabs, in my inside pocket. As the day was clear I hesitated a long time about whether I should make a play or not. Finally I thought I would try it, having had such a run of luck lately. I was only going to change in $30 and quit if I lost it. I lost all right, but didn't quit, and sent another twenty and four or five fifties after it. I couldn't pick up a bet. Then I handed the rest of my roll to the dealer and asked him to count it and give me the chips. It contained $450. Luck didn't change. When I got up whipsawed for $100 on the last turn, which broke me, I walked back to the water-cooler and took a little Lake Michigan, refreshing the dealer's invitation to take something else.

"As I stepped out on the sidewalk it was just beginning to rain. Then I kicked myself for not having waited an hour before making the play. Rainy weather brings influenza to some people, but to me it brings luck."—Chicago Tribune.

Turtle as Food.

In St. Bartholomew's or Turtle bay, as the whalers call it, where for five months we lay, taking and curing abalones, our food was chiefly turtle. This little harbor swarmed with them. After a few hours' hunt one of our whaleboats would return with five or six of these unwieldy creatures in the bottom, some so large and heavy that two men staggered under a side. Often the green fat under the calipee, or under shell, lay three inches in thickness. I served up turtle fried, turtle stewed, quarters of turtle roasted and stuffed like loins of veal, turtle fins boiled and turtles' flippers boiled to a jelly and pickled. A turtle is a variously flavored being. Almost every portion has a distinct and individual taste. After all, old Jake, our black boatsteerer, showed us the most delicate part of the turtle, and one previously thrown away. This was the tripe, cleansed of a thin inner skin. When the cabin table had once feasted on stewed turtle tripe they called for it continuously. After many trials and much advice and suggestion, I learned to cook acceptably the abalone. The edible part of this shell fish when fresh is as large as a small tea saucer. There are two varieties, the white and black. The white is the best. Cut up in pieces and stewed, as I attempted at first, the abalone turned out stewed bits of guttapercha; fried, it was fried guttapercha. Then a man from another vessel came on board and showed us how to make a single abalone in a small canvas bag and then pound it to a jelly with a wooden mallet. This process got the honey out of the abalone. The remains of four or five abalones thus pounded to a pulp, and then allowed to simmer for a couple of hours, would make a big tureen of the most delicious soup man ever tasted, every drop of which, on cooling, hardened to the consistency of calves' foot jelly. When my cabin boarders had once become infected with abalone soup they wanted me to keep bringing it along. The Americans do not know or use all the food in the sea which is good.—Prentice Mulford.

Swimming Niagara

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and Strengthen the entire system at the same time.

"AGE CANNOT WITHER HER," remarked an old gentleman, as he gazed fondly upon the comely little woman by his side, "but, frankly," he continued, "at one time I was afraid cosmetics would. The silly little woman, in order to appear youthful, plastered her face with different varieties of whitewash, yclept balm, cream, lotions, etc." "Yes," interrupted the little woman, "I did, until my skin became like parchment and so plenty and coarse." "Well," said the listener, "What do you use now?" "Use," was the reply, "nothing but common sense and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Common sense told me that if my blood was pure, liver active, appetite and digestion good, that the outward woman would take on the hue of health. The Discovery did all those things and actually rejuvenated me." If you would possess a clear, beautiful complexion, free from blotches, pimples, eruptions, yellow spots and roughness, use the "Golden Medical Discovery." It is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to, or money will be returned for it will be promptly refunded.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

$500 OFFERED

for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its mild, soothing and healing properties cure the worst cases, no matter of how long standing. By druggists, 50 cents.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R TEMPLETON

COLT OF SORES.—Symptoms, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctors bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be affected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetite and pursued by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspaptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the sacred lifesemingone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relidf from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by invigorating the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it ever does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask fos Northrop & Lyma's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, dispenses with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop theradson of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good.

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak, Uninterrupted rough digestion may be insured, the secretin activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the add Northrops Lymans Vegetable Discovery the yepeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier ever introduced into Canada.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. d&wly

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE

FRONT St Belleville

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Carnwell

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & Conveyancers, Belleville Ontario Canada, Office—Front St opposite Market Square, French Office—Dominion. Money to loan at 6 per cent. John J. B. Flint. F. J. M. Anderson. W. H. Campbell, K. C. L.

Fred C. Bedrick

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office by Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private money to loan. In great sums 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 can at 6 on any sums. Ashley Block, Office Pinding, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

Lucius O'Connor, Owen Sproule, Jr., Jas. Reynolds, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, Office—Bank of Montreal Building, corner of Front and Pinnacle streets. Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express Company's office, Campbell Block, Front street, Belleville. Private money to loan. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Ponton,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to office of C. E. Thompson and the Intelligencer Co., Office street Belleville, Ont. Geo. J. Sherry, C. L. Macaulay

Private and Company funds to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c. Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets, Belleville, Ont. Henderson, Q.C., F. G. Henderson County Crown Attorney

Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co Hse

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS, Barristers, Notary Public, Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Buildings, opposite Post Office Belleville, Ont. W. B. Black Madoc. A. McDonald.

Bell & Bigsar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario. Geo. Bell. John Bell, Q. C. B. Bigsar

MEDICAL.

N. TRACY, M.D.,

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, east door Bank Montreal.

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto. Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old stand.) Dentistry specialties. References J. P. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville Telephone connec

Kilgasch Embury M. D., C. M.

QUEENS UNIVERSITY, Graduate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence—Grant Holland's jewellry store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S., E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary, 278 College Avenue Toronto.

S. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S.

(HOMOEOPATHIST)

Graduate of Philadelphia College of Medicine, Cincinatti, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Graduate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifey, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan at 6 per cent. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licences, Moira Huntingdon

Charis Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases. Office Bleecker St. A card left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,

SURGEON Dentist, Front Street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker Takes 160 free acres in the famous Mink River Valley of Manitoba, reached by the Manitoba Railway.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.

The Traveller takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, books and guides of the regions reached by the Manitoba Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

THOMAS FIRTH & SONS, (Limited) NORFOLK WORKS, SHEFFIELD, MANUFACTURERS OF CRUCIBLE CAST STEEL For Axes, Tools, Taps, Dies. ALSO SPRING STEEL, LOCOMOTIVE TIRES AND Mild Cast Steel Castings.

JOSEPH RODGERS & SONS, (Limited.) 6 NORFOLK STREET, SHEFFIELD. CUTLERS TO HER MAJESTY. Our Registered Trade Mark. Is a GUARANTEE of the GENUINENESS of our Manufactures. Please see that this EXACT MARK is on each Blade.

JAMES HUTTON & CO., AGENTS, MONTREAL AND TORONTO.

OAK TANNED "EXTRA" Brand.

BELTING

The J. C. McLaren Belting Co. (Established 1866) MONTREAL and TORONTO.

Send for Illustrated List and Discounts.

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED

PURE HONEST GOODS. COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER SAFE INGREDIENTS NO ALUM.

Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO,

MENIER CHOCOLATE

Paris Exposition, 1889 | 2 GRAND PRIZES. 5 GOLD MEDALS.

LARGEST CHOCOLATE MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD

YEARLY SALE EXCEEDS 30,000,000 POUNDS.

PUREST, HEALTHIEST AND BEST.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER Menier Chocolates and take no others.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

THE CRYSTAL HALL

Announce that they intend closing our all ODDS AND ENDS such as

Matchings of Dinner Sets, Bed Room Sets, Odd Lots of Tumblers, Wines, Goblets and all kinds of Glassware.

These Goods we will clear out at Greatly Reduced Prices

We find we also have a number of very fine Dinner Sets and Tea Sets in which some of the pieces are short. All of which we will close out at very low figures

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

Call an see them at

CONGER BROS,

We sell our Stock of Crockery China and Glassware for CASH, as well as given away as Prizes with our TEAS and COFFEES and ELEVATOR BAKING POWDER

CAPACITY to show goods

The best Food to impart Strength

This is the testimony of all who have used

JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF

The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food It contains "Albumen" "Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phosphates In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hatred gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the Cuticura Remedies. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he was a sight to behold. His scalp was covered with crusts which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from plays claim I began the use of the Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say, it has been most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical and surest cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M F WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been troubled by the Cuticura Remedies, of a old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—spending a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H Carew, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily and economically cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula

Sold everywhere. Price, Cuticura, 75c. The Soap, 35c; Resolvent, $1.50. Prepared by the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by Cuticura Soap Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

CREATLY RFDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

DYRIANT - HOME - STOVES

AND

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R CHOWN,

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and wi kdneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but I tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills. I tell you they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since taken I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 30 years to perfect. We supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspenders, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Materdas, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Correspondence strictly honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Fronts Sto up Ang o Ameriica.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS &c

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

"Look," said Indaba-zimbi in my ear, "look, Macumazahn, there goes the babyan frau. But, Macumazahn, she will come back again. Ah, why will you not listen to my words? Have they not always been true words, Macumazahn?" and he shrugged his shoulders and turned away.

For a while I was much disturbed, but all my care for Hendrika was gone for the present, and Stella, my dear and lovely wife, was there at my side, and in her smiles I forgot my fears.

For the rest of that day, why should I write of it?—there are things too happy and too sacred to be written of.

At last I had, if only for a little while, found that rest, that perfect joy which we seek so continually and so rarely clasp.

CHAPTER XI.

WONDER if many married couples are quite as happy as we found ourselves. Cynics, a growing class, declare that few illusions can survive a honeymoon. Well, I do not know about it, for I only married once, and can only speak from my limited experience. But certainly our illusion, or rather the great truth of which it is the shadow, did survive, as to this day it survives in my heart.

But complete happiness is not allowed in this world even for an hour.

Three days after our wedding Mr. Carson had a stroke. It had been long impending, now it fell. We came into the center hut to dinner and found him lying speechless. At first I thought that he was dying, but this was not so. On the contrary, within four days he recovered his speech and some power of movement. But he never recovered his memory, though he still knew Stella, and sometimes myself. Curiously enough he remembered little Tota best of all three, though occasionally he thought that she was his own daughter in her childhood, and would ask her where her mother was. This state of affairs lasted for some seven months. The old man gradually grew weaker, but he did not die. Of course his condition quite precluded the idea of our leaving Babyan Kraal till all was over. This was the more distressing to me because I had a nervous presentiment that Stella was incurring danger by staying there, and also because the state of her health rendered it desirable that we should reach a civilized region as soon as possible.

At length the end came very suddenly. We were sitting one evening by Mr. Carson's bedside in his hut, when to our astonishment he sat up and spoke.

"I hear you," he said. "Yes, yes, I forgive you. Poor woman! you too have suffered," and he fell back dead.

I have little doubt that he was addressing his lost wife, some vision of whom had flashed across his dying senses. Stella, of course, was overwhelmed with grief at her loss. Till I came her father had been her sole companion, and therefore, as may be imagined, the tie between them was much closer than is usual even in the case of father and daughter. So deeply did she mourn that I began to fear for the effect upon her health. Nor were we the only ones to grieve; all the natives on the settlement called Mr. Carson "father," and as a father they lamented him. The air resounded with the wailing of women, and the men went about with bowed heads, saying that "the sun had set in the heavens, now only the Star (Stella) remained." Indaba-zimbi alone did not mourn. He said that it was best that the Inkoos should die, for what was life worth when one lay like a log?—moreover, that it would have been well for all if he had died sooner.

On the following day we buried him in the little graveyard near the waterfall. It was a sad business and Stella cried very much, in spite of all I could do to comfort her.

That night as I sat outside the hut smoking—for the weather was hot and Stella was lying down inside—old Indaba-zimbi came up, saluted and squatted at my feet.

"What is it, Indaba-zimbi?" I said.

"This, Macumazahn. When are you going to trek towards the coast?"

"I don't know," I answered. "The Star is not fit to travel now; we must wait awhile."

"No, Macumazahn, you must not wait; you must go, and the Star must take her chance. She is strong. It is nothing. All will be well."

"Why do you say so? Why must we go?"

"For this reason, Macumazahn," and he looked cautiously round and spoke low. "The baboons have come back in thousands. All the mountain is full of them."

"I did not know that they had gone," I said.

"Yes," he answered, "they went after the marriage, all but one or two; now they are back, all the baboons in the world, I think. I saw a whole cliff black with them."

"Is that all?" I said, for I saw that he had something behind. "I am not afraid of a pack of baboons."

"No, Macumazahn, it is not all. The babyan-frau, Hendrika, is with them."

Now, nothing had been heard or seen of Hendrika since her expulsion, and though at first she and her threats had haunted me somewhat, by degrees she had to a great extent passed out of my mind, which was fully preoccupied with Stella and my father-in-law's illness. I started violently. "How do you know this?" I asked.

"I know it because I saw her, Macumazahn. She is disguised, she is dressed up in baboon skins, and her face is stained dark. But though she was a long way off I knew her by her size, and I saw the white flesh of her arm when the skins slipped aside. She has come back, Macumazahn, with all the baboons in the world, and she has come back to do evil. Now do you understand why you should trek?"

"Yes," I said, "though I don't see how she and the baboons can harm us. I think that it will be better to go. If necessary we can make the wagons some days before we leave on the journey. Hearken, Indaba-zimbi: say nothing of this to the people, for I do not wish her frightened. And hearken again. Send to the kraals, and see that watchers are set all around the huts and gardens, and kept there night and day. To-morrow we will get the wagons ready, and the next day we will trek."

He nodded his white lock and went to do my bidding, leaving me not a little disturbed—unreasonably so, indeed. It was a strange story. That this woman had the power of conversing with baboons I knew. That was not so very wonderful, seeing that the Bushmen claim to be able to do the same thing, and she had been nurtured by them. But that she had been able to muster them, and by the strength of her human will and intelligence set them in order to forward her ends of revenge, seemed to me so incredible that after reflection my fears grew light. Still I determined to trek.

So I went into Stella, and without saying a word to her of the baboon story, told her I had been thinking matters over, and had come to the conclusion that it was our duty to follow her father's instructions to the letter, and leave Babyan Kraals at once. Into all our talk I need not enter, but the end of it was that she agreed with me, and declared that she could quite well manage the journey.

Nothing happened to disturb us that night, and on the following morning I was up early making preparations. The despair of the people when they learned that we were going to leave them was something quite pitiable. I could only console them by declaring that we were but on a journey, and would return the following year.

"They had lived in the shadow of her father, who was dead," they declared; "ever since they were little they had lived in his shadow. He had received them when they were outcasts and wanderers without a mat to lie on, or a blanket to cover them, and they had grown fat in his shadow. Then he had died, and the Star, their father's daughter, had married me, Macumazahn, and they had believed that I should take their father's place, and let them live in my shadow. But what should they do when there was no one to protect them? The tribes were kept from attacking them by fear of the white man. If he went, they would be eaten up," and so on. Alas! there was but too much foundation for their fears.

I returned to the huts at mid-day to get some dinner. Stella said that she was going to pack during the afternoon, so I did not think it necessary to caution her about going out alone, as I did not wish to allude to the subject of Hendrika and the baboons unless I was obliged to. I told her, however, that I would come back to help her as soon as I could get away. Then I went down to the native kraals to sort out such cattle as had belonged to Mr. Carson from those which belonged to the Kaffirs, for I proposed to take them with us. It was a large herd, and the business took an incalculable time. At length, a little before sundown, I gave it up, and leaving Indaba-zimbi to finish the job, got on my horse and rode homewards.

Arriving, I gave the horse to one of the stable boys, and went into the central hut. There was no sign of Stella, though the things she had been packing lay about the floor. I passed first into our sleeping hut, thence one by one into all the others, but still saw no sign of her. Then I went out, and calling to a Kaffir in the garden asked him if he had seen his mistress.

He answered "yes." He had seen her carrying flowers walking towards the graveyard, holding the little white girl your daughter—as he called her, by the hand, when the sun stood "there," and he pointed to a spot in the horizon where it would have been about an hour and a half before. "The two dogs were with them," he added. I turned and ran towards the graveyard, which was about a quarter of a mile from the huts. Of course there was no reason to be anxious—evidently she had gone to lay the flowers on her father's grave. And yet I was anxious.

When I got near the graveyard I met one of the natives, who, by my orders, had been set round the kraals to watch the place, and noticed that he was rubbing his eyes and yawning. Clearly he had been asleep. I asked him if he had seen his mistress, and he answered that he had not, which under the circumstances was not wonderful. Without stopping to reproach him, I ordered the man to follow me, and went on to the graveyard. There, on Mr. Carson's grave, lay the drooping flowers which Stella had been carrying, and there in the fresh mold was the spoor of Tota's veldschoon, or hide slipper. But where were they?

I ran from the graveyard and called aloud at the top of my voice, but no answer came. Meanwhile the native was more profitably engaged in tracing their spoor. He followed it for about a hundred yards till he came to a clump of mimosa bush that was situated between the stream and the ancient marble quarries just above the waterfall, and at the mouth of the ravine. Here he stopped, and beard him give a startled cry. I rushed to the spot, passed through the trees, and saw this. The little open space in the center of the glade had been the scene of a struggle. There, in the soft earth, were the marks of three human feet—two shod, one naked—Stella's, Tota's and Hendrika's. Nor was this all. There, close by, lay the fragments of the two dogs—they were nothing more—and one baboon, not yet quite dead, which had been bitten in the throat by the dogs. All round us was the spoor of numberless baboons. The full horror of what had happened flashed into my mind.

My wife and Tota had been carried off by the baboons. As yet they had not been killed, for if so their remains would have been found with those of the dogs. They had been carried off. The brutes, acting under the direction of the woman-monkey, Hendrika, had dragged them away to some secret den, there to keep them till they died—or kill them!

TO BE CONTINUED

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD ACHE

they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not stop here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One pill makes a dose. They act strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Nerve Pain Cures.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and cramps. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerviline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 25 cents to try it. Sample bottles and large bottles, at any drug store. Tr Polsons Nerviline.

Their gentle action and good effect o the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. The Burdock Blood Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work. It works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sur to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it. It is money w per t. See Dorenwends advertisementi nother column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day! Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypochosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior o plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks. London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and when it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cents and $1.

Don't Fool.

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold on Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its dealers in offering it for sale for cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Syn'rrons—no sture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son. Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

Amherst Independent says.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

Allan A. Clarke, Amherst, N.S.

Advice to Mothers—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teathing or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind

GUARDIAN

fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sig
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, Agent.

Office—Rossin Block, East Front

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST,

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR OTHER ADULTERANT.

E. W. GILLETT, Toronto, Ont.
Chicago, Ill.
MANUFACTURER OF THE CELEBRATED "GOLD LEAF" YEAST CAKES.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained.

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND THE UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Restoring and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation.

Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE GRADDY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

"The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1868.
Losses paid in 1888..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1888..... $319,206.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—

GRAN UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

It equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Docksah Anti-Clinker Draw Ces or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the r outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly 5 million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $200,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
W HARVEY, agent, Frankford
J. Martin agent Stirling.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors. TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

Bridge St., Belleville,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal though notice and interest allowed

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to registered Outfit Free Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years All goods warranted first class Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont, Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Coy of North America.

Loyd's Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMS PS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

Sailing of Sailing

Sarnia, from Portland, Saturday, Feb. 27th; from Halifax, Sat March 1st; Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th. Oregon from Portland April 27th, from Halifax, April 29th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb 28th.

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebecto Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $80, according to st-amer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privilege

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travel ng public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Lights, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

"Saloon, stateroomns, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where by little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Gran Trunk Railway offices, or to David Torrance & Co. Hospital street, Montreal or

T DONNELLY Agent

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

A few hundered large size cedar post A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

P—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK PILLS

BURDOCK

A PURE CURE.

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

"THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE ADDITION TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable medical treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN

WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

References.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMP'NY

NURSERYMEN,

COLBORNE ONTARIO.

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

—Just opened out at the—

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

D. LOWS WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS MILK. PURGE CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, General Debility, NERVOUS DEBILITY, CURE Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Abuse or Excess in Old or Young, Robust, Noble Manhood fully restored. How to enlarge and strengthen Weak, Shrunken Parts fully explained and proven by 100 days' testimony. Sent sealed, free. Address THE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dressing nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer, and if there was any his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circular wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper, wh n writing

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indiscretion, or abuse, 300 pages, 8vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H Parker, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years practice in Boston, on, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men Office, No. 4 Bulfinch Street.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COLDS COUGHS CURES HOARSENESS ETC

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which mine the theory, and practice of other systems, this is still the greatest, most permanent and popular system of memory training, and is quite as far in advance of the best of the fields of its labors, all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority of the Prof. Loisette's Art of Good Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres. Prospectus free at Memory Culture Institute, 237 Fifth Avenue, New York. Agencies in all parts of the globe have been established. Prof. Loisette's Art of Good Forgetting is so simple that by it man is said only to be being shaded, way of forgetting all that he does not wish to remember, reading, intuitively curved, etc. For Prospectus, Testimonials, Terms, Address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,

Thos. Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all those impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Jaundice, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Sight, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; these and many other kindred complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc.

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. It is safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

REMNANTS!

We are now stock taking at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

and are throwing out all Remnants and odds and ends of stock and are

JOBBING THEM OFF

at what they will bring. We have more remnants than usual this season as a result of our

Great Removal Sale

and we will sacrifice them so as to get our stock into good shape for the spring Reductions in all classes of Winter Goods.

Remnants of Carpets

Very Cheap.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb. 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 9 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods—or by post, Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN,
d1y Tuner.

Opera House Tonight

Miss Nora Clench and her talented supporters will appear at the opera house tonight. The plan is well filled, the best seats have been marked off early last week. A large house is assured.

Change of Management.

Dr. Willson has leased the opera house out and out to H. Tammadge who will conduct it on his own responsibility. The lessee is already corresponding with some special attractions.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it.

DICKENS & SON, Agts.

Police Record.

Frank Thompson was fined $3 at the police court to-day for being drunk and disorderly on Saturday night. Thos. Crawley, Pat Kelly, John King and Thos. Ashton were sent up for thirty days for vagrancy.

Curlinns.

Group No. 1—comprising Odgensburg, Port Hope, Brockville and Belleville will play here to-morrow to see who will represent this district in the final play for the Ontario tankard. Port Hope and Belleville will commence at one o'clock. The winners will play with Brockville in the evening.

Meeting of District Fair Directors.

A meeting of the directors of the Bay of Quinte Agricultural Association was held Saturday afternoon. A deputation was appointed to meet the minister of agriculture at Toronto on Thursday next in reference to the disposal of part of the grant originally given to the Provincial Agricultural and Arts Association. A committee was appointed to discuss the practability of extending the race course on the grounds. Several applications for the secretaryship and caretaking were received and laid on the table.

A Severe Injury.

E. Donald, private secretary for John Bell Q.C., met with an unfortunate accident on Saturday evening. While passing the Balmoral hotel on Bridge street a piece of hard wood was thrown out of the hall way by a chare woman who was engaged in cleaning the stairway. The missil struck Mr. Donald just over the left eye inflicting an ugly wound over an inch in length, and demolishing his hat. Mr. Donald was nearly knocked senseless by the force of the shock.

Ministerial Association.

The Ministerial Association met this morning and appointed Rev. G. H. Copeland, Rev. Dr George and Rev. D. M. Mihell to arrange a programme for the season. It was decided to petition the license commissioners to reduce the number of hotel licenses in the city. Rev. W. H. Barnes introduced the idea of instituting a "law and order society" which was endorsed by the meeting. The rev. gentlemen will read a paper setting forth the aims and objects of this society at the next regular meeting.

The Late Rev. R Robinson

The Rev. R. Robinson who has been confined to his room for several days past breathed his last at six o'clock last night. He was seventy one years of age and leaves a wife and several grow up children to mourn his loss. The deceased was born in Ireland and came to Canada when only 23 years of age. He immediately decided to enter the ministry and took a course at Victoria University. Since his ordination he has held a position in some of the most important churches in the Methodist denomination. He was superannuated several years ago.

DIED.

ROBINSON—At Belleville, Feb. 9, at 6 p. m., Rev. R. Robinson, in his seventy second year.

Funeral from his late residence, west Moira street, Tuesday, Feb. 11, at 1:30 p.m.

TOWN TALK.

Mrs. Lockwood, an old resident of Pinnacle St., past ninty-five years of age died on Saturday of old age. She was buried in the cemetry today

PROBS—Easterly winds: mostly fair weather, with light snow in some localities; stationary or a little higher temperature.

MISSION WORK

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF VOLUNTEER MISSIONARIES.

The Albert College Missionary to Africa Talks of his Chosen Field—A Native Japanese Tells of His Progressive Country.

The services in Bridge St. church Saturday evening in connection with the Missionary Band of Albert College was very well attended. Prof. Dyer, of Albert College, occupied the chair and on the platform were Rev. G. H. Copeland, F. J. Livingstone and Juzo Kono, of Victoria University. The first speaker was F. J. Livingstone and his subject was "Africa." His speech was clear and concise, showing him to be a full master of his subject. There was no name so dear to him as Africa. He thought we should look upon Africans as our brothers and sisters and not as heathens for there was a great responsibility resting upon each one of us as it was our duty to christianize them. Africa has an area of 11,000,000 square miles, with a population of 200,000,000 which is 56 times the population of Canada. If placed in a row 14 yds apart they would encircle the globe 54 times and there is 1 christian to every 2,000 heathens. Their habits and customs are too appalling for description. The principal missions in Africa were Bishop Taylor's mission in the east, being supported by the Episcopal Methodists of the United States; the missionary society on the west, supported by the Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians and some smaller stations on the Congo river. The inhabitants vary in their customs and habits, some being vicious and some kind and gentle. Nearly all of them have a belief in a superior being and a future world. It is the Fetish man who causes the most trouble. He settles all disputes quarrels, etc., by inhuman methods. The most vile practice which causes much crime is polygamy. A man may have as many wives as he is able to buy. He can purchase them for a string of beads, and a man having a large family of daughters is generally well supplied with this world's goods. When a woman dies her children are supposed to take care of themselves, and if not able to do so are left to die. Such a state of affairs shows the need of more missionaries in such a country. When a chief dies, if he has many wives, a number are killed and buried with him, as they believe if he is well accompanied to his future home, he will be more thought of and better cared for. If he is drowned his wives are taken in a boat, tied and sunk so as to accompany him to his future home. When a king dies, his sons commence a war for the throne, and the victor buries the body of his father, which is considered a great honor. Another hideous custom is cannibalism, which is practised to quite an extent in some parts of Africa. It is disgusting for us as Christians, reared in this country to form any idea. They generally capture tender children, dash their brains out, throw them over their shoulders and then have a feast. The slave traffic is also terribly on the increase although it is not generally known. In 1873 the number sold was 1,000,000 now it is twice that number. The Arabs are the most treacherous. They generally go into a village one by one and win the respect and friendship of the natives and when the proper time comes they make their raid and slaughter all the old people and children and capture the strong and healthy as slaves, march them to the coast and there sell them. They fasten the slaves together with yokes made in such a way that they are capable of holding large loads of ivory, grain etc, or whatever plunder they have captured. If they become exhausted and unable to carry their load they are dealt a heavy blow and left to die upon the way. It is a daily occurrence on every road to find the skeleton of these slaves who have been killed in this way, and travellers are seldom in any danger of losing their way as they follow up the trail of these skeletons. A poor weak woman, carrying her child and her load becomes exhausted. Her child is snatched from her and thrown to the wild animals that generally follow these caravans and she knows the consequence if she fails herself.

Mr. Livingston was well informed on his subject and his description of the misery of the population of the properly named Dark Continent was so graphic that the effect on the audience was to depress their spirits.

Mr. Juzo Kono, a native of Japan who has been in this country for nearly five years, was the next speaker. He proved himself to be a remarkably clever speaker as well as good statistician. His subject was "the claims of Japan as a mission field." He said that during the past twenty or twenty-five years the most unparalleled strides in the history of any country had been made in Japan. He spoke in glowing terms of his native land and said that the future of Japan depended a great deal on the progress of Japan. Intercourse with Japan commenced about 300 years ago, when the country was invaded by a colony of Jesuits, but they were soon driven from the country as they were spreading ruin and destruction throughout the land. He hoped there were none present as he would not like to hurt their feelings. Twenty or twenty-five years ago some English and Americans found their way to Japan and they soon found that their services were very much needed and since that time she has prospered most wonderfully. Then the home government sent out 100 of her picked young men to go to Europe to learn the customs, arts and habits of the foreign people, so they could come back and teach their children. This was done to the great advantage and satisfaction of the people. They now have all the modern appliances and usages of European civilization and stand at the head of Asiatic civilization. The commerce and industry of Japan is greatly on the increase. They soon learned that if they wished to maintain their independence they must reorganize and equip a navy and standing army had only a moment's notice she can send 20,000 soldiers to the battle field and 1,000,000 fighting men can be mustered in a short time. But the soldiers, good thing, were under a ruler who could use them for what purpose he wished and they must obey. The Japan ese system of education is their one great redeeming feature and one on which they can boast. Every child must attend school after it is five years of age and they are then sent to higher schools until their education is completed, if they were to pursue any certain profession they are admitted to the University, the greatest school of learning in the world. The Japanese were also noted for their politeness, minus of which they would cease to be of any importance to themselves. Of course, he said you must allow for my five years sojourn in your country which has slightly roughened the edge of my etiquette. (Laughter.) The number of schools in Japan is over 30,000. Put that number in Ontario and you will imagine how education is progressing in Japan. The university of Japan is much higher than any school or college in this country. The professors must know Chinese German, English, Latin, with the history of the whole world both ancient and modern, music, drill etc. The University gets $1,500,000 a year from the government and has 120 professors, 29 being foreign and the rest native. The important question is, "What is the spiritual position of these professors? They are infidels and the worst in the whole country. Why can we not do something, he said, to teach these men the true and only religion and thus save the country from ruin. There are now many missionaries in Japan who were doing great work, but their number was small and they must be reinforced before the country could be converted. When a Japanese conceived an idea he would carry it out at the cost of his life, which accounts for the great progress which the country has made. There are only 20,000 protestant christians in Japan against 40,000,000 heathens or 1 christian to every 2,000 heathens.

Then it is high time for you to consider the great necessity for more help in that country. The crisis is nearing an end. He closed his interesting address by a stirring appeal for the earnest support, prayers and sympathy of the people for the prosperity and welfare of his native country.

At Albert College.

President Patterson occupied the chair at the Sunday afternoon meeting of the convention, at the college chapel. The room was well filled, a large portion of the audience being from the city. The services were varied. While they occupied considerable time they were of unusual interest and more than ordinarily instructive Rev. Principal Dyer opened with prayer and Miss Hettie M. Reid, a popular student of the class of '89, furnished accompaniments for the excellent selections of hymns. W. R. Smith, a matriculant of '89, and now in active ministerial work on the Frankford circuit, gave a well prepared essay on the necessity of supporting missions and was followed by Mr. Massey of Sidney, in a few well chosen, practical remarks. W. S. Boyce was introduced as the geometrical encyclopedia of the class of '89. He is now teaching the young idea how to shoot near Campbellford. His paper was well prepared and interesting. Mr. Mason also read a good paper which treated of the mission work in a general way. Particular interest was attached to Messrs. Smith and Boyce as they belong to the volunteer mission band, and will go to foreign fields as soon as the funds are forthcoming.

Juzo Kono of Victoria University was kept on the floor a good hour and a half answering questions which were handed in on slips of paper from the audience and he good naturedly talked as long as the hard benches would permit his audience to listen in comfort. His replies to the curious conveyed a vast amount of information, giving an insight into the religious, political social and municipal life of his people. Japan from the version which he gave of the country is behind the advanced European countries only in the matter of true religion.

The convention which closed with the Sunday afternoon service has been of much interest to the public and of incalculable benefit to the mission band. It has placed their aim and purpose fully before the people, in a clearer light than it has ever been placed before and its necessity has also been strongly presented.

ANNUAL SERVICES.

The Tabernacle Missionary Services Yesterday

Rev. S. G. Bartlett, of Newtonville preached Missionary sermons in the Tabernacle yesterday. He was listened to attentively by a large congregation. He spoke of the growth of Missionary work during the last century, and of the wonderful development in foreign fields. The responsibility of Christian people had proportionately increased. Although the heathen population was greater today than a hundred years ago the Christian population was even greater still at the present day. A century ago there were 200,000,000 Christians while now there were 431,000,000. While a hundred years ago there were only 900,000,000 unevangelized today there were 1,200,000,000. At the beginning of the present century there were only 300 communicants; now there were 30,000 native teachers and pastors and seven thousand foreign missionaries. In 1860 there was no foreign mission society while to-day there are 150. The rev. gentleman concluded his remarks by stating that the ultimate issue was only a matter of time.

Juzo Kono addressed the congregation at length on the social habits and customs of his people. He predicted a shining future for Japan under their present enlightenment and cited many improvements which Japan made to science, literature, and art. The sacred gospel, he said, could not be circulated too freely in this land of promise. It was only through the influence of God's power that the Japanese could be elevated to a higher throne of eminence among the educated nations of the earth. His people were willing and anxious to acquire knowledge, they had admirable schools and required Christian teachers. Smoking in Japan, the speaker said, was a natural custom and regarded as an essential principal of etiquette. When a visitor walks into a Japanese dwelling a pipe is immediately handed him and he smokes to mine hosts good health. Smoking is not indulged in to excess and yet the natives regard it as a daily necessity. At school the sexes are not allowed to associate. When a social gathering is given the gentlemen are not allowed the privilege of seeing the ladies safely to their homes. The speaker was interesting throughout and enlightened the large congregation on many of the strange customs and features of his native country.

A LAND OF PROMISE.

Men Who Have Made and are Making Their Independence.

William Elvins son of R. Elvins of this city, is conducting one of the largest grocery business in Tacoma in partnership with one Percell. Mr. Elvins has been located there but little over a year and speaks in the highest terms of the country. He says that Washington territory is no exception to the rule. A man to succeed must be a hard worker, shrewd business man and fortunes are not made in a day. There are numerous failures of men who conduct their business on a vast magnitude and expect to make a fortune without an effort. Canadians are the most successful class of people in the west. They generally invest carefully and keep their money where it will beeter the money they make. Mr. Elvins has a store larger than any in Belleville and a business worth a $1,000 a week. They have three delivery waggons and a number of clerks. In Tacoma nearly every business of importance has a paid canvasser to solicit orders throughout the city. A man from Brighton who located in Tacoma fifteen years ago with just a dollar in today worth over two million dollars. Of course it was principally realized from real estate.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Pamphlet on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL. Our Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

A meeting of the school board is called for to morrow night.

THE BAY OF QUINTE.

A CHAPTER OF THE EARLY HISTORY.

A Professor at the Institute Tells How the Bay Received is Name.

Mr. J. B. Ashley's versatile pen contributed the following interesting article to a recent number of Truth.

This picturesque and attractive piece of water has a history that reches back to the French settlement of the St. Lawrence valley, nearly three hundred years ago. It was a favorite resort for the nomadic tribes that inhabited this part of the continent, as its narrow, winding course and thickly wooded shores offered shelter and abundance of game. When Samuel de Champlain made an attempt to assist the Hurons and Algonquins in their struggle with the Iroquois, he returned from his unfortunate expedition to the Georgian Bay region via the Trent River and the Bay of Quinte. What a delightful view may have met the gaze of the veteran navigator as he slowly descended the winding channels with his flotilla of Indian canoes! The primeval forest covered the fertile land that gently sloped to the rippling water, and "Every copse deep tangled, tree irregular, and lush,

Were prodigal of harmony."

It is asserted on good authority that Champlain, unable to reach Quinte, entered at the Moira river, where the city of Belleville now stands. Then the only sound that broke the solitude of the wilderness was the dip of the Indian's paddle or the flight of some animal frightened from its lair.

"Deer also, with heaved stroke,
Was never heard, the Nymphs to daunt
Or fright them from their sacred haunt."

It was not until the Loyalists began from the rebellion of 1783 that a settlement of the Bay of Quinte district was actually begun. During the one hundred and fifty years that intervened between Champlain's disastrous voyage and the coming of the Loyalists the Indians were "monarchs of all they surveyed" in undisputed possession. The Mississaugas, a branch of the Huron tribe, seem to have occupied the territory along the western shores of the Bay, but they were evidently a powerful band, and by the adoption of one process of savage diplomacy they contrived to remain neutral in the fierce struggles that were carried on for many years by the more powerful and warlike tribes. They were, too, subdivided into families or divisions, a peculiarity of the Indian inhabiting Canada that is perpetuated with a confusion of names and localities.

The Bay of Quinte extends from the Carrying Place Isthmus to Kingston, a distance of about seventy miles. The narrow neck of land separating it from Lake Ontario, at the western extremity, received its name from the Indians, who were accustomed to carry their canoes and supplies from one bay of water to the other, when voyaging east or west. It is now crossed by the Murray Canal, which connects the Bay with Lake Ontario, and which will be formally opened for traffic next spring. The shores are now thickly settled, and well cultivated farms, comfortable residences, and all the evidences of a prosperous agricultural community greet the visitor. There are innumerable inlets and coves, favorite resorts for the finny tribe that swarm in the waters of the bay. Deep points and shaded inlets give a pleasing variety to the scenery and afford unsurpassed facilities for fishing, camping and summer pleasures generally.

The bay is divided into two parts, known to the early settlers, as the "upper" and "lower" bays are joined by the "Long Reach" a narrow and exceedingly picturesque channel extending from the thriving town of Deseronto, to the popular summer resort at Glenora, a distance of nearly nine miles. On one side of this beautiful stretch of sparkling water, the Champagne shores of Fredericksburg and Adolphstown invite a contemplation of rural felicity. The cosy farm houses nestle among luxuriant orchards, or peep from among umbrageous maples and giant elms. On the opposite side the rugged hills that mark the outlines of Prince Edward County rise to a considerable height above the water, and form a delightful contrast to the low land referred to. The clear, blue water that laves their base has a depth of ten to fifteen feet, and passenger steamers can sail so near the shore that overhanging boughs brush the decks.

Emerging from the Reach, with the Lake on the Mountain, Glenora, directly ahead, the view, east and west, is most attractive. A large, narrow inlet called Picton Bay reaches several miles towards the west, at the head of which is the beautiful town that gives it a name, made famous by deeds of heroism at the memorable battle of Waterloo. Eastward the lower bay extends in an irregular course for forty miles, terminating at the Lower Gap, in sight of the Limestone City.

The name of this picturesque bay suggests a French origin. There is an interesting romance associated with it, that has been told in prose and poetry, and related as an historical truth, by many of the first settlers. A few miles west of Deseronto and on the opposite, or Prince Edward shore there is a considerable hill sloping gradually towards the water, and composed of a fine sandy loam. Many years ago the plow share turned up a number of human bones, and further search revealed such a collection as to create widespread interest. The enquiries and investigation that followed resulted in the romance referred to. It was stated on the authority of some ancient oracle that in the early years of French domination, when a large extent of territory north of the great lakes was made subject to the power central in forts at Frontenac, Niagara, and other points, an event occurred that gave a name to the Bay. The fort at Niagara was in charge of a brave young officer named Colonel Quinte who with but a small company of French soldiers, was compelled to evacuate the post by an overwhelming number of Iroquois. Marching eastward along the south shore of Lake Ontario, in an attempt to reach Fort Frontenac, the refugees came to the head of the Bay. They took the south shore which they followed until they found further advance impossible owing to the Long Reach which separated them from the mainland. Retracing their course until the sandy hill was reached a camp was formed where the weary wanders determined to wait the formation of ice sufficiently strong to enable them to cross to the opposite shore, as the season was well advanced and the cold was severe. In a few days an attempt was made to cross on the new-formed ice, and when near the middle of the bay the ice broke and a number of soldiers were drowned. Colonel Quinte with the remainder of his men returned to the camp where he soon after died of want and exposure. Nearly all of his soldiers also perished only a few succeeding in reaching their destination.

This is the romance briefly told. It sounds well but unfortunately there are no historical records to sustain it. Dr. Canniff made a thorough search of all papers and documents relating to that period in the history of our country which were placed at his disposal by the authorities at Ottawa and Paris. He could not find any reference to such an officer nor such an event. He did find, however,

(Continued on second page.)

BECOMING DESPERATE.

The Assault on Mr Dingman Recoils on the Aggressor.

The Intelligencer has worked itself into a tight corner by assailing grit hotel keepers in this city and running five and calling upon the council to bring pressure upon the license commissioners to reduce the number of licenses issued by the number named. The ONTARIO charge its contemporary with political partizanship in thus seeking to cut off five grit hotels, when it took refuge behind the allegation that it gave the names as emanating from the Ministerial Association. The secretary of the association in a letter over his own signature denied that the hotels named by the Intelligencer had been under discussion by the association. That paper, thus exposed in its falsehood and attempt to injure political opponents, attacked Mr. Dingman. Not content with insinuating falsehood on his part by stating that his letter was open to suspicion, it changed him with reading a document at the last meeting of the city council as being endorsed by the Ministerial Association whereas it had been objected to by that body. Mr. Dingman replies by stating that the address which he read to the council was before the Ministerial Association and discussed by the members with the result that Rev Mr Copeland and himself were appointed to address the council and Mr. Dingman was given full liberty to either read the paper he had prepared or make an extemporaneous address.

The Intelligencer was defeated again in its malicious attack and left without a point to stand upon. Its position is ludicrous in the extreme when it asks for some one to rise and explain and help it out of its troubles.

Bad Sleighing in the City.

Sleighing in the country was never better than it is now. It is only within the city limits, where men are paid to keep the streets in a proper state of repair, that pitch hole exist. Liverymen complain that the grievance is so annoying that it pays them to keep their large pleasure sleighs in the stables rather than have them twisted out of shape on the uneven thoroughfares.

A COLD LEG.

The Brockville Times is responsible for the following strange story:—"Our readers will remember the accident that happened to Mr. A. McAdoo at the Grand Trunk station some time ago, which necessitated one of his legs being amputated below the knee. He was taken to the general hospital, where he was tenderly cared for until able to be removed to his home in Belleville. Since the injured leg has become healed it has been found impossible to keep it warm. The doctors of that place were of the opinion that if the part of the leg which has been amputated could be procured and warmed it would have a salutary effect upon the remaining portion. Accordingly one of Mr. McAdoo's sons arrived in town yesterday and conveyed away with him the decomposed remains."

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

PROF DORENWEND COMING

WITH HIS IMMENSE DISPLAY OF

HAIR - GOODS

HE WILL BE AT

QUEENS' HOTE

WED. & THURS, FEB, 12TH & 13TH.

When every lady should make it a special point to call and see the Professor's Fine Styles. His assortment this visit will be superb. SWITCHES, BANGS, FRONTPIECES WAVES, WIGS, TOUPEES, etc., articles of which every lady should have one or other for the sake of health, appearance and economy. Even if she has an abundant growth of hair she should have one in order to meet the requirements of a fashionable braddress and to save her own hair. It is a difficult matter to explain the full benefits of wearing Hair Goods, by an advertisement as Prof. Dorenwend asks that ladies call on him whether they intend t. buy or not. If they do not get something now they may later on, and while there is an opportunity it is just as well to learn particulars. For gentlemen who are bald, Prof. D has Toupees and Wigs, that are most perfect. They fit like a Glove, and are as natural as life. A visit to the Show Room will be well repaid. Persons who are already wearing the Professor's goods will do their friends a favor if they will prevail on them to visit the Professor. Remember

AT QUEENS' HOTEL, ON WEDS & THURS., FEB. 12 & 13th.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,
HATTER & FURRIER.

100 PAIRS SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the Large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,
FANCY FLANNEL,
—AND—
CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents Furnishers, Laundry Office,

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELL'S

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: TUESDAY FEBRUARY 11, 1890 | NO 35

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE EGGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Luncheons, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoa nut SugarWafers
Lemon Biscuits — Bonbolit biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES & C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
ass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling Phillip's Best Milwaukee Lagers, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

DOWN - COMES M'GINTY.

And Tumbling right after him are our
HATS, SHIRTS,
UNDERCLOTHING,
TRUNKS and
VALISES!
AT BED ROCK PRICES
See for yourselves and Call at
S. G. RETALLACK
Anglo-American Block.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $675,273.58
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurance in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 1318eowdw

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W. W. CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET — SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

OUR JAPANESE FRIEND
MR. INZO KOUO,
Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our
Japan Teas
These using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.
Wolmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

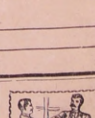
SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Crush Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.,
CAPITAL - $250 000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates
Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.
FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposits. No notice required of withdrawal.
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made



TEN POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS THINK OF IT!
As a Flesh Producer there can be no question but that
SCOTT'S EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites Of Lime and Soda
is without a rival. Many have gained a pound a day by the use of it. It cures
CONSUMPTION,
SCROFULA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS AND COLDS, AND ALL FORMS OF WASTING DISEASES. IN PALATABLE 1/2 & 1 SIZE.
(Genuine made by Scott & Bowne, Belleville. Salmon Wrapper; at all Druggists. 50c. and $1.00.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

FOUND

A SMALL SUM of money was found by a mute boy on Belleville a few days ago The owner may have it by applying at the Superintendent at the Institute for the Deaf & Dumb.

TENDERS.

WILL be received by the undersigned up to April 1st, 1890, for the erection of the BRENEZER STONE CHURCH and LOT, West Huntingdon. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
REV. W. H. LEAROYD,
3td West Huntingdon.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6 d

WANTED.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. R. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply at MRS. W. W. LEE
Feb. 1 Hotel street.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted at once. Apply to MRS. A. MCDONALD
Feb 4 dtf cor. Ann and Charles sts

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen to represent old established nursery; position now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurseries, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T
Will be at the
ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,
Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of testimonials will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address
NEW CURE AGENTS,
24dw Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Gas office No. 60 Bridge street on
Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890
at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.
S. R. EAPLE
1 General Manager.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS,
In the Goods of Charles Muncaster Deceased.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 110, sec. 36, that all persons having claims upon or against the estate of Charles Muncaster late of the city of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, deceased, who died on or about the 11th day of December 1889, are, on or before the 1st Day of March 1890,
to send by post prepaid, or to deliver to Messrs. Cherry & Macaulay barristers, Bridge street, Belleville, solicitors for A. W. Muncaster the executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, a statement in writing of their names and addresses and full particulars of their claims and the nature of all securities if any held by them.
And notice is hereby further given, that after the said last mentioned date, the said executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notices shall have been given as above required. And the said executor will not be responsible for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose claim notice shall not have not been received at aforesaid, at the time of such distribution.
Dated at Belleville, the 27th day of January A D, 1890.
SHERRY & MACAULAY,
Solicitors for the above named executor. R. W. Muncaster, 4td

THE ORANGE BILL.

PASSES ITS SECOND READING IN THE HOUSE

By a Majority of 16 Out of a Total of 154 Votes—60 Members Absent—No Reply Made to Clarke Wallace's Speech.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—The House to-day passed to a second reading Clarke Wallace's bill to incorporate the Grand Orange Lodge of British America. This was done by a vote of 85 to 69 and after but one speech had been made. Externally it was one of the quietest debates and divisions ever witnessed in the House considering the intense feeling that has been exhibited over the measure when brought before Parliament on previous occasions.

Mr. Wallace and his Orange friends from Ontario had matured their plans most carefully, and although the measure stood on the order paper as a private bill yet it had the support of all the Protestant members of the Government, the Roman Catholic ministers voting against it, Mr. Colby's vote being paired with Mr. Kirkpatrick's. On being asked where he stood on the bill the former said he was paired with the member for Frontenac, but he was against the bill. Mr. Costigan, Sir Adolphe Caron and Sir Hector Langevin were against the bill. Sir John Macdonald was the first to vote yea for the second reading.

Out of the 215 members of the House there were but 154 votes recorded. The absentees included the pairs, of which there were eight. Mr. Blake was for the bill, being paired with Mr. Dickey of Nova Scotia. Mr. Scarth was also for the bill, being paired with Dr. Cameron of Inverness. Major Stevenson of Peterboro, who has not been in the House since the death of his wife a couple of weeks ago, was of course for the bill and was paired with Mr. Wood of Brockville.

It was just 3¾ when Mr. Wallace arose in his place and called up the second reading of his bill. He made a 15-minute speech. He said the Grand Orange Lodge of British America asked this act of incorporation not as a favor but as a right. The bill was framed exactly on the same lines as was the act which gave incorporation to the Independent Order of Foresters at the last session. That organization was incorporated without a dissenting voice in the House. The Orangemen, like the Foresters, had a large insurance department in connection with their order and it was for the protection of this branch that the incorporation was principally asked for. Their plan of insurance had been approved of by the superintendent of insurance.

The Orange order was said to be a secret society and should not therefore be incorporated. This was true only in part. Then the Grand Master flashed before the House a copy of the bylaws and general rules of the order. The little book was bound in a deep orange cover. Out that did not seem to give umbrage to anyone.

"Here are the bylaws and rules of the order," said the Grand Master, "and any Presbyterian or any unchanged ass ($5.00-to-$6) can now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurseries, Rochester, N. Y.

"There is nothing secret about them. Our order is founded on Christianity, law and order and fealty to the Empire. I would not be afraid to show our ritualis to any man in this House. We of course have our secret signs and passwords, but that is all. So have the Foresters their secret signs and passwords and they were incorporated without a murmur. We only ask what they got."

By some it was alleged that the Orange order was a political one. As for that the order could speak for itself. There was a good deal of talk at present about annexation to the United States. If ever that came to a direct issue the Orange order would show which side they were on, and with no uncertain sound either.

The Grand Master then proceeded to say that he had omitted from his remarks any religious references. He did not want to give offence to any member of the House and had made his remarks as moderate as possible.

The second reading was then carried on this division:

YEAS.

Archibald, (Sir A.)	Ferguson (Well.)	Prior,
Armstrong,	Foster,	Putnam,
Baird,	Gordon,	Robertson,
Barnard,	Gillies,	Rosamond,
Barron,	Haggart,	Ross,
Bell,	Hesson,	Rowand,
Bowell,	Hickey,	Rykert,
Boyle,	Hudspeth,	Sample,
Brown,	Jamieson,	Shanly,
Bryson,	Jones (Halifax)	Sproule,
Burdett,	Macdonald (Sir J.)	Small,
Cargill,	Macdonald (Hur.)	Smith (Ont.),
Carling,	McCarthy,	Sproule,
Carpenter,	McDella,	Sutherland,
Cheriton,	McDonald (Vic.)	Taylor,
Cochrane,	McDougald (Pict.)	Temple,
Cockburn,	McKay,	Tisdale,
Corby,	McKeen,	Tupper,
Daly,	McNeill,	Trow,
Davies,	Madill,	Tyrwhitt,
Davin,	Mara,	Waldie,
Davis,	Marshall,	Wallace,
Davoud,	Masson,	Ward,
Denison,	Mills (Annap.)	Watson,
Dewdney,	Montgomery,	White (Card.)
Dickinson,	O'Brien,	White (Renf.)
Earle,	Platt,	Wilson (Lan.)
Ferguson (L. & G.)	Porter,	Wood (W.)	82
Ferguson (Renf.)

NAYS.

Amyot,	Dupont,	Lister,
Audet,	Ellis,	Lovitt,
Bain (Soul.)	Flint,	Mackenzie,
Bain (West.)	Fisher,	McIntyre,
Richard,	Fiynn,	McMillan,
Burgess,	Gauthier,	Mason,
Bernier,	Geoffrion,	Meigs,
Boisvert,	Gigault,	Mills (Both.),
Borden,	Girouard,	Moffat,
Bowasseau,	Godbout,	Nesen,
Bowman,	Grandbois,	Patterson (Brant)
Brien,	Guay,	Perry,
Bowers (Sir A.)	Halton,	Rinfret,
Casey,	Janes,	Robillard,
Cangrain,	Jones,	St. Marie
Chapleau,	Jones (Hal.)	Somerville,
Costigan,	Kirk,	Therien,
Coughlin,	Landerkin,	Trow,
Coulure,	Landry,	Weld,
Curran,	Lang'vin (Sir H.)	Vessot,
Daoust,	La Rivière,	Wallace (St. J.)
Desaulnier,	Laurier,	Wallace (Eng.)
Dupuis,	Levesque,	Yeo—69.

PAIRS.

For.	Against
Kirkpatrick,	Colby.
Blake,	Dickey.
Scarth.	Cameron.
Stevenson.	Wood (Brock).

Mr. Charlton rising to a question of privilege asked the attention of the House to an outrage committed in Hull the other day on a Protestant and her party while holding religious services were set upon by a mob and barely escaped without bodily injury. Was this a thing like unto Dem Mexico or some other lawless place and he did not think that this House should allow such an attempt to suppress freedom of speech and religion to pass unnoticed. He wished to know if the Government were taking any action.

The Speaker doubted if this was the proper time to enter into the matter.

Sir John Macdonald said he was not at all sure that this was a question of privilege. Last night he was informed that the Government in common with every lover of law and order must have been very much shocked at the outrage done to a number of persons assembled for a lawful purpose of no matter what nature. Unfortunately these affairs of religion were these most calculated to arouse hostile passions. The law was strong enough, however, in either Ontario or Quebec to put down all such breaches of the peace.

Mr. Laurier said that as one who belonged to the faith said to be that of those who had caused the riot, he must say that their action was very widely different from the principles of the faith they embraced. He had no doubt that the authorities of the city of Hull, who were Catholic authorities, would see that there was no repetition of the outrage. Every form of religion is, and should be, free in this country and must be protected.

A message from the Governor-General was presented with the report of the Fishery Commissioners sent to visit Great Britain and Holland.

Hon. David Mills objected to the expression "Great Britain" instead of "United Britain and Ireland." He wanted to know why "Ireland" was omitted.

Sir John Macdonald said it was a little unfortunate that there was not one short name to cover the whole ground, but the expression "England" and "Great Britain" were commonly used when "Great Britain and Ireland" were meant. He did not know the reason for the omission in this case. Perhaps it was because the herring of Ireland were going in for home rule and did not want to be classified with the herring of England and Scotland. [Laughter]. Then again we often heard of a soldier exclaiming on the field: "I fight and die for England," but never "I will spend my blood for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland."

The balance of the sitting until adjournment was taken up with a discussion of a motion introduced by Mr. Charlton for the appointment of a special committee to enquire into the exodus from Canada. He made an estimate of the total number of Canadians in the States now. The increase of the North American population in the States from 1870 to 1880, if maintained since, would reach a total of more than 1,000,000 Canadians whom he had lost, though we could ill spare them from this country, and there were probably 1,064,000 children born in that country of Canadian parents, giving a total loss of nearly 2,000,000.

He named as the committee Patterson (Essex), Kirkpatrick, Mills (Bothwell), White (Renf.), McMullen, Weldon (Alb.), Somerville, Bryson, the mover, and three French members to be named by Mr. Laurier.

Mr. Carling, the Minister of Agriculture, opposed the committee. He said there was already in existence the large Committee of Agriculture and Immigration quite capable of making an enquiry.

The debate was continued till 10½, the Government followers then took part opposing the motion, the Opposition favoring it.

The motion was voted down on a straight party vote of 74 to 63.

The House adjourned at 10.55.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—At St. Lawrence Market yesterday there were no deliveries by farmers and dealers stocks were small. Dressed hogs are unchanged at $5.50-to-$6. Fresh eggs sold at 18c to 20c. Choice roll butter was steady at 18c to 22c. No poultry offers and prices are purely nominal.

STREET MARKETS.

Owing to the snow storm the receipts on the street yesterday were very light. The roads, however are not blocked and deliveries are expected to become very free during the week, in which case prices may fall.

Wheat—Steady on small offerings. About 250 bushels sold at 87c for fall, 88c for red, 88c for spring and 90c for goose.

Barley—Unchanged, sales, 500 bushels at 38 to 45c.

Hay—There were moderate receipts, and the demand was light, but farmers held for good prices. Timothy sold at $10 to $12 and mixed at $7 to $8.

Straw—Receipts light and prices steady at $7.

No oats or peas were offered.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Poultry—There is almost none in the city, and prices may be said to be merely nominal. Turkeys would bring 12 and 13½c, and geese 10c per pound; chickens 50c to 75c, and ducks 75c to 90c per pair.

Dressed hogs—Receipts are rather light, and all offerings are taken. Dealers pay $5.50 for car lots on track here.

Eggs—There is a fair demand and prices are steady at 15c for fresh. Limed are nominal at 12 to 13c, but are not wanted.

Butter—There is still too much poor stuff and not enough good. Choice tub finds ready sale at 17 and 18c, and good rolls at 14 and 15c. Low grade packed offers at 8 to 14c.

Potatoes—There is a quiet trade doing and prices are steady at 55c to 57c for cars on track. Small lots out of store sell at 65c to 67c.

Baled hay—Choice timothy would bring $10.50 on track, but very little is offering. Mixed is plentiful and not wanted, at $7 to $10.

Baled straw—There is a quiet trade. Oat sells at $6.50 on the track.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports: Wheat firm, demand poor, holders offer sparingly. Corn—steady, demand poor. Spring wheat, 7s 3¾d; red winter, 6s 11d; No. 1 Cal., 7s 3d. Corn, 3s 10d, Peas, 5s 3¼d. Pork, 54s 6d. Lard, 51s 9d. Bacon, 32s to 34s. Cheese, 51s.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat firm, corn sail. Cargoes on passage—Wheat firmer, corn steady. Mark Lane—Wheat, corn and flour firmer. French country markets steady. Weather in England, hard frost. Liverpool—Wheat, spring, corn steady, spring equity, No. 1 Cal. wheat, 7s 3d, ½d dearer; Walla Walla 7s, unchanged.

The Parkhill Tragedy.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 10.—The case of D. McCall of Parkhill came before the magistrate to-day. The Crown Attorney asked for an adjournment, stating that he had received a message from John Blanchard, the brother of the deceased, claiming that there were three important witnesses yet unexamined. The defendant's counsel strongly objected to the case being prolonged, but the magistrate enlarged it for a week.

Twenty Lives Lost in This Storm.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 10.—The storm which prevailed in this section Saturday night and Sunday morning proved most destructive. It is estimated that 20 lives have been lost in the vicinity of Chesapeake Bay.

Chicago Boodlers Released.

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 10.—Five of the boodling Cook County Commissioners who have been in jail for some time for the past two years were released at 5 p.m. to-day. They were Michael Wassman, Adam Ochs, J. E. Vanpelt, Harry Varnell and Michael Loydes.

The Candia Truth.
USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and throat; it never

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH

TO OPEN WITH THE CUSTOMARY FELICITATIONS.

Australian Federation Referred To—A Land Purchase Bill and a Local Government Bill for Ireland Announced—The Duke of Orleans' Escapade.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Lord Salisbury, Lord Roseberry, Mr. Smith and Earl Derby gave to-night to their party adherents the dinners that are customary on the eve of the opening of Parliament. Arnold Morley gave a dinner to the Gladstone Liberals.

The Queen's Speech was read in the ministerial dinners to-night. It opens with a reference to the cordial relations existing between Her Majesty's Government and all foreign countries. Portugal, it says, has acceded to the request of England in regard to Central Africa and the Portuguese Government is doing its best to maintain the friendly relations that have always existed between that country and England. With these endeavors Her Majesty's Government heartily co-operates.

It next alludes to the Brussels conference and expresses the hope and faith that favorable results will be accomplished by it toward the suppression of the slave trade.

Egypt is congratulated upon her financial prosperity and the Samoan settlement is briefly alluded to. There is a promise to lay before Parliament all the papers relating to the Samoan conference and to the extradition treaty with the United States.

Turning to colonial themes, Her Majesty expresses hopes for good results from the Federation scheme in Australia.

In home legislation Ireland will demand a prominent place in the attention of Parliament. Her Majesty is glad to announce a marked diminution in the amount of agrarian crime and a decrease in the number of countries wherein it is found necessary to enforce exceptional provisions of law. There is a promise to introduce a Land Purchase Bill and a Local Government Bill and other measures for improving the material interests of Ireland.

The program of the session further includes for England a land transfer measure, a tithes' bill and an employer's limited liability bill; for Scotland a measure empowering the local authorities to deal with private bill business and proposals for alleviating the distress in the Highlands and for improved dwellings for working people.

An amendment to the law affecting the trustees of savings banks completes the program.

Orleans to Be Lightly Dealt With.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Pradens moved the repeal of the law banishing pretenders to the French throne from the country. The law, he declared, was an exceptional measure. It wounded the patriotic sentiments of the people and prevented the descendants of an illustrious and warlike race from serving their country. He demanded urgency for his motion.

M. Thevenet, Minister of Justice, opposed the motion, holding that it would be unjust to abrogate the law, particularly now that certain alliances had been formed.

Pradene's motion was rejected, 326 to 171.

It is expected the Duke of Orleans will be sentenced to a week's detention and then conducted to the frontier.

The Legitimist party has been greatly bothered by the dilemma presented to it by the escape into which the Duke of Orleans precipitated himself, and is unhappy at the ridiculous spectacle of a prince who has provoked a foolish agitation at a moment when their country. He demanded urgency for his motion. Yet they are restraining from giving vent to any such sentiment by the thought that it would be his majesty for them to admit that the heir of all the Bourbons is not the wisest of men. They have looked for and found two persons upon whom they can lay the blame for the prince's adventure. These persons are the Duchess of Uzes and the Duke of Luynes. The Duke of Luynes is a comrade of Orleans and the Duchess is the mother-in-law of Luynes. It is admitted that a foolish ambition to figure as an organizer of events inspired the Duchess and that working upon the young pretender through Luynes she set him on to this folly.

It is admitted that M. de Pradene's motion in the Chamber of Deputies was a foolish step because it has made the imprisonment of the young duke a party question. The motion presents the Duke as the thin edge of a movement for the repeal of a law that the nation desires to see maintained. Consequently the Government will not, it is believed, pardon the Duke immediately after sentence. He must undergo at least part of the imprisonment assigned by the law and may perhaps be amnestied with other offenders on July 14.

A Joint Manifesto Not Desired.

LISBON, Feb. 10.—The newspaper The Debates denies that the Republicans of Portugal agree with those of Spain in favor of a joint manifesto against Great Britain shall be made from the two countries.

Fugitive Democratic Senators.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 10.—Democratic State Senator Becker, who was brought here by the sheriff Saturday night, was spirited away by the Democrats last night on a special train. He crossed the Idaho-Montana line this morning. All the Democratic senators are now out of the state and the senate is without a quorum. The question now is whether the bills passed Saturday night can become laws. The Lieutenant-Governor is required to sign the bills in the presence of the Senate. The bills are not yet signed. Legal advice will be taken.

Talmage's New Tabernacle.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 10.—The corner stone of Rev. Dr. Talmage's new tabernacle was laid to-day in the presence of a large congregation.

WHEN I was working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

THE T. H. & B. PROJECTORATE.

To Have an Inning Before the Hamilton Railway Committee.

HAMILTON, Feb. 10.—Projector F. C. Helm of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway was in the city yesterday. He left this morning for Brantford, but will return this evening. Mr. J. S. Young is expected to be here to-morrow and he and Mr. Helm will go before the Railway Committee in the evening. Mr. Helm is well satisfied with the branch of the road between Brantford and Waterford, which was opened a short time ago. The promoters of the T., H. & B. will have little to present to the committee that has not already been made public.

There were 81 deaths in this city during January, an increase of 26 over last year.

Henry Findlay was sent to jail for a month on the charge of breaking into Sullivan's liquor store.

The bay is frozen over.

Joseph S. Ralston of this city has drawn $200,000 in a Hungarian lottery.

COTTON AND LIVESTOCK.

Facts from United States Departmental Reports.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The cotton returns of the Department of Agriculture for February give local estimates of the proportion of the crop which has left the plantations. The consolidation comes to 90.4 per cent., leaving 9.6 per cent. still to go forward. About nine-tenths of the crop is therefore reported to be in sight or in small stocks unreported in hands of country merchants, or in transit.

The February report of the Department of Agriculture, which relates to numbers and values of farm animals, shows an increase of horses during the year beyond the increase of population. The aggregate numbers exceed 14,000,000. The improvement in the Central States from the blood of Percherons, Cleveland Bays and English sires continues active. Horse ranches in the Rocky Mountains are improving the stock of that region. Values are nearly everywhere lower than a year ago. Mules have also increased and are estimated at about 2,323,000, held at slightly lower prices than last year. Milch cows aggregate nearly 16,000,000. The increase is general, being shared quite liberally this year by the East and South. Prices show a slight decline as compared with those of last year. The numbers of other cattle continue to increase while prices have fallen in still larger ratio during the year. The number as estimated exceed 39,000,000, an increase of between 10,000,000 and 11,000,000 since 1880, which is larger than the ratio of numbers to population. An increase of about four per cent. in numbers of sheep is indicated. The lowest average price was reported in 1886. The increase in swine has been proportionate to advance in population. The average price has declined.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

It is reported upon good authority that the British Government will propose to Parliament an appropriation of $100,000,000 for the land purchase scheme for Ireland.

The Hamburg Correspondent (Bismarckian organ) declares the Emperor's rescript states fundamental principles merely, and only when it becomes viable to what extent and in what spirit it is proposed to carry out these projects can a final judgment be pronounced.

Prince Ferdinand is changing all the chief commanders in the Bulgarian army.

Numerous arrests have been made in the Bulgarian towns on the Danube of officers' committees involved in the attempt on Ferdinand's life.

The widow and children of the late Conrad Seipp, the brewer, sent to each of the seventeen different charitable institutions in Chicago a sum not less than $5000, nor exceeding $15,000. The total was $155,000.

John Graham, who is at Duluth, has sued O'Connor at San Francisco a challenge to row at Duluth in accordance with the Australian regattas. O'Connor accepted the challenge. The project for a great regatta is growing.

It is reported that the Government has decided that the Duc D'Orleans shall be sentenced Wednesday, to two years' imprisonment, whereupon President Carnot will immediately pardon him and he will be escorted to the frontier and shown out of the country.

The majority of the sovereigns of Europe have telegraphed to the Pope the expression of their sympathies for the loss of his brother.

The great lottery scheme in North Dakota has suddenly collapsed. The friends of the bill in the House moved its indefinite postponement and carried the motion.

F. McBride of Philadelphia whipped Dave O'Leary of New York in five rounds in a contest under the auspices of the Arlington Athletic Club at Buffalo.

It is stated that the Irish Local Government bill which the Government proposes will be based upon the English Local Government bill enacted in 1888. The Daily News says if this is so every Liberal will welcome it as a stepping stone to Home Rule.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt will bring up the Piggott forgeries upon a question of privilege.

France declines the invitation of Germany to an international labor congress. She has already accepted the Swiss invitation to a labor conference to be held in May.

The Gentlemen carried the election in Salt Lake City by a majority of 1,000.

A Sofia correspondent says documents have been seized which contain the names of 40 conspirators who had been deported to Lake Major Panitza whether his conspiracy failed or was successful.

The Pope has decorated the shah of Persia for his kindness to Catholic missions.

The Duke of Aumale will provide counsel to defend the Duke of Orleans at his trial.

Count Andressy has internal cancer.

The New Oklahoma.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The President today signed the proclamation throwing the Sioux lands in South Dakota open to settlement.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

NOTICE.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

NOTICE.
When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 10 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—17½c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; where not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notice.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

SHAMEFUL DECEPTION.

Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries has humiliated himself and won an odium that will seriously impair his usefulness to the ministry. When a man occupying the position that he does will allow himself to wilfully misstate facts for the purpose of gaining an advantage over an enquiring opposition his credit for honesty and integrity are ruined and his influence in the house and country is at an end. While in committee of supplies last week the opposition attacked the wanton expenditure of the present administration for printing and advertising. Mr. Tupper brought down a carefully prepared statement showing that during five years of the Mackenzie Administration the amount paid for newspapers and for advertising was $89,000, and that for the same period under the present government the cost for printing and advertising was but $48,000. The opposition was astounded but were not in a position to refute an authoritative statement which the minister had evidently prepared with care and accuracy. The statement went to the country to the injury of the opposition and to the credit of the government, but the opposition members were suspicious that the figures had been doctored and they delved into the public accounts. The manner of making up accounts has been changed so that it is a most difficult task to follow the expenditure on a given line of work, evidently for the purpose of mystifying enquirers and concealing the extravagance of the government and Mr. Tupper relied upon this fact to save him from detection. It was found from investigation that instead of the Tupper government having spent $68,000 in five years they had squandered nearly $400,000 as compared with the $89,000 for a corresponding number of years during the Mackenzie administration.

Mr. Tupper was confronted with his false figures in the house and sought to excuse his dishonesty by claiming that his statement was intended to cover contingences but the statement, as presented by him and as it is printed in Hansard, reads:

"Statement of amounts paid for subscriptions to and advertising in newspapers during 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888." According to this statement the total amount expended by the Tory Government in 1884 was $10,960. The amount actually expended for advertising alone was $54,079. Mr. Tupper's statement puts the expenditure for 1886 at $11,455. The amount expended for advertising alone was $55,512. Mr. Tupper gives the expenditure for 1887 at $13,405. The actual expenditure for advertising and subscriptions was $54,555. The expenditure for 1888, according to Mr. Tupper's official statement, was $11,853. The actual expenditure was $77,259.

Dr. Landerkin's contention that the lying statement should be expunged from Hansard will be endorsed by all right minded citizens and should be insisted upon by parliament. Ministers of the crown who are infamous enough to resort to such despicable practices are unworthy of public confidence and respect. The people expect honesty and integrity in their ministers.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The deputation to Ottawa to press the government for a subsidy for the Bay of Quinte and Nipissing railway speak in favorable terms of the efforts made by Mr. S. B. Burdett to bring the matter to the favorable view of the government. His personal popularity is great at the capital and his influence with the government, even though he occupies the opposition benches, is as strong as was that of his predecessor, Mr. John White, even though Mr. White had the advantage of being of the same kidney as the majority in the house.

He is Coming.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Profs goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing that a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

DUALISM IN MANITOBA.

PROGRESS OF THE GOVERNMENT IMPEDED.

The French Member for Morris Treats the House to a Surprise—A Point of Order That Was Well Taken—The Attorney General Disgusted.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10.—The Manitoba Legislature resumed its sittings to-night, the galleries being crowded to hear the debate on Mr. Prendergast's resolution to censure the Government for having taken it upon themselves to cause printing The Manitoba Gazette and the orders of the House in the French language.

Mr. Prendergast was not in his seat and Mr. Martin, the French member for Morris created considerable surprise by asking that the order regarding the resolution be discharged. The Government refused to allow this to be done.

The Government then brought up its own measure abolishing the rule of the House which required that all bills, motions, etc., be printed in French. Mr. Martin of Morris asked the Government to postpone consideration of this as several of the French members were unavoidably absent. This was agreed to.

Then Attorney-General Martin brought up his new municipal bill and moved its second reading. Mr. Martin of Morris then raised the point that the bill was out of order, not having been printed in French as required by the rules. This objection the Speaker had no course to sustain and the result was that the Government was blocked and forced to ask for an adjournment, to the evident disgust of the Attorney-General.

Before adjourning the latter forcibly impressed it on the French members that as long as he had anything to do with it the bill would never be printed in French.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

What our Provincial Lawmakers did Yesterday.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—In the Assembly yesterday Mr. Meredith moved for an order of the House for a return showing a copy of the case submitted by the Minister of Education for the opinion of the Judges of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, as to the true construction of certain provisions of the Public School Act relating to separate school supporters. Also the answers given by the judges to the questions submitted by the case. The Minister of Education said "Carried."

Mr. Wood of Hastings got a bill to amend the Registry Act through its first reading yesterday. The measure proposes to provide a cheap and easy process by which receipts for payments on mortgages may be registered by endorsation on the back of the duplicate on file in the registry office.

There is no such provision now, only what is called a partial discharge, which really does not meet the case and is only done at considerable expense. It is proposed to have the fee not more than fifteen cents.

The Attorney-General introduced a bill to expedite the proceedings of constitutional and other provincial questions.

The departmental regulations relative to public schools have been printed. They refer for the most part to school sites and outside premises, school furniture and equipment, course of studies and other matters of routine. But there are also regulations which touch upon the use of French and German text books in Ontario. Here are the amendments:

1. Regulation 6 is amended by adding thereto the following sub-section:

(i) In school sections where the French or German language prevails, the trustees, with the approval of the inspector, may, in addition to the course of study prescribed for public schools, require instruction to be given in reading, grammar and composition to such pupils as are directed by their parents or guardians to study either of those languages, and in all such cases the authorized text-books in French or German shall be used.

2. Regulation 12 is hereby amended by adding thereto the following as sub-sec. 13:

(13) It shall be the duty of the teacher to conduct every exercise and recitation from the text-books prescribed for public schools, in the English language, and all communication between teacher and pupil in regard to matters of discipline and in the management of the school shall be in English, except as far as this is impracticable by reason of the pupil not understanding English. Recitations in French or German may be conducted in the language of the text-book.

3. Regulation 17 is hereby amended by adding thereto the following as sub-sec. 16:

(16) It shall be the duty of the inspector to examine carefully in English every pupil according to the course of studies prescribed for public schools; but he shall be at liberty to use his own discretion as to what explanations he will give in any other language that appears to be better known by the pupil. The standard of efficiency recognized in public schools where the English language only is taught shall be the standard for French and German schools, reasonable allowance being made for pupils whose mother tongue is French or German. The inspector shall report in addition to the Education Department any school in which the regulations respecting the study and use of English are disregarded by the teacher or trustees.

4. The following regulation shall be added to the regulations respecting county model schools:

(1) In all counties where there is a scarcity of teachers qualified to teach English the Board of Examiners for the county, with the approval of the Education Department, may establish a model school for the special training of French or German teachers. Such schools shall hold two sessions each year, and shall, in addition to the ordinary professional course required for county model schools, give a full literary course in English in all the subjects prescribed for third-class teachers' certificates or for district certificates as the board may direct. The final examination for certificates to teach shall be conducted in the English language. There shall also be a final examination in the French or German language in reading, grammar and composition. Boards of examiners shall possess all the powers with respect to such schools as they now possess with respect to county model schools. The regulations governing the inspection of county model schools by the county and departmental inspector shall apply to these schools.

5. Regulation 206 is hereby amended by adding thereto the following words:

Emblems of a denominational character should not be exhibited in a public school during regular school hours.

The Tin Workers' Strike Settled.

BRIDGEWATER, Feb. 10.—The strike of the tin workers has been settled. The masters have conceded the demands of the men.

Prof. Dorenwend Coming

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this will all disappear and capillary additions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stand Prof. Dorwend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first commenced in Toronto it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorwend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorwend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Pangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs. Feb 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

A TARDY WITNESS.

Makes an Important Statement in the Kane Murder Case.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—Something that may possibly affect the fate of Thomas Kane, now lying at the jail under sentence of death, transpired on Saturday. About 10 a.m. Thomas Peers, a cattle dealer, of 60 Stafford-street, in conversing with Weighmaster Dunn at St. Lawrence Market, made a statement bearing upon the murder. He was persuaded to visit the Mayor's office, and in the presence of His Worship, Ald. Frankland and Crown Attorney Badgerow, Peers told the following story:

"On the night of the murder I was returning from the Ontario Bank, where I had been talking to the manager, and about 9 o'clock passed the house of the Kanes. I was then going west along Defoe-street. As I came near the house I saw two men standing in the middle of the road opposite the house and about 50 feet from it. It seemed to me that they had come from Kane's house, but I believe when I first saw them they were standing still.

"As soon as they saw me they hid behind the bank of earth which has been thrown up here. Two boards have been thrown across here as a sidewalk and I had to pass over them. I thought the men meant to tackle me and kept a good look out. After passing where the men were lying behind the bank, I turned round and asked them what they were doing. They didn't want to answer me and slipped off as fast as they could."

TO SEE THE MINISTER.

Kane's Counsel Will Interview Sir John Thompson To-day.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—A last effort to save Kane will be made to-morrow, when his counsel, James A. Macdonald, will interview the Minister of Justice to lay before him the tardy testimony of Peers and endeavor to secure at least a respite until an attempt can be made to ascertain the identity of the two men of whom Peers speaks and what they were about on that night. Mr. Macdonald will be accompanied by John Small, M.P., and several others.

If the minister can be impressed with the reliability of Peers' story it is felt that he will not refuse a stay of execution until the circumstances can be fathomed.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN MONTREAL.

Hon. L. O. Taillon Wins His Libel Suits Against La Patrie.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—The two libel suits of Hon. L. O. Taillon against La Patrie for $30,000 and $10,000 respectively, for two articles which appeared in that paper in September and October, 1888, were decided in favor of the plaintiff by Mr. Justice Loranger yesterday morning. In the articles it was alleged that Hon. Mr. Taillon had stolen the election in Montreal East from Mr. L. O. David by means of marked ballots, but the paper later on admitted that the allegations were false. The judgment is for $500 and $300, and in case that paper does not retract within two weeks $2000 and $500 more.

L'Etendard has it that a cablegram from Rome conveys the information that Dr. Desjardins has been most successful in settling the Laval-Victoria difficulty. Dr. Desjardins is on the Victoria side, though not an extremist.

The ropemakers of this city recently received telegrams asking them to meet a deputation from a large cordage company of New York at the Windsor Hotel. One of those who attended, when asked as to the nature of the business, said to-day that it could be summed up in a few words: "You must buy your hemp from us or we will step in here and start opposition cordage works." So far as he was concerned he would have nothing to do with it. He did not carry a large stock and it would not affect him as it might the larger manufacturers. It appears that at least one large firm in this city is interesting itself in the matter and has had frequent interviews with the members of the deputation, although it is believed no definite arrangement has yet been made. The New York company is a very powerful concern, controlling as it does a large portion of the world's production of fibre. It proposes to supply the whole Canadian demand if established here.

QUITE A STUMP.

Forty Men Can Stand On It, and the Tree Would Furnish Rails to Fence a Farm.

Undoubtedly the largest stump in the State of Washington is the one located just below Snohomish City, on the farm of W. S. Clay. It is a huge Cedar, and its diameter is twenty feet—a surface sufficient for forty men to stand upon. The tree was burned down some sixteen years ago, and its wood was used for fence rails, shingles, &c. There was enough material in the tree to furnish rails for the fencing of a large Texas farm.

The wood is red cedar and is similar to the timber from which lead pencils are made, and would also be cherished by any builder for the special wood finish and decoration of a house. The farm, upon which the stump is, was taken up as a homestead by Royal Haskell in the year 1873. Mr. Haskell continued to improve the farm for a period of ten years. It was by his hands and his sons' that the giant tree was prostrated by the agency of the flames, and its bulk—to other trees as the elephant to the horse—formed an article of plentiful distribution and utility.

A log ten feet in diameter is the largest that can be sawed by any mill now on Puget Sound, and even then there has to be two saws, one above the other, each with an immense sweep. Allowing two feet in every twenty for the tapering of the tree, there would need to be five twenty-foot logs cut off a tree, the diameter of which is twenty feet at the bottom, before it could be sawed by any of our mills. The red woods of California have to be quartered by blasting before they can enter the mills. The same plan has to be followed in Washington, where the tree is of exceptional size.

Two years ago the stump was photographed, when five horses, standing abreast, three feet apart, and thirty men were upon it. Such a photo is now in possession of the writer and others in Snohomish. A circle, whose diameter is 20 feet, must be 63 feet in circumference, and contains an area of 314 square feet. The tree belonging to the big stump was 80 feet in height, and its volume was, therefore, 6,274 cubic feet. This was a giant! Poetry has lauded the majestic oak, but its size is often eclipsed by Washington's cedars.

The people of this State are aware of the high estimation of our shingles in eastern markets. They are manufactured entirely from the cedar, and are actually larger than the ordinary fir. It is no exaggeration to say that a tree like the giant above mentioned would last a shingle mill of considerable capacity through three months' sawing. No crosscut saw yet manufactured is large enough to make a cut through such a tree at the butt; and if there were, it would take two men two days to saw a tree of that size.—Seattle Press.

Seal Skin Sacques $1.00 Each!

This is a great offer. It must immune the army of ladies that will besiege the store until the last sacque is gone—if the bargain is ever offered. But how much more wonderful an opportunity is that present of a very suffering woman by the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This remedy is a guaranteed cure for all those distressing ailments peculiar to the weaker sex. It is guaranteed that if it does not effect a cure money will be refunded. It is carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to womans delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system, and is sold under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded.

For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets; Purely Vegetable. One a dose.

IF A BODY MEET A BODY

the result is a collision, whether "coming thro' the rye" or not. Life is full of collisions. We are constantly colliding with somebody or something. If it isn't with our neighbors it is with some dread disease that "knocks us off the track" and perhaps disables us for life. Women especially it seems, have to bear the brunt of more collisions and afflictions than mankind. In all cases of nervousness, bearing-down sensations, tenderness, periodical pains, sick headache, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration and all "female irregularities" and "weaknesses," Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the rescue of women as no other medicine does. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. See guarantee on bottle-wrapper.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

Dr. PIERCE'S PELLETS

regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. They are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. One a Dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

THE GREAT INDIAN
MIXTURE,
BLOOD PURIFIER
AND
Indian Pain King
For sale only at
R. TEMPLETON

CUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctors bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless, by day, restless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, whose appetites and peace are by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspaptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by invigorating the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces. Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes the diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, eruptions, erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak. Uninterrupted rough digestion may be insured, the secretive activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the add Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier ever introduced into Canada.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. d&wly

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & Attorneys at Law, Canada Chambers, Bank of Quebec, Belleville Ontario, Canada. Office—Front St. Opposite Victoria. Branch Office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, Q.C. | C. J. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, B.A.

Lyon & Benedict

ATTORNEYS, Solicitors, Notary Public, Conveyancers, etc. Office: Anchor Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent.

W. A. P. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 to loan at 6 per cent. Low charges. Office—Stirling, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express Company Office. Dominion Block, Bridge street, Belleville. Private funds available. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada.

John A. Foster,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, etc. Office Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to office of E. B. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Bridge street E. Belleville, Ont. G. O. J. SHERRY, Q. C. | D. MACAULAY. Private and company funds to loan at low rates of interest.

Henderson & Hondebrink

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, etc. Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets, Belleville, Ont.

H. HENDERSON, Q.C., | F. G. HONDEBRINK, County Crown Attorney. Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co. Hse.)

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court. Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Corporation Hall, opposite Post Office Belleville, next W. Rock Made.

A. McDONALD.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario.

JOHN BELL, Q. C. | H. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

S. TRAY, M.D.,

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand). Dentistry a specialty. References J. P. Wiser & Son, Ed. Rooney, Brooker le Telephone connect.

Elizabeth Embury M.D., C.M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Hoi and's jewellery store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. E. Lecturer on Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College, Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary.

OFFICE—90 College Avenue, Toronto.

S. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S

(HOMOEOPATHIST)

Graduate of Public University of Medicine, Cincinnatti, Fellow of the Mahommanian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr. Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGille University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES
General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc.
Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butle

Issuer Marriage licenses and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all case Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. G Vandusen will receive prompt attent on. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville:

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

ARE YOU
ONE
OF THEM?

In 1890
The Home Seeker	Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana. Reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.
The Health Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.
The Manufacturer	takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist	takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.
The Traveller	takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher	takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone	will receive maps, books and guides of the regions reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Ry. on writing J. F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE
FRONT St Belleville

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY AT

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc., Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China, also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc. for decorating.

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

MENIER CHOCOLATE
UNRIVALLED. UNEQUALLED.
PUREST IN THE WORLD.
CONTAINS no CHEMICALS or ADULTERATIONS.
Paris Exposition, 1889 3 GRAND PRIZES. 3 GOLD MEDALS.
Ask your Grocer for
MENIER CHOCOLATE (YELLOW WRAPPER).
For Sale Everywhere.
BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

Call an see them at

CONGER BROS,

We sell our Stock of Crockery, China and Glassware for CASH, as well as given away as Prizes with our TEAS and COFFEES and ELEVATOR BAKING POWDER

Call and cause to show goods

The best Food to impart Strength

This is the testimony of all who have used

JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF

The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food
It contains "Albumen"—"Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phosphates.
In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Head all gone. Scalp covered with eruption. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he scratched himself. His scalp was covered with crusts on which the doctor said was small pox, and that his hair would never grow again. Then, after using a few pots of CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, and a little CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I can say it was the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to every mother on the most positive, conscientious, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. E. WINDSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—cured as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. CARTER, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier, and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 35.; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pgs. 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES (Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weakness) relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

RADIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE,

A. R CHOWN.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF "ALLAN QUATERMAIN" "SHE" "JESS" &c.

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

For a moment I literally staggered beneath the terror of the shock. Then I roused myself from my despair. I bade the native run and alarm the people at the kraals, telling them to come armed, and bring my guns and ammunition. He went like the wind, and I turned to follow the spoor. For a few yards it was plain enough—Stella had been drag-ging. I could see where her heels had struck the ground; the child-had, I presumed, been carried—at least there were no marks of her feet. At the water's edge the spoor vanished. The water was shallow, and they had gone along in it, or at least Hendrika and her victim had in order to obliterate the trail. I could see where a tree-grown stone had been freshly turned over in the water bed. I ran along the bank some way up the ravine, in the vain hope of catching a sight of them. Presently I heard a bark in the cliffs above me; it was answered by another, and then I saw that scores of baboons were hidden about among the rocks on either side, and were slowly swinging themselves down to bar the path. To go on unarmed as I was would be useless. I should only be torn to pieces as the dogs had been. So I turned and fled back toward the huts. As I drew near I could see that my messenger had roused the settlement, for natives with spears and kerries in their hands were running up towards the kraals. When I reached the hut I met old Indaba-zimbi, who wore a very serious face.

"So the evil has fallen, Macumazahn," he said.

"It has fallen," I answered.

"Keep a good heart, Macumazahn," he said again. "She is not dead, nor is the little maid, and before they die we shall find them. Remember this, Hendrika loves her. She will not harm her or allow the babyans to harm her. She will try to hide her away from you—that is all."

"Pray God that we may find her," I groaned. "The light is going fast."

"The moon rises in three hours," he answered. "We will search by moonlight. It is useless to start now; see, the sun sinks. Let us get the men together, eat and make things ready. Hamba gahle. Hasten slowly, Macumazahn."

As there was no help I took his advice. I could eat no food, but I packed some up to take with us, and made ready ropes and a rough kind of litter. If we found them they would scarcely be able to walk. Ah! if we found them! How slowly the time passed! It seemed hours before the moon rose. But at last it did rise.

Then we started. In all we were about a hundred men, but we only mustered five guns between us, my elephant rifle and four that had belonged to Mr. Carson.

CHAPTER XII.

Regained the spot by the stream where Stella had been taken. The natives looked at the torn fragments of the dogs, and at the marks of violence, and I heard them swearing to each other that whether the Star lived or died they would not rest till they had exterminated every baboon on Babyan's peak. I echoed the oath, and, as shall be seen, we kept it.

We started on along the stream, following the spoor of the baboons as we best could. But the stream left no spoor, and the hard, rocky banks but little. Still we wandered on. All night we wandered through the lonely moonlit valleys, startling the silence into a thousand echoes with our cries. But no answer came to them. In vain our eyes searched the sides of precipices formed of water river rocks fantastically piled one upon another; in vain we searched through endless dells and fern clad crannies. There was nothing to be found. How could we expect to find two human beings hidden away in the recesses of this vast stretch of mountain ground, which no man yet had ever fully explored? They were lost, and in all human probability lost for ever.

To and fro we wandered hopelessly, till at last dawn found us footsore and weary nearly at the spot whence we had started. We sat down waiting for the sun to rise, and the men ate of such food as they had brought with them, and sent to the kraals for more.

I sat upon a stone with a breaking heart. I cannot describe my feelings. Let the reader put himself in my position and perhaps he may get some idea of them. Near me was old Indaba-zimbi, who sat staring straight before him as though he were looking into space, and taking note of what went on there. An idea struck me. This man had some occult power. Several times during our adventures he had prophesied, and in every case his prophecies had proved true. He it was who, when we escaped from the Zulu Impi, had told me to steer north, because there we should find the place of a white man who lived under the shadow of a great peak that was full of baboons. Perhaps he could help in this extremity—at any rate it was worth trying.

"Indaba-zimbi," I said, "you say that you can send your spirit through the doors of space and see what we cannot see. At the least I know that you can do strange things. Can you not help me now? If you can, and will save her, I will give you half the cattle that we have here."

"I never said anything of the sort, Macumazahn," he answered. "I do things; I do not talk about them. Neither do I seek reward for what I do. Like a common witch doctor. It is well that you have asked me to use my wisdom, Macumazahn, for I should not have used it again without being asked—no, not even for the sake of the Star and yourself, whom I love, for if so my spirit would have been angry. In the other matters I had a part, for my life was concerned as well as yours; but in this matter I have no part, and therefore I might not use my wisdom unless you thought well to call upon my spirit. However, it would have been no good to ask me before, for I have only just found the herb I want," and he produced a handful of leaves of a plant that was unfamiliar to me. It was a small shrub, shaped very much like those of the common English nettle.

"Now, Macumazahn," he went on, "bid the men leave us alone, and follow me presently to the little glade down there by the water."

I did so. When I reached the glade I found Indaba-zimbi kindling a small fire under the shadow of a tree by the edge of the water.

"Sit there, Macumazahn," he said, pointing to a stone near the fire, "and do not be surprised or be frightened at anything you see. If you move or call out we shall learn nothing."

I sat down and watched. When the fire was slight and burning brightly the old fellow stripped himself stark naked, and, going to the foot of the pool, dipped himself in the water. Then he came back shivering with the cold, and, leaning over the little fire, threw leaves of the plant I have mentioned into his mouth and began to chew them, muttering as he chewed. Most of the remaining leaves he threw onto the fire. A dense smoke rose from them, but he held his head in this smoke and drew it down into his lungs till I saw that he was exhibiting every sign of suffocation. The veins in his throat and chest swelled, he gasped loudly, and his eyes, from which tears were streaming, seemed as though they were going to start from his head. Presently he fell over on his side, and lay senseless. I was terribly alarmed, and my first impulse was to run to his assistance, but fortunately I remembered his caution and sat quiet.

Indaba-zimbi lay on the ground like a person quite dead. His limbs had all the utter relaxation of death. But as I watched I saw them begin to stiffen, exactly as though rigor mortis had set in. Then, to my astonishment, I perceived them once more relax, and this time there appeared upon his chest the stain of decomposition. It spread and spread; in three minutes the man, to all appearance, was a livid corpse.

I sat amazed watching this uncanny sight, and wondering if any further natural process was about to be enacted. Perhaps Indaba-zimbi was going to fall to dust before my eyes. As I watched I observed that the discoloration was beginning to fade. First it vanished from the extremities, then from the larger limbs, and lastly from the trunk. Then in turn came the third stage of relaxation, the second stage of stiffness or rigor, and the first stage of after-death collapse. When all these had rapidly succeeded each other, Indaba-zimbi quietly woke up.

I was too astonished to speak; I simply looked at him with my mouth open.

"Well, Macumazahn," he said, putting his head on one side like a bird and nodding his white lock in a comical fashion, "it is all right; I have seen her."

"Seen who?" I said.

"The Star, your wife, and the little maid. They are much frightened, but unharmed. The babyan-frau watches them. She is mad, but the baboons obey her and do not hurt them. The Star was sleeping from weariness, so I whispered in her ear and told her not to be frightened, for you would soon rescue her, and that meanwhile she must seem to be pleased to have Hendrika near her."

"You whispered in her ear?" I said. "How could you reach her in her ear?"

"Bah! Macumazahn. How could I seem to die and go rotten before your eyes? You don't know, do you? Well, I will tell you one thing. I had to die to pass the doors of space, as you call them. I had to draw all the healthy strength and life from my body in order to gather power to speak with the Star. It was a dangerous business, Macumazahn, for if I had let things go a little further they must have stopped so, and there would have been an end of Indaba-zimbi. Ah, you white men, you know so much that you think you know everything. But you don't. You are always staring at the clouds and can't see the things that lie at your feet. You hardly believe me now, do you, Macumazahn? Well, I will show you. Have you anything on you that the Star has touched or worn?"

I thought for a moment, and said that I had a lock of her hair in my pocket-book. He told me to give it to him. I did so. Going to the fire, he lit the lock of hair in the flame, and let it burn to ashes, which he caught in his left hand. These ashes he mixed up in a paste with the juice of one of the leaves of the plant I have spoken of.

"Now, Macumazahn, shut your eyes," he said.

I did so, and he rubbed his paste on my eyelids. At first it burnt me, then my head swam strangely. Presently this effect passed off, and my brain was perfectly clear again, but I could not feel the ground with my feet. Indaba-zimbi led me to the side of the stream. Beneath us was a pool of beautifully clear water.

"Look into the pool, Macumazahn," said Indaba-zimbi, and his voice sounded hollow and far away in my ears.

I looked. The water grew dark; it cleared, and in it I saw a picture. I saw a cave with a fire burning in it. Against the wall of the cave rested Stella. Her dress was torn almost off her, she looked dreadfully pale and weary, and her eyelids were red as though with weeping. But she slept, and I could almost think that I saw her lips shape my name in her sleep. Close to her, her head upon Stella's breast, was little Tickie, who had a skin brown over her to keep out the night cold. The child was awake, and appeared to be moaning with fear. By the fire, and in such a position that the light fell full upon her face, and engaged in cooking something in a rough pot shaped from wood, sat the baboon-woman, Hendrika. She was clothed in baboon skins, and her face had been rubbed with some dark stain, which was, however, wearing off.

TO BE CONTINUED

I dcn't care who a sp cinted to the Baltimore post office, said General Johnson t the President, but I do insist that Pcook use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking powder. I am done with powder contais

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a disordered state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

SICK HEADACHE

HEAD ACHE

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pills Small Dose. Small Price.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures dantelence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea children and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, toothache and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, backache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerviline cures sprains, bruises, cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Samples and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polson's Nerviline.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. CARTER'S Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Poison Bottles of The Rain

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplies fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it in money w per t. See Dorenwends advertisement another column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes, toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline sold all over the world. It is far superior o plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. W. Martin Allen Station, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

Don't Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure or refund the money paid for it in all scrofulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cts. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of poisons, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

GUARDIAN Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.
W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.
Office: Dominion Block, First Floor 43

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Phosphates, OR ADULTERANT WHEREVER SOLD.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO. CHICAGO ILL.

THE GENUINE ARTICLE BEARS THE ABOVE TRADE MARK.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotency, Sexual Diseases, &c. In one Vol. Quarto, Illustrated. Over 500 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescriptions for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WH PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years experience in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass. When you write mention this paper.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxed Nervous Energy, and ruining the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess the great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.
Losses paid in 1888 ..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1888 ... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Has equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every one guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Ceaser or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y.

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the ordinary risks, and farm property; take no consideration in manufacturing risks, and are therefore safe and just in sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to a handsome and successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000. Capital, $300,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of $100,000. Parties desiring to insure their dwelling, farm or farm property will find this company a safe one and guaranteed at rates reasonable.

A. M. CLARK, District agent, Belleville.
W. HARVEY, agent, Belleville.
S. Marks, agent, Northport.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURE BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN, and every species of disease arising from disorder of the KIDNEYS, STOMACH, or BOWELS.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—Of—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 30 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

THE WESTERN Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Toy Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th; from Halifax, Sat March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th from Halifax Sat. March 16th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES.

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 26th.

Rates of passage, Liverpool or Londonderry Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $80, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privilege

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow

Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, Lon don, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

Saloon, staterooms, smoking rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to HANSON TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or

T. DONNELLY Agent

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

AT

DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

A few hundred large size cedar post A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel Chatham frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

P S—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK BLOOD PILLS

SUGAR COATED

A SURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if we think the man we hire has no previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to any business house. Address, Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY

NURSERYMEN,

COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

AN XTENISVE ASSORTMENT OF

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEETAS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE CURE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, NERVOUS DEBILITY, Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Abuse or Excess or Other Causes, Full strength, Development and Tone given to every Nerve, Muscle and Organ of the Body. Simple, Natural, Direct. Results in 14 days. Will cure any case that can be cured. Full particulars (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can no sale for. Shop and manufactory, Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

DR. DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Ba, Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and wigs you wear, any his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circular showing you all the full particulars of all kinds of hair goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper, when writing.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indiscretion or excess. 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescriptions for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WH PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years experience in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass. When you write mention this paper.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS & HOARSENESS ETC.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and are pronounced worthless, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "bogus prospectus" which of the truth of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority of his teaching) Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as the Standard Work on Memory Culture. His Prospectus, containing testimonials from eminent people of the globe who have adopted his system, sent free on application, showing how his system is used only while being studied, not after, and how, from a mere memory, it becomes a powerful reasoning, mind-quickening curse, etc. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials, address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,

Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities that cause the disease of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc.

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St op Ang o-American.

EVERY ATOM Carefully Prepared in the KIDNEY CURE

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try anymore until I had a sample of your pills. I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours, HENRY LIGHT

P.S. You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. YOU RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest Manufacturing Establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at from to prices with Trusses. Every order made specially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc. always in stock. Pronounced by all honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE

Surgical Machinist & Mfr.

154 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

REMNANTS!

We are now stock taking at the

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

and are throwing out all Remnants and odds and ends of stock and are

JOBBING THEM OFF

at what they will bring. We have more remnants than usual this season as a result of our

Great Removal Sale

and we will sacrifice them so as to get our stock into good snap for the spring Redictions in all classes of Winter Goods.

Remnants of Carpets

Very Cheap.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb. 1890

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

EMBARRASSING ERROR OF AN ARDENT ADMIRER.

No Alleged Infatuation of a Young Man—The Charmer Was Reinforced by a Policeman.

A rather spicy item of gossip has just leaked out concerning two respectable members of Belleville's society. The name of the parties are withheld for obvious reasons. As the story is now going the rounds it appears that a certain young married man addressed a letter to a lady to whom he confessed an infatuation and asked for a meeting naming a quiet retreat where he could join her for a walk. Unfortunately the man used an envel op on which was printed the name and post office box of another firm but did not subscribe his name. The young lady who is a dashing brunette was highly indignant upon the receipt of the letter and at once handed it over to Chief of Police Newlands. The chief at once commenced to look into the case and his natural suspicion rested on the individual whose name was printed on the envelope, who by the way was a respectable married gentleman with a large family of children. He of course stoutly denied any knowledge of the letter and an officer was stationed in the vicinity of the meeting place to await developments. It had previously been arranged that the young lady should meet the gentleman as proposed. It was not long before the officer or watch was astonished by the appearance of a well-known man about town as he sauntered slowly up the street and carelessly stopped at the appointed place and looked around for the other party to the arrangement. She was not far away and soon appeared in an opposite direction and walked coolly past her bold admirer who courteously raised his hat and stopped quickly up to her side, and said "good evening." Before the drama could be advanced sufficiently to implicate the man as author of the letter the policeman appeared on the scene and stopped all further approaches. The man was accused of writing the letter but he coolly denied it and said the had only been mistaken in the lady. He had made no improper approches to the lady and the crestfallen officer was forced to report to his superior that he could not make out a case. The lady was fair tempted to carry the matter to the police court but refrained upon advice.

THE INSTITUTE

Annual Report of the Government Inspector.

Mr. K. Christie in his nineteenth annual report of his inspection of the deaf and dumb institute this city, says:

In presenting the nineteenth annual report upon the operations of this institution I have have much pleasure in stating that there is abundant evidence of unabated interest on the part of the superintendent and staff of teachers in the work of instructing the pupils committed to their charge.

During my official visits it has been gratifying to note, in many instances, the steady progress of the pupils in literary attainments as well as in their good manners and more cultivated appearance and bearing generally, as the result of their training in the institution.

Their instruction in industrial and domestic work, which is of such great importance in fitting the pupils for active efforts in their own behalf is thoroughly attended to. And all the means at command in the Institution are employed to afford them the best opportunities for acquiring useful knowledge and training in such employments.

By perusal of the Superintendent's Report, it will be noted that his recommendation in this regard, if adopted, would materially increase the lines of instruction in the Institution, and could afford the active in mind and body better chances for self-support in after life. This would, no doubt, result from instruction in the art of printing, which he recommends, in the event in a thorough training in that employment being one of the branches taught pupils who have an aptitude for it. Many other matters of importance with a view of increasing the efficiency and advantages of the Institution are discussed, and of those already adopted, and may well be hoped that no small measure of interest and benefit will accrue from granting certificates for good conduct and general efficiency, and diplomas to those pupils who after a full course of instruction graduate satisfactorily.

"Although my inspection was a pleasant one, as I could find but little to find fault with and much to commend, and I have therefore pleasure in expressing my satisfaction with the general good management of the Institution, both in its educational and domestic concerns."

Credit Sale of Farm Stock and Implements.

On Wednesday, February 12th at 12 o'clock sharp lot 28 in the 4th concession of Thurlow, 6 cows, 1 spring calf, 1 bay mare 7 years old, 1 black mare, 12 years old, 1 black colt coming 2 years old, 1 reaper, 2 harrows, 1 set double harness, 1 set single harness, 2 steel plows (Brown make), 1 steel plow (Walker make), 1 steel plow, (Dominion make), 1 gang plow, 1 2 wheel cultivator, 2 2 wheel horse rake, 1 corn cultivator, 1 straw cutter, 1 fanning mill, (Brown make), 1 lumber wagon, 1 milk waggon, a democrat waggon, 1 cutter, 2 lumber sleighs, 2 milk cans, 1 stone boat, 1 cooler, 1 seed drill, a quantity of hay and straw, and other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms of sale:—All under $10 cash; all over that amount 9 months credit by furnishing approved endorsed notes at 6 per cent interest. Four per cent off for cash.

A. Keys, Auctioneer. John A. Robin, Owner.

Consumption can be Cured

By proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specities in their fullest form. Dr. D. D McDonald, Pedicodia, N. B. says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

The Cheapest and Best.

(Extract from a letter from an agent at Carleton Place, Ont., dated January 29, 1890)

"Three other houses wanted me to sell their Stanley books, all claiming theirs to be the real, genuine article. In fact, two stuck out for the respectuses; but after a careful examination of each I find that yours is the cheapest and best of the lot, so I will stick to it." I d w Literary Notes.

How Uncle Sam makes his paper money will be described and explained by Franklin P. Smith in an illustrated Supplement on "The Bureau of engraving and printing," which will appear in the number of Harper's Weekly to be published February 12th.

Swimming Niagara.

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and Strengthen the entire system at the same time.

CONCERT.

Miss Clench a Tardy Favorite—Caldwell Delight an Important Audience.

Miss Nettie Mercand her talented supporters have left, and gone and the seat holders at the affair are unanimous and unstinted in commendation of the entertainment. All that has been said in praise of Miss Clench has been verified, and Mrs Caldwell can receive but meagre justice in a brief notice. She is no stranger to a Belleville audience, and her each succeeding appearance but rivets the hold that she has upon her admirers. Her every note is a melody and her bright and sprightly manner is an inspiration. Had she been so inclined she could have sung the night through and received an encore in the morning.

Miss Clench is a finished violinist, one that Canadians may well take pride in. Her modesty and chaste simplicity win favor and her manipulation of her instrument the rest. She does not take her audience by storm but her conquest is nevertheless complete.

Mr. Warrington has a good baritone voice and sang well. Miss Colvin is an accomplished pianist and an excellent accompanist.

ARCHBISHOP CLEARY.

Asks His Flock to Support the Separate Schools—A Pastoral Issued.

On Sunday all Roman catholic electors who attended St. Mary's cathedral, Kingston, were requested to sign a declaration, adopted by the archbishops and bishops of Ontario recently, testifying that they are supporters of the separate schools. This step is taken as there is a difference of opinion as to who are separate school supporters. His grace has the following pastoral to his clergy and people:

"The pastor is urgently required to use all diligence in securing the signature of every catholic possessing ratable property in his separate school section. He is directly responsible to the church and cannot transfer his duty to any other. He will, however, do well to interest the active cooperation of the separate school trustees and other persons of influence in the district for bringing this most important work to a successful issue.

"The present and future of our catholic school system depend upon it. The enemies of our holy religion are zealously laboring to undermine and gradually destroy it throughout the province, and it is the duty of the pastor and every good catholic to leave nothing undone for the cause of religion and education in the present distressing crisis.

"The catholic man who would abandon his church in this hour of trial by withdrawing his school tax from the catholic school and transferring it to the public school thereby siding with the enemy and dishonoring and injuring the catholic church as far as in him lies, cannot complain if he be counted a traitor to his religion, and consequently be deprived of the religious privileges and helps of grace which the church of God dispenses to her faithful and loyal children in life and at the hour of death. We confidently hope that no such black sheep shall be found among our flock in the diocese of Kingston."

A MILLIONAIRE'S WILL.

How Senator Macdonald Disposed of his Great Wealth.

Hon. John Macdonald leaves an estate of about $1,600,000. To his eldest son, John Macdonald, is left $75,000, and to the second, Fraser, $25,000. To each of the two children is left $100,000. The widow is to be paid $10,000 per year, Alexander Macdonald, brother, will receive $20,000, and James Macdonald, half brother, $12,000. "Oaklands," the family homestead, valued at $350,000 is left to the sons, John and Fraser. In addition to the $40,000 already given to the hospital in Queen's park, that institution will receive $90,000, and Victoria University is remembered with $25,000.

GRAND TRUNK SHOPS.

The Limestone City Still Envious of our Industries.

A Kingston paper says: "A prominent official of the G. T. R. told a leading citizen the other day that as soon as the double track is finished between Montreal and Toronto, which will be inside of two years from the present time, the workshops in Belleville and Brockville will be removed here. This city will then be made a central point between the two great cities, and in consequence the expense of train service and staff expenses will be reduced."

It is the old chestnut. Every section man who says the Belleville shops are to be located in Belleville is a "prominent official" by the time the gossip reaches the papers. As an offset to the harpings of the Kingston press the Belleville council has the assurance of Manager Hickson that the shops shall remain where they are.

NEW STEAMBOAT LINE.

What Capt T J Craig is Negotiating for—Details.

Capt. T. J. Craig, of Duluth, Minn., in a letter, says he has been offered the management of a steamer which will ply between Rochester and Alexandria Bay the ensuing season. Alexandria Bay will be the headquarters and present terminus of the line, and, during the season of 1891, new steamers of the latest pattern, with modern improvements, will be in service from Alexandria Bay to Montreal and points east. The lake steamer will be very fast, and will make a round trip every day calling at Sodus, Oswego, Kingston, Clayton, Round Island Park, and Thousand Island Park.

A Successful Brightonian.

W. H. Fife who left Brighton and located in Tacoma, W. T., fifteen years ago is now reported to be worth two million dollars. He was well known in Belleville and has several relatives living here. Most of his fortune was made in real estate and today he is largely interested in nearly every enterprise in the state. He is proprietor of the new and elegant hotel Fife, which was erected last year at a cost $125,000. An exchange says: "It contains one hundred and twenty six rooms and five stories high. It is fitted up in the most elegant style and is highly spoken of by every tourist who visits Tacoma. It is supplied with all the modern conveniences of gas, water, electric bells, elevator, etc. It is conducted on the European plan."

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Special Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. The LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

He is Coming.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorewend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Profs goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

A BOOK OF RARE MERIT

EXPLORATION AND ADVENTURES OF H M. STANLEY

Explorations and Adventures of Henry Stanley and Other World renouned Explorers. Containing Thrilling Accounts of Famous Expeditions Miraculous Escapes, Marvellous Discoveries etc in the Wilds of Africa.

From the Toronto Daily Globe of Dec 31st. 1889.

This superbly illustrated work, a copy of which we have received from the Canadian publishers, Messrs. McDermid & Logan, London, Ont., comprises in one magnificent volume a graphic account of the travels, discoveries and brilliant achievements of Stanley in the Dark Continent.

A complete history of this last great expedition for the relief of the celebrated Emin Pasha is given from Stanley's own pen. In this volume the great explorer relates his terrible sufferings and dangers, his long and wearisome journeys and conflicts in rescuing Emin Pasha and his brave band.

The work is extremely fascinating. The explorations of the greatest travellers, their thrilling adventures, terrible dangers and miraculous escapes; the strange customs, savage wars, human sacrifices, rude forms of government of wild races; the brilliant scenery, beautiful birds, ferocious beasts and reptiles of the tropics are all described in the most captivating manner.

The reader is conducted through the thick jungles, the cheerless deserts and luxuriant plains of Africa. He beholds a wonderful country, famous for its fertile valleys, its vast forests, its mighty rivers and cataracts, and mines of untold wealth.

All the world-renowned explorers of the tropics are here brought together in a brilliant galaxy, the names of Livingstone, Baker, Speke, Du Chaillu, Baldwin and others are all celebrated, but the most thrilling interest gathers around the name of Stanley, the world's greatest explorer. His perils, privations and magnificent triumphs are portrayed with masterly power in the new and very attractive work.

There is more to be learned from such a volume as this, more to interest and fascinate the reader, that can be found in dozens of ordinary books. Here the most wonderful discoveries and adventures ever narrated charm the reader. "Stanley's Explorations and Adventures" should be in every household in the land.

This magnificent volume is issued by McDermid & Logan, of London, in connection with the National Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, one of the wealthiest and most enterprising publishing firms in the United States, and it is but fair to say that in the great race of rival firms to push forward their Stanley books, this is the first to appear in a completed form. It contains 808 large octavo pages, over 200 elegant engravings, maps and colored plates, and is sold at the low price of $2.50, which includes a handsome portrait of Stanley, size 15x20. Agents are wanted for this valuable work, to whom liberal terms are offered.

TOWN TALK.

Isn't it about time the town clock was repaired?

The thermometer registers below zero these days.

After many days a staff of men have been placed on Front street to level off the pitch-holes.

Pigeons—East to southeast winds, generally fair weather, with light snow in some localities, a little higher temperature.

The police are kept busy notifying citizens that the snow by-law will be enforced if the sidewalks are not cleaned.

A lively runaway caused no small commotion on the market this morning, but happily no damage was done.

Brockville's winter races opened to-day. Only a few horses had appeared up to yesterday. A fine track has been laid out.

At the weekly literary meeting of the Young people of the Baptist church last evening, the life of Frances Ridley Havergal was taken up by Miss N. Hitchin.

Mr. T. F. Brown manager of Geo. Ritchie & Co's, carpet and house furnishing department has been in New York during the past week procuring the latest novelties in his line for the spring season.

Mr. Burdett has asked for a return of all advertisements, contracts, petitions and correspondence touching or relating to the carriage of Her Majesty's mail from Road to Shannonville.

A well known hotel man appeared yesterday in a new pair of pants, the gorgeousness of which was simply sublime. To-day he is besieged by callers with requests to be allowed to play checkers on them.—Kingston News.

The Charter day concert at Albert College on Friday evening next promises to be an interesting one. The Quartette club takes a prominent part in the program and during the evening four members of the quartette club will debate the question of political union with the United States. Admission 25 cents.

La Grippe or Lightning Catarrh

Mr. Editor.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow me to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief to even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passage, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Prof. Dorenwend Coming

Who does not recognize that to have good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this will all disappear and capillary addictions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stand Prof. Dorewend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorewend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorewend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets; Purely Vegetable, One a dose.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

John Bell, Q. C., is in Toronto.

Dr. Jacques, Trenton, is in the city.

Jas. A. Davis, Deseronto, is at the Queens.

K. M. Ireland, Kingston, is at the Queen's.

Prof. Greene spent a restless night. He is no better.

James Christie, Trenton, was in the city yesterday.

Miss Williams, Toronto, is a guest at the Kyle House.

Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Seymour, Madoc are at the Queens.

R. B. Andrews, Bowanville, is stopping at the Kyle house.

E. J. W. Burton, Port Hope, is a guest of ex-Mayor Biggar.

Chas. Lockerty, is still confined to his room and is very low.

A. S. White, Port Union is registered at the Dominion House.

Mrs. H. Wallis, after a severe illness, is able to be out again.

Louis Lawrence, Denver, Col., is stopping at the Anglo American.

Dr. J. A. Meyers, of Wisconsin, is in the city visiting old friends.

Rev. Samuel T. Bartlett addressed the Epworth league at the Tabernacle last evening.

M. C. Robbin, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days in the city.

W. R. Aylsworth, Reeve of Deseronto and Tobias Buttler, are registered at the Kyle House.

Miss Alice Waltz of Toronto, formerly of this city is just recovering from a severe attack of illness.

Detective Spencer, in the employ of the Grand Trunk railway, Toronto, is in the city on business.

Mr. F. M. Clarke went to Napanee, yesterday to adjust a loss for the Commercial Union Assurance Co.

Bros. J. W. London and Thos. Mayrmark, delegates of Oxford Lodge, Sons of England, left for Port Hope to-day to attend the meeting of the Grand lodge.

Mrs. Hawver, graduate of the Sanitarium training school for nurses, Battle Creek, Michigan, is the guest of her brother, R. M-Cormick.

W. E. Bonter, book keeper for a time at the Walker foundry, left last night for Brantford where he has a position with a large harvest machine company.

W. J. Colville, F. W. Ward, R. Hamming, B. P. Ross, S. James, G. Reddick and W. W. Rentck, Port Hope, are registered at the Anglo American.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy some thing at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.
"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB. 1ST.

PROF DORENWEND COMING

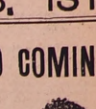
WITH HIS IMMENSE DISPLAY OF

HAIR - GOODS

HE WILL BE AT

QUEENS' HOTEL

WED. & THURS, FEB, 12TH & 13TH.



When every lady should make it a special point to call and see the Professor's Fine Display. His assortment this visit will be superb. SWITCHES, BANGS, FRONTPIECES WAVES WIGS, TOUPEES, etc., articles of which every lady should have one or other for the sake of health, appearance and economy. Even if she has an abundant growth of hair she should have one in order to meet the requirements of a fashionable hair dress said to save her own hair. It is a difficult matter to explain the full benefits of wearing Hair Goods, by an advertisement so Prof. Dorewend asks that ladies call on him whether they intend to buy or not. If they do not get something now they may later on, and while there is an opportunity it is just as well to learn particulars. For gentlemen who are bald, Prof. D has Toupees and Wigs, that are most perfect. They fit like a Glove, and are as natural as life. A visit to the Show Room will well repay. Persons who are already wearing the Professor's Goods will do their friends a favor if they will prevail on them to visit the Professor. Remember

AT QUEENS' HOTEL ON WED'S & THURS., FEB. 12 & 13th.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,
FANCY FLANNEL,
—AND—
CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASURE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents Furnishers, Laundry Office.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly,"

J. C. OVERELLS

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

BELLEVILLE, ONT: WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 12, 1890

20TH YEAR — NO

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars

New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

Small Fancy Hampers and Decorated boxes, imported direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Cracknells, Cheese Biscuits, Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits, Milk Biscuits Ginger biscuits

Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoa nut Sugar Wafers

Assorted Biscuits — Bondoir Biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE.
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES & C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER—
Bass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling Philler's Famous Milwaukee Lager, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Bickle's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST's
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy

HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.

The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.

It will pay you to see

S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 13jfw1w

RECAMIER PREPARATIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK,
Family Grocer, and Baker, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 152.

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W-W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET SOAPS
There is none that equals in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTLE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is dry 3 to 6.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

OUR JAPENESE FRIEND
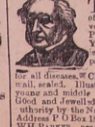
MR. INZO KOUO,
Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our
Japan — Teas
Those using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers,
Victoria Buildings.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND
NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Write now. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for the Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

FOR MEN ONLY!
A POSITIVE and PERMANENT CURE for EARLY and LATE VICES, Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Excess, Indiscretion or Exposure, Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Want of Strength in Weak, Undeveloped Organs & Premature Decay, Rendering Marriage Hazardous. Sent free, in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of price, $1 per box, 6 boxes for $5. Address MAY MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Loss of Manhood


THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescriptions for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

Bermuda Bottled.
"You must go to Bermuda. If you do not I will not be responsible for the consequences." "But, doctor, I can afford neither the time nor the money." "Well, if that is impossible, try
SCOTT'S EMULSION
OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL.
I sometimes call it Bermuda Bottled, and many cases of
CONSUMPTION,
Bronchitis, Cough or Severe Cold
I have CURED with it; and the advertisement is that the sensitive stomach can take it. Another thing which commends it is the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites which it contains. You will find it for sale at your druggist's, in Salmon wrapper. Be sure you get the genuine."
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received up to the 22nd February, 1890 for the building of a school house in section 17 Tyendinaga. The plans can be seen at Mr. Ferris's office and in the section at Mr. Daly's. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
JOHN TODD
Trustee.
Feb. 11th 1890 — 4th. w2t

WILL be received by the undersigned up to April 1st, 1890, for the purchase of the ENNEZZIE STONE CHURCH and LOT, West Huntingdon. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
REV. W. H. HEAROYD,
3td — West Huntingdon.

WANTED.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner Joan and Hotel Sts.

WANTED at once a good general servant. Apply to MRS. A. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply MRS. W. W. LEE
Feb. 1 — Hotel street.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen for our extensive nurseries. Special inducements; fast selling specialties. Don't delay; salary from Start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods warranted. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good wages and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Write for terms, etc. Mention this paper.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. — Mention this Paper

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 4, 1890. 6td

LOOK HERE!
NEW CURE AGT
—Will be at the—
ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL
Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of testimonials will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address
NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 248, Trenton, Ont.
254w

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EARLE
General Manager.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.
CAPITAL - - $250 000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates
Payments can be made in full day at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary examining title and investigating claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.
FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposits. No notice required of withdrawal.
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent. No fines. No commission.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

BOOK BINDING
TAMMADGE
FRONT St Belleville

COMING TARIFF CHANGES.

THE PREMIER ANNOUNCES AN IMPORTANT MEASURE.

Mr. Laurier's Motion Condemning Corn Rebates to Distillers Defeated by a Vote of 104 to 69—The Member for Lincoln to be Heard on Thursday.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—There is to be a tariff measure introduced during the present session of Parliament, as the Premier gravely informed the House this afternoon. In making the announcement the First Minister said it would be "a tariff measure of considerable importance." At this several members of the Opposition at once pricked up their ears.

This was noticeably the fact in the case of Mr. Paterson of Brant, who is one of the heavy weights in the Liberal ranks, and that gentleman at once jumped to his feet and said he hoped that this being the case the Minister of Finance would make his budget speech as soon as possible. "The announcement made by the Premier," proceeded Mr. Paterson, "will be the means of paralyzing business all over the country. The commercial atmosphere is depressed enough at present without adding the uncertainty of impending sweeping tariff changes." He hoped, if the tariff was to be patched up again this session, that that would be the end of it. This everlasting tinkering with the tariff was the spectre which haunted business men and unsettled the commercial world.

The Minister of Finance said that Mr Paterson and the Opposition had misunderstood the First Minister if they pretended to believe that he intended to convey the idea that sweeping and radical changes would be made in the tariff. Changes would certainly be made, but they would not be of a radical or alarming nature. The Government often made changes where it was for the benefit of the country. Mr. Paterson did not believe in this so-called tariff tinkering, yet he and his party were always crying out against the tariff.

This information from the Premier leaked out in the course of the adjourned debate on Mr. Laurier's motion of last Friday condemning the corn rebates to distillers and not being allowed to farmers. When the debate was called up Sir John said the Government refused to be dragged into the debate, as they considered it one of a series of motions from the Opposition affecting their fiscal policy, and they therefore resisted this attempt at premature action on the subject. They must decline to agree to any such action now as proposed. Then the Premier made the tariff announcement as above.

Sir Richard Cartwright laughed at the Premier and his party for the concern they gave the distiller while the farmer was given the cold shoulder. Looking over at the Finance Minister Sir Richard drew attention to that gentleman's temperance record and his famous description of whisky as "distilled damnation." Now, however, the Minister of Finance was helping out the distiller and oppressing the farmer.

After further debate Mr. Laurier's motion was voted down, 104 to 69. Four of the Government supporters voted with Mr. Laurier—Kirkpatrick, Jamieson, O'Brien and Wright. Harry Corby of Belleville, who said yesterday that he would support Mr. Laurier's motion, refused to vote, claiming that he was an interested party and sought protection behind rule 16. He was not pressed to vote.

Mr. Bergeron, who had risen to rise to a question of privilege, called attention to a series of letters which had appeared in The Globe respecting a member of the House—Mr. Rykert—and asked whether the Government were taking any action respecting the same.

Sir John Macdonald said he believed those statements appeared on Saturday in The Globe, a periodical he did not usually peruse. He had since been shown the letters. He had not read them all but some of them surprised him very considerably. He did not think the Government or any member of it had anything to do with the matter. The correspondence between the gentlemen mentioned in the newspapers stood upon its own merits or demerits. The Government had nothing to do with it. He was quite willing that any investigation desired should be gone into. As for the member for Lincoln (Rykert), he was well known as a strong man in battle and no doubt could fight for his own position.

Mr. Rykert rose to make an explanation, which he said would be somewhat lengthy.

Sir John Macdonald thereupon reminded the House that this was Government day and asked that if there was to be a long lengthy explanation another time should be fixed for it. It was at length decided that Mr. Rykert should be heard on Thursday.

Mr. Charlton asked when the correspondence relating to the opinion of the law officers of the Crown on the Jesuits Estates Act might be expected.

Sir John Macdonald said it would be brought down in a few days.

These bills were introduced and read a first time:

To incorporate the Calgary Water-power Company (Limited)—Mr. Hickey.

To incorporate the Elbow River Water-power Company—Mr. Hickey.

To incorporate the Hamilton Junction Railway Company—Mr. Brown.

To incorporate the South Kootenay Railway Company—Mr. Mara.

To incorporate the West Kootenay Railway Company—Mr. Mara.

Respecting the St. Catharines & Niagara Central Railway Company—Mr. Rykert.

To incorporate the St. Lawrence International Railway Bridge Company—Mr. Taylor.

To incorporate the Brandon & Southwestern Railway Company—Mr. Scarth.

Respecting the Summerside Bank—Mr. Davies.

To incorporate the Bankers' Safe Deposit Warehousing & Loan Company—Mr. Cockburn.

Respecting the Confederation Life Association—Mr. Cockburn.

The time for receiving petitions for private bills was extended to Feb. 18 and for introduction of these bills to Feb. 25.

THE BANKERS' DELEGATION.

Another Interview with the Minister of Finance.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—The Montreal and Toronto bankers had another three-hours' private conference with the Minister of Finance to-day and they will meet him again at 4 o'clock. This will probably terminate the meetings between Mr. Foster and the representatives of the leading financial institutions of the country. The guarantees of all bank notes were discussed and an understanding, it is said, has been arrived at whereby this guarantee will be made substantial and incorporated in the new charters. The Toronto men are the President and Cashier of the Commerce, of the Toronto Bank, Wilkie of the Imperial and Bethune of the Dominion.

NOTES AND GOSSIP.

Canadian Representation in the Imperial Parliament—The Orange Vote.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—Senator Boulton has given notice of his intention to introduce two very interesting topics of discussion. His resolution is: "That in the opinion of the House the time has arrived when Canada might be accorded a measure of representation in the Imperial Parliament by giving to the Government of the Dominion and to the Government of each province in Canada the appointment of a representative holding a seat in the Imperial House of Commons, the representative of the Dominion Government also holding a seat in the Imperial Privy Council, the privileges of such representatives being limited to discussion of and voting upon such questions as may affect Canadian interests. That this resolution be transmitted to the Governor-General-in-Council for such constitutional action as he deems it advisable to take in the interests of the country."

The other matter relates to banking and Senator Boulton will point out that it would be of great advantage to incorporated banks the power to take security on real or personal estate for advances of loans, as it would tend to keep money in circulation and materially assist in the development of agricultural interests by giving to farmers. Purcell, Smith (Sir Donald), Weldon (Alb.), Wright.

The pairs were:

For.	Against.
Scriver,	Desjardins,
Freeman,	Wilmot.
Scarth,	Cameron.
Stevenson,	Wood (West.).
Kirkpatrick,	Sir John Thompson,
Wilson (Arg.).	Ripel.
Blake.	Dickey.
Macdowall.	McMillan.

Both of the parties held caucuses to-day in respect to their position on Mr. McCarthy's dual language bill, which comes up for a second reading to-morrow. Mr. White of Cardwell will offer an amendment to the bill that the matter should be referred for settlement to the Northwest Council and not to the Federal Parliament. This amendment Mr. McCarthy is understood to be rigidly opposed to, and he will press for the passage of his measure. It is also understood that the party caucuses decided to leave it to the individual members to vote and act as they saw fit.

The vote on Mr. Laurier's amendment was on party lines, except that Messrs. Kirkpatrick and O'Brien, Wright and Jamieson voted with the Opposition. The two last named voted on prohibition principles against encouragement to the distilling industry.

ONTARIO LAWMAKERS.

Mr. Clancy Complains of Delay in Preparing Reports.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—At the Ontario Legislative Assembly yesterday Mr. Clancy asked for an order of the House for a return showing the dates in each year from 1884 to 1889 inclusive on which the Legislative Assembly was convened and prorogued, also dates during each session of the Assembly on which all reports presented by order of the Assembly were prescribed during the same years.

In moving for his return Mr. Clancy referred to what he considered the delay in preparing some of the reports. For instance, the public accounts were seldom brought down until nearly 18 or 20 days after the House was in session. The latter avails the session was not a very long one, and through such delay valuable time which might be devoted to the Public Accounts Committee was wasted until other important committees claimed their attention. He also gave figures showing the late date when the Agricultural College report has been brought down in recent years. There certainly existed in his opinion a great laxity that these reports were not brought down and placed in the hands of the members at an earlier date.

The Provincial Treasurer replied that so far as the public accounts were concerned Mr. Clancy could have no ground for complaint. There could be no instance where any province or legislature where the accounts were brought down as soon as in Ontario. At Ottawa and in Quebec Province they had seven months in which to prepare their accounts, and could therefore present them by Dec. 31. In Mr. Ross' opinion it reflected the greatest credit upon those having this branch of public business on their charge, that they prepare the accounts as expeditiously as they do.

Mr. Clancy's motion for a return was then carried.

Mr. Marter's motion for an order of the House for a return as to the dues on pine trees was allowed to stand.

To Mr. Ingram's question as to whether the Government received a resolution from the Trades and Labor Council of Toronto in favor of a legacy duty being imposed on legacies payable to collateral relations; whether the Government intend to accede to such resolution or to take any action thereon,

The Attorney-General replied that the Government was not prepared to take action in the matter this session.

There were some important petitions presented yesterday. Through Dr. Gilmour North Toronto petitioned to be made a corporation under the name of "The Corporation of the Town of North Toronto," to consist of the present village and certain other portions of York.

Mr. Freeman presented a petition from the Land Security Company to amend the act providing for the transmission of shares, debentures, debenture stock by death or by means other than transfer.

A petition from the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company was presented by Mr. Harcourt. They desire authority to create to the act of incorporation so as to substitute for the words "any other railway company" the words "Grand Trunk Railway Company" or "Canadian Pacific Railway Company of Canada." They further desire power to issue bonds to the extent of $40,000 per mile for each mile of construction or under contract to be constructed; also power to secure such bonds by a mortgage on the railroad and undertaking and to have the capital stock increased from one to two million dollars; also to be authorized to extend their line of railway from a point at or near Hamilton to a point in Brant County County in or near Brantford or to a point connected with the line of the Brantford, Waterloo & Lake Erie Company.

Losses Caused by Flames.

RICHMOND, Mo., Feb. 11.—Fire broke out last night in F. L. Elledge's grocery store and the building was soon destroyed. A number of citizens collected in the adjoining building of McDonald & Sons, drygoods merchants. They were talking about the fire when without warning the west wall fell in, killing instantly M. F. McDonald, William R. Jackson and seriously injuring Mrs. Jackson. Many persons narrowly escaped.

Another Outrage at Hull.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—There was a terrific riot in Hull to-night. Miss Wright and her companions were roughly treated. Hundreds of people were at the building, smashing windows and demolishing the wooden structure. Many people were hurt. The difficulty to the evangelists was how to get away safely. They left the building in a body and marched to the Canada Hotel, amid a perfect rain of stones, which came down more and more perceiving them increased their yells and attack. Miss Wright was injured by a stone, but not seriously. Mr. Walker was hit on the temple with a stone. He also received a wound in the back of the head. The police were powerless, their number being too small to cope with the mob. Two of the ringleaders were locked up.

The Sugar Trust Case.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Judge O'Brien today handed down his decision in the Sugar Trust case. He decided in substance that the company should be allowed to continue its business, but he continued the injunction restraining the trust from transferring its property or doing any other acts that might interfere with the rights of the plaintiff. The injunction was obtained by Hunter H. W. Gray as against the trust.

The Candid Truth.
USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and throat; it never failed me yet.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

OPENED WITH THE TIME-HONORED CEREMONIES.

Text of the Queen's Speech—Sir William Vernon Harcourt Brings Up the Pigott Forgeries—Gladstone Makes a Characteristic Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Parliament reopened to-day with the usual time-honored ceremonies. Black Rod entered the House of Commons and summoned the members to the Chamber of Peers to hear the Queen's speech. The former followed the Speaker in their customary tumultuous rush to the bar of the Upper House. There was a scattering attendance of peers. Four royal commissioners, in imposing robes, stood at the foot of the throne, and one read the Queen's speech to an inattentive and almost disrespectful audience. Never was a ceremony, once of such impressive character, so utterly empty and ridiculous. This was the speech:

My Lords and Gentlemen:

My relations with other powers continue friendly.

An armed force under a Portuguese officer was dispatched during the autumn from Mozambique into territory where British settlements have been formed and where there are native tribes who have been taken under my protection. A collision attended by bloodshed took place and seals were commitled which were inconsistent with the respect due the British flag. The Portuguese Government at my request has promised to withdraw its military forces from the territory in question.

A conference of the powers interested in the suppression of the slave trade has been convoked at Brussels by the King of the Belgians. I earnestly hope the results of its deliberations will advance the great cause for which it assembled.

A commercial convention has been concluded with the Khedive.

A provisional arrangement for the adjustment of pressing fiscal questions has been made with Bulgaria.

A convention concluded by me with the Emperor of Germany and the United States with respect to the government of Samoa will be laid before you with the protocols of the conference.

The treaty concluded with the United States for the amendment of the law of extradition will also be submitted to you. The latter awaits the ratification of the United States Senate.

The disordered condition of Swaziland has rendered it necessary to provide a better government. The independence of Swaziland was recognized by the convention held in London. I have, acting in conjunction with the President of the South African Republic, sent a commission to learn the views of the Swazis and white settlers.

I shall await with lively interest the result of the conference being held to discuss the important question of the federation of the Australian colonies. Any well-considered measure for bringing these colonies into closer union will increase their welfare and strength and will receive my favorable consideration.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

The continued improvement of affairs in Ireland and the further diminution of agrarian crime there has made it possible to very largely restrict the area where it is necessary to deal with certain offences with bail summary process. Proposals for increasing under due financial precaution the number of occupying tenants, for extending to Ireland the principles of local self-government, which already have been adopted in England and Scotland, so far as they are applicable to Ireland, and for improving the material well-being of the population in the poorer districts, will be submitted to you.

The bill facilitating and cheapening the transfer of land in England will be again presented. Proposals will be submitted to you for diminishing the difficulty and cost which attend the passage of private legislation required for Scotland.

A bill improving the course of procedure during which tithes are levied and facilitating their redemption will be submitted.

I have appointed a commission to report the best means of improving the economic conditions which affect the inhabitants of some parts of the Western Highlands and the islands of Scotland.

Your attention will be again invited to the bill to ascertain the liability of employers for accidents to employes, and the measure improving the course of procedure from the winding up of the affairs of insolvent companies under the limited liability acts.

Bills will be submitted for your consideration for the consolidation and for the amendment of the law in respect to the public health of the metropolis and the dwellings of the working classes, and also a bill for the better regulation of savings banks and friendly societies.

Your attention will be directed to the accommodation provided in camps and barracks, and you will be asked to make better provisions for the distribution and the health of my troops.

I commend you earnestly in the discharge of your high responsibility to the care and guidance of Almighty God.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The estimates to defray the cost of my government will be submitted to you. They are drawn with due regard to economy as well as to the necessities of the public service.

The portion of the speech which most attention attracts is the paragraph regarding Ireland. A promise not only of a Land Purchase Bill but of an Irish Local Government Bill, similar to local government bills recently for Ireland and Scotland, causes a feeling of pleased surprise, and more as it is stated in the speech that in the composition of the measure the local customs of the country will be as far as possible preserved.

The vagueness of the utterance regarding the outcome of the negotiations with Portugal is generally noted, and notwithstanding the optimism expressed the situation is regarded as unsatisfactory. It is felt that the Government is well aware of the fact that its demands have not yet been complied with, and that notwithstanding promises and protestations of the Lisbon Ministry it will not or cannot enforce obedience on its agents in Africa.

Sir James Ferguson, Under Secretary, promised to lay on the table at an early date the papers relating to Portugal and South Africa.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, President of the Board of Trade, gave notice of a bill relating to tithes bill.

Mr. Balfour announced that on Monday next he would introduce the Irish Land Purchase Bill. One clause of the bill provides for the creation of a land department.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt offered a motion declaring that The London Times, in publishing the so-called Pigott letters, was guilty of a breach of privilege. Sir William contended that a breach of privilege committed during one session could be punished during another session. He said since the suit for libel has been decided in favor of Mr. Parnell and since it has been admitted that the letters were a cover to the assault on him were forgeries, the House is afforded an absolutely sure basis for action. It is now obvious that the object of the publication of the forgeries on the day when the Coercion Bill had its second reading was to influence the division in Parliament. It was a gross and palpable outrage upon the House. A more flagrant breach of privilege could not be conceived. Some reparation should be made for the use of poisoned weapons. He urged that all sides should unite to brand with the stigma of parliamentary reprobation this practice of the art of political forgery. (Cheers.)

Sir John E. Gorst, Under-Secretary for India, said the time was not for the discussion of the breach of privilege. Moreover, such a discussion would be inopportune while the report of the Parnell Commission was pending. He moved that the House decline to consider the motion of breach of privilege.

Mr. Gladstone, who was loudly cheered as he arose, supported the motion. He said he could not consider that The Times offence against the House had been purged by the apologies made before the Parnell Commission through Sir Richard Webster. The apologies grossly exaggerated the original offence. (Hear, hear.) He was surprised that Sir Richard had allowed himself to be made the vehicle of such an apology. This was the earliest chance the House had, and it was the most opportune moment for it to express its indignation over the publication of the forgeries. If the conspiracy against Mr. Parnell had been successful the result would have would have been absolute political death and the mortal blow struck at him would have been felt throughout the Irish nation. (Cheers.) The Times had allowed its affect the judgment of the House and it had really in that direction a temporary success. He did not wish to dwell upon the heritage and hereditary character of the whole affair. He trusted the House would vindicate its right to deal with the offence. The Government owed it to itself to deal fairly toward Mr. Parnell and the Irish people for the injustice done to both through the forgeries. Surely the House should not hesitate to express its full sense of the injustice.

The motion offered by Sir William Vernon Harcourt was rejected, 260 to 212, and Sir John Gorst's amendment adopted.

To Fill Craig Sellar's Seat.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—An election for member of the House of Commons was held in the Partick division of Lanarkshire to-day to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Craig Sellar, Liberal-Unionist. The vote was closer than was expected, resulting as follows:

Parker-Smith, Unionist	4148
Sir Charles Dilkes, Liberal	3966
Unionist majority	182

In 1886 the vote stood:

Craig Sellar, Unionist	3745
H. A. McLeod, Liberal	3644
Unionist majority	101

Lively Scenes in Lisbon.

LISBON, Feb. 11.—An enormous crowd assembled in the Place Dom Pedro, and Republican orators endeavored to harangue various groups. But the police and cavalry charged the mass, which was dispersed after some fighting. Twenty-eight persons were arrested.

A Parnellite Meeting.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Parnellite members of Parliament held a meeting to-day and reelected Mr. Parnell chairman. A vote of confidence in Mr. Parnell was adopted. The resolution expressed the hearty gratitude of the party for its leader's defence of the Irish cause. Mr. Parnell in a speech said he hoped the present session would bring nearer legislative independence for Ireland.

Frisco's Russian Bishop.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 11.—The Russian bishop of San Francisco will be recalled. He will be succeeded by the archimandrite of St. Petersburg.

Portugal is Timid.

LISBON, Feb. 11.—A proclamation has been issued by the Government forbidding the holding of a patriotic meeting in the Colonies. The proclamation also prohibits the contemplated patriotic procession through the streets.

The Kaiser in Earnest.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—Emperor William's reason for confining his initial enquiries relative to the labor question to France, England, Belgium and Switzerland is that the labor movements in those countries resemble those in the German coal districts. His Majesty is making investigations into the labor conditions of other countries, including Italy, Denmark and Sweden.

DAMAGES FOR A LIFE.

A $7000 Suit Against the Grand Trunk for the Loss of a Husband.

HAMILTON, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Amelia Graham of Lafayette, Ind., has caused the issue of a writ against the Grand Trunk Railway. The plaintiff claims that her husband was injured in the accident which occurred near the junction cut on Feb. 16, 1888, and died from the effects of the injuries he received. She claims $5000 for the loss of her husband and $2000 damages as the administratrix of the estate. Graham was injured in the accident on the Toronto branch near the junction cut. Two trains collided and Graham, Mitchell and J. Peden were killed. It was not thought that any of the passengers were seriously injured.

Mr. Ellis of the Wizard Oil Company was fined $20 for breach of the Lottery Act. He will appeal.

William H. Boisfeuillet, manager of the Hamilton Electric Light Company, died at 12½ to-day.

Wanamaker's Postal Telegraph Scheme.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker was before the House Committee on post offices to-day and discussed fully the proposition in his annual report for the establishment by the Government of a limited postal telegraph. He submitted a plan providing for a lease by the Government for 10 years of wires for carrying on the business and for the delivery of telegrams by carriers in the first delivery following the receipt of the telegram. He proposed different rates for different distances and proposed to make the system applicable to the 46 free delivery post offices in the country. The scheme, he insisted, was practical and free from valid objections.

A Big Gotham Failure.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—At 4½ p.m. to-day a notice was posted on the Produce Exchange stating that F. Woodruff & Co. were unable to meet their obligations. It was supposed this prominent firm could command millions of dollars. The firm to-day suspended, giving preferences amounting to $65,000. The firm is composed of Franklin Woodruff and Frank W. Farnham. They were extensive dealers in fish and salt and had great storage warehouses in Brooklyn. The storage property in 1887 was valued at $1,100,000, subject to a mortgage of $400,000, but lately it had some difficulty in getting its paper discounted.

The Strike at the Bridge.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., Feb. 11.—The strike of yardmen and switchmen in the Suspension Bridge yards remains unchanged. The men had a conference to-day with Superintendent George H. Burrows, who offered the same pay and to relain the men, which was absolutely refused. All western freight is sent around by Buffalo and the international bridge to Canadian roads.

A Rush for the Sioux Lands.

CHAMBERLAIN, S.D., Feb. 11.—Indian Agent Anderson this morning received official notice of the President's proclamation and the rush for the Sioux lands is under full headway. The townsite west of here is thickly dotted with buildings in course of erection. It is reported that each claim immediately west of town is already forty occupants. The Indian police are on the ground to prevent trouble.

Do Not be Deceived.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 12 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays and delivered by special carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month. THE WEEKLY ONTARIO is published every Thursday morning, and sent postpaid to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS This daily ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpariel line; each subsequent consecutive insertion 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY ONTARIO, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS 50 cents each insertion. With notice of funeral attached the charge for double notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. R. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

COUNTY GAOLS.

A Mail correspondent was moved by Kossuth's sketches of the life of exiles in Siberia to compare the condition of Ontario gaol inmates with the condition of Siberian prisoners. After witnessing the manner in which the Toronto audience was impressed he writes:

"How many, I wonder, of that large audience were aware that in the province of Ontario there is an average of over 10,000 persons confined every year in our county gaols without classification and without work? The good, the bad and the indifferent all huddled together in the open corridor of the jail—over 4,000 and no crime proven against them, and over 6,000 under sentence, all spending their time in idleness and all breathing in the same vile, contaminating impure atmosphere of the crowded corridors. I have nothing to say in the defence of the treatment of political exiles in Siberia, but I know that in the treatment of prisoners in the local gaols Russia can rise up against us in judgment. If I am not mistaken the prisoners (at least in the local gaol one) are born classified and supplied with industrial employment. Clearly political prisoners is, of course, unjustifiable, but what can be more wicked than to throat an innocent boy or girl into association in a gaol corridor with the vilest of the vile? As Bishop Dowling well said: 'A saint would not be proof against the contamination; it is enough to damn him for time and eternity.'"

The state of affairs alluded to in this province, should, and it is believed will, at no distant day claim the attention of the authorities and the gaols, which, according to the criminal law as it is to-day, are the places of confinement of the great bulk of offenders who are just starting on a career of crime and are therefore most apt to be easily deterred, will be remodelled with the view of keeping the old offenders by themselves that the influence of their bravado may not harden the feelings of the criminal debautant.

Then, there are innocent people confined in county gaols. While the law does not recognize a man as guilty until he is proven so, it assumes that he is a culprit to the extent of keeping him in custody until it is shown that he is worthy of his liberty but during this interval, according to present accommodation, he has to herd with the toughest of the tough in one and the same corridor. If reformatory principles were applied to county gaols, they would not fail, with proper classification, to have a good effect upon the inmates.

CHICAGO ANARCHISTS.

The American is ingenious or he is nothing. Sometimes their ingenuity is exercised to their advantage, sometimes to their detriment. The celebrated Anarchist case which occupied the attention of the Chicago courts so long culminated in the hanging of the most culpable and the life imprisonment of Fielden and Schwab, while Neebe got fifteen years. Lawyer Salmon, counsel for the imprisoned men contended that the prisoners were deprived of a constitutional right by not being permitted to be present when the court passed sentence upon them, and upon this contention has been granted an order from the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois, for the purpose of allowing the case to again go before the court for review and the case will have a hearing at Washington during the October term of court. The sentence of the court at which the prisoners was tried was death but the governor of Illinois commuted the sentence. All that Lawyer Salmon will make out of his technicality will be his fees, which no doubt are a considerable item, and the pleasure, if he is successful, of sending the prisoners before the State supreme court for a re-affirmation of the sentence of the lower court. Now the lower court sentenced the prisoners to be hanged and if that sentence is reaffirmed what will be the fate of the men? The date upon which the court decreed they must hang is of course past but that will not free them from the law. It seems that Lawyer Salmon will again have to appeal to the governor for executive clemency which if granted will place his men, where they are to day, behind the prison bars. It may be a source of satisfaction to the roundabout attorney to know that his men are there and property sentenced beyond all caval, but the public would have been just as well satisfied without his extra trouble.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucous which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents will to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Swimming Niagara.

MAN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is as easy as it makes it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time.

THE PRAIRIE PROVINCE.

A LIVELY SESSION OF THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

Some Stormy Scenes Witnessed—The Censure Motion Voted Down by 24 to 11—A Hot Debate on the Motion to Change the Rules.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 11.—There was a lively session of the Manitoba Legislature to-day and some stormy scenes were witnessed. The afternoon session was destined to hear Mr. Prendergast's motion that the Government be censured for having discontinued the printing of The Manitoba Gazette in French without having obtained the sanction of the Legislature. Nearly all the members had something to say on the important question, the Government and their friends contending that it was the province of the course they had under the consolidated statutes. This was denied by the French and Opposition members.

About 6 o'clock a vote was reached and the motion was voted down by 24 to 11. The only English-speaking Liberal to vote for the motion was Dr. Lyon, the two who created the most surprise by voting with the Government being Fisher and Sifton who some time ago had protested against the Government action.

In the evening Premier Greenway's resolution to change the rules of the House abolishing the rules which stipulated that the orders of the House, etc., must be printed in French was taken up and caused another lively debate.

KANE'S LAST HOURS.

The Toronto Wife Murderer Dies in the Catholic Faith.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—Murderer Thomas Kane furnished a little surprise to Jail Governor Green yesterday morning. Up to 10 o'clock he had remained strong in the profession of the Anglican Church, and believing him to be a member of that comprehensive communion Rev. R. C. Caswell, the jail chaplain, had been unremitting in his efforts to prepare the unfortunate man for the fate which will undoubtedly overtake him this morning. It had long been a great point among the officials as to whether Kane was really what he professed himself to be, an out-and-out Protestant. Less than a week ago Venerable Archdeacon Cassidy, at present attached to St. Paul's, had visited him and asked him squarely whether or not he was a Catholic. At that time Kane replied to him, "Do not trouble yourself further about me, father. I am a Protestant, and intend to die one." Until yesterday morning he never budged from this position, although on several occasions Rev. Mr. Caswell and Governor Greene told him that if he desired the ministration of a Catholic priest he had only to signify that such was his wish.

In response to a request by Archdeacon Cassidy yesterday morning, the question was put to the condemned man again, when he replied that he was a Catholic and desired to die one. The Governor was not only surprised but considerably discomforted. At first he could scarcely believe that Kane knew what he was saying, but when he had fully satisfied himself that the man was in earnest he admitted the priest to the cell. All the afternoon Archdeacon Cassidy conferred with the prisoner, and last evening surrendered the care of his spiritual welfare to Rev. Fathers Cruise and McPhillips, who will remain with him until the last fatal scene is enacted.

Mass for the dying will be said in the condemned cell an hour before the execution, and the man will then receive the last consolations of religion.

Kane's sudden change of base has somewhat complicated matters and upset the previous arrangements. However, the execution will take place at 8 o'clock, and all the religious ceremonies except the prayers for the dying will take place within the walls of the jail. It was originally intended that Archdeacon Cassidy would minister to Kane to the end, but his health is too feeble to permit him to go through the trying ordeal to the end.

So far as the jail officials are aware Kane still claims innocence, but in view of the occurrences of yesterday it is not thought that he will make any dying declaration of his innocence.

The executioner arrived last night, and is now domiciled in a cell close to the murderer. He is a stranger, an Englishman not long in the country, and about 35 years of age. From all accounts he is a man of nerve and will not require any stimulant to steady him for his work. With the exception of the sheriff and his officers, the jail surgeon and the priests, no one will be admitted to the jail proper until the whole thing is over. The medical students and the press will enter the western yard, the gate to be open at 7½. It is thought that, all told, there will be about 100 spectators of the execution. Seven policemen under Inspector Breckenreid will guard the approaches to the jail from 6½ until the man is executed.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

Opening of the Grand Lodge Session at Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, Feb. 11.—Between 150 and 200 delegates filled the Orange Hall this afternoon at the opening session of the Grand Lodge of the Sons of England Benevolent Association. Supreme Grand President Campbell of Barrie presided and received a deputation from the municipal council of Port Hope tendering an address of welcome to the visitors. An address of welcome was also presented by the local lodge, both of which drew forth appropriate replies from the grand president. These were the only features of the afternoon session, as the proceedings were not commenced until late in the day, owing to the express from the west being delayed by a break-down at Port Union. The Grand Lodge will continue its deliberations until Thursday night, when a public banquet will be tendered the visiting brethren by the local brethren in the Grand Opera House.

Tried to Exterminate His Family.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Feb. 11.—James B. Clary, a farmer of Newberry County, last Saturday made preparations to exterminate his whole family. He first undertook to kill his 16-year-old daughter by shooting her with a pistol, but was thwarted by neighbors who came to her rescue. While all were in the room Clary got hold of an axe and before any could interfere gave the girl a terrible blow on the head which may prove fatal. Clary had been drinking heavily.

Pugsley on the War Path.

WELLAND, Feb. 11.—The case against G. H. Pugsley, charged with bringing stolen property into Canada, has been dismissed by the magistrate, there being no evidence to convict him. Pugsley has instructed his solicitor to commence an action for $10,000 for false arrest.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

The SPECIAL ANNOUCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. In every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal to phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise.

Then he clasped her with emotion,
Down the aisle to his bride,
Whispered vows of true devotion,
The old, old tale—you know the rest.
From his circled arms uppringing,
With a fear she turned away,
And her voice with sorrow ringing,
"I shall not see my bride day."

This dramatic speech broke him up badly; but when she explained that her apprehensions were founded on the fact of an inherited predisposition to consumption in her family, he calmed her fears, bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for her, and she is now the bouncing bride. Consumption fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. But it must be taken before the disease is too far advanced in order to be effective. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Copyright, 1886, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

$500 OFFERED (See Above.)

for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. By its mild, soothing and healing properties it cures the worst cases, no matter of how long standing. By druggists, 50 cents.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE,
BLOOD PURIFIER
AND
Indian Pain King
For sale only at
R TEMPLETON

CUT OF APPETITE.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, aspless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, whose appetites and powered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nurriment, but deputates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, ever does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly remove three diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the constipation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask fos Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

To lessen mortality and stop the tolll of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Eim, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York in one single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is blunt or weak. Unintegrated rough digestion may be insured, the worth activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspepsia Cure. It is the great blood purifier so introduced into Canada.

To Nervous Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.
d&wly

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE
DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb. 27th; from Halifax, Sat. March, 1st. Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th. Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th. Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $65, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is unsurpassed for comfort and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

Saloon, staterooms, second cabin and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway office, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or

J. CAMPBELL, Agent
Belleville.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WM PARKER, graduate of the Yard Medical College, 25 years practice. Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

HAGYARD'S
YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FOR MEN ONLY!
A POSITIVE CURE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, Nervous and PHYSICAL DEBILITY, Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Older Young Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully restored. How to Enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, SHRUNKEN PARTS. Full particulars (sealed) Illustrative Pamphlet, Free. Address THE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

WANTED
SPECIAL AGENTS
TO WORK
Life & Accident
INSURANCE,
In the County of Hastings; apply to
S BURROWS

CATARRH,
CONSTITUTIONAL DEFINITE—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.
Physicians are now generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and contagious tubes. Microscopic research however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby it is claimed, several weeks and by three or four applications at home by the patient once in two weeks, is effected. This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment, but is a Medicated Vapor, which reaches every nasal passage and tube, and is pleasant to use. Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE, ONT.
CAPITAL - $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates
Payment can be made to full due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary to examine the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.
4CENTS PER CENT interest allowed on Deposits, subject to withdrawal at sight.
OFFICE—Masonic Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. P. C PHILLIPS, Manager.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & c Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada. Office—Front St opposite Ritchie's. Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent.
JOHN J. B. FLINT, Q. C. M. ANDERSON.
W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

TYRE & REDDICK
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notary Public Conveyancers, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont.
Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell
SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office—Corner Front and Bridge streets. Low charges. Office 8 time, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,
(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.)
BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c.—Office Merchants Building, Corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont.
Private Money to loan at 6 per cent, upon land security.

William N. Ponton
BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer. Office over Express Company's office, Victoria Block, Front street, Belleville. Private funds to loan Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Ferguson,
BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. d w

Sherry & Macaulay
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers Notaries, Public, etc. Office next door to office of U. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co. Victoria street Belleville, Ont.
GEO. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY
Private and Company funds to loan at low est rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson
BARRISTERS, Solicitors &c. Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont.
GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., | F. G. HENDERSON
County Crown Attorney
Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co Hse

McDonald & Cream
SOLICITORS Conveyancers Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Building Co. Office Campbell Build ngs, opposite Post Office Belleville. d w Block Madoc.
A. McDONALD.

Bell & Biggar
BARRISTERS Attorneys etc Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ont.
JOHN BELL, Q. C. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

N. TRACY, M.D.
CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T PARVIS, Veterinary Surgeon
GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.
OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand). Dentistry a specialty. References J P Wiser & Son, and Rd. Rooney, Brooker Telephone connect.

Kenneth Embury M. D., C. M.
QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Front Residence over Holland's jewellery store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Earlow. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.
DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. 256 College Aven Toronto.

S M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.E.M.S
(Honorary)
Graduate of Fulto University of Medicine, Cincinatti, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Fry St., the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario. Office Clerk Montreal General Hospital.
Office and residence Foxboro Ont

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES
General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc.
Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster
ISSUER of Marriage Licences, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butle
Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention to all customers. Terms liberal. A orders left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.,
SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,
SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist, Office—Bedford's Build ng, Front Street Belleville.

ARE YOU
ONE
OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker	Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.
The Health Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the New States.
The Manufacturer	takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist	takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America, visiting the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minneapolis, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher	takes the Manitoba cheap excursion to St Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the Nations at Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone	will receive maps, books and guides of the regions reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

BOOK BINDING
TAMMADGE
FRONT St Belleville

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

STEEL in Store. "Jessop's" Durable Tool Quality. All Goods imported to order. Special value in Tin Plate, Wire, Cutlery, &c. Get our prices.
A. C. LESLIE & CO.
MONTREAL AND TORONTO

H. SHOREY & CO.
Manufacturers of
MEN'S, BOY'S, YOUTH'S
AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.

THOS. DAVIDSON & CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRESSED & JAPANNED TINWARE,
WIRE GOODS,
LITHOGRAPHED SIGNS.

ROBIN & SADLER
LEATHER
BELTING
MONTREAL AND TORONTO.

PLATE GLASS.
French Mirror Plate
INSURANCE AGAINST BREAKAGE
MONGENAIS, BOIVIN & CO.
MONTREAL.

H. JONAS & CO.
GROCERS'
SUNDRIES.
Essential
OILS
AND FLAVORING
EXTRACTS.
JONAS' TRIPLE FLAVORING EXTRACTS
H. JONAS & CO MONTREAL

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED
PURE HONEST GOODS.
COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.
SAFE INGREDIENTS — NO ALUM.
Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.
Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Banannas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!
Just in to-day at
CONGER BROS.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY
—AT—
THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL
Among which are the following:—
BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc., Etc.
We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China. also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc. for decorating.
W. J. REID & CO
Benj. Birch, Manager.

SALE CONTINUED
The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during this week
Terms of sale—Cash.
Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890
GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

MENIER CHOCOLATE
UNRIVALLED. UNEQUALLED.
PUREST IN THE WORLD.
CONTAINS no CHEMICALS or ADULTERATIONS.
Paris Exposition, 1889 3 GRAND PRIZES. 3 GOLD MEDALS.
Ask your Grocer for
MENIER CHOCOLATE (YELLOW WRAPPER).
For Sale Everywhere.
BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.
DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

The best Food to impart Strength
This is the testimony of all who have used
JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF
The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food
It contains "Albumen"—"Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phosphates. In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Bad with Eczema. Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he had to be tied in his scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that the hair would never grow again. Thanks to God I am free from pimples, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to everyone as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway, Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. CASON, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist, Gainesboro, Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, The SOAP, 35; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strain, Weakness relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster, 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

RADIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

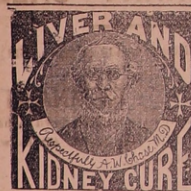
HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R CHOWN,



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and wi kdney, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills. Let many house, a they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and Kidney Cure and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain,

HENRY LIGHT.

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CURE GUARANTEED. DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Bandages, Crutches, etc. Always in stock. Promptness, honorable dealing, and the very best goods have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE

Surgical Machinist & Mfr.

234 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St. up Age of American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

In the intervals of her cooking she would turn on Stella her wild eyes, in which glared visible madness, with an expression of tenderness that amounted to worship. Then she would stare at the poor child and gnash her teeth as though with hate. Clearly she was jealous of it. Round the entrance arch of the cave peeped and peered the heads of many baboons. Presently Hendrika made a sign to one of them; apparently she did not speak, or rather grunt, in order not to wake Stella. The brute hopped forward, and she gave it a second rude wooden pot which was lying by her. It took it and went. The last thing that I saw, as the vision slowly vanished from the pool, was the dim shadow of the baboon returning with the pot full of water.

Presently everything had gone. I ceased to feel strange. There beneath me was the pool, and at my side stood Indaba-zimbi, smiling.

"You have seen things," he said.

"I have," I answered, and made no further remark on the matter. What was there to say? "Do you know the path to the cave?" I added.

He nodded his head. "I did not follow it all just now, because it winds," he said. "But I know it. We shall want the ropes."

"Then let us be starting; the men have eaten."

He nodded his head again, and, going to the men, I told them to make ready, adding that Indaba-zimbi knew the way. They said that was all right; if Indaba-zimbi had "smelt her out" they should soon find the Star. So we started cheerfully enough, and my spirits were so much improved that I was able to eat a boiled mealie cob or two as we walked.

We went up the valley, following the course of the stream for about a mile; then Indaba-zimbi made a sudden turn to the right along another kloof, of which there were countless numbers in the base of the great hill.

On we went through kloof after kloof, Indaba-zimbi, who led us, was never at a loss; he turned up gulleys and struck across necks of hills with the certainty of a hound on a hot scent. At length, after about three hours' march, we came to a big silent valley on the northern slope of the great peak. On one side of this valley was a series of stony kopjes, on the other rose a sheer wall of rock. We marched along the wall for a distance of some two miles. Then suddenly Indaba-zimbi halted.

"There is the place," he said, pointing to an opening in the cliff. This opening was about forty feet from the ground, and ellipse shaped. It cannot have been more than twenty feet high by ten wide, and was partially hidden by ferns and bushes that grew about it in the surface of the cliff. Keen as my eyes were, I doubt if I should ever have noticed it, for there were many such cracks and crannies in the rocky face of the great mountain.

We drew near and looked carefully at the place. The first thing I noticed was that the rock, which was not quite perpendicular, had been worn by the continual passage of baboons; the second, that something white was hanging on a bush near the top of the ascent.

It was a pocket-handkerchief.

Now there was no more doubt about the matter. With a beating heart I began the ascent. For the first twenty feet it was comparatively easy, for the rock shelved; the next ten feet was very difficult, but still possible to an active man, and I achieved it, followed by Indaba-zimbi. But the last twelve or fifteen feet could only be scaled by throwing a rope over the trunk of a stunted tree, which grew at the bottom of the opening. This we accomplished with some trouble, and the rest was easy. A foot or two above my head the handkerchief fluttered in the wind. Hanging to the rope, I grasped it. It was my wife's. As I did so I noticed the face of a baboon peering at me over the edge of the cleft, the first baboon we had seen that morning. The brute gave a bark and vanished. Thrusting the handkerchief into my breast, I set my feet against the cliff and scrambled up as hard as I could go. I knew that we had no time to lose, for the baboon would quickly alarm the others. I gained the cleft. It was a mere arched passage cut by water, ending in a gulley, which led to a wide open space of some sort. I looked through the passage and saw that the gulley was black with baboons. On they came by the hundred. I unslung my elephant gun from my shoulders, and waited, calling to the men below to come up with all possible speed. The brutes streamed on down the gloomy gulf towards me, barking, grunting and showing their huge teeth. I waited till they were within fifteen yards. Then I fired the elephant gun, which was loaded with slugs, right into the thick of them. In that narrow place the report echoed like a cannon shot, but its sound was quickly swallowed in the volley of piercing human sounding groans and screams that followed. The charge of heavy slugs had plowed through the number of the baboons, of which at least a dozen lay dead or dying in the passage. For a moment they hesitated, then they came on again with a hideous clamor. Fortunately by this time Indaba-zimbi, who also had a gun, was standing by my side, otherwise I should have been torn to pieces before I could reload. He fired both barrels into them, and again checked the rush. But they came on again, and notwithstanding the appearance of two natives with guns, which they let off with more or less success, we should have been overwhelmed by the great and ferocious apes had I not by this time succeeded in reloading the elephant gun. When they were right on to us I fired, with even more deadly effect than before, for at that distance every slug told on their longline. The howls and screams of rage and fury were now something inconceivable. One might have thought that we were doing battle with a host of demons indeed in that light—for the overhanging arch of rock made it very dark—the gnashing mouths and somber glowing eyes of the apes looked like those of devils as they are represented by monkish fancy. But the last shot was too much for them; they wheeled, drew, dragging some of their wounded with them, and thus gave us time to get our men up the cliff. In a few minutes all were there, and we advanced down the passage, which presently opened into a rocky gulley with shelving sides. This gulley had a water way at the bottom of it; it was about a hundred yards long, and the slopes on either side were topped by precipitous cliffs. I looked at these cliffs; they literally were swarming with baboons, grunting, barking, screaming, and beating their breasts with their long arms in fury. I looked up the water way; along it, accompanied by a mob, or, as it were, a guard of baboons, came Hendrika, her long hair flying, madness written on her face, and in her arms was the senseless form of little Tota.

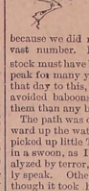
She saw us, and a foam of rage burst from her lips. She screamed aloud. To me the sound was a mere inarticulate cry, but the baboons clearly understood it, for they became so hideous that I turn to us. One bowlder leaped past me and struck down a Kaffir behind; another fell from the roof of the arch on to a man's head and killed him; Indaba-zimbi lifted his gun to shoot Hendrika; I knocked it up so that the shot went over her, crying that he would kill the child. Then I shouted to the men to open out and form a line from side to side of the shelving gulley. Furious at the loss of their two comrades, they obeyed me, and keeping in the water way myself, together with Indaba-zimbi and the other guns, I gave the word to charge.

Then the real battle began. It is difficult to say who fought the more fiercely—the natives or the baboons. The Kaffirs charged along the slopes, and as they came, encouraged by the screams of Hendrika, who rushed to and fro holding the wretched Tota before her as a shield, the apes bounded at them in fury. Scores were killed by the assegais and more more fell beneath our gun shots, but still they came on. Nor did we go scathless. Occasionally a man would slip, or be pulled over in the grip of a baboon. Then the others would fling themselves upon him like dogs on a rat, and worry him to death. We lost five men in this way, and I myself received a bite through the fleshy part of the left arm, but fortunately a native near me assegaied the animal before I was pulled down.

At length, and all of a sudden, the baboons gave up. A panic seemed to seize them. Notwithstanding the cries of Hendrika they thought no more of fight, but only of escape; some even did not attempt to get away from the assegais of the Kaffirs, they simply hid their horrible faces in their paws, and, moaning piteously, waited to be slain.

Hendrika saw that the battle was lost. Dropping the child from her arms, she rushed straight at us, a very picture of horrible insanity. I lifted my gun, but could not bear to shoot. After all she was but a mad thing, half ape, half woman. So I sprang to one side, and she landed full on Indaba-zimbi, knocking him down. But she did not stay to do any more. Wailing terribly, she rushed down the gulley and through the arch, followed by many of the surviving baboons, and vanished from our sight.

CHAPTER XIII.



THE FIGHT was over. In all we had lost seven men killed, and several more were severely bitten, while but few had escaped without some tokens whereby he might remember what a baboon's teeth and claws are like. How many of the brutes we killed I never knew, because we did not count, but it was a vast number. I should think that the stock must have been low about Babyan's peak for many years afterwards. From that day to this, however, I have always avoided baboons, for they are afraid of them than any beast that lives.

The path was clear, and we rushed forward up the water-course. But first we picked up little Tota. The child was not in a swoon, as I had thought, but paralyzed by terror, so that she could scarcely speak. Otherwise she was unhurt, though it took her many a week to recover her nerve. Had she been older, and had she not remembered Hendrika, I doubt if she would have recovered it. She knew me again, and flung her little arms about my neck, clinging to me so closely that I did not dare to give her to any one else to carry for I should add to her terrors. So I went on with her in my arms. The fears that pierced my heart may well be imagined. Should I find Stella alive or dead? Should I find her at all? Well, we should soon know now. We stumbled on up the stony water-course; notwithstanding the weight of Tota, I led the way, for, suspense lent me wings. Now we were at the throat, and an extraordinary scene lay before us. We were in a great natural amphitheatre, only it was three times the size of any amphitheatre ever shaped by man, and the walls were formed of precipitous cliffs, ranging from one to two hundred feet in height. For the rest, the space thus inclosed was level, studded with park-like trees, brilliant with flowers, and having a stream running through the center of it that, as I afterwards discovered, welled up from the ground at the head of the open space.

We spread ourselves out in a line, searching everywhere, for Tota was too overcome to be able to tell us where Stella was hidden away. For nearly half an hour we searched and searched, scanning the walls of rock for any possible opening to a cave. In vain—we could find none. I applied to old Indaba-zimbi, but his foresight was at fault here. All he could say was that this was the place, and that the "Star" was hidden somewhere in a cave, but where the cave was he could not tell. At last we came to the top of the amphitheatre. There before us was a wall of rock, of which the lower parts were here and there clothed in grasses, lichens and creepers. I walked along it, calling at the top of my voice.

TO BE CONTINUED

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE SICK HEADACHE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE

yet they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents, five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Nerve Pain Cured.

Polson's Nervoline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nervoline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nervoline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervoline.

Their generation and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Pennsylvania Grain Belt

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To rekindle the life and energy of the roots to a vigorous growth after taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sur to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it. It is money worth. See Dorenwends advertisement another column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervoline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; it cures sciatica in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nervoline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and seen it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially when cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Foot.

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. Irritation to extreme tumor, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia.

Tyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia.

Tyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is a true blood purifier.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind.

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg.
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, Agent,
Next Bulletin Block, Front Front St.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST,

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.

MANUFACTURER OF THE CELEBRATED DOMESTIC YEAST CAKES.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and suffering the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskilled pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association, for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and scores of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies are represented as a security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts the safest risks plus without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1888..... $77,400.85.
Asset. Dec 31st 1888. $188,206.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liver Capital ..... $2,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—TO—

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Has equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

—CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Ore or any other kind of Grate.

HOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insures nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their contents, farm property; take no interest on manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty years, they can point to an honorable and success record, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property, will find it advantageous to make one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District Agent, Belleville
W HARVEY, agent, Ivanhoe
J. Martin agent Stirling.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROWSINESS, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from Impure or Sluggish BLOOD, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE.

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal thirty days notice and note allowed.

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men to sell our well known nurseries. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

Stoney Creek, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

A few hundred large size cedar post A Cantham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

Pse—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK PILLS

A SURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work, should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known, or Business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY NURSERYMEN.

COLBORNE — — ONTARIO.

DOWLOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT ARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

—Just opened out at the—

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it in a healthy condition. Its use in dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, and not a substitute, as some of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want any hair is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper wh n writing

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS ETC

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of unfounded assertions, which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by unscrupulous competitors, and in spite of false attempts to imitate the title of the Art, the Loisette Method remains the undoubted superiority and economy of the intellectual Food for the Mind. Never Forgetting is recognized in Modern Mental Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives optimal testimonies to the value of the Method, and is usually studied his System by correspondence, showing what has been done, and what is now, and will be, and afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, without memory, or even a trace. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials, address, Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,

Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and poisons in the blood and secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Sight, Jaundice, Sore Eyes, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select skins with advantage not had by other manufacturers, as all works is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St, East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Bad with Eczema. Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head, and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now nicely grown and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cures for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you my thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of a sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—count as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H CASON, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainsboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently and at small cost of fifty cents, dollar, and $1, cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, The SOAP, 35; RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pgs 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weakness relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His

Fall Stock of Stoves at

CREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

RADIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R CHOWN,

T. EDMANSON & CO, Agents for Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried Kidney Cure, after using the first bottle, I found it was so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken two bottles of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics etc.

RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUBFEET, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompt attention, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE Surgical Machinist & Mfr. 234 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Fronts $8 op Ang o-American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

In the intervals of her cooking she would turn on Stella her wild eyes, in which glared viable madness, with an expression of tenderness that amounted to worship. Then she would stare at the poor child and gnash her teeth as though with hate. Clearly she was jealous of it. Round the entrance arch of the cave peeped and peered the heads of many baboons. Presently Hendrika made a sign to one of them; apparently she did not speak, or rather grunt, in order not to wake Stella. The brute hopped forward, and she gave it a second rude wooden pot which was lying by her. It took it and went. The last thing that I saw, as the vision slowly vanished from the pool, was the dim shadow of the baboon returning with the pot full of water.

Presently everything had gone. I ceased to feel strange. There beneath me was the pool, and at my side stood Indaba-zimbi, smiling.

"You have seen things," he said.

"I have," I answered, and made no further remark on the matter. What was there to say? "Do path to the cave" I adde

He nodded his head. " it all just now, because said. "But I know it.

the ropes."

"Then let us be startin eaten."

He nodded his head a to the men, I told them adding that Indaba-zimb

They said that was all ri zimbi had "smelt her o soon find the Star. So fully enough, and my much improved that I w

boiled mealie cob or two

We went up the valle course of the stream

then Indaba-zimbi mad to the right along anothe

there were countless nu of the great hill.

On we went through

Indaba-zimbi, who led a loss; he turned up gul across necks of hills w of a hound on a hot sc

after about three hours to a big silent valley slope of the great peak;

this valley was a series on the other rose a she

We marched along the

tance of some two mile

Indaba-zimbi halted.

"There is the place,"

to an opening in the cli

was about forty feet f

and ellipse shaped. It more than twenty feet and was partially hidd bushes that grew about of the cliff. Keen as doubt if I should ever for there were many crannies in the rocky mountain.

We drew near and lo

the place. The first th that the rock, which w pendicular, had been w

ual passage of baboons;

something white was h

near the top of the asce

It was a pocket-hand

Now there was no m

the matter. With a b gun the ascent. For th

it was comparatively e

shelved; the next ten f

cult, but still possible and I achieved it, fol zimbi. But the last feet could only be scal rope over the trunk o which grew at the opening. This we a some trouble, and the foot or two above my chief fluttered in the w

the rope, I grasped it.

As I did so I noticed t peering at me over the

the first baboon we ha

ing. The brute gave ished. Thrusting the my breast. I set my fe and scrambled up as h

I knew that we had n

the baboon would q

others. I gained th mere arched passage

ing in a gulley, which space of some sort. I passage and saw tha black with baboons. On the hundred. I unslung m gun from my shoulders, and waited calling to the men below to come up with all possible speed. The brutes streamed on down the gloomy gulf to wards me, barking, grunting and shoving ing their huge teeth. I waited till they were within fifteen yards. Then I fired the elephant gun, which was loaded with slugs, right into the thick of them.

In that narrow place the report echoed like a cannon shot, but its sound was quickly swallowed in the volley of piercing human sounding groans and screams that followed. The charge of heavy slugs had plowed through the number of the baboons, of which at least a dozen lay dead or dying in the passage. For a mo ment they hesitated, then they came on again with a hideous clamor. Fortunately by this time Indaba-zimbi, who also had a gun, was standing by my side, otherwise I should have been torn to pieces before I could reload. He fired both barrels into them, and again checked the rush. But they came on again, and notwithstanding the appearance of two na tives with guns, which they let off with more or less success, we should have been overwhelmed by the great and ferocious apes had I not by this time succeeded in reloading the elephant gun. When they were right on to us I fired, with even more deadly effect than before, for at that distance every slug told on their long line. The howls and screams of rage and fury now something inconceivable.

One might have thought that we were doing battle with a host of demons; indeed in that light—for the overhanging arch of rock made it very dark—the gnashing snouts and somber glowing eyes of the apes looked like those of devils as they are represented by monkish fancy. But the last shot was too much for them; they with drew, dragging some of their wounded with them, and thus gave us time to get our men up the cliff. In a few minutes all were there, and we advanced down the passage, which presently opened into a rocky gulley with shelving sides. This gulley had a water way at the bottom of it; it was about a hundred yards long, and the slopes on either side were topped by precipitous cliffs. I looked at these slopes; they literally swarmed with baboons, grunting, barking, screaming, and beating their breasts with their long arms in fury. I looked up the water way, along it, accompanied by a mob, or, as it were, a guard of baboons, came Hen drika, her long hair flying, madness written on her face, and in her arms was the senseless form of little Tota.

She saw us, and a foam of rage burst from her lips. She screamed aloud. To me the sound was a mere inarticulate cry, but the baboons clearly understood it, for they began to roll rocks down on to us. One bowlder leaped past me and struck down a Kaffir behind; another fell from the roof of the arch on to a mass of heads and killed three. Indaba-zimbi lifted his gun to shoot Hendrika; I knocked it up so that the shot went over

TO BE CONTINUED

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after Eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

HEAD

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents, five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nervoline cures headache, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sore sickness and

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST, CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS INGREDIENT.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. MANUFACTURER OF CHICAGO, ILL. THE CELEBRATED "ROYAL" YEAST CAKES.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EMBRACED VITALITY

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

"Speak Now"

For the Daily Ontario.

~~Reply to Mr. Carman's letter in the Daily Ontario~~

~~impertinent~~ That waste paper basket has the intelligence fallen afoul of now, that is, till on the 20th, just for some one to speak should be so planting? It is evidently hungry for notoriety. Because Mr. Carman took a fact as reported by one of the Intelligence's honorable Commissioners, and with the indorsation of that paper by the publication of his strictures, laid out its incredibility before the country, he has attacked the Government. Has it come to this, that a man can say nothing in defence of country or liberty without attacking the Government. In such a case the question arises which should get out of the way, the country or that Government? My article in the Witness was no attack upon the Government; and though so accepted, was not so designed. It was a discharge of plain duty, an acquittal of conscience—if such a plea can be allowed to any publicist who would force a Separate School on Manitoba—and a defence of the liberty of a tolerant and generous people.

But the Premier has denied the statement, and Mr Carman should now withdraw his history and his conclusions. Would that we could defy history and so mad in the face of Mr Political you instance trial of two friends of a Committee or two friends of a Cabinet may satisfy the Intelligencer that would fill the pound after under three people in the country that would fill the pound after under three items in the of they had the certificate of a competent and [illegible] of both having which [illegible] and all around his, unless we are altogether [illegible] Tota with the public [illegible] was brought in Montreal.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN, PIMPLES, BOILS, TETTER, ECZEMA, ERUPTIONS, and all diseases arising from Impurities of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, or Bowels.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE.

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal on 3 days notice and interest allowed

WANTED GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to energetic, Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St. Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,210,000

Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office—Victoria Block, East Front St.

E WESTERN

Assurance Company.

AND MARINE INS.,

BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSUR NCE CO.

E & LIFE INS.,

Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

nt Insurance Coy of North America.

Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

"White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

ce and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

VING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

CKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

hundered large size ce-ar post A Cantham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

is good time to select implements for ext season. Every farmer should call FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and ow all steel arch frame spring tooth and Cultivator e—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK PILLS

A PURE CURE

BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, DYSPEPSIA, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE EXPULSION AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

WEAK MEN

ing from the effects of youthful errors, early waking weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will valuable treatise (sealed) containing full ticulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A ful medical work; should be read by every ho is nervous and debilitated. Address, F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY

NURSERYMEN

COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEETEST SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

—Just opened out at the—

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for 35

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. At Dorwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you wan any hair in the correct shape to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS, COLDS & HOARSENESS ETC.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the unbridled superiority and popularity of the genuine) Prof. Loisette's Art of Memory, remains the Epoch in Study to both Hemispheres, as evinced by over twelve Memory Colleges, Hundreds of Teachers and Professors in all parts of the globe who have adopted and use his Memory Discovery, thereby proving that his System is used only where being studied, and is necessarily the best and only Memory Method, as evidenced by the many testimonial letters, unsolicited, voluntarily offered, etc. For Prospectuses, Testimonials and Particulars, address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt, Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually and without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Cleansing, Purifying and Invigorating the Stomach, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Blotches, Tetter, Scaldhead, Rheumatism and General Debility yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantage not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St, East Opposite City Hall. Belleville.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Bad with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy was born one year ago was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of his own physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now coming in and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old fever sore, the long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—cured as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H Casey, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 75c SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pgs 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

A. R. CHOWN,

Will offer the Balance of His Fall Stock of Stoves at

GREATLY REDUC'D PRICES

COAL HEATERS

with or without Ovens,

Coal and Wood Cooks, Ingle Grates, Box Stoves

and also the Famous

RADIANT - HOME - STOVES

—AND—

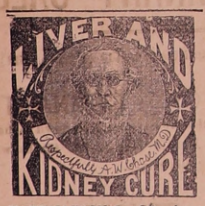
HAPPY - THOUGHT - RANGES

—WITH—

Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate

REMEMBER THE PLACE.

A. R CHOWN,



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, as they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT.

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. We will supply You by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspenders, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompness, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. ROBINSON, Surgical Machinist & Mfr. 234 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Company of Manchester, Eng. Office Front St op Arcade.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS &c

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

In the intervals of her cooking she would turn on Stella her wild eyes, in which glared visible madness, with an expression of tenderness that amounted to worship. Then she would stare at the poor child and gnash her teeth as though with hate. Clearly she was jealous of it. Round the entrance arch of the cave peeped and peered the heads of many baboons. Presently Hendrika made a sign to one of them; apparently she did not speak, or rather grunt, in order not to wake Stella. The brute hopped forward, and she gave it a second rude wooden pot which was lying by her. It took it and went. The last thing that I saw, as the vision slowly faded from the pool, was the dim shadow of the baboon returning with the pot full of water.

Presently everything had gone. I ceased to feel strange. There beneath me was the pool, and at my side stood Indaba-zimbi, smiling.

"You have seen things," he said.

"I have," I answered, and made no further remark on the matter. What was there to say? "Do you know the path to the cave?" I added.

He nodded his head. "I did not follow it all just now, because it winds," he said. "But I know it. We shall want the ropes."

"Then let us best eaten."

He nodded his he to the men, I told t adding that Indaba They said that was zimbi had "smelt soon find the Star. fully enough, and much improved th boiled meat, the cob

We went up the course of the stre then Indaba-zimbi to the right along a there were countle of the great hill.

On we went thro Indaba-zimbi, wh a loss; he turned a across necks of h of a hound on a h after about three l to a big silent v slope of the great this valley was a a on the other rose We marched alon tance of some two Indaba-zimbi halt

"There is the pl to an opening in t was about forty f and ellipse shaped more than twenty and was partially bushes that grew of the cliff. Kee doubt if I should for there were n crannies in the r mountain.

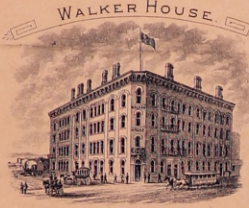
We drew near the place. The f that the rock, wh pendicular, had b ual passage of ba something white vanished from the top of t

It was a pocke Now there was the matter. Wi gan the ascent. it was comparat shelved; the nex cult, but still po and I achieved zimbi. But the feet could only b rope over the tr which grew a opening. This some trouble, an foot or two abov chief fluttered in the rope. I grasp As I did so I not peering at me o the first baboon ing. The brute ished. Thrustin my breast. I set and scrambled t I knew that we the baboon we others. I gain mere arched pa ing in a gulley, space of some s passage and s black with babo the hundred. gun from my calling to the with all possi streamed on d wards me, bari ing their huge teeth. I waited till they were within fifteen yards. Then I fired the elephant gun, which was loaded with slugs, right into the thick of them. In this narrow place the report echoed like a cannon shot, but its sound was quickly swallowed in the volley of piercing human sounding groans and screams that followed. The charge of heavy slugs had plowed through the number of the baboons, of which at least a dozen lay dead or dying in the passage. For a moment they hesitated, then they came on again with a hideous clamor. Fortunately by this time Indaba-zimbi, who also had a gun, was standing by my side, otherwise I should have been torn to pieces before I could reload. He fired both barrels into them, and again checked the rush. But they came on again, and notwithstanding the appearance of two native with guns, which they let off with more or less success, we should have been overwhelmed by the great and ferocious apes had I not by this time succeeded in reloading the elephant gun. When they were right on to us I fired, with even more deadly effect than before, for at that distance every slug told on their long line. The howls and screams of rage and fury were now something inconceivable. One might have thought that we were doing battle with a host of demons; indeed in that light—for the overhanging arch of rock made it very dark—the gnashing snouts and somber glowing eyes of the apes looked like those of devils as they are represented by monkish fancy. But the last shot was too much for them; they turned, drew, dragging some of their wounded with them, and thus gave us time to get our men up the cliff. In a few minutes all were there, and we advanced down the passage, which presently opened into a rocky gulley with shelving sides. This gulley had a water way at the bottom of it; it was about a hundred yards long, and the slopes on either side were topped by precipitous cliffs. I looked at these slopes; they literally swarmed with baboons, grunting, barking, screaming, and beating their breasts with their long arms in fury. I looked up the water way; along it, accompanied by a mob, or, as it were, a guard of baboons, came Hendrika, her long hair flying, madness written on her face, and in her arms was the senseless form of little Tota.

She saw us, and a foam of rage burst from her lips. She screamed aloud. To me the sound was a mere inarticulate cry, but the baboons clearly understood it, for they began to roll rocks down on to us. One bowlder leaped past me and struck down a Kaffir behind; another fell from the roof of the arch on to a man's head and killed him, Indaba-zimbi lifted his gun to shoot Hendrika; I knocked it up so that the shot went over her, crying that he would kill the child. Then I shouted to the men to open out and form a line from side to side of the shelving gulley. Furious at the loss of their two comrades, they obeyed me.

TO BE CONTINUED

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.



Walker House

DAVID WALKER Proprietor.

COR. OF YORK & FRONT STREETS.

Toronto 189

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

ACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent free by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerveline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerveline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerveline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerveline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerveline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerveline is the best remedy in

Pleasant Purgative Pills

SYMPTOMS—Moist eye; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. It allowed to continue turns to form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. WAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in in most cases removes the tumors. At all druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. CHICAGO, ILL.

MANUFACTURER OF THE CELEBRATED LAYER YEAST CAKES.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Indiscretion, Wasting and unfitting the victim

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE.

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal at sight. Interest allowed

WANTED GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg. Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,216,600

Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office—Robertson Block, East Front St.

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

THE WESTERN Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS., NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS., Union Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y. Accident Insurance Coy of North America. Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Agts Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

A few hundered large size cedar post. A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

P S—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK PILLS

A PERFECT CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

References.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY NURSERYMEN.

COLBORNE — — — ONTARIO.

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP

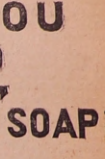
DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

AN EXTENSIVE —ASSORTMENT OF— FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

—Just opened out at the—

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN



"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend, Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods,

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want any has is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM CURES COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, ETC.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

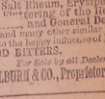
In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the genuine, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by persons who would be competitors, and in spite of false claims to rob him of the fruit of his labors, the fame of which demonstrates the intrinsic merit and popularity of his teaching, Professor Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized by all as both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives testimonials of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, and proves that his System is used only while Instruction is fresh in mind afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, with unerring accuracy, etc. Prospectus, with Testimonials, free by post on application to Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt, Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.



Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off completely without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, as a gentle Purgative Anti-Bilious and General Debility tonic, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Costiveness, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Nervous Debility, Fluttering of the Heart, and General Debility and those and many other similar Complaints yield to the heavy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DUEMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantage not had by other manufacturers, so all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St, East Opposite City Hall. Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, we have thrown in a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms,

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 12 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN, d1y Tuner.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it.

DICKENS & SON, Agt'.

Jumped the Track,

Two cars belonging to a freight train ran off the track a few miles east of Brighton yesterday morning caused by a defective axel. A detachment of men from Belleville soon had the line clear and the passenger trains had but trifling delays.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston bluefish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, cisco es etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

Sons of Canada.

The Sons of Canada will meet in the Temperance Hall to-night for organization. Mr. MacLean, grand organizer, of Toronto, through his energy, has received a large membership and he hopes to establish a flourishing society.

A Good Pastor.

At a meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of the Tabernacle, held last evening a resolution was unanimously passed expressing appreciation of the services of Rev. Geo. H. Copeland as pastor and a desire that he should return to the congregation for a third year.

Should be Patronized.

Mr. E. C. McCargar will open an auction sale room in the city in a few days. Any one wishing to dispose of any articles of any description will do well to place their goods in Mr. McCargar's hands as he is considered one of the best auctioneers in the county.

Light Weight.

Kingston coal dealers have been detected in giving light weigh: to their customers. Some loads were found to be over weight others light. An alderman at the last meeting of the council contended that the light loads should be sent to the city charities. Ald. Swift suggested public weigh scales. He would pay for one of the scales himself.

No Quorum at the Board Meeting.

There was not a quorum present at the Board of Education meeting last night. Those present were: Hugh Walker, S. A. Moore, O. C. Greenleaf, Wm Tennant, S. G. Harris, John Marlin, W. H. C. Carmichael, Thos. Wills, Dr. Tracy and H. W. Taylor. The only business of importance to be transacted was to order a new election for Sawyer Ward as no notice having been nominated on nomination day.

A Public Loss.

Peter Henderson, one of the best known seedsman in America and personally known by several Belleville dealers died in New York on January 16th last in the sixty-eight year of his age. The loss of a man who has done so much for American horticulture in the past forty years will be keenly felt by thousands all over the land, even by many who never saw him, and to whom he was only known through his books and published articles.

Going to Have a Drill Hall.

Mayor Brennan of Kingston, met Sir Adolphe Caron a few days ago and they conversed about the proposed drill shed for Kingston. Sir Adolphe says if the city will purchase the Garvin property on Ordnance and Bagot streets he will have a sum placed in the estimates for a drill hall which will astonish the citizens. The proposition is to have an armory for the 14th, 47th, 4th cavalry and Kingston field battery. Mayor Drennan asked the militia department to deed the city the land in rear of the Central School and facing on Montreal St, and then the city would talk business.

VICTORIOUS CURLERS.

BELLEVILLE WILL REPRESENT GROUP NO 1

They Win Easily From Port Hope—Joe Clarke Saves Them From Defeat by Brockville.

Yesterday was a great day among local curlers. The Port Hope boys arrived in the morning and at 2 o'clock commenced a match against Belleville in the primary competition for the Ontario tankard. The following was the composition of the rinks and the scores made:

PORT HOPE.	BELLEVILLE
W J Cotlwell	John Bogart
E P Rose	Jas Jenkins
W W Renwick	Thos Thompson
E W Barton—Skip 17	W H Biggar—skip 24
RINK NO. 2.
A F H Jones	M D Ward
Robt Henning	R S Bell
Geo Red ick	F Dolan
Thos W Ward—Skip 29	Joe Clarke—Skip 19

The match lasted for nearly four hours and the fun waxed fast and furious. A large crowd of spectators witnessed the game and applauded the home teams every time a good point was scoring. Joe. Clarke did good work and at one time saved the game for the home club. The boys never appeared in better shape and are even now betting on their chances at the final meeting at Toronto. As will be seen by the above figure Belleville carried the game by six points.

The players then drove to the G. T. R. depot and met the Brockville players on the six o'clock train. They were escorted to the Hub where a tempting supper had been prepared for the visitors by the Belleville club. Ex-Mayor Biggar president of the club, occupied the chair and Wm. Webster did the honors of vice president. After a sociable hour had been spent the players adjourned to the rink on Pinnacle street and entered the fray with Belleville with the following result:

RINK NO 1.
BROCKVILLE	BELLEVILLE
A B Brodick	John Bogart
D W Downey	Jas E Jenkins
J Wilkinson	Thos Thomson
D Dennee—Skip 17	W H Biggar—Skip 12
RINK No 2.
A Abbott	M D Ward
J W T Watson	R S Bell
R C Hamilton	F Dolan
C Jamieson—Skip 16	Jos D Clarke—Skip 24

Belleville consequently won the game by three points and will represent group No 1 at the final contest at Toronto. It was midnight before the players laid down their brooms. D. B. Robertson officiated as convenor. One enthusiastic Scotchman was so pleased with the courtesy of our city clerk that he gave him his broom with the farewell: "When you come to Brockville come to my house." The visitors did not return until this morning. Everyone was high in their praise of the treatment received by the local club during their sojourn in the city.

THE BAY BRIDGE.

Contractors Will be Held to the Letter of Their Agreement.

While the cold weather lasts every effort should be put forward to advance the bridge across the bay. At least two-hundred men should be put on at once while the ice is solid. An official in the company's employ stated to a reporter yesterday that the contractors would be held to the letter of their agreement. "We gave them their own time in which to do the work, and the company will not extend it beyond that limit. Everyone is anxious that the bridge should be opened as early as possible, and the company are doing all in their power to press the work forward." The substructure will have to be completed by Sept. 1st of this year and the superstructure before November 1st. The road will then be open for traffic.

AFTER HUSH MONEY.

An Attempt to Blead a Disappointed Would-be Lover.

A new light has been thrown on the social affair published in yesterday's ONTARIO in reference to a certain young man who anonymously proposed a meeting with a young lady. If the rumors now current have any foundation the suspicion has been aroused in the minds of some people that the man was guided in his approaches by encouragement on the part of the lady. Be this as it may the story is told that a brother of hers subsequently approached the gentleman charged with the authorship of the letter and demanded $125 hush money. It is also stated the brother was not the only party to the arrangement. The demand was refused and the gentleman sought the advice of his lawyer who wrote the brother a letter which seems to have dampened his ardor for sudden itch as will be stated, has left the city.

SEBINA'S SENTIMENTS.

It was not the Justice of the Law but Money That She Wants!.

Sebina Henry, employed in the Anglo American hotel stepped into the witness box at the police court today and charged the proprietor, D. Coyle, with refusing to pay her five dollars wages which she claimed were due her. After the genial landlord had explained the case to the magistrate and showed where the woman was in error, his honor endeavored to point out the fact to the plaintiff, but she got up on her high horse and was so decidedly indignant that the magistrate should dare to attempt to mete out justice to all parties concerned, that she gathered her dress up in her arms and swept out of the court room with a majestic airs, to the utter astonishment and amusement of the court and assembled officers. "Well," said the magistrate, "I don't think I will ever try a case for her again." Of course the case was dismissed.

DOING THE TOWN.

He Wanted to Shoot But was Satisfied I to Pay His Fine.

Wm. Beauford was arrested in the Headquarters Hotel last night by Officer Morton for behaving drunk and disorderly and threatening to shoot the first man that "riled his temper." When the bold officer appeared on the scene the man was flourishing a loaded English bulldog revolver, cow boy like over his head and acting in a most careless and reckless manner, but he was gathered in. At the police court to day Magistrate Ponton imposed a nominal fine of $5 and ordered the weapon to be confiscated.

"This is the first time I was ever behind the bars" said the prisoner as chief of police Newton handed him back his traps this morning, "and I hope it will be the last, I carried that revolver to protect myself against a certain man but I guess I'll never carry it again."

Methodist Probationers

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Official Board of the Tabernacle last night, Mr. J. Nelson Brown, of Victoria University and Messrs. James Batstone and J. R. Butler of Albert College were unanimously recommended as candidates for the Methodist ministry. Messrs. Thos. Meredith, John Garbutt, and Jas. Snell. Also students of Albert were cordially recommended to be employed in the work of the ministry, under chairmen.

One of Nordheimer's latest pieces of music is "Spring Reverie," a charming song for mezzo-soprano, composed by Emma Fraser Blackstock.

Mr. WOOD'S EXPENSES.

A North Hastings Farmer's View of the Charges.

To the Editor of the ONTARIO.

Dear Sir:—I notice in your weekly of 6th inst. reference is made to the modest little sum of $3,056.38 which has been paid to Mr. A. F. Wood for 195 days services last year as one of the valuators and bailiffs to the canals, by the government. Mr Wood is just as cosmopolitan as was the man who said "the world owed him a living" as it is only the government that he draws his living from.

It would be interesting to know just how much this Mr. Wood had been paid by the government from time to time, and what amount of services that had been rendered. Probably Mr. Wood is retaliating on the government, and endeavoring to get back that which it took from him in his dismissal from the office of postmastership, and that of marriage license agent. Only think what he might have realized from those offices, and especially the latter, in all these years.

The above is a nice little sum for about six months service, and by the simple rule of three would be about $5,000 a year and this is only one of the numerous receipts which come to Mr. Wood. A very large portion of his time, some say three fourths, is taken up in his private office, representing loan companies, conveyancing, attending to magisterial duties, and until lately engaged at grain buying, and finally his indemnity of $900 from the local legislature.

The amount charged in the bill for travelling expenses is unreasonably high, and out of all proportion to the time engaged. When it is shown that the most of Mr. Wood's labor was as arbitrator in connection with the Welland canal, which anybody acquainted with arbitrations know that a large portion of the time is taken up with sittings.

By the way, it has just occurred to me that I was attending a nomination some time ago at Madoc, for a candidate for the local legislature, when these enormous bills which it had been shown Mr. Wood had been receiving from the government from year to year, came overbalancing. I remember very well that one of the speakers charged that Mr. Wood had received over $200 for services and travelling expenses, a large portion for the latter in a specified month, when it was alleged it could be shown and proven, that during that month Mr. Wood had not been out of his office, I think the time was three days. Mr. Wood, however, did not deny the charge, but got very angry and agitated and to this day, in so far as I know, has not attempted to deny it.

$3,056.38 is a nice little sum for a man to have in his pocket, and even after deducting the travelling expenses, and who ever else may have reason to complain of hard times it ought not to be Mr. Wood.

It would require 8,500 bushels of barley, at the present price, to pay off this little bill.

Travelling expenses $1,166.36 for about six months, principally going to, and from an arbitration. Mr. Wood must have taken a leaf out of the Governor General's memorandum book to govern him in his charges for travelling expenses, and out Sir John's for cab hire.

Is it any surprise that there should be depression throughout the Dominion, and especially among the farming community. When they are taxed directly and indirectly to sustain and perpetuate such extravagance, and for which so little service is performed? Yours, etc.,

North Hastings, Feb. 8, FARMER.

GRAND TRUNK SHOPS.

Increasing the Accommodation and Enlarging the Staff.

As a balm to the ruffled feelings of the Kingston press it may be stated that the improvements as now being prosecuted at the Grand Trunk railway repair shops here will cost several thousand dollars. Very little can be learned from the railway officials here who are reticent when approached on the subject of railways, but it is stated on good authority no such idea as removing them to Kingston was ever entertained. The Kingston papers are trying to attract the attention of the Grand Trunk to their graveyard but their vision is a hopeless one, and is met with but little favor in the eyes of those who have to say in the matter. A prominent official of the line stated to a reporter of the ONTARIO to-day that as soon as practicable eight more blacksmiths will be employed in the shops here. Every department will be proportionately increased. The accommodation here is not equalled in any city in Canada and to say the least it would cost $300,000 to remove the works.

Fined for his Fun

Officer Stoneburg last night arrested James Whalen for disorderly conduct in the Windsor hotel. He bit Charles Kurtis' finger in his enthusiasm and the magistrate today cooled off his ardor by fining him $5.

Lecture By Rev Dr George.

Rev. Dr. George will deliver a lecture on "The British Isles," in John St, church S. S. room on Thursday evening Fed 13th. Admission 15 cents. The Albert College Quartette will furnish music.

Fair Pleasure Seekers.

Thos. Gault, liveryman, drove the following pleasure party up from Deseronto to-day. Miss Cameron, Miss Bogart, Miss Oliver, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. McGaughey, Miss A. Bogart, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Evans, Miss Biggs and Miss L. Bogart. They registered at the Kyle house.

Accident in the Woods.

On Tuesday, John Kerrin, working in the woods of P. Ketcheson near the town hall, Sidney, met with an accident which cost him his right hand. He was falling a tree which split as it fell, one part catching his hand, smashing it into a shapeless mass. Dr. Wilson of this city, and Dr. Stevenson, Trenton, were summoned and amputated the hand above the wrist.

Prof. Dorenwend Coming

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness. But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth and the majority require artificial addition. Many are still prejudiced against artificial hair but in time this prejudice will be undoubtfully abolitions will be more prevalent. As a proof of this stands Prof. Dorwend's record. He is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if he would be a fruitless undertaking but the public recognized the advantages of wearing Prof. Dorwend's styles and in consequence large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorwend makes periodical visits to the important cities and towns of Canada and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees. He will be at Queens Hotel on Weds and Thurs, Feb. 12 and 13. Go and see him.—Wear his goods and save doctors bills.

PROSE—Fresh to strong southwest to northwest winds; generally fair weather with a few snow flurries; stationary or a little higher temperature.

The Board of Education meets the second Tuesday in each month.

What Breaks up a Plumber.

Nothing breaks up a plumber so badly as to have to buy something at a retail drug store. Nothing makes better or more beautiful biscuit than Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

HANGED!

KANE PAYS THE PENALTY OF THE LAW.

BUT HE MAKES NO CONFESSION.

The Murderer Refuses to make a Statement.

THE EXECUTIONER DID HIS WORK NEATLY.

The Doomed Man met Death Undaunted and Calmly.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—Kane, the wife murderer, was hanged at the Toronto gaol this morning at 8:14 He died in thirteen minutes. He walked to the scaffold with a firm tread and apparently unflinching nerve. Governor Green asked him if he had any confession to make, and he said "No, no." In answer to the question if he had a statement to make he replied, "No, nothing." The execution was very cleverly done, the weight was detached at the timestated and Kane's body was sprung into space. He apparently suffered much with almost the least possible pain attending such a mode of execution.

AN INFANT DROWNED.

Jas. Wallace's Five Year Old Found in the River.

Russel Wallace the little five year old son of James Wallace, confectioner and biscuit manufacturer, was drowned at noon to-day in the river just south of Walker's foundry. The body was found floating in the narrow channel between the Island and mainland by engineer George Kinch. He at once notified the men in the factory and Dr. Wilson was summoned. Every effort made to restore the victim to consciousness was fruitless and the doctor soon pronounces him dead. The father is in Toronto. The boy had not been missed more than twenty minutes by the mother when the engineer was despatched to look for him. The family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

J. M. Poitras, Deseronto, is in the city.

W. Jacobs, New York, is at the Kyle house.

Mrs. Frost, Toronto, is at the Kyle house.

Prof. Dorenwend, Toronto, is at the Queens'.

C. White, Sandy River, is at the Queens'.

W. Bell, Montreal, is stopping at the Queen's.

John F. Gray, Council Bluff, Iowa, is in the city.

Chas. Daurd, Picton, is registered at the Kyle house.

W. J. McFaul, Wellington, is registered at the Queen's.

W. J. Anderson, Toronto, is registered at the Queen's.

Peter Mitchell, Toronto, is registered at the Queen's.

J. Macpherson, River Beaudette, is at the Dominion.

Geo. J. Carter, Deseronto, is at the Dominion house.

H. B. Phillips, Buffalo, N.Y., is at the Anglo American.

J. Ward, Niagara Falls, N. Y., is a guest at the Queen's.

William John Reese, printer, is home from Rochester, N. Y.

T. H. Morris and wife, New York, are at the Anglo American.

H. Sager, River Side, Cal. is registered at the Anglo American.

Wm. Johnson, weights and measures inspector, is in Toronto.

Geo. Pope, superintendent of the waterworks here, is in Toronto.

W. J. Turner and Rev. A. B. Chambers, Napanee, were in the city yesterday.

The attending physician has given up all hope for the recovery of Chas. Lockerty.

Harry Livingston and C. J. Stevenson, of the Belle Stevenson Dramatic Co. are stopping at the Anglo American.

N. B. Falkiner, returned home from Montreal yesterday morning and left for Toronto again this evening on business.

Fred. Landon, son of Geo. A. Landon, has secured a good position on the road for a Chicago stationery firm. He has signed an engagement for three years.

TOWN TALK.

Milder weather.

Fine ice is being taken from the bay.

The flats about Flint & Holton's mill are under water.

The sisters and pupils of Loretto Convent enjoyed a pleasure drive to-day.

The hospital board acknowledge $25 donated by Haines & Lockets's, through the W. C. A.

The water in the river yesterday was very high. It was several inches high in the cellar of the city bullding.

Wm. Bird was fined two dollars at the police court today for assaulting Charles Ackerman on Front street last night.

A good permanent position with a chance of advancement is offered by Selover & Atwood of Geneva. A good nursery firm should be represented in this district.

Kingston is supporting two infants. One costs $3 and the other $6 per month. One was born in the hospital where the mother died. The father is in Tacoma and will be called upon to reimburse the city when he comes to Canadian soil.

W. W. Power has resigned his position in the office of the Deseronto chemical works. As burser of the Quinte, and subsequently in the office of the chemical works, Mr. Power proved a capable official and enjoyed the favor of the Rathbun company. He will assume the management of his deceased father's estate.

The ice harvest is being rapidly gathered There was a great scarcity of it last year and extra precaution is being taken this season by the local dealers to supply the demand.

A Runaway Team.

An exciting runaway occurred on South Front street at noon. A pair of horses attached to a wood sleigh succeeded in getting away from their driver below the Commercial hotel and started up Front street at a break neck pace. R M. Clarke blacksmith, had his cutter smashed and opposite the ONTARIO office the runaways took to the sidewalk and kept it to Bridge St. It was a wonder that noone was injured as their pace was furious. They crossed the lower bridge, just grazing other rigs and ran into a telegraph pole in front of the Windsor hotel where the sleigh was smashed and the horses were captured. The team was driven by Harvey Clair of Thurlow.

REFORM CONVENTION.

Candidates to be Selected for the East Riding.

The Reformers of East Hastings will assemble at Canifton on Friday to select candidates for the Local and Dominion Houses and there is every likelihood of there being a grand rally of those who feel the responsibility of selecting good men to represent the principles of good government. Mr. S. B. Burdett, the present able representative of the riding will be present. He will be accompanied by Mr. John McMillan, member for South Huron who is a successful farmer and an able speaker. These gentlemen and others will lay down the principles of the Liberal party for the Dominion, while Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Mr. Vermilyea and other prominent reformers will do like service for the local house. The chair will be taken at 2 p. m.

Cleared Out the Hotel.

Riley Lloyd and Thomas Jaynes, of Napanee, scooped the Brisco house cellar of every edible it possessed on Saturday night. The police raided the house of the thieves and secured one roll butter, quarter pork, pan of sponge cake, pan of fruit cake, five bottles pickles, two bottles Chester sauce, one can black berries, one jar dippings, one can sugar, three chickens, one roast lamb, liver and beef, package black tea, package green tea, beef tongue, beef heart, box codfish, ten pound roast of beef, and a box of soda biscuits. The property was identified by C. A. Cornell, of the Brisco house. Riley Lloyd was followed nearly three miles, when he succeeded in eluding his pursuers in Hemp Fly swamp.

Seal Skin Sacques $1.00 Each!

This is a great offer. Just imagine the army of ladies that will besiege the store until the last sacque is gone—if the bargain is ever offered. But how much more wonderful an opportunity is that presented to every suffering woman by the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This remedy if a guaranteed cure for all those distressing ailments peculiar to the weaker sex. It is guaranteed that if it does not effect a cure money will be refunded. It is carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system, and is sold under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded.

For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets; Purely Vegetable. One a dose.

He is Coming.

Wigs and toupees for gentlemen who are bald. Prof. Dorwend of Toronto will be at Queens Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 12th and 13th and will show a fine line of Toupees and Wigs for gentlemen who are bald. The Profs goods are known the country over as the very finest and any gentleman who has the misfortune to be without a full covering of hair, should not miss the chance of seeing the Prof's goods.

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE, $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,

FANCY FLANNEL,

AND

CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents mishers, Laundry Office,

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB, 1ST.

PROF DORENWEND COMING

WITH HIS IMMENSE DISPLAY OF

HAIR - GOODS

HE WILL BE AT

QUEENS' HOTEL

WED. & THURS, FEB, 12TH & 13TH

When every lady should make it a special point to call and see the Professor's Fine Styles, His assortment this visit will be superb. SWITCHES, BANGS, FRONTPIECES W VES, WIGS, TOUPEES, etc., articles of which every lady should have one, or other for the sake of health, appearance and economy. Even if she has an abundant growth of hair she should have one in order to meet the requirements of a fashionable headdress and to save her own hair. It is a difficult matter to explain the full benefits of wearing Hair Goods, if an advertisement as Prof. Dorenwend asks that ladies call on him whether they intend to buy or not. If they do not get something now they may later on, and while there is no compulsity it is just as well to learn particulars. For gentlemen who are bald, Prof. D has Toupees and Wigs, that are most perfect. They fit like a Glove, and are as natural as life. A visit to the Show Rooms will be well repaid. Persons who are already wearing the Professor's Goods will do their friends a favor if they will prevail on them to visit the Professor. Remember

AT QUEENS' HOTEL, ON WEDS & THURS., FEB, 12 & 13th.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the Large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNELL & THOMPSON

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ass to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

FOR
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR — BELLEVILLE, ONT: THURSDAY FEBRUARY 13, 1890 — NO 37

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASO—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW ORLEANS MOLASSES,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,

A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,

—AND—

Chocolate Creams

mall Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS

INCLUDING

Macaroons, Toy Crackmells, Chesse Biscuits, Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits—Ginger biscuits

Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoa nut Sugar Wafers

ueen Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Alber biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE

A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS

We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore, the Holidays

WINES &C.

Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER

ness's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchie's

FREE - TRADE

—BETWEEN—

CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S

Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy

HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.

The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.

It will pay you to see

S G RETALLACK'S

New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

MONEY FOR ALL

WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nursery men, Rochester, N.Y. 13 6wdw

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS

—A full Line of—

Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at

D. M. WATERS

SUN

Life Assurance Co. of Canada

Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.

Income for 1888 ..... $675,273.58
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000,

James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

TENDERS

TENDERS will be received up to the 22nd February, 1890 for the building of a school house in section 17 Tyendinaga. The plans can be seen at Mr. Davis's office and in the section at Mr. Lally's. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
JOHN TODD
Trustee, Blessington.
Feb. 11th 1890. 6di, w2

WILL be received by the undersigned up to April 1st, 1890, for the carpenter work of the EBENEZER STONE CHURCH and LOT, West Huntingdon. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
REV. W. H. LEAROYD,
3td West Huntingdon.

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address
MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen,
Feb 13 6td Rochester, N.Y.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen of Position permanent. Specialty, indispensable now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M C. ROBLIN, corner Joan and Hotel St.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. R. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. A plc
Enquire of MRS. W. W. LEE
Feb. 1 Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th, Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street. Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6td

WANTED SALESMEN to sel Nursery Stock. All good Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.

THOS H. COOK

Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

DAIRYMEN,

—OF—

EASTERN ONTARIO,

While in the City try and make time to call upon

W-W CHOWN &CO

Front Street

We are the Largest dealers in this section in

Cheese Factory Goods.

and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,

W. W. CHOWN &CO.;

WE

Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed

TOILET — SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which we offer at

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

OUR JAPANESE FRIEND,
MR. INZO KOUO,

Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our

Japan Teas

These using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.

Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES of Lime and Soda

Scott's Emulsion is a perfect Emulsion. It is so palatable. It is a wonderful Tissue Builder. It is the Best Remedy for CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.

PALATABLE AS MILK.

Scott's Emulsion is only put up in salmon color wrapper. Ask for it and take no other preparations. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

In the High Court of Justice

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Smeaton vs Walker.

In pursuance of the judgment or order of reference made in this action and dated the 17th day of January instant, there will be sold by public auction with the approbation of Samuel Shaw Lazier, Esquire, local master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at Belleville on

Thursday the 13th Day of March A. D 1890

at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon at the Chambers of the said Master in the City of Belleville, the following valuable foundry, premises, assets and effects, belonging to the firm of J. M. Walker & Co. of the City of Belleville, viz:—

Parcel No. 1—Consisting of a portion of the island and the foundry premises and knowns as all and singular that certain parcel or track of land and situated, lying and being composed of all that part of lot No. 2 in the 1st Concession of Thurlow and of the Gore on the west side of Front street in the City of Belleville and better known as follows:—commencing at the south east angle of lot 1 as said down on a plan of William Coleman's estate, then along the westside of Front street 53½ feet to a stone monument, then south 89 degrees west 87 3-25 feet to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees 18 feet then north 15 d egrees 29 minutes west of a stone monument, then north 19½ degrees east 17 feet and 4 inches to a line between 4 and 5 of Stevens block then following the said line between 4 and 5-17 feet to the river Moira, th non northerly to the centre of the said river, thence southerly along the centre of the main channel as nown on the said plan 17 chains more or less until it passes the southern point of the island, thence north 55 degrees east one chainage 17 links more or less to the eastern bank of the raceway where it joins the main channel of said river, thence northerly along the eastern bank of the raceway to the south western angle of said lot number one shown on said plan, thence easterly from the said line between lots number one and two as shown on said plan to Front street reserving a right of way as shown on said plan 20 feet wide from Front street to the said river and which plan is registered in the registry office of said county on the seventeenth day of February A. D. 1873 called a plan of William Coleman's estate less the parts thereof heretofore sold to James McWilliams, Isabella and Maria Murney and James Wallace; the part of the island now offered for sale being all that part north of that heretofore sold to James McGuire and being all of the island north of the southern boundry of the lane running from Front street to the island immediately north of the Albion Hotel.

Upon that part of this parcel known as the foundry premises is erected a substantial 3½ story stone foundry and machine shop about 60x40 with a stone moulding and blacksmith shop attached about 60x30 one story now occupied by Messrs J. M. Walker & Co: also to the south of the main premises is erected a substantial wooden building about 30x30 used as a wood shop. The premises are situate about the centre of the city of Belleville upon the river Moira with one of the best dams and water privileges along the river.

These premises will be sold subject to mortgage of $10 0.0 to the Hastings Loan and Investment Society on which the interest is paid to the 1st January, 1890 and with them will be conveyed all the interest of the firm of J M Walker & Co, in the adjoining premises occupied by them under lease from John Coleman and Eyre estate, of which full particulars will be given on application on the premises or at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor

There will be sold with the foundry premises all the machinery, fixed and movable, necessary for the carrying on of the business which can be inspected on the premises, and of which a full inventory can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor, and on the foundry premises.

Parcel No 2—Manufactured and unmanufactured stock on said premises according to inventory which can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor and on the foundry premises. The value is about $4,000. The stock will be sold at a price on the dollar and subject to a checking of the inventory in case any of the stock has been manufactured or sold.

Parcel No 3—The tools in use in said business as per inventory which can be seen as above of which the value is of $350, and which can be seen on the premises.

Parcel No 4—Book debts and accounts of the face value of assest $6,000, and notes and judgments of about the face value of $7,500 to be sold as per inventory to be seen as above at a price on the dollar. The property will be sold subject to reserve bids fixed by the Master.

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. of the purchase money cash at the time of sale, the balance within thirty days after sale without interest. In all respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale at this Court.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of W E Northrup, Esq., of F Wills, Esq., and J Parker Thomas, Esq, Belleville, and at the foundry premises.

W E NORTHRUP — S S LAZIER,
Plff's Solicitor. — L M.
Dated this 11th Day of February 1890.
13 15 19 22

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Share holders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made

DUAL LANGUAGE DEBATE.

MR. DAVIN ATTACKS MR. MCCARTHY'S NORTHWEST BILL.

Col. O'Brien Thinks the Discussion Timely Even if the Measure Gets Only 13 Votes —Other Speeches—The Hull Outrage Again Discussed.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—In the House this afternoon Mr. Charlton arose to a question of privilege and again called the attention of the House to the religious riots in Hull, the second of which took place last night. He affirmed that the Dominion Government was at fault for not even attempting to suppress the lawless mob which had molested Miss Wright and her little band of Christian workers. "When the great Orange riots occurred in Montreal," continued Mr. Charlton, "the Government of Mr. Mackenzie guaranteed to that body of men civil and religious rights and they were enabled to parade the streets of Montreal. This was a precedent for the Government of to-day. Every citizen of Canada should be entitled to protection from the Government of the performance of civil or religious rights. This was refused to Miss Wright."

Sir John Macdonald said that the various provinces of the Dominion were responsible for the administration of the criminal law. The Dominion Government was powerless to interfere. Except in case of rebellion the Federal Government did not feel itself disposed to interfere in such matters. Mr. Mercier, the promoter of the Jesuits' cause, was the proper person to apply to. It was a matter purely within the province of the Quebec authorities. Any two magistrates could have called out the militia to preserve the peace if necessary.

Mr. Charlton replied but was frequently interrupted, and then Hon. Edward Blake made his first speech of the session. He said that Mr. Charlton had made a great mistake in bringing up the matter. "There is now a legislature sitting over in Quebec," proceeded Mr. Blake, "that is the proper tribunal to apply to in such an emergency. As the Premier had remarked, neither the Dominion Government nor this House has anything whatever to do with it."

Mr. Mills of Bothwell called the attention of the House to a proof sheet of a dispatch from Washington stating that the United States Government were about to grant a further lease of the fisheries in Behring Sea with provisions for the exclusion of Canadian fishermen.

Sir John Macdonald replied that he had not seen the despatch in question and that he did not believe it was true. The negotiations were still in progress with the United States Government for the settlement of the Behring Sea question, and he believed that a peaceful understanding would be arrived at.

To-night D'Alton McCarthy moved the second reading of his bill for the abolition of French as an official language in the Northwest. He merely made the motion, reserving remarks until later. Mr. Davin immediately rose with this amendment:

"That the bill be not now read a second time, but that it be resolved that it is expedient that the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories resolve authority to deal with the subject of this bill by order or enactment after the next general election."

Mr. Davin was cheered from the House in support and entertained the House by the shafts of witticisms he aimed at Mr. McCarthy, whom he described as such a busy man that he took up his information, on certain birds do their food, on the wing, and it was therefore not surprising that his conclusions were somewhat flighty. He was too busy to be well informed, too much of a misi prius lawyer to be accurate and too much of a mere lawyer to be a statesman. (Laughter.)

Mr. Davin's serious argument was to prove that dual language is not so much of a menace to national harmony as it had been represented to be, that those settlers of French-Canadian origin who had gone to the Northwest, perhaps on the strength of the clause recognizing theirs as an official language, were entitled to a voice in its repeal. The question would have been dealt with in the Northwest if Mr. McCarthy had never taken it up; in fact, before he ever mentioned it it was a theme of discussion amongst the leading men there. Mr. McCarthy had discovered that he had made a mistake in the position he had taken last year on the Jesuits' Estates Act and taken up this other subject in order to let himself down easy.

Col. O'Brien followed in straight opposition to the amendment and said that even were the vote on the side he took no larger than it had been on the motion he had offered last session the discussion would do good in showing the country the position of affairs. He described the amendment as senseless and useless and deprecated the attempt to throw into the affairs of the Northwest Assembly a bone of contention which would enable the minority there to have a control similar to that which they exercised here.

Robert White (Cardwell) followed in support of Mr. Davin's amendment. He objected strongly to the remarks made by Mr. McCarthy in introducing the bill, which remarks he said were calculated to arouse the prejudices of the French nationality. This agitation for the abolition of the official use of French he declared to have its origin in a desire to make politics capital by fanning the flames of anti-Jesuit aggressions. On questions such as this he was for provincial rights.

A speech in French by Mr. Beausoleil came next. He moved an amendment to the amendment, declaring it inexpedient to interfere with the Northwest Act, as this would tend to create doubt as to the stability of our institutions and thus check immigration.

He dealt at some length with the denunciations of Mr. Mercier which had been made in this debate, and said that Mercier did not speak for his countrymen. It was worth noting, however, that Mercier's independent sentiments had been re-echoed by the Toronto Young Liberals.

Col. Denison contended that it was the plain duty of the Dominion to declare now that English was to be the only official language, instead of leaving the question to be dealt with by the foreigners who might be expected to crowd into our Northwest within the next few years and possibly to outnumber the English-speaking settlers. All comers should understand beforehand that English was to be the language of this country. He denounced the Mercier threat to have revenge on the minority in Quebec should the French language or separate schools be interfered with in other parts of the Dominion, and said he for one was not to be intimidated by such threats.

Messrs. Mulock and Curran rose simultaneously to continue the debate, but it being 11 o'clock, Sir John Macdonald suggested that the House should rise and the debate be resumed to-morrow. This was agreed to. Mr. Curran, speaking in French, moved the adjournment of the debate and Mr. Mulock made a similar motion in English. The speaker named Mr. Mulock, who accordingly has the floor. It is said that Mr. Curran, who is a good French scholar, intends to make his speech in that language.

The Bankers' Conference.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—The bankers had another 3-hours' conference with the Minister of Finance this morning and this afternoon most Deputy-Minister Courtney. Both meetings were strictly private as have been all such conferences. It is understood that the bankers and minister have now arrived at an understanding and that it has been a case of give-and-take all round. The Minister of Finance will lay before the Government the result of these conferences when all the details of the proposed changes in the Banking Act will be fully gone into before being brought down in the House.

FATHER LABELLE'S MISSION.

Critized by a Quebec Paper—Was Riel an Enemy of the Church.

QUEBEC, Feb. 12.—Le Sud is strongly opposed to the mission of Mgr. Labelle to Manitoba undertaken in his capacity of Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, the purpose of inducing French settlers to come to Canada. "It is positively ridiculous," remarks that journal, "to encourage the settlers from France when more than 1,000,000 French-Canadians are exiled in the United States. How can Frenchmen not acclimatized, not used to rigorous winters in the woods, be expected to live and prosper when sober, industrious Canadians cannot live and thrive? Something else is wanted if colonization is to be carried to apply So. It was a matter purely within the province of the Quebec authorities. Any two magistrate could have called out the militia to preserve the peace if necessary.

Mr. Charlton replied but was frequently interrupted, and then Hon. Edward Blake made his first speech of the session. He said that Mr. Charlton had made a great mistake in bringing up the matter. "There is now a legislature sitting over in Quebec," proceeded Mr. Blake, "that is the proper tribunal to apply to in such an emergency. As the Premier had remarked, neither the Dominion Government nor this House has anything whatever to do with it."

Mr. Mills of Bothwell called the attention of the House to a proof sheet of a dispatch from Washington stating that the United States Government were about to grant a further lease of the fisheries in Behring Sea with provisions for the exclusion of Canadian fishermen.

Sir John Macdonald replied that he had not seen the despatch in question and that he did not believe it was true. The negotiations were still in progress with the United States Government for the settlement of the Behring Sea question, and he believed that a peaceful understanding would be arrived at.

To-night D'Alton McCarthy moved the second reading of his bill for the abolition of French as an official language in the Northwest. He merely made the motion, reserving remarks until later. Mr. Davin immediately rose with this amendment:

"That the bill be not now read a second time, but that it be resolved that it is expedient that the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories resolve authority to deal with the subject of this bill by order or enactment after the next general election."

Mr. Davin was cheered from the House in support and entertained the House by the shafts of witticisms he aimed at Mr. McCarthy, whom he described as such a busy man that he took up his information, on certain birds do their food, on the wing, and it was therefore not surprising that his conclusions were somewhat flighty. He was too busy to be well informed, too much of a misi prius lawyer to be accurate and too much of a mere lawyer to be a statesman. (Laughter.)

Mr. Davin's serious argument was to prove that dual language is not so much of a menace to national harmony as it had been represented to be, that those settlers of French-Canadian origin who had gone to the Northwest, perhaps on the strength of the clause recognizing theirs as an official language, were entitled to a voice in its repeal. The question would have been dealt with in the Northwest if Mr. McCarthy had never taken it up; in fact, before he ever mentioned it it was a theme of discussion amongst the leading men there. Mr. McCarthy had discovered that he had made a mistake in the position he had taken last year on the Jesuits' Estates Act and taken up this other subject in order to let himself down easy.

Col. O'Brien followed in straight opposition to the amendment and said that even were the vote on the side he took no larger than it had been on the motion he had offered last session the discussion would do good in showing the country the position of affairs. He described the amendment as senseless and useless and deprecated the attempt to throw into the affairs of the Northwest Assembly a bone of contention which would enable the minority there to have a control similar to that which they exercised here.

Robert White (Cardwell) followed in support of Mr. Davin's amendment. He objected strongly to the remarks made by Mr. McCarthy in introducing the bill, which remarks he said were calculated to arouse the prejudices of the French nationality. This agitation for the abolition of the official use of French he declared to have its origin in a desire to make politics capital by fanning the flames of anti-Jesuit aggressions. On questions such as this he was for provincial rights.

A speech in French by Mr. Beausoleil came next. He moved an amendment to the amendment, declaring it inexpedient to interfere with the Northwest Act, as this would tend to create doubt as to the stability of our institutions and thus check immigration.

He dealt at some length with the denunciations of Mr. Mercier which had been made in this debate, and said that Mercier did not speak for his countrymen. It was worth noting, however, that Mercier's independent sentiments had been re-echoed by the Toronto Young Liberals.

Col. Denison contended that it was the plain duty of the Dominion to declare now that English was to be the only official language, instead of leaving the question to be dealt with by the foreigners who might be expected to crowd into our Northwest within the next few years and possibly to outnumber the English-speaking settlers. All comers should understand beforehand that English was to be the language of this country. He denounced the Mercier threat to have revenge on the minority in Quebec should the French language or separate schools be interfered with in other parts of the Dominion, and said he for one was not to be intimidated by such threats.

Messrs. Mulock and Curran rose simultaneously to continue the debate, but it being 11 o'clock, Sir John Macdonald suggested that the House should rise and the debate be resumed to-morrow. This was agreed to. Mr. Curran, speaking in French, moved the adjournment of the debate and Mr. Mulock made a similar motion in English. The speaker named Mr. Mulock, who accordingly has the floor. It is said that Mr. Curran, who is a good French scholar, intends to make his speech in that language.

The Bankers' Conference.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—The bankers had another 3-hours' conference with the Minister of Finance this morning and this afternoon most Deputy-Minister Courtney. Both meetings were strictly private as have been all such conferences. It is understood that the bankers and minister have now arrived at an understanding and that it has been a case of give-and-take all round. The Minister of Finance will lay before the Government the result of these conferences when all the details of the proposed changes in the Banking Act will be fully gone into before being brought down in the House.

FATHER LABELLE'S MISSION.

Critized by a Quebec Paper—Was Riel an Enemy of the Church.

QUEBEC, Feb. 12.—Le Sud is strongly opposed to the mission of Mgr. Labelle to Manitoba undertaken in his capacity of Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, the purpose of inducing French settlers to come to Canada. "It is positively ridiculous," remarks that journal, "to encourage the settlers from France when more than 1,000,000 French-Canadians are exiled in the United States. How can Frenchmen not acclimatized, not used to rigorous winters in the woods, be expected to live and prosper when sober, industrious Canadians cannot live and thrive? Something else is wanted if colonization is to be carried to apply So. It was a matter purely within the province of the Quebec authorities. Any two magistrate could have called out the militia to preserve the peace if necessary.

Mr. Charlton replied but was frequently interrupted, and then Hon. Edward Blake made his first speech of the session. He said that Mr. Charlton had made a great mistake in bringing up the matter. "There is now a legislature sitting over in Quebec," proceeded Mr. Blake, "that is the proper tribunal to apply to in such an emergency. As the Premier had remarked, neither the Dominion Government nor this House has anything whatever to do with it."

Mr. Mills of Bothwell called the attention of the House to a proof sheet of a dispatch from Washington stating that the United States Government were about to grant a further lease of the fisheries in Behring Sea with provisions for the exclusion of Canadian fishermen.

Sir John Macdonald replied that he had not seen the despatch in question and that he did not believe it was true. The negotiations were still in progress with the United States Government for the settlement of the Behring Sea question, and he believed that a peaceful understanding would be arrived at.

To-night D'Alton McCarthy moved the second reading of his bill for the abolition of French as an official language in the Northwest. He merely made the motion, reserving remarks until later. Mr. Davin immediately rose with this amendment:

"That the bill be not now read a second time, but that it be resolved that it is expedient that the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories resolve authority to deal with the subject of this bill by order or enactment after the next general election."

Mr. Davin was cheered from the House in support and entertained the House by the shafts of witticisms he aimed at Mr. McCarthy, whom he described as such a busy man that he took up his information, on certain birds do their food, on the wing, and it was therefore not surprising that his conclusions were somewhat flighty. He was too busy to be well informed, too much of a misi prius lawyer to be accurate and too much of a mere lawyer to be a statesman. (Laughter.)

Mr. Davin's serious argument was to prove that dual language is not so much of a menace to national harmony as it had been represented to be, that those settlers of French-Canadian origin who had gone to the Northwest, perhaps on the strength of the clause recognizing theirs as an official language, were entitled to a voice in its repeal. The question would have been dealt with in the Northwest if Mr. McCarthy had never taken it up; in fact, before he ever mentioned it it was a theme of discussion amongst the leading men there. Mr. McCarthy had discovered that he had made a mistake in the position he had taken last year on the Jesuits' Estates Act and taken up this other subject in order to let himself down easy.

Col. O'Brien followed in straight opposition to the amendment and said that even were the vote on the side he took no larger than it had been on the motion he had offered last session the discussion would do good in showing the country the position of affairs. He described the amendment as senseless and useless and deprecated the attempt to throw into the affairs of the Northwest Assembly a bone of contention which would enable the minority there to have a control similar to that which they exercised here.

Robert White (Cardwell) followed in support of Mr. Davin's amendment. He objected strongly to the remarks made by Mr. McCarthy in introducing the bill, which remarks he said were calculated to arouse the prejudices of the French nationality. This agitation for the abolition of the official use of French he declared to have its origin in a desire to make politics capital by fanning the flames of anti-Jesuit aggressions. On questions such as this he was for provincial rights.

A speech in French by Mr. Beausoleil came next. He moved an amendment to the amendment, declaring it inexpedient to interfere with the Northwest Act, as this would tend to create doubt as to the stability of our institutions and thus check immigration.

He dealt at some length with the denunciations of Mr. Mercier which had been made in this debate, and said that Mercier did not speak for his countrymen. It was worth noting, however, that Mercier's independent sentiments had been re-echoed by the Toronto Young Liberals.

Col. Denison contended that it was the plain duty of the Dominion to declare now that English was to be the only official language, instead of leaving the question to be dealt with by the foreigners who might be expected to crowd into our Northwest within the next few years and possibly to outnumber the English-speaking settlers. All comers should understand beforehand that English was to be the language of this country. He denounced the Mercier threat to have revenge on the minority in Quebec should the French language or separate schools be interfered with in other parts of the Dominion, and said he for one was not to be intimidated by such threats.

Messrs. Mulock and Curran rose simultaneously to continue the debate, but it being 11 o'clock, Sir John Macdonald suggested that the House should rise and the debate be resumed to-morrow. This was agreed to. Mr. Curran, speaking in French, moved the WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

The Candid Truth.
USED Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specifi, for croup on throat; it never

KANE CHOKED TO DEATH.

The "Jerking" Process Again Proves a Failure—Scenes at the Scaffold.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—Thomas Kane was strangled yesterday. His neck was not broken. The "improved" engine of death is apparently incapable of accomplishing this. Neil was suffocated; so was Harvey; so was Kane. Harvey at Guelph was in his death throes for the space of 15 minutes; Kane yesterday was alive 12½ minutes after he had in this new fashion been "jerked up." In the cold morning air there was a crowd of 100 persons besieging the gateway of the western yard of the jail. The majority were medical and arts students and barristers, then the newspaper reporters.

The talkative, quizzical, gloating crowd around the scaffold had not long to wait. Without note of bell the procession emerged from the prison door adjoining the condemned cell. Sheriff Mowat, Governor Green, Fathers Cruise and McFillips in the sacerdotal roles, Coroners Duncan and Pickering and four constables accompanied Kane to the scaffold, the hangman slouching like a veritable bang-dog, bringing up the rear. Jack Ketch and the living man so soon to die were most scrutinized. Kane was bare-headed, ghastly pale, but walked erect, though with downcast eyes in this his short march to death. His lips were livid and firmly set but they failed to repress a quiver which o'ercast his countenance as he momentarily raised his eyes to the engine of death with its dangling noose of impenetrable rope.

The usual details were gone through, the Governor asking the man about to die if he had any statement to make. "None whatever" was his abrupt, decisive reply. Meanwhile the priests piously continued the low yet fervent recitation of David's penitential psalms: "Have mercy upon me, O God," and "Out of the depths have I cried unto Thee." Before the hangman finally adjusted the black cap one of the fathers extended to Kane a crucifix, which he kissed three times and then recited after the father his last words on earth: "Jesus, Son of Mary, I give Thee my heart and my soul!"

Deftly did man the fatal dig with razor-edged chisel at the small retaining rope; down fell the 400-pound weight with a heavy thud; up shot the dangling body of the dying wretch, while double pinioned arms did the gloating crowd. The fathers continued their prayers, scarcely audible; the writhing body swung round and showed at once to those experienced in such dire sights that the rope of the fatal rope was not on the jugular vein, but far away well up on the back of the head!

Little brooks it to detail the convulsive twitchings of the hands and other parts of the body. Palpable it was that the Guelph mistake had been repeated in neglecting the English custom of strapping the legs. Those in his torture Kane extended and spasmodically worked, the body swaying as much as 30 inches from side to side.

Dr. Grundy, watch in hand, now felt the pulse, but still it beat. His examination lasted tedious minutes, and it was not until the chronometer showed 18 minutes 18 seconds that the pulse stopped. By this time the hands had become livid and the neck distended. All heaved a sigh of relief when the Doctor said: "He's dead."

At the inquest held at 1½ p.m. by Coroner Duncan, Dr. Grundy, who made the post mortem, testified that death caused from strangulation by the rope, the fracture of the neck being fractured. The brain weighed 36 ounces. Foreman R. H. Castle thought that a ridge should be attached the customary rope, which would prevent the rope from hanging which does not break the neck and cause death instantly. As several of the jurymen wanted to get away as soon as possible the foreman did not press the matter.

At 3 o'clock the murderer's mangled corpse was buried in the jail yard.

A VICTORY FOR THE T., H. & B.

Hamilton to Vote on a $275,000 Bonus Bylaw—A Breach of Promise Suit.

HAMILTON, Feb. 12.—The Railway Committee of the City Council last night met the representatives of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company, and after consultation decided to submit a bylaw to aid the company to the extent of $275,000 to procure right of way through the city over what is known as the Jennings' route, which crosses Bay-street near Sheaffe-street, James-street between Barton and Stelcar-streets, Ferguson-avenue near the corner of Wilson-street, and either crosses Wentworth-street near Wilson-street or follows the line of the Hamilton & Northwestern Railway from the corner of Wilson-street and Ferguson-avenue to the foot of the mountain. The company will construct a tunnel, thus avoiding level crossings. The plan of tunneling will be rather unique. The company will secure the right of way, then dig a cut along through it sufficient to lay the track thereon in the bottom, after which the earth will be filled in on top and the land left level as before. This plan will necessitate the demolition of some buildings at each street.

Miss Jean Shaw, a lady about 55 years old, has caused a writ to be issued against W. T. Nelson, a well-known young man about town, for $5000 damages for alleged breach of promise of marriage. It is alleged that the defendant kept company with the plaintiff from last October until a short time ago, when the courtship terminated rather abruptly. Miss Shaw avers that the defendant promised to wed her but he never kept his word, hence the suit. Several loving letters passed between the lovers. It is said they are daisies and will read well before a jury.

Coroner Brandon of Ancaster held an inquest last night at the Town Hall on the skull which had been found on the farm of E. Passmore, between Ancaster and Atherton villages, ten days previously. A number of witnesses were called but nothing of the spot where was obtained. It was sworn that the negro, Harris, who was supposed to have been murdered twelve years ago had been drowned in Buffalo in 1884. The jury found that the skull had belonged to some person unknown.

The Canadian Ironfounders' Association met here this afternoon. All the largest foundrymen in Ontario are members of the association.

Losses Caused by Flames.

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—St. Lambert was visited by a disastrous fire this morning in which three dwellings were totally destroyed and two others seriously damaged. Loss $15,000, partially insured.

Wyoming Seeks Statehood.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The House Committee on Territories to-day decided to report favorably Delegate Carey's bill for the admission of the territory of Wyoming as a state.

A Belleville 4-Year-Old Drowned.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 12.—Russell, the 4-year-old son of Confectioner James Wallace, was drowned in the river this afternoon.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

The Estimates Brought Down—Mr. Walters' Women Suffrage Bill.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—In the Assembly yesterday Mr. Meredith said that the Government had not yet brought down certain public measures which they promised to bring down at an early date in the speech from the throne. Among them he mentioned the License Law, the Separate School Act, etc. He regretted that there seemed to be on the part of the Government a desire to force on the consideration of the estimates which were yesterday laid on the table, before these other important matters were attended to.

To this Mr. Mowat replied that certain details in the measures referred to by Mr. Meredith were not yet ready, and he assured the leader of the Opposition that there would be no unnecessary delay.

Mr. Waters is on deck again with his Women Suffrage Bill. He introduced a measure yesterday which proposes to give to women the right of voting for representatives in the Assembly. The bill provides that all women over 21 shall have the franchise, subject to the same provision as the Manhood Franchise Bill. If passed the measure becomes law in January 1892.

Mr. Chisholm introduced a bill to consolidate the debt of the town of Brampton and by Mr. H. E. Clarke a bill was introduced to amend the act for incorporating Galt.

The following is a summary of the estimates submitted for 1890:

ORDINARY EXPENDITURE.

Civil Government	$ 215,500 00
Legislation	181,400 00
Administration of Justice	275,000 00
Education	509,677 81
Public Buildings maintenance	243 187 00
Immigration	5600 00

RECAPITULATION.

Current expenditure for 1890	$ 2,820,054 88
Cp capital account	565,968 89
Other purposes	30,000 00
Amount of estimates	$ 3,416,054 89
Agriculture	130,478 00
Hospitals and Charities	185,379 00
Maintenance and repairs of Government and Departmental Buildings	45,436 78
Public Buildings—Repairs	29,916 59
Public Works—Repairs	15,000 00
Charges on Crowned Lands	115,000 00
Public Institutions maintenance	193,000 00
Unforeseen and unprovided	50,000 00
Total	$3,585,865 66
Co capital account
Public buildings—capital account	$ 434,518 99
Public Works	91,300 00
Colonization roads	100,000 00
Total	$625,818 99
For other purposes
Refund account	$ 30,949 00

BANKER AND BIGAMIST.

Douglas Green of New York Marries Alice Snell-McCrae.

New York, Feb. 12.—Douglas Green of the firm of Green & Bateman, bankers and Brokers here, has withdrawn from that firm and is now on his way to England with Mrs. Snell-McCrae to whom he was married by a Methodist preacher at Port Point, Va., on Feb. 4, although he had a wife living from whom he was not divorced. Green's friends and his physicians are convinced that his mind was deranged and were about to take steps to have him placed under restraint. It is believed he learned of time intentions and fled to avoid restraint. The firm of Green & Bateman firm was made compulsory by the other members on account of the scandal.

Mr. Green's about 36 years old, tall, of athletic build, fair complexion and handsome features. He is a son of the late Charles Green of Savannah, Ga., a wealthy capitalist who left millions to his widow and children. Green and his family occupied luxurious apartments here and lived happily until about a year ago when Green fell on an icy sidewalk near the Stock Exchange and severely injured his spine. Before then he was devoted to his wife and children, but soon after he manifested the greatest aversion to them. About a year ago Mrs. Green and her children went to Europe and remained there until August last. On their return they went to Savannah. Eight months ago Green's physician declared he believed Green's mind was deranged.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 12 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—1½c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notice is 25 cts.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.
Manager.

THE ORANGE BILL.

The Orangeman, probably taking advantage of the passage of the Jesuit estate act, again presented their incorporation act to the Dominion parliament and secured its passage. There was, however, a vast difference between the bill passed by the house on Monday and that that was rejected some years ago. The orange bill of to day has been shorn of all its objectionable features and is nothing more than a copy of the Forresters bill with the change of name to meet the case of the orangemen. The passage of the bill will remove the opportunity for orangemen to pose as martyrs and stop their agitation to secure their ends. With the passage of the bill, harmless in itself, is removed a great source of irritation and in that sense it may be said to be a measure in the interest of peace and of benefit to the country. It was no doubt such a view as this that Mr. Burdett and Dr. Platt took of the measure when they recorded their votes in its favor. The friends of these gentlemen in this city, both Catholic and Protestant, are satisfied with their vote.

MR WOODS' BILL.

"Farmer" from North Hastings, comments upon Mr. A. F. Wood's little income of $3,056.29 from the government for services as arbitrator and valuator in the Welland canal and touches a former bill of expenses from Mr. Wood for $200 which that gentlemen has not explained to the satisfaction of his constituents up to date. For his service on the Welland canal he claims $1,106.39 for travelling. This is a large sum to be expended in six months, in travelling between Madoc and St. Catherines, especially when it is taken into consideration that the fare for the round trip is about $9.88, which means something in the neighborhood of 112 trips. It would seem from this that to spend the sum for travelling that Mr. Wood charged the government, he must have been on the road a great deal of his time for it must be borne in mind that to make a trip to St. Catharines and back takes about two days. It would not be amiss, in view of shady transactions of the past, to ask Mr. Wood on nomination day for a full explanation of where the money went. He claims to have spent it in public service and the public has a right to the items.

CENTRAL ONTARIO RAILWAY.

Power Wanted to Create Bonds—Blast Furnaces to be Built.

Mr. S. J. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio, the president of the Central Ontario Railway Company, was in Ottawa on Tuesday and petitions were presented by Mr. Corby on behalf of the company asking for an Act to create bonds to the extent of $30,000 per mile upon its whole line, and to secure the same by a mortgage upon the real and personal property of the company, its franchises, tolls and revenues. The bonds are to bear interest at five per cent per annum, and are to be applied to taking up all outstanding bonds and all interest coupons thereon now in arrears, and to complete and equip the railway to Sudbury, where the copper mines in which Mr. Ritchie is interested are situated. In conversation Mr. Ritchie said that if the subsidy asked for were secured, the line from Coe Hill through to Sudbury would be constructed without delay, and simultaneously the company would commence the erection of blast furnaces either at Trenton or Sudbury.

A Boy's Composition.

"A school ma'am is a verb because she denotes action when you throw paper wads at the girls. Switch is a conjunction and is used to connect the verb school ma'am to the noun boys. This is a composition; boy the subject and the switch the object. First person, plural number. A school ma'am is different from a boy; a boy wears pants and a school ma'am wears her hair all banged on the forehead. She puts paint on her face and has some big fellow come and take her home. Ma says a school ma'am never gets married. It takes two school ma'ams all day to cook a dinner."

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately sooths the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston bluefish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, ciscoes etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

DEBATING THE ADDRESS.

GLADSTONE'S CRITICISM OF SALISBURY'S PROGRAM.

Hon. W. H. Smith Replies—Parnell's Proposed Amendment—The Duke of Orleans Sentenced to Two Years' Imprisonment—Riotous Scenes.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The address in reply to the Queen's speech was moved in the House of Commons this afternoon by Thomas Royden and seconded by Lord Brooke.

Mr. Gladstone spoke at length. He referred to the Anglo-Portuguese dispute and said he regretted that a conflict had arisen with Portugal, England's old ally, but that the present matter was a case for action and it was better that action should be prompt. Referring to Samoa he congratulated the Government upon the arrangements made between Germany, Great Britain and the United States. It was a good example of what could be done by a separate system of pacific ways. He regretted that the address did not mention the position of Crete and Armenia. If the Porte pursued a reactionary policy in Crete it must end in the severance of the island from Turkey. He trusted the Government would not suffer the Porte to gloss over the facts of the persecutions in Crete and the outrages in Armenia.

Touching Ireland he denied that the prosperity and order which prevail there were due to coercion. The state of affairs existing there arose chiefly from the improved agricultural condition of the country. He hoped the local government measure would be conceived in a liberal spirit. If the proposals of the bill were niggardly the effort would be to produce new materials for agitation.

He complained that the Queen's speech was silent on the subjects of reforms in the county council, charitable education and the sugar bounty convention.

W. H. Smith, the Conservative leader in the House, assured Mr. Gladstone that the influence of the Government would be exerted to secure justice for the Cretans and Armenians. It was certain that Mousa Bey would be tried again. The Government still desired to introduce bills creating district councils in Great Britain and would do so if the business of the House permitted. The agreement of the powers on the sugar convention was not complete, and until it was absolute the Government could not ask the House to legislate on the matter. The Irish Local Government Bill was drawn on the lines of existing legislation in England and Scotland, with especial adaptation to the varying conditions of Ireland. (Cries of "Hear!" "hear!") He was quite sure the bill would not be found too narrow.

In an amendment to the address Mr. Parnell makes a distinct and explicit re-statement of the Irish grievances, and demands the repeal of the Coercion Act. This will be debated on Monday next.

TWO YEARS' IMPRISONMENT.

The Duke of Orleans' Sentence—Riotous Scenes About the Court.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—The Duke of Orleans was to-day adjudged guilty of violating the law against pretenders and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. The court-room was crowded with spectators. When the prisoner was arraigned the crowd broke out with loud cries for the army, the Duke of Orleans and the Republic. They became so demonstrative that the gendarmes were compelled to clear the room. Before judgment was announced the Duke addressed the court in his own behalf. He said: "I came to France to serve as common soldier. I have nothing to do with politics which only concerns my father, whose obedient son and faithful servant I am. I know that by entering France I rendered myself liable to the law, but that knowledge did not stop me. I love my country and wish to serve her. I am guilty of no crime." The Duke will be allowed to remain in the Conciergerie for a few weeks before being removed to jail. The Government grants him this privilege to give him an opportunity to appeal from the sentence. Upon being taken back to his cell the Duke drew back the curtain which covers the window and saluted the crowd. The people were dispersed by the police in an orderly manner.

THE LAND OF PERILS.

Volcanic Eruption in Japan—A Loss of $3,500,000 Entailed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—The steamer Gaelic arrived from Hong Kong and Yokahama last night. Japanese advices give details of the most terrible volcanic eruption in the history of Japan. Mount Zoo near the town of Fukuyama in the Bungo district commenced to rumble at 8 o'clock on the evening of Jan. 16. This continued for two hours followed by a short cessation during which period the inhabitants of the neighboring villages rushed away from their homes in great confusion. Soon the top of the mountain was lifted off. There was a shot equal to a dynamite explosion and sand and stones were belched forth falling in the neighborhood of Fukuyama where smoke and fire were also blown by the wind. At the entrance of the town the ground was covered with sand and earth to a depth of over a foot. Stones and earth also fell at Midauomiura, a village six miles away. No previous eruption of Mount Zoo is recorded. Only one man lost his life but some stock was killed and 55 houses were destroyed. The total loss entailed by the eruption is estimated at $3,500,000.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Editor O'Brien was given an ovation and a monster mass meeting at Central Hall, London.

Gerhardt Rohlers' appeals to the people through The Koelnische Zeitung for a fund of 500,000 marks to defray the expenses of an expedition to be sent to reconquer Emin Pasha's province.

A shipment of 184,000 ounces of gold has been received at St. Petersburg from Siberia.

The Italian Government has accepted the Kaiser's invitation to a labor conference.

Mr. Abington has sued the Pelican Club on account of their recent action towards him.

The German ambassador to France has handed the Minister of Foreign Affairs an invitation for France to take part in the labor conference in Berlin.

The Corinth Canal Company has dissolved.

One hundred and twenty of the persons arrested at Lisbon for taking part in the riotous demonstrations, have been sent aboard the ironclad Vasco de Gama and the gunboat India. The country is everywhere tranquil.

It is reported that the Duc de Orleans will submit quietly to the sentence of the court and make no appeal.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal. Is phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

CUPID'S HARNESS.

Most women naturally look forward to matrimony as their proper sphere in life. But they should constantly bear in mind that a fair skin, clear face, bright eyes and a healthy, well-developed form, are the best passports to a happy marriage. All female weaknesses and disorders, weakness, and functional irregularities peculiar to their sex, destroy comfort and attractiveness and make life miserable. An unfailing specific for these maladies is to be found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrappers, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

Dr. PIERCE'S PELLETS

Purely Vegetable!
Perfectly Harmless!

UNEQUALED AS A LIVER PILL.

Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. One tiny, Sugar-coated Pellet a dose. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness, and all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R TEMPLETON

CUT OF SORS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and possessed by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, ever does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes those diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthly bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask fon Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good.

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

NEIL MCNEIL Leith, Ont.

THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous body, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is broken down or weak, Unimpeded vigorous digestion may be insured, the sluggish activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier or introduced into Canada

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a 30 day trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. d&wly

Swimming Niagara

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and is never fail to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time.

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMS PS

LIVERPOOL SERVIC
DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th; from Halifax, Sat. March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th; from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland about Feb. 28th.

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

*The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

*Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal.

J. CONNELLY Agent

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS
TO WORK
Life & Accident
INSURANCE,
In the County of Hastings; apply, to
S BURROWS

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.,
CAPITAL $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates

Payment can be made to full due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.
FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal of money.
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager.

CATARRH,
CONGENITAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.
Diseases are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in one to three simple applications. Terms by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of two cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 West King Street, Toronto, Canada. Mention this paper.

Sufferers from Catarrh should read what Kendally says about this.

FOR MEN ONLY!
APOSITIVE For LOST or Failing MANHOOD, General or NERVOUS DEBILITY, CURE Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Abuse or Excess, Indiscretion or Young Robust, Noble Manhood Fully Restored. How to Enlarge and Strengthen Weak, Undeveloped Organs of Power and Body. Absolutely unfailing. FREE TREATISE (sealed) explaining this, with testimonials, and many proofs of cures. Mention this paper. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or Manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 36 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases.—Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men Office, No. 4 Bulfinch Street

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & etc Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada, Office—Front St opposite Ritchie's. Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent.
JOHN J. B. FLINT, P. J. M. ANDERSON,
W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

J. F. C. REDICK
BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W. A. P. CAMPBELL
SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc $200,000 loan at 6½ on easy terms Low charges Office Bridge St.

Francis S. Wallbridge,
(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.)
BARRISTER, Solicitor, etc.—Office Mc Annany Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont.
Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

William N. Ponton
BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer, Office over Express Co's Office, Dominion Block, Bridge St Belleville, Private funds to loan Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A Foley,
BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. d6dwly.

Sherry & Macaulay
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office north door to office of U. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Bridge street Bridge St. Belleville. GEO. J. SHERRY, C. B. MACAULAY Private and company funds to loan at low est rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson
BARRISTERS, Solicitors &c., Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont.
GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney for Hastings Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co Hse

McDonald & Ormsby
SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Build ngs, opposite Post Office Belleville and Wm Rock Madoc.
A. McDONALD.

Bell & Biggar
BARRISTERS Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario.
JOHN BELL, Q. C. BELL BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

K. TRACY, M.D.,
CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. dw

T PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon
GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.
OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J P Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, broker in Telephone connect

Elizabeth Embury M.D., C. M.
QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Hoi' and's jewellery store, second door north formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.
DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R. C.S. E Specialty on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary.
439 College Avenue Toronto.

E M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.P.H.M.S
(HOMOEOPATHIST)
Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Massachusetts Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Midwifery, Surgery and Medicine, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbott.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGille University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital.
Office and residence Foxboro Ont

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES
General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc.
Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charles Butlis
Issuer Marriage Licenses and Conveyancing Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases Terms libera l. A orders left at the office of J. G Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.,
SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Angle Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,
SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker — Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.

The Health Seeker — takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of he Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Brest water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker — take the Manitoba to the Garden of Opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer — takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist — takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.

The Traveller — takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher — takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the Nations at Yale, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone — will receive maps, book and guides of the region reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE
FRONT St Belleville

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

STEEL in Store. "Jessop's" Durable Tool Quality. All Goods imported to order. Special value in Tin Plate, Wire, Cutlery, &c. Get our prices.
A. C. LESLIE & CO.
MONTREAL AND TORONTO

H. SHOREY & CO.
Manufacturers of
MEN'S, BOY'S, YOUTH'S
AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.

THOS. DAVIDSON & CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRESSED & JAPANNED TINWARE,
WIRE GOODS,
LITHOGRAPHED SIGNS.

ROBIN & SADLER
LEATHER BELTING
MONTREAL AND TORONTO.

PLATE GLASS.
French Mirror Plate
ABSOLUTE BREAKAGE INSURANCE
MONGENAIS, BOIVIN & CO.
MONTREAL

H. JONAS & CO.
GROCERS'
SUNDRIES.
Essential
OILS
AND FLAVORING
EXTRACTS.
JONAS' TRIPLE FLAVORING EXTRACTS
H. JONAS & CO. MONTREAL

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED
COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.
PURE HONEST GOODS.
SAFE INGREDIENTS
NO ALUM.
Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Banannas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!
Just in to-day at
CONGER BROS.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY
—AT—
THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—
BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating
W. J. REID & CO
Benj. Birch, Manager.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during thisweek
Terms of sale—Cash.
Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890
GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCH, DINNER, AND ALL TIMES.
MENIER CHOCOLATE
THE HEALTHIEST AND THE BEST.
Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 9 GOLD MEDALS
ONCE USED, NEVER WITHOUT IT.
ASK FOR YELLOW WRAPPER.
For Sale Everywhere.
BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.
DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

The best Food to impart Strength
This is the testimony of all who have used
JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF
The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food,

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Head all from scalp over face was so bad with eczema that he laid of his bib. His scalp was covered with eczema which the doctor said was scald. Hair and skin all came would never grow again. Discharging ears from phys. skins, I began the use of Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and effectual cure for skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for the advice. MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the Cuticura Remedies, of an old sore caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. Carson, merchant. JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price: Cuticura, 75c. Soap, 35; Resolvent, $1.00. Prepared by the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T

Will be at the

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also dyspepsia of all kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

2dw

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary: any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Kiefer Pear, Saunders' Nut, Hilborn Raspberry, Moore's Ruby and Jewel chairman Currants, Moore's Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given a popular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms address
STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

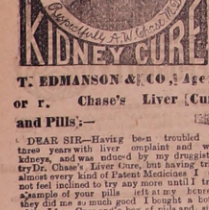
ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 220 acres, three miles from Belleville, Boat or rail, 60 acres new land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply,

Feb 6 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL.



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents

or r. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicine I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills. I felt at once better, they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,
HENRY HIGHT.

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. Prompt CURE, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which is simple and perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses, Every other made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Supporters, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompt CURE, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my style of Judgment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN,

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

agent for the Lancashire Insurance
Front St cor Aug'a Avenue.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN SHE JESS &c.

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

Presently my heart stood still, for I thought I heard a faint answer. I drew nearer to the place from which the sound seemed to come, and again called. Yes, there was an answer in my wife's voice. It seemed to come from the rock. I went up to it and searched among the creepers, but still could find no opening.

"Move the stone," cried Stella's voice, "the cave is shut with a stone."

I took a spear and prodded at the cliff whence the sound came. Suddenly the spear sank in through a mass of lichen. I swept the lichen aside, revealing a boulder that had been rolled into the mouth of an opening in the rock, which it fitted so accurately that, covered as it was by the overhanging lichen, it might well have escaped the keenest eye. We dragged the bowlder out; it was two men's work to do it. Beyond was a narrow, water worn passage, which I followed with a beating heart. Presently the passage opened into a small cave, shaped like a pickle bottle, and coming to a neck at the top end. We passed through and found ourselves in a second, much larger cave, that I at once recognized as the one of which Indabazimbi had shown me a vision in the water. Light reached it from above—how I know not—and by it I could see a form half sitting, half lying on some skins at the top end of the cave. I rushed to it. It was Stella! Stella bound with strips of hide, bruised, torn, but still Stella, and alive.

She saw me, she gave one cry, then as I caught her in my arms she fainted. It was happy indeed that she did not faint before, for had it not been for the sound of her voice I do not believe we should ever have found that cunningly hidden cave, unless, indeed, Indaba-zimbi's magic (or shall he be blessings) had come to our assistance.

We bore her to the open air, laid her beneath the shade of a tree, and cut the bonds loose from her ankles. As we went I glanced at the cave. It was exactly as I had seen it in the vision. There burnt the fire, there were the rude wooden vessels, one of them still half full of the water which I had seen the baboon bring. I felt awed as I looked, and marveled at the power wielded by a savage who could not even read and write.

Now I could see Stella clearly. Her face was scratched, and haggard with fear and weeping. Her clothes were almost torn off her, and her beautiful hair was loose and tangled. I sent for water, and we sprinkled her face. Then I forced a little of the brandy which we distilled from peaches at the kraals between her lips, and she opened her eyes, and throwing her arms about me clung to me as little Tota had done, sobbing, "Thank God! thank God!"

After a while she grew quieter, and I made her and Tota eat a little food from the store that we had brought with us. I drank also and was thankful, for with the exception of the mealie cobs I had tasted nothing for nearly four-and-twenty hours. Then she washed her face and hands, and tidied her ragged dress as well as she was able. As she did so, by degrees I drew her story from her.

It seemed that on the previous afternoon, being wearied with packing, she went out to visit her father's grave, taking Tota with her, and was followed there by the two dogs. She wished to lay some flowers on the grave and take farewell of the dust it covered, for as we had expected to trek early on the morrow she did not know if she would find a later opportunity. They passed up the garden, and, gathering some flowers from the orange trees and elsewhere, went on to the little graveyard. Here she laid them on the grave as we had found them, and then sitting down, fell into a deep and sad reverie, such as the occasion would naturally induce. While she sat thus, Tota, who was a lively child and active as a kitten, strayed away without Stella observing it. With her went the dogs, who had also grown tired of inaction; a while passed, and suddenly she heard the dogs barking furiously about 150 yards away. Then she heard Tota scream and the dogs also yelling with fear and pain. She rose and ran as swiftly as she could towards the spot whence the sound came. Presently she was there. Before her in the glade, holding the screaming Tota in her arms, was a figure in which, notwithstanding the rough disguise of baboon skins and coloring matter, she had no difficulty in recognizing Hendrika, and all about her were numbers of baboons, rolling over and over in two hideous heaps, of which the centers were the two unfortunate dogs now in process of being rent to fragments.

"Hendrika," Stella cried, "what does this mean? What are you doing with Tota and those brutes?"

The woman heard her and looked up. Then she saw that she was mad; madness stared from her eyes. She dropped the child, which instantly flew to Stella for protection. As she dropped it, one of the baboons leapt at her and clasped her. She struggled fiercely, but it was of no use—the babyan-fray had the strength of ten. She lifted her and Tota as though they were nothing, and ran off with them, following the bed of the stream in order to avoid leaving a spoor. Only the baboons who came with her, minus the one the dogs had killed, would not take to the water, but kept pace with them on the bank.

Stella said that the night which followed was more like a hideous nightmare than a reality. She was never able to tell me all that occurred in it. She had a vague recollection of being borne over rocks and along kloofs, while around her echoed the horrible grunts and clicks of the baboons. She spoke to Hendrika in English and Kaffir, imploring her to let them go; but the woman, if I may call her so, seemed in her madness to have entirely forgotten these tongues. When Stella spoke she would kiss her and stroke her hair, but she did not seem to understand what it was she said. On the other hand, she could and did talk to the baboons, that seemed to obey her implicitly. Moreover, she would not allow them to touch either Stella or the child in her arms. Once one of them tried to do so, and she seized a dead stick and struck it so heavily on the head that it fell senseless. Thrice Stella made an attempt to escape, for sometimes even Hendrika's giant strength waned and she had to set them down. But on each occasion she caught them, and it was in these struggles that Stella's clothes were so torn.

At length before daylight they reached the cliff, and with the first break of light the ascent began. Hendrika dragged them up the first stages, but when they came to the precipitous place she cut the strips of hide, of which she had a supply wound round her waist, beneath Stella's arms. Steep as the place was the baboons succeeded it easily enough, springing from a knob of rock to the trunk of the tree that grew on the edge of the crevasse. Hendrika followed them, holding the end of the hide rein in her teeth, one of the baboons hanging down from the tree to assist her ascent. It was while she was ascending that Stella bethought her of letting fall her handkerchief in the faint hope that some searcher might see it.

By this time Hendrika was on a tree, and grunting out orders to the baboons which clustered about Stella below. Suddenly these seized her and stripped her of skins. My legs were bound, and Hendrika sat near me watching me, while round the edge of the cave peered the heads of those horrible baboons. Tota was still in my arms, and half dead from terror; her moans were pitiful to hear. I spoke to Hendrika, imploring her to release us; but either she had lost all understanding of human speech, or she pretended to have done so. All she would do was to caress me, and even kiss my hands and dress with extravagant signs of affection. As she did so, Tota shrunk away closer to me. This Hendrika saw and glared so savagely at the child that I feared lest she was going to kill her. I diverted her attention by making signs that I wanted water, and this she gave me in a wooden bowl. As you saw, the cave was evidently Hendrika's dwelling place. There are stores of fruit in it and some strips of dried flesh. She gave me some of the fruit and Tota a little, and a little Tota eat also. You can never know what I went through, Allan. I saw now that Hendrika was quite mad, and but little removed from the brutes to which she is akin, and over which she has such unholy power. The only trace of humanity left about her was her affection for me. Evidently her idea was to keep me here with her, to keep me away from you, and to carry out this idea she was capable of the exercise of every artifice and cunning. In that way she was sane enough, but in every other way she was mad. Moreover, she had not forgotten her horrible jealousy. Already I saw her glaring at Tota, and I knew that the child's murder was only a matter of time. Probably within a few hours she would be killed before my eyes. Of escape, even if I had the strength, there was absolutely no chance, and little enough of our ever being found. No, we should be kept there guarded by a mad thing, half ape, half woman, till we perished miserably. Then I thought of you, dear, and of all that you must be suffering, and my heart nearly broke. I could only pray to God that I might either be rescued or die swiftly.

"As I prayed, I dropped into a kind of doze from utter weariness, and then I had the strangest dream. I dreamed that Indaba-zimbi stood over me nodding his white lock, and spoke to me in Kaffir, telling me not to be frightened, for you would soon be with me, and that meanwhile I must humor Hendrika, pretending to be pleased to have her near me. The dream was so vivid that I actually seemed to see and hear him, as I see and hear him now."

Here I looked up and glanced at old Indaba-zimbi, who was sitting near. But it was not till afterwards that I told Stella of how her vision was brought about.

"At any rate," she went on, "when I awoke I determined to act on my dream. I took Hendrika's hand and pressed it. She actually laughed in a wild kind of way with happiness, and laid her head upon my knee. Then I made signs that I wanted food, and she threw wood on the fire, which I forgot to tell you was burning in the cave, and began to make some of the broth that she used to make very well, and she did not seem to have forgotten all about it. At any rate the broth was not bad, though neither Tota nor I could drink much of it. Fright and weariness had taken away our appetites.

"After the meal was done—and I prolonged it as much as possible—I saw that Hendrika was beginning to get jealous of Tota again. She glared at her and then at the big knife which was tied round her own body. I knew the knife again; it was the one with which she had tried to murder you, dear. At last she went so far as to draw the knife. I was paralyzed with fear, then suddenly I remembered that when she was our servant, and used to get out of temper and sulky, I could always calm her by singing to her. So I began to sing hymns. Instantly she forgot her jealousy and put the knife back into its sheath. She knew the sound of the singing, and sat listening to it with a rapt face; the baboons, too, crowded in at the entrance of the cave to listen. I must have sung for an hour or more, all the hymns that I could remember. It was so very strange and dreadful sitting there singing to mad Hendrika and those hideous man-like apes that shut their eyes and nodded their ears, heads as I sang. It was like a horrible nightmare; but I believe that the baboons are almost as human as the Boshmen.

TO BE CONTINUED

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. All druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Nerve Pain Cure,

Poison's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhoea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerviline cures sprains, bruises, cuts, etc. Poison's Nerviline is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Poisons Nerviline.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc. are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work. It will not in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hai luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sur to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it. It is money w per t. See Dorenwends advertisment another column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Poison's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Poison's nerve pain cure Nerviline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Fool.

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold on Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the lungs, skin and scalp, and all scrotulous afflictions, or money paid, for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pains in my stomach. I now use Burdock B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N. S.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

GUARDIAN

fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT,
Bell—Robertson Block, East Front St

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

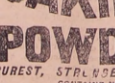
PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY OTHER ADULTERANT.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.
MANUFACTURER OF CHICAGO, ILL.
THE CELEBRATED EAGLE BRAND CAKES.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,



KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decay, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relations. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Unexcelled First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital $15,000,000.00

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.
Losses paid in 1886..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1885..... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance from Pinnacle St., upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—

GRAN UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Heat equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Heating Apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

—CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Grate or any other kind of Grate.

HOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y.

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000. Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District Agent, Belleville
W HARVEY, agent, Ivanhoe
3, Martin agent Shirley.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered Liver, Stomach or Bowels or BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal through notice and interest allowed

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARIN INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

A few hundred large size cedar post A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator.

Pos—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK PILLS

A SURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE ADDITION TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN

WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

References.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY
NURSERYMEN,
COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

DILOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Prepared on, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure and ask for Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want any his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars which contain you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

HACYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS ETC.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

Is sole of substantial substances which mine the theory, and practical results of the Original, in which the greatest, most meritorious attempts to rob the competitors, and in spite of these attempts to rob the competitors, and in spite of the fact that the Original, of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority of his teachings, Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized today in both Hemispheres as matchless and "Prof. Loisette's Prospectus (sent post free) gives additional testimonials from all parts of the globe besides fully detailed his System by correspondence, showing that his System is not only wholly free from the drawbacks of other systems, but that any book can be learned in a single afternoon, and retained for years, with "Perfect Ease." Terms and Testimonials free. Address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,
Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

O BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors in the blood, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervous Debility, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sole for. Shop and manufactory, Front St., East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

—AT THE—

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 13 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
d1y Tuner.

Example for Belleville Brethren.

Brockville Oddfellows's have furnished a room in the general hospital and a system of electric bells is being placed in that institution by members of the I. O. O. F.

A Sad Welcome Home.

James Wallace returned from Toronto at midnight last night. He was completely overcome when informed of the tragic death of his child. The remains will be buried in the cemetery to-morow.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston bluefish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, cisco etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

Building Piers.

The contractors for the substructure of the bridge have the piles driven for the first pier off the north shore. Work was commenced on Monday and the last pile was driven yesterday afternoon. Piles for eleven more piers are to be driven. If the ice holds firm the contractors hope to complete the work before the bay clears.

Chaplain Searles.

Chaplain Searles, for fifteen years an official in Auburn prison, will commence special services in Bridge St. Methodist church in about three weeks. His experience with prisoners of all classes in society and his keen insight into human nature has enabled him to lay up a fund of incidents that are as instructive as they are pathetic. The chaplain is an interesting speaker as all who heard him on his recent visit here well know.

A Ripe Age.

Hannah Moon relict of the late Peter Moon who died Jan. 28th in Huntington, was one of the oldest residents of this county. She was born in the township of Ameliasburg near Redneryville in the year 1805. At the age of 15 years she was united in marriage to her life companion and the union proved a happy one. Seven children were born to them, three sons and four daughters. Of the number three daughters survive their parents. Mrs. Harvey Clare, 2nd concession of Huntington at whose home the deceased spent her last days, and Mrs. Mark Morton of Michigan. The other daughter is also a resident of Michigan. For the past 55 years deceased was a resident of Huntington and was all her life time a devoted member of the Methodist church. She widely known and universally respected for her many christian virtues. She possessed her mental faculties and physical strength to a remarkable degree but fell a victim to the prevailing epidemic, influenza.

DIED.

YOUNG—On Thursday 13th inst, at 11 o'clock, Henry Young aged 65 years. Funeral from the late residence, Isabell st, Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, thence to Connecon for burial. Friends and acquaintances please accept this notice.

„La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers t the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh. will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (60 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD & CO.,
Brockville, Ont.

BALAKLAVA HEROES.

Survivors of the Light Brigade Allowed to Starve by Their Countrymen.

When can their glory fade?
O the wild charge they made!
All the world wondered.
Honor the charge they made!
Honor the Light Brigade,
Noble six hundred!

One of the great though minor evils of the bad, brutal business of war is the poverty and destitution in which the humbler folk who engage in it are often left. It is indeed a strange testimony to the glamor which surrounds the slaughtering trade that men are to be found willing to stand to be shot at in quarrels, the motive of which they do not understand, in return for less than the wages of a day laborer, with the poor house in prospect. In almost every workhouse and in every town in England are disabled soldiers eking out a precarious existence, sometimes aided by a pension insufficient to maintain body and soul together. Take, for instance, the private soldiers who took part in the famous Balaklava charge. Their conduct has been sung in stirring poetry and eulogized in thousands of after dinner speeches. It might have been thought that they at least, if an ungrateful country neglected them, would have been provided for by the generosity of the gentlemen who are ever ready to sound the praise of the British army, and to magnify the service it renders to mankate. Lieut. Wightman, late of the 17th Lancers and the 21st Hussars, is honorary secretary of the Balaklava fund, and took part in the famous act of heroic folly recalled by its name. In a weekly contemporary he give the following list of the survivors of the 650 and their unhappy plight. Their short and simple annals are as follows:

SEVENTEENTH LANCERS.

Private Brennan—In a London workhouse.

Private Marshall—Worked in a machine shop at Lincoln till he lost three fingers; now disabled and in extreme want.

Private Holland, of Ormskirk—No resources.

Private Smith—Cripple; in the Strand Union London.

Private Burns, of Northampton; Trumpeter Brown and Private Butler—Addresses unknown, but all aged and very poor for several years past.

THIRTEENTH HUSSARS.

Private Cooper—Sweeping roads for the Kensington Vestry; will soon have to give over.

Private Mayhew—Miserably poor.

ELEVENTH HUSSARS.

Sergeant Brown—Stood outside Lewis's Manchester, placarded "One of the Survivors," etc.; has worked at an explosive factory; left through ill-health; 70 years of age and failing; pension 1s, 1d, a day.

Private Spring—In extreme poverty.

Private Glanister, of Liverpool—Ditto.

Private Richardson—Served twelve years; no pension; suffers from stricture; has lost sight of one eye, the other going past help; drifts from workhouse to common lodging house when he gets a little help from concerts, etc., then back to workhouse.

Private Lawson—Lost an arm in the charge, has been lucky enough to get into Royal Hospital, Chelsea, by which he forfeits his pension.

EIGHTH LIGHT DRAGOONS.

Private Doyle almost starving in Dublin; was Duke of Cambridge's orderly at Inkerman; got £4 from H R. H., after earnest solicitation and four months waiting last year. The £4 came from the Cambridge fund, supported by public subscriptions.

Trumpeter Donoghue Living on charity can get no employment.

Private Rogers—Helpless through age and disease; in Withington Workhouse.

Private Keegan, Birmingham—Out of work.

Private Grant—In the Royal Hospital at Chelsea, making two only of the survivors so fortunate.

Privates Farrell, Carrid and Brewington—known to be without work and in great distress.

This list is in striking contrast with the platitudes about the glory of war to be heard so often on the platform. It is a burning scandal and reproach to all who maintain war to be a necessity of human nature and who feed the spirit by appeals to the passions and prejudices of the people. The War Office so wasteful in many directions, has no help for these miserable victims of a victorious war. The public who are asked to help them do not respond liberally to the appeal. The misery of these veterans is but a microcosm of the vaster calamities of war. Behind all its panoply of pride and parade of vain glory are ruined homes and broken lives, maimed and starving human beings, helpless and defenceless women and children, bereft of their bread winners are compelled to support those who should labor for them. "When shall their glory fade?" When shall their stomachs be filled, or their suffering and the sufferings of those dependent on them be atoned for.—South Durham (England) Mercury.

MURDER MOST FOUL!

Mr Charles Grant a Well Known Farmer Killed in the West

Last spring John and Charles Grant, sons of a farmer on the St. Lawrence, just above Brockville went out to Oklahoma. John returned home in the fall. A despatch from Edmonton says:—

"The decomposed body of Charles Grant was yesterday found buried only a foot deep in a manure pile. The skull had been fractured, and a hatchet, the blunt end of which was covered with blood and hair, was buried with the body. Grant disappeared about three weeks ago, and since then Edward Belden and Charles and Mrs. Powley have occupied his cabin, Belden claiming to have bough the claim. All three were arrested yesterday."

Charles Grant, the victim of this terrible tragedy, was only twenty-two years of age. He was an industrious, steady young man, and was held in high respect by his friends and acquaintances, who deeply regret his sad end. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family in the terrible trial which they are called upon to undergo in the loss of a loved son and brother, just merging into manhood.

TRENTON RACES

Prince Boy and Beatty Win First Money - Chapman Maid Gets Second Place.

The ice races at Trenton yesterday were largely attended. The track was in poor condition although the races were hotly contested and the crowd was enthusiastic. Prince Edward Boy, of Picton, carried off the prize in the 2:37 trot. His best time was 2:41. Chapman's Maid, of Belleville, came in a good second, with Goldie third. Little Tommy and Prince Boy did not get a place. The winner got the $45 purse, Chapman $20 and Goldie $10.

The green race was a walk over for Beatty of Picton, claiming the three straight heats. Jumping Johnny however scored well for second place with Blue Bird a close third, Gray Hawk, Kentucky Chief and Day's Boy both failing to get a place. The prizes were $30, $15 and $5.

Lecture By Rev Dr George.

Rev. Dr. George will deliver a lecture on "The British Isles," in John St. church S. S. room on Thursday evening Feb 13th. Admission 15 cents. The Albert College Quartette will furnish music.

A WIFE'S FALL.

A MARRIED WOMAN DESERTS HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

A Drunken Brawl Brings the Affair to Light The Woman Tells of Brutal Treatment From her Husband.

William Halwell a driller at the Point Ann quarries was arrested this morning for threatening to shoot William Beauford on January twelfth last. It will be remembered by ONTARIO readers that Beauford is the man who was arrested on Front street Tuesday night for carrying a revolver at the risk of shooting someone if he carried his case too far. Acting on the strength of this information and putting two and two together a reporter of the ONTARIO to-day endeavored to ascertain the cause of the trouble existing between these two men, and, as light was thrown on the case, it has developed into a scandal of the most sensational character. Of course there is a woman in the case.

On August 21st last, Chief of Police Newton received a letter from one George E. House, of Comber P. O., Essex county, Ont., asking for information regarding a man by the name of W. J. Howell, his occupation and business. The author of the letter stated that he (Howell) had been represented to him as a large stone contractor employed by the G. T. R. and that his post office address was Box 267, Belleville. The letter further stated that it was supposed that Howell had a daughter married recently, and while on her wedding trip the groom died.

Acting on the strength of these facts Chief of Police Newton at once commenced to investigate the case and was not long in locating a man whom, he had every reason to believe, was the person wanted. He found him employed at the Point Ann quarries travelling under the name of William J. Halwell. When questioned closely he admitted that he was a married man and that his wife's mother and sister kept a boarding house in Detroit, which Howell, or Halwall, stated that he had formerly lived in Essex county.

When these facts were communicated to Geo. E. House, the following answer dated Sept. 30 1889 was received and reveals a startling state of affairs which if true will no doubt lead to the prosecution of the guilty parties by the proper authorities.

DEAR SIR.—I received yours of the 16th and was pleased to hear from you and that you had been successful in finding a person who goes by the name of Halwell whom I think is the right man. If so his name is W. J. Allen; dark complection, about five feet eight inches high, black eyes and hair parted in centre; has a moustache and is about thirty years of age, weighs about 170 pounds. If this man's right name is Allen, as I believe it is, the woman that he is living with is not his wife, but she is my wife. He became intimate with her while boarding at my house during the summer of 1887 and 1888 I was night foreman in the same mill that he worked in. The affair was planned and carried out very slyly. She left Tuesday night, Dec. 4th, 1888 and Allen left the following Monday morning. She bought a ticket from here to Windsor and from Windsor to Norwood. I telegraphed to the chief of police at Norwood to arrest her on her arrival there, which he did, but before the constable which I sent for her reached Norwood, she was released. Allan's home is within five miles of Norwood, and when they came together there they were mobbed and rotten egged. The affair was published in the papers. She had all her letters addressed in her maiden name, Annie Reid, care of W. J. Halwell, box 267. I want you to ferret out this case and if we can prove that Allen and my wife are living together as man and wife it will clear me and if I see fit can have them punished. You might enquire if Davis & Son have had in their employ a servant girl by the name of Annie Reid."

In another letter from the same writer, dated October 8th last, he says:

"It would be a great satisfaction to arrest them if possible which they justly deserve. They have put me to considerable trouble and have almost ruined me. They have been the means of breaking up my home and leaving one alone to take care of three small children which have been in her parent's charge ever since she left me. They (the parents) have put in a claim for $120 for boarding the children for the past ten months and I have not the means to pay them. I have not consulted a lawyer as yet, but as far as I know the law I will have to prove that they passed themselves off as man and wife or catch them rooming together."

A reporter to-day ascertained that the couple came to Belleville some nine months ago. For a time they lived in a small house at Point Ann. After this they lodged with Mrs. Bowen's on Moira street. They also boarded for some time at the Avon hotel. The alleged wife worked for a few days in the Queen's hotel after which they both took rooms at Mrs. Pereley's on Everett street. When Mrs. Perceley was seen by a reporter she spoke in the highest terms of Halwell. She said she had lived in the house he had always conducted himself as a gentleman and she thought he was an industrious hard working husband. His alleged wife was reticent when approached in the matter. When the reporter told her he knew all and it would be useless for her to withhold anything she burst into tears and related a heart rending story of abuse and ill-treatment that she had been subjected to at the hands of her husband, George House. She said that no woman could live with him and that she was in constant fear of her life.

Why did you not live with your parents?

"They were too poor to keep me and I would not live another day with my husband if I had to die.

"Yes," continued the heartbroken woman, "I'll take your advice and if possible secure enough money to take me home to my parents. They have written me to come home and I will do so at least find shelter with them until I can find something to do to support myself and children."

Seal Skin Sacques $1.00 Each!

This is a great offer. Just imagine the army of ladies that will bestege the store until the last sacque has gone. Such a bargain is ever offered. But how much more wonderful an opportunity is that presented to every suffering woman by the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This remedy if a guaranteed cure for all those distressing ailments peculiar to the weaker sex. It is guaranteed that if it does not effect a cure money will be refunded. It is carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to womanly delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system, and is sold under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded.

For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets, Purely Vegetable. One a dose.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it. 46

DICKENS & SON, Agts.

THE PORTUGUESE EXPLORER.

The African Traveller who Caused England and Portugal to Quarrel

Serpa Pinto is the name most frequently mentioned in connection with the quarrel that has arisen between England and Portugal, with reference to boundaries in Africa. He is a traveller and successful explorer, and enthusiastically devoted to the interests of his own country as against England.

Major Serpa Pinto was born in 1845 and educated for the Portuguese military service. He first went to Africa in 1869, where he took part in the campaign against the rebellious chief, Bonga, in the region of the Zambesi. He acquitted himself with distinction on the field of battle, and acquired wide reputation as an explorer by ascending the river as far as the Victoria Falls making many important discoveries on the way and crossing the African continent from one side to the other. Upon his return to Portugal Serpa Pinto was received by the King, and was made the recipient of many distinguished honors. In November, 1877, he was again sent to Africa by the Portuguese Government. By 1879 he had completed a journey from Benguela, on the western coast of Africa, to Durban on the southern coast. On the basis of the discoveries of Pinto the Portuguese government has since 1879 laid claim to a wide tract of African territory including Mozambique on the eastern coast and the Shire River district, in which the Portuguese engineer, Castilloes, has undertaken to survey the route for a railroad. It was this enterprise which met with resistance from the Makolalo natives and led to the recently reported battle between the blacks and the Portuguese forces under Pinto. A portion of the territory claimed by Portugal is also claimed by the British. Hence the dispute about which all the world is taking.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

An Engineer an Thirty Laborers Killed by the Accident

(Special to the ONTARIO.)

PITTSBURG, Pa. Feb. 13.—The boiler of a locomotive attached to a passenger train on the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Young hiogheny Railway exploded this morning and the engineer, crew and about thirty laborers were killed. Explosion took place at Douglas station, 23 miles from Pittsburg.

A MANITOBA TRAGEDY.

An Old Man Deliberately Shoots His Son and Daughter in Law.

A Manitoba despatch says:—A horrible double tragedy occurred on Sunday night near Miami station on the Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway, John Morton and his wife, aged 52 and 54 years, being shot dead by their father, Robt. Morton, aged 75. Morton and his wife had been residents of Manitoba for a number of years, and some eighteen months ago their father came to live with them. Yesterday, during her husband's absence, Mrs. Morton had some words with her father-in-law, which ended in the old man striking her with a piece of wood. On Morton, jun's, return he resolved his father for his action towards his wife, whereupon the old man said: "Do you see that rifle? I want you to take it down and shoot me." John did not pay any attention to the old man's remarks, but went into another room. The old man then took down the rifle, went outside and fired through the kitchen window, killing his son, the bullet entering the heart. An adopted son of the murdered man ran for assistance to a neighbor. Coming back they heard another report, and upon entering the house were horrified to find the old man had shot Mrs. Morton while attending to her husband. The shot penetrated the abdomen and she lived only an hour. The old man does not deny the crime and said he did it intentionally. John Morton and his wife were greatly respected by everybody in the neighborhood.

The funeral was stopped on Tuesday by order of the attorney general that a post mortem examination of the bodies might be held. The murderer will be tried at the spring assizes.

SONS OF CANADA.

Bay City Lodge Organized—The Office Bearers.

The Sons of Canada met in temperance hall last night for organization. Frank Wallbridge was elected president, S. E. Lennox, first vice-president; James Moon, second vice-president; Geo. Flower, past president; A. J. Marshall, finance secretary; Fred Smith, recording secretary; Geo. Walton, treasurer; S. G. Ret tallack, chaplain; Henry Handey, and Orri Sitrom, assistant stewards; R. McCrudden and A. Robinson, guards; The lodge will be called Bay City Lodge No. 27, and judging from the interest manifested at the first meeting of the order is destined to grow and become a flourishing organization in the not distant future. The membership is now over fifty and Joseph MacLean, the grand organizer is meeting with encouraging success. Another meeting will be held next Tuesday night. J. MacLean was appointed a delegate to attend the meeting of the grand lodge to be held in Toronto next Tuesday.

MORE SIBERIAN ATROCITIES.

Women Forced to Suicide and Men Massacred.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—A cipher received here dated December 28 gives details of an uprisingy in the political prison at Kara, Siberia. Madame Nadyda Sibida, of noble birth and a teacher in the high school at Moscow, was forced last year with revolutionary pamphlets in her possession and sentenced to penal servitude. On her arrival at Kara she attracted the attention of the director of the prison, who insulted her. Madame Sibida slapped his face. The man had her stripped and flogged in the presence of all the men in the prison. The woman was so apprehensive of further shame and torture that she committed suicide by poisoning herself. Several of the other political prisoners, fearful of receiving similar treament, followed her example. Among them was the wife of Prof. Kovalevskyskaia. A few miles from the women's political prison at Kara is that occupied by male political convicts, who, upon hearing of the tragedy, revolted en masse. The troops were called out and shooting, flogging and torturing followed indiscriminately.

Five hundred ratepayers of the county of Frontenac have petitioned the county council to abolish toll gates.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

Prof. Green is unimproved.

R. H. Potter, Toronto, is at the Queens'.

J. Randall, Hamilton, is stopping at the Queen's.

H. Broasted, Cognac, France, is a guest at the Queens'.

John Spence, Collingwood, is registered at the Donnelson.

Mr. J. M. Riddel, of the G. T. R., was at Brockville on Wednesday.

C. S. Hoagg and R. A. Caldwell, Detroit, Mich., are at the Donnelson house.

James Ketcheson and Homer Christ attended the Trenton races yesterday.

Miss Etta Lambert of Fergus, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Allen, of this city.

Jones Greer and Miss Bella Rickey were married at Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Wm. H. Boisfeuillet, manager of the Hamilton Electric Light Works, died Wednesday.

Dr. W. J. Delaney, of Peterborough, has received the appointment of resident surgeon to the New York Polyclinic Hospital.

Rev. W. W. Carson, at a missionary meeting in Kingston, said that putting money into French missions was like putting it in a bag with holes in it.

Lady Stanley, of Preston, wife of the governor-general, writes to the Ottawa papers in favor of the establishment of an institution for trained nurses in that city.

TOWN TALK.

PRODS—Fresh to strong south-west winds; fair, milder weather.

It is claimed that a quarry of pink marble has been discovered in St. Lawrence county, N. Y.

Wm. Beauford, fined $5 yesterday for carrying a revolver was not arrested in the headquarters hotel, but on Front street.

Late one evening recently a Kingston woman secreted herself in a bread cart for the purpose of watching the movements of her husband, of whom she was jealous. She was discovered in her hiding place.

It is said that a brother of Mr. W. R. McRae, of Kingston, died recently in Australia and left a fortune of about $5,000,000.—Brockville Recorder.—The brother of the deceased millionaire was W. R. McRae, formerly of Belleville who got a $75,000 slice of the fortune.

Brighton Notes.

One more case of diptheria in Brighton. The medical health officer isolated the house in time to prevent further spread of the disease.

Dr. Dean has been appointed for the eighth time as high school trustee.

M. P. Lockwood is now serving out his tenth appointment as high school trustee.

Miss E. A. Dean started Wednesday moring to attend ladies' school in Toronto.

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB. 1ST.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the Large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,

FANCY FLANNEL,

—AND—

CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents Furnishers, Laundry Office.

There is hardly any other disease which endangers the health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Will visit professionally, Belleville, Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday. March 21st and 22nd.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

☞ adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE —LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR — BELLEVILLE, ONT: FRIDAY FEBRUARY 14, 1890 — NO 38

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars

NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILY FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

mail Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade.

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
Fresh and Delicious

Macaroons, Toy Crackerlis, Cheese Biscuits, Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits, Milk Biscuits Ginger biscuits

Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoanut Sugar Wafers

Lemon Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Alber biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas trade

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES &C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
Bass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling Phillip's Best Milwaukee Lager, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchie's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR,
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890
Anglo-American Block.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, Roc'r. 13jsdwdw

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,373.68.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belle

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received up to the 22nd February, 1890 for the building of a school house in section 17 Tyninaga. The plans can be seen at Mr. Ferguson's office and in the section at Mr. Lally's. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
JOHN TODD
Trustee, Bleesington.
Feb. 11th 1890 d4t w2

WILL be received by the undersigned up to April 1st, 1890, for the erection of the EBENEZER STONE CHURCH and LOT, West Huntingdon. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
REV. W. H. LEAROYD,
Std West Huntingdon.

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address
MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen,
Rochester, N. Y.
Feb 13 6td

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen of Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner John and Hotel Sts.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. K. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply to MRS. W. W. LEE
Feb. 1 Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th, Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street. Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6rd

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W-W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

WE
Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed
TOILET — SOAPS
There is none that equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

OUR JAPENESE FRIEND
MR. INZO KOUO,
Who is to address the convention in Bridge St. Church next Saturday, the 8th, comes to Belleville for that purpose, and not to praise the merits of our
Japan — Teas
Those using them are our most faithful witnesses as to their superiority. Reader, try a pound.
Wolmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers,
Victoria Buildings.

Stop that CHRONIC COUGH NOW!
For if you do not it may become consumptive. Use Scott's Emulsion, Scrofula, General Debility and Wasting Diseases, there is nothing like
SCOTT'S EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES Of Lime and Soda.
It is almost as palatable as milk. Far better than other so-called Emulsions. A wonderful fresh producer.
SCOTT'S EMULSION
is put up in a salmon color wrapper. Be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Dealers at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NOTICE.

THE members of the Moira, Belleville and Marmora Lodges of the generally known as the Masonic Hall on Sunday, 16th inst., at 1:30 p.m., to attend the funeral of our late brother, Charles Lockerby.
W. LATTIMER,
W M Moira Lodge, No 11.
R WATERS,
W M Belleville Lodge, No 123.
H McININCH,
W M Eureka Lodge, No 283.
A McGINNIS,
Z Mor. Chapter No 7.
2td

Nerve Pain Cure.
Polson's Nervoline cures Batulence, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sex sickness and summer complaint. Nervoline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nervoline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy is the home remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervoline.

A Cure for Deafness.
THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs
SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are thought a remedy better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair
There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it. It is money worth. See Dorenwends advertisment another column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle
Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervoline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nervoline

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites
sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Hicks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne." Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Fool.
away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold, en Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

SYMPTOMS—Dry nasal stuffing; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue turns to form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts, the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

MR. RYKERT'S EXPLANATION OF HIS LETTERS.

The Debate on the Dual Language Bill Resumed—Mr. Mulock and Sir Hector Langevin Oppose the Measure—Other Speeches.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Rykert spoke at some length with reference to the Northwest limit correspondence recently published in The Toronto Globe. He said the matter had been made an issue in his last election and his majority had been increased from an average of 100 to upwards of 200. The letters were never intended for publication, he said. In fact when the lawsuit over the limit sale was settled it was expressly agreed that the letters should be considered as confidential, but since they were in print he had several more to add explanatory of them and that would make the read much better. He desired to exonerate the Government from any connection with the transaction.

Sir Richard Cartwright formally moved that The Globe's letters might be printed in the votes and proceedings together with the additional letters which Mr. Rykert desired to hand in. When the whole House had had an opportunity of reading them he would have something more to say.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell expressed surprise at the use that had been made of his name in this correspondence and that Mr. Rykert had not made a more satisfactory explanation on that point. The part he had taken was simply to say that he would exert himself to see justice done.

Were it parliamentary he would use much stronger language, but he would content himself with saying that Mr. Rykert was singularly unfortunate in the choice of language in which to convey his ideas. If the letters meant anything they meant that the Canadian Pacific Railway had six members of the Cabinet employed to work for them and that Mr. Rykert had the balance working for him and to be well paid for their services. The names of Hugh John Macdonald and Stewart Tupper were also mentioned, and he had received from the former a telegram expressing surprise at the references to them in the letters and stating that their firm had been merely solicitors for the purchasers of the limits and had charged only the ordinary fees. They had received no money from Mr. Rykert.

Hon. Mr. McCarthy said there was no warrant for the use made of his name in this precious correspondence and the only part he had taken was to forward the application of his constituents, Shorthead & Laidlaw, for this particular limit. He had no direct or indirect personal interest.

Hon. Peter Mitchell evoked considerable applause from the Government side by a brief speech, in which he denounced the correspondence as infamous and as a former colleague of many members of the present ministry expressed his conviction that none of them, least of all Sir John Macdonald, would accept pecuniary reward for services rendered in that political position. But he claimed the refutation of the assertion contained in these letters was in order.

Sir John Macdonald promptly rose with the statement that he had not been offered nor received any pecuniary consideration. He thought with Mr. Bowell that the language of the letters was, to say the least, singularly unfortunate. As far as his son was concerned he was sure his connection with the matter was not otherwise than honorable. "I gave him his education," Sir John pathetically remarked, but since then he has had to fight his own way in the world and I am sure that whatever his faults may have been he has fought his way honestly and uprightly."

The subject then dropped, Mr. Rykert having until to-morrow to hand in the explanatory letters he wished to go on record.

A supposed trouble in Sir Adolphe Caron's department was brought up by a question from Mr. Lester, who enquired whether Col. Waller Powell, adjutant-general of militia, has tendered his resignation to the Minister of Militia or the Government at any time during the past five years; if so for what cause and on what conditions did he agree to remain in his present official position.

In reply Sir Adolphe said that during that time Col. Powell had forwarded a letter offering his resignation, but he had returned the letter, not desiring to accept the resignation, which Col. Powell then withdrew. There were no conditions.

D'Alton McCarthy's anti-French bill was then taken up, Mr. Mulock resuming the discussion. In a temperate and logical address he showed the weak points of argument used by Mr. McCarthy with regard to the effect upon nations of the use of two languages and denounced the strong words that gentlemen had used in introducing his bill and spoken outside the House, especially in his Stayner address, where he had said that if the difficulty was not settled with ballots in this generation it would be with bayonets in the next.

He said Mr. McCarthy's was an act without authority, that no one had requested him to take up this question and he came to the House, as he would not go to any court of law, asking a verdict on a case concerning which he professed no evidence. By the introduction of this bill which he had presented the case he had done his cause much harm and had raised a great deal of unhappy race prejudice.

Mr. Gigault following in English contended that this agitation was against the principles of British fair play and expressed his conviction that the spirit of fair play which had made the French privileges sacred in the past would preserve them for the future.

Then Mr. Curran spoke, filling in the 15 minutes intervening before six o'clock. He travel his French, in which he spoke very fluently, but the majority of the members of the House will have favor of the motion. The resolutions now declare loyalty to the Queen, admiration of the British Constitution, approval of the vote given by Liberals, but the mass thus declare that independence is in store for Canada and deprecating any legislation which "might alienate American sympathies at a time when public opinion calls for closer commercial relations between Canada and the United States." The resolutions will be submitted Friday.

The B. & O.'s New Purchase.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 15.—It is said that Andrew Carnegie, having secured absolute control of the Pittsburg & Western Railway, has turned it over to the Baltimore & Ohio Company. This will give the Baltimore & Ohio a shorter route to Cleveland and Chicago.

The Candid Truth.
USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Bucknell, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and threat; it never

THE PROVINCIAL BUDGET.

TREASURER ROSS BRINGS DOWN HIS FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The Receipts and Expenditures Explained to the Legislature—Estimated Receipts for 1890 Are Given. H. E. Clarke in Reply.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—Hon. A. M. Ross, Provincial Treasurer, made his Budget Speech yesterday in the Assembly. Among the members who were absent was the Leader of the Opposition, and the task of replying to the Treasurer fell, as on previous occasions, to the lot of Mr. H. E. Clarke.

Mr. Ross first presented a statement of the receipts for 1889, which are: Subsidy and specific grant, $1,196,872; interest on capital held, debts due by the Dominion to Ontario and interest on investments, $556,622; Crown Lands Department, $1,196,455; Algoma taxes, $391; law stamps, $84,841; licenses, $382,754; Education Department, $35,759 public institutions, $131,199; casual revenue, $44,404; insurance companies' assessments, $2906; removal of patients' assessments, $5005, and other receipts, among which are drainage works' assessments, $17,486, and Toronto asylum sale of lands, $119,851, making a total, exclusive of drainage debentures, of $3,499,385. The drainage debentures bring the total up to $3,528,465. This is greatly in excess of the estimated receipts. Honorable gentlemen and newspapers working in their interests were continually proclaiming that the surplus was a myth and the assets a sham. But in refutation of such allegations Mr. Ross said a simple question. The interest amounted to $385,000, or over $25,000 in excess of the estimates. If there were no revenue-producing assets from whence came the interest? Receipts amounting to $495,000 represented 5 per cent. on upwards of $7,000,000, and where such shadow existed there must surely be some substance. Mr. Ross then gave the yearly receipts from 1886 to 1889 inclusive, as follows:

1886	$335,004
1887	324,856
1888	304,844
1889	385,025

Or a total of $1,349,328 and an average per year of $337,332. This represented a capital of over a million and a half of money.

Coming to the Crown Lands Department, the treasurer pointed out that the estimated receipts were exceeded by $66,455. In 1884 he had undertaken to meet a cry that the revenue from Crown Lands was diminishing rapidly, but he had produced figures covering 11 years demonstrating the falsity of that cry. He quoted those figures for 1884-1889 inclusive showing that the average receipts were $979,000, while the average for the previous 11 years amounted to only $651,038. It might be asserted that the bonuses had been included in these later receipts. So also it might be claimed with regard to former years, but deducting these bonuses the average had been $734,000 against $651,038 for the 11 years above mentioned.

The estimated receipts from the Department of Education were $22,000; the actual revenue amounted to $35,759.

With regard to the revenue from licenses, while the estimate had been $390,000, the actual receipts amounted to $382,754. But in making this estimate the probability of the Scott Act being repealed in some of the counties had been taken into consideration. By taking this into consideration it had been objected that the vote in such counties would be prejudiced, but a financial officer of the Government was fully justified in taking all probabilities into consideration.

The actual result had been that in all the counties the act had been repealed. It had been stated in the previous year that if all repealed the act and the same licenses were to be issued as in 1885, the additional revenue would be $78,000. The consequence of the action of the counties was an additional revenue of only $62,734. In 1886 the license fees had been increased and the return of license issued showed that a high license had produced the effect of decreasing the number.

The belief existed among temperance advocates that the fewer places existing in which liquor was sold the less drinking there would be. And this idea was probably well founded. Temperance people would no doubt discern that owing to the increase of fees by the act of 1886 a direct influence was exercised in the direction of temperance.

Coming to the receipts from public institutions, it was pointed out that while the estimated receipts were $97,250 the actual receipts amounted to $131,199, an increase of $33,949. On asylum lands the estimated revenue was $185,000, the actual revenue $119,851.

Dealing with the expenditure of 1890, it was shown that while the estimated expenditure for civil government was $218,145 the actual expenditure amounted to $211,761. So in legislation the estimate had been $131,550, the actual expenditure $119,938. The total ordinary expenditure under the Supply Bill aggregated $5,181,614, which is exclusive of the following amounts:

Drainage debentures	$ 17,737 88
Tile debentures	8,000 00
Railway aid certificates	347,982 14
Annuity certificates	52,000 00
Widows' pensions	1,764 07
New Parliament Buildings	143,167 35
	$5,663,356 37

Touching upon the complaints from some sections that the Government had been remiss in providing sufficient accommodation for the insane, the hon. gentleman claimed that such was not the case. No government he knew of, national, federal or provincial, had done more in supplying accommodation. Five than had the Province of Ontario. (Applause.)

Mr. Ross regretted that he could report no definite progress with regard to the Dominion accounts. Last year the House had been informed of the position taken by the Finance Minister and the correspondence would show that for six years negotiations had been in progress on the basis of that the agreement of 1882 would be concurred in. The information of the Dominion Government's action had first been conveyed to them just as the settlement was about completed and that action was a great surprise, being as it was so contrary to the former tone of the Dominion Government.

The Treasurer made a proposition to settle the question, the ultimate issue of which would be a reference to arbitration. Concluding the Treasurer said: I believe the statement is one eminently satisfactory. Ontario's sound financial position was due firstly that her people gladly said cheerfully taxed upon themselves a larger public expenditure than other provinces had done and also to the fact that the affairs of Ontario are wisely administered. (Applause.)

The following are the estimated receipts for 1890:

Subsidy		$1,196,872 00
Interest on capital held and debts due by the Dominion to Ontario	$556,000 00
Interest on investments	60,000 00
		316,000 00
Crown Lands Department:
Crown Lands	$95,000 00
Colonization Roads	5,000 00
Common School Lands	10,000 00
Woods and Forests	1,040,000 00
		1,150,000 00
Public Institutions:
Toronto Lunatic Asylum	$30,000 00
Kingston "	10,000 00
London "	5,500 00
Hamilton "	7,000 00
Orillia "	2,000 00
Reformatory for females	4,000 00
Central Prison	60,000 00
Deaf and Dumb Institute	150 00
		131,199 00
Education Department		35,000 00
Casual revenue		45,000 00
Licenses		390,000 00
Law stamps		90,000 00
Assessments		2,000 00
From insurance companies on fires at London and Toronto		17,000 00
Drainage assessment		17,000 00
Toronto Asylum lands		185,000 00
Insurance companies' assessments		3,000 00
Assessment of counties for removal of lunatics		6,000 00
Total		$3,327,222 00

Mr. Clarke, in reply, argued that the surplus claimed, $6,427,252, was really no surplus at all. The Treasurer had always managed to leave the House in blissful ignorance as to the real financial position of the province. We know we had a revenue of from two to four millions, one portion of which was certain and fixed because dependent upon the Dominion Government, the other fluctuating and a simple question of tariff upon the effort of hon. gentlemen opposite. (Laughter.) But certain or fluctuating, one certainty at least existed, the expenditure exceeded the income by from $40,000 to $50,000 per annum. In 1883 the expenditure was greater than the receipts by over $400,000. The Treasurer had not yet learned to make a surplus grow in spite of an over-expenditure. He had since learned that art, whether from his colleagues or evolved from his inner consciousness the hon. gentleman could not say. (Laughter.)

"The sooner he is transplanted to a vegetarian," said Mr. Clarke later on in his speech, "the better for himself and for the public." Mr. Clarke, after this reflection, proceeded to show by the expenditure of 1883-1886 inclusive the expenditure had greatly exceeded the receipts. The total receipts for those years were $11,419,776, expenditures $12,329,747, leaving an actual deficit of $907,971. Add to this the sum borrowed, namely, $755,094, a total deficit of $1,663,065 had arrived at. All of which went to show a growing expenditure without any corresponding increase in revenue. It was unwise on the part of the Provincial Treasurer, he believed, to attempt to hide this fact.

Then for 1887, including the other four years, the enormous deficit of $1,833,302, or nearly two millions, existed; by 1888 this had mounted to $1,882,689, almost two millions and six years.

The speaker denied that in making these statements he was a pessimist. "I have," said he, "an unbounded faith in this country. I have an unbounded faith in this province, would that unbounded faith in necessary when I remember those who rule it and those who have ruled it for the past 17 years." Applause from the Conservative benches and laughter from the Government benches.) Mr. Clarke continued to criticise sharply the statements of the hon. treasurer until 6 o'clock, when the Speaker left the chair.

UNCLE SAM'S LEGISLATORS.

The House Sub-Committee on Reciprocity —The Extradition Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The House Committee on Foreign Affairs to-day referred a memorial of the Boston Board of Trade, praying for action that would strengthen the trade relations between the United States and Canada to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Hitt, Dunnell and Chapman. This reference will have the effect of making the gentlemen named a sub-committee to have charge of all questions bearing upon reciprocity between the United States and Canada.

The House Committee on Patents to-day unanimously ordered a favorable report on the International Copyright Bill. The bill allows foreign authors to take out copyrights in the United States upon the same footing as American authors, provided the printing and binding are done wholly within the United States. This bill conforms to the bill pending in the Senate.

In the Senate executive session to-day the Committee on Foreign Relations reported back the Russian Extradition Treaty with the objectionable clause eliminated, the one which specifically exempted from the list of political crimes attempts upon the life of the Czar or any member of his family.

The senate then discussed the British Extradition Treaty for 1½ hours without reaching definite action. Objection was made by several senators, Mr. Chandler of Delaware making the principal speech, to the clauses providing extradition for persons charged with manslaughter and obtaining money under false pretences.

WHISKY BY THE QUART.

Furnished an Inmate of Hamilton's House of Refuge.

HAMILTON, Feb. 13.—An investigation of the House of Refuge yesterday disclosed the fact that one of the inmates was the lady recipient of a quart of whisky.

The forthcoming meeting of the Reform Association of this city, which will be held in a few weeks, is not to be barren of interest. T. H. Macpherson, who has been president of that organization for the past three years, intends resigning from office and is probable successor is Henry Carscallen, Q.C.

E. Farquhar of Toronto is in the city with a little bill for extras on the Barton-street block pavements amounting to $3000.

Ten young men and boys were fined $1 each to-day for coasting on the hill on James street north.

Mr. M. B. Williams, license inspector for North Wentworth, died at his residence in Dundas last night at 11½ o'clock. He was 58 years of age and leaves a widow and five children.

John Fyke, sr., a well-known figure in labor circles, is dead.

The Flour Market.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 13.—The Northwestern miller says: The flour output last week was 115,880 barrels. There is no improvement to report of the flour market. Very few orders are coming in and a good deal of current production has to go into store. Prices are about the same though not very strong. The export trade is very light with offers gradually sinking.

Montague v. Colter Again.

CAYUGA, Feb. 13.—J. W. Colter (Ref.) and W. H. Montague (Con.) were nominated again to-day for the representation of Haldimand in the House of Commons.

Do No be Deceive...
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 14 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays, and delivered by special carriers to all parts of the City for six dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—3½c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent out to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for one Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS: Daily Ontario—Ten lines, ten cents per insertion; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in Weekly Chronicle, 10 cents per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notice is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The Governor General in his last summer tour among the Indians of the north-west saw what he believed was a white girl in an Indian camp. Further investigation removes all doubt concerning the white blood of the child and feeling is growing strong against the government in the territories for not demanding the surrender of the child. There is a prospect for trouble between the whites and Indians if the government does not act.

It is impossible to tell what will be the outcome of the visit of the young Duke of Orleans to France. The declaration of the young pretender that he came simply to serve as a conscript has won the sympathies of the fickle Frenchmen. His imprisonment will still further rouse them to his support and it appears from his decision not to appeal from the sentence, when he knows that an appeal would secure his liberty, that he is desirous of raising a strong feeling in his favor. The Monarchists are hardly strong enough to place the young duke upon the throne, should they be so rash as to make the effort.

The United States senate has by resolution, congratulated the people of Brazil on their just and peaceful assumption of the powers, duties and responsibilities of self-government, based on the free consent of the governed, and on their recent adoption of a Republican form of government. It is notable that none of the Monarchical governments of Europe recognize the infant state.

There are cities in Washington territory notably Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane Falls that are growing space. People who five years ago invested $1,000 in real estate are today worth $100,000, the increase in wealth being due to the development of the country and increase in trade. There was a time in the history of Canada when land in the Northwest, particularly in Winnipeg, was increasing in value. About the time the National policy was adopted growth ceased and land speculation in value to the sorrow of many Ontario capitalists. Let all men reflect upon these facts and draw their own conclusions.

In view of the fact that a considerable colony of Mormons have taken up land in the north west with the intention of making that country their permanent residence, the government have introduced an amendment to the marriage law which makes polygamy an offence punishable with imprisonment for two years or to a fine of five hundred dollars, or both imprisonment and fine. The culprit is, as well, disqualified for holding any office, municipal or otherwise, has no vote and cannot serve as juror. The amendment does not apply to Indians among whom polygamy is not contary to law.

The disgraceful riots at Hull at which protestant revivals were broken up by Roman Catholics and people brutally ill-treated called for expressions of disapproval from the leading members of parliament. Mr. Charleston called attention to the disorder. Mr. Laurier said "the rioters are supposed to belong "to the Roman Catholic faith, but I am "sure they have not learned the spirit of "the religion which they profess when "they behave in such a manner. I am "glad to say that I have reason to believe "the authorities of Hull, who are Roman "Catholic authorities, will take steps to "vindicate the majesty of the law, and to "make everyone understand that in this "country every form of opinion is free "and must be protected."

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it. 6t DICKENS & SON, Agts.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford immediate relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever the child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Advice to Mothers—Mrs. Winslow Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces nature quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cause. Twenty five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind

THE PARNELL COMMISSION

JUDGMENT OF THE COURT ON THE TIMES' CHARGES.

Davitt and Others Conspired to Dissolve the Union—Parnell Exonerated—The Fac-Simile Letter a Forgery—London Press Comments.

London, Feb. 13.—The report of the Parnell Commission laid before Parliament to-day is a long and tedious document, taking up the case of each Irish member of Parliament against whom charges were brought and entering minutely into details of the testimony. The upshot of the report, when it may be termed the judgment of the court, is as follows:

It is proved that Messrs. Davitt, M. Harris, John Dillon, W. R. O'Brien, W. Redmond, J. O'Connor, Joseph Condor and J. J. O'Kelly, conspired to bring about the absolute separation of Ireland from Great Britain.

The fac-simile Parnell letter was a forgery.

The defendants were sincere in denouncing the Phœnix Park murderers.

The defendants did incite intimidation and invited the assistance of Ford.

Mr. Parnell is exonerated from the charges of assisting Byrne to escape.

It is not true that Mr. Parnell was intimate with leading Invincibles.

Mr. Davitt was closely associated with the party of violence in America.

The report further says: It is not proved that the defendants subscribed towards the assistance of or intimately associated with notorious criminals or paid money to procure their escape from justice. It is not proved that the defendants were aware that the Clan-na-Gael controlled the American League or collected money for the parliamentary fund. It is not proved that at the time of the Kilmainham negotiations Mr. Parnell was aware that Sheridan and Boynton were organizing their outrages. The Invincibles were not a branch of the Land League. The league neither organized nor paid the Invincibles. None of the defendants directly or indirectly had knowledge of the Phœnix Park conspiracy. Pigott was utterly unworthy of credit. All the letters he produced as criminating were forgeries.

On the other hand the judges say: The league never gave the authorities assistance in detecting crime. There are no details of the expenditure of £100,000 of the League funds. There is no valid excuse for the non-production of its books. The commission has not received from Mr. Parnell or the league the assistance it expected.

The report is more moderate and impartial than was expected and consequently gives satisfaction to nobody except the judges, who are relieved to get it off their hands.

London Press Comments.

London, Feb. 24.—The Morning Post, commenting on the report, says: We sincerely congratulate Mr. Parnell who has unmistakably, so far as his personal character is concerned, been the victim of gross injustice. But apart from the charges against the leaders there still remains a residuum of charges too serious to leave any dispassionate mind unaffected.

The News says: The report amounts to a practical acquittal. The commissioners have vindicated at once the character of the Irish leaders and the integrity of the English Bench.

The Times leaves it to the public to judge whether the report does not confirm though in colorless, guarded, judicial language, the main part of the statements in its articles on "Parnellism and Crime." It says it is but right to observe that many things which the commissioners in their judicial capacity declare not proven remain nevertheless legitimate matter for insurence. The judges wield upon a strict interpretation of the law of evidence. The general effect of what we said remains unshaken.

The Newfoundland Fisheries.

London, Feb. 13.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Ferguson, Under Secretary for the Foreign Office, said the negotiations between England and France were tending to a settlement of the Newfoundland fisheries dispute. If a conclusion was not soon arrived at a modus vivendi would be arranged for a year.

The Duke of Fife Takes the Oath.

London, Feb. 13.—In the House of Lords to-day the newly created Duke of Fife took the oath on his elevation. He was accompanied by the Prince of Wales wearing the insignia of the Garter, and by the Dukes of Norfolk and Westminster wearing their robes of state.

Ras Alonla Wounded and Defeated.

London, Feb. 13.—Advices received here say the troops of King Menelek of Abyssinia have had a severe battle with the force of Gen. Ras Alonla. Ras Aoula was dangerously wounded and his army defeated.

Seven Sailors Drowned.

London, Feb. 13.—The British steamer Ludgate Hill, which passed Prawle Point yesterday bound for London from New York, signalled that she had collided with the British steamer Deside. A boat marked "Deside, Aberdeen," came ashore a mile from Penzance. Later it was learned that the Deside had sunk and that seven of her crew were drowned.

Death of Seyyid Khalifa.

Zanzibar, Feb. 13.—The Sultan of Zanzibar is dead. His demise was sudden. The date of his accession was March 27, 1888. Seyyid Ali, his brother, succeeds him.

Dr. Charles Worth, attached to the British Consulate, and Dr. Martin, surgeon of the man-of-war Boadicea, examined the Sultan's body and found no external evidence that death was unnatural. The Arabs will not permit an autopsy. He will be buried to-night.

Imprisoned in a Palace.

Constantinople, Feb. 13.—At the request of the American Minister the Porte has imprisoned in his own palace Moussa Bey, the Kurdish chief, charged with robbing and outraging Christians in Armenia.

The Lisbon Disturbance.

Lisbon, Feb. 13.—All the persons arrested in the disturbance Tuesday and sent aboard the man-of-war will be brought ashore for trial Monday next. Many students from Salamanca, Spain, have arrived at Oporto and will join in the demonstration there planned for Sunday tomorrow. The students of the Polytechnic school assembled to indulge in a manifestation. They were dispersed by the police and the leaders arrested.

The Mackinaw Straits Ice-Bound.

Mackinaw City, Mich., Feb. 13.—The Straits are blockaded with ice for the first time this season. The St. Ignace, which is ice-bound, had sixty passengers on board. Eleven have reached shore in safety.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

The special announcement which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal to phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when send ng for "Treatise."

HEALTHFUL EXERCISE.

Only a few months ago these young, rosy-cheeked beauties were pining, delicate, pale, sickly girls. By the aid of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Favorite Prescription, they have blossomed out into beautiful, plump, hale, hearty, strong young women.

"Favorite Prescription" is an invigorating, restorative tonic and as a regulative and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, it is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is carefully compounded, by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It imparts strength to the whole system. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unsurpassed as an invigorating cordial and restorative tonic. It is the only medicine for women sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been faithfully carried out for many years.

Copyright, 1885, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

$500 OFFERED by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King For sale only at R. TEMPLETON

Out of sorts.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into scurvy disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctors bills. Possibly complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

Racked by incumerable pangs, restless by day, sepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pursued by unpleasant and perplexing symptoms, the dyspaptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutrient, but deputates it by invigorating the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it over coes so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes those diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this secular medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using the medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 loaves of bread were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced to a compact form! Bread, pastry, pudding, eaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

Nerr Mcshell, Loith, Ont., "THE SORT OF BLOOD from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak. Impaired rough digestion may be insured, the secretive activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier or introduced into Canada.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich. d&wly

Swimming Niagara

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist in an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly cure any Strengthen the entire system at the same time.

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMS HIPS
LIVERPOOL SERVICE

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th; from Halifax, Sat March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax, Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb 18th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th.

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow

Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second Cabin in those steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travel ng public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

Saloon, state room, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where no little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or

T. TUNNELLY Agent

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS

TO WORK

Life & Accident

INSURANCE,

In the County of Hastings; apply to

S BURROWS

HASTINGS

LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY

BELLEVILLE ONT.,

CAPITAL - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates

Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Four per cent interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal.

Office—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission

J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

CATARRH,

CHRONICAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER.

A new and easy cure.

Diseases are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications, now known by the patient once in two weeks. $1.00—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment, but a local cure, endorsed by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of two cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 Queen street W. Toronto, Canada. Globe

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE FOR LOST OR FAILING MANHOOD, General and Nervous Debility, Weakness of Body or Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young, Robust, Noble Manhood fully Restored. How to Enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Free Information Sent Sealed. Address, ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood. Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the consequent miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address, P. O Box 1895, Boston, Mass., or Dr. W H Parker, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

First Andas & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada, Office—Front St., opposite Bridge, Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent.

JOHN J. B. FIRST, P. J. M. ANDERSON.

W. H. CAMPBELL, Q. C. L.

Fred E. Redick

BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. In sums at 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 cash at 6% easy terms Low charges Office Street, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.)

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, Office over Express Company's office, Chinnecuite Block, Bridge street, Belleville. Private Funds to Loan at 6 per cent. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Ferguson,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c., Victoria Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont.

Geo. H. Henderson Q.C., F. G. Henderson County Crown Attorney

Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co Hse

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co.' Office Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville. Wm. McDonald. Geo. McCream.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS, Attorneys etc Offices—Corner Bridge and Front street Belleville, Ontario.

John Bell, Q. C. B. Jas. Biggar.

MEDICAL.

N. TRACY, M.D.

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T. PORVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. F. Wise & Son, and Ed. Rooney Brock's Telephone connec

Elizabeth Embury M. D., C. M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holland's jewelley store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front st.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S.-E Graduates on the Medical Faculty, Knox and Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary.

273 College Avenue Toronto.

E. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.P.H.M.S (HOMŒOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Omcinatti, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGille University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital.

Office and residence Foxboro Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

General Agent Insurance and Real Estate Money to Loan etc.

Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butle

Issuer Marriage Licenses County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases. Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel east to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the Manitoba Railway.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Hebron Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery in America.

The Traveller takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rocky Mountains, National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, books and guides of the region reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE

FRONT St Belleville

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Wonder of The Age

ECLIPSE DYES

A NEW Improved Dye for Home Dyeing

Nothing but Water required in using

10c a package. For sale everywhere. If your dealer does not keep them, send direct to the manufacturers.

COTTINGHAM, ROBERTSON & CO. MONTREAL.

PLATE GLASS

A large stock always on hand.

Window Glass

Best Brands—A large assortment.

SILVERED MIRRORS

ALL SIZES.

A. RAMSAY & SON, MONTREAL,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PAINTS, VARNISHES & COLORS.

THE GREAT OLD ENGLISH REMEDY

OF PURELY VEGETABLE INGREDIENTS WITHOUT MERCURY, USED BY THE ENGLISH PEOPLE FOR OVER 120 YEARS.

Cockle's Pills

COMPOUND ANTIBILIOUS PILLS.

These Pills consist of a carefully selected and powerful combination of the most active but mildest vegetable aperients and the pure extract of Flowers of Chamomile. They will be found a most efficacious remedy for derangements of the digestive organs, and for obstructions and torpid action of the liver and bowels which produce indigestion and the several varieties of bilious and liver complaints. Sold by all Chemists.

EVANS AND SONS, LIMITED, MONTREAL.

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED

PURE HONEST GOODS.

COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER

SAFE INGREDIENTS NO ALUM.

Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!

Fancy Limon Banannas!

Sweet Tangerine Oranges!

Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

AT

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch, Manager.

SALE CONTINUED

The Special Sale of Surplus Winter Stock will be Continued during thisweek

Terms of sale—Cash.

Belleville, Jan 30th. 1890

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCH, DINNER, AND ALL TIMES.

MENIER CHOCOLATE

THE HEALTHIEST AND THE BEST.

Paris Exposition, 1889 } 3 GRAND PRIZES. 5 GOLD MEDALS

ONCE USED, NEVER WITHOUT IT.

ASK FOR YELLOW WRAPPER.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

The best Food to impart Strength

This is the testimony of all who have used

JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF

The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food. It contains "Albumen"—"Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phophates. In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food,

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that the skin of his face, his scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I can happily say, much to my great success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and surest cure for all skin diseases of infancy and childhood. I feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. A scald sore, caused by long spell at sickness for over eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely cured by CUTICURA. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. CARSE, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily and permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price of CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORPORATION Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pgs. 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserve by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AGT

Will be at the

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of testimonials will be made free to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
224w Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hilson Bear, Saunders Pears, Hilborn Raspberry, Moore's Raspberry, Dr. Ireland champion currants, Moore's Diamond Grapes, etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to
STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

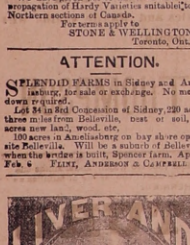
ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 2nd Concession of Sidney, 220 acres, three miles from Belleville, best of soil, 90 acres new land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply,

Feb. 6 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL.



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, a they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY EIGHT.

PS—If you can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CURE RUPTURE a specialty. Send stamp for valuable information of a system which took 30 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompt, honorable dealing, and the very best goods have made my business the leading one favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN,

ISSUER OF

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Rooms for the Lancashire Insurance Front St. opp. Ang. o-American.

THE STRANGE STORY OF ALLAN QUATERMAIN'S WIFE

By H. Rider Haggard

AUTHOR OF "ALLAN QUATERMAIN," "SHE," "JESS."

COPYRIGHTED BY WM. BRYCE, ESQ., PUBLISHER, TORONTO, ONT., AND PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.

"Well, this went on for a long time till my voice was getting exhausted. Then suddenly I heard the baboons outside raise a loud noise, as they do when angry. Then, dear, I heard the boom of your elephant gun, and I think it was the sweetest sound that ever came to my ears. Hendrika heard it, too. She sprang up, stood for a moment, then, to my horror, swept Tota into her arms and rushed down the cave. Of course, I could not stir to follow her, for my feet were tied. Next instant I heard the sound of a rock being moved, and presently the lessening of the light in the cave told me that I was shut in. Now the sound even of the elephant gun only reached me very faintly, and presently I could hear nothing more, straining my ears as I would.

"At last I heard a faint shouting that reached me through the wall of rock. I answered as loud as I could. You know the rest; and, oh, my dear husband, thank God! thank God!" and she fell weeping into my arms.

CHAPTER XIV.

BOTH Stella and Tota were too weary to be moved, so we camped that night in the baboon's home, but were troubled by no baboons. Stella would not sleep in the cave; she said the place terrified her, so I made her up a kind of a bed under a thorn tree. As this rock-bound valley was one of the hottest places I ever was in, I thought that this would not matter; but when at sunrise on the following morning I saw a veil of miasmatic mist hanging over the surface of the ground, I changed my opinion. However, neither Stella nor Tota seemed the worse, so as soon as was practicable we started homewards. I had already on the previous day sent some of the men back to the kraals to fetch a ladder, and when we reached the cliff we found them waiting for us beneath. With the help of the ladder the descent was easy. Stella simply got out of her rough litter at the top of the cliff, for we found it necessary to carry her, climbed down the ladder, and got into it again at the bottom.

"Well, we reached the kraals safely enough, seeing nothing more of Hendrika, and, were this a story, doubtless I should end it here with—"and lived happy ever after." But alas! it is not the truth. How am I to write it?

My dearest wife's vital energy seemed completely to fail her now that the danger was past, and within twelve hours of our return I saw that her state was such as to necessitate the abandonment of any idea of leaving Babyan Kraals at present. The bodily exertion, the anguish of mind, and the terror that she had endured during that dreadful night, combined with her delicate state of health, had completely broken her down. To make matters worse also, she was taken with an attack of fever, contracted no doubt in the unhealthy atmosphere of that accursed valley. In time she shook the fever off, but it left her dreadfully weak, and quite unfit to face the trial before her.

I think she knew she was going to die; she always spoke of my future, never of our future. It is impossible for me to tell how sweet she was; how gentle, how patient and resigned. Nor, indeed, do I wish to tell it, it is too sad. But this I will say: I believe that, if ever woman drew near to perfection while yet living on the earth, Stella Quatermain did so.

The fatal hour drew on. My boy Harry was born, and his mother lived to kiss and bless him. Then she sank. We did what we could, but we had little skill, and might not hold her back from death. All through one weary night I watched her with a breaking heart.

The dawn came, the sun rose in the east. His rays falling on the peak behind were reflected in glory upon the bosom of the western sky. Stella awoke from her swoon and saw the light. She whispered to me to open the door of the hut. I did so, and she fixed her dying eyes on the splendor of the morning sky. She looked on me and smiled as an angel might smile. Then with a last effort she lifted her hand, and, pointing to the radiant heavens, whispered:

"There, Allan, there!"

It was done, and I was broken hearted, and broken hearted I must wander till the end. Those who have suffered as my loss will know my sorrow; it cannot be written. In such peace and at such an hour may I also die!

Yes, it is a sad story, but wander where we will about the world we can never go beyond the sound of the passing bell. For me, as for my father before me, and for the millions who have been and who shall be, there is but one word of comfort. "The Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken away." Let us, then, bow our heads in hope, and add with a humble heart, "Blessed be the name of the Lord."

I buried her by her father's side, and the weeping of the people who had loved her went up to heaven. Even Indabazimbi wept.

On the second night from her burial I could not sleep. I rose, dressed myself, and went out into the night. The moon was shining brightly, and by its rays I shaped my course towards the graveyard. I drew near silently, and as I came I thought that I heard a sound of moaning on the further side of the wall. I looked over it. Crouched by Stella's grave, and tearing at its sods with her hands, as though she would unearth that which lay within, was Hendrika. Her face was wild and haggard; her form was so emaciated that, when the pelts she wore slipped aside, the shoulder blades seemed to project almost through her skin. Suddenly she looked up and saw me. Laughing a dreadful maniac laugh, she put her hand to her girdle and drew her great knife from it. I thought that she was about to attack me, and prepared to defend myself as I best could. For I was unarmed. But she hesitated and, as I thought, recognized me. Then she sprang from the grave, and, with a shriek like one who half forgot and half remembered — "Macumazahn, I remember now. I have been mad. Is she really dead, Macumazahn?"

"Yes," I said, "she is dead, and you killed her."

"I killed her!" the dying woman faltered, "and I loved her. Yes, yes—I know now. I became a brute again and dragged her to the brutes, and now once more I am a woman, and she is dead, and I killed her—because I loved her so. I killed her who saved me from the brutes. I am not dead yet, Macumazahn. Take me and torture me to death, slowly, very slowly. It was jealousy of you that drove me mad, and I have killed her, and now she never can forgive me."

"Ask forgiveness from above," I said, for Hendrika had been a Christian, and the torment of her remorse touched me.

"I ask no forgiveness," she said. "May God torture me for ever, because I killed her; may I become a brute forever till she comes to find me and forgives me! I only want her forgiveness." And wailing in an anguish of the heart so strong that her bodily suffering seemed to be forgotten, Hendrika, the baboon woman, died.

I went back to the kraals, and, waking Indaba-zimbi, told him what had happened, asking him to send some one to watch the body, as I proposed to give it burial. But next morning it was gone, and I found that the natives, hearing of the event, had taken the corpse and thrown it to the vultures with every mark of hate. Such, then, was the end of Hendrika.

A week after Hendrika's death I left Babyan Kraals. The place was hateful to me now; it was a haunted place. I told my old Indaba-zimbi and told him that I was going. He answered that it was well. "The place has served your turn," he said; "here you have won that joy which it was fated you should win, and have suffered those things that it was fated you should suffer. Yes, and though you know it not now, the joy and the suffering, like the sunshine and the storm, are the same thing, and will rest at last in the same heaven, the heaven from which they came. Now go, Macumazahn."

I asked him if he was coming with me.

"No," he answered, "our paths lie apart henceforth, Macumazahn. We met together for certain ends. those ends are fulfilled. Now each one goes his own way. You have still many years before you, Macumzahn; my years are few. When we shake hands here it will be for the last time. Perhaps we may meet again, but it will not be in this world. Henceforth we have each of us a friend the less."

"Heavy words," I said.

"True words," he answered.

Well, I have little heart to write of the rest of it. I went, leaving Indaba-zimbi in charge of the place, and making him a present of such cattle and goods as I did not want.

Tota, I of course took with me. Fortunately by this time she had almost recovered the shock to her nerves. The baby Harry, as he was afterwards named, was a fine healthy child, and I was lucky in getting a respectable native woman, whose husband had been killed in the fight with the baboons, to accompany me as his nurse.

Slowly, and followed for a distance by all the people, I trekked away from Babyan Kraals. My route towards Natal was along the edge of the bad lands, and my first night's outspan was beneath that very tree where Stella, my lost wife, had found us as we lay dying of thirst.

I did not sleep much that night. And yet I was glad that I had not died in the desert about eleven months before. I felt then, as from year to year I have continued to feel while I wander through the lonely wilderness of life, that I have been preserved to an end. I had won my darling's love, and for a little while we had been happy together. Our happiness was too perfect to endure. She is lost to me now, but she is lost to be found again.

Here on the following morning I bade farewell to Indaba-zimbi.

"Good-by, Macumazahn," he said, nodding his white lock at me. "Good-by or a while. I am not a Christian; your father could not make me that. But he was a wise man, and when he said that those who love each other shall meet again, he did not lie. And I too am a wise man in my way, Macumazahn; and I say it is true that we shall meet again. All my prophecies to you have come true, Macumazahn, and this one shall come true also. I tell you that you shall return to Babyan Kraals and shall not find me. I tell you that you shall journey to a further land than Babyan Kraals and shall find me. Farewell!" and he took a pinch of snuff, turned and went.

Of my journey down to Natal there is little to tell. I met with many adventures, but they were of an every day kind, and in the end arrived safely at Port Durban, which I reached for the first time. Both Tota and my baby boy bore the journey well. And here I may as well chronicle the destiny of Tota. For a year she remained under my charge. Then she was adopted by a lady, the wife of an English colonel, who was stationed at the Cape. She was taken by her adopted parents to England, where she grew up a very charming and pretty girl, and ultimately married a clergyman in Norfolk. But I never saw her again, though we often wrote to each other.

Before I returned to the country of my birth, she too had been gathered to the land of shadows, leaving three children behind her. Ah me! all this took place so long ago, when I was young who now am old.

Perhaps it may interest the reader to know the fate of Mr. Curson's property, which should of course have gone to his grandson Harry. I wrote to England to claim the estate on his behalf, but the lawyer to whom the matter was submitted said that my marriage to Stella, not having been celebrated by an ordained priest, was not legal according to English law, and therefore Harry would not inherit. Foolishly enough I acquiesced in this, and the property passed to a cousin of my father-in-law's; but since I have come to live in England I have been informed that this opinion is open to great suspicion, and that there is every probability that the courts would have declared the marriage perfectly binding as having been solemnly entered into in accordance with the custom of the place where it was contracted. But I am now so rich that it is not worth while to move in the matter. The cousin is dead, his son is in possession, so let him keep it.

Once, and once only, did I revisit Babyan Kraals. Some fifteen years after my leaving it, and then I was a man in middle life, I undertook an expedition to the Zambesi, and one night outspanned at the mouth of the well known valley beneath the shadow of the great peak. I mounted my horse, and quite alone rode up the valley, noticing with a strange prescience of evil that the road was overgrown, and, save for the music of the waterfalls, the place silent as death. The kraals that used to be to the left of the road by the river had vanished. I rode towards their site; the mealie fields were choked with weeds, the paths were dumb with grass. Presently I reached the place. There, overgrown with grass, were the burnt ashes of the kraals, and there among the ashes, gleaming in the moonlight, lay the white bones of men. Now it was clear to me. The settlement had been fallen on by some powerful foe, and its inhabitants put to the assegai. The forebodings of the natives had come true; Babyan Kraals were peopled by memories alone. I passed on up the terraces. There stone the roofs of the marble huts. They would not burn, and were too strong to be easily pulled down. I entered one of them—it had been our sleeping hut—and lit a candle which I had with me. The huts had been sacked; leaves of books and broken fragments of the familiar furniture lay about. Then I remembered that there was a secret place hollowed in the floor and concealed by a stone, where Stella used to hide her little treasures. I went to the stone and dragged it up. There was something within wrapped in mildering native cloth. I undid it. It was the dress my wife had been married in. In the center of the dress were the withered wreath and flowers she had worn, and with them a little paper packet. I opened it; it contained a lock of my own hair. I remembered that I had searched for this dress when I came away and could not find it, for I had forgotten the secret recess in the floor.

Taking the dress with me, I left the hut for the last time. Leaving my horse tied to a tree, I walked to the graveyard through the ruined garden. There it was a mass of weeds, but over my darling's grave grew a self sown orange tree, of which the scented petals fell in showers on to the mound beneath. As I drew near there was a crash and a rush. A great baboon leapt from the center of the graveyard and vanished into the trees. I could almost believe that it was the wraith of Hendrika doomed to keep an eternal watch over the bones of the woman her jealous rage had done to death.

I tarried there awhile, filled with such thoughts as may not be written. Then, leaving my dead wife to her long sleep where the waters fell in melancholy music beneath the shadow of the everlasting mountain, I turned and sought that spot where first we had told our love. Now the orange grove was nothing but a tangled thicket; many of the trees were dead, choked with creepers, but some still flourished. There stood the one beneath which we had lingered, there was the rock that had been our seat, and there on the rock sat Stella, the Stella whom I had wed.

Aye! there she sat, and on her upturned face was that same spiritual look which I saw upon it in the hour when we first had kissed. The moonlight shone in her dark eyes, the breeze wavered in her curling hair, her breast rose and fell, a gentle smile played about her parted lips. I stood transfixed, gazing on that lost loveliness which once was mine. I could not speak, and she spoke no word; she did not even seem to see me. I drew near. Now her eyes fell. For a moment they met mine, and their message entered into me.

Then she was gone; nothing was left but the tremulous moonlight falling where she had been, the melancholy music of the waters, the shadow of the everlasting mountain, and, in my heart, the sorrow and the hope.

THE END.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint, but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not willingly do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

HEAD

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

GUARDIAN
Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL,
AGENT,
Office—Robertson Block, East Front St.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.
CONTAINS NO
Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, or any other Adulterant.
E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.
MANUFACTURER OF
THE CELEBRATED "WHAT CAKE."

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY
How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE
A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decay, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxing, Starvation and nulling the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relations.

Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work, it contains 300 pages, Royal 8vo. Beautiful, binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M.D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for his PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Surance Companies guarantee prompt settlement to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital .....$15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plus without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1885..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1885..... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance Bridge St. Pinnacle St. upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

—THE—
GRAN UNIVERSAL RANGE
With Pat't Duplex Grate
Has equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Heater as any Stove in the market. Every Stove guaranteed.
—CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—
Oval round or Square Fire Pot
—FITTED WITH—
Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Grate or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL
INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y.

THIS company issues nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their outbuildings, and farm property; takes no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million Capital. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $600,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and deposited with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and as rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe agent, Belleville
S. Martin agent Sterling.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from a DISORDERED LIVER, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE
—OF—
U. E. THOMPSON
BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE.
American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.
Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed.

WANTED GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

THE WESTERN
Assurance Company.
FIRE AND MARIN INS.,
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,
FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co.
Accident Insurance Co. of North America.
Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.
WM. SMEATON
Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!
ARRIVING FRESH DAILY
—AT—
DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.
A few hundred large size cedar post. A Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator.

Pos-Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
A SURE CURE
FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN
Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN
WANTED.
Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.
REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.
CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY
NURSERYMEN.
COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

DOW'S WORM SYRUP
DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

AN XTENISVE
—ASSORTMENT OF—
FANCY BALL PROGRAMS
Just opened out at the
"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it in natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, with the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and wherever you may his is the correct place to go to. Send for the new catalogue wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY
DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of sophisticated imitations which mime the theory, and practical results of the original, the great memory methods of Prof. Loisette still lead the competitors, and in spite of these attempts to rob him of the fruits of his labors, all of which demonstrate the value of the method superiority and originality of his teaching. Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized by Critics, Professors, Students, and Public Men as the Memory Culture. Its Prospectus (sent post free) contains testimonies of people in all walks of life, who have actually doubled the Memory of their Minds by following the Prof. Loisette's Memory Culture. Prospectus free. Address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,
Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervous Debility and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantage not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms,

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 14 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
Tuner.

d1y

New Books.

The latest issue of the Lovell Canadian Copyright series are "The Mynn's Mystery" by Mauvile Fenn, price 30 cents and "The Bondman" by Hall Caine, price 30 cents. They are interesting works and may be secured of booksellers.

The Champion Skater.

Louis Rubenstein of Montreal has won the championship of the world at St. Petersburg, Russia, for figure skating. Mr. Rubenstein represented the Montreal Gazette at the Wheelmen's annual meet at Belleville on July 1st, 1888.

Lost His Overcoat.

James Whalen reported to the police yesterday that his overcoat had been stolen from the Windsor hotel yard a couple of nights ago. He put on another man's coat and when he looked for his own it was missing. It was a new one worth $22.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it. 6i

DICKENS & SON, Agts'.

All Hope Abandoned.

Capt. Nicholson and wife acting under medical instructions have left Colorado for home All hope for Mrs. Nicholson's recovery having been abandoned. They started on Monday and if all goes well will reach their destination to-morrow.

Deputation to Toronto.

A deputation of the Bay of Quinte Fair Association went to Toronto yesterday to interview the minister of agriculture in reference to granting a portion of the grant originally given to the Provincial and Arts Association. They will also do other important business.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston bluefish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, ciscoes etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

Assault Case.

Clem Ellis appeared before the magistrate to-day as plaintiff in an alleged assault and battery case against Francis and Charlie Baker committed on Feb 12. It was laid over until tomorrow to give the Baker boys an opportunity to prove that Ellis used vile language and that there was no assault.

The Judge.

To morrow the ONTARIO will commence the publication of a serial, "The Judge" by Mrs. Ella Wheeler which for originality of thought and strength of character is one of the most striking stories of the day. The Detroit Free Press offered $1,000 for the best serial, and from the thousand or more competitors from the United States and England the Judge was declared the best that was contributed.

Reform Convention at Canifton.

A rousing meeting of the reformers of East Hastings was held in the town hall at Canifton on this afternoon. A full report will appear in tomorrow's issue. Among those who addressed the meeting were: E. B. Burdett, Q. C., M. P.; Mr. Bain, M. P., for Wentworth; Mr. Jarcourt, M. P. P.; W. R. Aylsworth, ex-ve of Deseronto; ex-warden John C. Stanley, Read; N. Vermilyea, warden of Hastings county; and W. T. R. Preston, of Toronto.

The British Isles.

A very interesting lecture by the Rev. Dr. George was delivered last evening in the S. S. room of the John st. church, the audience was both large and appreciative and listened with delight, while the lecturer, interspersing his discourse with amusing incidents described the most noteworthy places in Great Britain and Ireland, one of the most enjoyable features of the evening was the music rendered by the Albert College Quartette Club.

MEANT TO SHOOT.

WHY TWO MEN CARRIED LOADED REVOLVERS.

Halwell's Anomoreta Will Wait Until he Secures his Liberty—Her Landlady's Version of her Character.

Mrs. Geo. E. House, the subject of the scandal published in yesterday's ONTARIO has left her boarding house on Everett trees and taken up quarters at Point Ann until she is able to secure the release of her husband who is in goal in default of being able to give surities to keep the peace. When an account of his double life was handed to him in his cell to-day he was dumfounded and evinced a decided feeling of restlessness. He refused to say a word about the affair until he had seen his alleged wife. It appears that the difficulty arose between Halwell and Banford when the former accused the latter of having undue intimacy with his wife. He threatened to shoot him if he ever found him in his house again. Both men it is understood carried their revolvers and a bitter feeling of rivalry existed between them. Murder would no doubt have resulted if the affair had not been brought to light.

Mrs. Percley who rented rooms to the couple on Everett street when asked by a reporter if Banford was a frequent visitor to the house answered in the affirmative.

"Have you seen him often?"

"No," said the honest Scotchwoman, "but I think he often came here when I was away from home. I remember one time he came and walked in without knocking. He apparently did not expect to find me home. He was under the influence of liquor. He asked for Mrs. Halwell and I told him that she was out, when he seemed surprised and said that he had told her he was coming. She came in shortly after this and they both went up stairs together."

Halwell's paramour, who is a handsome blonde of twenty-five denied that Banford was a frequent visitor to her rooms. To a reporter she said that Banord had only been to her house four times in his life and that the last time he was there she told him never to darken her door again.

CIVIC COMMITTEES.

Market Walks to be Paved—Passing Accounts.

The fire committe recommended the passage of the following accounts: Ruttan Co., $69; R. H. Buchanan & Co., $14; W. J. Brown, $10.50. An inquiry had been made into the cause of the delay at Fred Root's fire and it was found the failure with the hydrant not the firemen.

Water and Gas. Ald. Bogart, chairman: D. M. Waters, fifty cents; Robert McCoy, $12.84; Foster & Foster, $2; Belleville Gas Co., $904.84.

The market committee recorded that both the north and south walks of the market squar be paved with flag and cobble stones at an estimated cost of $500:

The public works committee passed pay sheet number four. $26.02; G. & J. Brown, $1; W. P. Clarke, $2.63; J. W. Walker, $28.90; J. P. Pearce, $212 50; Flint & Holton, $5; Henry McIninch, $13.10.

The executive will meet Saturday nigh.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

James Brown, Deseronto, is in town.

A. J. Lawrence, Scantead, is in the city.

M. W. Mackintosh, I. P. S., is in Toronto this week to attend to duties as one of the provincial board of examiners.

Lieut. Strange, of the 14th batt., who is sojourning in California, is delighted with the climate and is rapidly improving in health.

Messrs. Watt, Shenstone, of the Brantford Expositor, will next month hand that paper to Mr. Preston, late of the Winnipeg Sun.

Sidney Lawrence and family of this city left yesterday for Brucecounty where they will reside in future. Mr. Lawrence has assumed charge of extensive lumber limits in that county owned by his brother.

John W. Blair, who has had charge of F. E. O'Flynn's, law office, Madoc, for the past few years, has gone to Toronto to pursue his studies.

TOWN TALK.

To-day is St. Valentine's day.

Montague and Colter were yesterday nominated for Haldimand.

Lent this year begins Feb. 19th. Good Friday will come on April 4th.

The Provincial Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East meets at Smith Falls on March 4th.

Hubbell & English, merchants of Marmora, have made an assignment to Mr. A. W. Carscallen, assignee, of that village.

PRIZES.—Easterly winds to-day, cloudy weather, followed by rain, or in northern districts snow, turning a little colder tomorrow.

The W. C. T. U., Band of Hope, will (D. V.) meet to-morrow, 15th inst, at 3 p. m. in the Royal Templar's hall on Bridge St. All children welcome.

A free for all entertainment will be given in the Bridge street church Sunday school rooms this evening. It is gotten up by the Young Peoples' Association for the Sunday school scholars Charter Day concert at Albert College this evening. An excellent programme and a most interesting entertainment throughout is promised. Admission 10 cents.

Mr. Joseph A. Chambers, Madoc, having disposed of his grocery business to Mr. Jeff. Caverly, the latter will move the stock to Crookston, where he is opening a store.

Robert Morton, who murdered his son and daughter-in-law at Maimi, Manitoba, formerly resided at Gananoque, and latterly at Bay City, Mich. He has three married daughters living at Bay City.

The Late Charles Lookerty.

Charles J. Lockerty, tobacconist, died this morning at his residence corner of Holloway and Dunbar streets of typhoid fever. He had been in his bed only a few days previous to his death, but for several months past his system had been run down. He leaves a wife and one child to mourn his loss. He was thirty-four years of age, and had lived in Belleville for several years he had controlled his deceased father's cigar factory and at the latter's death about a year ago, assumed charge of the shop on Front street. The remains will be buried under the auspices of the Masonic order at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Canadian Press Association.

The semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association will be held at Toronto on Friday next. Among the matters of importance to the craft to be brought forward for discussion are the following:—Advertising contracts, and the law re insolvents; foreign advertising and small advertisements; rural journalism; newspaper subscription premiums and kindred methods; newspapes subscription rates; printing office equipment; the relation of newspapers to political parties, etc. The meeting is expected to be one of the most interesting ever held by the association.

OUR ROCHESTER BOYS.

M Seeley in a Booming Business—What the Belleville Contingent is Doing.

(From our own correspondent)

Since the beginning of the year 1889 quite a number of important manufacturing concerns of one kind and another have been established here in Rochester, and some of them have already built up quite an extensive and important business owing to the superiority of the goods they have to offer. The Rochester Suspender Company is composed of good business men M. Seeley, late book-keeper of the Belleville Gas Co. is one of the firm, the other partners are A. M. Theal, E. F. Patterson, H. Steencken and is known as The Rochester Suspender Co., a concern that began business so recently as July last—and already is occupying a very conspicuous place among the manufacturing industries of the city. The business of the Company is the manufacture of fine suspenders, braces, misses, and children's supporters and garters, armlets, trimmings and etc. The company is really making a better class of goods for the money than any other concern in the country. The company not only makes this claim but fully justifies it, as is shown by the many letters that hive been received from the trade and the public. The company has a machine the only one of its kind in existence—for making the cord ends, and this device is of immense advantage, as it renders it possible to produce these cord ends for about half what it would cost to buy them. The saving thus effected is what enable the company to offer such low prices for goods of a given quality. The finish of the work made by the company is of the most superior order. The above concern turns out daily 100 dozen suspenders. Their place of business is 119. North Water St., where Mr. W Seeley can always be found.

Miss Ida Willard, a niece of the late Capt. Cuthbert, has returned from Buffalo, where she has been visiting her sister.

C. H. Cook, V. S. late of Belleville has a thriving business here.

Frank and Samuel P. Palmer, of Corbyville, are doing well here.

Charles Miller, is leading a retired life.

P. Hudson, Esq., returned from home last week.

J. A. J. Papineau, of Fahey & Co, has now charge of both the wholesale and retail books in the entry desk.

L. F. Waldron, late of Belleville and C. F. Roulf of this city skated to Old Man's Island, a distance of thirteen miles in 33 minutes and 15 seconds—Ogdensburg Journal.

Our list of reading matter in club rooms is daily increasing." The London Free Press is now on file—Who is next.

THE GIRL IS WHITE.

So Says the Fort McLeod "Gazette"—A Call for Her Rescue.

WINNIPEG, Feb, 13.—The Fort McLeod Gazette, which arrived to-day, states positively that the little girl seen by the Governor-General at the Blackfoot Indian reserve is a white child, and adds: "Now that the Government are aware of the facts—for if they are not they should be—it will be their sacred duty to take immediate and prompt action to rescue this girl, even if it brings every Indian in the Northwest territories about their ears. There is no time to be lost. The girl is said to be nine years old, and if she is to be saved from the horrible fate that is surely in store for her, should she remain where she is, there must be no delay, but prompt action. There should be no parleying. The Indians should be asked to give her up and in the event of their refusal preparations to make them do so should at once be undertaken. In this country the Government will not want for assistance in anything of the kind, Cowtrake. Common humanity would prompt able-bodied men in Alberta to join in so righteous a crusade. When to this is added the thought that it might have been one of their own children, and that this child undoubtedly has near relatives somewhere to care for her and rejoice at her rescue, it is probable that unless the Government take action the fathers and brothers of Alberta will see that the child is rescued, and their wives and sisters will wish them godspeed in their undertaking."

COUNTY ORANGE LODGE.

The Officers for the North Hastings County Lodge.

At the annual meeting of the North Hastings county lodge at Bancroft, the attendance was good and the reports satisfactory.

The following are the officers for 1890:—

J B Cleak, Co. Master.
J W Yamoughnetz, Co. D M.
J R Tait, Co. Chap.
J D P Knox, Fin. Sec.
F C Humphries, Rec Sec.
Sanford Card, Treas.
D Fuller, D of C.
J Spence, Lect.
A. Kernghan and H. Williams, D Lect.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Bancroft, and the county demonstration will be held at Maymouth on July 12th.

Seal Skin Sacques $1.00 Each!

This is a great offer. Just imagine the army of ladies that will besiege the store until the last sacque is gone—if the bargain is ever offered. But how much more wonderful an opportunity is that presented to every suffering woman by the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This remedy if a guaranteed cure for all those distressing ailments peculiar to the weaker sex. It is guaranteed that if it does not effect a cure money will be refunded. It is carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to women's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system, and is sold under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded.

For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets; Purely Vegetable. One a dose.

Ice Trotting at Trenton.

TRENTON, Feb. 13.—To-day was the second day and the weather was everything that could be desired. The track was a little heavy but the attendance was in excess of yesterday. As the judges took their places in the stand, an eager crowd was patiently waiting for the horses to come up. There were three in a tandy, free for all, three minute and gentlemans drive. The first mentioned was the three minute the following is the summary.

Free for all race.—Lizzie Gibson, won; Gouldie, Pieton, 2nd; Mayflower, Peterboro', 3rd; Little Tommy, Napanee, 4th.

Three minute class.—Prince Edward Picton, won; Chapman Maid, Belleville, 2nd, Little Sam, Prescott, 3rd.

Gentlemen's driving race.—Bob L, Brighton, won; Jack the Ripper, Cannington, 2nd, Lon McGinty, Murray, 3rd.

Crookstons Prosperity

The stone quarries at Crookston are bringing prosperity to that place. J. Brodigan & Co., of Madoc, have had a force of men at work there for some months, and now the G. T. R. double track contractors McArthur Bros., are opening quarries there and will employ from 75 to 100 men during the coming summer.

FRAILTIES OF WOMEN.

TALKING ABOUT SEVERAL COUNTY ELOPEMENTS.

A Couple Now Working in Factories on the Other Side—Proversities of Human Nature—Lamenting Her Folly—The Terrible Sacrifice She Made.

Quinte, writing to the Kingston Whig from Belleville says:

About two years ago there was an ephemeral sensation in the bustling town of Deseronto. The wife of a quiet, industrious and popular young merchant had eloped with a big, coarse and sensual fellow, who left a wife and several small children to find charity from a cold, pitiless world. The erring woman was young and not without attractions, but void of that stability of character that is the crowning glory of womanhood. She had a comfortable home and kind treatment. The man whose fallery seduced her from marital vows was destitute of all the qualities that should attract and hold the love of a devoted woman. He was grossly sensual and a confirmed libertine. The couple disappeared and no attempt was made to ascertain their whereabouts. The deserted wife took her little ones and sought sympathy and assistance from her friends, where, we are pleased to say, she found it. The forsaken husband continued on in the even tenor of his way, winning the respect of his associates, and steadily accumulating property. Not long ago a gentleman, who formerly knew the guilty couple, saw them at one of the suburban villages of Rochester, N. Y. He made some enquiries and ascertained that they were living together there, and both working in factories in the city. They may be happy. If so, how do you account for such strange perversities of human nature?

Some time ago I gave to the Whig the particulars of another elopement case which brought shame and sorrow to several respectable families in this vicinity. The woman in this case left a luxuriant home, a kind husband and two fair haired girls for the caresses of a young lover. She, too, has been located in the "Flowery city," where she is earning a living by daily labor and no doubt lamenting the folly that led her so deeply into disgrace. Her husband offers no inducements for her return to the house she has so greatly dishonored, nor will he permit the children to see her. She will have plenty of leisure to repent the act that deprived her of so much and that has left her destitute and disgraced. The man that she bartered all her domestic happiness and social respect for has tired of her charms, and repudiated her claims for support. Here is another case of perverted taste and depraved passion that moralists may consider. For my part I have no desire to moralize over the subject. I have sometimes wondered whether persons who deliberately committed such stupendous follies could possess all their faculties. It is impossible for a really sane person to conceive how so much can be sacrificed for the gratification of a wicked passion, that must inevitably lead to ruin and suffering. But almost daily we have reports of such sacrifices, and generally the Nemesis follows closely upon the first violation of the moral law. The reason must certainly be easily dethroned when the baser qualities of human nature are allowed to run rampant. QUINTE.

YACHTS AND YACHTSMEN.

A Boom in Racing Expected Next Season—The New Boats.

It now seems probable that there will be almost as great a "boom" in the thirty foot corrected length class on Lake Ontario this season as there was last season in the forty foot load water line class in the east. Many yachtsmen are beginning to regard this as the most practical class for men of moderate means, both because yachts of this size are comparatively inexpensive to build and because they can be maintained at slight cost. Mr. Jarvis, the well known Hamilton yachtsman, has sold the White Wings and proposes to drop from the 45 foot to the 30 foot class. It is not however, quite certain that he will build this year. If he does so his boat will be of the modern keel type, 27.6 feet load water line, 8.6 feet beam and 6 feet draught, with a sail plan that will bring her up to 30 feet correct length. In any event Hamilton will have two new 30 foot cutters this year, one built by Dalton, who built the cutter Molly, and the other by Webster, who owned the St. Elmo. The former is already completed and the latter is in frame. Dalton's boat is 25.6 feet load water line and Webster's 26.6 feet. Toronto will have at least one new boat in this class, the Wena, designed by Burgess and built by Lawley, with a pretty good reputation for speed. She will be rather low down in the class, but it is not likely that she will often be the last boat over the finish line. With these three new boats the class already numbers 16, and others may be added to the class before the racing season is opened. The Velnette will probably be the principal representative of Rochester in this class, as the Majel and Commodore Newells new Ripple go over to the 35 foot class—more's the pity.

Legal Intelligence.

In Common Pleas Division before Galt C. J. MacMahon, J.

Haggerty v Bateman—Appeal from the judgment of Falconbridge, J., the trial judge, denying the plaintiff the relief principally sought in the action, viz., the setting aside of a conveyance of a farm and a life lease, but enforcing a provision for the maintenance of the plaintiff. Moss, Q. C. for the defendant, contra. Not concluded.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR,—"La Grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh." from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of ordinary catarrh in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying this disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

EVELYNE Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

New Telephones.

Telephones have been placed at the disposal of the following subscribers: McArthur Bros, Mrs McAnnany, residence; Mrs. Herchiner, residence; F. E. O'Flynn, residence.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

R T of T.

The grand lodge of Royal Templars of Temperance just closed at Peterborough, the following officers were elected:

Rev. T. R. McNair, Thamesville, grand councillor.

A. C. Steele, Toronto, past grand councillor.

Miss Sanderson, Peterboro', vice grand councillor.

Rev. E. D. Lewis, Shannonville, grand chaplain.

Dr. C. VanNorman, Emory, Hamilton, grand secretary.

J. Connell, Lynden, grand treasurer.

P. H. Stewart, Barrie, grand auditor.

Dr. Rowe, Georgetown, grand medical referee.

W. Dunnet, Hamilton, grand herald.

Miss Brown, Merrittown, grand deputy herald.

Bro. Homan, London, grand guard.

J. Hughes, Toronto, Dr. B. Mackenzie, Toronto and, and J. H. Flagg, Mitchell, grand trustees.

Representatives from the district are: Belleville, W W. Chown; Deseronto, J. M. Smith, N. T. Lowe; Peterborough, Dr. J. A. Fife; Campbellford, Geo Elder, Edward Skitch; Picton, Mrs. Foley.

Free Education for Girls.

The Ladies Home Journal of Philadelphia is about to set on foot a praiseworthy movement by which it proposes to give to any young girl of 16 years or over who will send to it, between now and January 1st, 1891, the largest number of yearly subscribers to the Journal, a complete education at Vassar College or any other American college she may select. The education offered includes every branch of study, with every expense paid, the Journal agreeing to educate the girl irrespective of the time required or the expense involved. To this is also pinned a second offer which guarantees to any girl of 16 or over who will recure 1000 yearly subscribers before January 1st, a full term of one year at Vassar or any other preferred college with all expenses paid, thus making it possible for any number of young girls to receive free education at the best colleges. The management says that it has been led to its generous offers by the fact that there are thousands of parents throughout the country anxious to educate their daughters and yet cannot afford the expense Machine Shops.

The Brockville Recorder, does not take any stock in the contention of the Kingston papers that the machine shops are to be moved from Belleville and Brockville to Kingston, and says Brockville has an assurance from the right quarter that such a move has not been considered, and so far as the freight traffic is concerned is not likely to be, and further that there is only one man of prominence on the G. T. R. official staff who favors such a scheme. Kingston had better look around for some other means of booming itself other than at the expense of Brockville and Belleville, for assuredly its move in this direction will not succeed.

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,

FANCY FLANNEL,

AND

CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE!

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents Furnishers, Laundry Office,

BANKRUPT SALE

OF

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store will be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB. 1ST.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

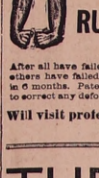
GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price, Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON



There is hardly any other disease which undermines the health and happiness of thousands of thousands of families as HERNIA or

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE AND DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL DISEASES a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Will visit professionally, Belleville, Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday. March 21st and 22nd.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

—FOR—
Portland Cement, Hydraulic Cement, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: SATURDAY FEBRUARY 15, 1890 | NO 39

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the
—HOLIDAY SEASON—
is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
AND
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackerlis, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoanut Sugar Wafers
Reed Biscuits — Bendick biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE.
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES & C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

BUY SUGAR NOW

Grocers and Wine Merchants
35 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street cor Bleecker

They are at the lowest point and the quality is excellent. We hold an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.

"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Scafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR,
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 182.

MONEY FOR ALL

WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 13 8 w w

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W. W. CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest Dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.

RECAMIER PREPARATIONS

—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $675,373.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurance in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received up to the 22nd February, 1890 for the building of a school house in section 17 Tyendinaga. The plans can be seen at Mr. Ferris's office and in the section at Mr. Lally's. The lowest or any tender not necessarily received.
JOHN TODD
Trustee, Hereward's.
Feb. 11th 1890. 6d. w2

WILL be received by the undersigned up to April 1st, 1890, for the erection of the EBENEZER STONE CHURCH and OUTHOUSE at Huntingdon. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
REV. W. H. LEAROYD,
West Huntingdon.
3d

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address
MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen,
Rochester, N. Y.
Feb 13 6d

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay (salary from start). Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner Joan and Hotel St.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. C. CLATTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.
Feb. 1

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT. Apply MRS. W. W. LEE
Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Landscape Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

BOARD.

A FEW more boarders can be accommodated next door to Mr. John Gordon's, Queen street, Belleville, Feb. 6, 1890. 6 d

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS. Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

Secured such stern accents in the court room—the court room with its dreadful scene. But she had come prepared to accuse, and she was not to be placated by a tone.

"Yer honor," she said, with form and voice trembling, "Yeh may well be sorry! My son ain't ought to be sent where he's a goin'. I see the hull thing when it happened, an' I know he wan't to blame. I ought to know, I think! If it hadn't bin for Jim, I would be a corpse this day, sir, as I was tellin yer da'ter."

"Sit down," said the judge, gently pushing her toward the chair, "I am glad to have a chance to talk with you. I think I can explain matters so they will seem—"

"I don't see that there's anything to explain, yer honor," broke in the woman. "He's been sent to the penitentiary for a hero; a hero, and savin' his mother's life, and you are letin' him be punished for it!"

She had evidently prepared her speech with much thought, but she could not speak it with the indignation she had meant to use, for the tears came uppermost. She began angrily playing with a stiletto that

SCOTT'S EMULSION
DOES CURE CONSUMPTION
in its First Stages.
Palatable as Milk.
Be sure you get the genuine in Salmon color wrapper; sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

LOST.

A WHITE ROBE on Wednesday night, in Belleville. The finder will please leave it at the office. 2d Belleville, Feb. 15th '90.

JAIL SUPPLIES.

SEALED Tenders, marked "Tender" addressed to Dr. J. T. Reid, will be received up to 1st March next, for supplying the county jail with

Bread and Meat

during one year beginning on first day of April 1890.

Tenders may be for one or both articles, but each article furnished shall be subject to the inspection and acceptance or rejection of the gaoler

Wm. R. Aylsworth,
15th February, 1890. Chairman Com. 3t

In the High Court of Justice

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Smeaton vs Walker.

IN pursuance of the judgment or order of reference made in this action and dated the 17th day of January 1890, there will be sold by public auction with the approbation of Samuel Shaw Lazier, Esqr., Local Master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at Belleville on at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon at the Chambers of the said Master in the City of Belleville, the following valuable foundry, machine shop and office, all being in the firm of J. M. Walker & Co. of the City of Belleville, viz:—

Thursday the 13th Day of March A D 1890

Parcel No. 1—Consisting of a portion of the island and the foundry premises and known as all and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and island situate, lying and being composed of all that part of lot No. 3 in the 1st Concession of Thurlow and of the Gore on the west side of Front street in the City of Belleville and better known as follows:—commencing at the south east angle of lot 3 as laid down on a plan of William Coleman's estate, then along the west side of Front street 53½ feet to a stone monument, then south 10 degrees 25 minutes west 6 feet to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees 18 feet then north 10 degrees 29 minutes west 6 feet to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees east 17 feet and 4 inches to a line between 4 and 5 of Stevens block then following the said line between 4 and 5-17 feet to the river Moira, thence north-erly to the centre of the said river, thence southerly along the centre of the main channel as shown on the plan 17 chains more or less until it passes the southern point of the island, thence south 50 degrees east one chain and 60 ty hakmore or less to the eastern bank of the raceway where it joins the main channel of said river, thence northerly along the eastern bank of the raceway to the south western angle of said lot number one shown on said plan thence easterly along the said line between lots numbers one and two as shown on said plan to Front street reserving a right of way as shown on said plan 20 feet wide from Front street to the said river and which plan is registered in the registry office of said county on the seventeenth day of February A. D. 1873 called a plan of William Coleman's estate being all that part of lot number sold to James McGuire, Isabella and Maria Murney and James Wallace; the part of the island now offered for sale being all that part north of that heretofore sold to James McGuire and being all of the island north of the southern boundary of the lane running from Front street to the island immediately north of the Albion Hotel.

Upon that part of this parcel known as the foundry premises is erected a substantial 3½ story stone foundry and machine shop about 60x40 with a stone moulding and blacksmith shop attached about 60x30 one story now occupied by Messrs J. M. Walker & Co: also to the south of the main premises is erected a substantial wooden building about 20x30 used as a wood shop. The premises are situate about the centre of the city of Belleville upon the river Moira with one of the best dams and water privileges along the river.

These premises will be sold subject to mortgage of $10,000 to the Hastings Loan and Investment Society on which the interest is paid up to the 1st January 1890 and with them will be conveyed all the interest of the firm of J. M. Walker & Co, in the adjoining premises occupied by them under leases from the Coleman and Eyre estate, of which lots particulars will be given on application on the premises or at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor.

There will be sold with the foundry premises all the machinery, fixed and moveable, necessary for the carrying on of the business which can be inspected on the premises, a list of which a full inventory can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor, and on the foundry premises.

Parcel No 2—Manufactured and unmanufactured stock on the premises according to inventory which can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor and on the foundry premises. The value of this stock about $6,000. The stock will be sold at a price on the dollar and subject to a closing of the inventory in case any of the stock has been manufactured or sold.

Parcel No 3—The tools in use in said business as per inventory which can be seen as above at about the value of $350, and which can be seen on the premises.

Parcel No 4—Book debts and accounts of the face value of about 80 dollars and notes and judgments of about the face value of $7,000 to be sold per inventory to be seen as above at a price on the dollar. The property will be sold subject to reserve bids fixed by the Master.

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. of the purchase money cash at the time of sale, the balance within thirty days of sale without interest. In all respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale at this court.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of W. B. Northrup, Esq., of F. Wills, Esq., and J. Parker Thomas, Esq., Belleville, and at the foundry premises.

W B NORTHRUP, Plff's Solicitor.
S S LAZIER, L.M.

Dated this 11th Day of February 1890.
13 15 19 22

OLD VARSITY IN ASHES.

FLAMES RUIN A GREAT SEAT OF LEARNING.

A Weird Spectacle in the Queen's Park at Toronto—The Loss Will Be Over One Million Dollars—A Coal Oil Lamp Causes the Mishap.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—The beautiful college and university building in Queen's Park, the pride of the city and the glory of the province alike, the finest effect in architecture in the country is in ashes.

The destruction began at 6.10 last night and continued till midnight. But the main damage was done before 9 o'clock.

The explosion of a coal oil lamp started a fire on the main stair-way leading to the library reading room in the southeast corner of the building, and with the rapidity of lightning it spread in two directions, north and west, until everything in the main building and the east wing was destroyed.

The damage will probably be no loss of buildings, library, museum specimens, instruments, not to any inconvenience and break in the work of the institution, must exceed a million dollars.

All the records of the university are gone.

The evening had been set apart for the annual conversazione, and it was in the preparations for this event that the fire had its origin.

Two of the assistants were carrying a box with a number of lighted lamps up the southeast stairway, to be used in lighting the microscopic specimens in the reading rooms above, when one of the lamps exploded. The men were unable to control the flames.

The library, with its 35,000 volumes, some of which cannot be replaced, and worth $130,000 to $150,000, was the first destroyed.

The building cost about $400,000 35 to 40 years ago, when building was cheap. It could not be replaced to-day for twice that sum.

The only part remaining is the round laboratory (now the physical museum) at the southwest corner, and the residence, being in the rear.

F. Eversfield, the engineer of the university, was in the building when the blaze first started and was able to state a few facts regarding the accident which caused the fire. According to his story several employes were engaged in decorating the senate chamber for the conversazione and Mr. Archibald Pride, the sub-contractor, assisted by a companion, was carrying a tray of lighted lamps up the stairs that led to the chapel. When almost at the top Pride slipped with his end of the tray, which caused all the lamps to fall on the steps. An explosion immediately occurred, and the blaze soon communicated to the surrounding woodwork. The two men, becoming frightened, it is supposed, endeavored to get out of the eastern door. Finding, however, that this was locked they turned and ran through the corridors to the students' rooms.

The students were all engaged in dressing for the conversazione and a general alarm was soon sounded. By this time the flames were bursting through the windows of Convocation Hall. Policeman Stewart (149) observed the fire and immediately rang box 91. Before the arrival of the brigade an attempt was made by the janitor and students to quench the flames with hose, but their efforts proved of no avail, as the heat was becoming it unportable and the pressure of water was not sufficient to throw a stream more than a dozen feet.

Chief Adagh of the fire brigade said: "We had to carry the water 150 feet to reach the fire. There was only one small hydrant on the university grounds. It is but a 4-inch one, totally inadequate for anything save a very small fire. It was not the slightest use for last night's fire. I was there, a brigade arrived on the ground the eastern wing was one mass of flames.

"There was no the slightest delay on our part, but there was a serious mistake on the part of those who gave the alarm. It was given from box 91, St. Vincent and Grosvenor-streets, instead of College and McCaul-streets. I do not think, whatever pressure there might have been that we could have saved the eastern wing, the fire had such a hold when we arrived. It was positively impossible to do so; but we might have saved much more of the building and property therein had we been promptly and properly summoned.

"Two of my men were injured: one in the back, the other on the feet by falling rafters.

"I estimate the damage altogether, property and buildings, at a bout $1,000,000.

"I believe all the blame of the destructive fire rests with the University authorities for not having the proper appliances for fire, proper water supply, and the lighting of such a big building with coal oil lamps.

"My men worked as hard as any men could and but for them the destruction would have been much greater."

Under and before the main entrance stood little groups of students and graduates conversing together of the happy and profitable time spent within. And there were not wanting, too, vandals of modern time who came to look for costly instruments thrown into the snow in the hope of saving them from destruction in the flames. These the officers soon dispersed. Near midnight the university was a ruin, but a stately ruin, lighted up from every side and covered with a sort of false splendor, it reared its massive pile awfully magnificent. The great tower in front was cracked from summit to base and every moment threatened to fall and crush those who ventured near the archway. An hour later the crowds had departed and none but a few watchmen remained with the charred and blackened ruins of Ontario's seat of learning.

An old graduate who has seen many a day in the university told the following story in effect: "Strolling near the classic pile just as the last streak of day cast a faint glow over the white canopy of snow, in thinking of many days spent within the massive walls, I found myself all at once within the shadow of the eastern wing and looking up at the windows of Convocation Hall. As I glanced at the stained glass I noticed that one of the windows seemed to be lit up. The light became more vivid and presently a sheet of flame flashed up, and spreading to other windows the whole eastern corridor seemed lighted up resplendent as for some great festival. I thought the officer was near the spot and the city was soon alarmed with the tidings that old Toronto University was ablaze.

"Feet after feet came rushing up the wide avenue leading to the great archway in front. A dozen streams played upon the flames, but of little avail were they to cope with the strong northwestern breeze. And now the library and the senate chamber were a mass of fire. Volumes of ancient lore, epics of classic writers, of Homer and of Virgil and some works that can never be replaced, were all consumed.

"Mountains a heavy shower of sparks like a fiery storm drove the thousands of spectators eastward from the building. Many more anxious to see the ruin complete fingered, falling thousand feet, like fiery shower behind trees, behind anything, looking like Dore's pictures of the lost souls in Dante's Inferno. But still they stayed until the end and until little but bleak, bare walls and charred embers remained to be gazed upon. Late in the night the vast bell in the main tower fell with a terrific crash, scattering for yards around the massive, glowing timbers and a shower of sparks. The iron gates of the main entrance were swung wide open and within the fire formed a glowing, brilliant arch.

"The gates were almost heated red hot. At the rear of the pile and on the west side of Convocation Hall I looked down into a glowing furnace which, to convert it into a semblance of Hades, needed only imagination. From above would fall every moment some heavy piece of sculptured stone, and at times it seemed that even the walls of the old hall must topple over the flaming mass. The stained glass windows were all broken and from within the brilliant light shone not fitfully, but as an illuminated palace for some gay festivity.

"The effect was all the more startling from the deep gloom shooting around the dark pine trees outside coming into such striking contrast with this vivid light."

J. E. Berkeley Smith, the bursar of the university, was in conversation yesterday last night. Enquiry at his residence at 9½ resulted in the statement that he was up at the university and enquiry there betrayed the fact that he was at his residence. His second visit there was equally unavailing, so it is opined that Mr. Smith was in hiding for the time being. A gentleman well versed in university matters told a story which might explain Mr. Smith's evident reluctance to be interviewed. The building and contents, he said, was insured not long ago for three years at $350,000, but on the night of the annual conversat, which of course was last night, the insurance was not in operation owing to the great crowds visiting the university on the occasion in question, and the consequent increased risk. On one occasion, a few years ago, the university people got a permit from the insurance companies, which kept the policies in force for the night of the conversat, but it is supposed that that precaution was omitted yesterday, and if this be a fact the great loss of last night will fall directly on the university without being ameliorated by a single dollar of insurance money. Mr. Smith, as bursar, had charge of all insurance matters in connection with the university and hence his silence in the present instance.

A third visit to Bursar Smith at an early hour this morning elicited the information that the total insurance was $175,000.

The vice-chancellor telegraphed from Ottawa last night that he did not believe the total insurance exceeded $140,000.

For a while it seemed as if the residents wing would be saved. About 8½ the Dean, Professor Baker of the Ontario College who lived in the residence began to remove their effects. The Dean's rather pleasant quarters were immediately turned upside down. His pictures, his chairs, his bronzes and other bric-a-brac were by willing hands carried into the house and stables of Mr. Howland of the Avenue. Meanwhile the residents packed up their valises, beds, blankets and other gaudy if not artistic miscellanea, including portraits of friends and popular actresses and other articles which generally find a lodgment in a student's room. All these things were indiscriminately piled in the quadrangle and removed to places of safety. And one gun presented a wondrous sight, piles of bedding, furniture and miscellaneous lumber. Some of the youths, over-enthusiastic in their desire to save their effects, threw them out of third story windows, and great was the fall and complete the wreck.

The university has been wounded sorely at the very moment when she was just taking on a new and grander development. With a prospect of an early increase in her income, a policy of university extension of new buildings, new instruments and appliances, of taking up new lines of teaching, these were some of the directions the proposed improvements were to take. But all this is checked for the present. All that remains intact is the new Biological Department near the guns. This building is about to be greatly enlarged, accommodation having been planned for the museum that was destroyed last night.

There also remains the School of Science, which too has been greatly enlarged (by two or three acres of floor room), but it is only roofed in and will not be available for the present.

The library contained many rare volumes. There were historical papers in relation to Canada that cannot be replaced; a couple of set of Audubon's Birds of America, worth 400 to 1,000, and very other copies of which do not exist in Canada. There were only 100 books out in the hands of the students. In the centre of the library was a statue of William of Wykeham the founder, one of the first patrons and founders of learning in England.

The architecture of the University building is Norman, and with respect to its interior and exterior arrangement everything was done to give the whole an appearance of elaborate finish in every detail. The general outline is in the form of a square with a quadrangle 200 feet wide facing the north. The chief elevation of the building, however, faces the south, the frontage being 300 feet in length and with the massive tower, 130 feet in height, in the centre, the whole structure is given that mediæval aspect which the designer evidently intended. The main front is 200 feet in length, with a separate entrance surmounted with a smaller tower than that seen at the southern entrance. The west end of the building is 300 feet long. The north side of the quadrangle faces the park. The visitor, on going in from the main entrance, passes from class-room to lecture room and from one department to departments, finished in keeping with the magnificent external part of the massive structure, until Convocation Hall is reached, which is the general resort of graduates and the general public. In close connection with the buildings is the School of Practical Science, which has charge of the instruction given in chemistry, engineering, mining and assaying.

The building was of stone and brick but the roofs were of timber, slated, and carried by immense iron girders, which, however, were of the most inflammable nature. The amount of pine timber in the building was enormous. There were immense areas of pine floors and these went like tinder.

The buildings were completed in 1859 from designs, it is said, by Cumberland & Storm, architects, Toronto, and were thereupon occupied by the university and college, which had for some years previously found headquarters in the Parliament buildings on Front-street.

The situation and surroundings of the University are congenial to the purpose of learning. Secluded in a generous expanse of well nature past the barricades of foliage long continued use of the French language in Old Canada and to the covenant on the subject embodied in the B.N.A. Act, agree to the declaration contained in the said bill as the basis thereof that it is expedient in the interests of the national unity of the Dominion that there should be community of language amongst the people of Canada. That on the contrary this House declares its inviolable adherence to the covenants in respect to the use of the French language in Quebec and Canada and its determination to resist any attempt to impair those covenants. That so soon as the French language in the Northwest Territories allowed by law it is in the best interests of Canada at large and of the territories in particular that inducements should be held out to the emigrating inhabitants in each of the provinces to settle in the territories whose greatest wants are population. That the exploring of the provision allowing the use of the French language in the territories is not required to prevent any real grievance in this one and would, under existing circumstances, lessen the chances of a French-Canadian immigration. That it is expedient to leave those provisions untouched and to defer any decision as to the ultimate settlement of the question until time shall have further developed the condition of the Northwest settlement.

Mr. McNeill, who followed and supported the bill, referred Mr. Blake's preamble argument brought against him in the assertion that last year Mr. Blake had by his vote on the Jesuits' Estates Act declared that the preamble was of no consequence. He now has made out that the preamble was of every consequence. He also treated Mr. Blake with having lost his support to the Nationalist agitation which was mainly responsible for the English-speaking people being stirred up as they were at present.

Mr. Subscriber rebuked Mr. McNeill for the tone of his remarks and commended the speech of Mr. Blake. As for himself, he thought it would be perhaps better if there were no dual language in the Northwest, but he would not for the present commit himself to vote for the bill.

It having been arranged that this debate should be adjourned at 10 o'clock and that hour having now arrived, Mr. Laurier moved the adjournment of the debate and also that it be made the order of the day for Tuesday. This was agreed to and the House adjourned at 12.20.

In the Senate to-day in answer to Hon. Mr. Reid, Hon. Mr. Smith said there was no intention to allow shipment of United States cattle from Canadian ports for Europe with or without being subjected to any quarantine regulations. The present regulations, established under the Animals' Contagious Diseases Act, absolutely forbid the importation of United States cattle from Canadian ports and there is no intention to make any relaxation.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

M. E. Pagé, candy manufacturer of Chicago, has assigned. Liabilities $100,000, assets same.

The Salem (Ill.) National Bank has been robbed of $10,000 cash and some securities by burglars who drilled through the vault door and blew open the safe.

Notice of motion has been given in the Manitoba Legislature to declare vacant the seat for Portage la Prairie, the member not in the present incumbent, Lyman M. Jones, has removed to Brantford.

The masked handless body of Hiram Sawtelle with a bullet in the heart has been found at Lebanon, Me. His brother Isaac is under arrest charged with the murder.

The French Council of Agriculture has voted in favor of imposing a duty of 3 francs on Indian corn, 5 francs on cornmeal and derivatives, 6 francs on rice in the husk and 12 francs on broken and cleaned rice and rice flour.

The canal boat Cahill was sunk in a collision with a Sound steamer off the Battery at New York on Sunday morning. The captain of the Cahill and his wife were drowned.

Ras Aloula is reported to have died from the wounds received in the recent battle with King Menelik.

In reply to a question by Parnell, Hon W. H. Smith said in the House that the Government had not yet decided to adopt with reference to the commission's report.

The bodies of an old couple named Jones were found riddled with bullets in a heap of refuse on their farm, six miles from Omaha, Neb.

The fourth trial of the Navassa rioters in the United States Court at Baltimore resulted in the conviction of 23 rioters.

Two more cases of smallpox were reported in Meriden, Conn., Friday.

The O'Neill (Neb.) roller mills have been burnt; loss $50,000, insurance $24,000.

All the railroads entering Chicago will obey the city ordinance limiting the speed of trains to 10 miles an hour. Bad for suburbanites.

Prince Dhuleep Singh, A.D.C. to Gen. Sir John Ross, has suddenly left Halifax for Paris, mourning by a bevy of admiring young ladies and baffled creditors.

One man was killed and two injured by a collision on the Monon railway.

Mwanga, aided by Europeans, has annihilated Kalema and his Arab allies and is master of Uganda.

Kansas City jobbers and ticket "scalpers" have been detected in wholesale forgeries by means of which they obtained railway tickets at reduced rates.

L. O. David, M.L.A. for Montreal East, in a lecture on "The Political Future of Canada" before the Club National, said Imperial Federation was an impossible dream, objected to Independence as the English would swamp the French Canadians, and declared that if a change took place he favored annexation.

J. G. Biggar, M.P. for Cavan, complains that the Parnell Commission report is unfair in several particulars.

Grand Trunk earnings for the week ending Feb. 8 were $235,875, an increase of $29,849 over the same week last year.

The Irish Presbyterian Church has issued a manifesto denouncing Mr. Parnell's recent speech in favor of Catholic endowment.

All the Radical party in the House of Commons favors the direct election of Parliament, and will assist any project looking to that end.

Wong-ah-Hing was hanged at the San Francisco jail Friday for the murder of his uncle.

The Irish Nationalists hold that the Parnell Commission's report improves their position.

In the Spanish Senate Senor Mateuper accused Great Britain of encroaching upon Spanish territory in making the Gibraltar canal. The Government promised to investigate.

Two thousand ammunition and baggage waggons and other military vehicles just built at Warsaw in addition to fifty light built at Kronstadt have been arrived at Odessa on the way to Batoum. Their ultimate destination is secret. Twelve thousand troops were sent to Batoum early in January.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

THE DEBATE ON THE M'CARTHY BILL RESUMED.

Mr. Charlton Advocates the Measure—Hon. Edward Blake Opposes and Submits an Amendment Which He Intends to Move at the Proper Time.

OTTAWA, Feb. 14.—The Commons sat with closed doors for a considerable time this afternoon discussing a affront offered to one of its members, Nicholas Flood Davin, by the Government Leader of the Black Rod, who had excluded that member from the Senator's gallery. The incident occurred the night before last. A number of Senators who wished to hear the debate in the Commons found the gallery set apart for their use quite filled with "ordinary persons." They appealed to Mr. Kinbert, who entered the gallery without the premonitory three raps which herald his approach to the floor of the House, and emptying the hows for which his is so famous proceeded to inform any and any kind to drive out the occupants. There was a general exodus, most of those ejected being ladies, and the Senators then took possession.

Mr. Davin received considerable sympathy from his fellow Commoners and it was difficult to lay down that any member of Parliament had a right to enter any part of the Commons premises, not excepting those divisions of the gallery which they have hitherto been enough to invite the Senators to occupy. The Senate official will be reminded that his authority does not extend to any part of the Commons precincts. When the doors were opened a little routine business was transacted, including the introduction of the Dominion Improvement Bill by Mr. Small, and then the debate on the McCarthy Bill was resumed.

Mr. Charlton spoke in support of it, being the fourth speaker on that side. He denied that the French had any more rights in the northwest than in Ontario. On the general question of dual language he quoted several precedents. Among others he instanced the Roman Empire and said that notwithstanding the many nationalities comprised under its reign the decrees of the Government had been promulgated only in the Roman tongue. He cited Louisiana and said that the official use of French had ceased when that state was ceded by France. He insinuated that the loyalty, of which so much had been said, which had induced the French Canadians to refuse to join the American Confederation, had not been unmixed with fear for the future of the Roman Catholic Church in the proposed confederation. Quoting scripture, he instanced the circumstances connected with the tower of Babel as an evidence of the strength a people acquired by community of language.

He scouted the idea of attaching so much importance to the preamble of the bill and proceeded to state what "we" intended to do in order to make Canada Canada a great Anglo-Saxon community. He thought it not manly to shift responsibility in this matter.

Hon. Edward Blake then rose to deliver a speech in which he clearly explained his views on the bill, of which he entirely disapproved. He took particular exception to Mr. Charlton's use of the word "we." It was, he said, the habit of that gentleman not infrequently to speak in the plural, both affirmatively and negatively, without warrant. He had spoken of what "we" were aiming at what the English-speaking people of this country intended, and much in the same strain.

He took exception also to Mr. Charlton's declaration of facts. That gentleman had informed the House that the decrees of Rome were promulgated only in the language of Rome itself, but he did not think anything so inhuman or barbarous was done even in so barbarous and barbarous age. He had referred to Louisiana as a precedent, but there also he was wrong. By the original constitution of that state after its cession French as well as English was recognized in its Legislature, and that arrangement continued until the state itself chose that it should be blotted out.

Returning again to Mr. Charlton's use of the plural Mr. Blake said he seemed to speak first for those with whom he acted, then for the English-speaking community and next for the Anglo-Saxons from the pole to the isthmus. They wished, it seemed, to see a harmonious community, but Mr. Charlton and those associated with him had been the prime cause of the calamitous results which they proposed to deplore. Those who agreed to the preamble of the bill asked that the French language should be disallowed in every portion of the country, and for after that preamble to stop at an enactment abolishing French only in the Northwest would indeed be much cry and little wool. Mr. Charlton had said that the preamble was of but little consequence, but that was not his contention on an occasion last year still fresh in all minds, when an obnoxious preamble was declared to be an importance and reason for disallowance.

He would not say that Mr. McCarthy was not conscientious in the course he took. No doubt he was, but if not no language could be conceived strong enough for denunciation of the expression of those sentiments. He thought the prospect of the reforms he would like to have seen in Quebec had been removed to an incalculable distance by the agitation, and he would consider the prospect to have absolutely vanished if this bill received any countenance or support in this House.

Continuing after recess Mr. Blake said he knew that there were memories of former conflicts lying ready to be aroused in the Dominion. He had just heard that the great material ornament and emblem of toleration, the University of Toronto, was now in flames. He knew not how little a spark has wrought the great calamity but he thought the incident might get those to thinking who would set the heather on fire with this whipping agitation. Though he would have met this bill with an uncompromising negative it seemed to be the temper of the House that it should rather be met with a compromise amendment. Neither of those before the House was, he thought, just suited to the occasion. Any amendment passed by this House should contain an explicit condemnation of the preamble. If in the future our Northwest country turned out to be overwhelmingly English, the difficulty would settle itself in a very simple manner, but if, what he should rejoice to see even in the force of what has been said in his province and elsewhere, there was a large settlement of French in the Northwest then it would be an injustice for us to declare that their language should be excluded. He had a proposition which he might yet submit to the House in the shape of an amendment and that in such an event all should fully understand its purport he would state it now.

This house cannot, having regard to the long-continued use of the French language in

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

"CANDY Cathartic Truth. USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup as throat is never

Do No be Deceive.

All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 15 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays, and delivered by carrier to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—10c. per week.
THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and will cost, if not addressed in Canada, the United States or Great Britain, One Dollar.
ADVERTISEMENTS—THE DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line for each subsequent insertion, 5 cents per line; when contracted for by the month, 3 cents per line each insertion.
ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cents per line each insertion.
READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. When notice of funeral attached this charge for death notices is 25 cents.
CONTRACTS made for long Advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.
Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of THOS. S. CLARKAN,
Belleville, Ont.

La Grippe or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians 'lightning catarrh,' from the rapidity with which it spreads from place to place. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary colds in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of 'la grippe' or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dulloppressive headache accompanying this disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. The fumes from the healing and cartarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD CO.,
Brockville, Ont.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.
d&wly

For coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief, removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and weakness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces nature quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teathing or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulations of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim i to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N. S

The Lancet Society.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

Swimming Niagara

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make miserable life. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone an Strengthen the entire system at the same time.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL CO., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of 'A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases,' whereby our subscribers were enabled to obtain a copy of this valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which affect the horse, and has a phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for Treatise.

WE

Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed

TOILET — SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE

WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

HOME ONCE MORE.

DR. TALMAGE RETURNS AND IS WELCOMED BY A LARGE AUDIENCE.

The Contract Between the Spies and Rahab—A Bible Drama in Four Scenes—The Scarlet Cord of Salvation and the Window of God's Mercy.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 10.—The Rev. Dr. Talmage preached in the Academy of Music yesterday morning, after a two months absence occasioned by his visit to the Holy Land. The great hall was crowded to the doors. The subject of the discourse was "The House on the Wall."

Text, Joshua vi., 22: "And the young men that were spies went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that she had." He said:

When, only a few days ago, I visited Jericho, I said, Can it be possible that this delightful place is the Jericho that Mark Antony gave as a wedding present to Cleopatra? Where are the groves of palm trees? Where are the forests that once stood here? Where is the great theatre from the stage of which Salome told the people that Herod was dead? Where is the sycamore tree on the limb of which Zaccheus sat when Jesus passed this place? Where is the wreck of the wall that fell at the blowing of the rams' horns? But the fact that all these have disappeared did not hinder me from seeing in imagination the smash of everything on the fated day, save one house on the wall. That scene centuries ago comes back to me as though it were yesterday.

There is a very sick and sad house in the city of Jericho. What is the matter? Is it poverty? No. Have they been robbed? No. Worse than that. Is it death? No. Worse than that. A daughter has forsaken her home. Her wheelbarrow has gone and induced to leave I know not; but they look in vain for her return. Sometimes they hear a footstep very stealthy, but it soon they start up and say:—"She comes!" but only to sink back again into disappointment. Alas! Alas! The father sits by the hour with his face in his hands, saying not one word. The mother's hair is becoming gray too fast, and she begins to stoop so that those who saw her only a little while ago in the street know her not now as she passes. The brothers clench their fists, swearing vengeance against the despoiler of their home. Alas! will the poor soul never come back? There is a long, deep shadow over all the household. Added to this there is an invading army six miles away, just over the river, coming on to destroy the city; and what with the loss of their child and the coming on of that destructive army, I think the old people wished that they could die. That is the first scene in this drama of the Bible. In a house on the wall of the city is that daughter. That is her home now. Two spies have come from the invading army to look around through Jericho and see how best it may be taken. Yonder is the lost child, in that dwelling on the wall of the city. The police hear of it, and soon there is the shouting of feet all around about the door, and the city government demands the surrender of those two spies. First, Rahab—for that was the name of the lost child—first Rahab secretes the two spies and gets their pursuers off the track; but after awhile she says to them: "I will make a bargain with you. I will save your life if you will save my life, and the life of my father and my mother, and my brothers, and sisters when the victorious army comes upon the city." O, she had not forgotten her home yet, you see. The wanderer never forgets home. Her heart breaks now as she thinks of how she has maltreated her parents, and she wishes she could get away from her sinful enthralment; and sometimes she hears the sighs of the midnight, bursting into agonizing tears. No sooner have these two spies promised to save her life, and the life of her father and mother, and brothers, and sisters, than Rahab takes a scarlet cord and ties it around the body of one of the spies, brings him to the window, and as he clambers out—nervous lest she have not strength to hold him—with muscular arms such as woman seldom has, she lets him down, hand over hand, in safety to the ground. Not being exhausted, she ties the cord around the other spy, brings him to the window, and gently and successfully lets him down to the ground. No sooner have these men untied the scarlet cord from their bodies than they look up, and they say: "You had better get all your friends in this house—your father, your mother, your brothers and your sisters; you had better get them in this house. And then, after you have them here, take this red cord which you have put around our bodies and tie it across the window; and when our victorious army comes and sees that scarlet thread in the window, they will spare this house and all who are in it. Shall it be so?" cried the spies. "Aye, aye," said Rahab, from the window, "it shall be so." That is the second scene in this Bible drama. There is a knock at the door of the old cold man. He looks up and says:—"Come in," and lot there is Rahab, the lost child; but she has no time to talk. They gather in excitement around her, and she says to them:—"Get ready quickly, and go with me to my house. The army is coming! The trumpet! Make haste! Fly! The enemy!" That is the third scene in this Bible drama. The hosts of Israel are all around about the doomed city of Jericho. Crash! goes the great metropolis, heaps on heaps The air suffocating with the dust, and horrible with the screams of a dying city. All the houses flat down. All the people dead. Ah no! no! On a crag of the wall—the only piece of the wall left standing—there is a house which we must enter. There is a family there that we must visit. Who are they? Let us go and see. Rahab, her father, her mother, her brothers, her sisters, all safe, and the only house left standing in all the city. What saved them? Was the house more firmly built? O, no; it was built in the most perilous place—on the wall; and the wall was the first thing that fell. Was it because her character was any better than any of the other population of the city? O, no. Why then was she spared and all her household? Can you tell me why? O, it was the scarlet line in the window. That is the fourth scene in this Bible drama. When the destroying angel went through Egypt it was the blood of the lamb on the door posts that saved the Israelites; and now that vengeance has come upon Jericho it is the same color that secures the safety of Rahab and all her household. My friends there are foes coming upon us, more deadly and more tremendous, to overthrow our immortal interests. They will scale our walls and crush us out forever, unless there be some skilful mode of rescue open. The police of death already begin to clamor for our surrender; but blessed be God, there is a way out. It is through the window, and by a rope so saturated with the blood of the cross, that it is as red as that with which the spies were lowered; and if once our souls shall be delivered, then the scarlet cord stretched across the window of our escape, we may defy all bombardment, earthly and Satanic.

In the first place, carrying out the idea of my text, we must stretch this scarlet cord across the window of our rescue. There comes a time when a man is surrounded. What is that in the front door of his soul? It is the threatenings of the future. What is that in the back door of his soul? It is the sins of the past. He cannot get out of either of those doorways. If he attempts it he will be cut to pieces. What shall he do? Escape through the window of God's mercy. That sunshine has been pouring in for many a day. God's inviting mercy. God's pardoning mercy. God's all-conquering mercy. God's everlasting mercy. But, you say, the window is so high. Ah, there is a rope, the very one with which the cries and its victim were lifted. That was strong enough to hold Christ and it is strong enough to hold you. Bear all your weight upon it, all your hopes for this life, all your hopes for the life that is to come. Escape now through the window. "But," you say, "that cord is too small to save me, that salvation will never do at all for such a sinner as I have been." I suppose that the rope with which Rahab let the two spies to the ground was not thick enough; but they took that for nothing. And, my dear reader, that is your alternative. There is only one scarlet line that can save you. There have been hundreds and thousands who have been saved from any in safety by that scarlet line, and it will bear you away in safety. Do you notice what a very narrow escape those spies had? I suppose they came with flustered cheek and with excited heart. They had a very narrow escape. They went in the head door of sin; but how did they come out? They came out of the window. They went up by the stairs of sorrow, their cheeks

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy with his one year old face so bad with eczema that he looked of no hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Discarding all a new born physician had been doing, I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and successful of all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you my thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H CASEY, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and proves and best of Humor Cures, Internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and tumors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35c. RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T

—Will be at the—

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispense of remedies that will cure Rheumatism and also stop pain of any kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 245, Trenton, Ont.

2d4w

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling from home, hardy home grown stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hilton Pear, Saunder Pl us, Hiborn Raspberry, Moore's Ruby and Pick champion currants, Moore Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagating of Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to
STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

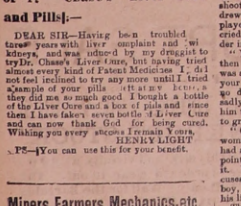
ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 229 acres, 1½ miles from Belleville, post or soil, 40 acres new land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply,

Feb 6 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agts

or T. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Mr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills at my house, and they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottles of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

P.S.—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics etc. RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, best and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CURE FOR RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. We supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Promptness, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

M. C. ROBLIN,

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St opp Ann-Office.

"The -:- Judge."

CHAPTER I.

THE long library was the favorite room in the Herthwaite House. When Judge Barthwaite came home from his office at night, he was almost sure to find his daughter there. It seemed like a forecast of heaven to sit there in the twilight with Margaret. The fire, dancing between the expanse of pictured tiles, the hearth, the psyhound, on the rug, the book-lined walls—next to Margaret, the treasure of the judge's heart—the shadowy morning curtains, the burnished bronzes, the restless parrot, and Margaret with her white hands—these, familiar as they were, seemed ever new, ever inviting, ever luxurious.

All that confidence and comradeship which a man usually gives to his wife, the judge, long widowed, gave to his daughter, and if he regarded her communion sometimes jealously, he compensated for it by a devotion more chivalrous than fatherly in its nature.

Much as he prided himself upon his hospitality, he took it ill, if after a day of judicial perplexities, he found a third person in the sanctuary at the hour set apart for the twilight talk. For the judge was a man of habits, as his friends well knew, and as his daughter knew much better than any one else.

Therefore, when he came home one stormy January night and found Margaret sitting by the fire with a stranger, it was not surprising that he should own to his annoyance with a gesture of impatience. The gas had not yet been lighted, and he could not see the features of the stranger, but by the way she sat on the edge of the leathern chair, and by the peculiar shooting forward of the head, that one sees often in the despairing, the judge knew her to be some supplicant for aid. Margaret sat opposite, idly stroking the parrot, her whole attitude expressing sympathy.

"Pative," said in a low voice, "this is the mother of the lad you sentenced yesterday."

The judge advanced with outstretched hand, a cordiality breaking through the natural hauteur of his manner.

"I am very sorry for what I had to do yesterday," he said. Pallid, abashed, bitter and none too clean, the little woman stood up and laid her nervous, bony hand in that of the judge. She could hardly believe that the voice she now heard was the same that had used such stern accents in the court room—the court room with its dreadful scene. But she had come prepared to accuse, and she was not to be placated by a tone.

"Yer honor," she said, with form and voice trembling, "Yeh may well be sorry! My son ain't ought to be sent where he's gotin'. I see the hull thing whin it happened, an' I know he wasn't to blame. I ought to know, I think! If it hadn't bin fur Jim, I would be a corpse this day, sir, as I was tellin yer da'ter."

"Sit down," said the judge, gently pushing her toward the chair. "I am glad to have a chance to talk with you. I think I can explain matters so they will seem—"

"I don't see that there's anything to explain, yer honor," broke in the woman. "He's been sent to the penitentiary for a bein' a hero, and savin' his mother's life, and you are lettin' him be punished fur it!"

She had evidently prepared her speech with much thought, but she could not speak it with the indignant force that had meant to the, for the tears came uppermost. She began angrily playing with a stiletto that lay on the desk. It was a dainty thing—as dainty as it was deadly—and the judge kept it among his magazines to serve as a paper knife, and as a reminder of Florence the beautiful.

"Madam," said the judge, watching the pitiful, trembling hand as it slipped the instrument in and out of its sheath, "your son's case was unfortunately handled."

"What difference would that make," cried the woman shrilly, "if the law was what it should be!" Just listen to this, yer honor. I had been sick a month. I come down stairs in the mornin' to git breakfast. My husband—not the father of my boy, mind you—he has been dead ten year—come in an' begun growlin' because the meal wasn't fixed. I told him I was sick an' I answered back pretty sharp. He had been drinkin' the night before an' agin' in the mornin'. He got crazy mad in a minit an' picked up a pitchfork he had brought in with him, and come at me like a wild beast. Jim was just comin' out of the upstairs door, an' he seed me. He told him to drop the fork or he'd shoot. The ole man dropped the fork an' went fur Jim. They had a scuffle. They locked arms, I can hev tell you! They fought 'way acrost the kitchen, an' out of the door. The ole man give Jim a push off the stoop, an' when Jim was a-fallin', his fingers tightened naturally on the trigger of the revolver he had in his hand, an' off it went."

"Madam," said the judge patiently, "your lawyer pleaded that your son killed your husband by accident. In other words, that your husband died by the hand of the accidental discharge of the revolver that was in your son's hand."

"An' he's right, sir! Then why is my son sent away; tell me! The only support I have and my left arm as stiff as a rail, yer honor, with the rheumatism. Accidental shooting, judge—an' then prison!" She drew the stiletto quite out of its sheath and played with it so recklessly that the parrot cried out, and leaped to his mistress' shoulder in alarm.

"Yes, but my dear madam, your lawyer then neglected to prove that the shooting was an accident. He proved, instead, that your husband deserved to be killed. I have no doubt he did, but it not the law. I see sadly, you see, and I could only recommend him to mercy, which the jury did not see fit to grant."

"Oh, it's well enough to talk," said the woman, in a loud voice from which the tears had all dried up. "I don't understand the points ye make, an' I don't see no justice in it. What is the law fur? Just to fine ex-cuses for convicts? a man, an' a man's a good boy, I tell you judge, an' them as has raised his life—"

The judge motioned Margaret to leave the room. She did so with reluctance. The woman's manner made her afraid, and she could not help wishing that she would put down that stiletto. It may have been pity, but she thought her father shared the feeling, for she saw him watching the woman's movements with a peculiar look in his eyes. The distress of the poor mother made her miserable, and all the way up to her room she battled with a sense of pain and oppression that was quite foreign to her natural gladness. However, there was an important matter to think about. She had to make a dinner toilet, for she and her father were to dine out.

Women have many delights that men know nothing about. Men, for example, do not know what it is to dress. Of course they put on clothes; but that is quite different from dressing. Were a man to be intruded upon in the midst of his toilet he might be angered, but he would not be embarrassed. Such a pursuit has no mystery for him. But when maids, such as Margaret, such as Margaret, dress, they draw the curtains close; they bolt the door; they move with caution, and they glance into the glass with a certain coyness. To draw on the perfumed stocking, to twist the hair afresh, watching the reflection of the moving white arms in the dimness, to pin the laces about the throat, to hide all the white embroideries under the dainty gown and to select the bracelets from the strong smelling cases has a sort of mystic delight, such as a priest feels when he decks the Virgin's altar with lilies. It is indeed, the coronation of innocence and of modesty when the maids are such as Margaret.

There was nothing somber about Margaret—not even her dresses. She was not one of those women who look ugly and imagine they are modest. When she left her room, smelling of the roses she wore, her very walk showed that she was conscious of her roseate, symmetrical, pulsating self, and of her tender drapery. She felt a momentary chagrin that her father should pass her in the hall without noticing her.

"He will not be himself at dinner," she confided to her turquoise bracelet as she twirled it on her arm. "He will be pulcinal—and kind, and she laughed at her own little attempt at indulgence. She went back into the library, and was surprised to find that the room was still lighted by the high blazing fire, although the dusk had now deepened to dark. She pushed an ottoman under the chandelier with her bronzed boot and stood on tiptoe to light the gas.

As she did so she saw a sight that made her turn pale. She put one trembling hand to her mouth to check the cry that forced itself to her lips. On the chair where she had sat before she left the room, lay her gorgeous parrot, brighter than ever for the blood that streamed over his plumage. She made herself take the bird up—right through the splendid breast feathers was a small knife-thrust.

"It was made," said Margaret in slow alarm, "by the stiletto!" The thought of the vindictiveness that had caused the act of unclean cruelty made her faint, and she could not bring herself to look at the point of the instrument, which lay on the desk, once more in its sheath.

Then she went to the door and called violently for her father. He came running at her call, in his shirt sleeves and with a towel in one hand. Margaret held out the bird on her blood-stained hands. The judge hastened to her. He looked at her with bright eyes and took her hand in his, with the dead bird between them.

"That woman," cried Margaret, choking with the dryness of her throat, "has taken her revenge on my poor Topsy! Who could have imagined she was such a murderous creature! How she must have had you to have done such a thing!" But Margaret saw such a fierce look in her father's eyes—such a hot and angry look—that she feared what he would do and fell to making excuses.

"She was crazed, I suppose. It must be mad-making to suffer as she does. And you cannot expect a woman like that, in such circumstances, to be logical. She will always blame you, no doubt. But my poor, gay Topsy. I am sure I did her no harm. I do not see why she should take any revenge on me. Never mind, papa dear. Do not look so vexed about it. Despair makes one do queer things. Let go of my hands. I am not frightened." But the judge let go with a strange reluctance. And when he did he took the bird and examined the wound by the light, as if he were very curious. Then he gave the saucy dead parted the feathers over the wound and thrust his fingers into it, and took the poor dead thing to his lips and kissed it, saying that it should have a funeral of state in the morning.

In a few moments he was down again and helped Margaret on with her cloak in the hall. His anger was quite gone, and the short ride in the carriage was as gay as such a ride could be. Margaret, who could never bear to cherish a remembrance of anything disagreeable, exerted herself in her peculiar discursive and jocular way, and the judge laughed louder and clearer than Margaret remembered hearing him do for a long time.

The house they entered was one of a uniform and severe block. But its uniformity and its severity ceased when the door was passed. The interior bore the impress of a peculiar individuality. The room that Margaret and the judge were ushered into by the rotund butler seemed to be filled with violins. They hung on the walls, they laid on shelves, they stood on the floor, and one with a mosaic of pearls in its rich old sides, was strung from an easel. The deep polished floor of the room seemed to take their tints from the cases of the precious instruments, and glowed with a dull beauty. The very curtains at the doors flung down a splendor of golden brown tints, that reflected the gleam of the Stradivarius above the mantel. On the floor lay rugs of Persian weaving, and the chairs of antique carving, the bronzes on the mantel, and the very pipes on the table, brown and shining as the violins, marked it the home of a collector of the curious.

Three men and one woman were in this room before the blaze in the fireplace. Margaret, unwinding a thing of fleciness from her head as she went, ran forward to greet them, or, rather, to greet the woman. "Mrs. McCook," she said softly to the lady, "I am going to kiss you on both cheeks." Then she stretched her lips forward to a venerable old man with beautiful white hair.

"And you, Uncle Leiter, are to kiss me on both cheeks." Then she swept a bow to one of the young men on the hearth, with a smile as bland as a summer evening. "But at this moment the chaps on our footing" she seemed to get in a frightful snarl. "It took both of her hands and both of her eyes to extend to them, and to do it was quite impossible that she should pay any tribute of respect to the second young man on the hearth. But he was a generous and forgiving young man, and in spite of the contumely with which Mistress Margaret treat him, he came forward to take the cloak when those rotund chaps had at last been subjected. But for all of his pains he got only the slightest nod of thanks. The elderly lady nodded to him, but he is not very well bred, considering the advantages she has had." And the young man who had taken the cloak and nodded also, but it may not have been for the same reason. The judge and his white-haired old friend saw no doubt in all, but it not the manner of persons of their age and sex; but as for the young man who had been slighted, he was radiant. He stood with his back to the fire with a sort of glad magnetism, that every one felt in one way or another, and though he sat down on the opposite side of the fire from Margaret he seemed to himself, to be not by any over one else, to be communing with her alone. He said nothing at all, however, although she would have welcomed him to be a gay, if not a reckless, talker to judge from his quizzical eyes, his dashing carriage of the head and his quick movements.

"Harry and I," said the old man, looking lovingly in the direction of this slighted, but obviously happy young man, "have talked the whole of this time, and been together in this room. Harry has been reading me his new play. I haven't laughed so much since I was a boy. Really, Barthwaite, I wish we might have it read again this evening." The company, with one accord, threw up their hands in protest.

"This looks to me like a conspiracy," cried the judge, "when I come here to dine with the oldest and dearest friend I have on earth, and I learn that I am to be a prize for my dinner! Is it a trap laid by you and Harry to catch the unwary?"

"Or perhaps," said the elderly lady, unfurling an enormous feather fan and waving it at the white-haired host, "you will kindly listen while my son William repeats his argument in the case of the State vs. McPherson. It was a brilliant thing, I assure you."

"That same brilliant effort cost me my dear Topsy, my parrot, if you please, Mrs. McCook, and I refuse to listen to it. If I had not washed my hands over and over again, you would see them dripping blood at this moment."

The judge got up to examine a Nicholas Amati that hung near him on the wall. Margaret told the story of the distracted mother who came to arraign the judge with the sentence of his law, and how she had taken revenge on the pretty innocent that Margaret fed from her own hand.

"Was she alone in the room with the parrot?" inquired the young man to whom her remarks had been reproachfully addressed.

"Of course she was," cried Margaret. "You do not suppose that papa would stand by and see my Topsy murdered, do you?"

"It was odd that she took the trouble to sheath the stiletto again. Are you sure she did it with the stiletto?"

"Well, she was handling it all the evening. I suppose the idea came into her head suddenly. She wanted to take her misery out on some one or something, and the parrot was the only thing at hand."

"Did you return to the room after the killing, and discover, Judge Barthwaite?"

"Now, William Wendel McCook," cried Margaret, with saucy shake of her head, "you are not to imagine that because you are attorney for Cook County that it is necessary for you to toil day and night at your occupation. I did not think of what was a dull one. I beg Mrs. McCook's pardon for having been so stupid as to do it. Papa looks bored. He gets tired of heavy subjects. We might better have had Mr. Leiter's play even. Please let us talk nonsense. I am in practice, as the amateur pianists say, and will willingly teach the rest of you how."

"There is no time," said the host, rising as the butler whispered to him, "for dinner is ready. Judge, you will be glad to take Mrs. McCook to the dining-room. Margaret, my sweetheart, you will come with me, and I shall insist not only upon having you take my arm, but I shall hold your finger tips all the way out.

They led the way, and the two young men straggled behind, silently.

Mrs. McCook was given the head of the table as a matter of course. Her son, the state's attorney and the judge occupied one side of the table. The host, sitting at the foot, smiled upon Margaret, whom he had placed by the side of his beloved nephew Harry. But Margaret did not address her neighbor. Instead, she lavished the most winning smiles upon him, paying an attention to his needs that would have been beautiful had it been prompted by reverence. Not infrequently she casta glance of pride across at her father. The judge was barely 50. He was by nature an analyst and a student. He had never in his life performed a duty in a perfunctory way. He had canvassed the opinions of men of all nations, permanent and religious. He had a genius, if it can so be expressed, for sympathy. His power for putting himself in the place of the man who stood before him the distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, or any other adulterant.

E. W. GILLETT, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE GREATEST CREAM TARTAR PLANT.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decay, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Price $1.00 by mail, work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee your security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without the trouble of the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1885 ..... $77,400.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1888 ..... $186,206.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance Pinnacle St.

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

FOR SALE.

A few hundred large size cedar post A Cantham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for next season. Every farmer should call at the New all steel rock frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

P S—Old Iron wanted.

W H VANTASSEL, Agt

GRAN UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Equal Sense, Economical, Economical and Perfect Baking and Heating. Every Stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Can or any other kind of Grate.

JOSTER & FOSTER

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y.

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their household furniture, and farm property; take no government land or risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having been in business for thirty years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $600,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 105,000. Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
General Agent, Belleville

W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe
J. Martin agent Shirley.

BURDOCK BILLS

A SURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ACT WELL, THOROUGH AND PROMPTLY, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY
NURSERYMEN
COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

AN XTENSIVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

—Just opened out at the—

'ONTARIO' OFFICE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE SICK HEADACHE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their great excellence has been shown in curing

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALLOW SKIN, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROWSINESS, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—Of—

U.E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest.

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL,
District Agent.

Belleville, April 18

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

THE WESTERN DOREN WEND'S GREAT GERMAN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARIN INS.,
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,
FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.
Accident Insurance Co'y of North
Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON
Late Pope and Fenwick

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper care will restore the hair to its first color and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired gentleness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5 for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorewend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you wan any his is the correct place to go. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to draw the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

Hair Goods.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS ETC

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, and of the greatest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of Prof. Loisette) Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is unquestionably in the lead. Thousands of testimonials from Men in Every Occupation, Professions and Pursuits, have given opinions in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his system by correspondence. Prof. Loisette's system is used only while being studied, not afterwards. Any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Testimonials and Particulars, address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt,
Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all those impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervous Debility and General Debility; all those and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St, East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal now is a month later than usual. Until we move we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods.

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 15 1890.

Bridge Street Methodist Church
SUNDAY, FEBY. 16TH.

Sermons at 11 a. m. and 7 p.m. by the pastor Rev. J. M. Hodson, B. A.
Morning subject—"Can God be secured to work with a church in all its plans?"
Evening subject—"If souls are eternally lost, how can we believe in God's mercy?"
Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.
Strangers welcomed to both church and Sunday school

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 606, Belleville will be attended to by
S. R. HUFFMAN,
dly Tuner.

Charged with Fraud.

Chester Yourex of Thurlow was yesterday arraigned before James McCready, J. P. for squeezing bob-lines out made under alleged false pretenses. The magistrate reserved his decision.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it. 6t DICKENS & SON, Agts.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston bluefish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, cisco etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wilsoe's candy store.

Church Notes.

Thel Rev. J. M. Hodson B. A. pastor of Bridge street church, commences tomorrow evening another series of sermons as will be seen by our advertising columns. The subject for to-morrow evening is one which is of great interest.

A Large Funeral.

The remains of Mr. James Wallace's son were laid at rest in the cemetery yesterday afternoon. The sad taking off of the little fellow touched the community and called out the warmest sympathis alike of strangers and friends to the family. The service was largely attended.

Swoodish Ladie's Concert

The guarantee list which has been opened at the office of T. C. Lazier for the purpose of securing this famous Swoedish Ladies' concert Co., is, we are pleased to learn, meeting with fair success, and we hope the effort to secure them for one night's entertainment here will prove successful.

The Lenten Season.

Canon J. W. Burke, of St. Thomas' and St. Paul's issues an earnest pastoral to his charges calling for a devoted observance of the Lenten season which opens on the 23rd inst. Special services will be held at the churches under the canon's direction. Should a sufficient number of candidates present themselves confirmation classes will be held.

He Recovered His Coat.

Jas. Whalen, who removed his bran new $22 overcoat while he mopped up the Windsor House yard with a citizen who did not agree with his theory of the weather problem, put on the other fellow's coat when he had finished his exercise and did not discover the mistake until he got the tangle out of his feet. Through the agency of the police he will be able to wear his new coat to church to-morrow.

Local Legal.

Before Justice Falconbridge in the high court at Toronto on Thursday:

HACKETT V. BATEMAN.—Argument of plaintiff's motion concluded from yesterday. Judgement reserved.

REG. V. LLOYD.—J. R. Cartwright for the Crown. Bigelow for the prisoners. Argument of Crown case resolved by Falconbridge, J., from the Belleville Spring Assizes, 1889, upon an indictment of the prisoner Herman Lloyd for rape and of the other prisoners for aiding and abetting him in the offence. The case reserved is as to the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain a conviction. Judgement reserved.

The pulpit of Bleecker St. church will be occupied to-morrow morning by J. H. Wright and in the evening by T. A. Patterson, two of Albert College theological students.

CHARTER DAY.

At Pleasant Entertainment at Albert College.

On account of the unfavorable state of the weather last evening the audience assembled in the chapel to hear the Charter-day concert programme was not so large as it otherwise would have been, however the programme was one of the best that has been rendered in the College for some time and those who could not make it convenient to attend missed a treat. Too much cannot be said in praise of the students and teachers who undertook the task of preparing for the programme. Those who contributed to the pleasure of the evening were: Misses Connor, Service, Lloyd and Robeson, in a pianoforte quartette; Mr. Fish, a solo; Miss Piocett, a pianoforte solo; Miss Chapman, reading from Dickens; Miss Spafford, recitation; songs by the Quarrette Club; a twaingling by Mr. Hanna; and a debate in favor of political union with the United States, the affirmative supported by J. H. McBain and M. P. Floyd, won by force of argument. The negative was supported by W. Robinson and M. P. Williams.

CRAZY WITH JEALOUSY.

A Man Who Would Willingly Commit Bigamy.

Halwell, who eloped with a married woman from Frase county, located in Belleville and got in gaol for threatening to shoot Wm. Banford for paying too much attention to his fair charmer, is now undergoing all the torments of a jealous mind. Since he has been locked up he has nurced the thought that Mrs. Hoose may have made up with Banford and left for other parts. Halwell seems to be hopelessly infatuated with the woman while she can bask as merrily in the favor of one man as another. Her poor victim is aware of her speculating character and there is where the fun enters his soul.

He paces his corridor and prays the jailer for God's sake to get a preacher and the second time he may marry her. He thinks the marriage tie may make her faithful to him, forgetful that bigamy will only multiply their grief and that she is a fit to be her legal husband. In the meantime Mrs. Hoose has left the city ostensibly for Point Ann. Halwell will have to remain on the hill for a stated period, fixed by law, when he may appeal to the county judge and secures his release.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

M Clopp, New York, is in town.

Mrs. J. Martin, Chicago, is at the Dominion.

R. D. Meyers, Toronto, is a guest of the Queens'.

J. E. Partras; Deseronto, is stopping at the Queens'.

J. K. Young, Cleveland, is stopping at the Kyle house.

H. W. Stroud, Montreal, is registered at the Anglo-American.

J. C. Killman, Barbadoes, is registered at the Anglo-American.

S. B. Burdett, Q. C., M. P., will return to Ottawa on Monday.

Miss Ventress, one of Trenton's belles, was in the city yesterday.

John Dalton, Deseronto, was registered at the Kyle house yesterday.

J. M. Gordon and P. Lennon, Picton, are stopping at the Dominion.

D. A. Breckon, manager of the Fisk Jubilee Singers, is at the Anglo American.

Mr. Harcourt, M. P. P., Toronto, and Mr. Bain, M. P., for South Wentworth, are the guests of S. B. Burdett, Q. C., M. P. They will return home on Monday.

Pleasant Social Gathering.

There was a large turnout of Sunday school scholars and the congregation at Bridge street school rooms last night. There was a good programme offered the evening in which Mr. J. J. B. Flint gave a reading and an interesting sketch on his travels in Europe. Miss Allie Chisholm and Mr. Young give a duet. Mrs. Dulmage a reading. Miss Ella Garratt a solo, Miss Gertie Richardson a solo, and an interesting exercise and song from eight boys from the Merchmont Home. After the interesting and instructive programme ample refreshments were served and the gathering dispersed at a seasonable hour.

Trenton Opera House.

P. J. O'Rourke is erecting a commodious and well appointed opera house at Trenton. The building is located at the east end of the bridge. H. Tamasdge manager of the Belleville opera house although not so young as he used to be, is negotiating for the lease of the Trenton house, and will undertake to run both places of amusements. He thoroughly understands his business and knows the travelling companies almost as well as he knows his prayer book. He would be able to give Trenton theatre goers many a treat that they would miss with a less well posted manager.

A Little off His Base.

On Thursday a peculiar actine fellow, who gave the name of Robert Wilson, of Toronto, applied at the police station for protection. He liked it so well that he returned yesterday afternoon and asked for a choice of planks for last night. He acted strangely and talked incoherently which led the officer in charge to believe that he was not quite balanced. During the afternoon it was discovered that he practiced vicious habits which, followed to excess, had affected his mind. When charged with it he confessed.

Ameliasburg Personals.

Mr. Jones an old and respected resident of this place was buried Friday last at Dempsey's.

Mr. Lewis Redner is sinking.

Mr. S. S. Morden is failing, his condition was wired his brothers in Adrian Michigan last night.

Mrs. Parliment mother of Mr. Calvin Parliment is low.

Seal Skin Sacques $1.00 Back !

This is a great offer. Just imagine the army of ladies that will besiege the store until the last sacque is gone—if the bargain is ever offered. But there is much more wonderful an opportunity is that presented to every suffering womanby the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This remedy if a guaranteed cure for all those distressing ailments peculiar to the weaker sex. It is guaranteed that if it does not effect a cure money will be refunded. It is carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physican, and adapted to womans delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system, and is sold under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded that.

For Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. Pierces Pellets; Purely Vegetable. One a dose.

Swimming Niagara.

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way to make it miserable. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and it never fails to thoroughly tone and strengthen the entire system at the same time.

GRAND RALLY !

SELECTING REFORM STANDARD BEARERS.

CANDIDATES FOR EAST RIDING.

S. B. Burdett, the Well-Tried, for the Dominion.

WARDEN VERMILYEA FOR TORONTO

Why Mowat should be Sustained in Power.

TELLING SPEECHES BY HARCOURT AND BAIN

Messrs Hurley, Aylsworth, Hanly Honored With Nomination.

Great Enthusiasm Throughout the Riding for the People's Popular Candidates.

One of the most enthusiastic meetings which ever rallied in Hastings county was held in the town hall at Campbellford yesterday. Although the elements declared against it, the hall was well filled with representative men of the county.

W. R. Aylsworth, reeve of Deseronto, occupied the chair until the president, J. M. Hurley, arrived. On motion of S. B. Burdett, Q. C., M. P., seconded by J. K. McCargar, the old officers of the association were re-elected as follows: J. M. Hurley, president; Dennis Hanly, J. W. Ross, auditors, and N. Vermilyea, secretary.

The president was pleased to see so representative a gathering present. He complimented Mr. Burdett, Q. C., M. P., on his good health and referred to his abilities as a representative in the house in eulogistic terms.

On motion S. B. Burdett, Q. C., the present popular member for East Hastings was unanimously chosen to again contest the riding.

Mr. Burdett when he arose to his feet was received with enthusiastic cheers. He said that as they were aware he was not desirous of again being a candidate. He assured them that it was not a bed of roses but thanked them in the heartiest terms for their cordial support. He had always endeavored to vote conscientiously and according to his convictions while in the house and he did not think his motives had ever been questioned. He spoke at some length on the question of provincial rights and stoutly maintained that the people should govern themselves and be guided by their own convictions irrespective of the power of a higher court. (Hear, hear.) He referred to the extravagance of keeping up a high commissioner in England at a salary of $10,000 On the last loan (unnecessary by the way) secured by the Canadian government of $4,000,000, no less than $194,666, was paid for commission and the small item of $48,666 for brokerage. A. P. Wood, M. P. P., was for 195 days work said to be done got $3,056.39 He hardly know what the work was but he believed that a couple of men not quarreling over the plunder in connection with the Welland canal and so they sent Wood up to plunder all of them. (Laughter.) When the speaker resumed his seat the crowd expressed the confidence he had in their representative by loud and prolonged applause.

Sidney Way then moved, seconded by W. R. Aylsworth that N. Vermilyea be the choice in East Hasting for the legislature.

On motion, W. R. Aylsworth, John C. Hanley, Read, Mr. S. Russell, Deseronto, and J. M. Hurley, of Thurlow, were also nominated for the office.

Speaking on behalf of himself Mr. Hurley declined his nomination at the same time thanking them cordially for the honor they had bestowed upon him. He did not aspire to be a candidate for the office as yet and said he would withdraw in favor of Mr. Vermilyea, whom he had every confidence in. During his term in the county council, Mr. Vermilyea had ever endeavored to promote the interests of the county and if elected to a higher legislative body, he felt that the confidence bestowed upon him by his electors would not be misplaced.

Mr. Aylsworth in declining his nomination expressed his unbounded confidence in Mr. Vermilyea. He believed that a better man could not be found to fill the office, and he would cast his influence in his behalf.

J. C. Hanley and Mr. Russell also withdrew in favor of Mr. Vermilyea Both gentlemen spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Vermilyea as an economical and conscientious officer whom they felt would be a credit to the constituency. Mr. Hanley was sorry to see that Mr. Burdett had shown a disposition to retire from the political field. The county could ill-afford to be deprived of the services of a talented a man. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Vermilyea was received with loud cheers. He expressed his thanks for his unanimous nomination. On entering the political field he felt that he was undertaking a hard battle. However if elected he would endeavor to discharge his duties faithfully and honestly. Mr. Hudson the present member had expressed it as his intention to withdraw from the field but as soon as he heard that he (Vermilyea) was a candidate he would again offer his re-election just for the pleasure of "licking" him. What had Mr. Hudson ever done for this constituency? Literally nothing. By a little unite action he was in hopes it would be a very easy matter to displace him. Mr. Vermilyea said that while he had held a position in the county council he had ever voted against the backwoods grants and reduce the taxes of the farmers. To some extent he had succeeded. Since he came the council the taxes had been reduced from $16,000 to $12,000 and the debt of the county was growing beautifully less each year. In conclusion the speaker asked his friends to throw aside all party difference and unite in one solid body for good government. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Harcourt, M. P. P. then addressed the meeting at length on the political questions of the day. He thought the large crowd present on so unfavorable a day was a criterion of the interest they took in the government of their country. He cautioned them to stand shoulder to shoulder and unite to elect their man. The Tories always stood by the old man when it came to a question of vote. No doubt Mr. Hudson believed he was marching on to political Berlin, but he hoped the people would see that he stopped at Sebastopol. (Laughter.) In referring to Mr. Burdett, the speaker said that his name was a household word throughout the country by his denunciation of iniquitous government. He reminded them of two important things that they should attend to, their registration on the lists and solid organization. They could not point to a single act of maladministration on the part of the Mowat government during their eighteen years of office. They had wisely and honestly managed the affairs of the country. He brought them not to let race prejudices interfere with the voters. The man who stirred up prejudices of this character did so only for political purposes. The tories were now coming forward and claiming that the school question now agitating the public mind was a new one although as far back as 1851 the application of a Frenchman to teach school in Essex county was granted by a tory government and long before Mr. Mowat had had anything to do with the affairs of the county. That same teacher, could not utters word of the English language but this did not deter the tories from granting him a certificate to teacher, because the constituency was thoroughly represented by conservatives. And this was the platform which the tories of Ontario were going to face the county! Mowat Ontario was the first land only man who had ever attempted to take a known edge of the English language compulsory. He passed an act dealing with this matter of his own accord without ever being guided by the advice of a single individual, Before Mr. Mowat passed this act not a newspaper in the county had ever advocated it. Meredith at London said it was desirable to get rid of separate schools. He did not say so in as many words but he left the impression that they could get rid of the them if they desired. His speech on this occasion was being circulated throughout Ontario as rapidly and widely as the mail bags could carry them. He did not think the people would be so easily lead by the nose. No intelligent man who had given the question a moment's consideration could come to the conclusion that separate schools should be abolished, The Roman Catholics should have the same privileges as those enjoyed by the protestants. Mr. Mowat's policy had always been to mete out fair and liberal legislation to all parties. Mr. Mowat had been guided by honest desires and manly principles in conducting the affairs of the province, in an economical and judicious manner. The premier of Ontario was trusted his people and gave them what they desired. He did not legislate in advance of public sentiment.

In referring to the liquor question, the speaker said that Ontario possessed the finest license laws in the world. It was so termed by foreiners who had looked into the system. Step by step the sale of strong drink was being diminished, and as people demanded legislation in this respect Mr. Mowat was extending every facility to carry it out. No less than 150 licenses were struck off last year, its placed prohibition within the touch of every constituency, and all they had to do was to demand it and they would get it.

In looking over the estimates he found that the tories as usual were finicting their old bills before the eyes of the electors. Almonte was to get $15,000 for a new post office. In the course of two years this building would be finished, or in other words used for political purposes about the time the next general election came off. The speaker said that he was born near Cayuga in Haldimand county, and in glancing over the estimates he found that this little village had also been handsomely remembered to the tune of $10,000. This was for the purpose of building a post office, although there were hundreds of other villages and towns and even cities throughout the country in and need of more efficient postal service. Cayuga probably possessed a smaller population than any county town in Ontario and there was little if any business transacted there. But of course something must be done for Montague's political heelers.

Last year the Mowat government had spent $726,200.61 for public institutions. Although he regretted to say that lunatic asylums were a necessity, he gloried in the fact that Ontario to-day possessed five grand institutions of this kind where the demented could receive proper care and treatment. On agriculture there had been expended $138,787, on colonization roads $109,666 and for educational purposes $598,000. The expenditure of money by Mr. Mowat simply meant the money being paid back to the people. As would be seen he had spent in this manner over a million dollars and in the face of this to-day Mr. Mowat had a surplus of over $13,600,000, Mr. Mowat was ardent for reform and anxious to give timely legislation. One plank in his platform was advocacy of free trade relations with the United States. In reply to the cry of hard times, the speaker said a few days ago the farmers should live more economically. Was this not heaping insult upon insult after Sir John Macdonald had drained the honest life of the soil of his last dollar by system of high taxation and refusing to throw down the tariff barrier which was rapidly depleting the purses of the farmers? It was the same old bait that the tories were getting, bitted. If a liberal advocated abolition of trade restrictions he was called an annexationist. They say that they are endeavoring to lessen the ties of loyalty to Great Britain. These objections had neither meaning nor logic in them. (Cheers). In Ontario the fight had been fought over and over again yet Mr. Mowat held his post. No blot or spot rested on his fair name. Through his long life no stain had ever clouded his scutcheon. The people should be proud to follow so gifted and capable a leader and one who would not stoop to the low devices that the Conservatives in the Dominion House had characterized their regime. In electing Mr. Vermilyea the people would be showing the confidence in which they held the premier of Ontario and supporting an honest and up-right government. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Bain, M. P., of South Wentworth, was loudly applauded as he leisurely assumed his position on the platform. Mr. Bain is a practical farmer and is thoroughly conversant with the wants of the class of the community. He said the Hamilton Spectator has thundered its influence against Mr. Meredith, the conservative leader in Ontario, and that the Spectator was the leader at all. After Meredith had delivered his great speech—(laughter)—at London and advocated the abolition of separate schools the editor of that paper had blockaded the backwoodsmen which he had fired at his leader and said Mr. Meredith was a great man. That he was fully capable of leading the great Conservative party on to to certain victory. (Laughter). If his hearers had not as yet received a copy of that wonderful speech they would certainly be encouraged to encourage trade with the United States, Canada's natural market. There were sixty millions of people anxious and willing to buy all the produce which Canada could spare. He was not opposed to Mr. Burdett would represent their constituency at Ottawa another term. (Cheers) He had been no laggard in the house, and the tories had more than once smarted under his severe criticism of mismanagement. The speaker was also pleased to see the hearty and united manner in which they endorsed the candidature of Mr. Vermilyea for the local house. He would make a good candidate. When the speaker resumed his seat he was enthusiastically cheered, after which Mr. Burdett moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Harcourt and Mr. Bain for their eloquent addresses. Three cheers for the Queen, Mr. Vermilyea, Mr. Burdett and the speaker were then given and were also given amid great enthusiasm when the meeting adjourned at six o'clock.

TOWN TALK.

City council Monday night.

The snow is rapidly disappearing.

Roads in the country are still good.

The executive committee will meet tonight.

PROBS.—West to north winds, fair weather, lower temperature.

Alex. Bushlow was fined $2 at the police court today for drunkenness.

The street surveyor has a gang of men employed distributing the snow banks to the centre of the streets.

The river is only frozen over in a few places. If the present weather continues there will be no freshet this year.

The city mission will hold its anniversary meeting on Thursday 20th inst. There has been a considerable growth this year.

The committee of the Grand Trunk Railway Library beg to thank H. Corby, M. P., for Parliamentary papers received from time to time.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

LOOK OUT FOR HIM.

A Young Man that did up Many Hamilton Merchants.

HAMILTON, Feb. 15.—A. S. Potts is the name of a young man who for a few months was employed in one of the city papers as a reporter. He came from Toronto and during his brief stay of six months he succeeded in doing up quite a large number of citizens. Now he can't be seen on the streets the people when he victimized are anxiously enquiring his whereabouts. Tailors, drygoods men, butchers, grocers and different other individuals mourn his departure. He has let them in for at least $900. He is in Ottawa at present and has begun to operate in the same way as he did in Hamilton. One senator at least mourns the day he touched him for $40. Potts is about 21 years of age, wears glasses and is always well dressed.

THE ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

The Budget Debate Lags—Mr. Clancy Has the Floor.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—In the session of the Ontario Assembly yesterday was quite short, a number of members having left the city in order to spend Saturday and Sunday at their country residence. The debate on the Treasurer's budget speech was to have been continued but Mr. Clancy, who was to have resumed, moved the adjournment of the debate.

THE DAILY SMASH.

This Time on the Michigan Central—Two Freight Trains Wrecked.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 14.—A collision occurred on the Michigan Central railway last night between two freight trains midway between Dufferin and Cayuga stations. A number of cars and both engines were totally wrecked. The train crews escaped and saved their lives. The cars were loaded with general merchandise, which is more or less dead loss. The road is blockaded and passenger trains are being sent around by the Grand Trunk Railway. The cause of the accident is said to be misunderstanding of orders.

HANZIA KILLS A PUG.

Fatal Result of a Sparring Contest in Texas.

DALLAS, TEX., Feb. 14.—Kilrain and his sparring troupe exhibited at the Opera House last night. After some uneventful sparring Tom James of Dallas encountered Banzia, the combination champion light weight, for $25. The conditions were that James should stay four rounds. Banzia had it all his own way from the first. In the fourth round Banzia struck James in the neck, knocking him limp on the stage. James was unable to rise. He was sponged and restoratives were applied. The show continued, no one supposing James was hurt seriously. When the entertainment had concluded Muldoon announced that James was unconscious and called for a physician. Banzia had fled. James died at 11 o'clock this morning. The entire combination are held for murder. Banzia returned and surrendered this morning.

The Winnipeg Bonspiel.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 14.—In the Royal Caledonian tankard competition at the bonspiel to-day, Manitoba beat all comers by 34 points. The following is the score:

Brown, Winnipeg	25	Chalmers, St. Paul	8
Fraser, Winnipeg	22	Brydon, Milwaukee	15
Marshall, Winnipeg	18	Richardson, St. Paul	13
Clarke, Winnipeg	15	Flavelle, Lindsay	30
Thompson, Portage	14	Thompson, St. Paul	17
Sharp, Prince Albert	22	Middlemiss, Milwaukee	11

The fifth draw in the grand challenge competition resulted as follows:

Wilson, Winnipeg vs. Erb, Winnipeg.
Sparling, Portage vs. Flavelle, Lindsay.
Hartstone, Winnipeg, byes.

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD.

The Kaiser Presents His Scheme to the Council of State.

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—The Staatsrath, or Council of State, met to-day. The Kaiser was present in person, and in opening the proceedings called the attention of the Council to the labor question. He suggested the advisability of a modification of the protection of workmen from the "sweating" process and for the limitation of hours of labor for women and children.

Parnell's Amendment.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Parnell moved an amendment to the address calling the attention of Her Majesty to the vexatious and trivial character of Mr. Balfour's methods of enforcing the Coercion Act.

Australian Federation.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 14.—The Colonial conference has unanimously adopted a motion in favor of colonial federation.

The conference passed a vote empowering the Premier of Victoria to convene the conference again in 1891 and then adjourned.

Canadian Elopers Punished.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 14.—A fine appearing man about 35 years of age with a wife of about 18 set up house-keeping in one of the residence sections of the East End several months ago. The man gave the name of Robert Kilby and his occupation seemed to be that of a commercial traveler. The pair got along swimingly until a week ago when Mrs. Kilby left her home in childish anger and from Port Hope, Canada, and had them arrested. They were tried in the Police Court yesterday, found guilty and sentenced to a fine of $200 each and three months in the workhouse, equivalent to a year's imprisonment if they cannot pay the fines. Wife No. 2, a Miss Walls, who had tried in every way to shield Kilby, was overwhelmed when at the sentence and indulged in shrieks and finally fell into a dead swoon on the floor.

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

AT

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS !

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,
FANCY FLANNEL,
AND
CEYLON FLANNEL !

Newest Designs !

Elegant Patterns !

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE !

A E FISH & CO

The Noted Shirt Makers and Gents' Furnishers, Laundry Office.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, Feb. 14.—Eugene B. Hemingway, a banker from Point Pelee, Point, N. Y., absconded early last month with several thousand dollars belonging to his fellow-villagers. Coming here he deposited $700 in the Bank of Hamilton, which has been attached by two of the victims in garnishment proceedings. Hemingway is missing.

A Wilson found a purse on Jamieson street last evening containing $613, and found the owner this morning.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Business failures during last seven days, as reported by telegraph to Dunn, Wimam & Co., number for the United States 240 and for Canada 62, or a total of 302, as compared with a total of 332 last week and 291 the week previous. For the corresponding week last year the figures were 238.

BANKRUPT SALE

OF

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

Headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

FOR
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
TRY
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—let the chips fall where they will

20TH YEAR — BELLEVILLE, ONT: MONDAY FEBRUARY 17, 1890 — NO 40

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILY FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade.
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackerlls, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coco nut SugarWafers
Lemon Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have arrangements perfected for the ending Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES & C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
ales, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling, Phillip's Best Milwaukee Lager, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 13 8wdw

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,275.58
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Bell's

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received up to the 22nd February, 1890 for the building of a school house in section 17 Tyendinaga. The plans can be seen at Mr. Ferris's office and in the section at Mr. Lally's. The lowest or any tender not necessarily received.
JOHN TODD
Trustee, Bleesing's.
Feb. 11th 1890. 4t. w2

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Addr ss MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner Joan and Hotel St.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. A. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th, Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salary and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester N. Y. Mention this Paper

SALESMEN WANTED.
Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.
REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.
CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY
NURSERYMEN,
COLBORNE ONTARIO.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information and a circular, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

BUY SUGAR NOW
They are at the lowest point and the quality is excellent. We hold an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.
"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocer and Baker, Bridge St rest, Belleville. Telephone 152.

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W-W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

M. C. ROBLIN.
—ISSUER OF—
MARRIAGE LICENSES
agent for the Lancashire Insurance
Front St opp Ang o-American.

SCOTT'S EMULSION
DOES CURE CONSUMPTION
in its First Stages.
Palatable as Milk.
Be sure you get the genuine in Salmon color wrapper; sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

LOST.

A WHITE ROBE on Wednesday night, in Belleville. The finder will please leave it at this office. 2d

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to
ADAM HENRY,
Front Street.

A GOOD Pleasure or Delivery Sleigh for sale very cheap. Also a good Dominion Organ. F. M. VANBLARICOM.
4td Moira St. West.

Belleville Amateur Minstrels

Members of above Company are particularly requested to attend a meeting in Harrison's Hall, THURSDAY EVENING, Feb'y 20th, at 8 o'clock, to discuss an invitation from Trenton.
C. A. BERNARD,
2td Manager.

North British Mercantile Insurance :—

Many thanks for the quick returns of loss on my building which occurred on the 7th, being $675.50 WM. SMEATON, Agt.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.

POSTPONED

The above meeting is hereby postponed until Monday the 24th Feb.

JAIL SUPPLIES.

SEALED Tenders, marked 'Tender' may be addressed to Dr. J. T. Bell, Belleville up to 1st March next, for supplying the county jail with

Bread and Meat

during one year beginning on first day of April 1890.
Tenders may be for one or both articles, but each article furnished shall be subject to the inspection and acceptance or rejection of the gaoler
Wm. R. Aylsworth,
15th Feby, 1890. Chairman Com. 3t

NOTICE TO CREDITORS,

In the Goods of Charles Munchester Deceased.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 110, sec. 36, that all persons having claims upon or against the estate of Charles Muncaster late of the city of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, deceased, who died on or about the 11th day of December 1889, are, on or before the 1st Day of March 1890,
to send by post prepaid, or to deliver to Messrs. Sherry & Macaulay barristers, Bridge street, Belleville, solicitors for A. W. Muncaster, the executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, a statement in writing of their names and addresses and full particulars of their claims and the nature of all securities if any held by them.
And notice is hereby further given, that after the said last mentioned date the said executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notices shall have been given as above required. And the said executor will not be responsible for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose claim notice shall not have not been received at the time of such distribution.
Dated at Belleville, the 27th day of January A.D, 1890.
SHERRY & MACAULAY,
Solicitors for the above named executor.
R. W. MUNCASTER, 4td

Loss of Manhood
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or the great Medical Work of the Nineteenth Century. Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 125 prescription, 25c. in stamps for 4 cts. postage. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

FLOGGED TO DEATH.

MADAME SIGIDA A VCTIM OF THE RUSSIAN KNOUT.

Atrocities in Siberia—The Crowning Horror of an Inhuman System—A Cultured and Sensitive Woman Fatally Lashed at the Kara Prison.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The London agent of the Associated Press to-day questioned Sergius Stepniak, the well-known writer on Russian political and social conditions, regarding the recent outrages in the political prison at Kara in Eastern Siberia. Mr. Stepniak said the reports already published gave only a hint of the horrible tragedy. Trustworthy information had been received in cipher letters that got through to Paris and London from exiles in Siberia. These letters, which are meager scraps of paper, tell the story of the horror only in its main outlines. But one who knows about Siberian prison life does not need a circumstantial recital to understand the cruelty of discipline and the agony of suffering of which this terror was the culmination. Full details of the dreadful story cannot be long now in reaching the western world. Coming so soon after the publicity given to the Yakutak atrocity, Mr. Stepniak believes it can scarcely fail to deepen the sense of horror already felt by the civilized world at Russia's treatment of political offenders. The facts so far received are as follows:

Mme. Sigida did not commit suicide as the earliest reports stated. She died from the effects of a cruel flogging. The flogging took place Wednesday, Nov. 6. It was continued till the victim lost consciousness. She never revived from the shock, but grew weaker until Friday, when she died. The news of her murder produced widespread dismay and anguish among her fellow-prisoners, and three of them, unable longer to bear their wretched fate, committed suicide by taking poison. How they obtained the poison is not known, but probably they had long had it in their possession and were keeping it as a last resort. The names of the women were Maria Kaluzhnaya, Marya Pavlovna Karalefskaya and Nadezhda Smirnitskaya.

Marie Kaluzhnaya was arrested in 1884, when 18 years old, on a charge of disloyalty. Her father was a merchant at Odessa. Every means was tried in vain to extort from her a confession implicating her friends. At last Col. Katanaki brought her a forged statement purporting to be the confession of her fellow-conspirators and promising immunity if she also confessed. Marie fell into the trap, confessed and her confession was used against her friends, who were sentenced to penal servitude. When she learned that they had been convicted on her testimony alone Marie went upon Katanaki and fired a pistol at him wounding him slightly in one ear. For this she was sentenced by court martial to 10 years' penal servitude.

Marya Pavlovna Karalefskaya was a married lady 35 years old, daughter of a well-known landed proprietor in South Russia. Paul Vorontsof, uncle and sister of Basil Vorontsof, one of the best known political economists in Russia. She joined a secret circle which was captured by the police in 1879 and was sentenced to 13 years penal servitude with exile to Siberia for life and deprivation of civil rights. Her husband, though not present, was sent by administrative process a thousand miles from the mines to which she was sent. The separation drove her insane. In 1881 she was allowed to join her husband in hope of restoring her reason. She recovered, but a new governor separated them again and she was returned to the Kara mines.

Nadezhda Smirnitskaya was 33 years old and a student in a woman's college. She was sentenced to the Kara mines for 15 years with penal servitude.

Shortly after the suicide of the three women a brother of Maria Kaluzhnaya, a political prisoner, died suddenly. It is not definitely known whether he died by poison or whether his death resulted from grief at the death of his sister.

Another exile named Bobokov committed suicide rather than submit to a flogging. He was a university student and took part in a demonstration which displeased the authorities. He attempted to escape from his prison, and for this was exiled to the mines of Eastern Siberia.

Mme. Sigida was flogged under the orders of Lt.-Gen. Baron Korff, the Governor-General of the province of the Amour. The orders directed that the secret edict of March, 1888, signed by Galkin Vraskoy, director-general of prisons for the Empire, should be unflinchingly enforced. This edict required that political convicts should be treated by prison officials in the same manner as criminals condemned for common law offences. Political offenders were thus made liable to flogging for breaches of prison discipline. In what way Mme. Sigida transgressed the prison rules is not made plain. But flogging a sensitive and cultured woman to death for any breach of prison discipline Mr. Stepniak thought would impress the western world with profound horror.

The political prisoners at Kara, Mr. Stepniak said, had learned that the political exiles imprisoned at Sagalien had been cruelly flogged. They were constantly in dread of torture similar to that inflicted upon Mme. Sigida.

Mr. Stepniak was asked whether he thought the Czar, now that the horrors at Kara had been made public, would interfere to mitigate the severity of prison discipline in the case of political convicts. He replied that it was not unlikely that the publication of the facts would force the superior officials in Russia to take some notice of the affair. But he said the flogging and the other brutalities were entirely due to the direct orders of the Central Government at St. Petersburg, namely the edict of March, 1888. The Ministry of the Interior was directly responsible for the renewal of corporal punishment of political prisoners, which notices had been suspended in 1887 after Trepoff ordered Bogolubof to be flogged.

Another C.P.R. Smash.

ARSPRION, Feb. 15.—A collision occurred on the Canadian Pacific Railway at this place last night. The way freight going west collided with a through freight going east. The train going east was backing into a siding and had not passed the switch whenthe west-bound train under full speed was unable to stop at the semaphore owing to the slippery state of the rails. Both engines were badly wrecked and considerable damage was done to the cars and freight. The track was promptly cleared. No one injured.

East Hastings Reform Convention.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 15.—The East Hastings Reform convention at Canifton named Mr. R. B. Burdett, M.P., for the Commons and Mr. N. Vermilyea, warden of the county, for the Assembly.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I go no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it.

PREMIER MERCIER ACTS.

The Right of Free Speech to be Protected in Hull.

QUEBEC, Feb. 15.—The cabinet ministers had a private sitting this morning on the late riots in Hull. It was decided to take immediate action in the direction of vindication of law and order and the protection of the free speech of Miss Wright and the other evangelists. The Premier decided to give present details of the action they were going to take in the matter. Orders were issued to have the provincial force in readiness to proceed to Hull at once. Three provincial detectives in plain clothes were despatched to Hull and several important arrests may be looked for Monday. The leaders of the riots are said to be foremen in the lumber mills.

Discountenanced by the Church.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16.—A pastoral letter from Archbishop Duhamel was read in all the Catholic churches here to-day, as well as in the Catholic Church at Hull. His Grace expressed regret for the recent outrage at Hull and said that such outrages cannot be countenanced by the Catholic Church in Canada. The pastoral also enjoins the faithful to use their influence to prevent a recurrence of the troubles on Tuesday night when Miss Wright visits Hull.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Prince Victor Napoleon Says There Is a Great Deal.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 15.—Prince Victor Napoleon was seen today and consented to say a few words touching the recent and convention of the Duc d'Orleans. "When one does such an act," Prince Victor said, "he must have 50,000 bayonets and 1,000,000 electors at his back. The misfortune of the Duke is that he has not even a corporal and five men behind him and not 25,000 electors to give him their ballot or moral support. I do not see any possible advantage in such an attempt as he made nor even in a well-planned conscription comedy for the descendant of Henri Quatre. What glory is there in the memory of Henri—that glory can be compared with that which forever will attach to the name of the first Napoleon? The day I come or send and ask me any indirect right the support of the people, I know I can depend upon the working class, the true soldiers and rural populace of my beloved France. A Napoleon can afford to wait."

BLOODSHED THREATENED.

Excitement Over the Woman's Crusade at Lathrop, Mo.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—A Lathrop, Mo., special says: The woman's crusade is still the absorbing topic. Nearly fifty of the best women in town are liable to be called before the grand jury to answer to a charge of trespass. Their social rank will not save them as the next grand jury will be drawn by officials who are terribly incensed at the recent outbreak and the law will be invoked in aid of injured parties regardless of morals or equity, but it is feared that this will not end the matter. "There will be bloodshed here yet," remarked one gentleman. "Just as soon as Prosecuting Attorney Cross issues the warrants the fun will commence and any attempt to place one of these people under arrest will be met with a resistance that will terminate in a riot. There are a large number of men connected with the temperance people who will stand by any man who attempts to serve a warrant on their wives or daughters and who have already made threats to that effect."

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, Feb. 16.—An attempt was made early yesterday morning to break into the Traders' Bank, corner of Hughson and King-street. A hole was bored near the lock in the door, but the burglars were evidently scared away before effecting an entrance.

In the wardership contest Saturday Judge Muir held that the election was void.

It is said that the Grand Trunk Railway is trying to secure control of the Niagara Central.

Attempted Train Wrecking.

WINDSOR, Feb. 16.—Two dastardly attempts were made, one Friday night and the other yesterday morning, to wreck express trains on the L.E.,E.&D.R. Railway. Just as the evening express was passing the cattle barn the engineer saw two ties on the track some distance ahead. He stopped the train and it was found that the ties had been fastened on the frogs, making it a sure job of train wrecking had the engineer not seen it. Yesterday morning the morning express had the same experience in the same place and the job was done exactly like the previous one. Three men were seen by a conductor of the train men standing in a field close by, but as soon as they saw the train slacking up they ran away. Before Officer Griffith was notified of the affair he saw three men who tally exactly with the description of the men seen in the field going through Walkerville to Windsor. A reward is offered for the scoundrels' apprehension.

Gotham's Sunday Tragedy.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Isaac Jacobs, a peddler of candies and jewelry, lured Expressman Herman Rogeulauf from his home into a tenement on the East side and shot him dead. He then entered the house of the murdered man and seriously wounded the latter's wife, who had been pursued by a son of the murdered man shot himself. Jacob had several wives living and because a niece of Rogeulauf refused him took revenge on the entire family.

A Novel Boycott.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—A new if somewhat utopian method of assisting their cause has been devised by the German socialists. It is nothing less than the provision of a fund to assist them in the matter of tips, it being proposed that none be given to waiters in saloons and hotels who will not vote the socialist ticket.

Spreckles to Build Another Refinery.

PLAINFIELD, N.J., Feb. 15.—Claus Spreckles, the sugar refiner, it is said has decided to build another refinery at Boundbrook. The refinery will be put in operation as soon as possible and will employ 500 hands.

Two Men Killed in This Collision.

STAUNTON, Va., Feb. 15.—A yard engine and a hacnder collided this evening near here, killing Edward Slater and Thomas Kidd and seriously injuring Thomas Williams, Peter Tyler, Taylor Johnson, Thomas Bragg and two others.

Red Men Have La Grippe.

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 16.—Appalling reports have been received here to-day of the mortality among the Indians in the country east and south of Oklahoma from influenza.

The Flower City's Treasurer Short.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 15.—There is a deficiency in City Treasurer Burtis' funds of about $61,000, since 1887 according to an investigation now being made.

Candid Truth.
US Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup an throat; it never

THE CUSTOMS CHANGES.

PROBABLE FEATURES OF THE GOVERNMENT'S MEASURE.

Ontario Millers Likely to Have Their Prayers Granted—The Duty on Pork and Dead Beef to be Increased—New Industries to be Encouraged.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16.—It seems to be the general impression that the changes made in the coming tariff measure will be the most important for many years and that a great many of the demands of the deputations who have annually visited Ottawa will be acceded to. That there will be an increase in the duty drawback is almost a certainty and the Opposition which the Maritime Provinces have always manifested to such a measure is likely to be quieted by a removal of the duty on corn. This change with respect to corn is said to have been the cause of many Conservatives, who voted against Mr. Laurier's motion for abolition of the corn duty drawback to distillers, taking the stand they did. If the duty goes the drawback dispute disappears also, and pending the Government's intended action those Conservatives who disapproved of the drawback thought it well not to prematurely force the Government's hand.

There is pretty sure to be a change in the duty on beef will be raised and the same is also likely to be done with the pork duty, though the lumber interest has made strong objection to this. But as the lumber industry does not appear to be in need of any coddling and a little more protection would work a wonderful increase in the production of pork in Ontario and elsewhere throughout Canada, the lumbermen's opposition is likely to be overruled.

In the matter of beef a powerful argument in favor of increase in duty has been the recent large extensions of trade from Chicago, shipments of meat by the quarter now directly competing with the offerings of farmers on the markets in all our principal cities. The senators and members of Parliament have been largely fed this session on imported beef.

Having made such concessions as the above in the interests of farmers, the Government will all the more easily carry the propositions they will submit with respect to increase in duty on manufactured articles of various descriptions. Just what lines will be included has not yet been determined upon, but it is understood that while they are about it the Government will not be half-hearted but will give liberal protection wherever it is apt to be productive of good results in the way of new manufacturing industries in Canada or development of old concerns.

The labor deputation who have been in Ottawa to interview the Government with respect to all proposed legislation having a direct or indirect bearing on labor interests are incensed at Mr. Lepine, M.P., the special Labor representative sent to Parliament from Montreal East, because that gentleman was not on hand to accompany them before the ministers. They did not lack escort, however, for Mr. Alex. McKay kindly took them in hand and saw them safely through their business. Mr. Lepine knew the deputation were coming but is said to have had urgent business in Montreal.

Peter Maclaren, Perth's millionaire lumberman, has, as anticipated, been called to the Senate in place of the late Senator Turner of Hamilton.

It is said that as an offset to the complaint made in the Commons the other day of bad manners on the part of a Senate official towards an individual member of Parliament, senators are disposed to hold a secret session to consider formal resentment of the insult offered to the whole Upper House by several Commoners on Friday night when stationary appropriations for the Senate were under consideration in Committee of Supply.

It seems that while Parliament last year voted $5338 for stationary for the 78 senators and officials of that chamber, the expenditure was $13,412. Here are some of the items as read to the House: 99 thermometers, 12 tourist cases ($127.25), writing cases, Speaker Allan's gown ($100.50), 432 gold pencils, 372 pocket knives, 6 brief bags, 4356 penholders, 312 pairs scissors, 720 pieces ribbon ($38), 138 baskets and 8 razor strops.

Mr. McMullen sarcastically remarked that they would next be charging for razors and barbers to ply them, and he said the senators must be fairly loaded down with stuff every time they left the capitol. He said it was a disgrace that they should thus carry away the property of the people.

Mr. Fisher said it might be the officials, not the senators, who did the boodling, and Mr. Foster finally had to let the item stand until it can be shown what became of all the stuff.

Those who have won places on the Wimbledon team for this year have been notified that they must signify their acceptance on or before March 10, as after that date those next in order will be called on to fill unaccepted places in the twenty. It has been reported that a Nova Scotian who is in the first twenty was not at the time of shooting an efficient member of the active militia, although certified as such, and if this is proved to be the case his prospects of a nice trip will disappear.

The Sultan's Body Guard.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Colonel Charles Grantley, a noted commander of Turkish gendarmes, now in London, is said to be secretly enlisting recruits for the Sultan's body guard. He prefers sons of gentlemen who are hard up, of whom he will form a splendid corps, like the celebrated Scotch Archer Guard described in "Quentin Durward" as the trusted attendants of Louis XV. or the Swiss guards at the Vatican of the Pope. The recruits must be six feet in stature and able bodied, and if Americans must pledge their words of honor to die for the Sultan if necessary and to let the ladies of the harem alone. The corps will have the most gorgeous arms and uniform with the title of "Effendi" Noble and a $1000 a year pay. A similar corps is being formed for Ferdinand of Bulgaria since the Panitza discovery.

Webster on the Verdict.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Sir Richard Webster speaking at Oxford to-day said that except the personal charges against Mr. Parnell, which he rejoiced had been disproved, in substance every important charge brought against the Parnell party had been proven.

Killed by a Snowfall at Quebec.

QUEBEC, Feb. 15.—A child of Mr. Douglas Wilson was killed by a fall of snow and ice from the top of a house while the child was playing in a sleigh below.

A Blizzard in York State.

CANAJOHARIE, N.Y., Feb. 15.—A blizzard struck the Mohawk Valley this afternoon and to-night it is snowing hard.

No Be Deceive.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

THE VARSITY FIRE.

How the Insurance was Divided—Lectures Not Interrupted.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—The insurance held by the Government on the university was $160,000, divided equally among these 12 companies: Ætna, Citizens, City Mutual, Fire Insurance Exchange, Hand-in-Hand, Hartford, County of Perth Mutual, Quebec, Queen City, Royal Canadian, Western. It was distributed as follows: Buildings $90,000, library $20,000, contents of museum $8000, apparatus and chemicals $20,000, furniture and utensils $4000. There was a large meeting of the faculty Saturday, presided over by Sir Daniel Wilson and arrangements made for continuing the lectures to-day. There will be a meeting of the board to-day, of the senate to-morrow and of convocation as soon as it can be called.

THE 8-HOUR MOVEMENT.

Demonstrations Planned for May 1—Labor Burns Not Hopeful.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—It is proposed to have a huge labor demonstration in this city and at the same time agitate similar meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Paris, Berlin and Vienna, to begin on May 1. The object of these demonstrations is to force an absolute observance of the eight-hour demand. There is much hope and belief expressed outside of working the success of the movement in America and Paris, but as regards London, the foremost radicals think it will be a failure, inasmuch as the demonstration would put a stop to all labor and business for at least thirteen hours throughout the entire kingdom.

John Burns has received a cable from the American Federation of Labor International Labor Association that all will be ready in time for the workingmen's national holiday as arranged last July at the Paris labor conference. Notwithstanding this Burns admits that his organization is progressing very slowly and meets the greatest opposition from the English authorities and even from many of its own supporters.

Labor Struggles in England.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—During the past few days the trades-union interest has met with several reverses. The dock laborers at Dundee have acted on a reduce of wages, but elsewhere the struggle between capital and labor has gone distinctly on the side of the masters. The combination of wharf-owners and dock companies has made this effort of the workmen's union to exclude all non-society men from employment. The fact is, there is such a large surplus of "blacking" labor in London that unions composed of unskilled workmen cannot cope with it. Many of the men who lost their desks in the gas works under the orders of the union were among the competitors for employment at the wharfs where last week's struggle occurred. These workers not only have learned from bitter experience to distrust the union, but virtually assisted the employers to defeat it. The promoters of the great dock strike last autumn are becoming sobered, and the edict has gone forth that the labor of the Port of London are not to be further disturbed for the present. Meanwhile another great trouble is clearly is looming in the distance. For months past the colliers have been forcing an increase of their wages and pressing their demand for eight hours labor. The pit men have now combining to resist both these demands, and a slight fall in the price of coal comes opportunely to their assistance. The latest aspects of this struggle in the coal fields is unfavorable to the men.

To be Left to the Public's Decision.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A cabinet council occupied four hours yesterday in discussing what reply to make to Mr. Parnell on Monday. Parnell has asked what course the Government intended to take. The meeting was not stormy but was hopelessly divergent in opinion. Hon. W. H. Smith's suggestion that Parnell be informed that the Government would leave the judges' verdict to the ratification of public opinion was finally adopted.

Plunger Benson's Convict Life.

NICE, Feb. 15.—The sentence of "Plunger" Benson condemning him to three months' imprisonment and to pay the cost of the court carries with it the obligation to perform manual labor in the way of cleaning his cell, keeping the prison in order and washing the prison clothes he wears. He is also liable to be drafted into the chain gang to mend the public highways, but powerful pecuniary interest will probably preserve him from this last indignity.

A New Engine of Destruction.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Government has secured the patent for a new artillery weapon. It is claimed that guns constructed on this principle are superior to any in present use in Europe, have an effective range of 6000 yards and firing three times more rapidly than the Armstrong gun. The inventors are two officers of the American navy, Lieutenant Driggs and Schroeder. The trials have been eminently satisfactory.

Millions Left Behind.

MADRID, Feb. 15.—The fortune of the Duke de Montpensier, amounting to $5,000,000, is to be divided between his wife, his son Antonio and the Countess de Paris. The Duchess intends to retirk to a convent and leave her splendid heritage to her children. Antonio and Isabella. It is believed that the third share was left to the Countess de Paris with secret injunctions to devote it to regaining monarchy in France, of which she is the first step is the escapade of the Duc d'Orleans.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

All Denver's saloons were closed Sunday.

The German Emperor in a special order sincerely condemns the ill-usage of soldiers on the part of officers.

The steamboat Louise of the Jacksonville and Mayport line ran into an obstruction supposed to be a sunken lighter and was sunk in less than three minutes. One man was drowned.

Sir Robert Kane, M.D., is dead. He was formerly president of the Queen's College of Cork and a member of the Senate of the Royal University of Ireland.

Honolulu advices state that a general election was held on the different islands of the Hawaiian group Feb. 5. Returns indicate that the present party in power is defeated. A majority of the National Reform party has been elected.

The Parnellites propose to press the Government for the payment of the expenses attending their defence before the commission on the ground that the report of the commission acquitted the accused.

Sir George Campbell, a Liberal, has given notice that he will introduce in Parliament an amendment to the address praying that Her Majesty endeavor to arrange a settlement of the Newfoundland fisheries and other questions of dispute by judicial arbitration.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 14 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by special carriers to all parts of the City for 25 cents a quarter, or $1 per annum. Price Cents a month—10c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and mailed, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for $1 per annum.

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Nile notice of funeral attached this charge for death notices.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EAST HASTINGS.

The Reform Convention at Canifton on Friday last, resulting in the nomination of Mr. S. B. Burdett, Q. C., M. P., for the Commons and Mr. N. Vermilyea, Esq., Warden of the county for the Local House was most enthusiastic and hearty. In the gentlemen named the Reformers of East Hastings have two standard bearers who are sure of victory. They are capable men, possessed of broad mental grasp and superior debating qualities. Mr. Hudson has done absolutely nothing for his county and his career in the house has in a marked degree exhibited his utter uselessness to the province. Mr. Vermilyea has eclipsed all his associates in county council in the management of the county's affairs and will carry the same ability to Toronto to the profit of the county. He is popular with the ministry and as his victory is assurred he will be a formidable ally of the government.

Mr. Burdett has made himself felt at Ottawa, the opposition acknowledge his value and he has been able, through his popularity with the government, to secure much that has been of benefit to his constituents. The electors of the riding are well satisfied with his record and will give him a new lease of office when the time comes.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The newspaper press of the present generation knocks the fabled phoenix all out of time. The daily Democrat of Hollyoke was attached on the 23rd January, on a suit growing out of articles published in regard to an alleged poisoning case. On the 12th the Herald was published outside of the attached office.

The burning of Toronto University affects the whole Dominion. Her graduates scattered all over the continent, will hear of the loss with as keen feelings of regret as in the loss of a home. The grand old pile, the pride of the province, was opened to the public in 1859 at a cost of $400,000 but it cannot be rebuilt at less than $700,000 or $1,000,000 but the work of restoration will be undertaken at once. When it is known that the building has been lighted with coal oil lamps, which caused the blaze, the wonder is that it escaped disaster for so long a time.

Thurlow Council.

TOWN HALL, CANIFTON, Jan. 20th, 1890. The following named gentlemen constitute the Municipal board for the township of Thurlow for the year 1890.

N. Vermilyea, reeve; Jeremiah Hurley, 1st deputy reeve; D. W. Falkner, 2nd deputy reeve, John R. McCarter, 3rd deputy reeve and Willis W. Roblin, councillor.

The members were all present and severally made and subscribed to the declarations of office and qualifications.

After organization the minutes of last meeting were read and approved. On motion the following accounts were placed on the pay list for payment.

Intelligencer Printing Company, blanks and advertising $16.15 and municipal election expenditures, $110.65.

The township treasurer handed in his statement of receipts and expenditures for the year ending 31st December 1889.

The Council went into committee on by-laws when the following appointments were duly made:—E. P. Brintnell and John W Hicks, assessors, under by-law No. 328. Allen Mabee and Robert G. Stewart auditors under by-law No. 329. N. Vermilyea, chairman; D. W. Faulkner, medical health officer, A. Latta, secretary. Francis Brenton and G. S. Johnson, members of a local board of health under by-law No. 330. Said by-laws after receiving their third readings were signed, sealed, numbered and filed.

Council adjourned to meet the third Monday in March.—A. LATTA, Clerk.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh.

Mr. EDITOR:—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow me to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza, as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dulloppressive headache accompanying the disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as it is the head and catarrh have peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing

FULFORD CO.,
Brockville, Ont.

Bloomfield Items.

A strange winter this, as the waggon is in greater demand than the sleigh.—A very heavy rain storm Friday, swelling the mill streams to overflowing. La grippe has visited this vicinity thoroughly. Mr. Rob. Gibson is lying at the point of death from its effects.—Mr. Charles Bowerman, who had the misfortune to lose his left arm while feeding a clover mill, is progressing physically, exhibiting his usual degree of cheerfulness.—Warden Faleigh is spending a few days in the Queen city.—T. H. Morgan has gone to New York state with a car load of horses.

A country editor closes his financial review with the remark, "Money is close, but not quite close enough to reach.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

THE KAISER FINDS HE HAS A TOUGH JOB ON HAND.

The Limitations of His Power as a Constitutional Sovereign stated to the Text of His Proposed Labor Reforms—He Talks About His Motives.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The Emperor's earnestness in the endeavor to ameliorate the condition of the working people is praised on every side, but doubts regarding the practical value of his intentions have been strengthened by his speech before the Council of State. In this he shows an increased consciousness that the power of the sovereign is limited by the fiction that this is a constitutional government and that he may not succeed in overcoming obstacles arising from the inherent difficulties of his social reforms. The Emperor was brought to realize the tough nature of the job he had undertaken when he tried to frame a bill for creating labor courts in which employers and workingmen might meet to adjust labor disputes. His Majesty wrestled bravely with this problem and consulted Von Berlepsch, his new Minister of Commerce, and other men well informed upon industrial subjects, and the more information he obtained the less clearly he seemed to see his way toward the completion of the bill. He finally abandoned the attempt and handed over the preparation of the bill to the commission of the Council of State.

The Emperor's address was his own but it was submitted to Bismarck for criticism on Thursday. The Emperor has not plunged into all the intricacies of the Chancellor's opposition. He has constantly sought Bismarck's opinion on various phase of the subject. That opinion has modified the Emperor's purpose at many points.

Bismarck in conversation at the last parliamentary dinner said: "The Emperor certainly likes me and is to many things he relies upon me, but he has a stubborn will and when he has once made up his mind even I cannot influence it nor can any other man. The Chancellor, however, gives the Emperor whatever kindly and prudent suggestions he finds it possible to advance at their regular Thursday conference. Bismarck's right-hand man, Dr. Kayser, has been appointed vice-secretary to the Council of State. This disproves the rumors that there is increased friction in the relations between the Chancellor and the Emperor.

At the reception following the session of the Council of State much was said upon the point that the workingmen would not appreciate the interest the Emperor felt in their welfare and that gross ingratitude from them would be the only response to the effort to ameliorate their condition. The Emperor remarked: "To earn the gratitude of the workingmen is not my motive. My motive is to see that justice is done. If I satisfy my own conscience on that point I shall be indifferent to ingratitude here or there. If the souls of the workingmen are so hard fed that they cannot profit by respect to what we shall endeavor to do for them, that also must be due to the degradation of misery and gives more reason for coming to their rescue. But I do not believe they will fail to recognize an earnest and honest effort to improve their position in the social scale."

The report that invitations have been issued to the International Labor Conference is untrue. All that has been done is to direct German ambassadors to obtain the views of the governments to which they are accredited upon the Emperor's propositions. Before the rescripts were issued the English Government was consulted. Lord Salisbury made a sympathetic response, but evaded the point as to whether England would send a representative to the conference. If France and Switzerland decline to take part the Emperor will renounce the project altogether and the members of the socialistic party where are now undisturbed. The police have been ordered to cease to interfere with them. The Emperor has warned the police bureau here to refrain from many doubtful practices and has said he will not tolerate the sending of officers in disguise to entrap the unwary into committing crime. The miners in Westphalia, the Rhine provinces and Saxony are holding frequent meetings, at which socialism is the great theme. Bebel, at a socialist meeting at Dresden, predicted that no law against socialists would ever include the proposition of expelling them from their country. "If such a law is made," he said, "with such a clause in it, why, then, those who enforce it will have to expel the Emperor himself, for he has gone further than most socialists in declaring the soundness and truth of socialistic principles."

Count Pfeil, the African explorer, has returned with his health broken down. He will make a tour of the United States in the autumn.

The new Sultan of Zanzibar favors a good understanding with Germany.

The police have arrested in Posen several emigration agents, who were booming Brazil as a new paradise. They told would-be emigrants that Prince Henry of Russia was founding an empire in Brazil and every man who joined him would be relieved of military service and a free farm be given him in the province of Rio Grande. Many workingmen preparing to go had already sold all their household effects.

Rural laborers and all questions in regard to their welfare are excluded from the enquiries now in progress before the Council of State.

Spain Will Protect Her Interests.

MADRID, Feb. 15.—Senor Alix in the Chamber to-day questioned the Government in regard to the British naval manœuvres in the neighborhood of the Spanish coast and the project of building a dock at Gibraltar.

Minister Equilious replied that the Government would not neglect Spanish interests.

General Rodrigues Arias has been appointed Governor of Cuba.

For Portugal's Defence.

LISBON, Feb. 15.—The ladies' meeting presided over by the Queen appointed provisional committees to collect funds for national defences.

Seven rear admirals have been placed on the retired list.

THE WINNIPEG BONSPIEL.

J. D. Flavelle Retires in the Third Round —The Final To-day.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 16.—In the competition for the grand challenge cup Wilson, Winnipeg, beat Harstone, Winnipeg by one point, Sparling, Portage la Prairie, and Wilson play final game to-morrow. Flavelle of Lindsay was knocked out in the third draw.

Mr. Lyons' rink, Keewatin, won the Watson stones.

In the competition for the Walkerville tankard Fortune of Winnipeg won the first prize, Wastie, Brandon, second, and E. J. Sparling, Lagrairie, third.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing, same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal. Its phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it a standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

THE NEW PRIZE STORY

is eagerly sought for, read with pleasure or disappointment, is then tossed aside and forgotten. But ladies who use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, read it again, for they discover in it something of priceless value and joy to those suffering from functional derangements or from any of the painful peculiarities of woman's peculiar sex. Periodical pains, internal inflammation and ulceration, leucorrhea and kindred ailments readily yield to its wonderful curative and healing powers. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. $1.00 by druggists, or six bottles for $5.00.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets 25 cts. DOCTOR PIERCE'S PELLETS cure Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache.

Unequaled as a Liver Pill. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. One Pellet a Dose. Does not gripe. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. Gently laxative, or an active cathartic, according to size of dose. 25 cents, by druggists.

To Nervous Men.

If you will as your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. d&wly

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and allung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most trouble-some cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, soothes hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarse throat, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste it soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; some times it worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, restless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pes ered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of human existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of flatulence and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an absolutely natural tonic for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but invigorates it by increasing the action of the bowels, and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, error cannot result, as it does with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thousand cures have dissipated human which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, thus effecting it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scandal medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, nervous debility, rheumatism, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

NEW MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

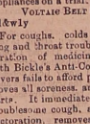
THE 3 . . . P BLOOD from which the constituents vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stom which is bilious or weak. Uninterrupted rough digestion may be insured, the beneficial activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier introduced into Canada.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker	Takes 163 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.
The Health Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the lakes and wonderful Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the Golden Opportunity of the four new States.
The Manufacturer	takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist	takes the Manitoba through the Grand scenery of America.
The Traveller	takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher	takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone	will receive maps, books and guides of the region reached by the Ld. Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, on writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or the great Medical Work of the age on Manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the authority by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

DATES OF SAILING.

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb. 27th; from St Halifax, Sat. March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock,

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th.

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and is worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amidships, where but little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or T DONNELLY, Agent

WE

Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed

TOILET — SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

"When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CITY STEAM BAKERY

JAS. WALLACE.

Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEETAS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY

BELLEVILLE ONT.,

CAPITAL - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates

Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Four per cent interest allowed on Deposits. No notice required of withdrawal

OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission

J. P. C PHILLIPS, Manager

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce. Belleville Ontario Canada, Office—Front Street opposite Bidwell's Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, F. J. M. ANDERSON. W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

Fred Benedick

BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. In sums at 6 per cent

W A Computt

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, Office $2,000 at 6 per cent Money loans Office Front Street, Ont.

Francis B. Wallbridge,

(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.) BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c., — Office Market Square, Belleville, Ont. Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer, Office over Express Company Office, Clare Block, Bridge Street, Belleville. Agent Toronto & Dominion Savings and Loan Company of Canada

John A Foote,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, &c. Office next Post Office of C. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co. Belleville and Marmora, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY Private and company funds to loan at low rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors &c. Victoria Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., F. C. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney Office Clerk of the Peace Office at Co Hos

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville. W. W. McDONALD. Back Madoc. A. McCREAM.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario. JOHN BELL, Q. C. H. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

N. TRACY, M.D.

CORONER County of Hastings, Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal.

T PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE Ontario Veterinary College Toronto: Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society. OFFICE, Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J P Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brooks Hotel Telephone connection.

Elizabeth Embury, M.D., C.M.,

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of the College of Physicians and Surgeon of Ontario. Diseases of women and children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holland's jewelry store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. Office College Avenue Toronto.

E M. COOKE, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S

Graduate of Fulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahomedanian Medical Society of Ohio, and member of the College Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery. Nelson, Ont on and residence, Front St., in Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Bot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGille University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Tuttle

Issuer Marriage Licences and Conveyancing and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention to all cases. Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. G Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Ottawa. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist, Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER

AND

Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R TEMPLETON

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

THOMAS FIRTH & SONS, (Limited.) NORFOLK WORKS, SHEFFIELD, MANUFACTURERS OF CRUCIBLE CAST STEEL For Axes, Tools, Taps, Dies. ALSO SPRING STEEL, LOCOMOTIVE TIRES AND Mild Cast Steel Castings.

JOSEPH RODGERS & SONS, (Limited.) 6 NORFOLK STREET, SHEFFIELD. CUTLERS TO HER MAJESTY.

Our Registered Trade Mark this ✱ Is a GUARANTEE of the GENUINENESS of our Manufactures. Please see that this EXACT MARK is on each Blade.

JAMES HUTTON & CO., AGENTS, MONTREAL AND TORONTO.

OAK TANNED "EXTRA" Brand.

BELTING

The J. C. McLaren Belting Co.

(Established 1856)

MONTREAL and TORONTO.

Send for Illustrated List and Discounts.

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED

PURE HONEST GOODS. COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER. SAFE INGREDIENTS NO ALUM.

Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

NEW GOODS.

New Embroideries!

Direct from Switzerland

New Prints! New Sateens!

In New and Beautiful Designs

White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!

Fancy Limon Banannas!

Sweet Tangerine Oranges!

Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

The best Food to impart Strength

This is the testimony of all who have used

JOHNSTON's FLUID BEEF

The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food It contains "Albumen"—"Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phosphates, In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food,

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT, 78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

THE PILLS purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS. They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions. In all Female Complaints are invaluable. For Children and the aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism. For disorders of the Chest it has no equal. For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no rival, and for contracted and stiff joints it acts like a charm.

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELL'S

Not a Pimple on Baby.

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Half all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that we had to keep his hands and feet in mittens. His head was covered with eruptions which the doctors said would scald and bald his hair would never grow again. Nothing did us any good from physicians. Hearing of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, we tried them, happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to my friends as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and one that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of a fever sore, caused by a long run of sickness of eight years duration. His wife so badly feared he would have to have his leg amputated, that I am happy to say to you publicly with a clear conscience. He requests me to give his name which is H. H. CASEY, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist, Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, the SOAP, 35; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORP., Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 1,000 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp, Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T

Will be at the

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism and also stop pain of any kind. A number of ts to be made free of cost to sufferers who make application. For communication by letter address.

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

234w

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with fair ability can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock.

Obtain New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hilton Pear, Saunder's Peach, Hilborn Hanberry, Morris Raspberry, Lick Grape, currants, Moore Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to
STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

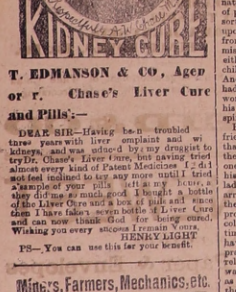
ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 2nd Concession of Sidney, 229 acres, three miles from Belleville, part of soil, 60 acres new land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply,

Feb. 8 FIRT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL.



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was about to have recourse to Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills. After my liver, a day did me so much good. I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottles of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this far your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

Send direct to the inventor and patentee for illustrated catalogue. DISEASE AND DEFORMITY cured by the most valuable inventions of the age, which cost 30 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches. Prompt, honorable dealing, and every thing best goods, have made my business famous. Instrument favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Mechanist & Mfr.
194 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg. $10,000,000
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... $6,700,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL,
AGENT.
Office:—Robertson Block, East Front St.

"The -:- Judge."

"It must be all over," said one to the other; "now we shall know what is to be. The doctor opened my bib horrent by them."

"Gentlemen," said the doctor, blandly, "your sister-in-law is doing well."

"What is it?" cried both the brothers at once, "a boy or a girl?"

"It is both," said the doctor. "It is twins, and one is a boy and the other a girl."

"Dear, dear," said the host, shaking his white locks, "I don't see why you have never told me this story before, if it is true!"

"It is true," returned the judge, helping himself freely to the olives. "I ought to know, for it nearly threw me into the brain fever. I was engaged at the time with such a mathematical problem confronting me, I do not know. But she did. The doctor called at 8 o'clock when they would be in no danger of meeting each other, to see their charges. In course of time the case was brought before the Probate Court. Three applications were made. There was the boy who prayed for his half; there was the girl who prayed for two-thirds; there was the widow who submitted that her claim must not be disregarded. She was, as a widow, entitled to one-half and to one-third of the estate."

"My head is splitting!" cried Mrs. McCook. "Come to the conclusion, judge, before my brain softens."

"Well, I am sorry to say, madame, that both of the little ones died. The problem was too much for them. When they were dead, the widow flirted with one brother and finally married the other."

"The whole thing is a fabrication," said Margaret. "The rest of you trust him, but you do not know him as I do. Dear Uncle Leiter, pass me the bonbons. I know you got them on purpose for me. There is nothing like so much as eating pink bonbons."

But the conversation now took an unfortunate turn. Mr. McCook insisted on talking about the Italian polish. The subject is an interesting one where it is novel. To marvel over the great lost secret of violin varnishing, to wonder how it came to be lost, to speculate as to the possibility of rediscovering it, is all very fascinating; but the friends of the dead violin collector had heard the ground gone over many, many times. No one could tell what unlucky subject would suggest it to him. This time it may have been the pink bonbons. At any rate the curse fell upon them, and a certain gloom was cast over the last of the dinner. There was no wine, and all left the table together. As they were leaving the dining-room, Harry Leiter found a chance to whisper to Margaret!

"I suppose you know our night-blooming cereus will open this evening. I am going to the conservatory."

Ten minutes later Margaret stood under a glass dome. Tropical trees threw long, fantastic shadows above. Banks of ferns as high as her bonny waist were around her. Long grasses and a tangle of exquisite vines swathed her feet. The song of the fountain was in her ears, and in her nostrils the magnificent scent of the great flower, which stood before her breathing its sheath with Heaven-born strength. Harry Leiter leaned against a vine-covered pillar. Though the swinging lantern threw a crimson glow, his face was pale. The wonderful flower hung out a leaf with a joyous power. A stream of perfume rippled through the room. A tender murmuring could be heard among the pure petals. The ferns, the palms, the grasses, the lilies, the blazing poinsettia lifted up their heads to listen. The fountain sank to a pianissimo. It seemed as if the flower was an offering upon the altar of the Most High. It was like a hymn of thanksgiving. Harry moved forward with his eyes upon the chaste blossom.

"It is time," said he, whispered, laying one hand softly upon Margaret's head, "like my love for you."

CHAPTER II.

A MINUTE later, and all the guests were in the conservatory. The host sat down near the flower, leaning his long, white hands upon the curiously carved cane he carried, and watched the opening leaves with the passion of an artist. The judge watched it too, but his thoughts wandered, and Mrs. McCook knew he was following her with his eyes when she gathered up her voluminous black satin skirts and ran after the pink-eyed rabbit that their entrance had startled from its slumbers. The judge and Mrs. McCook had been acquainted for years. Indeed her deceased husband had been one of the judge's colleagues. They dined together a dozen times a year, and they had a feeling akin to kinship. Mrs. McCook and Judge Barthwait both had a way of looking upon their friend, the collector, with certain tender pity. To their more practical natures his dreaminess, his love of of music, of perfume, of jewels, all seemed a part of sort of beautiful effeminacy. They took it upon themselves to guard him, so to speak, from a knowledge of any thing gross or miserable. Though he was much older than either of them, they looked upon him as a child, with child's caprices and innocence. And they were not far wrong. They both had their struggles, and they both knew the world thoroughly, and Henry Leiter, with his unworldly visions, was a rest and an inspiration to them both.

But they differed in regard to their friend's nephew, Harry. The very qualities that made Mrs. McCook admire and cherish the older man, made her regard the younger one with contempt. This young man, whom she had helped and adopted when he was a mere lad, had never, according to Mrs. McCook, arrived at manhood. Though he had had the opportunity, he had never taken up any profession; he had not even finished his college course. Instead he spent all his time writing madrigals. When he should have been studying for the law or for the practice of medicine, or electricity, or religion, or some other necessary science, he was wasting his time upon vera de société, as frivolous as utter aimlessness could make them. He had been known to write verses for burlesque actresses, and of late he had taken to writing extravaganzas. That a man could come to be followed such pursuits and still hold his head high was a mystery to Mrs. McCook, whose son had fallen with a marvelous rapidity until he was a practicing lawyer in the State of Illinois. To be sure, he was eight years older than Harry Leiter, but it was quite evident that eight years—no, not sixteen—would never make a man of affairs out of Harry. He was a confirmed Bohemian, and she had heard it whispered that he was not free from the vices of Bohemia. However, the old collector always boasted proudly, but with an affectation of anger, that Harry would never take a cent from him, and that the young upstart insisted on paying for every thing he got, quite as if he, his uncle, were a boarding house keeper. That a mere writer of snatches and trifles should dare to live as well as William Wendell McCook, the brilliant young State's Attorney, was a thorn in the side of the proud mother. She was forced to admit to herself that the society of this devil-may-care minstrel of latter days was sought by some personages who would have cared nothing for the distinguished company of the attorney. His official greatness would have meant nothing to them, but Harry, that also could do nothing more than scribble a few tiresome verses about a lady's veil, or make a mock of some very respectable and time-honored institution, should be esteemed a pleasant companion by clever persons was a mystery that Mrs. McCook could not fathom.

But a woman of 40, still handsome, with manners that were a studied opposite to her younger generation, could not be expected to remain forever content with the incidental pleasures she derived from the greatness of her son. This evening Mrs. McCook was wondering whether the judge did not watch her with jealousy, lest a daughter, heiress of friendship should call for. After she had caught the pink-eyed rabbit and brought it in her arms to the bench on which the judge was sitting, she felt sure that he was more courteously attentive than she remembered to have seen him before in all their acquaintance.

"Margaret is a sweet girl," said the widow to herself, "and a daughter, however affectionate is not a wife." The widow was neither curse nor designing, but the heart of woman is always open to the idea of love. She knows better than any man, the thirst for sympathy. She has few of its outlets for reciprocance. Age had certainly touched the judge lightly. In his elegant evening dress, with his iron grey hair brushed back from his splendid brow, his haughty, refined and astute features outlined by the masses of greenness behind them, his eyes snapping with a sort of youthful brightness, he wore a look of power and dignity that might well thrill a more idealistic woman than his old friend.

Margaret and Harry stood near together. The room was dusky and no one could see that his fingers were twisted in the soft silk of her gown. Margaret managed to keep up a jesting with McCook, who stood near.

"I hear you have taken up esoteric Buddhism," she said. "If you become accomplished in its mysteries it will save you a world of trouble. You will be able to read the thoughts of all who approach you and it will no longer be necessary to subpœna witnesses. The motives of the accused will be immediately apparent. If your cases are subject to a change of venue it will not discommode you, for you can project your astral body without taking the trouble to pay fare for your physical one on the train. If you find you have forgotten any papers you will not need to ask for them. You can summon them by telepathy. If they are locked up in a box it will make no difference, for you will be cognizant of the fourth dimension of space and will avail yourself of it."

McCook saw that she was talking for the sake of talking, and immediately grew suspicious. He looked at Harry keenly. That youth still preserved his unaccountable silence. He stood with his eyes half closed, watching the blooming flower. His head was raised in that peculiar way that always reminded Margaret of Landseer's stag at bay.

"The consequence of all this will be a bad poem in Life on the night-blooming cereus," reflected McCook to himself, with a curl of the lip, which he changed into a smile when he found the eye of Margaret upon him. He strolled down to the far end of the conservatory and waited there for a while, as if trying to think of something. The shadowy recess he could fix his eyes upon Margaret without being seen. What he saw filled him with an angry contempt. He fumed there silently until speech became a necessity. He came back to where Harry and Margaret were standing and broke out with—

"It seems to me that silence is remarkable on the part of our host. May I ask the occasion of it?" Harry turned on him with a characteristic movement.

"I have not the honor to be the host here this evening, Mr. McCook. That pleasure belongs to my uncle. I am never anything but a guest here."

"That is, you do not change some day, no doubt," said McCook, in a voice that only Harry and Margaret could hear. "The time will come when you will be master; and he smiled meaningly. The blood rushed to Harry's face. He threw a glance at McCook that nothing but the effrontery of much experience could have returned unabashed. Margaret laid her hand on Harry's arm.

"Mr. McCook cannot know how offensive that remark must sound," she said softly. "You must not put the wrong construction upon it. I am sure, Mr. McCook, that you cannot doubt the disinterested motives of Mr. Leiter."

"This is an age, Miss Barthwait, when we must all look out for the main chance. What does one live in Chicago for but to look after the main chance? I do it myself and I know no one else for a mile. The attorney had a suave voice, and it always softened when he became disagreeable.

"I do not understand your remarks, Mr. McCook," said Harry, with his eyes flashing. "Pardon me while I go in search of an ottoman for Miss Barthwaite. I want you to look over the heart of the flower," he said to Margaret. Then he rushed out of the conservatory to choke back the anger that was rapidly growing the better of his discretion. To tell the truth, Harry Leiter was not possessed of much discretion, whatever his other virtues may have been.

"Mr. Leiter seems to be particularly sensitive on the subject I broached," said the smiling attorney when Harry had left.

"Do not be absurd," said Margaret, turning a frank face on him.

"We three have known each other for years. What sense is there in acting as if we were strangers. One would think to hear the way you spoke to Harry just now that you were a gentleman in a French comedy, and had just made his acquaintance, and were determined to act the villain. You know as well as I do that he is the most unselfish fellow in the world. He has no object in staying here but to make his uncle happy. Why, until a little while ago we all called him uncle. Why have you stopped doing so? Why do you speak to Harry as if you hated him? I am sure you can have no cause. I do not like the way you smile, either. This is a very nice world indeed, and I cannot see any use in looking deeply and suspiciously into it. If you have any misunderstanding, for Heaven's sake go into the other room and fall out with him. Harry will not avoid you; but do not be mysterious."

"This world contains much more mystery than you know anything about, Miss Barthwait. If you have not come across it yet you are very fortunate."

"Well, never mind all that. What have you got against Harry? That is what I am anxious to find out. I did not think you could purposely hurt his feelings."

"I seem to have hurt yours at the same time, Miss Barthwait."

"Of course, you did. It would also hurt my feelings if I had heard him injure yours. I never could find any excuse for any one who was disagreeable. Is there not enough trouble in this world without gratuitous misery? I mean to be happy as long as I can, and I have a grudge against any one who makes me lose one moment of happiness."

"Then you have a grudge against me? What can I do? How may I be forgiven?" He leaned forward till his face was within a few inches of Margaret's. She feigned, as any delicate woman would have done, not to notice it, and drew away from him as if by accident.

"By telling Harry you meant nothing by your words, and by treating your friends with less suspicion in the future."

"If I am to humble myself to Mr. Leiter in order to obtain your kindly regards, then they will be obtained at a high price for me."

TOBECONTINUED

Swimming Niagara.

CAN any way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist in an easy way? I make it impossible. Taking Burdoc Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and I never fails to thoroughly tone an System then the entire system at the same time.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

ACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which mislead the public, and unauthorized claims, the Prof. Loisette system is the original, genuine, and only system. Imitations are made by persons who have attempted to rob him of the fruit of his labors, full of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching. Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his system, and testimonials showing what his System is worth to them. Prospectus, with full particulars, post free on application, and Much more can be learned in a single lesson of Prof. Loisette, Lecture, etc. For Prospectus, Testimonials address
Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sex sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nerviline cures pains, bruises, cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Ts Polsons Nerviline.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poisonous drugs but cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Feverfluites of Our Blood

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To skindle the life and energy at the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwende Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sur to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it. It is money worth. See Dorenwends advertisement in other column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back in one minute; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day! Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Alfred Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks. London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and seen it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Dont Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold, on Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure the worst case of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all scrotulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. It allowed to continue long form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. JAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in the most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., It has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good 14 000 000 in Our Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a mountain of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into loaves. Sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relations. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautifully bound, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, complete, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The Distinguished Author, W. H. Parker, M.D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker, Member of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

"The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to persons who may suffer loss or damage by property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $5,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium notes, on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1888 ..... $27,400.88.
Assets Dec 31st 1888 ..... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or surveys on Farms.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance Pinnacle St. Upstairs.

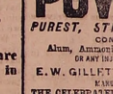
JAMES BOOTH, Agent

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,
Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.



Unlocks all the closed avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, fluttering of the Heart, Nervous Debility, Dryness of the Skin, and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Sold by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO..

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Dorlt Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

AT

DICKENS & SON

A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, AND ALL DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE ADJUNCT TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

FOR MEN ONLY!

POSITIVE CURE for LOST OR FAILING MANHOOD, Nervous Debility, Nightly Emissions, Lost Manhood, Impotency, Syphilis, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Blood Poison, Kidney and Urinary Complaints, Premature Old Age, Loss of Power, Lost Vitality, Wakefulness, Pimples on Face, Blotches, Bad Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Sight, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervous Irritability, Aversion to Society, Confusion of Ideas, Sexual Exhaustion, Impotency, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Spermatorrhœa, Syphilis, Blood Poisons, Piles, Kidney and Urinary Complaints, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Consumption, Insanity, Premature Decay, and all those diseases that follow as a sequence of Self-Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many others, which lead to Insanity and Consumption, and a premature grave. Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to every man who requires it. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order for six boxes, accompanied by $5.00, we will send a written guarantee to refund the money if the cure does not take place. Address THE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE FLAVORING EXTRACTS, ETC.
THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKE.

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their outbuildings, and farm property generally, not including manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly a million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District agent, Belleville
W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe
3, Martin agent Shirling.

WANT D

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to engineers. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years All goods warranted first class Write a case for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont, Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY

BALL

PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the

'ONTARIO' OFFICE

—THE—

GRAN UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

FITTED WITH

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Ons or any other kind of Grate.

HOSTER & FOSTER

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of Worms in Children or Adults.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A specialist medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper care will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired soft and glossy appearance that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5 for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. At Dorwend is known by country people as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want a correct place to go to. Send for the circular wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

Hair Goods.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—Of—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice

FOR SALE.

A few hundered large size cedar posts Chatham Wagon would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for the next season. Every implement is sold at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and has the new all steel arch frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

Fo—Old Iron wanted.

WHVANTASSEL, Agt

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS TO WORK

Life & Accident INSURANCE,

In the County of Hastings; apply to

S BURROWS

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Toronto is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Repairing promptly attended. Front St, East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are throug with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods.

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 17 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 403, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN, d1y Tuner.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are running large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it. 6i DICKENS & SON, Agts.

Surrogate Court.

Abel Jones and W. Kelley, executors today applied for probate of the will of the late Thos. Jones who died in Sidney on Feb. second. Personality, $1,945. Realty, $5,000. The property will go to the deceased's wife.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston blueish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, cisco etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

Ontario Appointments.

The following local appointments were gazetted to-day:—Mr. Charles Marcus Sanford, of the village of Brighton, M. D., to be an assistant coroner for the united Counties of Northumberland and Durham. R. E. Lazier, Belleville, to be notary public in and for the Province of Ontario.

Literary Entertainment.

A grand literary entertainment will be given in the school house, 4th concession of Sidney by the young people, on Friday Feb 28th 1890. The quartette club of Marsh Hill will furnish music for the occasion. A first class time may be expected. Doors open at 7 o'clock sharp, entertainment to begin at 7:30 accommodation for horses. Admission single tickets 20 cents.

Last Rites.

The funeral of the late Charles Lockery took place yesterday afternoon. It was one of the largest ever held in Belleville. Overpass hundred and sixty masons turned out in the procession, headed by the Odd fellows and military band. Rev. R. M. Pope, pastor of West Belleville Methodist church conducted service at his late residence, corner of Holloway and Dundas streets. The pall bearers were: P. C. Jones, Wm. McGie, R. Lazier, George Dulmage, Frank Lewis and Alf. Gillen.

Old Timers.

Sergt. McCrudden by next June will have been on the Belleville police force twenty-two years. Sergt. Downs took the oath in September of the same year. Both officers have gone through some tight places in their day. Time was when a fight on Front street was as every day occurrence and three or four during the night only tended to warm the toys up. "Why" said Sergt. Downs to a reporter to-day "if as much crime was perpetrated today as there was then the guilty parties would go to penitentiary." Twenty-two years ago the police force embraced on its pay roll, Capt. James chief; and officers Foxton, McCrudden, Nasey and Downs.

Executive Committee.

At the meeting of the executive committee on Saturday night a communication was read from A. MacLean, chairman of the street railway committee, Ottawa, relative to petitioning the legislature to grant power to municipal bodies to operate a line of street railway. The executive recommended that the matter receive the consideration of the council.

The accounts of the different committee were confirmed and recommended to be paid.

The application of health inspector Hyde for an increase in salary was laid over for further consideration.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

ASSAULT AT POINT ANN.

Brutal Attack The Culprit Still at Large.

Another brutal assault comes from Point Ann. This time the victim is William O'Connell a young lad sixteen years of age while his alleged assailant, Patrick O'Shane, is a big robust man weighing over two hundred pounds. The men work in the quarries and board together in a boarding house at the point. On Friday night the men had finished their work and were gathered around the fire smoking their pipes. Young O'Connell got up to get something on the opposite side of the room and in so doing was forced to pass in front of O'Shane. The latter grabbed hold of him and commenced to wrestle. The youth made fruitless endeavors to release himself. In the scuffle O'Shane's pipe was knocked from his mouth and he became enraged and swore that he would not loose a pipe full of tobacco on account of a young cub like O'Connell. So saying he grabbed the youth by the throat and dealt him several stinging blows in the face. The spectators say that the assault was brutal and inhuman in the extreme. Although, strange to relate, not a man in the room raised a finger to protect the victim until he had been knocked almost senseless. Someone then interferred and endeavored to pull the assailant away for the boy. When the boy finally escaped both eyes were completely swollen shut and his face was badly discolored. A warrant was issued for O'Shane's arrest but Constable Garratt was unable to find him and it is believed that he has left for parts unknown.

COLLEGE NOTES.

The Week's Events of Corridor and Chapel.

The election of officers for the missionary society took place last week resulting as follows:

Hon pres., Prof T F Holgate, M A; pres, Mr T A Patterson; vice pres, Mr J Manchester; rec sec, Mr J Spicer; cor secy, Mr A Y Massey; treasurer, Mr T Meredith; librarian, Mr J Garbutt; trustee of mission fund—Prof Holgate.

Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist church, visited the college one morning last week and delivered a stirring address to the boys.

Prof. Shepherd, teacher in elocution will soon be among us again. The ability of Prof Shepherd in this line and the success after ding his former efforts should guarantee his having a large class this year

Mr. Peak who has not been enjoying the best of health returned home a few days ago to recuperate.

Messrs Church, Wright and Pettingill having passed their examinations in the commercial department satisfactorily, left for home Saturday.

The regular meeting of the Philomathian society will be held next Friday night. The newly elected president, Mr. S. D. Gaudin, will occupy the chair.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

H. Corby, M. P., is in the t.

R. Sprague, formerly of Belleville, is in Chicago.

James Wessel, Trenton, was in the city yesterday.

C. Lawrence, Kingston, was in the city on Saturday.

D. T. Berger, Montreal is registered at the Anglo-American.

Mr. Harcourt, M. P. P., returned to Welland Saturday night.

Wm. Johnson, weights and measures inspector has returned from Toronto.

S. S. Snider represented Victoria university at the Conversazione at Queen's on Friday evening.

Ex. Ald. Carson won the gold watch at the Josie Mills entertainment, Kingston, on Friday last.

Mr. Bain, M. P., went to Montreal today to hear Erastus Wiman speak on Commercial union.

James A. Aston, Gananoque, has been officially notified of his appointment as keeper of the Burnt Island lighthouse.

W. C. B. Rathbun left on Tuesday for Toronto, whence he proceeds to Santa Barbara, California, where he intends spending a few months.

Thos. J. Shanks, editor of the New York Witness, formerly of Belleville, will shortly spend a couple of months holidays with relatives in the city.

Capt. Nicholson and wife completed their trip from Colorado on Saturday. They were driven from Earnestown to Mr. Patterson's on Amherst Island. Owing to the comforts of modern railway travel the trip was made without fatigue, Mrs. Nicholson apparently being none the worse for the journey.

TOWN TALK.

City council tonight.

There are thirty male and one females prisoners in the county goal.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers will sing in the Tabernacle Monday evening 24th inst.

FROST—Winds mostly east and north, cloudy weather; with local falls of sleet or snow.

It is believed that the Lloyd brothers now confined in the goal here charged with rape will be dismissed.

A team of horses purchased from D. Clapp, Sidney, recently brought five hundred dollars in New York city.

S. Morden, brother of Mrs. S. M. Harrington of this city died at Amelisburg on Saturday of lung disease. The remains will be buried to-morrow.

Mrs. M. Newton, of Everson, Pa., gave birth on Friday to four girls. They are of ordinary size, perfectly formed and will live. She should be superannuated.

DIED.

GREENE—On Monday, the 17th, at Belleville, Prof. Samuel Thomas Greene, of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, aged 46 years, 8 months and 6 days. The funeral will take place from the Institution on Wednesday the 19th at three o'clock, p. m. sharp. Service in the Institution chapel at 2:30. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully requested to attend.

MORDEN—At Rednerville, Ameliasburg township, Sunday, Feb. 16, S. S. Morden.

Funeral from late residence at 1 p. m. to Dempsey's burying ground.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.
d&wly

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda makes the best that can be made.

NEWS FROM INDIA

HOW THE HASTINGS COUNTY MISSIONARIES PROSPER.

The Summer in the Mountains—Why it is Necessary to Flee From the Plains—Native Ministers and Their Work.

An Indian missionary in writing to a lady in this city, from Darjiling, in September last states:

About five weeks ago we left Neemuch, spending a few days en route at Indore and Allahabad and reaching Darjiling, a hill station about three hundred (300) miles north of Calcutta, on the 2nd of September.

Darjiling is a very long way from Neemuch about twelve hundred (1200) miles. But it is said to be one of the finest sanitariums in India, and as we wished to see as much as possible of the country, and especially of the mission work in the different cities, before returning to Canada, we chose it rather than a nearer station. Miss Rodger is with us. You will probably have heard that Miss Oliver and Miss Scott are at Simla. I am so thankful that I have escaped September and October on the plains. This is the first time we have been able to do so since coming to India, and I shall certainly try in the future to take a holiday, when we can, during these months. Miss Beatty and Miss Sinclair are at work at Indore, and Miss Sinclair writes me that she finds this season very much more trying than in other seasons. We have a number of C. M. S. missionaries in the hotel in which we are staying, and they are obliged, for health considerations, to leave the plains every year for the hills.

You would not be surprised at this could you see the Bengal plains under water, as we did, coming to Darjiling. For hundreds of miles after leaving Allahabad the railway was a narrow path running through an apparently shoreless sea. The Ganges and its tributaries overflow, I believe, every year. But this year the waters were higher than usual, and along almost the whole line between Allahabad and Saharanpur where we crossed the Ganges all the villages were inundated, though built on such elevations as can be found in so flat a country. In many villages the houses were half submerged, and how the people and cattle managed to exist I don't know. In spots where the water was not so deep we saw herds of cows and buffalos huddled together. It looked very curious to see them grazing, their heads under water to the horns.

Rice is grown abundantly in Bengal, and they say that too much water is just as injurious to it as too little, and in some districts there is likely to be much destitution this year on account of its loss. In Central India there is no rice grown that I know of. The people there live on wheat and other grains. In Bengal rice is the staple article of food among the villagers.

We spent a very pleasant week at Allahabad with and old Mhow friend, and while there saw something of the American Presbyterian Mission work, Mr. Alexander, who has charge of part of the work there, has asked us to stay for a few days with him on our way back to Neemuch, when we hope to see more of their mission.

We attended a Sabbath morning service in the church of which Mr. Alexander has charge, and where he officiates once every Sunday, a native pastor, Babu Caleb taking the second service. It was delightful to worship with so large and intelligent a body of native Christians. It helped us to look forward to the time when we in Central India may have just such a congregation. The membership of this church is about eighty (80), and the average attendance on the Sabbath services about two hundred (200). A second Christian church in connection with this mission in Allahabad has a membership of eightyisix.

This Sunday morning service was specially interesting to us because conducted by Babu Ram Chendra Bose, a name well known to many friends of mission work beyond India. Mr. Bose was converted to Christianity while a pupil under Dr. Duff in the Free Church College in Calcutta. He has written a good many books chiefly on Hindu philosophical subjects, and has also lectured on these and other subjects, in America, and I think, in Great Britain. He spends his whole time now in going about from place to place preaching and lecturing in Urdu and English, his English lectures being delivered chiefly to educated native young men. We had the pleasure of hearing him give one lecture in Allahabad to a large audience of Bengali young men who seemed to follow him very intelligently. At the close of the lecture three or four of the audience, speaking also in English, asked some questions and raised objections to some points in the lecture, which Mr. Bose answered in a clear, easy style which distinguishes him as a speaker.

There has been lately a great deal of criticism of the amount of secular education given to Indian youths by Mission Societies, and sometimes one feels inclined to question the wisdom of spending too much money on this work in India, where the results are apparently so small. But meeting with a man like Mr. Bose, can whose influence on account of his ability and education must be very great and who probably would not have become a Christian had he not been under the direct personal care of a missionary in a Mission College, makes one, on the other hand, realize the great usefulness of such schools of learning.

In Allahabad we also visited a boarding school for native Christian girls. There are at present in attendance thirty-five boarders, who are evidently daughters of persons receiving a fair income. They were well dressed, and had generally a well-to-do air that you don't find among poorer people. All pay fees of four or five rupees (Rs 4 or Rs 5) per month, according to the amount of their father's income, none being admitted for less than R. 4. A few of the girls are supported by Sabbath schools in America.

The school rooms and dormitory are very fine rooms, and I was surprised to see a table and chairs in the dining room. In Nasurabad boarding school the girls sit on the floor when eating, as is usual in their own homes. The lady principal tells us that chairs and tables were a necessity in her school, because the majority of the girls come from homes where they are in the habit of using these articles of furniture, and their parents would not send them to a school which did not provide these (to most Indians) articles of luxury. One must of course, regulate such an institution according to the class of girls who attend it.

I shall try and tell you something about Darjiling and the eminently successful work of the Established church of Scotland Mission here in another letter. We expect to see a great deal of mission work on our way back to Neemuch, and I think what we have seen already makes us hope to yet see "great things" in our own Central India field.

We are enjoying very much the bracing climate of Darjiling, and hope to go home much the better of the change. We had a great deal of rain during September, but now the weather is delightful. I only wish we could stay here six months instead of two. We are fortunate in having got a room in a boarding house kept by a Scotch lady who takes a great deal of interest evidently in missionaries. We have at present two of the C. M. S. missionaries with their wives here, and enjoy their society very much. Every evening at prayer a psalm is sung, and Mrs. Hannah, the boarding house lady's name, leads the singing herself, choosing the very tunes for certain special psalms that my grandmother and father always sang a family prayers.

ETERNA PUNISHMENT.

Rev Mr Hodson's View of the Justice of God.

The announcement that the Rev. J. M. Hodson would preach on Sunday evening from the subject "If souls are eternally lost how can we believe in God's mercy," drew a large congregation. Both floor and gallery were crowded. The text was from Matt. xxv, 28, 29:

Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance, but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.

The words of the text, he said, were the words of Christ himself and were very significant. There appeared to be a universal law in nature that a faculty that was not used and improved would become lax and deterioration would result. He had once visited a cranberry marsh, and was shown how the fruit had been improved by care and cultivation. Another marsh, which had been highly cultivated had been neglected and the fruit had deteriorated until it was no better than that that grew wild. Charles Darwin, an earnest, honest seeker after the whole truth, bred a peculiar and rare variety of pigeons and demonstrated that if care were not taken in perpetuating each species the pigeons would in time become the same common stock that they had sprung from. Persons to retain memory must exercise it continually. He knew a lawyer in western city possessed of brilliant intellect but he was addicted to drink. When he was sober his opinion was sought after but through constant indulgence and laxity of will he became a perfect maudlin. Phillip Brooks is a fine type of mental and spiritual development and John L. Sullivan of physical development. Each had developed according to his bent of mind and ambition. While Sullivan was a giant in strength, he was limited in mental development and utterly depraved spiritually. It is the universal law of nature that there is scarcely any limit to what we may attain by the exercise of a faculty. According to Christ's own words, he who develops that which he has shall have more added to him. He who is undeveloped or degraded shall have that taken from him which he has and shall be cast out. Some say why not give a man another chance! He believed that God in judging a man would put all the powers he possessed in the balance and give the man full justice. Christ when on the cross could not do certain things. The young man whom Jesus loved would not give up his all and follow him. The people of Jerusalem whom he would have gathered as a hen gathers her chickens, would not. If Christ had exercised his power and compelled obedience his subjects would have been deprived of their independence or free moral agency. They would be obedient as the machine is obedient, as the horse is obedient, or as a thief in a straight jacket is honest. Man, to be acceptable to God, must act from impulses from within. Christ grieved over Jerusalem, foresaw its destruction but the Jews exercised their free agency and he was powerless.

GONE TO HIS REST.

Prof. Greene Succombs to His Injuries and Quietly Passes Away.

Prof. S. T. Greene, of the Institution for the Deaf, is dead. This announcement, we are sure, will bring sorrow to many hearts. Since the accident, two weeks ago by which he was so seriously injured, there have been many anxious inquiries after his condition. His strong constitution and pronounced vital powers encouraged the hope that the paralysis and unconsciousness would be overcome, and a restoration to his usual health and usefulness be assured. Though in a critical condition his friends and the attending physicians did not despair of ultimate recovery. On Sunday the 10th there was a change for the worse and in the evening approached it was seen that his strength was rapidly failing. At an early hour this morning he peacefully passed away, and to-day there is a general expression of sorrow for the loss of one so greatly esteemed. By his genialty, his kindness and his willingness to assist as far as possible in promoting the welfare of other interests he endeared himself to many at the Institution, where he is best known, and where his work has left a lasting impression on the minds and hearts of the deaf pupils who have passed through the classes during the past twenty years; there were many tearful eyes when the news of his death reached them. The loss is felt to be almost irreparable, and Prof. Greene was so closely identified with everything connected with the institution, and possess such rare qualifications to interest and instruct the mute children. It will be a difficult task to find one to supply his place. Born in the city of Portland, Main, he received his rudimentary education at the Hartford school for the deaf, and graduated with the degree of B. A. from the National College at Washington, D. C. Soon after graduating he came here, and engaged as teacher under the late Dr. Palmer, where he has remained since, doing excellent work, winning the confidence and respect of all his associates. He leaves a wife and four children, who mourn the loss of a kind, intelligent, and devoted husband and father. We can assure them that they have the sincere sympathy of the whole community in their great sorrow and bereavement.

Church Chimes.

Rev. D. M. Mikel occupied the pulpit in Trinity Methodist church yesterday morning and Rev. H. Williams in the evening. The pastor will preach next Sunday evening on "some of the significant 'if's' in the bible."

On Sunday morning next the first anniversary sermon of the Royal Templars of Temperance will be preached in Bridge St. church by Rev. R. M. Pope.

Rev. R. M. Pope preached in the Baptist church yesterday morning.

Rev. J. M. Hodson will preach another sermon on "eternal punishment" on Sunday evening next.

Rev. Dr. Carman preached in Tamworth Methodist church on Sunday.

An Epworth league has been formed in Napanee Eastern Methodist church.

Rev. D. O. Crossley preached in the Jubilee Methodist church, Kingston, yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Kines, pastor of Queen street Methodist church, Kingston, has so far recovered as to be able to preach both morning and evening on Sunday.

Rev. F. B. Stratton, Tamworth, is not progressing towards recovery as he would like, though he improves slowly.

SUICIDE.

The Morphia Affords Rest for a Weary Life.

At an early hour today, in the gray dawn of the morning, tracks were seen in the snow which covers the ice on the river below the lower bridge. They led from the west shore to the edge of an open space where the current is quite strong, followed the opening for a short distance and disappeared. The police were notified and spent some time in enquiring if anyone had been seen on the ice in the morning, but all to no avail. They had been made in the night and no trace of identity had been left. As the day advanced and the light became stronger the officers followed the tracks again. There was no difficulty in following them to the edge of the ice where they ended. Finally the lynx eyed officer made an important discovery which will probably lead to the discovery of the identity of the lost. The tracks had been made by a large dog.

A OBSCENE VALENTINE.

A Vile Young Man Who has a Terror for the Press.

Mary Sonna charged Alfred Skinner at the police court today with sending her a valentine last Friday containing immoral and grossly indecent language.

Mary when sworn said: "Young Skinner came to me on Friday and said there was a valentine in the post office for me and that Joseph Maiden had written the letter and sent it to me. When my mother got the valentine she handed it over to Police Officer Morton. I saw Skinner again on Sunday. He said he did not want his name in the papers on account of a valentine. He would rather give $15 than see it appear." The magistrate fined him $3 and costs.

Consumption can be Cured

By proper healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specities in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Pedifcodia, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially beneficial in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

AT

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

SHIRTS!

OPENED TO-DAY

3 Cases of Spring Shirtings consisting of

FRENCH CAMBRICS,
ENGLISH REGATTA,
OXFORD LINEN,
FANCY FLANNEL,
AND
CEYLON FLANNEL!

Newest Designs!

Elegant Patterns!

COME AND LEAVE YOUR MEASUSE!

A E FISH & CO

Noted Shirt Makers and Gentlemen's Laundry Office.

BANKRUPT SALE

OF

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

AT

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch, Manager.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

30 Million Pounds

MENIER CHOCOLATE

DRANK AND EATEN EVERY YEAR.

WHY? BECAUSE of all CHOCOLATES It is the purest and best.

Paris Exposition, 1889 { 3 GRAND PRIZES. 8 GOLD MEDALS.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER.

—FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.—

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE FILL
PLUMBER, LATH, SHING
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN C

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR — BELLEVILLE, ONT: TUESDAY FEBRUARY 18, 1890 — NO.

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
(small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackenlls, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coco nut Sugar Wafers
Lemon Biscuits—Bendoir biscuits—Alber biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have arge supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore during the Holidays
WINES &C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, (Guinness's), Dows, Labatts, Carling Phillip's Best Milwaukee Lager, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Vines, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 138 w3w

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received up to the 22nd February, 1890 for the building of a school house in section 17 Tyendinaga. The plans can be seen at Mr. Ferris's office and in the section at Mr. Lally's. The lowest or any tender not necessarily received.
JOHN TODD
Trustee, Bloomsgrove.
Feb. 11th 1890 d4t. w2

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address
MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen,
Feb 13 6td Rochester, N.Y.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M C. ROBLIN, corner Pinnacle and Hotel Sts.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. R. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted. TOP CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable employment for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester N. Y. Mention this Paper

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.
REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.
CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY
NURSERYMEN.
COLBORNE ONTARIO.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KITCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

BUY SUGAR NOW

They are at the lowest in and the quality is excellent. We have an enormous stock, and would refrain from

TEASING YOU

to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.

"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

GIVEN AWAY

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loat of Bread, except Sugars.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street. Belleville. Telephone 132.

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods,
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.

M. C. ROBLIN,
—ISSUER OF—
MARRIAGE LICENSES
Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St opp Ann-o-American.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

I took Cold,
I took Sick,
I took
SCOTT'S EMULSION
RESULT:
I take My Meals,
I take My Rest,
AND I AM VIGOROUS ENOUGH TO TAKE ANYTHING I CAN LAY MY HANDS ON; getting fat too, FOR Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda NOT ONLY CURED MY Incipient Consumption BUT BUILT ME UP, AND IS NOW PUTTING
FLESH ON MY BONES
AT THE RATE OF A POUND A DAY.
TAKE IT JUST AS EASILY AS I DO MILK.
Scott's Emulsion is put up only in Salmon color wrappers. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

CARD OF THANKS.

I DESIRE to publicly thank Wm. Smeaton, local agent for the North British Mercantile Insurance Company for the prompt payment of losses sustained by me at my fire on Feb. 7th.
FRED ROUT. 1d

POSTPONED

THE Orpheus Musical Club have postponed their concerts until after lent. According to the recent arrangement the entertainment announced for Thursday, 20th inst. is withdrawn. 2td

NEXT - ATTRACTION
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
The Second Edition of
MR WM J GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale.
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $85 000.
——Forming in its entirety——
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70

LOST.

A WHITE ROBE on Wednesday night, in Belleville. The finder will please leave it at this office.
Belleville, Feb. 15th '90. 2d

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to
ADAM HENRY,
Front Street.
6t

Belleville Amateur Minstrels

Members of above Company are particularly requested to attend a meeting in Harmony Hall, THURSDAY EVENING, Feb'y 20th, at 8 o'clock, to discuss an invitation from Trenton.
C. A. BERNARD,
Manager
2d

North British Mercantile Insurance:—

Many thanks for the quick returns of loss on my building which occurred on the 7th, being $675.50
WM. SMEATON, Agt.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on
Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890
at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.
S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the 24th Feb., 1890, at the same hour.

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMS'P'S
LIVERPOOL SERVICE
DATES OF SAILING.
Sarnia, from Portland, Thur day, Feb 27th; from Halifax, Sat'y March 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th. Vancouver, from Port and April 19th, from Halifax April 12th., Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.
Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.
SAILING DATES.
Texas, from Portland, about Feb 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th.
Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of State room with equal saloon privileges
Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.
*The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.
The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.
*Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where but little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.
For freight and passage apply to the Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID Tod & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or T DONNELLY Agent

DUAL LANGUAGE DEBATE.

MR. LAURIER AND THE PREMIER TAKE PART.

The Leader of the Opposition Supports in the Main the Beauseleil Amendment—Sir John Favors Davin's Proposition.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—This was another field day for the McCarthy bill. Mr. Laurier resumed the discussion on the second reading immediately after routine. He was in his most eloquent and poetical mood and was listened to with eager attention. He declared that Mr. McCarthy was waging war against the French race and had insulted them throughout by the use of language he would not dare to use in the House. Thus at Stayner on July 12 he had elegantly described them as a "bastard nationality."

Mr. McCarthy's ultimate object was the benefit of the Conservative party, for although not an obedient soldier he was carrying on a guerilla warfare on its behalf, affecting the party to a free hand. He taunted Mr. McCarthy and his fellow-Conservatives with having gone back on the French because they were no longer in a body supporters of the Tory party. Mr. McCarthy would now have them feel the yoke of oppression by the English majority and secure for his party the united support of Ontario.

Mr. Laurier advocated a policy that would foster the common feeling of patriotism existing in the hearts of all in this heterogeneous nation. This country was British and destined to remain so, and he did not sympathize with the feeling expressed by a few of his fellow-countrymen in favor of founding a French nation on the banks of the St. Lawrence.

He objected to the meddlesome interference, the fault-finding pity, bestowed by some good men in Ontario on the poor downtrodden, priest-ridden French in Quebec. This was exemplified by the speech of Mr. Charlton in this debate, in which he made special reference to the tithing system and had commended it to the attention of the Liberal party in Quebec. He would tell that gentleman that there was also in England a tithing system and there was also a Liberal party there, but in England they did not interfere with the tithing system although it was much more rigorous than in Quebec. So far from being burdened by the tithes the Catholics of Quebec gave voluntarily to the Church twice as much as was exacted by the tithes.

He would say to Mr. McNeill, who also spoke of the pitiable condition in Quebec, that if we could make a compact between the English and the French, each one to mind his own business, it would be the best for all and the friction of the races would soon become obsolete with us.

As for the English language it was undoubtedly the dominating language of civilization, the Anglo-Saxon race having carried their language with them round the world. Into every part it made its impressive upon French Canadians that though they retained their own language they must also learn the English, and were it right for him to give advice to English Canadians he would advise them to learn French also.

Tories of the stripe of Mr. McCarthy would endeavor to make Canada English by the same means as Irish statesmen had endeavored so long to make Ireland British. The result there had been that for lack of forbearance and generous sympathy Ireland had become a thorn in the side of England. As they called for Home Rule there, we in Canada asked local autonomy, which he hoped would some day afford a solution of this question.

He was not in favor of Mr. Davin's amendment for it would give an unpopulated province the right to legislate for all future time. He was not in accord with all in Mr. Beauseleil's amendment, but was nevertheless prepared to support it. He would prefer to leave the conclusion of this to some future time.

No one seemed prepared to speak when Mr. Laurier sat down, but after a brief silence and cries of "question" had commenced Sir John Macdonald rose, speaking for the 40 minutes remaining before recess. He regretted that Mr. Laurier's address had opened with an attack upon the Tory party, for if he would look at history he would see that not only in England but in Canada as well nearly every measure of liberality had been passed if not by a Tory at all events by a Conservative party.

If for many years that party had been maintained in office by the support of French Quebec it was because they had given to them full justice. They had given relief for the seigneurial tenure and had resisted George Brown's attempt at the repression of Quebec. The Conservatives opposed him with all their might and vigor and again and again were defeated at the polls in Ontario because they declined to join in the crusade against the French language and Catholic institutions. The Conservative party had opposed the specious cry of representation by population because its avowed object was to oppress the French-Canadian population.

It was for the same reason that he opposed to-day this bill of Mr. McCarthy's, which was almost insignificant in its enacting clause but which he avowed to be but a thin edge of the wedge for the suppression of the French in the Dominion. It was a futile attempt and could not possibly succeed. That gentleman had commenced at the wrong end. If the butcher went to kill an ox he struck him on the forehead. He did not cut a little piece off the tail. The latter was about the way Mr. McCarthy went about this measure.

As for the two amendments he would oppose that by Mr. Beauseleil because that affirmed that the present condition of affairs in the Northwest should be perpetual. He thought Mr. Davin's proposition was objectionable also because it left the case undecided. We must take great care that in calming the agitation and soothing the irritated people of Quebec we were not arousing the feelings of the freemen of the Northwest by postponing for an indefinite period the prospect of a determination of this matter.

He thought the true solution would be such a resolution as that of Mr. Davin, which would leave the result to the people of the Northwest after they had been given permission to deal with it. He suggested that Mr. Davin's amendment should be so altered as to make it cover the case. The result could be only temporary because the Northwest was too large to be one province or even four provinces, and if there should come to be a large German settlement or a large French settlement in any one of the provinces they should be allowed to use in addition to English, any other language that suited their convenience.

We would always retain the power to check any improper use of power on the part of the Northwest Assembly and he thought we could with perfect propriety relegate this matter to that body.

After recess Mr. Blake said that during the interval since rising he had seriously considered the suggestion of Sir John Macdonald, and although his own opinion was the same as before, yet he believed it to be in the best interest of Canada that the question should be settled by a harmonious discussion. For his part he would be willing to assent to any such settlement which the leading men of both parties would agree upon. He made this announcement because owing to the exhaustion which had befallen the famous University of which he was Chancellor he had to leave for Toronto at once, and before doing so he felt bound to make this declaration.

The member for Centre Toronto then continued the debate. He spoke as one having had a long and intimate acquaintance with the French and one who would be sorry to see the present friendly relations disturbed. While inclined to favor the enacting clause of the bill he must confess that the language of the preamble was such that he could not commend it and he could not believe that the intention of the mover was to enter upon such a movement as this preamble would signify. He thought the House had been too far led away by it and it might be as well for us we would persuade ourselves that, as argued on a previous occasion, the preamble was not of very great significance.

He could not see why in the world we should not grant the wish of the petition from the Northwest Assembly. He was not blind, however, to the feelings which had been manifested in this House, and he was therefore disposed to favor the proposal to refer the matter to the Northwest Assembly. The Premier's suggestion would, he believed, be the wisest course to adopt.

Mr. Sproule favored the proposition to refer the matter to the Northwest Assembly and he taunted Mr. Blake for the difference between the tone of his speech on this occasion and that he had addressed to the Local House on the subject of the murder of Scott.

Alonzo Wright, the uncrowned king, here rose, beaming with good nature, and contributed an amiable and scholarly address bristling with apt witticisms and replete with charitable sentiment towards all parties. He was astonished at Mr. McCarthy's course and that he and his fellow Imperial Federationists should offer the faggot and the sword as a substitute for the peace and happiness now prevailing. As a Quebecer he protested against any interference with the rights and privileges of that province. He noted with regret the fanaticism Mr. McCarthy and his friends had aroused in Ontario, and in the interest of Confederation, which Mr. Wright had for 25 years in Parliament supported in his humble way, he asked them to reconsider their course.

Two New Brunswickers, French and English respectively, came next, both clever men and good speakers. Their addresses were valuable contributions to the debate. Mr. Landry was the first, speaking in English. He argued at length to show that it was the business of this Parliament to deal with this matter and not leave it to create dissension by being made an issue in the Northwest. But he thought the present was an inopportune time to discuss it here, and though he would like to give a straight vote against the bill he would support a suitable amendment if one were offered.

Mr. Weldon of Albert, who is known as a careful student and close reasoner, followed, citing the teaching of history to show that those countries were most prosperous where the people were homogeneous and that unity of language was a most important factor in producing homogeneity. But as a Britisher, and Britishers were renowned as faith-keepers, he believed he spoke the sentiment of the million inhabitants of his province when he said he would vote to keep inviolate the covenant with the French for freedom of their language and institutions. He made a new point by citing the British North America Act to show that this Parliament had no right to forbid French in any Dominion court, as this bill proposed to do in the Dominion courts in the Northwest.

Mr. Dessaint spoke in French in opposition to the bill and Hon. J. A. Chapleau moved adjournment of the debate, which will be resumed to-morrow afternoon.

The House adjourned at 11½.

THEY WANT THE C.P.R.

Whitby and Other Towns Down East Moving for a New Line.

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 17.—A meeting of delegates appointed by the municipalities of Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Cobourg was held at the Town Hall here today. The Mayor of Bowmanville presided. It was moved by Mayor Cowan of Oshawa, seconded by Mayor Burnham of Port Hope, and carried:

"That this conference deems it to be highly desirable that the municipalities here represented shall have connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway and believes that the extension eastward from Cobourg of the proposed road from Cobourg to some point on the Canadian Pacific Railway near Havelock affords the most favorable means of securing such connection."

Moved by J. R. Larke of Oshawa, seconded by J. Rutledge of Whitby, and carried:

"That a delegation of the several municipalities from Cobourg westward to Toronto obtain an interview with the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Toronto and ascertain from him upon what terms a connection with that road can be obtained, said delegation to be appointed by said municipalities and to be convened by the mayor of Bowmanville."

Moved by Mr. Farwell, seconded by Mr. Dingle, and carried:

"That the delegation of this conference it is advisable that each of the municipalities here represented send a delegation to Ottawa to press upon the Dominion Government the advisability of granting a subsidy to aid the building of the proposed road from near Havelock on the Canadian Pacific Railway to Cobourg, as a great benefit would accrue eastward through these municipalities to Toronto, and that the Mayor of Bowmanville be also the convenor of the delegation which may be so appointed."

The Northern Pacific's Scheme.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Officials of the Northern Pacific Railroad in this city acknowledged to-day that the Northern Pacific is negotiating to secure control of the Baltimore & Ohio Company, thus making in connection with the Wisconsin Central, which is controlled by the Northern Pacific, a complete through line from ocean to ocean.

North Grey Conservatives.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 17.—At the North Grey Conservative convention on Saturday Mr. D. Creighton, M.L.A., was selected as a party candidate for the Ontario Assembly in the coming elections.

Candid Truth.
US Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specifi, for croup an throat; it never

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

WM. O'BRIEN RAILS AT THE "ULSTER MINSTRELS."

The Debate on the Address in the Imperial House of Commons—The Government Will Not Parliament to Adopt the Parnell Commission Report.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Parnell asked for information as to the Government's intention regarding the report of the Parnell Commission.

Hon. W. H. Smith, the Government leader, said the Government intended to ask the House to adopt the report and to thank the commission for its just and impartial conduct. Mr. Smith's answer was greeted with cheers, counter cheers and laughter. He also said the Government would ask the House to enter the report on its journals. (Cries of "Oh, oh!") He further said he hoped, subject to the progress of business in the House, to make a motion on Monday next to carry out the Government's intentions.

In the House of Commons to-day the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne was resumed. William O'Brien declared that the Nationalists had grown stronger under coercion. During Balfour's term of office as Chief Secretary for Ireland £120,000 had been subscribed by the people to carry out the objects of the League. The boycott still prevailed everywhere and the Nationalists had triumphed even in the districts in which the "Ulster Minstrels," with T. W. Russell as bones and Major Saunderson as banjo player, were accustomed to perform.

T. W. Russell attacked the Parnellites, saying they now bespattered praise on Gladstone, a whom before they had covered with the worst epithets. Thus Earl Spencer was charged with murder and every effort made to blacken his character.

Mr. O'Brien interrupting, said: "I certainly would not let any man say that outside of this House."

Mr. Russell said the charge he made against the Parnellites was certainly true. Now the Parnellites embrace Earl Spencer. The Opposition asserted that Balfour had enforced the coercion law with needless severity. Probably the press clause in the Crimes Act was unwise but in other respects coercion had assisted to restore and maintain order in Ireland.

Shaw-Lefevre severely stigmatized the manner in which he had been subjected to surveillance during his recent visit to Ireland. His conduct was in no respect improper in particular, for he had used language which if used by any Parnellite would have led to his imprisonment in Ireland he held was not due to coercion, it was entirely due to a good harvest.

Smith-Barry, the head of the organization of Irish landlords, defended himself from Lefevre's strictures. He charged that the Parnellites had abetted the clergy in bringing about the ruin of Tipperary, which was reduced to a most deplorable condition as to trade.

Disasters at Sea.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The schooner Mary Moyle was run into and sunk Jan. 12 by the British steamer Manhattan, which sailed from London for New York. The crew of the schooner was picked up by the steamer Manhattan and reported the disaster. A launch is supposed to have been sunk in Solway Firth to-day and six persons are thought to have been drowned.

Dom Pedro's Mind Unchanged.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—A Paris correspondent says Dom Pedro's nervous disease increases and partly unhinges his mind. He lives in daily expectation of being recalled to rule Brazil and does not realize the precarious state of his own finances. He refuses to reduce his imperial suite and maintains his expenses on a grand scale.

Desires to Pay His Debt by Marriage.

PARIS, Feb. 17.—General Boulanger was notified to-day that the Sacred Congregation to which the matter was referred at Rome, had decided against his application for divorce. The General has sent to the Papal Nuncio at Paris entreating him to ask the Holy Father to overrule the decision. Should the application be successful the General will marry Mlle. Bonnemain, to whom he owes 100,000 francs.

Devoured by Sharks.

ADEN, Feb. 17.—An awful scene took place on board the Peninsular & Oriental Company's steamship Victoria, homeward bound from Australia. When midway between Colombo and Aden a male passenger leaped overboard. The engines were instantly reversed and a boat was ordered to be lowered. As the crew obeyed the order the forward davit tackle slipped from the hands of the bowsmen, who was overhauling it, and the crew, numbering 18, fell into the sea. A second boat was instantly lowered with a crew of 11. This latter was lowered in perfect safety and succeeded in rescuing 11 of the unlucky 18. The other two together with the unfortunate suicide were devoured by sharks.

It Will Be a Big Strike.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Four hundred thousand miners in Great Britain have decided to adhere to their demand for an increase of 10 per cent. in their wages. It is probable the men will strike. Should they do so the coal output will be decreased three-quarters.

M. Cornellian's Sentence Increased.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 17.—The appeal court to which was carried the case of M. Cornellian, proprietor of the cartridge factory at Antwerp in which the disastrous explosion occurred last September, and who was sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and fined 2000 francs for committing homicide by imprudence, has confirmed the sentence and added 18 months thereto.

To "Civilize" Africa.

ZANZIBAR, Feb. 17.—Major Wissmann at the head of a strong force will march into the interior at the end of April. He will have 600 native fully equipped and armed with magazine rifles. He will take 18 mountain guns, two torpedo boats and four river boats and two large forts to defend stations to be built on the caravan road.

The Liberal Federation.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—A special meeting of the council of the Liberal Federation has been convened to consider the policy of that organization as to the Parnell report.

Agnes Retains Sir Charles.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The agent of Agnes Huntington has retained Sir Charles Russell in that across action against Augustus Harris for breach of contract.

Bismarck to Resign.

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—It is stated on good authority that Bismarck will retire from the Prussian service.

Do No be Deceive.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

MR. PERRY'S TWO WIVES.

The Dundas Will Case Apt to Prove Interesting One.

HAMILTON, Feb. 17.—Mrs. A. T. Ames Ferry, of Lawrence, Mass., is interrogated by her husband to contest will of her father, the late J. R. Perry, former manager of the cotton mill Mrs. Armstrong says that Mr. Perry married to her mother when he was 19 old with the consent of his parents and with her as his wife for years. He married, however, married again, will No. 1 was living. Mrs. Armstrong also said that he procured a divorce in Chicago from Mrs. Perry, No. 1 (not mother, pretending he did not know she was dead. It is alleged that since he was married to No. 2 he lived with No. 1 from Sept. 1879, to April, 1880, and repeatedly has daughter by the first wife. Mr. Perry devises his property to his wife Sarah Perry, and the question at issue is, if she stand if the divorce from Mrs. 1 is legal as on the latter supposition Sarah would not be his wife. It has been claimed wife No. 1 was, dead when the marriage was contracted, but this is taken as she is still living in Lawrence. Barrister Degue of Dundas says the Perry will probably be contested by the wife No. 1 and that the wife No. 1 had procured an absolute divorce from Mr. Perry's term of office as Chief Secretary for Ireland £120,000 had been subscribed by the people to carry out the objects of the League. The boycott still prevailed everywhere and the Nationalists had triumphed even in the districts in which the "Ulster Minstrels," with T. W. Russell as bones and Major Saunderson as banjo player, were accustomed to perform.

T. W. Russell attacked the Parnellites, saying they now bespattered praise on Gladstone, a whom before they had covered with the worst epithets. Thus Earl Spencer was charged with murder and every effort made to blacken his character.

Mr. O'Brien interrupting, said: "I certainly would not let any man say that outside of this House."

Mr. Russell said the charge he made against the Parnellites was certainly true. Now the Parnellites embrace Earl Spencer. The Opposition asserted that Balfour had enforced the coercion law with needless severity. Probably the press clause in the Crimes Act was unwise but in other respects coercion had assisted to restore and maintain order in Ireland.

Shaw-Lefevre severely stigmatized the manner in which he had been subjected to surveillance during his recent visit to Ireland. His conduct was in no respect improper in particular, for he had used language which if used by any Parnellite would have led to his imprisonment in Ireland he held was not due to coercion, it was entirely due to a good harvest.

Smith-Barry, the head of the organization of Irish landlords, defended himself from Lefevre's strictures. He charged that the Parnellites had abetted the clergy in bringing about the ruin of Tipperary, which was reduced to a most deplorable condition as to trade.

Disasters at Sea.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The schooner Mary Moyle was run into and sunk Jan. 12 by the British steamer Manhattan, which sailed from London for New York. The crew of the schooner was picked up by the steamer Manhattan and reported the disaster. A launch is supposed to have been sunk in Solway Firth to-day and six persons are thought to have been drowned.

Dom Pedro's Mind Unchanged.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—A Paris correspondent says Dom Pedro's nervous disease increases and partly unhinges his mind. He lives in daily expectation of being recalled to rule Brazil and does not realize the precarious state of his own finances. He refuses to reduce his imperial suite and maintains his expenses on a grand scale.

Desires to Pay His Debt by Marriage.

PARIS, Feb. 17.—General Boulanger was notified to-day that the Sacred Congregation to which the matter was referred at Rome, had decided against his application for divorce. The General has sent to the Papal Nuncio at Paris entreating him to ask the Holy Father to overrule the decision. Should the application be successful the General will marry Mlle. Bonnemain, to whom he owes 100,000 francs.

Devoured by Sharks.

ADEN, Feb. 17.—An awful scene took place on board the Peninsular & Oriental Company's steamship Victoria, homeward bound from Australia. When midway between Colombo and Aden a male passenger leaped overboard. The engines were instantly reversed and a boat was ordered to be lowered. As the crew obeyed the order the forward davit tackle slipped from the hands of the bowsmen, who was overhauling it, and the crew, numbering 18, fell into the sea. A second boat was instantly lowered with a crew of 11. This latter was lowered in perfect safety and succeeded in rescuing 11 of the unlucky 18. The other two together with the unfortunate suicide were devoured by sharks.

It Will Be a Big Strike.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Four hundred thousand miners in Great Britain have decided to adhere to their demand for an increase of 10 per cent. in their wages. It is probable the men will strike. Should they do so the coal output will be decreased three-quarters.

M. Cornellian's Sentence Increased.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 17.—The appeal court to which was carried the case of M. Cornellian, proprietor of the cartridge factory at Antwerp in which the disastrous explosion occurred last September, and who was sentenced to 4½ years' imprisonment and fined 2000 francs for committing homicide by imprudence, has confirmed the sentence and added 18 months thereto.

To "Civilize" Africa.

ZANZIBAR, Feb. 17.—Major Wissmann at the head of a strong force will march into the interior at the end of April. He will have 600 native fully equipped and armed with magazine rifles. He will take 18 mountain guns, two torpedo boats and four river boats and two large forts to defend stations to be built on the caravan road.

The Liberal Federation.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—A special meeting of the council of the Liberal Federation has been convened to consider the policy of that organization as to the Parnell report.

Agnes Retains Sir Charles.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The agent of Agnes Huntington has retained Sir Charles Russell in that across action against Augustus Harris for breach of contract.

Bismarck to Resign.

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—It is stated on good authority that Bismarck will retire from the Prussian service.

WHOOPING HER UP.
An Enthusiastic World's Fair Mass Meeting in New York.
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Not in a great many years has such an overwhelming and enthusiastic mass meeting been held in this city as that which took place in Cooper Union to-night in favor of holding the World's Fair in New York in 1892. The large hall was packed to its utmost capacity with citizens in all the walks of life. On the platform was occupied by members of the General Committee of the World's Fair, members of the Executive and sub-Executive Committees, the Committee on Arrangements and others. Financiers from Wall-street banking institutions, lawyers, mechanics and laborers vied with each other in seeking to whoop things up for the fair and for New York.
Cutting Freight Rates.
CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—The Western Freight Association to-day decided to put into effect to all Missouri River points a 3 per cent. cut in rates.
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A meeting of the Freight Committee of the trunk lines was held here to-day to take action on through rates to the Northwest which have been suffering by the cutting of the St. Paul and other roads. A number of freight officials, including Chairman Blanchard of the Central Traffic Association and Chairman Faithorn of the Western States Association, were present. After discussion it was decided to withdraw all rate quotations made by the Northwest and quote only to Chicago.
The Daily Smash.
WICHITA, KAN., Feb. 17.—The engine and baggage car of the Galveston express plunged through a bridge over Chisholm creek six miles south of here at 5 o'clock this morning. The passenger coaches were left on the bank. Roadmaster E. Peters of Newton was killed, Engineer Wand and Fireman Smith each had a leg broken and several passengers were injured. A relief train and six doctors have gone to the scene.
The Gotham Bank Wreckers.
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The Grand Jury is examining into the matter which led to the wrecking of the Equitable and Lenox Hill banks.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I am

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 14 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Five Dollars and a half-dollar per year.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning and sent, post paid, to any Address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

All subscriptions, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. E. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The Mercier government of Quebec is in the interest of all classes. Miss Wright the evangelist, failing to get protection from authorities of Hull from the rowdy element, appealed to the Mercier government. The reply was prompt and satisfactory. The law will be vindicated.

Arrangements have been made for the reconstruction of Toronto university. Classes were resumed in outside buildings on Monday so there will be no interruption to the work. It is said that the fire will not interfere with college federation.

If there is need for municipal reform in any one thing more than another it is in the mode of dealing which appeals for remission of taxes. The court of revision is unjust to the poor man. Aldermen who form it will do what is asked of them rather than incur displeasure that will lead to opposition at the polls and the work should, consequently, be taken out of their hands.

Ald. Vandusen, should he succeed in engineering his notice of motion to purchase the water works to a successful issue will have accomplished an everlasting good to the city. In other towns were the water works are owned by the corporation handsome revenues have been realized. If it will pay a private company to operate the works it will certainly pay the city and anything in the way of a revenue that will tend to lessen the burden of taxation will be a relief to the people of Belleville.

DIED OF LA GRIPPE.

The Life Work of an Old Resident of Murray.

The old residents of the Bay of Quinte district are one by one passing over to the silent majority. One of the last was Samuel Young, of whom the Trenton Courier, says:

Mr. Young was born in the township of Murray in 1811, his father being a descendant of the U. E. Loyalist stock, who emigrated from the United States shortly after the American Revolution.

He attended school in a log house in the rear of his father's farm, lot 6, 1st. Con. Murray, and when quite a young man, married and settled on the west half of lot 8 in the same concession, where he has continued to reside ever since.

Reared during the stirring times immediately preceding and subsequent to the Canadian Rebellion of '37, he imbued much an earnestness in political questions under discussion at that time and which remained with him to after life, that is rarely exhibited in the younger and less passionate generation of to-day. He was a staunch Reformer from the first and continued so to the last and was once chosen to contest the Riding in the Reform interest, but owing to an illness coming on shortly before the election, he was obliged to withdraw.

He was several times reeve of the township of Murray, which then included the village of Trenton and was once warden of the county of Northumberland and a Justice of the peace of the same for several years. He was one of the original trustees of the old Trenton grammar school and is the last survivor of them and always took an interest in the welfare of the then village of Trenton.

When attacked by influenza he was unable to rally and died of the epidemic.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This is to notify you that base substitution is practised when the great sure pop corn cure is asked for. Putnam's Painless Corn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

Amherst Acknowledgments.

I ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.
MRS. ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

Consumption can be Cured By proper, beneficial treatment, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Pedricktown, N. B., says "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

La Grippe or Lightning Catarrh.

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow us to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza, as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying the dreadful disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price ($50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing
FULFORD Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddoc, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston bluefish, fresh halibut in steaks, smoked halibut, cisco es etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

THE TORONTO BUDGET,

HIS HONOR ADVISES PROVINCIAL AID TO THE UNIVERSITY.

The Lieutenant-Governor Recommends a Grant of $150,000 to Assist in Rebuilding—The City Council Likely to Vote a Substantial Sum.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—Hon. Oliver Mowat yesterday presented the Assembly a recommendation from the Lieut.-Governor of the Province, that a sum not exceeding $150,000 be set apart from and out of the surplus moneys forming part of the consolidated revenue fund of Ontario to aid in the construction of so much of Toronto University as has been injured or destroyed by fire, the said sum to be in addition to all other sum or sums which may be received or recovered by or on behalf of the university under any policies of insurance effected against loss or damage by fire to the said building. The members of the Assembly received the communication with applause.

The City Council at its meeting last night appointed a special committee to confer with the university authorities with a view to giving substantial aid towards restoration of the building.

The murder of Mrs. Jane Spears in rear of 30 Agnes-street, Jan. 9, is recalled by the application in the Surrogate Court of her brother, James Spencer, for letters of administration. The papers show the murdered woman to have been possessed of bank deposits amounting to $2071. The applicant in his deposition says that Jane Spears was married on or about Oct. 15, 1869, to Henry Spears, and that the latter is now living in the County of Armagh with another woman to whom he is married.

At the instance of the Ontario Bank officials a new warrant was yesterday sworn out against William Rowan Moffatt before Hugh Miller, J.P. The little piece of blue paper charges him with feloniously causing to be paid to W. S. King the sum of £40 on a forged bill of exchange, dated Sept. 7, 1888. Moffat was accordingly arrested at police headquarters by detective Alf. Cuddy at 5.30 yesterday afternoon and subsequently removed again to jail. He had just been released on bail on the previous charges of forgery and was at once taken into custody again. The bank people, it seems, are determined to keep Rolly locked up, and it is said will issue new warrants as rapidly as bondsmen are forthcoming on the previous charges.

CANADA'S TERRIBLE DANGER.

There Might Have Been an Invasion and We Didn't Know It.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—In a speech at the dedication of the First Regiment armory Saturday night, Governor Foraker said he was asked by telegraph from the War Department in 1887, when the Canadian fishery situation was strained, how many armed men he could rush to the Canadian border in case of a sudden emergency. He said similar messages were sent to governors of other states.

Erastus Wiman Interviewed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Erastus Wiman being interviewed in relation to the foregoing despatch, said that at the period referred to there was much greater tension in the relations between the two countries than most people realized, a fact which was evidenced in a remark made to him by Mr. Bayard, then Secretary of State, that he dreaded to open his mail in the morning lest he should hear of some indignity shown to the American flag in the Gulf of St. Lawrence which would render it impossible for the administration to control the elements in the United States that would force a collision. His exceeding anxiety on this point induced Mr. Wiman to open communication with Sir Charles Tupper resulting in the negotiations of the fisheries treaty, which after a failure of confirmation produced the modus vivendi now expired. How far this revelation of Governor Foraker's should influence Parliament towards a renewal of that convention it was not for him to say, but he believed that the people of Canada have never understood and perhaps never will exactly how bitter was the feeling towards retaliation caused by the harsh enforcement of the treaty of 1818, denying to American craft in Canadian waters the unlimited hospitality which British and Canadian craft enjoy in American ports, and the unginted welcome which the Americans have extended to Canadians in all sections of their country.

Treated as a Canard.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—Peter Mitchell having introduced the subject of the enquiry said to have been made by Governor Foraker of Ohio in connection with the fisheries fuss, the reply was made in the House to-day that there was no reason to suppose the report was not a canard.

There is no truth in the report that the Government has taken steps to renew the modus vivendi.

MOTT'S MONEY.

The Wealthy Haligonian's Requests for Charitable Purposes.

HALIFAX, Feb. 17.—The will of the late John P. Mott was probated to-day. The estate is estimated at $700,000. He bequeaths $120,000 to relatives, friends and public institutions. To Dalhousie College $10,000 is left on condition that it remain non-sectarian and $3000 each to the Home for the Aged, Ladies' Protestant Industrial School, Deaf and Dumb Institution, Blind Asylum, Catholic Orphanage and Y.M.C.A. Of the residue of the estate, estimated at $500,000, half is to go to his brothers and sisters and the children of any deceased brothers and sisters and the other half to the charitable institutions above named. This is the most magnificent bequest ever made by any Haligonian to local charities and institutions.

FIFTY POLICEMEN.

To Protect the Evangelists at Hull To-night—No Arrests.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—At an informal meeting of the Hull City Council held this afternoon it was decided to procure a sufficient force of policemen to check any disturbance. Judge Dugas decided to telegraph to Montreal for 30 policemen. Mayor Scott and Ald. Champagne were appointed a committee to wait upon Superintendent Sherwood to obtain 20 of the Dominion force and also 10 of the city force. It is understood that if the police cannot be secured the 43rd Battalion will be called out. No disturbance is anticipated to-morrow night and no arrests have been made.

A Gotham Failure.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Messrs. Martin & Doyle, woolen merchants, assigned to day. The firm was rated at $150,000.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this so animal the phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it safest authority. Mention this paper when send ing for Treatise.

WOMEN AND MICE.

The reason why a woman is afraid of a mouse is a profound mystery—Science, it has never been very clearly proven that she is. But some women are constitutly in such a nervous, irritable condition that the slightest thing annoys and disturbs them. The cause of this unfortunate state of affairs is usually some functional derangement; some distressing or painful irregularity, some derangement or peculiar weakness incident to her sex; or, it may be due to inflammation, ulceration or displacement of some of the pelvic viscera, or to other organic lesions peculiar to her sex. From whichever cause it may arise, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive remedy, so certain in its curative results that its manufacturers sell it through druggists, under a guarantee of its giving satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded. As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Copyright, 1889, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS Anti-Bilious Laxative, or Cathartic, according to size of dose. By Druggists, 25 cents a vial.

CATARRH,

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N B—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. DIXON & SON, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and allung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness and heals the diseased parts. It immediately eases the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. It presents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but deputates it by invigorating the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartics. It acts, but never forces. Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to vitiate the blood, impede the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, thereby expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this wonderful medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, nervous debility, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

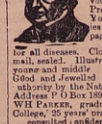
THE [illegible] OF BLOOD from which the constituents vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stom which is bilious or weak. Uninterrupted rough digestion may be insured, the healthy activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the and Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier introduced into Canada.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

To a Home Seeker	Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.
The Health Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the lakes and wonderful Northwest, Hensons Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the glorious opportunity of the four new States.
The Manufacturer	takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist	takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.
The Traveller	takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher	takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone	will receive maps, boo and guides of the region reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on Manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8 vo. 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

JAIL SUPPLIES.

SEALED Tenders, marked 'Tender for Jail Supplies,' addressed to D. J. T. Bell, B.C.L., up to 1st March next, for supplying the county jail with during one year beginning on first day of April 1890.

Bread and Meat

Tenders may be for one or both articles, but each article furnished shall be subject to the inspection and acceptance or rejection of the gaoler.

Wm. R. Aylsworth,
15th F b'y, 1890. Chairman Com. 3t

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE
DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th; from Halifax, Sat. March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Tuesday March 18th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th.

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry no cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or T DONNELLY Agent

WE

Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed

TOILET — SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

D'LOWS WORM SYRUP
DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.

CAPITAL - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates.

Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessarily employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal

OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commissions

J. P. G PHILLIPS,
Manager

A GOOD Pleasure or Delivery Sleigh for sale very cheap. Also a good Tomlinson Organ. F. M. VANBLARICOM, 182 Moira St. West.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & etc Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada, Office—Front St., opposite Ritchie's. Branch offices—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. FLINT, Q.C. J. A. ANDERSON W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

THOS. REDDICK

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W. A. P. CAMPBELL

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 at 6% on easy terms. Low charges. Office, Bridge, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.

BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c. Office Bank of Ontario Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon land security.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express Company's Office, Clarendon Block, Bridge street, Belleville. Money to loan at 6 per cent. Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Foley,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c. Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to Express Co. Bridge street Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, Q. C. D. MACAULAY Private and Company funds to loan at low set rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors &c. Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. Geo. E. Henderson Q.C., F.G. Henderson County Crown Attorney Clerk of the Peace Office at Co Hall

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court. Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office Campbell Build ings, opposite Post Office Belleville. W. B. McDONALD. H. CREAM

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys &c. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front street, Belleville, Ontario. Geo. Bell. JOHN BELL, Q. C. B. BIGGAR

MEDICAL.

S. TRACY, M.D.

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto: Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J P Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville Telephone connec

Elizabeth Embury, M. D., C. M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Tea Residence over Holland's Jewelley store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R. C.S. E. Lectures on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. Office Corner Avenue Toronto.

E M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S (HOMŒOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahommadan Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College Physicians and Surgeons Boston, Licentiate Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Hoit.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St. Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licences. Moira Huntington

Charle Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer, Surgeon, and Physician in all cases Terms liberal. A orders left at the office of J. G Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville:

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward.

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE,
BLOOD PURIFIER
AND
Indian Pain King
For sale only at
R TEMPLETON

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

NEW GOODS.

New Embroideries!
Direct from Switzerland
New Prints! New Sateens!
In New and Beautiful Designs
White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Bananas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!
Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

The best Food to impart Strength

This is the testimony of all who have used

JOHNSTONs FLUID BEEF

The steadily increasing demand for it at this time of sickness is the best evidence that it is appreciated as a Strength Giving Food. It contains "Albumen" "Fibrine" "Soluble Salts of Flesh" and Phosphates. In fact all the Nutritious and Stimulating elements of Meat Food.

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT, 78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

THE PILLS purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS. LIVER, Strengthen and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions. In all Female Complaints are invaluable. They are prized by all. They are priceless. For Children and the Aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism. For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no rival, and for scrofulous sores it is without a shadow of a doubt.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious!

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELL'S

Not a Pimple on Baby.

Baby one year old, Had with Eczema Patches covered with Hair all gone. Salves worse rash eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy at 3 years of age had a rash on face so bad it covered that one-half of his body. His scalp was crusted with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and said that his hair would never come back. Despairing, I gave up from physicians, I began to use the Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and you will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness of fever and ague 8 years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—cured as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. Catey, Spartanburg, S. C.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro, Tn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, scurvy, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35c.; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T

—Will be at the—

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to diagnose and treat all our cases of Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of testimonials can be seen at the office of those who doubt the sincerity of the above. For consultation by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

24ew

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Kitson Pear, Saunder's Pear, Hillborn Raspberry, Moore's Early Grape—I lack charity currants, Moore's Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to
STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 24 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 229 acres, three miles from Belleville, 125 to sell, 90 acres new land, wood, etc.

160 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply, Feb 5 FIST, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL.

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Chase's Liver Cure and Pills.—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled these years with liver complaint and my kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, I am having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more, until I tried a sample of your pills and found they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and "Cure than I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

THE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send for illustrated system which took 30 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at forty prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspenders, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supports, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prophylactic, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
194 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg
Capital Subscribed, ...	$10,000,000
Invested Funds, ...	20,210,000

Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.
W. M. CAMPBELL, Agent.

Office:—Roberts Block, East Front St

"The -:- Judge."

Margaret gave an impatient toss of the hands.

"Humble yourself, Mr. McCook! I never humbled myself in say life, but there have been many occasions when I have had to humble myself. Do you not imagine what has come over you lately?"

"You have known me as long as you have Mr. Leiter, I think, Miss Barthwait?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Because if that is the case, I do not understand why you should call him 'Harry,' and me 'Mr. McCook.' May I ask you how I have offended you?"

"I do not call him Harry when I speak to him.

"Only when you are arguing his cause?"

Margaret's impatience could stand no more.

"What are you aiming at, Mr. McCook? I am not used to having questions put to me that seem to have a double meaning. I should hardly presume to call you by your first name when you are so much older than I. I should not think you would desire it. Is there anything peculiar in that?"

"Yes, for if Harry were my age and I his, I still think you would call him Harry."

"I am sure I should if I wanted to. Why do you make so much of a little thing?"

"Because it is not a little thing to me."

Margaret dropped her look of candor. She shielded herself behind a screen of disgusted stupidity, after the manner of her kind.

"You are still mysterious," she said, smiling. "I wish Harry would hasten back with that ottoman. If he does not hurry, the flower will be quite open before I have a chance to look into it—and I want to see the leaves when they first start to move."

"I shall come to see you to-morrow, Miss Barthwait."

"It is a thousand pities, Mr. McCook, but I fear I shall not be at home."

"The day after to-morrow then."

"As you please."

"At what hour?"

"How should I know? Papa and I go out riding every day. I cannot tell what hour he may ask for me. You will have to take your chances."

"Would Harry have to take his chances if he came?"

"Sir?"

"Are you going to marry Harry Leiter? Have you promised to be his wife?"

"Sir, you are asking too much even for an old friend. If I were concerned alone, I should not reply. But it is only fair to Mr. Leiter to say that he has never done me the honor to ask me to be his wife. I do not think of such things. Papa and I never speak of them. You forget I am only a girl. Pray excuse me, Mr. McCook."

She ran out of the conservatory into the parlor. Harry was not there. Neither was he in the music room. She searched the library with like success. Then she called softly, "Harry, Harry!" There was an answer equally muffled from the smoking room. She went in. Harry was sitting with his feet on the table, smoking furiously. Margaret entered with cheeks as red as fire.

"I've come for that ottoman," she said. Harry leaped to his feet.

"What an angel!" he cried. "Come in the other room out of this chaos of smoke."

"Not just yet," said the maid who a moment before had been so coy and unsophisticated she could not think of marriage. "I do not want to go till I have made you ask something."

"Ask something? I'll ask anything. I am sure there are a great many things you could tell me. What do you want me to ask?"

"I thought there might be something you would like to know."

"Why, yes, I would like to know just how truly a certain lady with auburn eyes loves me. I have been mad with curiosity to know for months. I have tried to find out by dreaming of her. But my dreams told nothing. I have sat by the hour feverishly wondering if the lady would ever come when I dare look into her eyes as I do now—as she gave me the right to do by what she said in the conservatory this evening. But if I knew just how much this lady loved me, I do not think there is another thing in the whole universe that I would be curious about. I cannot conceive what common hold any other fact worth mentioning. What, then, shall I ask about?"

"But then you can not know whether or not this lady will love you always." The cheeks were redder yet, the eyes were swimming, the hands trembling, and raised to the lips to hide the quiver of those perfumed things. "This lady may be sought by others, although she is but a worthless thing. Would you not like to know if she will be—will belong——"

"If she will belong to me? Well, I should say she would! I should be pleased to have any one question it!"

"But she has not the right to say that you have asked her to be——my O, Harry! Mr. McCook has been talking to me. He is coming to see me."

"Margaret! You wish me to ask you now, before you see him, to be my wife? Love, be my wife. Give me your spirit now, for eternal keeping. I can never thank you enough for your confidence. I shall remember to my dying day that you came to me for refuge. I shall give you a ring of betrothal now, and from now till death you are mine. I shall but lend your glances to others. It will be only by my courtesy that others may listen to your voice. It is only as the reward of virtue that they may touch your hand."

He drew a ring from his finger and slipped it on Margaret's. She held him at a distance and looked at him with a sure radiance in her eyes. They stood for a moment gazing at each other with awe. What a miracle life was! What a stupendous creation was the soul! Why had they never observed how marvelous man and woman were? Suddenly Harry threw his hand over his eyes as if blinded by the glory of that revelation. When he found the courage to look up again Margaret was gone.

As Margaret ran back into the conservatory her dress caught upon the prongs of a small garden rake that had been left near the door. The judge was talking animatedly, but he saw her accident and loosened the dress, setting the rake back in the place where it had stood. "The boy was born with a thirst for blood," he was saying. "I realized that from the first. His chief delight when he was an infant was to catch worms and pull them to pieces. As he older it was impossible to leave him alone with the other children. He was always torturing them in some way. His sister had a dozen marks on her where she had been cut by him at different times. I could not find that he was especially kind to any other way. He was not greedy. He was cheerful enough. He had never been known to steal. He only lied when it was necessary to conceal his atrocities. I could not even say that his race was evil. Indeed, had I seen him before I knew any thing about his life, I should have said that he had a very strong face. There was certainly no look of imbecility in it, and so far as I was able to judge, no look of insanity either. But in his short life of twelve years that boy had killed four of his playmates. He had not been content with killing them outright, but he had tortured and mangled them horribly.

I cannot say that I thought him exactly insane. I believed that he would have been able to have resisted this temptation to kill had he desired. And yet, it was evident that he could not be treated like a common murderer. If I had sent him to a reform school his presence would have endangered the life of every child in the institution. There was no doubt that the best thing for every one would have been to execute him. That would have been the most economical thing—if you understand what I mean by economical in that sense. But he was too young to execute. I felt for him, poor little fellow, locked up in the penitentiary. But I felt then, as I often have, that there should be a place in this institution for the penitentiary and insane asylum where he could be put. I never visit a poor house and see the vicious imbeciles there that the need for such an institution is not impressed upon."

"Such a creature would seem to be the habitation of devils. You remember how the possessed persons used to tear and cut themselves and foam at the mouth," remarked Mrs. McCook, who was still petting the rabbit. "I cannot believe there is anything of that sort about a person who would commit such crimes."

"Well," cried Margaret, "of all subjects, I must say you have struck the most lugubrious. Why, I should like to know, should we talk about imbeciles and maniacs?"

"Why, indeed," drawled McCook, "we surely are above the danger of misfortune."

"Mr. McCook," said Margaret, with ill-concealed anger, "has an insinuating tone when he speaks this evening that makes it seem as if we might be capable of anything—even murder."

Harry sauntered in just then, wearing a peculiarly self-conscious expression that was evidently meant for mischief.

"So we might," said Mr. McCook, replying to Margaret's indignant remark.

Mrs. McCook shook the rabbit out of her lap and rose to go. She and Margaret went up the stairs together with their arms around each other's waists, talking softly after the manner of women. When they descended, all the gentlemen were in the hall except the judge, who reappeared in a moment with a hat which looked down the long parlors, Margaret watched him with the proud reflection that she had never seen him look so young, so alert, so manly and dignified as now. "Even Harry," she said to herself, "will hardly look so well at that age."

Unfortunately there was no opportunity to give Harry even a glance of parting that all the others could not partake in, so she preferred not to look at him at all, thinking it better to leave him with the memory of that long, holy glance, which sealed their troth.

"Uncle," said Harry when the doors were closed on the guests, "McCook is not the fellow he used to be. I don't know of any one who can make a man himself more pestiferous than he can. I hope he is never asked to set his foot in this house again?"

The butler, accused from his nap in the adjoining cloak room, came in to lock up. He bore the historic name of Guy Mannering—or at least, Harry insisted that he did. There were no family secrets that he did not share, and he stopped now in astonishment at hearing the gentle old man say severely:

"I do not cast off the children of old friends for a caprice on your part lad. William McCook is a splendid fellow, as he ought to be, considering his father and mother. You can hardly expect me to close my doors on a man simply because he has some personal peculiarities that you don't like."

"I tell you, uncle," responded Harry, "I feel, though I cannot prove it, that he is a treacherous cad. He is disloyal. Margaret was engaged to me in Germany and I know Margaret meet him here again." The dictatorial pride of the young man touched the pride of his uncle. He straightened himself and fixed an angry eye on Harry.

"Harry, my lad," said he, in a voice trembling with nervous excitement. "I have known my mother for more as many years as you have lived. I can do it still, without any suggestions. William McCook will come here as often, I hope, and I trust he and Miss Margaret will spend many evenings here together under my roof, where, until now no great has ever been slandered." Harry had a temper that flashed up at each excuse. His apologies came upon his offences as quickly and as unexpectedly as the sun flashes from a gun follows the flash. The experiences of the evening had made him doubly sensitive, and his emotions were near the surface.

"Then, sir," he said, rising and striding about the room, "I imagine it will come to a question of choosing between your beloved William McCook and myself. If he comes here I do not."

"You're a fool, sir," returned the old man indignantly. "But you need not think you can dictate to me. Get to your room and go to sleep. But before you go there have the kindness to reckon that I shall pass a sleepless night to pay for the state you have got me in. Harry walked out of the room with his head up, and left the old man sitting with his treasured violins.

Guy Mannering saw to the fastening of the front door, and he too went up stairs, turning once to look back at his old master. His anger had been the feeble anger of age, and now two great tears were slowly coursing down his cheeks, as he stared into the dying fire. His long, white locks looked as unnatural as ever before in his pathetic serving man. His blue veined hands, resting on his cane, were feeble and thin.

"I would like to pick him up and carry him to bed," said Guy Mannering to himself. But he feared to hurt the old man's feelings by seeming to see his feebleness and grief, so he climbed the second flight of stairs to his own room.

"I can't quite remember," was his last thought as he turned his face to the wall and dropped off to slumber, "whether I heard the man whistle in the music room or not. That darn fool Harry turned my head."

Guy Mannering was the first to enter the conservatory the next morning. It was his duty to arrange the flowers for the breakfast table. The scent of the flower that had blossomed the night before was that sickening, but it was not that that made Mannering lean against the side of the door and turn deadly pale. Neither was it that that made him run for the kitchen and return with the cook and the coachman and the laundry maid. There are few flowers, however deadly, that would make four sturdy working people all turn white and quiet at the sight before was the remains of the little pink-eyed rabbit. Its remains were literally strewn over the floor. The judge was talking animatedly, but he saw her accident and loosened the dress, setting the rake back in the place where it had stood. "The boy was born with a thirst for blood," he was saying. "I realized that from the first. His chief delight when he was an infant was to catch worms and pull them to pieces. As he older it was impossible to leave him alone with the other children. He was always torturing them in some way. His sister had a dozen marks on her where she had been cut by him at different times. I could not find that he was especially kind to any other way. He was not greedy. He was cheerful enough. He had never been known to steal. He only lied when it was necessary to conceal his atrocities. I could not even say that his race was evil. Indeed, had I seen him before I knew any thing about his life, I should have said that he had a very strong face. There was certainly no look of imbecility in it, and so far as I was able to judge, no look of insanity either. But in his short life of twelve years that boy had killed four of his playmates. He had not been content with killing them outright, but he had tortured and mangled them horribly.

I cannot say that I thought him exactly insane. I believed that he would have been able to have resisted this temptation to kill had he desired. And yet, it was evident that he could not be treated like a common murderer. If I had sent him to a reform school his presence would have endangered the life of every child in the institution. There was no doubt that the best thing for every one would have been to execute him. That would have been the most economical thing—if you understand

TO BE CONTINUED

Swimming Niagara.

AN easy way to end life, and suffering dyspepsia to exist is an easy way make it miserable. Taking Burdock Blood Bitters is an easy way to cure dyspepsia and is never fails to thoroughly tone an Strengthen the entire system at the sam time.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEADACHE

Suffer from it, the almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

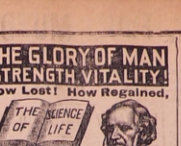
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,



KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxing, Errors or Imprudence, and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation.

Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 350 pages, royal 8vo. Beautifully bound, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a staff of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch Place, Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Underwritten and First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng Capital.....$15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium notes, on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid 1898.....$77,406.85.
Assets Dec 31st 1898.....$186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool. Paid Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy Stamps or Fees in city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nerviline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 25 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerviline.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing the impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To relish the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplies fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sur to get it. You cannot afford to miss very Druggist sells it. It is money worth. See Dorenwends advertisment another column.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it costs ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; stops toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists in the country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks. London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and asken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cents and $1.

Don't Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the liver, lungs, skin and scalp, and all scrotulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moist, pain, intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcerated parts, and in the most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

To lessen mortality and stop therahom of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good

14 000 000 in One Day

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and baked into savory, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies,

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

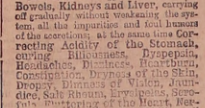
Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt
Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.



Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility, all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the Incomparable BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Price $1 per bottle or six bottles for $5 at all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion President and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Toronto Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE, DYSPEPSIA AND STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND PERFECT SATISFACTION IS THE RESULT. THE BEST TONIC IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE CURE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, Nervous and SEXUAL DEBILITY, Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Youth or Manhood, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, Nervous Headache, Pain in the Back, Premature Old Age, Impotency, Lost Power, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous Irritability, Pimples on the Face, Blotches, Emissions, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Kidney and Urinary Complaints, Constipation, Piles, Consumption, Insanity, Premature Decay, Loss of Memory, Lassitude, Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Cold Feet, Cold Hands, Cold Sweats, Hot Flashes, Blotches, Pimples, Boils, Tetter, Eczema, Ulcers, Sores, Swellings, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Pleurisy, Tumors, Cancers, Fistula, Abscesses, Tapeworm, Pin Worms, Ringworm, Scrofula, Scrofulous Humors, Blood Poisoning, Blood Taints, Blood Impurities, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Kidney Complaints, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Epilepsy, Fits

STOCK TAKING

—AT THE—

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are selling very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 17 1890.

Emmanual Reformed Episcopal Church
METROPOLITAN HALL, CAMPBELL ST
GROUND FLOOR

Rev. Wm. Henry Barnes, Rector.
Lenten services begin Ash Wednesday 7.45 p.m.
Literary service and lecture on "The Tabernacle of Witness," illustrated by colored diagrams.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by
S. R. HUFFMAN.
Tuner.
d ly

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are refining large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it. 6t

Still at Large.

Officer Hayes has been endeavoring to find Patrick McShane, who is charged with brutally assaulting Wm. O'Connell at Point Ann last week. The officer paid a visit to the quarries and ascertained that McShane had gone over to Massassaga park the following day after the assault and had not yet turned up at the works. It is believed that he is in hiding somewhere about the city.

A Dandy Turnout.

Bleecker Bros. have just added to their livery equipment one of the handsomest double pleasure sleighs ever brought to this town. It was manufactured by George Brown, Belleville. The rig was greatly admired, being a centre of attraction to the large crowds at the races. With a spanking team of greys, "Jim" in the box, and a jolly half dozen of Trenton's fair damsels occupying the seats, the turn-out presented a picture that any artist would envy. Trenton Advocate.

Swedish Songstresses.

At the Newmarket, St. Paul, last evening, seating capacity was tested by the immense audience assembled to listen to and be delighted by the singing of the octetto of Swedish lady singers. Fresh and true as birds do these descendants of the bards of Norseland sing, and two or more of the eight have voices which in range and compass are little short of phenomenal.—Pioneer Press, St. Paul July 6, 1889.

It is expected that this famous concerts company will be induced to give one evening's entertainment in the opera house here on some date in the near future. A guarantee list has been opened at T. C. Lazier's office, Robertson Block Front St. and as soon as a safe list is secured the date will be made.

St Andrew's Church Association.

At the open meeting of the Young People's association of St. Andrew's church last evening there was a large turnout, considering the inclemency of the weather, and the programme was much enjoyed. Miss Appleby gave an excellent piano solo, followed by a song by Mrs. Gibson. Miss McFee then gave a piano solo and was compelled to respond to an encore. A debate in which Mr. J. L. Biggar championed Italy, Miss M. Holden, France, Mrs J. L. Biggar, Switzerland and Mr. W. N. Ponton, Germany, as the best place for residence, provoked a lively and interesting discussion. The laurels were voted Mrs. Biggar, who championed Switzerland. Miss Blanch Lazier rendered a charming, violin solo, and Mr. W. N. Ponton rendered a most interesting and instructive paper on poets which was a marvel of study and deep thought. After a short address by the chairman the meeting dispersed by singing the national anthem.

Hark! to the sound of humanity's wails!
Millions of people with aches and with ails.
Headaches and backs, a merciless flood,
Weakness of lungs and disorders of blood.
Yet there's a helper that certainly saves,
Thousands of people from premature graves.

The remedy is Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures coughs, relieves asthma, checks bronchitis purifies the blood, heals sores, eruptions and unsightly pimples and is without a rival for all the ills that spring from a disordered liver.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh remedy. Off druggists.

CIVIC LEGISLATION.

ALD. MANLEY SPEAKS ON TAX EXEMPTION.

John Bell's Remission of Taxes—Can the Council Undo the Work of the Court of Revision—Opening Frank Street—Purchasing the Water Works Plant.

Mayor Tickell occupied the chair at the regular meeting of the city council last night. All the members were present except Ald. Hanley.

A communication was received from the local carpenters and joiners union extending an invitation to the city council to be present at a public meeting to be held in the city hall Thursday evening next for the purpose of discussing the nine hour movement to take effect in May next.

When the council went into committee of the whole Ald. Vandusen in the chair, the reports of the different committees were received and adopted.

Ald. Manley here enquired what reasons the court of revision could give for remitting $100 on John Bell's taxes. Speaking for himself the alderman took the position that this remission was unjust. Mr. Bell was a wealthy man who could easily afford to pay his fair share of taxes. Ten dollars to him was no more than the fraction of a cent was to the ordinay laboring man in Belleville although the latter was forced to pay every cent of his assessor he could expect to come under the auctioneer's hammer

In conclusion the speaker moved the following resolution, seconded by Ald. Porter:—"That the city solicitor be instructed to give his opinion in writing at the next meeting of this council as to whether the court of revision were acting within their jurisdiction in granting a remission of $100 on the taxes of John Bell; and further if this council has any authority to rescind the action of the said court."—Carried.

Ald. Skinner enquired what the rolling mills company were doing. He said it was now nearly spring and the citizens were beginning to ask about the matter.

Ald. Porter—The city clerk, I believe, has the correspondence in the matter.

City Clerk Robertson said that from recent communication with the gentlemen interested in the company he understood that the mills would be under way at an early date. The company had been disappointed by the delay in the manufacture of their machinery at Pittsburg Pa., owing to previous orders. He believed, however, that satisfactory progress was now being made.

Ald. Williams enquired if the assessor had been instructed to assess the income of the different life assurance companies in Belleville. He said that the practice hitherto had been to assess the income in the municipalities and which the head offices were located. By this means a considerable revenue was lost in the municipalities in which branch offices were located.

City solicitor Henderson explained that he had given the assessor full instructions in the matter and would see that they were carried out to the letter.

Ald. Manley again strongly urged upon the the council the necessity of opening Frank St., in the western part of Ontario ward. He thought that immediate steps should be taken by the council to compel the Grand Trunk railway to open this road. The residents in that part of the city were bitterly complaining of the negligence of the authorities in this connection.

During the discussion Ald. Manley took Ald. Bogart to task for the little interest he was apparently taking in the question under discussion.

Ald. Wallbridge, with whom Ald. Bogart was enjoying a tete-a-tete, explained that they were discussing a different subject.

Ald. Manley said that if the aldermen did not take more interest in the affairs of the city they would suffer in consequence.

City Solicitor Henderson said that if the council so instructed he would take the proper steps to compel the G. T. R. company to open the street across their line. He had already written to manager Hickson at Montreal, and also the local authorities, but they had positively refused to perform the work.

Ald. Manley in view of the facts gave notice of the following motion:—"That the city solicitor be instructed to insist upon the Grand Trunk Railway opening across their track and put proper guards upon the roadway to continue Frank street across their line."

Ald. Graham took offence to the fact that at the last meeting of the court of revision he had not been officially notified to attend.

Ald. Starling—The chairman no doubt wanted to get the $100 through.—(Laughter.)

An aldermen remarked that the meeting was illegal.

Ald. Skinner, chairman of the court of revision, stated that he sincerely hoped that the meeting was illegal. He said that he had done everything in his power to undo what work had been done by thecommittee. (Laughter.) He apologized to Ald. Graham for neglecting to serve him with the proper notice. He had not served any of the members as he was not acquained with the usual custom adopted by chairmen of committees.

In conclusion the speaker asked that his motion in reference to free distribution of wards be laid over. He said that Toronto was moving somewhat in the same direction and he would prefere to profit by their action.

Ald Hayes also asked that his motion to do away with all barb-wire fences within the city limits be laid over.

Ald. Vandusen gave notice of a motion to ascertain at what price the water works plant could be purcased by the city.

Ald. Petrie gave notice of a motion to enquire of chief Campbell, how many times the fire engines had been used during 1889.

Ald. Starling—They have not been used at all.

The council adjourned.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.
d&w ly

TOWN TALK.

Prof. Greene, who died as a result of injuries sustained by falling off an ice boat was insured in the Foresters for $1,000.

Pleasant—Cloudy weather with snow, or in western Ontario rain; turning generally colder to-morrow; east, changing to north and north west winds.

At Whitby on Friday evening last Miss Kate Cron was married to Mr. W. Dingman, barrister, of Denver Col., by the Rev. G. Dingman, of Belleville and father of the groom.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

James Gordon was able to be on the street yesterday after several week's illness.

FOUL MURDER.

AWFUL FATE OF A FALLEN WOMAN.

LITERALLY BEATEN TO DEATH.

Her Cries for Help Receive no Response.

THERE IS NO IDENTITY OF THE MURDERERS.

Found in a Manger in a Dying Condition.

She was Unconscious and Died Without Speaking a Word!

One of the most horrible murders ever committed in Hastings county was brought to light at seven o'clock this morning. A fallen woman by the name of Hannah Colo was literally pounded to death at midnight last night somewhere on Dundas street between Ann street and Nelson Lingham's residence. It is positively known that at least two men aided in the murder although their names are not yet known to the police, who are making every endeavor to unravel the mystery and bring the guilty fiends to the bar of justice.

"My God, Jack, don't kill me for the sake of my two children!" were the cries which the people living in the neighborhood of Ann street heard at midnight last night and more than one window was thrown up by frightened citizens who thought some cruel murder was being perpetrated in the street below. And so there was, but no one apparently raised a finger or exerted an effort to save the victim who was frantically shrieking for help and endeavoring to escape from the fiends who again and again dealt sledge-hammer blows on the poor victim a upturned face until she was rendered incapable of speech and fell to the ground unconscious. The two men then dragged her along the road to Nelson Lingham's barn in which they threw her and accomplished their inhuman and dastardly purposes. When Mr. Lingham opened his barn shortly after seven o'clock this morning he heard stifled groans issuing from a manger in which was loosely thrown some hay. On looking further he was horrified at seeing the upturned and swollen features of a woman apparently about forty years of age. At a glance he knew the woman was dying. She was breathing hard and occasionally a deep, long drawn sigh would escape from her lips. Her coat was torn in fragments and the snow was blowing over her disheveled hair and bruised face. Making the woman's position as comfortable as possible Mr. Lingham at once telephoned to police headquarters for an officer. Sergt. Downs soon arrived on the scene and saw that the woman could not long survive. He sent for Dr. Willson and the victim was conveyed in a cab to the hospital. She never regained consciousness and the doctor pronounced her beyond the reach of medical aid. Her face was terribly disfigured and discolored. Her eyes were swollen and had a glassy stare. Her nose was swollen as large as a man's fist bearing evidence of a cruel and brutal assault. She continued to breathe slowly as if in great agony until twenty minutes to eleven o'clock when she surrendered to the great call of nature. Unfortunately the victim did not utter a word or leave a clue by which to indentify her murderers.

Strange to say that the men in their drunken frenzy did not awaken the occupants of Mr. Lingham's house. During the night he slept soundly and says he heard nothing unusual.

Ald. Turner said this morning that about twenty minutes past eleven o'clock last night he heard loud voices in the street in front of his house. He looked out of the window and saw a man and a woman apparently intoxicated going towards the city. In about twenty minutes the couple returned accompanied by another man and all three seemed more or less considerably under the influence of liquor. They were yelling and talking in a boistrous manner and walking down the road towards the hospital. He telephoned to the police station that he thought something was wrong and that an officer should be sent down to investigate the matter. The answer come back, "all right," and Mr. Turner thought that some steps would be taken to ascertain the cause of the row.

Sergt. McCrudden was the officer who received the message but of course he could not leave his station alone. As soon as Officer Stoneburg came in at twelve o'clock he was despatched to look into the affair. He found tracks in the snow in front of Ald. Turner's where the woman and two men had been struggling. There was nothing more suspicious looking than that a drunken brawl had taken place. However, the officer continued down the street as far as Foster Avenue, but failing to see anything of the parties he returned to the station.

William Thompson, millwright, who lives on Ann street near Dundas street, heard the heartrending cries of a woman praying for mercy for the sake of her two children. Mr. Thompson who had retired about nine o'clock jumped out of bed and ran to his window to ascertain the source of the noise. He heard the words, "My God, Jack," repeated several times. A woman was begging piteously for her life and imploring someone not to strike her so hard on the head. Mr Thompson thought they were going to pass his house but they continued on down Dundas street. He was at first tempted to dress himself and find out who the parties were, but upon second thought assured himself that it was probably some man taking a drunken wife home and returned to bed again.

Sergt. Downs said to a reporter of the Ontario to-day that he had found the fragments of a woman's white woollen shawl on Dundas street near Ald. Turners'. It apparently belonged to the murdered woman.

Coroner Dr. Willson called an inquest at three o'clock this afternoon.

Hannah Cole, the murdered woman, came to Belleville from Prince Edward county some twelve years ago. She is a relative of the famous "Flatfoot" Cole, now serving a term in the penitentiary for larceny. For some time she lived with a man who owned a lunch counter near where Goldsmith's fish store is now located. He finally tired of her and skipped the country. Since then she has lived with different men and lately has been living on James street in west Belleville. She has always borne a bad reputation. She is about forty years of age. It is not known whether she was ever married or not.

The police think they are on the track of the right parties.

The seed grain sharks will take about $10,000 out of the vicinity of Stockdale.

PIONEER LIFE.

A TRUE SKETCH BY A HASTINGS COUNTY GIRL.

Trials of Forty Years Ago—Adventure With a Bear—Combat With a Wolf—Deer Hunting.

The following is one of the stories put in from Hastings county in competition for the Witness prize.

The story which I am about to relate has reference to my father's early life. I will give it as he has related it to me. From the township of Sidney my parents moved to the township of Elzevir in the county of Hastings. There they began the hardships and privations of life to provide a home for the family in the deep forests and among the wild animals of which I will give you some short sketches. Our home or log cabin was composed of timber without number excepting the door and that was made without any nails to the best of my remembrance. The reader may ask how was it made and put together. Boards were planed to wood. Spring hinges and these were fastened to the logs of the cabin, nails and iron hinges being a thing out of the question with poor people in the deep forest. The door was made of split timber, the roof being made of scoops or wooden troughs. The place for cooking was made out of rough stone. How did my mother make pies and bake in those days? Pies were a thing unknown to us children in those days. Once in a great while she would make a cornmeal cake in the bake-kettle the same way that she used to bake our bread. You will wonder how she would bake the bread without a stove. It was done by taking a shovel and digging a hole in the hot ashes near the fire, covering the bake-kettle with an iron lid made for that purpose and then every little while putting hot coals near the kettle and on the lid, in this way she made very good bread. What would we do for apple sauce in those days? Apples were a thing unknown to us children for many years only as we would hear our parents talk about them. Berries and other fruits did not grow in the deep forest for many years with the exceptions of a few cranberries. We would have maple syrup and maple sugar in its season which were our great dainties for many years. Chickens and eggs were things we did not see for many years so you can see we lived little about eggs for breakfast or custard for supper. And yet as poor as we were, we were better off than some of our neighbors for we had a yoke of oxen and two cows; and I remember well when father and mother were working in the fallow and were out playing, one of the cattle got into our log cabin and ate up all the dough that mother was going to make into bread and left us without bread for the time. We did not always have flour for father had to go 12 miles to mill and that with wood-sledded sleigh and oxen, both winter and summer, on a very bad road among the trees and stones. Sometimes in a dry season we could not get grinding done for a long time. I remember well going five or six weeks one fall without bread, but we had plenty of corn and potatoes so we did not fare so badly, as we thought. I will now tell you how I was Providentially saved from being eaten up by a big bear one night. It was in the month of Sept ember 1832, as near as I remember, when I was about 12 years old. It was the custom in those days, when we had school, for the teachers to board around from place to place, the sections being too poor to pay for the teacher's board. When it came our turn to board the teacher, not having very much room in our log cabin, my brother and I concluded to go to our lodgings in the barn to sleep at the end of it. The woods were about four or five rods from the barn which made it very convenient for Mr. Brum to find us there of a dark night when every thing was quiet. My brother had fixed up a little temporary scaffold inside the stable and father had been threshing out a little grist to take to the mill so my brother took some of the fresh straw and covered the little scaffold, I suppose about two feet thick and under this was a nice place to sleep and we thought ourselves very cosy when we went to bed, but to our surprise in the dead of the night we heard something in the stable with us. First we thought it might be our dog when we heard it scratching, and trying to get to us so we chirruped and called our dog's name but he did not make any answer to it, which surprised us a little because he was quiet when we called. So we lay still a while longer and he commenced scratching again. We still thought it was the dog and chirruped and called again, and he again was quiet. This we continued, I suppose, five or six times. It lasted for an hour, I should think, in the dead of the night. It continued so long that we began to be afraid it was not our dog. My brother said to me, one will stay and watch and the other sleep, but when he said this it made us both so afraid that neither of us could sleep and we lay still a while longer. Then we heard him scratching so close to us that we got very much frightened, and my brother said, "Let us call for father." So we began to call and called loudly five or six times and Mr. Brum was quiet again for a minute, but when we called so loud, and loud he got away and let a tremendous growl and then I knew what it was that was so close to me. You cannot imagine how frightened I was. He so nearly scared me to death that I could not call any more. I believe that I should have died from the fright only for vomiting. He could not have been more than three feet from us with only a little straw and a few bits of boards between us, Father and the rest of the family were sleeping in the log cabin, about thirty rods from us and while he was sleeping he said he thought he heard something and as he awoke his first thoughts were about us boys. He ran out of doors and then he heard us calling plainly and answered us. Then the big bear rushed out of the door and ran into the woods which was close by. You may wonder how he got through the door, but I told you in the early part of my story that nails and iron hinges were a thing out of the question with poor people in the deep forest. A piece of small timber being pinned over the top of the doorway, leaving a little space between it and the log, we would slip in a single board at a time until the doorway was filled, there being a piece pinned to the bottom also to hold the boards to their place. This is the way our stable doors were constructed in early times. Anyone who knows the great strength of a bear as well as I do now can easily understand how he took his paw and pulled the boards to one side and he came in where we were sleeping. But I have always been afraid of bears since whenever exposed and take great care to have my rifle close by my side when sleeping in the woods. I have made many of them growl since that night with my rifle and traps but not many as bold as the one which attempted my life on that memorable night. The last one I killed was on the 12th of last May by one shot from my rifle which pierced him through the heart and before I got to him he was dead. I will now give you some short accounts of wolves. Although they are much shyer than bears, yet when the game become scarce they become very bold and troublesome to the farmer. No longer ago than 1875 they had killed all but three of my sheep and I killed one of the wolves near my house and a monster he was, yet they kept trying to get the rest. I put them in my door yard at night thinking the wolves would not come there but one night to my surprise they did come in and began to worry my sheep and only for the dog they would have killed the last. For many years we had to struggle against these animals. I found them very shy and hard to capture but I succeeded in destroying some of them. When trying to poison them one winter I succeeded in getting one large fellow to take a bait but there not being enough poison in the bait he went off. As there was snow I followed the track. After travelling some distance he crawled under the top of a fallen tree and on seeing me coming he ran out. I fired at him with my rifle but missed him. Then for fear of losing him I ran after him not taking time to reload. I overtook him as he was going over a log, but now I had no time to reload as he on the struggle began. I caught him by the hind leg with one hand keeping my gun in the other to defend myself with. After several attempts I succeeded in jerking him back over the log but he curled up to grab me as he came back. I jumped back and catching my rifle in both hands struck him a heavy blow in the head which merely stunned him for the moment but I saw I had broken my rifle. So taking out my pocket knife I put my foot on his head and stuck him in the breast which ended his life. I carried him home and measuring him I found him to measure 6 feet, 2 inches from the end of his nose to the tip of his tail. Although I have roamed the forest a great deal and take great pleasure in it yet, I have never had to lay out with the exceptions of one night unprovided for and that was sore against my will. In November last my comrade and I being some distance from our homes hunting deer, did not take the necessary caution to start in as soon as we should have, it coming on dark quickly we missed our way. Then the difficulty came for to travel over rocks and among logs and through swamps and water, it being so dark that I ran my head against logs several times. This way we travelled five or six hours. Then finding myself completely exhausted I said to my comrade we cannot travel any farther. Fortunately for us we found a big pine standing conveniently by with a hole burned in the root of it. This we crawled into like two bears and then on came the rain we feeling very thankful for shelter but when we crawled out the next morning and looked at each other and saw how black we were, we were glad there was no one to see us until we could get to our camp and use a little soap and water which we soon found when we had daylight.

I often stop and think what wonderful changes forty years have made, while yet live on the old homestead blessed with the necessaries and comforts of life and look around and see the beautiful forest, that once was, almost as nearly the central ravages of fire leaving our back country a desolate wilderness and while I stand and look at the old chimney where our log cabin was and think of my boyhood days and my dear parents who some time ago have passed over to the other shore and I, now the only one of our family left in Canada, makes me sometimes feel a little lonesome and feel how changeable the things of this life are and yet how precious the thought "There is a world beyond this life" where we shall meet loved ones where changing and parting shall be unknown.

HATTIE HARRISON.

Literary Notes

It is evident that the editor of The Arena intends to keep his pledge of openness to all sides in the discussion of the great religious, social, ethical, economic problems of the hour. The March number of The Arena will contain the first paper by the Rev. Geo. B. Cheever, D. D., the veteran Orthodox minister, on God's Voucher for the Verbal Infallibility of His Word and Man's Destiny through Eternity. Bishop Spaulding, of the Catholic Church, and Canon W. H. Freemantle, of Oxford, England, representing Protestantism, are expected to review Col. Ingersoll's paper on God in the Constitution at an early date.

In Harper's Magazine for March, Charles Dudley Warner will review the wars of the year as shown in chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Arthur Brooks will contribute an article on the "The Berkeley Ladies' Athletic Club" to the number of Harper's Young People to be published February 18th. "Empty Bottle"—a story of a great magician and an ambitious student—written and illustrated by Howard Pyle, will appear in the same number.

100 PAIRS SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTINGS NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY $4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Stores to be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

in all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their origin l price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles, Coon Coats, Corsican, Lamb & other coats Black and Grey Robes, Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

—AT—

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS, HANGING LAMPS, SILVERWARE, CUTLERY, DINNER & TEA SETS, FANCY TEA SETS, TOM & JERRY SETS, PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

Headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

30 Million Pounds

MENIER CHOCOLATE

DRANK AND EATEN EVERY YEAR.

WHY? BECAUSE of all CHOCOLATES It is the purest and best.

Paris Exposition, 1889 { 3 GRAND PRIZES, 3 GOLD MEDALS.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER.

—FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.—

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and I Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

NEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 19, 1890 | NO. 42

WE ARE
PLUMBER, LATH, etc.,
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackwells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoanut Sugar Wafers
Queen Biscuits—Bondoir biscuits—Alber biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES &C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
Phillip's Best Milwaukee Lager,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal
Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Hitchie's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED STATES
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR,
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to
S. G. RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good, energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS' Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 13jSwow

RECAMIER PREPARATIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1889 ..... $575,373.58
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Addr ss MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. Feb 13 6td

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner John and Hotel streets.

WANTED—Immediately a good general servant Apply to MRS. C. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th, Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

POSTPONED

THE Orpheus Musical Club have postponed their series of concerts until after lent. According to the recent arrangement the entertainment announced for Thursday, 20th inst. is withdrawn. 2td

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thoroughly repair, in one of the best localities in the city. One minute walk from the post office. Apply to ADAM HENRY, Front Street. 6t

Belleville Amateur Minstrels

Members of above Company are particularly requested to attend a meeting in Harrison Hall, THURSDAY EVENING Feby 20th, at 8 o'clock, to discuss an invitation from Trenton. C. A. BERNARD, 3td Manager.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age. CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester N.Y. Mention this Paper

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address, DANIEL KETCHESON, Belleville, P. O.

BUY SUGAR NOW
They are at the lowest point and the quality is excellent. We hold an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.
"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers,
Victoria Buildings.

NEXT - ATTRACTION
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
The Second Edition of
MR WM J GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale.
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $25,000.
—Forming in its entirety—
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W. W. CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.,

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

TEN POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS THINK OF IT!
As a Flesh Producer there can be no question but that
SCOTT'S EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites Of Lime and Soda
is without a rival. Many have gained a pound a day by the use of it. It cures
CONSUMPTION,
SCROFULA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS AND COLDS, AND ALL FORMS OF WASTING DISEASES. AS PALATABLE AS MILK.
Genuine made by Scott & Bowne, Belleville, Solmon Wrapper, at all Druggists, 50c. and $1.00.

SALE
OF
VALUABLE PROPERTY
THE Undersigned hereby offers for sale the following property, the property of G. A. Ostrander, Insolvent, consisting of

Dry Goods	$1 077 55
Groceries	301 99
Fixtures	70 00
Book Debts	539 71

Tenders will be received for the above up to Saturday the 22nd instant at 10 a.m. Tenders to be addressed to the Assignee and to show rate on the dollar. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
There will also be sold by Public Auction on Saturday the 22nd inst. at 1 p.m. at the Crossroads opposite Herrington's Hotel Main Street, Picton, the following goods and chattels:
Horses, 1 Platform Spring Wagon, 1 Peddling Waggon, one cutter.
The Stock-in-trade may be seen at the sheriff's office Picton, and at the office of F. E. O'Flynn barrister, Belleville Terms Cash.
JAMES GILLESPIE F. E. O'FLYNN
Assignee Solicitor for Estate.
Dated this 14th day of Feb. 1890.

In the High Court of Justice

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Smeaton vs Walker.

IN pursuance of the judgment or order of reference made in this action and dated the 11th day of January 1890, there will be sold by public auction with the approbation of Samuel Shaw Lazier, Esquire, local master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at Belleville on at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon at the Chambers of the said Master in the City of Belleville, the following valuable freehold premises and chattel effects belonging to the firm of J. M. Walker & Co. of the City of Belleville, viz:—

Thursday the 13th Day of March A. D. 1890

Parcel No. 1—Consisting of a portion of the island and the foundry premises and known as all and singular that certain parcel or piece of land and situated, lying and being composed of all that part of lot No. 8 in the 1st Concession of Thurlow and of the Gore to the west side of Front street in the City of Belleville and better known as follows:—commencing at the south east angle of lot 1 as laid down on a plan of William Coleman's estate, then along the west side of Front street 534 feet to a stone monument, then south 89 degrees west 873-25 feet to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees 18 east 1 monument 154 feet 29 inches west of a stone monument, then north 194 degrees east 17 feet and 4 inches to a line running north 10 of Stevens block in the island, the line between 4 and 5-17 feet to the river Moira, then north along the centre of the said river, thence south 55 degrees east one chain and 61 links more or less to the eastern bank of the raceway where it joins the main channel of said river, thence northerly along the eastern bank of the raceway to the south western angle of which on a plan of William Coleman's estate, then along the west side of Front street 534 feet to the place of commencement, the south 89 degrees west 873-25 feet to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees 18 east

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 19 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by carefull carriers to all parts of the City for six cents a week. Fifty Cents a month—18c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line. Advertisements not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cents per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notices of births, marriages and deaths the charge for death notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. R. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

TRASTINGS.

It would be a matter of surprise if the Intelligencer had not some growl to make about the nomination of reform candidates for East Hastings. It leaves Mr. Burdett alone as it says there are two years before election, but it will have no easy task to perform in breaking down the good impression that his career in the house has made upon his constituents, regardless of political sentiments. The most bigoted cannot help comparing his ability and manifest interest in the welfare of the country and rising with the poor qualifications of their former representative. The comparison will result in the further disappointment of Mr. John White should he be so presumptuous as to seek nomination. But the truth is his own friends are anxious that he should listen to the call from Carleton county.

Of Mr. Vermilyea the Intelligencer says "In the election of 1886 Mr. Vermilyea "was confident that he would be the nom-"inee of his party, and, in advance of the "meeting of the convention, did some can-"vassing on his own behalf; but he found "that the party did not place so high an "estimate upon him as he did upon himself "and he was, to his great chagrin, thrust "aside to make room for Mr. Harford "Ashley."

From this it would appear that Mr. Ashley's nomination was the result of all other aspirants being giddy tracked owing to his personal popularity. On Sept. 22nd, 1888 when the Intelligencer had a quarrel with Mr. Ashley it said:

"This is another example of Ashley's "bad faith. In 1886, when he protested that "he would not be a candidate for the leg-"islature in East Hastings and yet contested "Mr. Vermilyea from the candidacy, only "let us add, to receive the reward of his "treachery in a disastrous defeat by W. "F. Hudson, M. P. P."

Looked at from the stand point of the attack 1888, Mr. Vermilyea was the choice of his party and would have been placed in nomination but for treachery and intrigue. The Intelligencer should not have so short a memory if it would have any weight in its utterances. Mr. Vermilyea's nomination is popular and Mr. Hudson has been known to say that the hardest fight he ever had is just ahead of him.

Prize Story Writers.

Among the 1193 competitors for prizes offered by the Montreal Witness was Miss Hattie Harrison, of Queensboro' Hastings county. To each competitor was sent a "Recognition," that is a card recognizing the receipt of the story. Across the front of this card is written the class of prizes that the story is in competition for. For instance there is the Dominion prize for the best story of the Dominion. The provincial prize for the best story in each of the province and 260 county prizes for the best story from the counties. Those who compete for the county prizes had the face of their card marked "county prize." This is the way all the county cards were marked and some people have fallen into the error and believe that the card and the marking indicates that the holder is the winner of the county prize. Those interested in Miss Harrison put this construction to the card and have asked the ONTARIO to expose what they believe to be deception on the part of the Witness people. The prize was awarded to Helena Driscoll, Trenton.

"La Grippe" or Lightning Catarrh

MR. EDITOR.—"La grippe, or Russian influenza, as it is termed, is in reality an epidemic catarrh, and is called by some physicians "lightning catarrh," from the rapidity with which it sweeps over the country. Allow me to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that Nasal Balm as well as being a thorough cure for all cases of all the ordinary cold in the head and catarrh, will give relief in even the most severe cases of "la grippe" or Russian influenza," as it will effectually clear the nasal passages, allay irritation and relieve the dull oppressive headache accompanying this disease. No family should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm in the house, as cold in the head and catarrh are peculiarly liable to attack people at this season of the year, and Nasal Balm is the only prompt and speedy cure for these troubles ever offered the public. Easy to use and agreeable. If you cannot get it at your dealers it will be sent post free on receipt of price (50 cents and $1 per bottle) by addressing in the head and catarrh are peculiarly

FULFORD & CO.,
Brockville, Ont.

At Goldsmiths.

Uptown fish store just received cod and haddock, fresh frozen sea herring, lower province brook trout, lobster, Boston blackfish, fresh halibut steaks, smoked halibut, cisco etc. All kinds of pickled and smoked fish. Near Wallace's candy store.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This trade you than have substitution is practised when the great sure pain cure is asked or. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N. S.

Consumption can be Cured By proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Pictiodia, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, 50c. and $1.00.

A LONDON, ONT., TRAGEDY

HENRY SMITH BRAINS HIS WIFE WITH A POKER.

The Murderer's Hands, Face and Clothing Smeared With Blood—Family Trouble and Whisky at the Bottom of the Crime.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 18.—Henry Smith, aged about 65 years, residing in Regent street, was arrested to-night charged with the murder of his wife.

There appears to have been trouble in the family for some time past and Mrs. Smith, through fear of her husband, left her home on Monday and remained away until o'clock this evening, when she returned.

About 8 o'clock the neighbors heard that Mrs. Smith had killed herself.

The police were summoned and found the body of the woman placed upright in an arm chair with blood oozing from several terrible wounds on the head and face which had evidently been inflicted with a heavy iron poker, which was found covered with blood and hair in the room.

When arrested Smith's hands, face and clothing were smeared and bespattered with blood.

He had been drinking during the day but was sober when taken into custody.

Smith's son is now serving a month in jail for assaulting his father. At the trial the son claimed that the assault was committed while protecting his mother from the blows of her husband.

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD.

Parnell's Amendment to the Address Rejected by 67 Majority.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Maurice Healy, M.P., for Cork, asked the Government in the House of Commons to-day whether since the refusal of John Daly a life convict in Chatham Prison, to connect the Parnellites with the dynamite outrages he had been treated with enhanced severity by the prison officials. Mr. Healy requested that a sworn inquiry be made as to Daly's treatment or that members of the House who desired to investigate the matter be allowed the same access to the prisoner as allowed the agent of The London Times.

Henry Matthews, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, said he had no authority to grant the request for a sworn inquiry. He denied the allegations against the prison officials and said Daly had stated that he had no complaint to make of his treatment.

Mr. Healy then asked: "Was Daly nearly poisoned?"

In reply Mr. Matthews said the prison dispenser had put too much belladonna in a prescription for Daly. He had since been suspended for his negligence.

Henry Labouchere asked whether the Government intended to demand a vote for the expenses of witnesses who testified before the Parnell Commission.

William L. Jackson, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, stated that no demand of that nature had been made upon the Treasury.

Baron de Worms, Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, intimated that the official telegrams from the Cape of Good Hope denied the report of a Boer raid into Matabaland.

Henry Campbell-Bannerman (Home Rulers), M.P. for the Sterling district, resumed the debate on the address in reply to the Queen's Speech. He summed up the case against the Government by declaring it had wilfully resorted to coercion when coercion had proved to be worse than useless. The Government's whole Irish policy he said was one of persistent wrongdoing. There could be no pacification of Ireland as long as there existed alienation of the masses and destruction of popular confidence in the administration of justice.

Mr. Balfour said that since he had been Secretary for Ireland he had replied to a constant series of votes of censure, all much alike backed by much violent language but by no substance of fact. Brutal attacks upon his government, exactly the same as those made by Mr. O'Brien were made by the press upon Earl Spencer and Sir George Trevelyan.

Mr. O'Brien appealed to the Speaker to say whether it was in order to impute to him "brutal and savage attacks."

Mr. Balfour withdrew the epithet "brutal" but quoted an article from Mr. O'Brien's paper wherein Earl Spencer was described as a dullard in politics whose temper was soured because he was a failure socially, and who while in office was guilty of gratifying his vindictive feelings by turning the law into an instrument of murder and outrage; who did not punish crime but shielded nameless infamies.

At the end of the debate the vote was taken on Mr. Parnell's amendment to the address which was rejected, 307 to 240.

Parnell Congratulated.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The council of the Liberal Federation has passed resolutions congratulating Mr. Parnell and his colleagues upon the result of the investigation, regretting that the authors and all persons responsible for the forgeries were not called to account by the Commission and demanding that the Government offer reparation to Mr. Parnell.

Lord Salisbury's Ill Health.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Lord Salisbury's health causes much uneasiness to his friends. He is ordered to the seaside and his circumstances gone to Bournemouth and is forbidden to attend to any but the most urgent business.

An Expensive Strike.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The report of the gas company upon the recent strike shows the cost to have been $250,000.

The Nonpareil Slugs the Australian.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—McCarthy was knocked out by Dempsey in the 39th round last night.

MOTT'S MONEY.

The Wealthy Haligonian's Bequests for Charitable Purposes.

HALIFAX, Feb. 17.—The will of the late John F. Mott was probated to-day. The estate is estimated at $700,000. He bequeaths $120,000 to relatives, friends and public institutions. To Dalhousie College $10,000 is left on condition that it remain non-sectarian and $3000 each to the Home for the Aged, Ladies' Protestant Industrial School, Deaf and Dumb Institution, Blind Asylum, Catholic Orphanage and Y.M.C.A. Of the residue of the estate, estimated at $500,000, half is to go to his brothers and sisters and the children of any deceased brothers and sisters and the other half to the charitable institutions above named. This is the most magnificent bequest ever made by any Haligonian to local charities and institutions.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS,

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all ailments which afflict this noble animal so phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it a standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker — Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.

The Health Seeker — takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker — takes the Manitoba to the glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer — takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

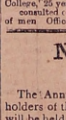
The Tourist — takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.

The Traveller — takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher — takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Lake Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone — will receive maps, box and guides of the region reached by the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, on writing T. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, the great Medical Work of the seven manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8vo. 125 prescriptions for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

CATARRH,

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as bright as a button." It is veryplease ant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. A thoroughly renewed three-fourths of the blood which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the secretory secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the intestines, thereby besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumbago and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

CUT OF SORES.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be effected.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE 3 JEBLOOD from which the constituents vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stom which is bilious or weak. Uninteresting pled rough digestion may be insured, the secretory activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrops Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the yspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier at introduced in Canada.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries & etc. B Editors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada. Offices—Front St., opposite Ritchie's. Branch Office—Madoc. Money to loan at 5 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, Q.C. F. J. M. ANDERSON. W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

F. FRED ROSEBICK,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Conway Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent.

W. A. P. Campbell,

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200 to $4,000 on easy terms. Low charges. Office—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c.—Office (successor to HON. GEO. ROSS), Victoria Chambers, Ottawa, Ont. Money to loan at lowest rate of interest.

Mackenzie & Ponton,

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Conveyancers, etc. Office over Exchange Bank, Belleville. Private money to loan. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada.

John A. Ponton,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c. Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. Private money to loan at 6 per cent. up on land security.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office over Exchange Bank, Belleville. Private money to loan. Agent Trust & Loan Company of Canada.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc. Office next door to post office of U. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Victoria street, Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, Q. C. D. MACAULAY. Private and Company funds to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c. Victoria Block, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., J. F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney. Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co. Ho.)

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Offices—Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville and Madoc.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario. H. B. BIGGAR. JOHN BELL, Q. C.

MEDICAL.

H. TRACY, M.D.,

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank of Montreal. d w

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College (Toronto). Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.

OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas Old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. P. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville. Telephone connection.

Elizabeth Embury, M.D., C.M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of Women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holden's jewelry store, one opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R. C.S. E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College, Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. Office 60 College Avenue Toronto.

E. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S

(HOMŒOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati; Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate of Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Platt.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,

SURGEON Dentist, Front Street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist, Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the 24th Feb., 1890, at the same hour.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugar

THOS H. COOK

Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville, Telephone 132.

WE

Can state with confidence that even among the Expensive, Highly Perfumed

TOILET SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the south of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

DILLOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

DOMINION LINE

—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Quebec, Thursday, Feb. 27th
from Halifax, Sat. March, 1st. Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th. Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th. Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privilege.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow.

Steerage $20 to Liverpool, London, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

*The accommodation for Second Cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

*Saloons, staterooms, music rooms and bathrooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or T. C. LAZIER, Agent Belleville.

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

STEEL in Store. "Jessop's" Durable Tool Quality. All Goods imported to order. Special value in Tin Plate, Wire, Cutlery, &c. Get our prices.
A. C. LESLIE & CO.
MONTREAL AND TORONTO.

H. SHOREY & CO.
Manufacturers of
MEN'S, BOY'S, YOUTH'S
AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.

THOS. DAVIDSON & CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRESSED & JAPANNED TINWARE,
WIRE GOODS,
LITHOGRAPHED SIGNS.

ROBIN & SADLER
LEATHER BELTING
MONTREAL AND TORONTO.

PLATE GLASS.
French Mirror Plate
INSURANCE
PLANET BELGIAN
MONGENAIS, BOIVIN & CO.
MONTREAL.

H. JONAS & CO.
GROCERS' SUNDRIES.
Essential OILS AND FLAVORING EXTRACTS.
JONAS' TRIPLE FLAVORING EXTRACTS
H. JONAS & CO. MONTREAL

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED
PURE HONEST GOODS.
COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.
SAFE INGREDIENTS
NO ALUM.
Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

NEW GOODS.

New Embroideries!
[Direct from Switzerland
New Prints! New Sateens!
In New and Beautiful Designs
White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Bananas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!
Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF
THE GREAT STRENGTH GIVER

IT SUPPLIES
Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT,
78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

THE PILLS purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS. They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions. For Children and the aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism. For disorders of the Chest it has no equal. For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no rival. For adults and children it acts like a charm.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

Our Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious!

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R. TEMPLETON

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Head all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

I cannot say enough in praise of the Cuticura Remedies. My boy when one year of age was taken with eczema that so battled all treatment. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSMAN, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been made well by using the Cuticura Remedies, or would say, caused by a long spell of sickness of fever sore eight years ago. He was on crutches when he first came to me. He says he has tried everything he could hear of, but got no relief until he used your Cuticura Remedies, and has been well ever since. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. Casey, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Galveston Tex.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, scaly, pimply, blotchy, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases, and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Cuticura, 50c. Resolvent, $1.00. Soap, 35c. Resolvent, $1.50. Prepared by the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserve by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strain, Weakness relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AGT

Will be at the

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism and also stop pain of any kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 246, Trenton, Ont.

24dw

AGENTS WANTED

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hilson Pear, Saunders Plum, Hilborn Raspberry, Moore's Prolific Currant, the champion cranberry, Moore's Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Stock suitable for the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms address,
STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 220 acres, three miles from Belleville, 150 acres of soil, 40 acres new land, wood, etc.

160 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a fine champion farm when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply,

Feb 6 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents

Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills!!

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try more "until I tried your pills, and after using half a box they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottles of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest and most reliable Establishment of this kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, RUPTURE, DISEASE AND RUPTURE cured. Illustrated Catalogue, 50c. Send for valuable information. Lady attendant when ladies book 10 years' experience. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Brace, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supportors, Ballerias, Crutches, etc. Always in stock. Prize Medal, Honorable Mention, and the very best goods have made this Establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE
Surgical Mechanical Mfr.
356 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, $10,000,000
Invested Funds, 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office:—Roberts Block, East Front St

"The -:- Judge."

Margaret gave an impatient toss of the hands.

"Humble yourself, Mr. McCook? I never humbled myself in my life, but there have been many occasions when I have cursed myself mentally. Cannot you imagine what has come over you lately?"

"You have known me as long as you have Mr. Leiter, I think, Miss Barthwait?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Because if that is the case, I do not understand your sudden change of manner and use 'Mr. McCook.' May I ask you how I have offended you?"

"I do not call him Harry when I speak to him."

"Only when you are arguing his cause?" Margaret's impatience could stand no more.

"What are you aiming at, Mr. McCook? I am not used to having questions put to me that seem to have a double meaning. I should hardly presume to call you by your first name unless you are much older than I. I should not think you would desire it. Is there anything peculiar in that?"

"Yes, for if Harry were my age and I his, I still think you would call him Harry."

"I am sure I should if I wanted to. Why do you make so much of a little thing?"

"Because it is not a little thing to me."

Margaret dropped her look of candor. She shielded herself behind a screen of feigned stupidity, after the manner of her kind.

"You are still mysterious," she said, smiling. "I think Harry would hasten back with that ottoman. If he does not hurry, the flower will be quite open before I have a chance to look into it, and I want to see the leaves when they first start to move."

"I shall come to see you to-morrow, Miss Barthwait."

"It is a thousand pities, Mr. McCook, but I fear I shall not be at home."

"The day after to-morrow then."

"As you please."

"At what hour?"

"How should I know? Paps and I go out riding every day. I cannot tell what hour he may come for me. You will have to take your chance."

"Would Harry have to take his chances if he came?"

"Sir?"

"Are you going to marry Harry Leiter? Have you promised to be his wife?"

"Sir, you are asking too much even for an old friend. If I were concerned alone, I should not reply. But it is only fair to Mr. Leiter to say that he has never done me the honor to ask me to be his wife. I do not think of such things. Papa and I never speak of them. You forget I am only a girl. Pray excuse me, Mr. McCook."

She ran out of the conservatory into the parlor. Harry was not there. Neither was in the music room. She searched the library with like success. Then she called softly, "Harry, Harry!" There was an silence equally subdued from the smoking room. She went in. Harry was sitting with his feet on the table, smoking furiously. Margaret entered with cheeks as red as fire.

"I've come for that ottoman," she said. Harry leaped to his feet.

"What, an angel!" he cried. "Come in the other room out of this chaos of smoke."

"Not just yet," said the maid who a moment before had been so coy and sophisticated she could not think of marriage. "I do not want to go till I have made you ask something."

"Ask something? I'll ask anything. I am sure there are a great many things you could tell me. What do you want me to ask?"

"I thought there might be something you would like to know."

"Why, yes, I would like to know just how truly a certain lady with midnight eyes loves me. I have been mad with curiosity to know for months. I have tried to find out by dreaming of her. But my dreams told nothing. I have sat by the hour feverishly wondering if the time would ever come when I dare look into her eyes as I do now—as she gave me the right to do by what she said in the conservatory this evening. But if I know just how much this lady loved me, I do not think there is another thing in the whole universe that I would be curious about. I almost conclude she would can hold any other fact worth mentioning. What, then, shall I ask about?"

"But then you can not know whether or not this lady will love you always." The cheeks were redder yet, the eyes were swimming, the bosom trembling and raised to the lips to hide the power of those perfumed things. "As lady may be sought by others, although she is but a worthless thing. Would you not like to know if she will be—will belong—"

"If she will belong to me? Well, I should say she would! I should be pleased to have any one question it."

"But she has not the right to say that you have asked her to be——O, Harry! Mr. McCook has been talking to me. He is coming to see me."

"Margaret! You wish me to ask you now, before you see him, to be my wife? Love, be my wife. Give me your spirit now, for eternal keeping. I can never thank you enough for your confidence. I could remember to my dying day that you came to me for refuge. I shall give you a ring of betrothal now, and from now till death you are mine. I shall but lend your glances to others. It will be only by my courtesy that others may listen to your voice. It is only as the reward of virtue that they may touch your hand."

He drew a ring from his finger and slipped it on Margaret's. She held him at a distance and looked at him with a sure radiance in her eyes. They stood for a moment gazing at each other with awe. What a miracle life was! What a stupendous creation was the soul! Why had they never discovered how marvelous man and woman were! Suddenly Harry threw his hand over his eyes as if blinded by the glare of that revelation. When he found the courage to look up again Margaret was gone.

As Margaret ran back into the conservatory her dress caught upon the prongs of a small garden rake that had been left near the door. The judge was talking animatedly, but he saw her accident and lowered the dress, setting the rake back in the place where it had stood. "The boy was born with a thirst for blood." He was saying. He realized that from the first. His chief delight when he was an infant was to catch worms and torture them. As he grew older it was impossible to leave him alone with the other children. He was cruel to them in some way. His sister had a dozen marks on her where she had been cut by him at different times. I could not find that he was especially vicious in any other way. He was not greedy. He was cheerful enough. He had never been known to steal. He only lied when it was necessary to conceal his atrocities. I could not even say that his race was evil. Indeed, I had seen him before I knew a thing about his life. I should have said that he had a very strong face. There was certainly no look of imbecility in it, and so far as I was able to judge, no look of insanity either. But in his short life of twelve years that boy had killed four of his playmates. He had not been content with killing them outright, but he had tortured and mangled them horribly.

I cannot say that I thought him exactly insane. I believed that he would have been able to have resisted this temptation to kill had he desired. And yet, it was evident that he could not be treated like a common murderer. If I had sent him to a reform school his presence would have endangered the life of every child in the institution. There was no doubt that the best thing for every one would have been to execute him. That would have been the most economical thing—if you understand what I mean by 'economical in this sense. But he was one whom I could not bear to think of as dwelling in solitude in the penitentiary. But I felt then, as I often have, that there should have been an intermediate between the penitentiary and insane asylum where he could be put. I never visit a poor house and see the vicious imbeciles there that the need for such an institution is not impressed upon."

"Such a structure would seem to be the habitation of devils. You remember how the possessed persons used to tear and cut themselves and howl like fiends," remarked Mrs. McCook, who was still petting the rabbit. "I cannot believe there is anything normal about a person who would commit such crimes."

"Well," cried Margaret, "of all subjects, I must say you have picked the most lugubrious. Why, I should like to know, should we talk about imbeciles and maniacs?"

"Why, indeed," drawled McCook, "we surely are above the danger of misfortune."

"Mr. McCook," said Margaret, with illconcealed anger, "I am an insinuating tone when he speaks this evening that makes it seem as if we might be capable of anything—even murder."

Harry sauntered in just then, wearing a peculiarly self-conscious expression that was evidently meant for mischief.

"So we might," said Mr. McCook, replying to Margaret's indignant remark.

Mrs. McCook shook the rabbit out of her lap and rose to go. She and Margaret went up the stairs together with their arms around each others waists, talking softly after the manner of women. When they descended, all the gentlemen were in the hall except the judge, who reappeared in a few moments. As he walked down the long parlors, Margaret watched him with the proud reflection that she had never seen him look so young, so alert, so noble and dignified as now. "Even Harry," she said to herself, "will hardly look so well at that age."

Unfortunately there was no opportunity to give Harry even a glance of parting that all the others could not partake in, as she preferred not to look at him at all, thinking it better to leave him with the memory of that long, holy glance, which sealed their troth.

"Uncle," said Harry when the doors were closed on the guests, "McCook is not the fellow he used to be. I don't know of any one who can make himself more pestiferous than he can. I hope he is never asked to set his foot in this house again!"

The butler, aroused from his nap in the adjoining cloak room, came in to lock up. He bore the historic name of Guy Mannering—or at least, Harry insisted that he did. There were no family secrets that he did not share, and he stopped now in astonishment at hearing the gentle old man say severely:

"I do not cast off the children of old friends for a caprice or a whim, Guy. William McCook is a splendid fellow, as he ought to be, considering his father and mother. You can hardly expect me to close my doors on a man simply because he has some personal peculiarities that you don't like."

"I tell you, uncle," responded Harry, "I feel, though I cannot prove it, that he is a treacherous cad. He is disloyal. Margaret is as much as said it to me. I certainly did not have Margaret set him here again." The dictatorial pride of the young man touched the pride of the old man, who straightened himself and fixed an angry eye on his boy.

"Harry, my lad," said he, in a voice trembling with nervous excitement. "I have run my own house for twice as many years as you have lived. I can do it still, without any suggestions. William McCook will come when I think it fit, and I trust he and Miss Margaret will spend many evenings here together under my roof, where no slur on my guest has ever been slandered." Harry had a temper that flashed up at each excuse. His apologies came upon his offences as quickly and as surely as the explosion of a gun follows the flash. The experiences of the evening had made him doubly sensitive, and his emotions lay near the surface.

"Then, sir," he said, rising and striding about the room, "I imagine it will come to a question of choosing between your beloved William McCook and myself. If he comes here I do not."

"You're a fool, sir," returned the old man indignantly. "But you need not think you can dictate to me. Get to your room and go to sleep. But before you go there have the kindness to inform that I shall pass a sleepless night to pay for the state you have got me in." Harry walked out of the room with his head up, and left the old man sitting with his treasured violins.

Guy Mannering saw to the fastening of the front door, and he too went up stairs, turning once to look back at his old master. His anger had been the feeble anger of age. But now two great tears had come welling down his cheeks, as he stared into the dying fire. His long, white locks looked more venerable than ever before as he contemplated his wasted form. His blue veined hands, resting on his cane, were feeble and thin.

"I would like to pick him up and carry him to bed," said Guy Mannering to himself. But he feared to hurt the old man's feelings by seeming to see his feebleness and grief, so he climbed the second flight of stairs to his own room.

"I can't quite remember," was his last thought as he turned his face to the wall and dropped off to slumber, "whether I fastened the south window in the music room or not. That darn fool Harry turned my head."

Guy Mannering was the first to enter the conservatory the next morning. It was his duty to arrange the flowers for the breakfast table. The scent of the flower that had blossomed the night before was almost sickening, but it was not that that made Mannering lean against the side of the door and turn deadly pale. He was sure it was that that made him run for the kitchen and return with the cook and the coachman and the laundry maid. There are few things more deadly, that would make four sturdy working people all turn white and sick at once. When they saw the remains of the little pink-eyed rabbit. Its remains were literally strewn over the floor. Some one would not have seemingly demolished it. But it had not been torn by the relentless teeth of a lynx. The instrument that had mangled it was the little garden rake. Those iron teeth had pierced its tender breast; they had pulled out its bradas; they had ripped up its spotless fur.

"Luna," gasped Guy Mannering to the cook, "you'll be keeling over if you stay here. Go to the music room and tell Mr. Leiter he is down on his time."

A moment later a cry froze the blood of the already trembling servants. It was hardly a cry—it was a howl, that increased each moment. Guy Mannering, more courageous than his fellows, made his way to the room from which it proceeded. The first thing that met his eyes was Luna sitting upon the floor and giving voice to that crescendo of terror. Her lips fluttered up and down with an automatical movement. Mannering followed the direction of those ghastly eyes. Then he reeled and fell heavily to the floor.

In his leather chair, before the ashes of his hospitable hearth, sat the master of the house—murdered. His throat had been cut, and across his cheeks were bloody gashes, such as a Sioux stimulates when he paints for war. They gave a sort of frightful gentlesqueness to the face. The ends of the beautiful locks were dyed scarlet. The long delicate hands were stripped up the back with knife cuts resembling the markings of a glove.

A half hour later the servants, moaning and trembling, were tenderly wondering how to wake Harry, who slept always a late sleeper. As they neared the door they saw that it stood open, and when they looked in the room they saw that it was empty and that the bed had not been slept in.

CHAPTER III.

WHEN Henry left his uncle the night before, he went immediately to his room. Fifteen minutes of solitude there made him miserablyashamed of his foolish anger. Inhalf an hour he made up his mind that his first act in the morning would be to apologize. At the end of an hour he determined to take his peace that night. Still he hesitated from a sort of boyish shame. When he came to think the matter over, it seemed as if a good part of his life had been spent making mistakes and apologizing for them. That he should be guilty of such an inexcusable ebullition on the very night made sacred with Margaret's promise was particularly humiliating.

His face turned hot with mortification as he paced the room thinking it over. What tenderness, her tenderness, her preciousness, seemed to him, as she came to him with her beautiful appeal to him for protection! What modesty and what innocence was here! A coarser girl would never have been capable of such frankness—conventionality and not womanhood would have spoken. Tears filled the young man's eyes as, with a flood of glorified recollection, her tenderness, her tenderness, her preciousness, all came back to him. Then there came to him by a sudden transition of memory, a day that he had spent with a boy in a summer meadow. That day had been a revelation to him. In it he had discovered that nature was beautiful. Until then, the full eloquence of the wind, the beneficence of the sky, the miracle of running water, of growing grass, of the eternal fruition and harvest had never reached his soul. Never since that wonderful day had he known such an hour of illumination as that which Margaret had given him. And mark the difference! That other day had ended in pray. This one had ended in an exhibition of selfishness and arrogance, and toward the kind old soul who loved him better than life. He was a heedless, egotistic fool!

Having arrived honestly and fully at this conclusion he hurried out of the room and down the stairs, thinking that he might find his uncle still in the music room. But all the lights were out, and it was evident that he had retired. Harry's next impulse was to go to the old man's room, but he concluded that if he had fallen asleep, as it was likely that he had, then it would be a pity to disturb him for something that would keep perfectly till morning. He was a light sleeper and would be awakened if one but entered the door, and all possibility of sleep for the rest of the night would be banished. So it was really best to leave it till morning.

Sleep was, however, far from Harry's eyes. His cheeks still burned fiercely and his blood was hot and restless. He decided to see what the night air would do toward soothing it, and stepping his way to the rack he found his coat and hat and let himself softly out of the front door.

The night was heavy and dull, with a moist wind blowing from the east. The massive clouds seemed to almost touch the tops of the loftier buildings. Harry walked unconscious of whither he was going until he found himself in front of the Barthwait mansion. He laughed aloud softly at the instinct that had brought him there, and, leaning against a lamp-post, he stared at Margaret's window.

"I arise from dreams of thee
In the first sweet sleep of night,
When the winds are breathing low
And the stars are shining bright;
I arise from dreams of thee,
And a spirit in my feet
Has led me—who knows how?
To thy chamber window, sweet."

He repeated with a half-mocking emphasis. Harry was not used to being sentimental. His sense of the humorous was stronger than his romanticism, and he could not all at once recognize himself in the sweet follies of love. No matter how holy the passion, he must still have seen its ludicrous side, and he could not help being amused at himself for shivering there in the damp winter air, and repeating Shelley to the solitude. But, however he might jeer at himself, there was no denying that he was a lover of quite the old-fashioned type, and that his heart was beating much faster than it ordinarily did, because he was standing in front of the house that held Margaret. How wonderful it would be if a fairy would have brushed those curtains which sheltered her from the sights of the world! He had never seen the interior of her room, familiar as he was with most of the houses that fell to crossing what it was like. He recalled the rooms belonging to various heroines of romance; there was Lucia Ashton with its Indian matting, its tender piano and Sevres vases; there was Maud's, all in an oaken gloom; and Aurora Leigh's, green as the honeysuckle vine that swayed by the window; there was Rowena's hung with pictured tapestry, and Evangeline's with its moonlit flood and spun linens. But none of these were fit for his Margaret. They were all too pallid, too monotonous, too severe. He decided that when they were married Margaret should have a Moorish boudoir, rich with carvings and hung with tapestries of mellow splendor. There should be no statuary, no etchings, no bronzes, but pictures full of life, passion and color, and embroideries glittering with Turkish bullion and faience glowing with the inimitable hues of France.

While he stood there dreaming he saw a marvellous thing. A man came running rapidly from the back of the house, and without pausing, began to clamber up the balcony that led to Margaret's room. This room was upon the side of the house, but it had a large square window that made it perfectly visible from the front. This window was supported by a porte-cochere, which extended out further into the yard than did the window, and a part of the roof of this was utilized as a balcony. A sort of acrobatic ability was displayed in one side of the porte-cochere made it as easy to climb as if it had been a ladder. Harry, with his heart in his mouth, rushed

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH & VITALITY for How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood,

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Restoring and uniting the victim for Work, Study, Marriage, the Married or Social Relations. A valuable medical production. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautifully bound, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M.D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association, for the PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Hours—9 to 5. Consult of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, 4 Bulfinch Place, Boston, Mass. Letters and orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital.....$15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plu without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

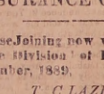
Losses paid in 1886.....$77,496.85
Assets Dec 31st 1888.....$186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey in city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance foot Pinnacle St., upstairs

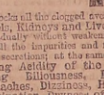
JAMES BOOTH, Agent



CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt.
Late Thos Donnelly.



Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Flutterings of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Price $1.00 per Bottle.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Royal Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

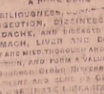
WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY AT

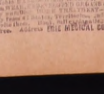
DICKENS & SON



A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, LOSS OF APPETITE, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE, PAIN IN THE STOMACH, COSTIVENESS AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FOR A FEMALE MEDICINE THEY ARE INVALUABLE. PREPARED FROM THE PURE HERBS AND SUBJECT TO CHEMICAL ANALYSIS. FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.

FOSTER & FOSTER



FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A specialist medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address,

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Hoodus, Conn.

There is hardly any other disease which undermines the health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm: its causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the energy which invigorates the relation of life in domestic ce, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE OR DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

MR. HASSELL'S TREATMENT

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain. INTERNAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Will visit professionally, Belleville Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

FINEST AND CHEAPEST MEAT FLAVOURING STOCK FOR SOUPS, GAME DISHES & SAUCES.

Cookery Books post free on application.

Ask for the COMPANY'S Extract, and see that it bears Baron Liebig's Signature in Blue Ink across the Label.

To be had of all Storekeepers, Grocers, and Chemists.

Sole Agents for Canada and the United States, Kinahan & Co., 2, Fenchurch Avenue, London, E.C.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST,

Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INGREDIENT OF ADULTERATION.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO. CHICAGO, ILL.

THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKES.

AGRICULTURAL

INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the cotton factories, and farm property; taking no material on manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safer company for the home. Having done business for thirty years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two millions in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $600,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District agent, Belleville
W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe
A. Martin agent Shirling.

WANTED

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first class. Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY
St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and will proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent preparation is the hair a refined desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Range Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorenwend is known the country over as the leading Hair Goods manufacturer and when you wanting any "Hair Goods" be sure to get the circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DIZZINESS, DYSPEPSIA, DROPSY, INDIGESTION, FLUTTERING JAUNDICE OF THE HEART, DYSPEPSIAS, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, SALT RHEUM, DYNESS OF THE SKIN, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE.

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—Of—

U.E. THOMPSON

Bridge St., Belleville,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice and interest allowed.

FOR SALE

A few hundred large size cedar posts Chatham Wagon, would exchange for wood.

NOW is good time to select implements for use at the FOOTBRIDGE WAREROOMS and see the saw that will frame spring tooth Harrow and Cultivator

PS—Old Iron wanted.

WHVANTASSEL, Agt

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS TO WORK

Life & Accident

INSURANCE,

In the County of Hastings, Apply to

S BURROWS

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins to advantage not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods. Call and see. Shop on Palace St., Front St., East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb. 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 19 1890.

Emmanual Reformed Episcopal Church METROPOLITAN BLOCK, — CAMPBELL ST GROUND FLOOR

Rev. Wm. Henry Barnes, Rector. Lenten services begin Ash Wednesday 7.45 p. m.

Military service and lecture on "The Tabernacle of Witness," illustrated by colored diagrams.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—by post—Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by S. R. HUFFMAN. Tuner.

d1y

In Great Demand.

In consequence of over seven hundred copies of the ONTARIO being issued yesterday in which only one side of the paper was printed the serial story of yesterday will be published today.

Double Track Contractors at Work.

MacArthur Bros. contractors commenced work on the double track between Belleville and Gananoque. The appliances such as derricks, dump-carts, jimmies etc. were distributed along the line on Monday. The contractors expect to have the work nearly completed in the course of a year.

Called to the Work.

Bridge St. Official Board last night recommended the following students of Albert College for the preliminary examinations prior to their entering the ministry of the Methodist church next year: Messrs. F. W. Hollinrake, H. E. Kenny, H. A. Fish, Frederick Wensley, Charles Darling, George Reader and Albert E. Down.

Presentation to Aid. Vanduzen.

The residence of Ald. Vanduzen on Dunbar street was beseiged last night by a gay bevy of young people connected with West Belleville Methodist Church. Mr. Vanduzen was taken entirely by surprise but was still more surprised when Prof. Swayze, on behalf of his Sunday school class and Young People's Association arose, and read a flattering address accompanied by a gold fountain pen. The recipient made a feeling reply in which he acknowledged his gratitude for the kind appreciation in which they held his services A pleasant social evening was spent by all.

Sunday School Convention at Madoc

On Tuesday and Wednesday March 4th and 5th a Sunday school convention is to be held in the Presbyterian church, Madoc and an association organized for North Hastings and Hungerford. The provincial association is to be represented at the meeting by the Rev. John McEwen, hon sec; Mr. Alfred Day, gen sec, and Mr. Wm. Johnson, vice pres, and these gentlemen with the Rev. J. S. Ardagh, Rev. W. C. Beer, Rev. D. Wishart, and Mr. Jos. Read, M. A., are to be speakers. The Rev. O. R. Lambly, M. A., is to conduct the singing and the hospitable people of the Madoc agree to entertain all who may attend the meeting.

MARRIED.

DEMPSEY—PECK—On the 12th Feb, 1890, by the Rev. A. C. Maybee at the residence of the brides, uncle Wm. Peck Esq. of Albury, Mr. Frank Dempsey, to Miss Florence Peck second daughter of J. H. Peck Esq. all of Ameliasburg.

TOWN TALK.

North and north west winds; fair, decidedly colder weather.

The Sons of Canada met again last night and initiated several candidates.

James Roy, brewer of this city, last year brewed over three thousand barrels of beer.

The Reformers of East Northumberland will meet a Warkworth on the 24th inst to select candidates for the provincial and Dominion elections.

Miss Verina Gillium of the Fisk University—an elocutionist accompanies the Jubilee singers on this tour and will be an additional attraction at the Tabernacle on Monday evening next.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Cream Tarta and English Soda hence is the best that can be made.

MONDAY'S MURDER.

THE POLICE MAKE AT RANDOM ARREST.

An Interview With the Prisoner—The Real Culprit at Large—The Coroner's Inquest.

Yesterday afternoon Richard Arnott, son of James Arnott, was arrested at his home on Foster avenue, charged with killing had hand in the murder of Hannah Cole, on Dundas street Monday night last. His brother, Will am Arnott whom the police suspect of being the author of the horrible crime, has left for parts unknown.

Upon Officer Cook should the credit fall of first discovering a clue to the supposed guilty parties. The officer, in conversing with a resident of Dundas St in reference to the matter, was informed by the man that he had seen the assault take place in front of his house. After scraping the frost from the window pane he thought he identified Wm. Arnott as one of the parties. He said he thought from the woman's cries that she was being killed. He told the officer that he saw the man repeatedly strike the woman. The informant requested the officer to withhold his name for the present.

Upon this information a warrant was at once sworn out for the arrest of Wm. Arnett but when the police visited his house on Foster Avenue he could not be found. Chief of Police Newton made a thorough investigation of the premises. Leading from the rear entrance he discovered two tracks leading in different directions. These he followed until they were lost in the roadway. Three men were seen on Foster Avenue early yesterday morning. One of them had a bag on his back as if going on a journey.

Chief of Police Newton and Police Officer St neburg visited Wm. Wood's barn in the fourth concession of Thurlow yesterday afternoon where Arnott has been drawing wood for Nelson Lingham. He had not turned up since Saturday night when he left for home. The officers then proceeded to Shannonville but nothing had been seen of their man. On the way home every respectical in which a man would likely conceal himself was carefully searched with the same result. Point Ann was scoured from end to end but the police were forced to return home without a clue to the suspected man's whereabouts.

Richard Arnott Interviewed.

A reporter of the ONTARIO last night was accorded a private interview with the prisoner Richard Arnott in his cell. He is a young man about twenty years of age, beardless and fully six feet tall. He is a remarkably big man for his age. In answer to a question he stoutly protested his innocence of any knowledge of the crime whatever.

When did you see your brother Bill last? asked the reporter.

On Sunday night last. He was not out of the house during that night that I am aware of.

Did you buy a bottle of whiskey with your brother on Thursday night about nine o'clock at the Gibson house?

No, I wasn't out of the house except to feed my horses.

And you never had anything to do with this woman in your life?

No, I don't know anything about her. You were not drunk on Monday night?

No, I was perfectly sober.

You sleep with your brother, I believe?

Yes, sometimes he sleeps down stairs while I sleep upstairs. We sleep together most of the time.

I have been informed that you slept together on Monday night. Is that so?

The prisoner here was unable to answer the question although he believed that his brother had not slept with him.

But you say you were sober and would certainly have known if he had?

Well I know that I was sober. I don't think he slept with me. I don't know where my brother was that night.

What time did he get home?

I don't know that either.

What time did you go to work Tuesday morning. I believe you were not as early as usual?

Yes I was on time. I know it was not seven o'clock yet.

Did Mr. Lingham not take you to task for being late?

No he did not say a word to me.

Wasn't it most remarkable that you did not see the woman in the barn when you went in that morning after your horses? Mr. Lingham was quick to discover the fact.

Well, I am forced to say that I did not hear or see anything of the woman. Waddell, who also draws wood for Mr. Lingham, was also in the barn with me, but saw nothing of the woman.

And Mr. Lingham did not ask you why you did not report the case to him?

To me he didn't.

Mr Lingham's Statement.

When Mr. Lingham was seen by a reporter today he said that he had taken his men to task for not getting to work earlier. He was desirous of making three trips a day while the good sleighing lasted. Mr. Lingham denies the statement that the woman was seen terribly disfigured. He did not notice anything unusual about the woman's countenance except a slight abrasion of the skin under the mouth. At first he did not know whether the woman was drunk or not, but believed she was dying.

Richard Arnott was released from cust today this morning by the order of the magistrate. He was only arrested on suspicion and no evidence could be brought against him.

At three o'clock yesterday a jury was empanneled at the hospital. Theodore Spafford was selected foreman. Dr. Tonker held a post mortem examination and found a severe bruise over the right eye and the bridge of the nose. The body also bore marks of violence. The jury inspected the body and adjourned the meeting to the police court room at seven o'clock tonight. There is not the shadow of a doubt now but that the victim died from the combined effects of exposure and injuries received. This opinion is also held by Dr. Youker. The police have served a number of witnesses who will give evidence tonight.

Sergt. Downs stated to-day that a man named John Hearngraves, went to William Arnott's house about an hour before the police arrived and woke him up. Hearngraves is in the employ of Nelson Lingham. Arnott is known to have left the house hurridly as he had neglected to put on his heavy boots which he usually wears.

The supposition is pretty well established that Arnott has not left the city at all but is kept in hiding by his friends awaiting further developments. It is believed that he had no money as he had asked his mother for some on Monday. she did not give it to him. During the night he tried to get a bottle of whiskey on tick at several saloons.

A reporter to-day ascertained that the woman had left her house on James St., alone on the night in question.

C. G. L. Kelso of this city, is in Toronto. He is looking after the management of the Dominion Electrical manufacturing company. He will invest in the company.

The annual meeting of the Mission will be held on Thursday evening and on Friday the children will be treated to refreshments at the Mission hall.

HULL-LESS OATS CASE

A THURLOW FARMER WHO IS FULL OF FIGHT.

Hess's Arest Charged With Misrepresentation—The Plea Upon Which the Notes Were Given—How the Grain Turned Out—Only One Case of Hundreds.

Wm. O'Brien is a sturdy farmer of Thurlow, and when the Crawford, Henry and Williams county seed company ran foul of him they struck a snag. Chester Yourex of Thurlow, acting agent for the company, got O'Brien's notes for $90 and the maker of the paper now refuses payment and charges that it was obtained by false and fraudulent pretenses. He has taken the bull by the horns and laid an information against Yourex before Jas. McCready J. P.

The case was tried at Canifton when Wm. O'Brien in his testimony said about the last day of February 1889 Charles Yourex came to his place and wanted to sell him seed wheat. He refused to buy. Yourex then sat down and they talked the thing over for two or three hours. Yourex said on the first of the following January he would take 15 bushels at ten dollars per bushel and sell it for him (O'Brien) and give him the money and take up the note given for the seed grain. The balance of the wheat Yourex was to sell at $7.50. It was represented as good. He said the wheat would be brought to my place but it was not there when we were talking and never saw it until after it was delivered. I can neither read nor write but Yourex drew the notes, two of them. I signed them and he gave me the seed company's bond. Yourex took the notes and I have not seen them since, nor do I know where they are. One note was for $30, the other for $60.

As the witness could not produce the notes, council for defence objected to the evidence but the justice took the evidence subject to the objection.

Yourex read the notes over to me before I signed them. They were payable to Hess or bearer and were to be paid in cash the first of Feb., 1890. He also read the bond and said it was perfectly good, that the company would do as it stated.

When I returned home one day, shortly after, I found that somebody had left wheat at my place, about 6 bushels. I have since spoken to Yourex about the wheat, in Jones' store, Belleville, last fall. I stated to Yourex that I would allow him $1.25 per bushel for the six bushels and that he should give me the money to pay the notes. He said "when will we do it?" I said, "right here." He said, "let us go down street." He then went down street and into an office, and paid a man some money, but the matter was not settled with me. I waited for some time as Yourex said he would be out again, but he did not come.

I examined the wheat when I used it and do not believe it was a new kind as was represented. It was shrunken, full of dirt and herrick. I sowed the wheat afterwards and had only half a crop or barely that. I had no herrick on my farm worth mentioning until I used that wheat. I had great confidence in Yourex and relied upon what he told me and believed he told me the truth in regard to the wheat and notes. I gave notes for $90 and got six bushels of wheat which made it cost $15 per bushel. Yourex never came, nor did anybody else come to take wheat from me on those notes. I raised some thirty bushels from the grain, when I should have had about 60 or 60 bushels. The grain is at my place yet.

Mr. J. H. Simpson counsel for the defence cross examined the witness, when he said the notes and bonds were read to him and the matter was talked over until I thought he understood it pretty well. The witness said "I took the wheat as a speculation expecting Yourex to do as he agreed. He read the bond as it is and explained it and nothing was held back as I know of.

Peter O'Brier swore said he recollected when Yourex was at his father's. He and his mother advised him not to have anything to do with the wheat. Yourex said he would be foolish not to go into it as other people were making money. My father relied upon what Yourex told him and took the wheat. I sowed it for my father and it was not good wheat.

Mrs. Wm. O'Brien gave evidenced corborating what the others had sworn to. Judgment was reserved.

This case shows the inner working of the swindle and the argument that was used to draw the victims into the net. Wm O'Brien is only one of hundreds in this county who can tell the samestory but the great majority of those caught considered themselves too sharp to be taken in, but the bait was tempting that they bit, but say nothing, pay their notes like little men and no one is the wiser of their foolishness. But seed grain agents had best give them a long rest.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

L. W. Yeomans, is in Toronto.

F. Lockett, of Haines & Lockett, is in Toronto.

Robert Graham, Smith Falls, is at the Kyle house.

B. T. Turner, Toronto, is stopping at the Dominion.

J. C. Hawley, Kingston, is registered at the Kyle house.

Geo. Bengough, Toronto, is stopping at the Kyle house.

John Wesley, Oadington, is registered at the Dominion house.

James Conger, of Conger Bros., is confined to his house on account of illness.

W. H. Connell and wife, St. Paul, Minn., are in the city visiting relatives.

John Johnson, inspector of schools, has returned from Hamilton where he was visiting his son.

F. E. Clark is in Bowmanville to-day adjusting a loss for the Caledonian Insurance company.

Hark! to the sound of humanity's wails! Millions of people with aches and with ails. Headaches and humors, a merciless flood, Weakness of lungs and disorders of blood. Yet there's a helper that certainly cures Thousands of people from premature graves. The remedy is Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures coughs, relieves asthma, checks bronchitis purifies the blood, heals sores, eruptions and unsightly pimples and is without a rival for all the ills that spring from a disordered liver.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh remedy. Of druggists.

Canadians Abroad.

A Quincy Ill, correspondent to the News Argus says: We frequently meet with people from Belleville and vicinity. Mr. Will J. Hynes, formerly of Belleville, is now connected with the Herald of this city one of our principal newspapers; and Mr. Jas. Corby, brother of Henry Corby, M. P. paid us a visit a few weeks ago. He says that quite a number of Belleville and Stirling people have prominent positions in the west, especially in Chicago. So you see Canadian people seem to take high rank in the United States.

THE FIRST SETTLERS.

U E LOYALISTS ON THE BAY OF QUINTE.

Privations of the Winter—The Sturdy Sons who Laid the Foundation for Our Present Greatness.

The following is the story by Miss Helena Driscoll, Trenton, which won the county of Hastings prize in the Witness competition.

"Come one, come all! Another race has filled Those populous borders—wide the wood recedes
And towns shoot up, and fertile realms are filled;
The land is full of harvest of green meads.
—Bryant.

Night upon the Bay of Quinte—and such a night! Moonlight falling in long yellow rays; bathing the clear sparkling waters of the bay in a cloud of splendor, coquetting with the shadowy tree tops, as they bend and sway in the wind, and now and then one ray more venturesome than the others shoots his pale light into the thick forest gloom. Millions upon millions of stars are shining, and calmly, lovingly their glances rest upon the peaceful scene before them. What secrets these stars might reveal if they would, and what scenes their bright eyes have gazed upon. It is here that the dark haired Indian maid the wild flower of the forest—her young heart filled with awe, breathes upon the midnight air her prayer to the Great Spirit. And the stern chieftain, the hero of many a bloody battle, feels a great wonder stealing over him as he gazes upon the perfect picture, and his dark soul bows before the something which makes him feel that the spirit land is near, though he cannot see it. Perfect silence had heretofore reigned, but now a sound breaks the solemn stillness, and the steady drip, drip, drip of oars is heard in the distance. In a moment a long canoe has shot forward. It is followed by another and yet another until at last eight canoes have appeared. They are full of men and women, all of whom are attired in what is known as voyageur costume. In an hour the place which had been so quiet before is a scene in which excitement is the predominant feature. The canoes are hauled up on the shore, and all the men are engaged in some particular way. Three or four are chopping down the smaller trees for firewood, others are taking the logs which have been cut and are lighting large fires, while others are trying to console the women who are huddled together, while the memories of the home they have left crowd thick and fast around them.

"Mon Dieu! I can never live here!" cries one poor Frenchwoman, as she gazes beyond the circle of light which the fires have made into the forest, which now looks almost impenetrable, the light only serving to make it look darker and denser than it really is.

"We shall be the food of the wolves or the Indians; I'm sure I do not know which fateto be preferred." It is an English woman that is speaking now, and a tall fair Englishman answers firmly:

"No, indeed we shall not. Wait until daylight and then you will see what a magnificent country it is, and how homelike it will soon appear to us after a short time. But come now and get supper, we will talk of our troubles afterward."

The women smooth their heads mournfully; it would never appear like home to them they thought, but they went quite cheerfully to work to prepare the repast. After supper the voyagers gathered around the fires and then the song and story went the rounds. Far into the night they talked. All the plans for the future were discussed, all their aspirations and anxieties made known, until at last one by one they drew their blankets around them, and slumber sealed their weary eyelids. And now, in dreams, they are again across the blue ocean, and see once more their quaint cottage homes with the ivy trailing over their whitewashed walls, and the red flowers peeping in through the low, square windows, or they are walking through English cornfields. The poor Frenchwoman likewise is once more beneath the bright skies of France, hearing the vesper bell as it chimes the hour of evening prayer.

I will relate their reasons for leaving their homes and coming to the wilds of Canada. You must know that from the year 1776 England had been waging war against the United States. In the latter country the people were divided into two parties, one of which persisted in being loyal to the British crown and so were called United Empire Loyalists. The war had only been in progress a year when the thirteen states determined to throw off the British yoke altogether and, in 1783, by the Treaty of Versailles, the independence was acknowledged. The party in America which had remained loyal to England during the war were now placed in a very unpleasant position. Treaty did not make the victors generous, and in a short time the new government passed an act confiscating the property of the United Empire Loyalists. This act hastened the departure of these true people from their homes, and a large number of them together with others recently from England and France—among them our little band—came to Canada to build new homes for themselves, and by hard work and perseverance to partly retrieve their lost fortunes. The position of the new settler was not an enviable one. He went into the wilderness with very few possessions, consisting sometimes of only the clothes that he wore and an axe and musket. Some had not even these and all were more or less obliged to accept the help which the Government offered them. They were given seed to sow on their clearings, and many other needs were also supplied. The first thing the settlers had to do was to build a log house. This done the land about it was cleared and cultivated.

Those whose fortunes we are following had many hardships to endure. The crops might fail and then their position would be indeed a pitable one. The wolves were a constant source of trouble, and last but not least came the Indians. Everyone knows how uncertain is the Indian temper. In the darkness of the night they would row noiselessly up the rivers and bursting in upon the unconscious natives, would commence their work of savage bloodshed. In this way whole settlements were sometimes destroyed. This made the settlers very cautious and they kept as close together as possible in fear of an attack. Their first year in Canada was not very successful. The crops were not very abundant, and they had to depend much on the old musket for their food. Then the full severity of a Canadian winter fell upon them. No tongue can describe or pen portray the sufferings which these poor creatures endured during those three long, dreary months. The snow was very deep and the cold intense and it was with difficulty that a path was shovelled to where the poor, half-starving, half-frozen cattle stood shivering in their miserable sheds. During the winter the poor Frenchwoman died. Like a weary bird that vainly beats its wings against the bars of its cage, so did she struggle with her longings for home, and vainly did she try to repress them. It was pitiful to hear her raving.

"Take me back to my own country—to la belle France. Let me see the bright skies and the stars as they shone like diamonds in the evening heavens. It is cold and desolate here." And then the fever grew stronger, but in all her delirium the only words she watchers could understand were "home," and "France." They buried her at the end of one of the clearings on a day when the sun seemed to shine brighter and the snow fell in large soft flakes, making a fair white mantle for her grave. And when at last the springtime came, wild flowers grew upon it and there they bloomed and flourished the whole summer through, and the sun shone so brightly and the birds carolled as sweetly as they did in the sunny France so far away. This first death, as might be expected, cast a feeling of deep depression over all the settlers. But as the spring wore on and Nature began to deck her flowery mantle, they shook off this feeling, and went to work with renewed vigor, sometimes meeting with successes, often with disappointments, but through all placing their trust in him who knows when even a sparrow falleth.

To recount all their sufferings, all their hopes deferred, all the expectations in which, alas! they were often doomed to disappointment, would fill a volume, but now that over a century has passed away, and we of the present time look about us and see the prosperous cities and towns on every side, and reflect that it is to the toil worn hands of those early pioneers that we owe the foundation of our beloved Canada, do you wonder that a feeling of pride fills our hearts when we think that the very fact that we are Canadians and belong to a country whose founders were so heroic? Their wailing tears and weary watchings have not been in vain. Those where the tall pines waved and the timid deer wandered stand towns and cities. Vessels traverse the bay and river where once the Indian paddled his canoe, a bridge arch of all lie surveyed, and where the funeral-pyres were lighted and the death songs chanted by the dusky warriors, now stand churches and chapels, factories and stately homes. Such are the changes which have been wrought in a few years, and will begin of our land upon the women whose high spirits and indomitable courage helped them to overcome every difficulty and enabled them to sow the seed the harvest of which we are now reaping.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

A Further Tribute of Respect to his Memory—A Good Man a Successful Teacher and a Faithful Friend.

All that was mortal of the late Professor Greene was laid at rest this afternoon. The funeral services were largely attended, his sad demise taking a strong hold upon the community. In noticing his death on Monday we briefly referred to some of the qualities of head and heart that made him such a general favorite in the community. He was a man of marked personal characteristics, and was also blessed by nature with a disposition that most favorably impressed those with whom he came in contact. Himself a deaf mute, and possessing a rare ability of expression or illustration, he could convey an idea to others similarly afflicted, or succeed in making an impression, when there seemed no possible means of success. In promiscuous company, too, even when there were few familiar with the manual or sign languages, his natural tact, talent, and address gave him easy access to the society of all. Mr. Greene was a gentleman by instinct, by association, and by education. He had a keen perception of the fitness of things, and could, with little effort, accommodate himself to circumstances. In this respect he had few peers and his disability did not interfere with his successful discharge of social or business obligations. Generous to a fault, and with a magnanimity of purpose that challenged admiration and won esteem, he endeared himself to many friends, and left a memory that should be a rich legacy to sorrowing relatives.

As a teacher of the deaf, for which he was specially qualified, he was eminently successful. In this capacity his usefulness was not confined to the work of the classroom. Outside of the functions of teaching he was an adept in harmonizing difficulties, allaying fears, and promoting the general well-being of the "children of silence," with whom he loved to associate. Admonition and instruction were given with such a spirit of gentility and kindness that the most stubborn and rebellious disposition yielded obedience or acknowledged error. For nearly twenty years he has been a conspicuous figure in and about the institution for the deaf. When there were mournful obsequies to be observed he always acted a prominent part, because he knew so well what to say, and how to say it. When pleasure reigned supreme, or sports and pastimes engaged attention, he was present to direct, assist and complete the fun. No gathering, whether for social or scholastic purposes was complete without his presence. Our readers know, too, how frequently he gave his valuable assistance at church and literary gatherings and how popular all his inimitable pantomimic performances were. The loss of such a member of the community must be sorely felt.

It was however in discharge of domestic duties—in his relations as head of an interesting family that Prof. Greene appeared to best advantage. There his nobility of character, his tenderness and forbearance brought sunshine and joy and made sure the bonds so love that held his wife and children to his heart. The influence of such a character is not of ephemeral duration. It must be felt like the concentric circles formed by the plunge of a pebble in the smooth surface of a piece of water, which continue to enlarge until lost in the distance, or break upon the opposite shores. So will the influence for good exerted by the example of manhood, given by Prof. Greene, work upon the lives of his children and pupils until it breaks upon the shores of eternity.

"He is not dead—the man of our affection—
But gone unto that school
Where he must learn a deeper year poor protection
And Christ himself doth rule."

Scattered over the province, and elsewhere throughout the Dominion, are hundreds of deaf men and women who will retain, while life endures, pleasant recollections of a genial, kind hearted, and earnest teacher—a sincere friend and benefactor. While the sad news of his death reaches them, there will be unfeigned sorrow and honest expressions of regret. And so, after all,—

"The world is not so good—
Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood."

NEW GOODS

A T FISH'S
A T FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!

NEW UNDERWEAR!

NEW KID GLOVES!

NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

400 Collars at 5 Cents each;

A E FISH & CO

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB. 1ST.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their origin l price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

—AT—

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjees, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch, Manager.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

☞ adquartar for School Books and Fine Stationery.

MENIER CHOCOLATE

Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 6 GOLD MEDALS.

LARGEST CHOCOLATE MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD

YEARLY SALE EXCEEDS 30,000,000 POUNDS.

PUREST, HEALTHIEST AND BEST.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER Menier Chocolates and take no others.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: THURSDAY FEBRUARY 20, 1890 | NO 43

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars

NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams

Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackbells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coconut Sugar Wafers

Assam Biscuits—Bondoir biscuits—Albert Biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES & &c.
Our Stock includes all the leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER
Guinn's, [Guiness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
34 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchin's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED STATES
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy

HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR,
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to s

S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods,
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, Rochester, N.Y. 13 lw sw

WANTED.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay Apply to MRS. M. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

POSTPONED

THE Orpheus Musical Club have postponed their series of concerts until after Lent. According to the recent arrangement the entertainment announced for Thursday, 20th inst. is withdrawn.

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thoroughly repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to ADAM HENRY, Front Street.

Belleville Amateur Minstrels

Members of above Company are particularly requested to attend a meeting in Harrison's Hall, THURSDAY EVENING, Feby 20th, at 8 o'clock, to discuss an invitation from Trenton. C. A. BERNARD, Manager.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address, DANIEL KETCHESON, Belleville, P. O.

SALE
—OF—
VALUABLE — PROPERTY

THE Undersigned hereby offers for sale the following property, the stock of G. A. Ostrander, Insolvent, consisting of

Dry Goods	$1 077 55
Groceries	361 09
Fixtures	89 70
Book Debts	539 71

Tenders will be received for the above up to Saturday the 22nd instant at 10 a. m., tenders to be addressed to the Assignee and to show rate on the dollar. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

There will also be sold by Public Auction on Saturday the 22nd inst. at 1 p. m. at the Corner opposite Herrington's Hotel, Main Street, Foxboro, the following goods and chattels:

1 Horse, 1 Platform Spring Wagon, 1 Peddling Waggon, one cutter.

The Stock List may be seen at the sheriff's office Picton, and at the office of F. W. O'Flynn barrister, Belleville. Terms Cash.

JAMES GILLESPIE, Assignee. F. E. O'FLYNN, Solicitor for Estate.

Dated this 14th day of Feb. 1890

NEXT - ATTRACTION
—OF—
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
—OF—
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
—OF—
The Second Edition of
MR W. J. GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale,
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $35 000.
——Forming in its entirety——
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70

BUY SUGAR NOW

They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from

TEASING YOU

to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.

"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers,
Victoria Buildings.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salary and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,279.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville

Bermuda Bottled.
"You must go to Bermuda, if you do not I will not be responsible for the consequences." "But, doctor, I can afford neither the time nor the money." "Well, if that is impossible, try

SCOTT'S EMULSION
OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL.
I sometimes call it Bermuda Bottled, and many cases of
CONSUMPTION,
Bronchitis, Cough or Severe Cold
I have CURED with it; and the advantage is that the most sensitive stomach can take it. Another thing which commends it is the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites which it contains. You will find it for sale at your Druggist's, in Salmon wrapper. Be sure you get the genuine.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

HOLIDAY GOODS
—O—
PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold medal awarded author by the Council of the National Medical Association. Address P. O. Box 1895, Boston, Mass., or Dr. W. H. Parker, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty: diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

M. C. ROBLIN.
—ISSUER OF—
MARRIAGE LICENSES
Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Co.
Front St opp Ann's American.

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops. Best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

HASTINGS
LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY
BELLEVILLE ONT.
CAPITAL $250,000
MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest rates.
Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.
MORTGAGES PURCHASED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
INTEREST PER CENT interest allowed on Deposit, No notice required of withdrawals.
OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.
Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission
J. P. O PHILLIPS, Manager.

SALESMEN WANTED.
Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are good as gold. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.
REFERENCES.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.
CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY NURSERYMEN,
COLBORNE — — — ONTARIO.

MANITOBA'S FINANCES.

PROVINCIAL TREASURER M'MILLAN'S BUDGET SPEECH.

Estimated Expenditure $670,000, Revenue $970,000—A Grant to the Hudson Bay Railway—The Bill to Abolish Separate Schools Not Introduced.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 19.—In the Legislative Assembly this afternoon the bill abolishing Separate Schools was introduced.

Col. McMillan, Provincial Treasurer, delivered his Budget Speech. He dwelt on the saving effected by the Greenway Government since it came into power. He alleged that the entrance of the Northern Pacific into the country had caused a great saving to farmers and he also said that the branches constructed by the Canadian Pacific throughout the country had increased the acreage and greatly benefited the farmers.

Bringing down the estimates he showed that the estimated expenditure for the year would be nearly $670,000 against $514,000 for last year. For the Attorney-General's Department $127,000 was asked against $72,383 last year. The increase was caused by the amount required for establishing the new system of land title offices. For agriculture and immigration nearly $60,000 was asked against $45,000 last year. The increase is to promote immigration work more vigorously. For legislation $43,000 is wanted against $36,000 last year. For the Railway Commissioner's Department $36,000 is wanted and for public works $320,000. For the Department of Education $76,000 is required. Provision is made in the estimates for granting aid to the Hudson Bay Railway which subject received considerable mention from the Treasurer.

The total estimated revenue is $622,000 which with interest on outstanding loans to municipalities etc., will reach to nearly $970,000. From land titles $60,000 is expected, liquor licenses $35,000, and from interest $40,000. The subsidy of $400,000.

At the evening session there was a vigorous debate on the estimates which lasted until midnight. Attorney-General Martin was attacked by the Opposition. Several lively scrimmages took place.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Assembly Holds a Three-Hours Session—Deputations Galore.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—The Assembly had a three-hours session yesterday. A number of returns were asked for and several measures passed their second reading, among them being Mr. Waters' bill to amend the Ditches and Water Course Act. Mr. Pardee's bill to amend the Surrogate Courts Act also passed its second reading as did Mr. Waters' bill to amend the Municipal Act.

A deputation consisting of Mr. Conmee, M.L.A., T. W. Dobbie, and W. Young representing the municipality of Rat Portage asked the Government to aid them in the assistance they are giving the Lake of the Woods Milling & Lumber Company located at Rat Portage. They are giving the Company $10,000 and they want the Government to further assist the concern.

A deputation from the Ontario Jailers' Association called on the Premier yesterday with the object of securing certain prison reforms. They ask for the appointment of a commissioner to enquire into the present management of prisons. Their principal grievance is that the jails are now under the direct authority of the local governor and county councils, making the system complicated and unwieldy, and they want a uniform management under one head.

A deputation waited on the Minister of Education at 2 o'clock this afternoon to urge the flying of the Canadian flag on every school-house in Ontario.

The ninth annual session of the Grand Lodge, A.O.U.W., is in progress at Victoria Hall, Queen-street, with 361 delegates in attendance. The annual report of Grand Master Spry showed the growth of the order during the past year to have been unprecedented in its history. The order has now 341 lodges. The total deaths to date have been 611 in a membership of 23,443; total benefits paid $1,222,000; total death rate per annum 3¾ per 1000. During the year 104 death losses aggregating $308,000 had been paid; 31 lodges had been organized and the membership had increased 3373. The average duration of memberships of members who have died during the year was 4½ years, and the average age of members who had died 43½ years. The assessments during 1889 were 12, the lowest of any year since 1883.

The actions against the G.T.R. arising out of the St. George accident were proceeded with yesterday at Osgoode Hall and a number of witnesses for the plaintiffs examined. The cases will be continued to-day.

The twenty-third annual match for the Thompson-Scoville medal between the Toronto and Buffalo clubs, was played in the Huron-street rink yesterday and resulted in a victory for the Canadian curlers by 81 shots to 72. This gives Toronto 15 victories to Buffalo's 8.

The great curling event of Ontario for the year begins in this city to-day, when the finals for the Ontario silver tankard commence.

THREE LADS DROWNED.

While Skating on Silver Lake at Port Dover—A Narrow Escape.

PORT DOVER, Feb. 19.—About 10 o'clock this morning George Bailey, aged 11, Norman Scofield, 12, and Frank Fairchild were skating on Silver Lake, when one of the boys broke through the ice and the other two in trying to help him out also broke through. All three were drowned, efforts to resuscitate them being unavailing.

This morning a young son of Mr. Ellis of the knitting mills on the way to school attempted to cross the same lake on the ice but broke through. His cries were heard by Mr. Morgan, a resident near the lake, who responded quickly and succeeded in rescuing the child from drowning.

The Boarder Fled.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. Que. 19.—A terrible explosion of dynamite cartridges occurred at William Taylor's house here to-day. The house was wrecked and the furniture destroyed. Mr and Mrs. Taylor and two children were seriously injured. A boarder placed the cartridges in store to-day. Mrs. Taylor, not knowing they were there, shut the oven door. The boarder fled.

Failed to Make Out a Case.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The building contractor Thomas Kavanagh, a member of Camp 10, Chicago, Dan Lynch, who was being implicated in attempts to bribe possible jurors on the Cronin trial, was released to-day after the evidence for the prosecution was all in. Judge Waterman ruled that the State's Attorney had failed to make out a case. This leaves one man, Jere O'Donoll, on trial.

Fashionable Shoplifters Arrested.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Feb. 19.—A sensation was created here to-day by the arrest of Mrs. Giles Collins, wife of a leading politician, and her daughter for shoplifting. The women were detected stealing articles in a dry goods store. At their home was found $5000 worth of goods taken from various stores.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I go no relief until I took Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam which cured me entirely. I highly recommend it

MRS. M'CREA AND MR. GREEN.

Arrival of the "Happy Family" at Southampton—The Talks.

SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 20.—Mr. Douglas Green and Mrs. Snell-McCrea arrived from New York by the North German Lloyd Steamship Lahn at 3 o'clock this morning. They had intended going on to Bremen in that steamer, but on hearing that reporters were on board who were anxious to interview them eventually they changed their minds and decided to land here. Mrs. McCrea, who looks pale and ill, is attended by two French maids who accompanied her and the baby. She and Mr. Green traveled under the name of "T. Fullerton and wife." Their identity was discovered early in the voyage by Ernest Smith appearing in the smoking room as the steamer was going down the bay with a copy of the New York papers of Feb. 12. Mr. Ernest Smith is a son of ex-Mayor Perry Smith of Chicago. During the voyage the Green-McCrea combination was as veritable "happy family," and their devotion furnished a prolific source of conversation and surmise on the part of the steamship's company and eventually to shrewd suspicions of mystery which soon ripened into certainty in spite of the reticence of Mr. Smith, who did not divulge his knowledge of the parties.

In answer to a reporter's question as to the whereabouts of his wife Mr. Green replied, "I have not yet said I have a wife."

"Your partners, Messrs. Green & Bateman, notified the New York Stock Exchange on the day you sailed that you were no longer a member of the firm, all connection having ceased from that date."

"That is so," he replied, "but it was done at my request. Before sailing I requested my partners to allow me to withdraw my name from the firm without delay, so it was entirely at my solicitation that their letter was sent to the Stock Exchange. In all this case the only regret I have is the trouble it has caused my late wife's family."

Following this I enquired whether Mrs. McCrea visited him at the Barcelona flat armed with a pistol with which she threatened to shoot him unless he went to Boston and married her, and Mr. Green replied: "That is wholly and absolutely false. There is not one word of truth in it."

A RUSSIAN SCANDAL.

Grand Duke Nicolas' Expulsion—The Czar's Stern Morality.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 19.—The cause of the Grand Duke Nicolas leaving this city has just been ascertained from private sources. The Grand Duchess has for a long time been separated from her husband and has been living in seclusion in a convent at Kieff. Soon after his marriage to the Princess of Montenegro the Grand Duke Peter, a son of the Grand Duke Nicolas, took his bride to Kieff to introduce her to his mother, when the latter promised her new daughter-in-law a valuable family jewel which her husband, the Grand Duke Nicolas, had in his possession at St. Petersburg. The present was being forthcoming the Grand Duchess Sophia wrote a letter to the Empress, telling her of the fact and asking the Empress to remind the Grand Duke Nicolas of the promised jewel to send it. The Empress naturally mentioned it to the Czar, who, unsuspicious of any wrong, asked the Grand Duke how it was he had failed to send the jewel to his daughter-in-law. Then the Grand Duke Nicolas was obliged to confess he was unable to comply with the request of his wife for he had given it as a present to his mistress, Madame Schislave. Madame was quietly asked if, under the circumstances, she would not return the jewel, but she refused point blank to give it up. Next day Madame received an unwelcome visit from the police, who politely but firmly demanded the return of the jewel, at the same time informing the lady that if she did not comply with the request it would be taken from her by force. Madame, weeping bitterly, reluctantly gave up the jewel and went to bed broken hearted at this treatment she had received. Three days after she died, her death being accelerated by the use of morphia, to which which she was addicted. The Grand Duke Nicolas, too, was taken ill suddenly, and before he had quite recovered he received orders from the police department commanding him to leave Russia in disgrace. This is quite in accordance with the Czar's usual policy, for he is most severe in his views regarding the morals of his family and his court, and already 15 great families have been excluded from all intercourse with the palace because some of their members have been mixed up in scandalous proceedings.

OPPOSED TO IMP. FED.

Mr. David's Proposed Resolution in the Quebec Assembly.

QUEBEC, Feb. 19.—It is rumored that an attempt is to be made to mar the effect of the loyalty resolution recently passed by the House of Commons and that Mr. L. O. David, M.L.A. for Montreal East, intend introducing a motion in the Assembly deprecating any attempt at Imperial Federation and expressing a desire for closer relations with the United States.

C.P.R. Earnings.

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—The earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the week ending Feb. 15 were

1890	$215,000
1889	204,000
Increase, 1890	$11,000

La Patrie Appeals.

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—La Patrie has given notice of appeal from Judge Loranger's judgment condemning it to pay $350 to Hon. L. O. Taillon as damages for the statement made by that paper that the above named gentleman used marked ballots in his election against Mr. L. O. David in Montreal East.

Train Wreckers Sentenced.

WINDSOR, Feb. 19.—Emanuel Wilkes and Charles Wilson, both of Colchester, were sentenced to-day for trying to wreck trains on the Walkerville Railway, were each sentenced to four years in Kingston Penitentiary this morning by Magistrate Bartlett.

Yellow Fever in Brazil.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Yellow fever is playing havoc with the population of Cometa in the Province of Para, Brazil, having within six weeks carried off more than one-third of the population.

Losses Caused by Fire.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19.—Levy & Wolfson's crockery store; P. Werlein, pianos; Leopold & Levy, carpets; T. Ellinghaul, photo-gravier, and Lawton Bros., hats, were burned today. Loss $150,000.

A Tobogganing Fatality at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—Arthur Sauve, a House of Commons page, was killed tonight at the Capital slide. He was overtaken by another toboggan while descending the shute.

The Candid Truth.
I USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and throat; it never

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL

A SURVEY OF THE DUAL LANGUAGE SITUATION.

Sir John Thompson's Amendment Discussed—Likelihood of Its Adoption—Mr. Chapleau's Position—Mr. Davin and Senator Perley at Odds.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—Sir John Thompson's amendment condemning the preamble of Mr. McCarthy's bill and postponing further action for the present, for that is what it does, is the chief topic of discussion among the politicians to-day and the general opinion seems to be that it will be carried by a majority much larger than that by which Mr. Beausoleil's amendment was defeated.

It seems a surprising thing that the only French member to vote against that amendment on Tuesday night should have been Hon. J. A. Chapleau, who had been popularly credited to be more ready than anyone to go on strike on the frailest excuse of an infringement upon French privileges. On this occasion, however, the moderate tone of his speech and his manly refusal to be a party to the majority showed him to be capable of resisting the blind appeal to French passion made on behalf of the Beausoleil amendment.

He took a leading part in drafting the amendment proposed by Sir John Thompson and of which Mr. Chapleau is the seconder. This amendment, as will be noticed, is built upon the proposition submitted by Hon. Edward Blake, but is more definite, for while he leaves a settlement to some undefined time in the future, Sir John Thompson proposes that the Legislative Assembly may deal with it at any time after the next election. By passing the Thompson amendment the House will not confer any power on the Territorial Assembly to deal with the matter. The proposition to confer such power will come up later on and then perhaps all the debate will be repeated.

There is a nice quarrel between Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin and Senator Perley on the subject of the probable outcome of a reference of the language question to the Northwest Assembly. Senator Perley wrote a note to Mr. McCarthy expressing his opposition to such a reference, as he said it would cause the Hull riots to be paralleled in certain settlements in the Northwest. Mr. McCarthy read this note in the House and in reply Mr. Davin sneeringly referred to the senator as a "great authority" in a tone which conveyed the idea that the greatness might be in avoirdupois only, and he said to hear Mr. Perley quoted by Mr. McCarthy reminded him of the line "and dance the second followed dance the first." Now Senator Perley was at the time an interested listener to the debate from the Senators' gallery and the expression on his countenance boded no good to the bard of Regina. The Senator is no fossil, being one of the younger members of the Upper House. He is upwards of 6 feet high and on a peace footing weighs 225 pounds. It is an open secret that after Mr. Davin's onslaught on Mr. Kimber the other day that official put his black rod in pickle for him, and it is now whispered that, other weapons having gone out of fashion, the Senator may still seek to use the rod upon the Commoner.

Mr. Chapleau's Position.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—Mr. Chapleau's organ, La Presse, in an editorial to-night says: "The McCarthy bill will be defeated by a large majority, and the loss of the Beausoleil amendment changes the situation materially since the Government promised to have justice given to the Metis and French settlers in the territories recognizing the French language and for the publication of the statutes and before the courts. The Government propose to make new electoral divisions in the Northwest so as to dispel the cloud of uneasiness and give satisfaction to the population of French origin. For this reason Hon. Mr. Chapleau did not support the Beausoleil amendment by his vote yesterday, reserving his vote for another amendment which will give the death blow to the McCarthy bill.

IS IT DAVIES?

The Frozen Body of a Man Found on the Island of Orleans.

QUEBEC, Feb. 19.—The body of a man frozen stiff was found on the Island of Orleans this morning and a report is current that it is that of Davies, the missing agent of Bryant, Powers & Bryant. The authorities are very silent on the subject.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

A gas well with a capacity of 10,000,000 feet has been struck near Fort Recovery.

At Buckaw, near Magdeburg, all the employes of the great machine shop are on strike.

Luxembourg has appointed delegates to the Labor Conference to be held at Berne, Switzerland.

A fierce riot broke out at Breslau Wednesday. Many people were wounded and arrested by the police.

The Iowa legislative deadlock has at last been broken by the election of a Democratic speaker and clerk.

The American Seed Oil Company have filed articles increasing their capital stock from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000.

The New York Stock Exchange has passed the World's Fair Bill as amended by the Assembly and the bill has gone to the Governor.

The Passenger Committee of the trunk lines have arranged details for closing all the New York down town emigrant offices March 1.

It is announced officially that the Pan-American Congress will not make the proposed southern tour until the end of their sessions. Then three weeks will be devoted to visiting that section.

An attempt to blow the Paris & Cologne express train off the track was made Wednesday near Charleroi. Two heavy boards were tied to the rails by some villain who escaped detection.

Crowds of people in Muelheim, a province of Saxony, provoked a tumult during a speech of Waldel Friedorf, the Imperial Minister. The corps of Uhlans was called out and many people were wounded; one young girl was dangerously crushed.

The steamship Teutonic took out from Liverpool Wednesday 1100 passengers, of whom 200 were in the saloon. Among the latter was Lord Morfeth, eldest son of the Earl of Carlisle, who is going to make a tour of the United States. Howard Potter and family and Duncan McIntyre of Montreal.

The English missionaries in South Africa are growing envious of the Americans, who vastly outnumber them and are much better organized. Fifty curates of small parishes in Scotland and Wales have been ordered to sail from Southampton next week for the dark continent. The Irish Roman Catholic Church also intends to send a contingent to Nyassaland.

Do No be Deceive.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

FOUND DEAD IN HER BED.

Sudden Taking Off of a Hamilton Woman—A Typhoid Patient's Freak.

HAMILTON, Feb. 19.—Margaret Fazius was found dead in her bed at 3 o'clock this morning by her husband. According to his own story, Fazius at this time saw his wife for the first time since the day before. He states that he was so badly under the influence of liquor the night before that he has no remembrance of when his wife came into the house or where she was in the house when he reached home. He tumbled into bed in this intoxicated state, and only became aware of her presence in the manner stated. The deceased was about 70 years of age and unfortunately was almost as addicted to liquor as her husband. There is little doubt the terrible bender was the cause of her death. The couple did not make free with their neighbors around, and consequently little is known of their doings. No marks of violence were found on deceased's body. After enquiring into the circumstances of Mrs. Fazius' death Coroner Woolverton concluded that they did not demand an inquest, but yielding to the desires of deceased's relatives for a full investigation he determined to hold one.

At about 6½ o'clock this morning Edward Hall, a patient in the male ward of the City Hospital, who is suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever and who is delirious therefrom, was left alone for a moment by the nurse who was attending him. As soon as the sick man discovered that he was not watched he rose from his bed and, walking over to a window, opened it and stepped out on to the balcony which runs along a portion of the east ward. The apparition of a man clad only in a night shirt and drawers, like a fiend, caused the passers-by on the street to pause. The delirious man gazed for a moment at the ground some fifteen or twenty feet below him, then without a moment's warning he jumped and landed on the frozen sod in a heap. He did not move for a moment or two, and those who saw him take the leap thought he was killed. Two patients who had witnessed Hall's mad jump ran out and attempted to raise him from the ground. He was unconscious, but before he could be carried into the ward he recovered, and regaining his feet, began to fight with all the desperate fury of a madman. He pounded one of his rescuers in a savage manner, but was finally overpowered and taken back to his bed. When examined it was found that no bones were broken, but serious results are anticipated from the effects of the fall and exposure to the cold.

LENTEN REGULATIONS.

Relaxed by the Pope in Countries Recently Visited by the Influenza.

MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—The Lenten regulations issued by His Grace Archbishop Fabre for the Archdiocese of Montreal and published in all the churches last Sunday have been countermanded. Last evening His Grace received information that information from Rome to the effect that His Holiness Pope Leo XIII. had issued a brief in which he grants a general dispensation from the ordinary Lenten regulations in countries affected by the plague of influenza. The brief, it is said, speaks of the discipline of the virtue of penance as necessarily changeable according to circumstances. In countries in which influenza has made ravages the general health of a large proportion of the people has suffered severely, constitutions have been weakened and are exposed to disease much more than at ordinary times. Bodily mortification, moreover, it continues, is only one factor, and not the most important, in the virtue of penance. His Holiness therefore saw fit to suspend the general laws of Lenten fast and abstinence for those countries during the period of the present year.

As the information reached His Grace only late last evening an order was immediately sent to all the parish churches for announcement to-day, to the following effect: "All the Wednesdays and Fridays of each week and the Saturday of Ember week, as well as Holy Saturday, are days of fasting and abstinence. But in places of ordinary fast His Holiness desires the faithful to apply themselves with more zeal to works of piety, charity towards the poor, frequenting the churches and the sacraments."

WHOLESALE INCENDIARISM.

Resulting from the Race Troubles in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N.C., Feb. 19.—News reaches here to-day of serious negro incendiary troubles at Rocky Mount. It seems that the negroes have become incensed at the opposition of the whites to the negro exodus movement and determined to avenge themselves by burning the town. On Sunday night the buildings of the Wilmington Oil Company were burned to the ground. On Monday night the carriage works and machine shops of Hackney Bros., including three large buildings, were burned, entailing a loss of $15,000. Again last night incendiaries fired the buildings of the Rocky Mount fair grounds in a suburb of the town, which were burned to the ground. The object of the incendiaries is to decoy people from the town so that the work of destruction might be completed. The town is thoroughly aroused and is under patrol of a strong posse of citizens. Rocky Mount Light Infantry have been ordered out. A number of suspected parties are under surveillance and will be promptly arrested if there is further trouble.

CRISP CONDENSATIONS.

To make the bridge across the English channel will cost £34,400,000.

The state of Kentucky alone spent $1,500,000 for education last year.

There are on an average 200 pigeons officially kept in every German fortress.

It is reported that over 1,500 letters were mailed from Vassar college in one day recently.

The roof of the New York hospital building is to have a garden, probably enclosed in glass, where patients can enjoy the cool breezes that blow over the housetops. There will be flowers, plants, an aquarium, seats and hammocks.

During the recent floods at Anaheim, Cal. every humane was swarming with hares and rabbits that were driven from the plains. They were slaughtered in thousands by boys and men, who used sticks to knock them off of the road, and run the poor beasts off their dry places into the raging waters.

A branch of mistletoe kept in the house during the whole year brings luck to the household, so French people think. Many housewives consider it as important as the sprig of palm blessed on Palm Sunday, and accordingly enormous quantities of mistletoe are sent to the Paris markets, chiefly from Normandy.

Everybody smokes in Japan. The pipes hold a little wad of fine cut tobacco as big as a pea. It is lighted and the smoker takes one long whiff, blowing the smoke in a cloud from his mouth and nose. The ladies have pipes with longer stems than the men, and if one of them wishes to show a gentleman a special mark of favor, she lights her pipe, takes half a whiff, hands it to him and lets him finish out the whiff.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tarts and English Soda hence is the best

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 20 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sundays and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—10c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in Daily Ontario first insertion 10 cents per nonpariel line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insert on.

ADVERTISEMENTS in Weekly Chronicle, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Wits notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Last week the ministerial majority in the House of Commons voted down Dr. Landerkin's proposition that farmers who imported corn for stock-feeding purposes should be entitled to have the duty paid upon the corn refunded to them when they exported the fatted stock—a privilege similar to that allowed to distillers who import corn to be used in the manufacture of spirits. On Tuesday they rejected Mr. Laurier's motion to abolish the practice of allowing a drawback to distillers who import corn. Hence the position taken by the government and their temperance followers is that distillers are entitled to privileges which are denied to farmers—that the business of manufacturing whiskey is deserving of more encouragement than the business of manufacturing cereals, meats, butter, cheese and live stock. It is worthy of note that while Mr. Corby, of West Hastings voted against farmers being allowed a rebate and belittled the benefit that distillers derived from the favor they received through that kind of legislation he declined to vote for abolishing the practice of allowing a rebate to his favored class. This act of the government in declining to farmers what they indulge distillers shall have, should open the eyes of the agriculturist to the fact that they need expect no favors from Sir John's parliament.

The Empire, Intelligencer and Picton Gazette still keep up their senseless cackle about Dr. Platt not recording his vote on the occasion of the passing of the resolution of loyalty to the Queen. It is not always those who are loudest in their protestations of devotion that are most to be relied upon. Such senseless harping shows what little ground his political opponents have for criticism in his course. The Ottawa Citizen, as good a conservative journal as there is in Canada, has the following common sense remarks to make which are a quiet rebuke to its more rabid partizan contemporaries:

"We have referred to the demand by "one of the local newspapers of Prince "Edward county, that Dr. Platt, M. P., "being surgeon of a battalion, should resign because he refrained from voting on "Mulock's loyalty motion. We must, in "all fairness say, that either in or out of "parliament, no whisper has ever been "heard by us affecting Doctor Platt's "fealty to Canada and the British crown. "He may have considered the motion "superfluous; he may have been absent "though force of circumstances. The "Citizen prefers leaving questions of the "kind to the conscience of a representative "unless he openly declares antagonism to "or approval of a motion, loyal or disloyal "in its sentiments."

100

PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES

AN OUTLINE OF THE NEW LAND PURCHASE BILL.

Another Plot Against the Life of Prince Ferdinand Believed to Be on Foot—Bismarck Making Preparations for His Retirement.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The new Land Purchase Bill will not be limited to $100,000,000. It will provide for combining the Landed Estates Court and the Land Commission into a single great tribunal for the settlement of all land disputes and will simplify and cheapen the transfer of land.

The Parnell party propose to give a great public funeral to the late Mr. Biggar.

Preparing for War.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, has appealed to by the citizens of Schwerin, the capital of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, to use his influence to prevent the transfer of the Schwerin regiment, a battalion to Colmar in Alsace. The Grand Duke replied that while he regretted the necessity of the step it was true that the Emperor, wishing to fortify the western frontier of the Empire, desired to give all the German races an opportunity to shed their blood in repelling the first attack on the fatherland.

"Moral Insanity" Not a Crime.

VIENNA, Feb. 19.—The Countess Sorotta was released to-day from prison and as she left the door she was greeted by the girl whom she had courted and wedded while disguised as a man. The two girls appear devoted to each other. They live together and will not consent to be separated. The legal authorities have decided that the charge of moral insanity upon which the Countess was arrested and imprisoned cannot stand, as moral insanity is not now recognized.

Better He Look Out!

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—At a meeting in the interest of Herr Doerr, a workman who is a candidate for the Reichstag, at Bingen today Herr Jocst, a Socialist leader, declared the restoration of Alsace-Lorraine to France was necessary. He also said the personal qualities of the French were incomparably superior to those of the Germans. French workmen, he declared, were the brothers of the German workmen, while the German bourgeoise were their enemies.

It Depends Upon England.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The Temps says: The attitude of France towards the Labor Conference proposed by the Emperor of Germany depends upon England. If England refuses to take part in the conference the project will collapse. If, however, England decides to participate it is evident the conference will become a possibility and equally clear that it will be devoid of danger for us or others.

Sunk in a Collision.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The steamer Highgate collided with the ship Sovereign in a fog off Lundey Island to-day and sank. Thirteen persons from the steamer have landed at Milford Haven. A boat containing six others is missing.

Mardi Gras at Mentone.

MENTONE, Feb. 19.—Ex-King Milan of Servia, who has been enjoying the Mardi Gras festivities here, has apparently recovered from the depression caused by his late losses at Monte Carlo. He took a warm interest in the battle of flowers and fitted violently with the Marchioness of Silesburg, whom he addressed familiarly as "Dolly Maker." The latter created a sensation by carrying a scythe and arraying herself in a winding sheet inscribed "Influenza."

Spain's Queen Mother.

MADRID, Feb. 19.—The Queen Regent now dresses the infant King with her own hands and personally attends to the breakfasts of the three children. The Queen Dowager is reported to have said that she is convinced that a mother's care and supervision are all that may be required to save the tender lives of the infants. Ever since the King's recovery the Queen has devoted every spare hour to him and their principal amusement is playing dominoes.

The Electoral Campaign in Germany.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—Excitement is running high in the electoral campaign, especially as regards the Socialists, who have apparently concerted riotous demonstrations all over the empire to such an extent as to call for the intervention of the military power. In Saxony, Alsace, Silesia and the entire city of Konigsberg Socialist addresses have been posted on the walls and torn down by the police. At Schneidemuehl a man caught in the act of posting Liberal literature was arrested in a stable and conveyed fettered in an open wagon to the court. In Konigsberg the police confiscated all Liberal pamphlets and placards. Count Saldern in an electoral speech at Templin said that war with France and Russia threatened in the near future. The Tagblatt accuses the police and gendarmes in the province of Posen with distributing Conservative pamphlets.

Rioting Feared.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—An extra force of police is on duty in all the principal thoroughfares to-night in consequence of the apprehension of disorders due to the elections.

Bismarck's Proposed Retirement.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—The Freisinnige Zeitung says Prince Bismarck has ordered an inventory to be made of his personal effects in the palace or ministerial residence in the Wilhelmstrasse, in view of his resignation and retirement. The semi-official papers indicate Herr Bottticher as the Prince's successor and refer to him in terms of high commendation. The Hamburger Nachrichten admits there was a difference of opinion between the Emperor and Bismarck before the imperial edicts were issued, but says a compromise was reached later.

Labor's Moses.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—It is said the Emperor has studied the labor question for eighteen months. When he was convinced European peace was assured he began to consult experts in every class in order to select data. It is unlikely that Russia or America will be invited to the conference.

The Kaiser's Popularity.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The socialists here had a public meeting to-night and passed a vote of thanks to the Emperor of Germany for the imperial rescripts.

Ferdinand in Peril.

SOFIA, Feb. 19.—Another plot against the life of Prince Ferdinand is believed to be on foot.

A New French Loan Rumored.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The Bourse is depressed in consequence of a rumor that M. Rouvier, Finance Minister, proposes to invite a new loan of 250,000,000 francs.

20,000 Rifles Ordered.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Argentine Republic has ordered 20,000 rifles from the St. Etienne factory.

President Carnot has invited the principal American residents of Paris to a great reception at the Elysee in honor of President Harrison.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all diseases which affect this noble animal so phenomial sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it a standard authority. Mention this paper when send ing for "Treatise."

JENKS' DREAM.

Jenks had a queer dream the other night. He thought he saw the prize-fighters' ring, and in the middle of it stood a doughty little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant player proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accounts for the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, domestic pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or tiny Sugar-coated Granules, really "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are Little Sugar-coated, Pleasant Anti-Bilious Granules. One a Dose.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They are gently laxative, or strongly cathartic, according to size of dose. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

CATARRH,
CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. DIXON & SON, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but deputrates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it does so so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but now voices, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes those diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula, rheumatism, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents Ask fos Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, before going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE 3 PERFECTION OF BLOOD from which the constituents vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stom which is bilious or weak. Unintermpted rough digestion may be insured, the secretic activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier in introduced into Canada.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Hot Springs and Broad water, Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.

The Traveller takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, folders and guide to the region reached by the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. St Paul, Minn.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
General Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the 24th Feb., 1890, at the same hour.

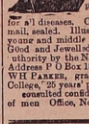
GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Leaf of Bread except Sugar

THOS. H. COOK

Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8v, 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the authority by the National Medical Association Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty: diseases of men Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

WE

Can state with confidence that we are among the Expensive, Highly Perfume

TOILET SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS, IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE
DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th
from Halifax, Sat March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th.
Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th.

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebecto Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow.

Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

*The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

*Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where but little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or

T. G. BAZIRE, Agent, Belleville.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Notaries & etc Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada. Office—Front St opposite Ritchie's. Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, E. J. B. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

Fred E. Redick

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. In sums to suit at 6 per cent

Francis S. Wallbridge,

(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.) BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c.,—Office Merchants Bank Building, corner of Front and Pinnacle streets, Belleville, Ont.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer, Office over Express Office Corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Money to loan on Mortgage at Lowest Rates of Interest.

John A. Post,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers Notaries Public, &c. Office next door to office of O. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co. Bridge street, Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, Q. C. D. MACAULAY Private and company funds to loan at low rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c., Victor Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont.
GEO. R. HENDERSON Q.C., | F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney
Clerk of the Peace (Office at Co

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co.' Office ampbell Build ngs, opposite Post Office Belleville Ont. W. A. Cook Madoc.
A. McDonald.

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets, Belleville, Ontario.
JOHN BELL, Q. C. B. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

R. TRACY, M.D.

CORONER County of Hastings, Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal.

T. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society.
OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. P. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville Telephone conn

Elizabeth Bingham, M.D., C.M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holland's jewelry store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley. Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR. RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R. C.S. E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary.
60 College Avenue Toronto.

S. M. Cooke, M.D., O.M.F.H.M.S (HOMŒOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinatti, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College Physicians and Surgeons Ontario. Licentiate of Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr. Abbot.

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGille University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Forsyth St.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate. Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licences, Molton Huntington

Charlie Butle

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention is all cases Terms liberal. A orders left at the office of J. G Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville:

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

R. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE,

BLOOD PURIFIER

AND

Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R. TEMPLETON

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK

CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.

Front Street.

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

NEW GOODS.

New Embroideries!

Direct from Switzerland

New Prints! New Sateens!

In New and Beautiful Designs

White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

THE GREAT STRENGTH GIVER

IT SUPPLIES

Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!

Fancy Limon Banannas!

Sweet Tangerine Oranges!

Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT, 78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

THE PILLS

Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the Stomach, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS. LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS. They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions. In all Female Complaints are invaluable. For Children and the aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT

A infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism. For disorders of the Chest it has no rival, and for Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no equal. It is a cure for Piles, and for contracted and stiff joints it acts like a charm.

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELL'S

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the Cuticura Remedies. My boy when one year of age was a bad sight to behold. Scarcely a hair on his head. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctors said was scald head and said that hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians, I began the use of the Cuticura Remedies, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and I feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me one for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the Cuticura Remedies, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so badly off he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is R H Cates, merchant.

J. O. H. V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, Cuticura Soap, an exquisite skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price: Cuticura, 75c. Soap, 35.; Resolvent, $1.50. Prepared by the Porter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strains Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AGT

Will be at the

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to anyone those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address NEW CURE AGENTS, Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

254w.

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; men with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Kittson Pear, Saunders' Raspberry, Hilborn Raspberry, Moore's Ruby and Jack champion currants, Moore's Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

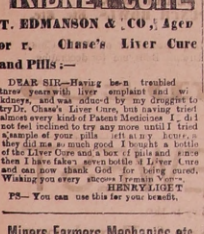
For terms apply to STONE & WELLINGTON Toronto, Ont.

ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 229 acres, three miles from Belleville, best of soil, 60 acres new land, wood, etc.

160 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when bridge is built. Splendid farm. Apply, Fee & Platt, Attorneys & Caveats.



T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicine I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills set in my store, they did me much good. I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information. My system which took 20 years to perfect, will supply you by mail at reasonable prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Promptness, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment a favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE Surgical Machinist & Mfr. 134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 20,210,000

Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, Agent.

Office:—Ketchum Block, East Front St.

"The -:- Judge."

CHAPTER V.

THE assignment book of the Morning Chronicle on that afternoon contained the following laconic direction:

"Leiter murder—Pond."

The young man for whose eye this was intended, glanced at it with some interest, consulted the directory, buttoned his coat around him and walked in a business-like way to the corner of State street, where he took a Cottage Grove avenue car. He chose the front seat of the grip, although the day was chilly and damp, and folding his arms, sat there stiffly without the comfort of a smoke.

When Dennis Pond reached the Leiter mansion he found that he was only ten minutes behind the coroner and his assistant. These gentlemen were listening to the tale of poor Guy Manning as he poured it out between his hysteric sobs. Pond, having established his right to enter, walked into the room and regarded the ghastly figure in the chair. It was evident that the warlike marks on the face and hands were made after the throat of the old man had been cut. Had it been otherwise he would have been able to make some resistance. That he had made no resistance was proved by the fact that his poor, mutilated hands still grasped the cane as Guy Manning had seen them when he Nervilined to look back at his master the night before. The coroner's assistant scoured the place for some weapon with which the assault could have been made, but without success. Everything in the room was in place; there was not even a displacement of the rug before the fire, on which the feet of the murdered man still rested. Pond made a note in a little blank book he carried. It was this:

"He had no reason to fear harm from the friend of the person who murdered him. The attack was a surprise. Since he evidently did not even attempt to arise from his chair, it must have been made by some one he had no cause to fear."

"Whoslepps in the house beside yourself?" he inquired of the pallid butler.

"Luna, sir, the cook, sir; and Nora, the housemaid, sir; and Jim McCarty, the coachman, sir; and Mr. Harry."

"Who is Mr. Harry?"

"Mr. Harry Leiter, sir, the nephew of him."

"Where is he now?"

"I don't know, sir. He has not come home yet."

"Did he go out after the murder was discovered?"

"No, sir, we could not find him this morning."

"Did he not sleep here last night?"

"Well, sir, we found his bed undisturbed this morning. He sometimes sits up to write at night."

"Has he ever been missing before in the morning?"

"No, sir. I think not."

"Is it his habit to sleep away from home without telling of his intention?"

"I can't say that I ever remember of it

"Did you suppose that he had gone to his room last night?"

"I saw him go up stairs, sir. I thought he had gone to his room."

"About what time was that?"

"After midnight, sir. We had a dinner party last evening and the guests did not leave till almost midnight."

"Who was at the party?"

"Judge Earlwaat, sir, and his daughter, Mr. McCook, the State's Attorney, and his mother; and Mr. Harry and his uncle, of course."

"What did Harry Leiter do after the company left?"

"He stayed and talked with his uncle awhile."

"Do you know what they talked about?"

"Well, they talked some about Mr. McCook."

"What did they say?"

"Mr. Harry said he didn't think much of McCook, sir, and that he hoped he would never be invited to the house again."

"And what did Mr. Leiter say?"

"He said, sir, that he would invite whom he chose."

"And then?"

"That was pretty much all, sir."

"Now, see here, my friend, what did Mr. Leiter reply—young Mr. Leiter reply to that?"

"Well, then, sir, he said—he's kind of quick an' don't always mean what he says—he's like that from a baby—he said then his uncle would have to choose between him and Mr. McCook. That's just his way, sir, but he don't mean nothing."

"How did the old man take that?"

"He seemed terribly cut up, sir. He told him he was a fool and that he had better go to bed."

"And then did he go?"

"Yes, sir, he went upstairs."

"Did you go soon after?"

"Yes, sir. Mr. Leiter was still sitting there in the chair. The tears was rollin' down his cheeks, sir. He was easy cut up—bein' so old."

"But the young man went to bed angry?"

"Yes, he did, sir, but his anger ain't very deep nor lastin'."

He could say no more, but broke into audible sobbing, seeingas he did, with terrible clearness, the drift of the questions. Pond turned away his head out of consideration for the poor old soul. As he glanced out of the window, a sudden thought came to him. He followed the idea by feeling of the window fastenings. They were every one fast. He suggested to the assistant coroner that they try all of the windows in the house. Every one was found tightly fastened.

"The murder must have been committed by some one in the house," said the assistant, who was young, and who had read Gaboriau's novels.

"Did you see any blood?"

"Not a drop."

"Did you go soon after?"

"Yes, sir. Mr. Leiter was still sitting there in the chair. The tears was rollin' down his cheeks, sir. He was easy cut up—bein' so old."

"But the young man went to bed angry?"

"Yes, he did, sir, but his anger ain't very deep nor lastin'."

He could say no more, but broke into audible sobbing, seeingas he did, with terrible clearness, the drift of the questions. Pond turned away his head out of consideration for the poor old soul. As he glanced out of the window, a sudden thought came to him. He followed the idea by feeling of the window fastenings. They were every one fast. He suggested to the assistant coroner that they try all of the windows in the house. Every one was found tightly fastened.

"The murder must have been committed by some one in the house," said the assistant, who was young, and who had read Gaboriau's novels.

"Did you see any blood?"

"Not a drop."

"Not to one that knows him, sir. It is some accident that has kep' him out. He would never stay mad this long. I know him, sir."

"My friend, I want to know who killed the rabbit."

"Then you will know more than I do, sir. I ain't no idea. A prettier and more harmless critur never was. There wan't no sense in killin' it."

"My friend, you have a great head. Neither was there any sense in killing that white-haired old man. Don't you see the drift."

"No, sir. I don't see nothin' this mornin'. I feel as if the end of the world was comin'."

"Not because of this evil, my friend. If sights like these should end the world, it would have been over long ago. Both of these acts were insane. I think they were both done by the same person. The question now is, were they done by the same insanity?"

"I can tell you that, sir. The little bunny was killed with the garden rake. You don't cut a man's throat with a garden rake."

"Suppose you show me that garden rake, friend. The old servant showed it to him willing but wearily. Pond examined it with care and then said:

"Don't you think you had better clear up this muss, my friend?"

Mannering obeyed without a word. He brought out a small hose and began to flood the blood-stained floor, carrying the rabbit meanwhile out to the stable. Pond himself washed off the rake and set it back out of sight.

"If every one gets hold of this," said Pond to himself, "it will be spoiled. I'll spring it on the dear old man myself." Then he went out and stood on the corner for an hour.

At the end of that time he saw a young man walking moodily down the street.

"I think," said Pond gently, "I have met you at the Chicago Club, sir."

"Oh, good morning," replied Leiter, absently, "glad to see you."

"Are you going home?" said Pond.

"Yes, I was."

"Heard the news this morning?"

"What news?"

"About your uncle?"

"No! What is it? Is—What is it?"

"He is murdered, Mr. Leiter, He—" but the young man had hurried away from him without a word and was bounding up the steps in mad haste, every muscle tightened, every nerve strung tight, his face contorted.

"Innocent!" cried Pond to himself, "innocent, by Jove!" He started to follow him. Then suddenly he stopped and picked up something that stuck up from the snow drift beside the walk. It was a large pocket knife, open and notwithstanding the fact that it had lain in the snow, it was blood stained. It had a horn handle in which a tiny bar of silver was imbedded, and on this bar was written, "Harry B. Leiter."

"Well," said Pond, taking out his handkerchief and wiping his forehead slowly, "now what will I do?"

He was given no choice. At that moment one of the city detectives came down the steps of the house.

"What did you pick up then, Pond?" said he. Pond held the knife out on his hand. The man took it and examined it with a quick face.

TO BE CONTINUED

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tarts and English Soda hence is the best hat no made

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieves all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured ache they would be so almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them, will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

HEAD

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of unauthorized imitations which mike the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "brazen attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, and of which the Original and undivided Superiority is acknowledged by the Public, Prof. Loisette's Memory Forgetting is recognized today in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. The Prospectus (sent postpaid) gives opinions of press, and testimony of the globe-wide world-widely studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used, only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, twice, unmerciful fees, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold, en Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Piles! Piles! Piles

Symptoms—Moist, sore; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. It allowed to continue may ulcerate, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

Death Dealing Drugs

Such as Calomel, Morphine, etc are seldom resorted to by the medical profession. Nervilina cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervilina cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nervilina cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nervilina cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervilina is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervilina.

A Cure for Deafness.

There have been many remarkable cures of deafness effected by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and large bottles, and is a wonderful and externally for all pains and injuries.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nervilina, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervilina is the best medicine in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Try Polson's nerve stopping pain cure Nervilina

To lessen mortality and stop the growth of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into money, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Medical Treatise, Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood,

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Restoring Manhood, Giving the victim Vigor, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt, only $1.00 by mail, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS DEBILITY, PHYSICAL DEBILITY, Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng Capital, ... $1,500,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL, of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1888, ... $77,409.85.

Assets Dec 31st 1888, ... $166,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS, COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

These Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt.

Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and the humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WESTERN Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Guy of North America.

Dry Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pepe and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY AT

DICKENS & SON

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

"THEY ACT MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT OF MANY OF THE MORE CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE CURE for LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, General and Nervous Debility, Lost Power, Nightly Emissions, Loss of Body and Brain Power, Sexual Weakness, Impotency and all Diseases that follow as a sequence of Self-Abuse; Involuntary Losses, Premature Old Age, Loss of Power in either sex, Impotency, Wakefulness, Nervous Headache, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Decay, Wrinkles, Eruptions, Pimples on the Face, Blotches, Sunken Eyes, Cold Sweats, Nervous Tremblings, Sleeplessness, Aversion to Society, Confusion of Ideas, Lack of Confidence, Melancholy, Gloomy Forebodings, Dizziness, Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back and Loins, Wasting in Children, Premature Old Age, Impotency, Barrenness

STOCK TAKING

—AT THE—

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we throw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb. 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 20 1890.

Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church
METROPOLITAN BLOCK, — CAMPBELL ST.
GROUND FLOOR.
Rev. Wm. Henry Barnes, Rector.
Lenten services begin Ash Wednesday 7.45 p. m.
Literary service and lecture on "The Tabernacle of Witness," illustrated by colored diagrams.

The World's Fair.

ALBANY N. Y. Feb. 20, Governor Hill has signed the world's fair bill.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by
S. R. HUFFMAN,
4ly Tuner.

Ladies' Aid Social.

The ladies aid of the Tabernacle give a social in the lecture room of the church, on Friday evening 20th inst. A good programme, including refreshments, will be provided, Mrs. Nash (nee Caverly) will sing.—Admission 15 cts.

The Contest has Begun.

The following curlers left last night for Toronto to compete for the tankard:

John Wickett	John Bonar
Frank Dolan	Jas. Jenkins
C. G. L. Kelso	Thos. Thomson
J. D. Clarke—Skip	W. H. Biggar—Skip

Beaughey Located at Last.

Cornelius Beaughey, who is charged with assaulting a man, with intent to kill, near the G. T. R. depot a couple of months ago and whom the police were unable to arrest, is in New York State near Rochester.

Quick Despatch.

Mr. W. N. Ponton received on Monday 17th, a sprig of edelweiss plucked on the 3rd inst., near the top of one of the highest mountains in Switzerland. It was sent him by a friend and shows the quick despatch of the modern mail.

Mock Parliament.

The Hon. C. E. Lyons, of East Hastings will introduce a resolution this evening favoring unrestricted reciprocity with the United States. An able exposition of this burning question may be expected and as the motion is a private one the members will be at liberty to debate the question according to their covictions.

Surrogate Court.

Mrs. Mary McGinnis, executrix applies for letters to deal with the estate of the late Wm. McGinnis of Tyendinaga. Personality and realty $7,633.

Probate of the will of the late Julia McGowan who recently died at Madoc was granted to the executors, Adam McGowan of Tweed and James Ryan, Deputy of Madoc. Realty and personality $2,017. To be divided among the children.

Swedish Ladies' Concert.

We are pleased to learn that the guarantee list which has been opened at T. C. Lazier's office, is nearly sufficient to secure this famous concert company for one night entertainment in the opera house here. The company has an excellent reputation. A Poughkeepsie paper says: The Swedish Ladies had a rousing audience last evening and woke applause to the echo. The simplicity of their manners—the sweetness and harmony of their voices, won all hearts.

Poughkeepsie never had a finer concert in her Lyceum Courses, extending through a period of forty years. The Redpath bureau has done excellent work in this exportation of Swedish talent.

ACCIDENT IN THE WOODS.

Andrew Lawson's Narrow Escape From Death.

BRIGHTON, Feb. 20.—On Monday last as Mr. Andrew Lawson and his son were falling a tree for fire wood, for some unaccountable cause it came down in the opposite direction so what was intended and caught Mr. Lawson throwing him so the ground, breaking his lower jaw, and seriously injuring him on the hip joint. His son was obliged to cut limbs within two inches of his head to keep him from being suffocated and effect his release. When taken from his perilous position, the sore had to go half a mile for help to get his father out of the woods.

A FATAL FIRE.

FOUR LIVES LOST IN A KINGSTON DWELLING.

The Mother Jumps From a Chamber Window With a Baby in Her Arms —The Father Probably Fatally Injured.

KINGSTON, Ont Feb 20.—About eleven o'clock last night a fire broke out in a two story frame dwelling on Bagot St. occupied by John Lisben and family. The fire had been burning some time before it was discovered, and when the firemen entered the building, four children were found dead in their beds. The bodies were not much burned, death being caused by suffocation. Mr. Lisben, after vain endeavors to rescue her children, jumped from her room window with a baby in her arms. She had a leg broken by the fall. The baby escaped unhurt. Mr. Lisben also made heroic efforts to save his children and only left the building after he was severely burned and was not fatally burned. The family numbers seven children in all, three of whom were rescued, all being more or less injured.

THE FUNERAL OBSEQUIES.

Impressive Services at the Institute on Wednesday.

The funeral services of the late Professor Green yesterday afternoon were particulary impressive. The institute chapel was draped in mourning and a crayon portrait of the dead professor was on the wall back of the platform. The pupils gave the Lords prayer in the sign language and principal Mathison spoke of the great loss sustained by the institution. Several teachers also paid a sorrowful tribute to their departed co-worker. A poetical tribute composed by Mr. Thos. Wills the venerable gardener was given in the sign language by Mr. Nurse and interpreted by Prof. Coleman. The funeral services of the Anglican church were conducted by Rev. Canon Burke and Rev. D. F. Bogart. The casket was covered with flowers, a beautiful wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, of Ottawa, and an anchor with the words "Friendship's Tribute" the gift of friends at the institution being conspicious, and a most beautiful wreath from the deaf mutes of Toronto, containing the words: "In memoriam—S. T. Greene, died Feb. 17th, 1890." The male pupils, walking in double file, headed the procession to the cemetery where the remains were temporarily deposited in the vault.

The pall bearers were Col. Strong, U S consul; A Livingston, bursar at institution; and Messrs McKillop, Mason, McGillivray and Balzana, the four latter being deaf mutes

The principal mourners were his only brother, Col. J. Greene, of Hartford, Conn. and president of the Connecticut Insurance Co; his son, Howard Greene, and his brothers-in law, Messrs Howard and Wallbridge.

At a meeting of the officers and teachers of the institution, resolutions of condolence were adopted, a copy of which was ordered to be engrossed and presented to Mrs. Greene.

As an evidence of Prof. Greene's great popularity among the deaf of this province we may mention that there were mutes present at the funeral service yesterday from Woodstock, Toronto and other places. They came to take a last look at a face so familiar to them, and to pay a last tribute of respect to one from they so dearly loved and greatly honored.

OBITUARY.

The Late S S Morden of Ameliasburg Township

The death of Mr. S. S. Morden which occurred Saturday last, at the family residence in Ameliasburg, was received with profound sorrow and regret by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The deceased had been an invalid for over 15 years with lung trouble and his death can not be regarded as coming unexpectedly. During the past three years he had been more closely confined to the house than any previous time but was not prevented from occasionally driving out, and giving orders for the management of his farm. Although only in the prime of life, being 49 years and 7 months, at the time of his death it would be a difficult matter to find a young man in the country better known and with more friends than S. S. Morden. Being of an amiable and social disposition he made friends wherever he went and was always welcome. For several years previous to his death he took an active part in Sabbath school work having been superintendent on several occasions, while in the church he was actuated by the same zealous spirit to work for the master. Here he has already been greatly missed as he was always foremost in assisting, with heart, hand and purse anything calculated to aid the advancement of the gospel. In politics he was a liberal and took delight in discussing the political questions of the day with his neighbors and friends On Tuesday his remains were conveyed to their last resting place in the family plot in the Ameliasburg cemetery, followed by a large number of sorrowing and sympathizing friends.

A resolution of condolence to his family was issued by the Quarterly Board of the Methodist church at Rednerville on Monday.

BANCROFT BRIEFS.

A Railway Needed—Building a New Bridge.

BANCROFT, Feb. 18.—As business has been, in this district, at a lower ebb than for many years, owing to the abundant crops of last season glutting the north market, that afforded by the lumber interests, and no other market being available for the want of a railroad, the people have their attention taken up by way of counter irritation, by la grippe, as nineteen out of twenty have suffered by it, and the few who have been exempted from its attack are looked upon as not being up to the mark. The fatalities from the disease are few, only some elderly persons, and those of weak constitution have succumbed, except that some deaths have taken place in the lumber shanties where those suffering did not receive proper care. Dr. Beeman of this place complains of having been overworked but has been successful in the treatment of every case on which he has been called and now he states the number of his patients from this cause is small.

A new bridge over the York River at this place is in process of construction by the Ontario government under the personal superintendance of C. F. Ayle esq., Esq., Provincial Inspector, the old bridge being deemed unsafe. The new one will be an improved design, will be made of greater width and form altogether a more pleasing and ornamental appearance.

Rarkt to the sound of humanity's wails! Millions of people with aches and with ails.

Headaches and humors, a merciless flood, Weakness of lungs and disorders of blood,

Yet there's a helper that certainly have Thousands of people from premature graves.

The remedy is Pierce's Golden Medica Discovery. It cures coughs, relieves asthma, checks bronchitis sacrifice the blood, heals sores, eruptions and unsightly pimples and is without a rival for all the ills that spring from a disordered liver.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh remedy. Of drug' gists.

THE INQUEST

THE MURDER MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP.

WALTER HARGRAVE IN CUSTODY.

A Full History of the Tragic Death.

WM ARNOTT IS RESPONSIBLE.

But he Has Made Good his Escape.

HE WAS WARNED TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY.

Officers are Pursuing Him—Testimony Given at at the Coroner's Inquest.

The murder of Hannah Cole on Dundas street on Monday night is no longer a mystery. Yesterday afternoon private information was received by the police that Walter Heartgrave, who lives on Dundas street, knew something of the terrible crime and Officer Morton was dispatched to arrest him on suspicion. He sound him in the rear of the City Hotel packing ice for James Logan. He at once gave himself up to justice and when taken to police headquarters told a startling story to the official in charge. His evidence as given at the inquest last night implicates William Arnott as the author of the crime. That individual, however, is at present enjoying the freedom of Uncle Sam's domain. Chief of Police Newton last night received a telegram statiag that Arnott was known to have crossed into New York state from Kingston. The chief at once wired to arrest him on sight, Chief Newton left on the noon train for Kingston and the Caps. The fugitive is being closely followed, and it is only a matter of time when he will be brought back to pay the penalty of his crime. Heartgraves admits that he aroused Arnott from his bed on Tuesday morning, and that he dressed himself hurriedly and took to the woods. It is believed that he made all haste to reach Shannonville when he took the train for Kingston and the caps. The circular sent out by the chief of police did not reach Kingston until it was too late to arrest him.

Heartgraves was served with the following warrant today: "That he did on the 18th day of Feb., 1890, unlawfully, feloniously and with malice aforethought kill and murder one Hannah Cole." At the police court today he pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Monday next for trial.

Heartgraves is about twenty five years of age, five feet, nine inches, smooth face, 160 pounds, rather dark complexion. He was born on the Trenton road three miles from Belleville and has always lived in this vicinity. He apparently tells a frank and candid story, and judging from his face he would be the last man guilty of such a fonland atrocious crime. The remains of the victim were buried in the cemetery at eleven o'clock yesterday.

The Inquest.

The coononer's inquest continued their investigation in the police court room at seven o'clock last night. They did not adjourn until midnight.

The following were the jurymen:—W. J. Gill, W. A. Huffman, F. W. Ellis, M. Lally, J. L. Clapp, Albert Morton, Ald. Henry, Wm. Phillips, A. Sharp, Sidney Brown, D. Foster, T. J. Spafford, foreman. Dr. Wilson, coroner.

Hargrave was put in the box when he stated the following version of affairs that led to the woman's death: Am a plasterer by trade. I left the Commercial hotel on the evening in question about twenty five minutes to twelve. I was accompanied to the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas street by Rufus Boyle where we separated. When I got in front of Mrs. McAmanny's residence I thought I heard a noise as if someone was yelling Sex. I quickened my pace and ran as far as Wm Ransome's house when I saw two persons ahead. I walked up close and when within 6 feet from Wm. Arnott, he said, "You son of a——I'll paste you too." He made a run at me and made a pass when I ran away from him. He drew a bottle and I thought he was going to throw it. I stood there nearly ten minutes when he said "You need not be afraid of me." I went up to him then and he was asking the woman if they were not man and wife. I started to go past when the woman asked me if I would take her to Mrs. Clapper's. I said I would help her as far as I was going which was Foster avenue. I took her by the arm and walked east Dundas street. I went to Foster avenue with her and he pulled her down two or three times on the way. I took her as far as Mrs. Pettet's and tried to get Arnott to go home as he was very drunk. He started for home as I thought and I started with the woman to Mrs. Clappers. He came running back and grabbed the woman and took her back to the corner. I told him I was going home. He carried a broken bottle and I took it from him and threw it in the ditch. He asked me was I going home and I said yes. The woman was there and he grabbed her by the throat. I cannot say if he choked her or not. I told him if he did not stop I would go over to Mr. Foster's and telephone for the police. I started that way to scare him and he said he would take her to Mrs. Clappers. I said all right. They were near the corner and I ran past Mr. McFee and went into the house about 20 or 25 minutes to one. I undressed and went to bed. They both were very drunk. I don't know if they went to Clappers or not. I left them about 75 feet east from Foster avenue. I stopped in front of Mr. McFee's big gate post. Did not see any one in the window. I saw him strike at her, but did not see him hit her. It seemed all in fun. She asked me not to leave her. That was when I first noticed that she was willing to go, and I told him to go home and I would go home with her, but he would not allow me. She was calling 'Arnott 'Jack' all the evening. I went 100 feet down mill lane when Arnott came down with a bottle in his hand, and I took it away from him; when he took she woman back. Witness here recognized the bottle produced as the one Arnott had. I did not recognize her till I heard Arnott call her 'Nosey.' Saw her up at Appleby's castle when I was plasterring there. I heard nothing after I went in the house. In the morning mother said she saw Chief Newton go past. I looked and saw it was Sergt. Downs. I passed Arnott's house and saw young Dick at 9 in the morning. Saw Wm. Arnott that morning on Bleecker avenue waiting for his brother Jim. He carried a bag which he said contained grub, and said he was going to work. He seemed scared from some cause. He told me he left the woman in the barn. He told me that he went home about day light. I would think the teamsters would have seen him. He went east across the fields, I thought he was going to work. He wore a persian lamb cap with a peak and heavy dark overcoat, big felt socks and rubbers with pants tucked inside of shoes. The woman had no black eye when I saw her. If she had gone straight to the barn when I left her, she could have climed in the mow without assistance. I was perfectly sober that evening.

Nelson Lingham was sworn and said—I went to the barn in the morning. Heard moaning before I opened the door. I called but got no answer. I then took a rake and raked away the hay and saw the body of a woman. I shook her and called but got no answer. She moaned and was apparently unconscious. This was about 7.30 or 8 o'clock. She was covered up completely. It was a cold place where she lay. Her jacket was torn off and her arms were bare to her shoes. Her hat was about ten feet from the body. Her jacket was under her. I thought I saw blood on her lower lip. Heard no noise of any kind during the night. Thought it was the cows first. I at once telephoned to the police. We were afraid to move her and telephoned for a physician when she was removed to the hospital. I saw no tracks. She was lying on her back in the north east corner of the barn with her head to one side. Dress was black and not torn. Richard Arnott and D. Waddle were in the barn before me that morning. They were within 30 feet of the woman's body. They said nothing to me of the body. Wm. Arnott is in my employ. He chops for me in 3rd concession of Thurlow. He should have gone to work as usual on Monday morning. He did not go to work, and I have not seen him since Saturday. He has not returned to work. The barn is from 60 to 100 feet from the house and I could hear no noise till I got to the barn. The body could not be seen as it was covered up with hay.

Sergt. Downs, sworn, said—Got a telephone message at 8.05 a. m. to go down to arrest a drunken woman. When I arrived I thought she was dying. Telephoned for a physician and she was removed to the hospital. Saw her left eye was black and her nose swollen. There was also blood on her lips. There were three empty bagsunder her head and the jacket on her was torn in two. Saw some snow on her head and shoulders which had blown through cracks in the barn. Heard the moaningwhen within 60 feet of the barn. Could see no tracks on snow. She could not move, and I did not recognize her until after we had lifted her up. Saw her at 5 o'clock on Monday evening, when she was slightly intoxicated. Seldom saw her in that state.

John McFee sworn, said: heard noise Monday night at 12.10 a. m., got up and saw parties on the corner of the street. I could hear cries and I waited until they came to my gate, I heard a female voice and there was a voice mocking her I saw two men and a woman. One was standing off and one near the fence by the woman who was on the sidewalk with back to the fence. I then saw the one man run away. Thought it was some man and wife making their way home. He was kicking her and yelling 'get up' 'get up.' I saw the time which was just 12.10, when I returned to the window the couple had gone but stopped at my big gate. She was lying on her back and the man would lift her partly up and then let her drop when the third party came up and they passed on down the road. The woman seemed helpless but whether caused by liquor or injuries I cannot say. I heard the crying 20 minutes before the three arrived at my place. I thought the man with her was Wm. Arnott, from his voice and figure. I have known him for years. He was pretty drunk. The other man was sober. The night was moonlight but I could not positively swear who either were. In her state I don't think she could have got in the mow unaided.

Wm. Thompson, sworn, said—Between 11 and 12 o'clock I was awakened by hearing the screaming of a woman on Dundas street. When near the grave yard I heard her saying, "Go on, leave me." I went back to bed and I heard the noise again. Got up and I saw them on the corner of Dundas and Ann streets. Heard her say a number of time, 'My God, Jack, what will become of my children if you leave me?' She would then say, 'My God, don't——my head.' Thought it was a man and wife or I would have gotten up. She would yell, 'Oh, Oh,' and then speak of her children. It was a woman's voice crying out. The man appeared in a rough mood and was using vile language. Could not recognize voices or see anyone. She spoke five or six times of her two children.

Donald Graham swore that he heard voices on the street. His house was some sixty feet from the street but as noises were common he did not get up.

Maria Baker sworn said—Saw Hannah Cole last at 6 o'clock on Monday evening. A young man with moustache came up. He gave his name as Service and said to me, "You know me, you come with Hannah, too." He was as large as Constable Morton, but not so good looking. Was dressed in black and had a Persian lamb cap with a peak on. Hannah went with him and I saw them go into Mackies hotel lane and take a drink. The fellow looked like Jack Arnott. He was under the influence of liquor. Don't know any Wm Arnott and could not recognize him if I saw him. Had his cap drawn over his eyes.

Murray Turner, sworn, said—I retired at eleven and was awakened by hearing singing and talking and then a sudden yell. Thought it was fire. It continued and some one rattled my door. Went down and opened the door. A man and woman were there. I asked what was the matter. They did not answer, but laughed. I said 'I will telephone for the police,' She said, 'Let me in.' I said, 'Go home,' and the man came up and said, 'Yes, come too.' He used no force. She said, 'No, I am going in here.' I again said, 'Go, or I'll call the police.' They then went and I watched them until they got to Ann St. when I telephoned for the police. I went to bed and shortly heard two persons walking. I jumped up and saw a woman and man and another man a little behind. Did not recognize any of the party. Saw no blows struck. He had a hold of her arm when they were passing. He had a bottle, and both drank near my place.

Richard Waddle testified that he was a teamster for Mrs. Lingham was at the barn at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning and was there nearly an hour attending the horses. I would have heard of any fight probably because she might not have been in any distress at that time, I was not near when the woman was found. Richard Arnott came about 15 minutes after I arrived. Had no occasion to go into the hay mow. Went away about twenty minutes to seven Saw no persons there when I went there, but saw some tracks in the carriage house but no place else as the snow would have covered them up.

Dr. Youker, who made the post mortem examination testified to that effect and said the woman was about 40 years of age, of medium height. The skin about the right eye and nose was fractured as if from a blow and her nose was swollen. There were marks on the face that looked like scratches produced from finger nails. There was a large one on the upper lip on the right side. A larger one on the lower lip and small scratches about the right ear and a small abrasion on the left temple Dry blood on the interior of the nostrils and some in one corner of the mouth. A mark on the back of the right hand one inch in length and some bruises on left arm, elbow and forearm. A bruise 1 inch in length on the left leg between knee and ankle. They were all the result of bruises There were no marks about the throat. The inspection was made about 2 hour after her death. No other marks or bruises were found although carefully looked for. There was no evidence of disease, the organs were all normal in size and apparently healthy. The right side of the heart was distended and contained a large quantities of blood escaped. The liver, kidney, bladder, spleen etc. were examined and showed no evidence of a diseased state. The stomach contained a pint of grayish colored fluid. The intestines were inspected but not opened and the remaining organs showed no signs of disease. The stomach intestines and contents of bladder were preserved for further examination if necessary. On examining the scalp it was covered with a thin growth of hair, a bruise the size of a shilling, was disclosed. The skull was then removed and the vessels were all gorged with blood and a small clot was observed between the membrane and the brain itself. The principal bruise was near the right ear and nose. No evidence to show that a club, stone or other instrument had been used. It looked as if a blow of the fist had been struck. I don't think the blow was the direct cause of death, but it could possibly have been. I could detect no signs of liquor about the woman. The bruise on the back of the head, which was sufficient to cause her death, might have been caused by a blow on the nose. The bruises on the right side might have been caused by a fall on account of its position.

As the hour was late, and there were a number of important witnesses to be examined, the inquest was adjourned until Friday evening, at 8 p. m.

AMELIASBURG MATTERS.

Topics of Interest From Over The Bay.

Sleighs are being used again but only for the looks wheels would go, in many places, much easier.

The annual meeting of the Ferry Co. has been announced for the 10th of March.

Mr. Ed. Brickman will ship his first consignment of horses to British Columbia on the 3rd of March. The lot comprise some of the finest horses that have ever gone from these parts. The shipment will be under the management of Mr. Geo Howe, an expert horseman who will, in all probability return for the next shipment.

Mr. Geo. E. Yott merchant at Rednerville has sold out his interest in the mercantile business in that place to his partner Mr. Herb. Babcock.

Mr. Lewis Redner's condition remains unchanged for the better.

Mrs. Jas. Peck, mother of William, John, Francis and James Peck died on Sunday night and was burried in the family plot in the Dempsey cemetery on Tuesday. The deceased lady was highly respected.

Mr. Jacob Tice has been confined to his house for several days with a heavy cold.

Mrs. Anely Quakenbush was very low last week and fears of serious consequences are entertained.

WANTED IN TORONTO.

A Belleville Man Charged with Larceny —The Arrest.

The police today received a telegram from Chief of police Grasse of Toronto, to arrest William Meagher, commonly known by his associates as "Chicken." He is charged with stealing from Charles Bradford, also of Belleville, and boarding on Adelaide St. west, a black cut away coat, a pair of black trousers and a silver hunting case watch. The articles are alleged to have been stolen sometime during the summer, but Meagher refused to settle with Bradford. Officer Morton arrested him to day at his home on Moira St. He will be taken to Toronto tomorrow. He is a young man some 21 years of age, with smooth face.

Protect the Birds.

A remarkable migration of pine and evening grosbeaks has taken place this year in Ontario. These beautiful and formerly rare birds have been driven from their remote haunts in the north and west, no doubt, by failure of the food supply in their native region, and for several weeks past they have been seen in considerable numbers in our streets, and attracted to the clusters of mountain ashberries are to be found offering a supply of food. While ravenously eating these the poor birds, rendered tame by cold, starvation, and perhaps also by unfamiliarity with man and his ways—have been slaughtered in scores and hundreds by boys and green persons too, armed with sticks, stones, catapults, guns of various kinds and nets on the ends of long poles. The wanton slaughter of these beautiful and harmless birds should not be permitted.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

Thos. Ritchie will return from England on Wednesday next.

The Rev. N. R. Willoughby, D. D., has been invited to return to Norfolk-st. church, Guelph, for a third term. The Guelph Herald says the church was never as prosperous as now.

TOWN TALK.

Prof. Rigg's music store is now connected with the central telephone office.

The city Mission will hold their Anniversary in the Mission rooms on Dundas street to-night.

The largest sale of daily papers ever made in one day in Belleville was on Tuesday, when seven hundred copies of the Ontario over and above the regular edition were disposed of.

B. C. McCargar, actioneer, will on Wednesday March, 12th, sell at Dorland Clapp's, farm in the fourth concession of Sidney all farm stock and implements. A number of good grade cattle will be sold cheap.

BANKRUPT SALE

—OF—

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. Store w be re-opened

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out.

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

—AT—

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjees, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

Headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

NEW GOODS

A. E. FISH & CO.

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

400 Collars at 5 Cents each

A E FISH & CO

MENIER CHOCOLATE

UNRIVALLED. UNEQUALLED.

PUREST IN THE WORLD.

CONTAINS no CHEMICALS or ADULTERATIONS.

Paris Exposition, 1889 3 GRAND PRIZES. GOLD MEDALS.

Ask your Grocer for MENIER CHOCOLATE (YELLOW WRAPPER).

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland Cand Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Calcined Plaster, Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

NEW TO THE LINE—LIKE THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR — BELLEVILLE, ONT; FRIDAY FEBRUARY 21, 1890 — NO 44

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIAN FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Cracknells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Cocoanut Sugar Wafers
Lemon Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Alber biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore, for the Holidays
WINES, &C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchie's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED STATES
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR,
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish,
It will pay you to s
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods,
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamental stock, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nursery'n, Rochester, N.Y. 13 Sdw

WANTED.

THREE good men to call for us, either on salary or commission. Address
MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen,
Rochester, N.Y.
Feb 13 6td

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen to represent specialties. Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner Jane and Hotel St.

WANTED at once a good general servant. Apply to MRS. R. C. CLUTTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th, Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs.

POSTPONED

THE Orpheus Musical Club have postponed their series of concerts until later. According to the recent arrangement the entertainment announced for Thursday, 20th inst. is withdrawn. 2td

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to
ADAM HENRY,
Front Street.
6t

Belleville Amateur Minstrels

Members of above Company are particularly requested to attend a meeting in Harrison Hall, THURSDAY EVENING, Feby 20th, at 8 o'clock, to discuss an invitation from Trenton.
C. A. BERNARD,
3td Manager.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND

NEW SYSTEM. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Terms low. For further information call at school, corner of Frank and Moira streets, or address,
DANIEL KETCHESON,
Belleville, P. O.

SALE
—OF—
VALUABLE PROPERTY

THE Undersigned hereby offers for sale the following property, the stock of G. A. Ostrander, Insolvent, consisting of

Dry Goods	$1 077 55
Groceries	351 49
Fixtures	49 70
Book Debts	539 71

Tenders will be received for the above up to Saturday the 22nd instant at 10 a.m., tenders to be addressed to the Assignee and to show rate on the dollar. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

There will also be sold by Public Auction on Saturday the 22nd inst. at 1 p.m. at the Corner opposite Herrington's Hotel, Main Street, Picton, the following goods and chattels:

3 Horses, 1 Platform Spring Wagon, 1 Peddling Waggon, one cutter.

The Stock List may be seen at the sheriff's office, Picton, and at the office of F. O'FLYNN barrister, Belleville. Terms Cash.

JAMES GILDERSLEEVE, F. O'FLYNN
Assignee. Solicitor for Estate.
Dated this 14th day of Feb. 1890.

NEXT - ATTRACTION
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
The Second Edition of
MR WM J GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale,
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $35 000.
——Forming in its entirety——
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70

BUY SUGAR NOW
They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.
"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers,
Victoria Buildings.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods War ranted. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding his policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville

SCOTT'S EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES of Lime and Soda
Scott's Emulsion is a perfect Emulsion. It is a wonderful Flesh Producer. It is the Best Remedy for CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.
PALATABLE AS MILK.
Scott's Emulsion is only put up in salmon color wrapper. Avoid all imitations or substitutions. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

Loss of Manhood
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE or the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8vo, 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. W H PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

RECAMIER PREPARATIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

CITY STEAM BAKERY
JAS. WALLACE.
Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Dough. Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers. TRY THEM.

SALESMEN WANTED.
Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.
References—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.
CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY
NURSERYMEN,
COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

DOMINION LINE
—OF—
ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS
LIVERPOOL SERVICE
Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th; from Halifax, Sat March 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thursday March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.
Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.
SAILING DATES
Texas, from Portland, about Feb 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 26th.
Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.
Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow. Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.
"The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamships is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.
The Vancouver is lighted throughout with electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.
"Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.
For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Montreal, Quebec, Portland.
T C LAZIER Agent Belleville.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

THE THOMPSON AMENDMENT UNDER DISCUSSION.

Sir John Macdonald Advocates Its Adoption as a Compromise in the Interests of Peace—A Number of Other Speeches For and Against.

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—Sir John Thompson's amendment to the McCarthy bill occupied the attention of the House all day. Peter Mitchell opening out in support of it and stating that he had an amendment of his own to the same effect which he would have proposed had he had a chance.

When he concluded no less than three members rose to speak: Sir John Macdonald, Peter White and Mr. Amyot. The Speaker said on such occasions the Prime Minister was entitled to precedence.

Sir John was very earnest in his speech. He announced that he had intended to move the Thompson amendment, but being fatigued on Tuesday night he had asked the Minister of Justice to move it in his stead. This was a compromise resolution in the interests of peace.

The Government had adopted that part of Mr. Blake's proposition calculated to quiet the agitation in Eastern Canada and Mr. Blake had accepted the substitution for the latter part of his proposition; the clause suggested by the Government which was arrived at satisfying the free men of the west by referring to them the decision of what language was to be used for the purposes of the Legislative Assembly.

There was nothing in the amendment about the printing of the enactments, because that was a matter over which the Legislative Assembly had no control. Once the laws were passed it was for the Lieutenant-Governor, who was directed by this Parliament, to direct in what language they should be promulgated.

He did not feel that this House should act upon the resolution passed by the Legislative Assembly asking abolition of the French language, because that body had not been charged to pronounce upon that subject. In this connection Sir John took occasion to point out that the Assembly had attempted to interfere in a great many matters over which they had no authority; in fact, he said they had condemned nearly every limit put upon them. He had no doubt but that their intentions were the best, but none of them had before sat in a legislative assembly and they did not understand the limitations put upon such bodies as theirs.

For the special benefit of the Ontario members Sir John then dipped into history and fished up a resolution passed by the Legislature of Upper Canada in 1793 which was very apropos to the present occasion. The country had just been divided into Upper and Lower Canada with the idea of removing the strife arising between the French and the English by putting all the French together in one province. But in Upper Canada there was a small colony of French people in what is now Essex County, and when the new Legislature, which met at Newark, were all Englishmen no sooner was their attention called to the fact that those people did not understand English and could not read laws published only in that language, than they unanimously passed a resolution declaring that all enactments should be printed in French for the benefit of the little colony and all others of their race who might settle in Upper Canada.

"Are we to be less liberal to-day?" asked Sir John. "Heaven forbid!" He earnestly appealed to all the members to support the Thompson amendment, asking them to consider only what was in the best interests of the country, not merely what some of their constituents would say when they offered themselves for re-election.

That Sir John's speech had not been without effect was shown by the general applause he received from both sides upon taking his seat.

Mr. Edgar followed and promised to support Sir John Thompson's amendment. He was very severe on Mr. McCarthy. He was sorry that he was not in the House on Tuesday night so that he could have voted for the Beausoleil amendment also.

Mr. Peter White of Renfrew then arose to disclaim sympathy with Mr. McCarthy's utterances, to decline to commit himself to the proposition to maintain for all time the present state of affairs and to say that he would oppose Sir John Thompson's amendment because he believed we should be governed by the resolution passed by the Northwest Assembly on this subject. This brought the debate down to 6 o'clock.

Mr. Barron took the floor after recess and announced himself against the amendment and in favor of the bill.

Mr. Cook followed against the amendment, against the bill and sighing for the six months' hoist. His remarks were largely personal and directed against his colleague from Simcoe (McCarthy).

Mr. Bechard then spoke in English against the bill, but saying nothing about the amendments.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney stated that from his extended experience in the Northwest he believed there never had been any objection to the printing of legislative documents and the ordinances in French, except by a few on the ground that the money might more profitably be expended on public works. Of the white population probably one-third were from Ontario and any objection would be confined to a small proportion of these. He had been through the Northwest from east to end last summer after Mr. McCarthy's visit, and had not heard a word of complaint except that the money was required for public works, and only representations of this sort he believed could obtain signatures to the anti-French petition. He believed that we had only to place the matter before these people in the proper light to make them perfectly agreeable to the present condition of affairs.

It was true that until last year the Speech from the Throne was not read in French, but there was a very simple reason for that. He was Lieutenant-Governor up to the time the present incumbent took office and he did not read the speech in French simply because he was not sufficiently conversant with that language. Where Governor Royal made his mistake was in not again reading his speech in French as well as in English. He believed this was in consequence of representations that some of the members would make the chamber if he were to read it in French. Mr. Dewdney did not believe that any member would do anything so foolish, but for his own part he would say that in the face of such a threat he would have read the speech in French had he read it only to the clerk and to empty benches.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I go no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam which cured me entirely. Highly recommend it.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Romance of an Heiress—The Finale of the Tobacco.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—In the year 1864 Charles Hunter, a clerk in the employ of William Cook, a wholesale merchant in London, Eng., eloped with Mr. Cook's 16-year-old daughter and the couple fled to America, settling in Toronto. In 1879 Hunter deserted his wife, three years later sending her a heartless letter from the Western States. In 1874 Mrs. Hunter with her young daughter left the city and from that time until a few days ago nothing of either had been received. A few weeks ago Inspector John Newlan received a letter from an English firm of solicitors inquiring as to the whereabouts of a Mrs. Hunter née Cook, whose father had died leaving her an estate valued at something like $100,000. Newlan at once connected the missing heiress with a woman he had rescued while attempting to commit suicide by throwing herself into the bay off Yonge-street wharf, and started for Kentucky, where he ascertained she had removed. His search was successful. Although Mrs. Hunter died four years ago her daughter is alive and was recently married to a wealthy and prominent citizen, with whom she had been employed as typewriter. She will receive the legacy.

The Assembly went into committee yesterday on the resolution to grant Trinity University $160,000 towards restoration of the building destroyed by fire on Friday night, Feb. 14. The leader of the Opposition was absent from his seat when the Minister of Education moved the House into committee and it devolved upon Mr. Creighton to reply for him. Before the debate was concluded Mr. Meredith entered and recorded his hearty and entire approval of the resolution brought in by a member of the Government. Three of his followers opposed the immediate consideration of the grant, Mr. Wood (North Hastings), Mr. Whitney (Dundas) and Dr. Willoughby. The only supporter of the Government who received himself against such immediate consideration was Mr. Balfour. They all took the ground that fuller information should first be supplied. Notwithstanding these objections the House went into committee without a division, and Mr. Ross' bill to aid in the reconstruction of the Provincial University received its first reading.

What is in many senses the most important announcement for many years as affecting the prosperity of the outlying districts of Toronto is made by The World this morning. The long expected Belt Line Railway is an assured fact and the cars will be running upon it perhaps before next winter's snow comes. The company, meeting with an altogether unexpected degree of opposition from Eglinton when the proposition was made last fall that a bonus should be given to the road, abandoned the effort to secure financial help and set themselves to forming a strong land company out of the private resources of which the line could be built. Such a land company has, The World announces, been successfully formed. It has a capital of $1,000,000 and the next Gazette will contain the customary notices of its intention to apply for a charter.

Fire in the premises of the Gendron Manufacturing Company in Wellington-street west at 1 o'clock this morning caused a loss estimated at $30,000, fully insured. Adjoining premises occupied by Edward Schenner, wholesale jewelry, and White & Petter, laces, were also damaged.

A brakeman named T. Buckley of Point Edward fell from the top of a freight train near York station at an early hour yesterday morning. He was caught under the wheels and instantly crushed to death. It is supposed he was turned off his feet by the high wind. Coroner Pickering was notified, but after investigation and consultation with the County Crown Attorney he decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

The first and second draws in the final for the Ontario Silver Tankard were played yesterday. In the first draw Toronto Granites beat St. Catharines, 53 to 23; Guelph beat Toronto, 48 to 31; Bobcaygeon beat Barrie, 36 to 35; Walkerton beat Woodstock, 43 to 31; St. Mary's beat Lindsay, 45 to 21. In the second draw Toronto Granites beat Elora, 54 to 34; Guelph beat St. Marys, 48 to 31; Hamilton Thistles beat Bobcaygeon 46 to 21.

The Spencer brothers of Sydney, N.S.W., who backed Searle in the recent contest with O'Connor, are now the Canadian curamund's backers in his coming aquatic struggle in Australia.

William Rowan Moffatt's adjourned charge of forgery came up at the Police Court yesterday. Bank Manager Smith produced the draft drawn on the Alliance Bank in London, calling for, the payment of £40 to D. S. King, and for which draft no money had been placed to the credit of the bank. No further entry or record could be found on the books representing the remittance beyond that found in the regular draft book, where it was initialed by Moffatt and W. H. Godwin. The cash book clerk, H. G. Carr, and the paying teller, G. R. Bartlett, both gave evidence. W. Crooks, the receiving teller, in the course of his evidence stated that mistakes are often made in making up the books. Once a shortage of $387 was discovered in balancing the books. Two months after wards Moffatt found out where the mistake had occurred and told witness. The Crown wanted to call Godwin as a witness, but the magistrate considered there was enough evidence already to warrant his committing the prisoner for trial. The case was adjourned till to-day to allow the stenographer to place the evidence in shape to be signed by the witnesses.

The Carolina Race War.

RALEIGH, N.C., Feb. 20.—The negro incendiaries at Rocky Mount have sent a notice to prominent citizens there informing them that if the Rocky Mount Light Infantry are ordered out the negroes will kill them all if they have to shoot them from ambush. Other threats of a like character have been made.

New York's Wealth.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—The state assessors in speaking of their forthcoming report to-day said an increased assessment of real estate over the preceding year of $90,593,117 and an increased assessment of personality of $7,646,305 is shown this year, making the total of real and personal property assessed for state taxes of $3,567,419,757.

Crazed by His Losses.

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 20.—John Haag, an old and wealthy resident of Duluth, committed suicide this morning by swallowing a large quantity of carbolic acid. He had been crazed by heavy losses in a mining deal in Nova Scotia. He leaves a widow, son and an estate worth $200,000.

The Candid Truth.
USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I had no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and throat; it never $275,000 BONUS.

That's the Sum the Ambitious City Proposes to Grant the T., H & B.

HAMILTON, Feb. 20.—At the meeting of the Railway and Finance Committees of the city council last evening it was definitely decided to recommend submitting a bylaw for $275,000 bonus to the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and the City Solicitor and Hector Cameron are preparing the bylaw for ratification by the City Council.

An inquest was held enquiring into the decease of the woman found dead at the house of Alexander Fazius, 17 Walnut-street, and supposed at the time to be the wife of Fazius. Evidence given revealed the fact that the woman's name was Margaret Hamilton and although she had lived with Fazius since 1871 they had never been married. She had a husband living in this city with her daughter. The post mortem examination held to-day showed the deceased to have died from chronic alcoholic poisoning and no traces of violence could be found. The jury brought in a verdict that the woman came to her death from natural causes, which were induced by intemperate habits.

Miller W. F. Birnie took out his pocket book to pay a newsboy for a paper last evening at the corner of Hunter and King-streets when a thief came along, grabbed the pocket book, containing $104, and made good his escape.

Grocer W. H. Berney while entering Association Hall last evening with his daughter to attend a temperance revival was taken suddenly ill. He was assisted to a physician's residence in the neighborhood but expired before being there 10 minutes. Death was caused by heart disease.

WHERE'S SIFTON.

Mysterious Disappearance at St. John's Village—Was it a Suicide.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 20.—Intense excitement reigns at St. John's village, near here, over the disappearance of Samuel E. Sifton, clerk of the Division Court, justice of the peace and one of the most prominent men of the place, on Monday last. Sifton resided on the bank of the River Medway and had to cross a bridge which spans that stream in going to and from the village. He was in St. John's on Monday night and had half a dozen drinks at the hotel. He started for home from Fraleigh's Hotel about 9 o'clock in a heavy rainstorm, since which time no trace has been discovered of him, although for 48 hours the river has been dragged in every direction. The opinion is general that he lost his way in the dark and tumbled into the water while crossing the bridge for home.

The theory of suicide finds credence with some people, who claim that Sifton has been acting strangely of late; that he talked queerly and spoke of having lost heavily through endorsing for a relative, and that in consequence both his farm and homestead were heavily mortgaged. Mr. Sifton was in his 60th year.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

Figures Showing the Revenue to the Province and Municipalities.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—The Provincial Secretary yesterday brought down his report for 1889 on the working of the Tavern and Shop Licenses Act.

The number of licenses issued, transferred or removed in each of the license districts of the province during the past three license years is shown below:

	Ordinary.	Beer and Wine.	Shopt.	Wholesale.	Total.	Transfers.	Removals.
1888-7	1520	73	307	32	2000	345	34
1887-8	1472	48	325	28	1888	250	31
1888-9	1393	53	336	26	1848	263	39

There has been an increase in the number of licenses issued comparing 1888-9 with the preceding year of 570 tavern and 11 shop.

Revenue derived by the province from licenses and fines:

1886-7	$216,455
1887-8	201,542
1888-9	222,511

Amounts collected on account of licenses and fines (including the sums imposed by municipal bylaws:

1886-7	$401,626
1887-8	396,950
1888-9	470,855

Payments to the Municipalities:

1886-7	$153,716
1887-8	156,970
1888-9	190,307

The increase in the number of licenses issued and in the revenue collected and distributed between the municipalities and the province is attributable for the most part to the repeal of the Scott Act.

The fines collected during the past year amounted to $18,454, as compared with $13,909 in 1878.

The number of prisoners committed for drunkenness during 1889 exceeds the number committed during 1888 by 346.

FROM THE PRAIRIE CITY.

Projected New Opera House—Forsaken by a Vagabond.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21.—A new opera house, to cost $75,000, will be erected in Winnipeg in the spring by H. Sylvan, proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel here.

A handsome young girl, named Lizzie Halverston, who eloped from Sioux Falls recently with a gambler, was discovered here yesterday in a house of ill-fame by her parents, who have been searching for her. The gambler deserted her shortly after they arrived here and the girl was afraid to return home.

The retail merchants of Manitoba and the Northwest will hold a convention here shortly to discuss matters of importance to the trade, particularly the credit system in vogue in this country.

DOWN BY THE SEA.

The Nova Scotia Legislature Opened by the Lieutenant-Governor.

HALIFAX, Feb. 20.—Lieut.-Gov. McLelan opened the Provincial Legislature to-day. The speech referred to the general prosperity of the province and announced that the Government would subsidize a railway from the Pictou branch of the Intercolonial to the iron fields. At an early date the Government are assured that these valuable deposits will be opened and smelting operations on a large scale carried on.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—No more 4 per cent bonds will be purchased at the Treasury until further notice.

Chairman Spooner, the Sugar King, before the House Committee on Ways and Means today protested against a reduction of the duty on sugar on the ground that the best sugar industry should be encouraged.

Surveyor-General Tweedie Elected.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 20.—Surveyor-General Tweedie has carried his departmental election in Northumberland by about 500 majority.

Do No be Deceive.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

THE HALDIMAND ELECTION.

Dr. Montague Returned by About 150 Majority Over Mr. Colter.

CAYUGA, Feb. 20.—In the election to-day to fill the vacancy in the Dominion House caused by the unseating of Mr. C. W. Colter, Dr. W. H. Montague was returned by about 150 majority over Mr. Colter.

Within less than 3½ years five elections for the Commons have been held. In each Mr. Colter has been the Liberal candidate and Dr. Montague has opposed him in the last four contests. The detailed vote of each of these elections follows:

The majorities in the Colter-Merritt election in September, 1886, were:

	Colter.	Merritt.
Cayuga	...	...
Caledonia	...	75
North Cayuga	107	...
Oneida	...	30
Rainham	118	...
Seneca	38	...
Walpole	...	62
	264	167
Majority for Colter	117

After Mr. Colter's election in September, 1886, the House was dissolved and on Feb. 22, 1887, polling resulted as follows:

	Colter.	Montague.
Cayuga	59	...
Caledonia	...	76
North Cayuga	87	...
Oneida	...	57
Rainham	97	...
Seneca	10	...
Walpole	...	...
	253	210
Majority for Colter	13

	Colter.	Montague.
Cayuga	...	...
Caledonia	18	...
North Cayuga	102	78
Oneida	...	76
Rainham	87	...
Seneca	...	6
Walpole	...	68
	307	224
Majority for Montague		17

In the contest which followed Dr. Montague was unseated and another election held on Jan. 30, 1889, when these were the figures:

	Colter.	Montague.
Cayuga	31	...
Caledonia	...	88
North Cayuga	90	...
Oneida	...	58
Rainham	113	...
Seneca	7	...
Walpole	...	76
	250	311
Majority for Colter	39

Complete returns of yesterday's vote are not in but as far as received the figures are:

	Montague.	Colter.
Caledonia No. 1	15	...
" " 2	37	...
" " 3	...	10
Oneida " 1	12	...
" " 11	46	...
" " 22	23	...
" " 23	...	35
" " 24	...	34
" " 25	45	...
" " 26	12	...
" " 27	50	...
Rainham " 15	...	78
" " 3	...	13
" " 4	...	13
" " 5	...	12
Hagersville	22	...
Locality School " 3	...	25
North Cayuga " 8	...	23
" " 9	35	...
	473	315
Majority for Montague	158

MIDDLESEX GRADUATES.

Hold a Meeting With Reference to Aiding Toronto University.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Middlesex Association of Graduates of Toronto University in the Court House this afternoon, S. W. Woods presided. At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed to the effect that the chairman of convocation should be urged to call a meeting to take steps for replacing the library of the university. The resolution also appointed Mr. Justice Street and W. R. Meredith to represent the association at such a convention and expressed satisfaction at the generous action of the Legislative Assembly.

Capital Notes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—The Washington negotiations were brought up again to-day by Mr. Jones of Halifax, who asked if, in view of the statement that had been made to the House that the modus vivendi, Behring Sea difficulty and Fisheries question at least between the States and Canada were now under negotiation at Washington, the Government would take steps to have Canada directly represented there. He got a "put off reply," Sir John Macdonald saying rather shortly that notice of this question would have to be given in the regular way.

In Ottawa the civil servants take a very prominent part in the Imperial Federation League matters. Mr. Langelier of Montmorency asked to-day whether the Government are aware that a number of their employes are members of the Ottawa branch, and if so, was it their intention to allow them to take part in that political movement. Sir John Macdonald replied that the Government had no official information on that subject, but if any of their employes did belong to that association he did not think they were doing any harm to anybody.

To Major Sutherland's enquiry whether the Government will furnish names of non-commissioned officers and men of the militia Sir Adolphe Caron replies that the matter is now under consideration.

The export duty for logs collected last year was $56,737 from Ontario, $16,043 from Quebec and $1017 from New Brunswick.

The House had another half-hour's secret session to-day discussing the adoption of the bell-rule in the galleries for a privileged class to the exclusion of persons introduced there by ordinary members. Another grievance was the ventilation and the intrusion of unobservable persons at the members' reading room.

Three more bills have been introduced and read a first: Respecting the Najanse, Farnworth & Quebec Railway Company, to incorporate the Thousand Island Bridge Company and to incorporate the Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic Railway Company.

Allegheny City's New Library.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 20.—The dedication of the Carnegie Free Library of Allegheny City took place this evening. The institution was declared open by President Harrison. The exercises opened with singing by the Mozart Society. Bishop Whitehead offered prayer and Mr. Carnegie then made the presentation speech, to which Mayor Pearson replied. President Harrison spoke in complimentary terms of the industrial development in Pittsburg within his personal knowledge as marvellous.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Cream Tartar and English Soda hence is the best to be made.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 21 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by carrier carriers in all parts of the city for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—Single copy, one cent.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for one Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE DAILY ONTARIO first insertion, ten cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—20 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notice is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. R. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The notice of motion that Ald. Williams has given the council, which will result in having the several life insurance companies doing business in this city assessed according to the income of the local office, will aid in lessening the rate on the dollar in local taxation. It has been the custom to assess these companies in the municipality where the head office is located, but the law provides that the municipalities from which the companies draw their income shall have the advantage of this in future. Mr. Williams was posted on the law, and the city will benefit to a considerable extent in consequence of his knowledge.

The Globe's exposure of the Rykert timber limit scandal, which was discussed in the house, showed what manner of man the member for Lincoln is. He says he had Powell working for him and wrote "My Dear Adams," that if they got the patent to the limits they must pay well for it. According, to the Globe the member for West Hastings also had his hands soiled in the scandal. An extract published in that paper read. "Messrs. Muckle, Corby and others had offered their services to remove the difficulty in consideration of five or six thousand dollars each". In justice to Mr. Corby it may be stated that whatever of his faults may be as a representative he is not capable of prostituting his place in parliament although some of the older hands set him a bad example. An error in the telegraph changed the name r

The discussion of the dual language question has drawn out some of the ablest and best speeches made since parliament opened. Hon. Edward Blake's speech was full of a statesman dignity and was a strong appeal to, bury race prejudices and unite in a policy for the country's good. Mr. Laurier's utterances were replete with patriotism to British connection and a scathing exposure of Sir John Macdonald's method of using Dalton McCarthy to excite the people of Ontario against their French Canadian fellow countrymen. Sir John has found that the French of Quebec are no longer solid in his support and he hoped to atone for the loss by winning additional support from Ontario, by a method that would not alienate those of Quebec who are faithful to his cause. For this means he has set Dalton McCarthy and Mr. Meredith to the task of assailing the French Canadians. These gentlemen have nothing at stake in Quebec and so long as Sir John can make it appear that they work independently of him he hopes to escape the consequences of his unpatriotic course. Sir John claims the credit for bringing about confederation yet he would risk wrecking what good he has performed for the country for the sake of what little honor that can come to him by continuance in power. The mild way that Sir John treated McCarthy and the gentleness of Mr. McCarthy's reference to the conservative members as contrasted with his bitterness to the liberals shows the relation between the two.

Literary Notes.

Herbert Ward, the African explorer, in collaboration with D. D. Bidwell, begins in the New York Ledger of March 1 a series of valuable and entertaining articles descriptive of a canoe journey of 2,500 miles on the Upper Congo. A more romantic and startling experience could hardly be conceived of than the explorer's adventurous trip, with his thirty reckless Zanzibaris and five Soudanese soldiers, in two war canoes, through the heart of equatorial Africa, ringed by bands of cannibals, and infested with gigantic and ferocious beasts and reptiles, scarcely familiar to even the naturalist. Of his strangest adventures in the wildest recesses of all that wild and unknown region, the explorer gives a singularly thrilling narrative in the series named—a series which prove of engrossing interest to every thoughtful reader. The articles are illustrated by numerous large cuts, engraved from photographs taken by Mr. Ward himself.

Consumption can be Cured

By proper, healthful nourishment of the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the life healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specifics in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Pedikodia, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Lane's Pamphlet on nervous diseases mailed free on address. Lane's Specific Remedy is a valuable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This must you that basic substitution is practised when the great sure pop corn cure is asked or. Putnam's Painless Corn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLEN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

THE ELECTIONS FOR THE GERMAN REICHSTAG.

Socialists Victorious in Several Cities and Their Vote Throughout the Empire Doubled—A Gladstonian Goes Into Parliament by Acclamation.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—Elections for members of the Reichstag were held throughout the Empire to-day. The first conclusive returns came from Hamburg. The Socialists have swept that city. Herr Debel, the Socialist leader, and Herren Dietz and Metzger, also Socialists, are elected by enormous majorities.

The total Socialist vote in Berlin is 115,000, an increase of 20,000 since the last election. Socialists are returned from Magdeburg, Elberfeld, Munich, Konigsberg, Chemnitz, Lubeck, Brunen and Brunswick. The Carlist parties have lost 15 seats according to returns so far recorded. The Socialists have doubled their voting power throughout Germany. Herr Singer defeated not only Eugen Richter, but General Von Moltke, against whom he was also nominated.

This afternoon there were violent and riotous scenes before the various Socialistic headquarters in this city. The mob in the eastern part of the city defied the police, who finally attacked the infuriated crowd with drawn swords. Shots were exchanged and many were wounded on both sides. The mounted police were called out and assisted in putting an end to the contest. The results of the elections have been surprising to the Conservative element.

4000 Persons Destitute.

WARSAW, Feb. 19.—At Lodz the spinning and weaving mills are stopped and 4000 persons are destitute.

Compromising Documents Found.

SOFIA, Feb. 20.—Monsenitis, the agent here of the St. Petersburg Slav Charitable Committee, has been arrested. It is reported that among his papers which were seized are documents that compromise General Ignatieff, president of the committee, and the members of the Russian Embassy at Constantinople as well as several Russian Consuls.

The Rebellion in Morocco.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Advices from Morocco say the rebellion there has assumed alarming proportions. The Royal troops, after having been defeated, occupied Wassan and are besieged there.

Harcourt v. Hartington.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt will contest the seat of the Marquis of Hartington at the general election.

The Glamorganshire Election.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The election yesterday to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for the middle division of Glamorganshire, caused by the death of Mr. Talbot, resulted in the return of Mr. Evans (Liberal) who was unopposed. Mr. Talbot was a Liberal but he refrained from voting on Gladstone's Home Rule bill.

Rabid Republicanism.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—M. Fallieres, Minister of Education, has ordered all references to the reign of Henry IV. to be omitted in the school histories and the vacant spaces filled up by dots.

LOSSES CAUSED BY FLAMES.

A Flouring Mill at Meaford Burnt—$25,000 Goes Up in Smoke.

MEAFORD, Feb. 20.—About 4 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the fine brick steam mill belonging to the People's Milling Company, which was completely destroyed. It is a mystery how the fire originated. The loss is between $25,000 and $30,000, insured for $14,000 to $15,000 in different companies.

DUNDAS, Ont., Feb. 20.—Squire Treviss's residence, value about $12,000, was burned this evening. The fire originated in the basement furnace. There was nothing saved, even the clothing and jewelry were burned. The building was partially insured.

A Wedding Tragedy.

BRAINERD, Minn., Feb. 20.—Last night was set for the marriage of Miss Lillie Dean, daughter of a north side merchant, to J. Belmer. The latter was train clerk in the employ of the Northern Pacific. Both young people were well esteemed and a goodly party of friends assembled to witness the ceremony. After an evening spent in the usual felicitous manner with guests and friends the twain said good night and retired to the bridal chamber. In less than half an hour the remaining guests were horrified to see the bride come down stairs in her night attire crying that her husband was dead. Rushing up stairs the excited guests found the bridegroom lying on the bed unconscious of their efforts to rouse him. The dead man was from Flesherton, Ont.

The Flour Output.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 20.—The Northwestern Miller says: The flour output last week was 137,400 barrels. For five months ending Jan. 31 last the output of the Minneapolis mills was 3,178,382 barrels, against 2,648,760 barrels for the same period last year and 2,902,630 barrels in 1887-8. For the five months ending Jan. 1, 1,117,885 barrels were sent abroad, against 850,795 barrels in 1888-9 and 1,070,230 in 1887-8. During January 170 mills throughout the country manufactured 1,654,953 barrels, against 1,005,548 barrels for January, 1889. The flour market is as flat as ever, sales being small as compared with the manufacture. Hardly anything is being sold for export. The direct exports for the week were 36,570 barrels.

The Sawtelle Tragedy.

DOVER, N.H., Feb. 20.—The coroner's jury in the Sawtelle case finished its work to-night. The verdict will not be given for ten days. Some doubts are now being cast on the theory that the murder was committed in New Hampshire, as pistol shots in East Rochester are not unusual. It is thought, however, the jury will declare that the murder was committed in this state. It is a question now whether Isaac will be tried at the present term, as the grand jury has been discharged. Isaac still maintains a stolid silence.

The Billiard Tournament.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The first game in the great handicap billiard contest, in which Slosson and Schaefer are to play fourteen-inch balls nine hours the eight-inch balls of all the other players, took place to-night in Chickering Hall before a fine audience. The game was between Jacob Schaefer and J. Randolph Heiser. It was not marked by unusual brilliance. Schaefer in the twenty-seventh inning made 105 points, the highest run of the game. Twenty-eight innings were played and Schaefer won, 500 to 322. Averages were: Heiser 11 3.29, Schaefer 17 7.29. Time of game 5 hours, 15 mins. Two games were played.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all diseases which affect this noble animal to phenomial sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it a standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

A HORSE WHO CAN TALK!

Everybody has heard of a "horse laugh," but who has ever heard of a "horse giggle" or the power of speech? Such an animal would be pronounced a miracle; but so would the telegraph and the telephone a hundred years ago, and the discovery, recently, a cure for consumption, which is universally acknowledged to be wonderful in affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that this disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strengthening, restorative, alterative, or blood-cleanser and nutritive, or flesh-builder, known to medical science. Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh in the Head, and all lingering Coughs, if is an unequaled remedy. In derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels, as Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Chronic Diarrhœa, and kindred ailments, it is a sovereign remedy.

GUARANTEED. "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a printed guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will benefit or cure in every case of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

Copyright, 1885, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

$500 OFFERED by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head.

CATARRH,

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. Its severe fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and hoarseness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces nature quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poisons and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but deputrates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it over does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but it saves forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It strengthens and improves the diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, thus expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, female complaints, erysipelas, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

NERI MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE 3 R'S BLOOD from which the constituents vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stom which is bilious or weak. Unintentional rough digestion may be insured, the secretic activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure, It is the greatest blood purifier introduced into Canada.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Conveyancers, Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Canada. Office—Front St opposite Ritchie's. Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, F. J. M. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

Fred B. Redick

BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public, Conveyancer, Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W A F. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $250,000 to loan at 6% on easy terms Low charges Office—Corner Bridge and Front streets.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

(successor to HON. GEORGE WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.) BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c. — Office McAnsany Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer, Office over Express Company Telegraph Office, Thompson's Block, Bridge Street, Belleville. Private funds to loan Agent of Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Ferris,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. Money to loan.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers Notaries Public, etc., Office next door office of D. B. Thompson and Canadian Express Co., Bridge street Belleville, Ont. G. M. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY. Private and company funds to loan at low rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c., Victoria Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., | F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace (Office at Court House)

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. Office in Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville. W. B. McDONALD D. Cream

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS, Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets Belleville, Ontario. JOHN BELL, Q. C. W. H. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

R. TRACY, M.D.

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society. OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas' old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J. P. Wiser & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville Telephone connection.

Ritenoth Embury M. D., C. M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holland's jewelry store, opposite Town formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S.E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. 60 College Avenue Toronto.

S M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S

(HOMŒOPATHIST) Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario, Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbott

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES General Agent Insurance and Real Estate Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butler

Issuer Marriage Licenses and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention to all calls. Terms liberal. A orders left at the office of J. G Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.,

SURGEON Dentist, Front Street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King For sale only at R TEMPLETON

BOOK BINDING TAMMADGE

M. C. ROBLIN. —ISSUER OF— MARRIAGE LICENSES Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St op Ang o-American.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 8 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. R. EAPLE
Gas Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the 24th Feb., 1890, at the same hour.

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker takes 163 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the Manitoba Railway.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the healthy and sweet the Northwest, He can Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the glorious opportunity of the four new states.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grand scenery of America.

The Traveller takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, time and guides on receipt of a card addressed by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugar

THOS H. COOK

Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

WE

Can state with confidence that our $1 Perfume is the Expensive, Highly Perfum

TOILET — SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

D'OLOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY

BELLEVILLE ONT.,

CAPITAL - - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farms or City property at lowest current rates.

Payment can be made in full due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

Four per cent interest allowed on Deposits. No notice required of withdrawal Offices—Corner Bridge and East Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent No fees No commission

J. P. C PHILLIPS, Manager.

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th from Halifax, Sat. March, 1st. Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock.

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow

Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

"The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and will receive the attention of the travelling public.

"Saloons, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where but little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway ticket offices, or DAVID TORRANCE & CO., Hospital street, Montreal, or J. W. TOLZIER, Agent, Belleville.

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE Wonder of The Age ECLIPSE DYES A NEW Improved for DYE Home Dyeing Nothing but Water — Required in using — 10c a package. For sale everywhere. If your dealer does not keep them, send direct to the manufacturers. COTTINGHAM, ROBERTSON & CO. MONTREAL. ALL SIZES. MIRRORS A. RAMSAY & SON, MONTREAL, MANUFACTURERS OF PAINTS, VARNISHES & COLORS.

PLATE GLASS

A large stock always on hand.

Window Glass

Best Brands—A large assortment.

SILVERED

THE GREAT OLD ENGLISH REMEDY OF PURELY VEGETABLE INGREDIENTS WITHOUT MERCURY, USED BY THE ENGLISH PEOPLE FOR OVER 120 YEARS.

Cockle's Pills

COMPOUND ANTIBILIOUS PILLS.

These Pills consist of a careful and peculiar admixture of the best and mildest vegetable aperients and the purest and most efficacious kind of Cayenne. They will be found a most efficacious remedy for derangements of the digestive organs, and for obstructions and torpid action of the liver and bowels which produce indigestion and the several varieties of bilious and liver complaints. Sold by all Chemists. WHOLESALE AGENTS:

EVANS AND SONS, LIMITED, MONTREAL.

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED

PURE HONEST GOODS. COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER. SAFE INGREDIENTS NO ALUM.

Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries! Direct from Switzerland

New Prints! New Sateens!

In New and Beautiful Designs

White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF THE GREAT STRENGTH GIVER

IT SUPPLIES Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!

Fancy Limon Bananas!

Sweet Tangerine Oranges!

Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT, 78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

THE PILLS Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels. They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions. In all Female Complaints are invaluable. For Children and the aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT Is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Glandular Swellings and all Skin Diseases. It has no rival; stiff Sores and Ulcers. For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Rheumatism, it has no equal. For Gout and Rheumatism, it is a charm.

Sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the World.

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELL'S

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema nearly gone. Skin covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was near with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was incurable, but that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M S WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H Clark, merchant

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally and externally. The great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin Beautifier externally, speedily permanently cures every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 75c SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserve by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti Pain Plaster The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents,

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T

Will be at the

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism and also stop pain of any kind. A number of to-to will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 249, Trenton, Ont.

24ew

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are sold at sight, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hilton Pear, Satzelet Plum, Hibernal Raspberry, Moore's Ruby and Jet Black champion currants, Moore's Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We also give particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to

STONE & WELLINGTON
Toronto, Ont.

ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 228 acres, three miles from Belleville, best of soil, 60 acres now land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Speculators may apply.

Feb 8 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents.

Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with kidney complaint and weak kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try more until I tried a sample of your pills, left at my house, when did me a much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain, Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc.

YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE and DEFORMITY. Send six stamps for valuable information of a Spinal System which is guaranteed perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses, every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Supporters, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Promptness, honorable dealing and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address C. H. AS. CLUTHE
Surgical Machinist & Mfr.
134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Inverted Funds, ... $2,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.
Office:—Robertson Block, East Front St

"The -:- Judge."

"Come in," he said. Pond followed him into the house. The ghastly body had been removed from the music room, and here by the desolate hearth sat the very people who had met around it under such different circumstances in the evening before. Margaret and Mrs. McCook sat side by side holding each other's hands. Judge Barthwait stood talking in a low tone with the coroner. McCook leaned against the mantel as he had the night before, but with a pale and horrified countenance. One or two neighbors were present and the coroner was but now telling Harry Barnwait from the room above, to begin the formal inquest. Besides these, was the hastily impanelled jury of six.

A few moments later Guy Mannering entered, leading Harry by the hand. Margaret had risen from her seat and held out her hand toward Harry, but he did not see it, and the judge hurried his daughter and pushed her softly back into her seat. He whispered something to her and she nodded her head. McCook regarded Harry with a long, penetrating look, of which the coroner, young man was quite unconscious. His eyes still bore the horror that had fixed them upon the dead face and the frightful face of the dead. He did not tremble, but seemed to be frozen into a sort of painful rigidity. Pond also watched him closely, but before he had done so many seconds he murmured "innocent" once more to himself, and turned his attention to the other members of the room.

The inquest began with the re-examination of Mannering, who, for the first time in years, was put to the mental strain of remembering his own name, which was not Mannering at all.

"How do you come by an alias" asked the coroner sternly.

"Don't know, sir. When I come yere my name were John Watson, Mr. Harry named me Guy Mannering, sir. I've been Guy Mannering for many years."

"Why, said the coroner, turning to Harry, "did you find it necessary to give this man an alias?" Harry turned his head gave slowly on the coroner and held it there waveringly.

"I do not understand," he said thickly. Margaret started to speak, but Mrs. McCook stopped her. She was not altogther sorry that Harry was being punished for some of his nameless.

"This man has two names," repeated the coroner, with dignified emphasis.

"Why?"

"Oh!" exclaimed Harry, a light breaking in on him, "you mean Guy Mannering! We've called him that for these ten years."

"I should like to know the reason for so doing," said the coroner, acting upon the belief that he had discovered something that must be sifted to the bottom.

"What did we do it for?" asked Harry, impatiently, yet with a gleam of humor breaking through his pain. "We did it, sir, for—for greeds."

"Sir," cried the horrified official.

"That is the solemn truth. What do you suppose we would give him that fantastic name for? I named him that when I read the novel."

"Make a note of that," whispered the coroner to his assistant. The assistant gravely did so. "May this not be a clew," he thought to himself. "From this we may discover that the young man has been insane for years." One does not read Gaboriau's novels for nothing.

The coroner resumed his examination of the old man, eliciting much the same replies as those that Pond had listened to before. The other servants were examined, but they had retired early and could throw no light on the matter. They all told the same story of how the murder was discovered in the morning, and none of them thought to mention the rabbit. Pond was still ambitious to keep that fact to himself, especially as several reporters from evening papers were present and as he did not relish having them take all the cream off his report in the morning. The judge was examined next. He told of the pleasant evening that had been spent by the party, and volunteered the information that Harry and his uncle were on the best of terms.

"That's a very curious thing for a judge to do," said Pond to himself. Harry also lifted his head at this gratuitous information, and stared at his old friend, but he made no remark. The lines about the eyes of the State's Attorney tightened. But his expression was inscrutable, and not even Margaret could guess what he was thinking. The judge deposed that immediately upon leaving the house, he and his daughter had gone home, and that he had retired. He slept till late, and did not learn of the crime until late in the morning. At first he was too prostrated to visit the house, but was just preparing to do so when the summons called him to the inquest. The coroner turned his attention to McCook, and while they were talking Pond managed to get close to the judge.

"I beg pardon," he whispered, "but I think you said that all the guests departed about midnight?"

"I did," replied the judge, turning toward him courteously.

"You went immediately to bed, Judge Barthwait, and stayed there till morning?"

"Of course, sir. May I ask what paper you represent?"

"The Morning Chronicle, judge. Does any other man live outside yourself have the key to the front door?"

"It is not likely, sir, since I am the only man in the house. I think we had better discontinue talking. We are making a disturbance."

He turned away with a gesture of apology to listen to what Harry had to say.

"Where were you last night at 12 o'clock?" inquired the coroner.

"Here, with my uncle."

"The dead man?"

"Yes."

"What were you talking about?"

"Personal matters."

"I must ask you to repeat that conversation to me, sir."

"I cannot do so here, sir. I will do it in private."

"Why not here?"

"Because it relates to a matter that cannot with courtesy be repeated."

"Nevertheless, I must ask you to do it, sir."

"I requested my uncle not to invite a certain gentleman here again. He said that I had received the right to choose his companions. I told him that if that man visited the house I should not. He told me to go to my room. I did so, but I did not go to bed."

McCook was half smiling now. Margaret saw it and clenched her hands.

"I was heartily ashamed of myself by the time I reached my room, and I started a dozen times to return and apologize for my language."

"But you did not return?"

"Over an hour passed before I did so. I thought I might find my uncle still in the music room, but as I popped my way downstairs I saw that all the lights were extinguished and imagined that he had retired."

"And this he did you do?"

"I knew I could not sleep, and I put on my cap and hat, which were hanging in hall, and went out on the street."

"Did you light the gas or make any light for the purpose of finding your coat and hat?"

"I did not. I knew just where to find them."

"Did you enter the room where Mr. Leiter had been sitting?"

"The music room? No, I did not!"

Margaret would hardly have realized the importance of these questions if she had not looked at her father's face. She saw that he was deeply fearful of the outcome. The veins stood out on his forehead, his hands were clasped, and tears of sympathy filled his eyes.

"Do they suspect——" she started to whisper, crowding close to her father, but she was stopped by his hand upon her her mouth. She drew it away and held it in her own.

"After you got on the street last night where did you go?"

Margaret felt before the answer came that it was going to be something fatal. She seemed suddenly become conscious of a terror in Harry's soul. She could feel his energy. It was as if a curtain had been drawn aside, revealing him to her complete. But it was only his misery that she saw. All that caused it was impossible for her to know.

"It is impossible for me to tell you where I was last night," said Harry slowly.

Every one in the room looked at him in amazement.

"Mr. Leiter, do you fully realize all that such a denial will mean?"

"It might mean everything or nothing. I cannot tell which it does, sir."

"Do you mean that you will not tell or that you do not know?"

"I cannot tell you where I was from 11 till 2 o'clock, and I do not know where I was afterward."

The veins stood out on the judge's forehead.

"What reckless answers," he whispered to Margaret. "Has the boy taken leave of his senses?"

"Do you recognize this knife?" asked the coroner.

"I do," said Harry, shuddering as he saw the blood on it. "It is mine."

"When did you have it last?"

"In the afternoon, before I changed my clothes."

"Before you changed your clothes for the suit you now wear?"

"Yes."

"Where did you have the knife?"

"In this room. I was fixing a violin bridge for my uncle."

"That will do," said the coroner; "the jury may retire."

As the men left the room Margaret left her father's side and rushed impulsively toward Harry. He saw her coming, put up his hands, shut his eyes and cried insanely:

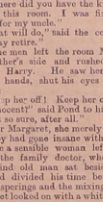
"Keep her off! Keep her off!"

"Innocent!" said Pond to himself, "well, I'm not so sure, after all."

As for Margaret, she merely thought the poor boy had gone insane with his troubles, and like a sensible woman left him to the care of the family doctor, who was present This kind old man sat beside the young man and divided his time between consoling whisperings and the mixing of sedatives. Margaret looked on with a white and anxious face, but said nothing more, and made no attempt to win a glance from the man who had promised to love her always only the night before.

In a few moments the verdict of the jury was known. Harry was held to the grand jury suspected of the murder of his uncle. No one spoke. The judge dropped his arms on the table and buried his face within them. Margaret's head dropped lower and lower until it fell on the arm of the chair. Mrs. McCook motioned to her son and he picked the girl up in his arms and carried her from the room, while his mother followed. As they went out Harry looked after them with a sort of a hardened smile. For a time all that was evil in him came uppermost. A few moments later the house was left to the servants.

CHAPTER V.



HE next morning dawned pale and cold. Its lurid light breaking in through Margaret's unshaded curtains, aroused her from her broken sleep. She sat up in bed, pushed the tangled masses of hair back from her eyes and looked out drearily. Never before since her mother died, had she awakened to a new sense of misery and pain, and even that sorrow had been less poignant than this. That bereavement had in it something holy, something chastening. The sun was scarlet with crime; it was mockery of violence, shame, terror and injustice. The dead mother had lain in a bath of Heaven. This seemed the work of hell. Yet, though her misery was so new, it wore a familiar aspect, and she could hardly believe that it was only yesterday morning that she had leaped from bed with a thrill of life and gladness, remembering all that had come to her. And that sudden excitement had given way to sudden poverty. That palace of hope had fallen and left a desolate gap!

How could the room she had known so long suddenly take to itself a look of neglect? Could her dejection permeate the very furniture, she wondered. The flowers in the vases were faded where she had forgotten to freshen the water. The curtains were not drawn; her hair hung in tangles, as she had unbound it the night before, forgetting to braid it for the night. It used to be such a gay little room, but now—

Margaret brought herself up with a start. Though she was capable of intense passion, she was not sentimental. No array of circumstances could have made a fatalist of her. She did not know what the quality of sweet resignation, of which she had so often read in women, meant.

"If I keep still and wait I shall eat my heart out," said she aloud. "I do not process eating my heart out. Therefore I will neither keep still nor wait."

She got up, drew the curtains to what she thought daybreak, lit the gas, took the morning bath with the accustomed vigor and dressed herself neatly in a dark walking dress. When she reached the dining-room she found her father had not yet descended, but she ordered her own breakfast to be brought in, and, for a girl with a breaking heart, ate remarkably well. Mr. Leiter was that she felt like fighting. Miserable, she might be; despairing, she was not. And when one feels like fighting, one does not sent out for all of the morning papers, and read every line in them pertaining to the murder. Then to have her thoughts fresh degenerating into a mournful reverie, she took paper and wrote her conclusions as she reached them.

"Harry is simply incapable of murdering his uncle. Even if he were wicked enough, he has not the nervous courage. He instinctively avoids anything offensive or disagreeable. I remember that he fainted at once and asked him to do it up for me he nearly fainted at the sight of blood. Of course my heart assures me of his innocence immediately, but I wish to convince my reason as well. The question now is, Why will he not establish his innocence by telling where he was? He must either be ashamed to tell or else he must find it impossible to do so for fear of compromising some friend in some way. Might it not be both? Let me see. He had just accepted my promise to marry him. (There was a tear drop here, but the writing remained firm). He is an honorable gentleman. He will be true to me. But is it not possible that he had some old—friendship that he felt called upon to break with delicacy. I do not know much about such things, but I have heard that the best of men have chapters in their lives that they would not willingly have read by their most cherished friends. Can Harry be like the rest? My reason tells me that he can. May it not have been the recollection of this that has caused him to me to keep away from him. May he not have felt polluted. Is it egotism in me to suppose that my trust might not have alarmed him?

TOBECONTINUED.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headaches and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While they do so much for all who use them, they also cure Constipation, curing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

SICK HEAD

ACHE

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

SICK HEAD ACHE

is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the original, in spite of the attempts made to discourage by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruits of his labors, all of which demonstrate the unfinished superiority and originality of his teaching, Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized today in both Hemispheres as meeting an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of eminent men in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his system by correspondence, showing what his system is and does, and what it is not and does not, and why; that any person may learn to read in a couple of hours, that any book may be learned in a couple of days, that blunders may be cured, etc. For Prospectus, Press Testimonials, etc., address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

Scott's emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites!

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton Bury Bucks London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Don't Fool.

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Gold en Medical Discovery is positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue unless cured, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in its most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail on 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc. are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken rather than sustain. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get the genuine, and if asked for as a very Druggist sells it, it is money well spent. See Dorenwends advertisement another column.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentry. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and rheumatism Nerviline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 25 and 50 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerviline.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness by the use of Dr. Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, is a useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute and lasts at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's and avoid other cures. Nerviline

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies but this is the only one that has done me any good."

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies,

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, or The Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotency of the Blood, Exhausted Vitality, Untold Miseries, Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relations. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 125 Prescriptions, Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, sent in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on Nervous and Physical Debility. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital, ... $15,000,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, on the mutual system. Established 1868. Losses paid in 18hs..... $77,400.85. Asset Dec 31st, 1888..... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

HACYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt,
Late Thos Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WESTERN Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY AT

DICKENS & SON

HACYARD'S YELLOW OIL

A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DIZZINESS, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN THEIR ACTION AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

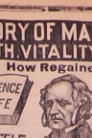
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FOR MEN

APOSITIVE CURE for LOST VITALITY, NERVOUSNESS, Debility, Nervous Weakness, Lost Manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.



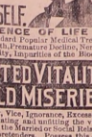
There is hardly any other disease which unexamines the health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm: it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE



RUPTURE AND DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Chas Cluthe, Surgical Machinist, 134 King West, Tor.

Will visit professionally, Belleville Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday March 21st and 22nd.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

FINEST AND CHEAPEST MEAT FLAVOR. STOCK FOR SOUPS, MADE DISHES & SAUCES.

To be had of all Storekeepers, Grocers, Druggists and chemists.

Cookery Books post free on application.

Ask for the COMPANY'S Extract, and see that it bears Baron Liebig's Signature in Blue Ink across the Label.

Sole Agents for Canada and the United States Schieffelin & Co. Manufacturing Chemists, 9, Fenchurch Avenue, London, England.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INJURIOUS SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, CHICAGO, ILL. MANUFACTURER OF

THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKE.

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N. Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with their contents in towns, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping losses, but offer a safe security to the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties leaving to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK
District agent, Belleville

W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe

J. Martin agent Stirling.

WANT D

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good SALARY and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years All goods warranted first class Write a once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont. Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries, (Mention this paper)

AN XTENISVE ASSORTMENT OF FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the

'ONTARIO' OFFICE

THE GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Has no equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking stove. Every Stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot FITTED WITH

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Grate or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

SPECIAL AGENTS TO WORK Life & Accident INSURANCE.

In the County of Hastings; apply to

S BURROWS

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent article is the best and most desired toilet aid and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. As Dorenwend is known in country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and Man you need any is the correct place to go to. Send for the circular wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACID STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

-Of-

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal without notice.

WHAT

Wilkinson Plows, Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 80 giving an excellent variety to choose from. Chath m Fanning Mills, Cleaners with or without baggers, Spring Tooth harrows Steel Harrows Queen Oven Cultivators, Geo Buntin's Reaper, Mower, Rakes, Eclipse Cutters Thresher Engines, new and second hand Monarch Thresher. Rep irs for Wakefield Machinery and other makes.

WHERE

All the above may be bought or ordered through

WHVANTASSEL, Agt
Footbridge Warerooms
Belleville.

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS TO WORK Life & Accident INSURANCE.

In the County of Hastings; apply to

S BURROWS

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 20 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select kins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all works done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Skin and manufactory, Front St, East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we throw with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods.

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering at very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur tickets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 21 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by S. R. HUFFMAN.
dly Tuner.

Belleville Defeated.

Belleville was pited against Hamilton yesterday in the curling contest at Toronto and was defeated by twenty-seven shots. Hugh McKinnon formerly of Belleville played with Hamilton.

A Small Museum.

There is now on exhibition at the office of the Madoc Review, besides the publisher a live grasshopper, a mosquito and a butter fly. At least this is the grave announcement of that paper.

Ladies' Aid Social.

The ladies aid of the Tabernacle give a social in the lecture room of the church, on Friday evening 20th inst. A good programme, including refreshments, will be provided, Mrs. Nash (nee Caverly) will sing.—Admission 15 cts.

Special Services.

Whyte Bros., of Paris, the famous musical company, now in Brooklyn, will be in the city a week from Sunday, Chaplain Searles will accompany them, and conduct special services during the month of March.

Gilmours Out of Timber.

Gilmour & Co are engaged in getting out a large number of logs and a quantity of square timber. 100,000 logs will come down the Moira, whilst a large number will be shipped by rail to Trenton. Of the square timber which is being got out some of the pieces require the united efforts of 12 teams of horses to draw them.

High Water.

The river overflowed its banks again last night on the west side along south Coleman street to Flint & Holton's mill. The citizens in that part of the city are suffering serious inconvenience. The water course must be abated this afternoon in consequence of the change of weather. The city should take some steps to clear the channel to afford relief to the sufferers.

Legal Intelligence.

Chancery division before Boyd, C Hart v. Phillips.—C. H. Widdfield (Picton) for plaintiff, moved for judgment for administration in accordance with consent minutes. Motion for defendant judgment granted, with reference to master at Belleville. Further directions and costs reserved.

The Point Ann Assault Settled.

Patrick McShane, who was changed with brutually assaulting Wm. O'Connel as the Point Ann stone quarries has effected a settlement with the plaintiff and returned to his work. The mother of the boy thought it advisable to refrain from going into court and accepted a reasonable amount for the damages sustained by her son.

Haldimand Elections

(Special to the ONTARIO)

CAYUGA, Feb.21—The complete returns from Haldimand elections gives Montague a majority of 174.

Later.

Corrected returns in the Haldimand election gives Montague a majority of 232 —A late report puts Dr Montague's majority at 17.

TOWN TALK.

There was no police court to-day.

The agent for the 'Twelve Temptations' is in the city.

Several thousand pounds of cheese will be shipped from Belleville on Saturday.

M. J. A. Sprague, M. P. P., has presented a petition from the town of Picton for the abolition of exemptions.

HomerTourjee of this city, has composed a memory song which has been set to music by a Toronto firm. Over a hundred copied have already been sold in Belleville.

A quantity of logs brought down by a freight train on the C. O. R. got loose from their fastening on Wednesday. It rolled off the car. One car was derailed and the train delayed.

CITY MISSION.

PROGRESS OF A PRAISE-WORTHY WORK.

The Ninth Anniversary—Facts and Figures Gleaned From the Report—Last Years Contributions.

The ninth anniversary of the founding of this most important work in our city, was held in the Mission last night. After the opening hymn and prayer the annual report was read followed by appropriate addresses by Dr. George, Mr. R. H. Gordon, Mr. F. M. Cobb Mr. E. Dickens and Mr. D. Sinclair. From the report we glean the following particulars of the work done under the auspices of the mission. Every Sunday morning from 10 to 11 a prayer meeting is held for christians, and from 11 to 12 a prayer meeting and praise meeting for all classes Sunday afternoon in addition to the regular Sunday school work a prayer meeting is conducted at different houses on the plains or in the vicinity of the lumber mills. The Sunday school is doing nicely with an attendance of from 60 to 90 and has an efficient staff of about a dozen earnest teachers.

Sunday evening meetings conducted regularly, are led in turn by Messrs. Northrup, Richardson, C. P. Holton, and Vantassel, with young men assistants.

Every Thursday evening also, meetings are held. The first meeting of the month is conducted by one of the city pastors. The other evenings by young men of the different churches.

Night school is held every Tuesday and Friday evening for the benefit of women and working girls. The attendance is from 20 to 30. House visitation is being constantly attended to and the wants of the needy as far as possible looked after. During 89, five editions of the little paper "Our Mission" have been issued. The cash contribution since the mission was commenced are as follows: First year, $130; second $194.95; third $220; fourth $360.75; fifth $260.62; sixth $353.07; seventh $306; eighth $438.90; and the present, the ninth year $432.96. Spiritually, this year has been the best in the history of the work. Within the past few weeks quite a number have professed conversion. The outlook is most encouraging and it is confidently expected that this year enterred upon to-day (Feb 21st) will be more prosperous than any of the past.

Those who contributed to the support of the mission las year are as follows:—

A G Northrup $20, Mrs. W W Chown $20, Thos. Ritchie $20; Wm W Wright, $20; collected by Mrs. McCoy, George St, $16 37, Evangelical Alliance $11, Miss Ida Jack, Flint, Mich., $10, John Taylor, Johns St., $10, Mrs. E Merrill, Picton, $10, Miss Burrell, $10 J Dunnet, $10, W H Gordon, $10, F Whitesides, $7, Madame Tourgis, $6, Ivy Robins $5, Mrs. H Corby $5, J Frost, $5, W H Vantassel, $5 50, Mr. Ketcheson, $5, Alex. Ray, $5, Miss Ritchie, $5, Dr George, $5, Mr Meehan $5, G E Henderson, $5, Post Office, Xmas Eve, $5, Mrs Grace Keith, $5 Mr Wallbridge (of Wallbridge & Clarke) $5, A Friend, $5, Robert Templeton, $5, Robert Richardson, $5, Mrs R T Cudman, $4 50, Rev. T. Chowish, Thomasburg, $2.50, Miss Dix, Lindsay, $3, Wm. Mackintosh, $3, Thos. Stewart, $2, J. G. Templeton, $2, Mrs. Wm Curry, Tweed, $2, Mrs H Lasier, $2, Mrs. J W Hamily, Campbellford, $2.50, Miss A Wellington, Manilla, $2, Mrs Higginbotham, $2, Mrs Middlemas, $4, S Wright Conway, $2, Rev Mr Limbert, Tweed, $2, Mrs Bogue (Bank Commerce) $2, a Friend (through P O) $2, Miss Tilney's S S school class, $2.29, Miss Reid's class, 50cts, Miss I Gilberts class, 60cts, Given at the door night of Christmas tree, $1.75, W H H Ponton, $2, Miss C. Craig, $2. W C T U, $2.90, J Turner, $1, H G. $1.50, A E W, $1.50, a Friend, 50cts, a Friend, $3, a Friend 50 c, a Friend, 25c, Robert McCoy, 25c, Mr Denike 25c, Mrs Hancock, 50c, J Roy, 50c, Mrs Bonter, $1, Jay Taylor, $2.50, Miss Ferrin $1, through post office, $1 Mrs Ackerill $1, Miss Black $1, W. W Miller, Trenton, $1, Mrs J Lewis, 75 c, a Friend $1, Mr McCallum $1, a Friend $1, Miss Roy $1.50, T Gilbert $2.50, Mrs. Alexander $1, E Dickens $1, Wm Deacon $1, Mrs. Irvine, Campbellford, $1, Mrs. Thos. Gibbard, Napanee $1. O Frost, Tweed $1, Mrs Benson $1, a Friend 50c, Mrs Hancock 50c, a friend 50c, Miss Nicholson 25c, a Friend 50c, Mrs Perkins, Montreal, $1, Miss J M Jack $7, Mrs Massey $1. Mrs S Wood $2, Mrs Cochran, Hotel St, $1, Mrs Hamilton's children (Merchants Bank) 56c, Mrs Chalmers 25c, A R Chown $4, Mrs Arthur Perkins $1, Mission box $55.52, mission box Bridge St. church $1.30 Total, $432.96.

DONATIONS FOR THE MISSION.

A Wallbridge, bag potatoes and apples; Mrs Mallory gallon maple syrup, W H Vantassel, two barrels apples, Mrs. McAnnany, one barrel apples; F Whitesides, Little Britain, box honey; Mr. Gould, Dundas street, bag apples; Miss Grace Ponton, turkey; Miss Smart, goose; Mrs J. Craig, vegetables.

DONATIONS FOR THE POOR.

E Dickens, 4 doz. loaves bread, box buns; Mr Cook, 2½ doz. bread; F M Cobb, $4; Miss Ritchie, $2; Mrs C Wallbridge, $1; Mr. Carscallen, $1; Mr Fairman, teacher, books for Sabbath school; Mrs. J. Lewis, clothing; Mrs H Corby, clothing, friend in Cobourg, Mrs. Demill; Mr. Retallack, boots; Mr Bird, boots; Mrs G Copeland, clothing, Mrs Turner, Forin street, Mrs. Allen, Church street, Miss Nelson, clothing; J. C. Jamieson, clothing; Mrs Robt Richardson, Mrs D McLean, Mr Ritchie, Mrs O F Smith, Mrs Farl, Madam Tourgis, Miss Chandler, Mrs G Stewart, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs J E Riddell, W H Vantassel, J G Templeton, Mrs. Perkins, Church street, Mrs F Wallbridge, George st., friend clothing, Mrs P J M Anderson, clothing, Mrs Osborn, Mrs McAnnany, Mrs Riddell, 2 geese. Wallbridge & Clarke, lemons and sugar for picnic, Reformed church, apples, Miss Cole, apples, Mrs J D Duvall, pears, Mrs W H Ponton, clothing, Mrs Chalmers Mrs Hamilton, Merchants Bank, Mr Andrews, half a cord soft wood for Mission House. R. McMullon, wood, Mr. Colhoun half cord hard wood, Mrs H Corby, clothing, W H Vantassel beef, also cord of hard wood.

CHRISTMAS TREE DONATIONS.

Mr Hambly, Campbellford, box toys, Mrs James Ross, $1, Mrs H Corby, cake and candies, Mrs Robert Gibson, sight piece new clothing, A G Northrup, $5, St Thomas' church, toys, Mrs. Cochran, Hotel Street, candies, $1, Mr. Overell, toys, Mrs J Hill $1, Miss Bigsar new clothing, Mr Dickenson, candies and cakes, Mrs G Stewart candies, J C Jamieson, candies, Mr Pitceathly, cake and candies, Mrs T Ritchie, cake, Teachers of the Sabbath school, cake, a Friend, cake, Miss Ritchie, 1 doz hymn books, Jay Taylor, 1 doz hymn books, a Friend, 1 doz hymn books.

Hark! to the sound of humanity's wails! Millions of people with aches and with ails. Headaches and humors, a merciless food, Weakness of lungs and disorders of blood. Yet there's a helper that certainly saves Thousands of people from premature graves. The remedy is Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures coughs, relieves asthma, checks bronchitis purifies the blood, heals sores, eruptions and unsightly pimples and is without a rival for all the ills that spring from a disordered liver.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's CATARRH remedy. Of druggists.

THE ICE CROP.

Enough Stored for Local use—A Scarcity Elsewhere.

While there appears to be a famine in ice in Toronto and others cities along the lake, the Bay of Quinte is yielding a choice harvest and since the recent cold weather set in local dealers are jubilant. A large number of citizens, butchers, hotel keepers and others have also stored away a large quantity for private use.

"What are the prospects for the coming season to the ice trade?" asked a reporter of D. R. Leavens one of the largest dealers in Canada.

"Well, I have stored away all that I will require for local use."

"How is the quality of the ice in the bay this year as compared with former years?"

"The ice could not be better especially since the last cold snap set in. My ice has a thickness of from ten to thirteen inches and is pure and solid. I don't think there is any fear of a famine this year as I have taken special precautions against it. Lastyear the ice was not solid or compact, from the fact that it did not freeze properly

"Where are the American cities getting their supply from?"

"In the Eastern States they can always depend on Maine for their supply. In New York City they have no ice houses and never store any. The way the market is supplied is this. In the vicinity of Albany, and further north along the Hudson and around Lake Champlain, there are any number of ice houses where ice is cut and stored. In spring and summer, then it is towed down the Hudson in immense barges to New York, Brooklyn, and other larges cities, and from these barges it is delivered all over the city, the same as we deliver it from our ice houses.

"In Chicago they have, I think, a somewhat similar way of supplying the market when the local crop fails. There they wait for the opening of navigation in the spring and thus bring it down the lake from the northern peninsula of Michigan and Wisconsin."

F. X. Schrochlin, Anton Grasser and C. P. Bond of Toledo, Ohio, three extensive brewers were in the city this week looking for ice. They state the crop on the other side is almost a failure and not half the usual harvest can be gathered. In consequence of this the large brewers are in a serious dilemma. When the Toledo gentlemen viewed ice in the bay here it made their mouth water. It is probable that they will secure barges from Kingston and transport it in large quantities

WAS HE MAD?

An Encore That Caused a Panic at an Entertainment.

There was recently an entertainment given not far from this city at which a student from Albert College delighted the large audience with his club swinging. He was three times recalled and finally said he would attempt a performance that he had never seen undertaken by any other club swinger. He tried the exercise and the club slipped from his hand; a second time and the same result. A third effort met with no better success. With this last failure a young man on the front seat laughed heartily. The performer thought there was derision in the laugh and flung a club at his disturber. A commotion followed and Rev. Dr. Carman who was one of the audience took his coat and started for the door. As he rose to this feet an Indian club was aimed at him. He changed his mind about using the door and started for a window. The crowd by this time was alarmed and many had risen to their feet. A young man in the audience shouted "My God where is Hannah's religion", and a lady stood up and in a shrill voice piped out, "Great heavens." By this time clubs were being flung indiscriminately at the thoroughly startled audience. About this time it was noticed that although the clubs came in contact with people no one seemed to be injured. The panic subsided enough to show that the clubs were of light pasteboard and then it dawned on them that the young man who laughed and the performer were in league and the exercise was as promised something that had never been witnessed before.

HEALTH STATISTICS.

Dr. Platt Speaks on "Useless Expenditure of Money.

In the house recently the item for the cost in printing what are called "health statistics" was discussed. Some of the members thought 'death statistics' would be a more appropriate name. The facts for the book were gathered by professional men who got from sextons the number of persons buried within stated periods.

Dr. Platt of Prince Edward spoke on the item in the following common sense manner. "As regards the returns furnished us annually by the Minister of Agriculture it makes but little difference whether they are complete or incomplete, correct or incorrect. The question is as to their practical utility at this time. Several years ago we questioned the propriety of spending this large sum of money, and the plea put forward then was that the expenditure was intended merly to serve for the ground work of a system which would be of some practical utility. Year after year we have gone on spending and issuing the same kind of report, and I cannot conceive of any useful purpose the report serves. This large volume goes into the hands of a few people, who glance it over, some of them very cursorily indeed, and people are anxious to see whether something will grow up out of this which will be of use to the community. Mortuary statistics are of no use except for the purpose of leading to an enquiry, and to the establishment of some regulations or system that may improve the sanitary condition of the people. My own opinion is that the money we are now spending might be much more profitably divided amongst the various provincial boards to assist them in perfecting the work or in establishing boards where none exists. So far as Ontario is concerned I am satisfied that the expenditure of money by this Parliment is money thrown away. I do not know that the Ontario Board itself relies to any great extent upon the assistance of the Dominion officials. I am very glad that my Hon. friend from West Middlesex (Mr. Roome) has seen fit to bring this matter before the House, and I hope that something may come from the motion which he has placed upon the paper. I am certainly opposed to the expenditure under this item if it is to produce no better results than has had in the past.

CONSOLIDATING OUR DEBT.

Success of the Belleville Deputation at Toronto.

City Solicitor Henderson and Ald Porter returned from Toronto last night from attendance before the private bills committee of the legislation. The bill to consolidate the city's debt passed the committee. The debt of $408,000 was as by the bill consolidated for thirty years, the debentures not to bear interest exceeding five per cent. The city is obliged to provide a sinking fund and debentures may be disposed of in any market. A form of debenture and by-law was appended to the bill and received the assent of the legislature.

An officer arrived from Toronto to-day and took charge of "Chickee" Meagher, wanted in that city for larceny.

ARNOTT STILL WANTED

THE POLICE CAN GET NO TRACE OF HIM.

Disappeared as Though the Earth Had Opened and Swallowed Him up—The Inquest Tonight.

No new developments have occurred in connection with the murder of Hannah Cole. William Arnott is still at large, and the supposition is going around, that he will be a fugative from justice for some time to come. The policemen are still groping in the dark without the slightest clue to work upon. Chief Newton returned from Brockville last night, where he had received a telegram that an officer had seen a man on the street answering to Arnott's description. He had left for Edwardsville N. Y. When the chief arrived and enquired into the case he learned that the man's name was S. T. Burdett. The man did not bear the slightest resemblance to the man wanted, being over six feet four and a half inches high with side whiskers, and over forty years of age. Arnott is only twenty five with light mustache.

It has also been currently reported that Arnott was seen near Rochester N. Y., but this no doubt can also be put down among the idle rumors without foundation.

Another rumor has it that he is in hiding with relatives near Marmora. The strangest thing is that the police are unable to find any trace of him after he left his house on Foster avenue late Tuesday morning last. At least some one must have seen him. If he ever left the city at all he must have followed some path or road as the snow was too deep for fast travelling in the woods.

A formidable array of witnesses will again give evidence before the corner's inquest in the police court room to-night. It seems like a waste of time for the jurymen to examine every man in Thurlow as to where he was born and where he expected to be buried. At the examination Wednesday night which lasted until midnight strong enough evidence was produced to at least indentify William Arnott as having been with the victim on the fatal night in question. It is understood that at least fifteen witnesses will be called upon to-night again to testify that they had heard a noise on the street on Monday night which means nothing as far as material evidence is concerned. The question which is just now agitating the public mind is, where is Arnott? the man who was last seen with the victim.

CULLED FROM EXCHANGES.

Pithy Paragraphs Clipped from County Exchanges.

There is a good sized church row now in progress in Peterboro.

It is said that wild geese have already been seen on their way northward.

Dr. Wad-el-Ward is now enlightening the Perth people on Oriental topics.

Hubbel & English, Marmora, have effected a compromise with their creditors.

A vigorous sanitary police will be adopted by Madoc board of health this spring.

The Bridgewater mill is again in running order, under the management of Mr. W. Speck.

Mr Will Tobey, of Montreal, married Eva. C. Taylor, of Napanee, Monday evening.

The Rathbun company have commenced operating a sash door and blind factory in Lowville, N. Y.

The Napanee cricket club is already organized and making preparations for the coming season.

Mr. John H. Gilbert, Picton, left on Thursay for Flint, Mich, where he intends remaining.

Lt.-Col. Bog entertained the members of the 16th Battalion band at an oyster supper on Tuesday evening.

Revival services, of an interesting character, are in progress this week at Carmel conducted by Rev. J. J. Rice.

According to the Madoc Review, maple sugar was made by Mr. John Johnson, of Huntingdon, on the 8th February.

The Rev. Dr. Potts. D. D., of Toronto, will preach an educational sermon in the First Methodist church, Picton, next Sunday evening.

Charles Gideon Bowerman, died at his residence in Bloomfield, on Wednesday at an advanced age. The funeral will take place today.

Prof Wallace, of Victoria university, Coburg, will occupy the pulpit of the Main St. Methodist church, Picton, on Sunday morning next.

Wm. Cross, of Madoc, for many years book keeper for the Watson Agricultural works is now under treatment at the Dansville Sanitarium.

Mr. D. E. K. Stewart is a delegate from Madoc to the annual meeting of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, in session at Toronto this week.

Capt. H. Stanton has received the appointments of engineer of the Picton waterworks—supplying fireman and carbon for $1,000 per annum.

Mr. M. F. Hawkins, of Winnipeg, has purchased the farm of Mr. J. M. Mallory, in the township of Athol, and will take possession of the same immediately.

The schooner Persia, Capt. D. O' Hagan, now lying in the Picton harbor, and which sustained considerable damage by fire last fall, is having her cabin fitted up, and is undergoing other repairs, preparatory to loading a cargo of ice for the port of Charlotte. Captain Savage of the schooner Emery is also loading ice for the same port. The price paid is $2 per ton afloat at that port.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

W. W. Pepe. is in Toronto.

S. Williams, Picton, is in the city.

C. W. Wilson. Galt, is at the Kyle house.

Thos. Birch, Brantford, is at the Kyle house.

M. Wilson, Montreal, is registered at the Kyle house.

W. D. Card, Napanee, is registered at the Anglo American.

M. C. Pink, Toronto, is stopping at the Anglo American.

B. S. Wilson, Prince Arthur, is registered at the Dominion.

B. Clairmont, merchant, Marmora, was stopping at the Dominion yesterday.

E. Donald, private secretary to John Bell, Q. C., is in Toronto.

Mrs. J. T. Warrington sails for England on Thursday next.

A. F. Johnson, and Robert Johnson, Toronto, are registered at the Queens'.

Miss Richardson, operator in the C. P. R. telegraph office, is visiting relatives in Prescott.

MARRIED.

HUMPHREY—SNIDER—On Thursday 20th at the Methodist parsonage, Trenton, by Rev. Mr. Goss Miss Melissa M. Snider, youngest daughter of Henry Snider, Esq., of Ameliasburg to Mr. S. Humphrey, of Ameliasburg.

AGITATED METHODISTS.

They Say There Are Matters in Their Church Also That Need Reforming.

An Indianapolis despatch says,—A paper was read last week at a Methodist Ministers' Convention on class meetings, some of the charges denouncing them. A published report caused a wide sensation. At another meeting today the proceedings have created much astonishment. Dr. Goodwin declared that the Methodist creed, like the Presbyterian, is defective. Some hymns teach erroneous doctrine and pulpit terminology is frequently bad. Dr. Cleveland, cousin of the ex-President, agreed with him and two or three others. Goodwin said the cant phrases, "Have you got religion," "Do you enjoy religion," and "Are you saved," were condemned as improper pulpit terminology. What sense would there be in asking a man, "Do you enjoy good health?" In the discussion that followed the paper Dr. Cleveland said that such silly phrases as "Are you saved," and "Dear Lord" had come to the pulpit and pew through the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr. Goodwin declared that the work of the last revisers of the Bible was a disappointment.

Will Carleton's First Poem.

What may really be called my first poetic effort was written at ten years of age, and was a letter in rhyme. My elder sister was at boarding school: she had written for some of the papers and magazines, both in prose and poetry and I thought I would show her that she had not carried away with her all the afflatus of the family. I heard of a neighboring young man who could write letters in rhyme, and so I thought I would undertake the same feat. I did up everything at the farm and in the vicinity in choice doggerel, and mailed it to her. A precious young goose she must have thought me. I represented her favorite horse as about to die of melancholy, because she was not there to ride him; told her the trees and flowers were all perishing because she was not present to smile upon them, and killed off two very worthy and healthy neighbors because their names happened to rhyme with some word of a mortuary character. The whole letter was wildly sentimental in its nature, and half amused and half scared the young lady. I remember that it closed with these pathetic lines;

"I must end my letter
And bring it to a close;
Perhaps it will be better
To make the next in prose."

The eagerness with which she consented to this proposition made me fear that poetry was not exactly my best card. But she was a dear, sweet girl, and upon her return home she petted and encouraged my poor little rhymes much more than they deserved. The grief of my boyhood was her death, a few years afterwards. She would have made her mark in literature, and I hope is to-day writing songs in heaven."—Will Carleton, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received rom Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

AT

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

BANKRUPT SALE

OF

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

"GRANT'S BANKRUPT STOCK."

Will be offered to the people of this city and vicinity at 40 p cent below cost of manufacture in order to clear it out. The Goods must be sold and for CASH only. Wait for the Bargains to be obtained at this GENUINE BANKRUPT SALE. S tore w

SATURDAY, FEB 1ST.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF - REMNANTS

in all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

AT

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOM & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

☞ adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

NEW GOODS

AT FISH'S

AT FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

400 Collars at 5 Cents each;

A E FISH & CO

MENIER CHOCOLATE

UNRIVALLED. UNEQUALLED.

PUREST IN THE WORLD.

CONTAINS no CHEMICALS or ADULTERATIONS.

Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 2 GOLD MEDALS.

Ask your Grocer for

MENIER CHOCOLATE (YELLOW WRAPPER).

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

TRUE TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: SATURDAY FEBRUARY 22, 1890 | NO 45

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicily Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
—AND—
Chocolate Creams
mail Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackwells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coconut Sugar Wafers
Queen Biscuits — Bondon biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES & C.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
ass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling Philip's Best Milwaukee Lager, Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
35 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Pitchie's

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR,
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods,
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.

MONEY FOR ALL

WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurseries, Rochester, N.Y. 13 6wdw

WANTED.

A GOOD general servant. Apply to MRS T B TATE Ann St. 1t

EMPLOYMENT wanted by a young man of good business experience with good references competent to manage books. Good penman.
W. T. C.
Address Box '42.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address
MAY BROTHERS, Nurseries,
Rochester, N. Y.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurseries, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M C. ROBLIN, corner Pinnacle and Hotel Sts.

WANTED at once a good general servant Apply to MRS. G. C. CLUTE, corner Bleecker avenue and Hotel street.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to
ADAM HENRY,
Front Street.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND!

SIMPLE, LEGIBLE AND BRIEF. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Individual instruction. Satisfaction guaranteed. Terms low. For further information call at the late residence of Mr. Stephen O'Brien, corner Frank and Moira sts.
DANIEL KETCHESON.

HOLIDAY GOODS
PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

OPERA -- HOUSE
—ONE—
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
The Second Edition of
MR WM J GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yeaty
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $25,000.
—Forming in its entirety—
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70
PRICES:
Parquette, $1; Orchestra Chairs 75c; Pit Balcony 50c; Gallery 25c. Plan open Monday at Prof Riggs.

BUY SUGAR NOW
They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.
"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant and profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $675,273.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belle

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured."

SCOTT'S EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES of Lime and Soda
Scott's Emulsion is a perfect Emulsion. It is a wonderful Flesh Producer. It is a wonderful Remedy for CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.
PALATABLE AS MILK.
Scott's Emulsion is only put up in salmon color wrapper. Avoid all imitations or substitutions. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

In the High Court of Justice

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Smeaton vs Walker.

IN pursuance of the judgment or order referred to and in this action and dated the 17th day of January 1890, there will be sold by public auction with the approbation of Samuel Shaw Lazier, Esquire, local master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at Belleville on at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon at the Chambers of the said Master in the City of Belleville, the following valuable foundry, premises, plant and effects belonging to the firm of J. M. Walker & Co. of the City of Belleville, viz:—

Thursday the 13th Day of March A. D 1890

Parcel No. 1—Consisting of a portion of the island and the foundry premises and known as all and singular that certain parcel or track of land and premises situated, lying and being on and of all that part of lot No. 5 in the 1st Concession of Thurlow and of the Gore on the west side of Front street in the City of Belleville and better known as follows:—commencing at the south east angle of lot 1 as laid down on a plan of William Coleman's estate, then along the west side of Front street 53½ feet to a stone monument, then south 89 degrees west 87 3-2 feet to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees 15 feet then north 10 degrees 29 minutes west of a stone monument; then north 15½ degrees east 17 feet and 4 inches to a line between 4 and 5 of Stevens block laid on plan between 4 and 5-17 feet to the river Moira, then northerly to the centre of the said river, thence southerly along the centre of the main channel as shown on the said plan 17 chains more or less until it passes the southern point of the island, thence north 55 degrees east one chain and 69 links more or less to the eastern bank of the raceway where it joins the main channel of said river, thence northerly along the eastern bank of the raceway to the south western angle of lot number one shown on said plan, thence easterly along the said line between lots numbers one and two as shown on said plan to Front street reserving a right of way as shown on said plan 20 feet wide from Front street to the said river and which plan is registered in the Registry office of said county on the seventeenth day of February A. D. 1873 called a plan of William Coleman's estate less the parts thereof heretofore sold to James McGuire, Isabella and Maria Murray and James Wallace, the part of the island now offered for sale being all that part north of that heretofore sold to James McGuire and being all of the island north of the southern boundry of the lane running from Front street to the island immediately north of the Albion Hotel.

Upon that part of this parcel known as the foundry premises is erected a substantial 3½ story stone foundry and machine shop about 60x40 with a stone moulding and placesmith shop attached about 60x30 one story now occupied by Messrs J. M. Walker & Co: also to the south of the main premises is erected a substantial wooden building about 30x30 used as a wood shop. The premises are situate about the centre of the City of Belleville upon the river Moira and one of the best dams and water privileges along the river.

These premises will be sold subject to mortgage of $10,000 to the Hastings Loan and Investment Society on which the interest is paid to the 1st January, 1890 and with them will be conveyed all the interest of the firm of J M Walker & Co. in the adjoining premises occupied by them under leases from the Coleman and Ryre estate, of which full particulars will be given at sale or information on the premises or at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor

There will be offered for sale at the same time all the machinery, fixed and moveable, necessary for the carrying on of the business which can be inspected on the premises, and of which a full inventory can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor, and on the foundry premises,

Parcel No 2—Manufactured and unmanufactured stock in trade consisting according to inventory which can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor and on the foundry premises. The value is about $6,000. The stock will be sold at a price on the dollar and subject to a checking of the inventory in case any of the stock has been manufactured or sold.

Parcel No 3—The tools in use in said business as per inventory which can be seen at sale above of about the value of $850, and which can be seen on the premises.

Parcel No 4—Book debts and accounts of the face value of about $8,000, and notes and judgments of the face value of about $7,500 to be sold per inventory to be seen as above at a price on the dollar. The said property will be sold subject to reserve bids fixed by the Master.

Terms of sale—Ten per cent of the purchase money cash at the time of sale, the balance within thirty days of sale without interest. In all respects other than the conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale at this court.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of W B Northrup, Esq., J F Wills, Esq., and Parker Thomson, Esq, Belleville, and at the foundry premises.

S S LAZIER,
W B NORTHRUP L. M.
Plff's Solicitor.
Dated, this 11th Day of February 1890.
18 16 19 22

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

Should not be Without it.

SIRS,—We have used your Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for severe coughs and coldsand can recommend it to be just what it is represented to be. We would not be without it. H. SABINE, Ostarach, Ont

A BLENHEIM MYSTERY.

THE BODY OF A MURDERED MAN FOUND IN THE WOODS.

An Ugly Wound Back of the Left Ear from Which His Life Blood Oozed Away—No Weapons or Traces of a Struggle Discovered.

PRINCETON, Ont., Feb. 21.—As J. and G. Elridge were going to work at 11 o'clock this morning they discovered the body of a man lying face upward on a pile of small sapplings in the wood about six rods from the road passing the Herson farm, on the second concession Township of Blenheim.

The body had one ugly wound just back of the left ear, from which a quantity of blood had dropped on the snow underneath the pile and frozen solid.

No weapons or traces of a struggle could be discovered in the vicinity, but the track of a large moccasin traveling from the corpse was found between it and the road.

Deceased was dressed in a small brown checked ulster overcoat, checked tweed coat and vest, black pants with grey stripe, fine new and clean underclothing, brown felt hat, clean linen shirt, collar and pearl cuff buttons marked "W. West."

Pieces supposed to have been marked with his name or initials were cut from several parts of the collar and underclothing with a knife and his right hand pants pocket was turned outside.

The body was removed to an undertaker's, where it awaits identification.

A coroner's inquest was held by Dr. McLay of Woodstock, which has been adjourned to allow the body to thaw out and a post mortem examination made.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Ontario Bank Cases—Godwin Gets Off Easily—Moffatt Bailed.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—At the Police Court yesterday William H. Godwin pleaded guilty to the charges of embezzlement preferred against him by the directors of the Ontario Bank. Counsel for the accused pointed out that he had made full restitution to the bank before any proceedings had been taken or even suggested. As a fact he was the first to tell the bank authorities. Respecting the charge of embezzling Godwin did not take the money, it was obtained by another party with his knowledge. Col. Denison after a severe reprimand discharged the prisoner on suspended sentence.

William Rowan Moffatt was finally committed for trial on an additional charge of forgery and embezzlement. An order admitting Moffatt to bail on the security of his present bondsmen was subsequently made by Chief Justice Armour, and at 5 o'clock last night Rolly was taken from the jail by his friends.

J. Barker has charged Alfred Jones of 534 Yonge-street for slander. The two are rival bakers, and Barker feels aggrieved at the manner in which Jones has spoken of him in his business. Mr. Murphy, Q.C., issued a writ yesterday claiming $5000 on behalf of Barker.

Losses Caused by Flames.

STRATHROY, Feb. 21.—A frame house owned by Elder Collins and occupied by William Campbell was burned at 1 o'clock this morning. Contents insured in London, Liverpool & Globe; cause, defective flue.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 21.—Early this morning the Granite Block was gutted by fire. The fire was caused by firecrackers carelessly thrown by members of the Legislature during their pollification over the wind-up of the session. The legislative journals, books and papers were destroyed. Losses: Helena Clothing Company $25,000, American Express $5000, T. H. Kleinschmidt on buildings $20,000, and some minor losses.

The Ontario Assembly.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—In the Assembly yesterday those bills were introduced:

Mr. Hardy—A bill to amend the general mining act.

Mr. Garson—A bill relating to the inspection of boilers and examination of engineers.

The Attorney-General—To provide for the securing of costs in certain actions before justices of the peace.

West Lambton Equal Righters.

SARNIA, Feb. 21.—At the Equal Rights convention held here today John D. Beatty was selected as a candidate for West Lambton in the provincial election. He has not yet decided to accept. Mr. Beatty has hitherto been a Reformer.

A Fatal Runaway.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—A runaway team caused the fatal injury of John Kelly, hurt William H. Johnston seriously, his son slightly and William J. McClaskey quite badly.

Death of Sheriff McConkey.

BARRIE, Feb. 21.—T. D. McConkey, sheriff of the County of Simcoe, died here at 2 o'clock today of paralysis.

Walkerton Wins the Tankard.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—In the semi-final draw for the Ontario Tankard yesterday Walkerton defeated the Hamilton Thistles, 38 to 35, and the Toronto Granites beat Guelph, 36 to 35. In the final Walkerton won the tankard by 3 shots, the score being 37 to 34. R. B. Hughes and W. Richardson were the skips for the victors.

In and Out Turns.

Galt defeated the Galt Granites in their Caledonian cup match yesterday by 54 to 44.

Lucknow defeated Listowel yesterday at Wingham for the Caledonian cup by 44 to 38.

The Walkerton men are an unusually young set of men but they know how to curl.

Faulkner Throws Leonard.

BUFFALO, Feb. 21.—In the wrestling match to-night for $500, of which $400 to winner, Faulkner of California defeated Leonard of this city by 2 falls to 1. McMahon, Detroit, referred.

Dust from the Diamond.

John B. Day is trying to buy the entire Indianapolis club.

Hamburg, the old Buffalo player, has signed with Louisville.

The New York League Club will go south next week. They play their first game in Charleston.

A Pittsburg despatch says that Al. Johnson dogs the steps of Buck Ewing continually to keep of the League sleuth hounds.

A decision by the Board of Arbitration in the case of C. E. Swartwout and the Hamilton Baseball Club has been made. Swartwout receives his unconditional release.

The Brotherhood League will have the following 8 men to perform their double umpire work next season: Gaffney, Robert Ferguson, Alonzo Knight, Matthews, Gunning, Charles Jones, Holbert and Ross Barnes.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam which cure me entirely. I highly recommend

THE PULSE OF TRADE.

Bradstreet's Weekly Review—Railway Earnings—Business Failures.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report only a moderate activity in general trade throughout the country. There is no claim made of a volume of trade in excess of that a year ago, and in many instances the reverse is true. The hardware and wholesale groceries trades, as well as boots and shoes, show relatively most active distribution. At New York these features are present, as well as considerable activity in ginghams, furniture, millinery and artificial flowers.

There is a further heavy decrease in the New York banks' surplus reserves this week, which has the reverse effect on money that the reduction of the Bank of England discount rate from 6 to 5 per cent. did. Money does not return from the West as fast as expected.

The New York Stock Market has been weak and prices on the whole tend downward, closing yesterday dull and irregular on the unfavorable bank statement and western railway rate war. The trunk lines thus far refuse to join in the fight. Rock Island, of the Grangers, has suffered most from declines in prices.

Gross earnings of 100 railroad companies for the year 1889 aggregate $650,988,237, a gain over 1888 of 4.3 per cent. Net earnings of the same companies aggregated $224,430,925, an increase of 11.3 per cent.

Exports of wheat, and flour as wheat, from both coasts as reported to Bradstreet's this week aggregate 2,272,849 bushels against 1,917,775 bushels last week and 610,215 bushels in the third week of February, 1889. The total exported, July 1 last to date, equals 67,823,322 bushels against 71,370,502 bushels in the portion of 1888-89.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 253 in the United States this week against 213 last week and 302 same week last year. Canada had 34 this week against 46 last week. The total number of failures in the United States since Jan. 1 is 2353 against 2484 in 1889.

Dun Wiman's Report.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—Dun Wiman & Co.'s weekly review of trade will say: While the prevailing impression in business circles is rather less confident than it was a week ago, there are several signs of improvement. Colder weather has caused a little more activity in some lines of trade, wheat is a little stronger and without clearly defined reason there is a firmer tone in the eastern iron markets, while the reduction in the Bank of England rate from 6 to 5 per cent. with its large gain of $4,315,000 gold during the past week, diminishes the chance of inconvenient demands from abroad. On the other hand, general trade is not increasing in volume or in profits, and while its soundness is indicated by the occurrence of fewer failures than many expected as the result of phenomenally unseasonable weather, the complaint of slow collections is common and rather increasing. While the railroad earnings are large, showing for the first week of February a gain of 13 per cent., there is an absence of public confidence to sustain prices, and speculative markets are largely governed by expectations of monetary stringency next month and by weakness in the so-called industrial securities

CUSTOMS REVISION.

Large Parliamentary Deputations Interview Ministers.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—Interviews held to-day by large parliamentary deputations with the Ministers of Finance and Customs confirmed several of the statements made in this correspondence some days ago as to probable changes in the tariff. The movement for increased duty on meats which has been worked up mainly through the efforts of Mr. Marshall culminated to-day in the presentation of a petition signed by Government supporters from all parts of the Dominion—63 in all—who described themselves as supporters of the Administration and the protective policy of fostering the manufacturing and other industries of the Dominion. The petition asked that, in the interests of the farming and the general prosperity of the Dominion, the duty on salt mess pork and bacon as well as on fresh fish and other meats of all kinds should be increased the better to enable farmers to compete with importers in our home markets. The reply was that the petition would receive earnest consideration, and a favorable decision is looked for.

The fruit growers, with who have been in convention here, to-day sent a large deputation to wait upon the Minister of Finance and Customs to again urge that the old duty on fruit should be reimposed. They were accompanied by a number of members, including Messrs. Carpenter, Ferguson of Welland, Henson, Brown, Hyckert, Mills of Annapolis, McKay, Desjardins, Girouard, Denison and McCulla. The case of the fruit growers was very strongly put and the matter seemed favorably disposed, their answer being that the Government would satisfy some if not all of the requests made.

Mr. Davis has given notice of an enquiry as to the number of tenders put in for the public works at the Eastern gap of Toronto harbor, the names of tenderers and amount of their respective contracts, of applicants for duty upon which each tender was calculated, and also all correspondence in this connection.

SOPHOMORE V. FRESHMAN.

Cornell University Students Engage in Their Annual War.

AUBURN, Feb. 21.—One hundred members of the sophomore class of Cornell University arrived here this evening for their annual banquet. They all bore evidence of rough treatment on their departure from Ithaca, where they were assailed by 250 freshmen, who besmeared them with lampblack and asafetida, smashed their hats and tore the clothing from their backs. It was a motley crowd that alighted from the train and filled the station, but their consternation was unabated. A large crowd was formed in the station, all dancing merrily and giving vent to college and class yells until the din was deafening. They then marched in procession to the Osborne Hotel, where their attention was divided between the lavatory and the dispensary. Then they distributed themselves about town, visiting various resorts until 10 o'clock, when they returned to the hotel for the banquet. Only one arrest was made during the evening.

Expelled for "Cutting" a Recitation.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 21.—At a meeting of the faculty of the Washington and Jefferson College to-day the senior preparatory class was expelled with the exception of two men here. The trouble that caused the expulsion was that the class with the exception of two members, "cut" a Latin recitation.

The Candid Truth.
I USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find the better remedy for it. Duncan Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup, sore throat; it never

NINETY-NINE MAJORITY,

SIR JOHN THOMPSON'S AMENDMENT ADOPTED

Out of 199 Members Voting Only 50 Oppose the Compromise—The Division List—Another Day of Talk in the Commons.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—After seven days' talking the Commons to-night faced a division on the McCarthy bill, with the result that Sir John Thompson's amendment was adopted by a vote of 149 to 50.

The half-hundred are not by any means McCarthy's sympathizers, for they include a large French contingent who follow Mr. Beaucoleil in declaring against a compromise in any shape. Then again there were quite a number who gave an adverse vote on the ground that they preferred Mr. Davin's amendment, and many who found fault with both amendments were opposed to the bill also.

The first to say a word to-day in favor of Sir John Thompson's amendment was M. La Riviere, who declared he would vote for it as a compromise.

Clarke Wallace said the same. "We cannot always get all we want," he remarked.

Mr. Cargrain said it was the next best thing after Mr. Beaucoleil's amendment, which he voted for the other evening. Mr. Tupper said the same and so did Mr. Laurier, who significantly added that in standing up for provincial rights in language on this occasion the French members were furnishing a precedent which might prove useful to Quebec in the future.

Messrs. Scriver, Paterson of Brant and Platt were careful to explain that though they would vote against Sir John Thompson's amendment it was because they wished to get a chance to votefor Mr. Davin's as they were against the bill itself.

Mr. Platt was the last speaker, but as he said only a few words the debate may practically be said to have been closed by Mr. McCarthy, who declared that Sir John Thompson's amendment, introduced as a measure of peace in the House, was apt to prove anything but that in the country. No matter how they might vote to-night he declared the House had not by any means got rid of the question, for he would certainly bring it up again as soon as he had an opportunity.

At 9¾ the division bells were set ringing and in 15 minutes the whips had collected all the members prepared to vote, the large total of 200 including the Speaker being in their seats when the question was put.

It might have been thought that considering the question at issue the French members would not on this occasion follow the course they generally adopt of crying "Dispense" when the Speaker after carrying the motion in English proceeds as in duty bound to read it in French also. They did, however, and without delay the voting was proceeded with.

The whip-cracking of the past few days was soon apparent as one French member after another on the Government side stood up for the amendment. Sir Hector Langevin, who voted against the Premier on the Beausoliel amendment, was with his chief this time. Hon. John Costigan was back in the fold. Sir Adolphe Caron was out of the House on this occasion on business. There he was paired on the French side. On this occasion there were no pairs whatever, a rather unusual feature.

This is how the vote stood:

YEAS.

Audet.	Edgar.	McMillan (Vaud)
Bain (Soul.)	Edwards.	Madill.
Barnard.	Eisenhauer	Mara.
Baskard.	Ferguson (L&G)	Marshall.
Beaupre.	Ferguson (Renf)	Masson.
Bergin.	Ferguson (Welt)	Massue.
Bernier.	Fiset.	Meigs.
Blake.	Flynn.	Mills (Both.)
Bolduc.	Foster.	Mills (Ann.)
Bowell.	Freeman.	Mitchell.
Bowman.	Girouard.	Moffat.
Breton.	Gordon.	Moncrief.
Brown.	Grandbois.	Montplaisir.
Bryson.	Gunn.	Perley.
Burdett.	Guillet.	Pope.
Cameron.	Haggart.	Porter.
Campbell.	Hesson.	Prior.
Cargill.	Hickey.	Purcell.
Carling.	Holton.	Putnam.
Carpenter.	Hudspeth.	Rinfret.
Casey.	Ives.	Robillard.
Casgrain.	Jamieson.	Rogers.
Chapleau.	Joncas.	Rosa.
Chouinard.	Jones (Digby.)	Ryckert.
Clancy.	Jones (Halifax.)	Scriver.
Cook.	Kenny.	Shanly.
Cochrane.	Kirk.	Simard.
Coulthard.	Kirkpatrick.	Small.
Colby.	Labrosse.	Smith (Sir D.)
Curtis.	Landry.	Smith (Ont.)
Curtis.	Langelier (Mon)	Sproule.
Costigan.	Langelier (Que)	Stevenson.
Coughlin.	Langevin.	Taylor.
Coulombe.	LaRivière.	Temple.
Curran.	Laurier.	Therien.
Daly.	Lavergne.	Thompson (Sir J)
Daoust.	Lepine.	Trow.
Davin.	Lister.	Tupper.
Davis.	Lovitt.	Turcot.
Dawson.	Macdonald, Sir J	Vanasse.
De St. Georges.	McCulla.	Wallace.
Desaulniers.	McDonald (Vic.)	Ward.
Desjardins.	McDonald (Pictou)	White (Card.)
Desjardins.	McDougall (C.B)	White (Renf.)
Desnoyers.	McIntyre.	Wilson (Arg.)
Dickey.	McKay.	Wood (Brock.)
Dickinson.	McKeen.	Wood (West.)
Dupont.	McLean.	Wright.
Earle.			—149.

NAYS.

Amyot.	Innes.	Rowand.
Armstrong.	Landerkin.	Ste. Marie.
Bain (West.)	Lang.	Scriver.
Barron.	Livingston.	Semple.
Beaucoleil.	Macdonald, Hur.	Somerville.
Bell.	McCarthy.	Sutherland.
Bourassa.	McMillan (Hur)	Tyrwhitt.
Charlton.	McMillan.	Wallace.
Couture.	McNeill.	Watson.
Davies.	Malouin.	Weldon (Alb.)
Denison.	Neveux.	Weldon. (St. J.)
Dugas.	O'Brien.	Welsh.
Edgar.	Paterson (Brant)	White (Renf.)
Gauthier.	Perry.	Wilson (Elg.)
Geoffrion.	Platt.	Wilson (Len.)
Gilmor.	Prefontaine.	Yeo.
Hale.	Robertson.		—50.

Conservatives in Roman. Liberals in Italics.

The members who did not vote were Archibald, Baird, Boyle, Burns, Caron, Cartwright, Chisholm, Fisher, Godbout, Lavergne, Mackenzie, Patterson of Essex, Hall and Tisdale—in all 14.

There were 200 present, 14 absent and one seat practically vacant, the official returns from Haldimand not having been received.

Of the 14 absentees from the House, Burns, Carron, Patterson of Essex, Tisdale, Hall and Chisholm were not in the city. Boyle was sick at his hotel. Sir Adams Archibald and Hon. Alexander Mackenzie seldom come out at night.

The majority consisted of 107 Conservatives and 42 Liberals and in the minority there were 41 Liberals and 9 Conservatives. Forty-eight of the Quebec members voted with the majority.

Grand Trunk Receipts.

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.—The earnings of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending Feb. 15 were:

	1890.	1889.
Passenger train earnings	$ 90,703	$ 92,481
Freight train earnings	247,182	241,891
Total	$340,945	$334,372
Increase 1890	$ 6,573

Do No be Resolve...
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Opposition to U. S. Postmaster-General Wanamaker's Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The House Committee on Postoffices to-day heard William A. Casey of New York, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Anti-Monopoly League, against the Postal Telegraph Bill prepared by Postmaster-General Wanamaker. Mr. Casey said he represented the laboring men. The telegraph was mostly used by speculators and gamblers and only eight per cent. of the business was social. Over a million a year was spent by persons in New York in the reporting business for baseball, lotteries, etc. This was more than the entire social business of the whole country. The working people did not use the telegraph.

THE MANITOBA DEADLOCK.

A 90 Days' Session of the Legislature Without a Bill Passed.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 21.—The Legislature adjourned last night, having been in session 90 days and failed to pass a single bill. Addresses to the people were issued by the Republican Senators and Democratic Representatives. It is understood Governor Hill will call a special session to pass appropriation bills about May 1. It is said the Governor will recognize the legality of the election of the five Republican representatives from Silver Bow County if the United States Senate seats Saunders and Power. This done the deadlock ends and legislation may proceed.

THE T., H. & B. BONUS.

Hamilton's Railway Committee Finally Decides on $175,000.

HAMILTON, Feb. 21.—At a meeting of the Railway Committee of the City Council held this afternoon it was decided after much discussion to recommend to the City Council a bylaw granting $175,000 bonus to the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway, the money to be paid the company when the road is built to Waterdown and Welland; an additional $100,000 to be paid the company upon the completion of the road to Toronto. If the City Council passes the bylaw it will be voted on by the ratepayers shortly.

"THE U. S. AND CANADA."

Sir Richard Cartwright Speaks at a Gotham Dinner.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The annual banquet of the Board of Trade to-night was addressed by Erastus Wiman, Sir Richard Cartwright, who responded to the toast of "The United States and Canada," Hon. C. A. Boutelle of Maine and others. Letters of regret were read from President Harrison, Secretary Windom, Sir Julian Pauncefote, Sir John A. Macdonald and others.

FORGOT TO SETTLE.

Mississippi's State Treasurer Short $250,000 in His Accounts.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 21—A sensation was created this afternoon by a rumor that the outgoing Treasurer, Col. Hemingway, had not settled in full with the incoming state treasurer. Attention was called to the matter in the Senate and the statement made that the amount unpaid over was $250,000. Hemingway had been treasurer 14 years.

The Billiard Tournament.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The second game in the balk-line billiard tournament was played this afternoon. The contestants were William H. Cohn and Maurice Ives. Twenty-five innings were played. Ives won, 500 to 330. The best run, 98, was made by Ives in the tenth inning.

The third game in the tournament was played to-night between George F. Slosson, playing 14-inch balk-line and Maurice Daly playing 8-inch balk-line. There were 40 innings, Slosson won, 508 to 417. The highest run was by Slosson, 86 in the last innings.

The Daily Smash.

SUTTON, Col., Feb. 21.—While a train of locomotives was returning from the scene of the blockade this morning the middle coupling broke four miles north of here, causing a collision between the rear engines and the forward ones. A large number of laborers riding on the engines were nearly killed; three seriously injured, one of whom will probably die. Two engines were badly damaged and the track blocked.

The Deadly Electric Wires.

QUEBEC, Feb. 21.—This afternoon a young Englishman named Charles Wood, about 24 years, who arrived some four months ago from England and who has since his arrival here been engaged by the Quebec & Levis Electric Light Company, was killed at the Electric Light Company's central station by coming in contact with two wires through which the current was flowing. He was married, but leaves no family other than his wife.

Suicide at Longueuil.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—At Longueuil this morning Mrs. Gauthier, a middle aged woman, was found hanging dead, the rope suspended to a hook in the ceiling of her house. The discovery was made by her son-in-law, who apprised the neighbors. An inquest will be held. No motive can be assigned for the deed other than mental aberration.

Moving for Grain Elevators at Levis.

QUEBEC, Feb. 21.—An influential deputation interviewed Assistant General Manager Wainwright of the Grand Trunk Railway this morning with reference to the erection of grain elevators at Levis. Mr. Wainwright promised to place the matter before Sir Joseph Hickson and the directors.

Contractor Farquhar's Hamilton Suit.

HAMILTON, Feb. 21.—Contractor Farquhar of Toronto has begun a suit against the city of Hamilton and City Engineer Haskins for a claim of $4400 for extra work done in grading and paving of Barton-street. The Board of Works' Committee of the City Council refused to entertain the claim.

Had No Jurisdiction.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—United States Judge Wallace has decided that the court had no jurisdiction in the case of the American Cotton Oil Trust Company to make permanent the injunction obtained last week on behalf of Col. Wall, one of the stockholders, who seeks to restrain the trustees from delivering the property of the trust to a New Jersey corporation.

A Bishop Disgraced.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 21—The jury in Bishop Dubs' case returned a verdict finding him guilty. He was suspended from office until the meeting of General Conference in 1891.

Hamilton Reform Association's President.

HAMILTON, Feb. 21.—Henry Carscallen, Q.C., was to-night elected president of the Reform Association, vice T. McBrayne, resigned.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tarta and English Soda hence is the best that can be made

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 22 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by carrier carriers to all parts of the City for 15 cents a week, or Fifty Cents a month—12½c. per week.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in THE DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Without notice of marriage attached the charge for death notices is 25.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Money Orders, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Mr. Ayres, a large woolen manufacturer, is running for Congress in Philadelphia. He seeks the suffrages of the people solely in the interest of free raw material. At one of his meetings the other night Col. McClure, one of the speakers, declared that the people of Philadelphia consumed $20,000,000 worth of woolen goods a year; on which they paid an average of 48 per cent. in tax, and that the people of Pennsylvania paid $50,000,000 taxes on the woolens they consume, while the whole wool clip of the State did not amount to $1,250,000 annually, thus making them pay $50 in taxes for every dollar of protection given to the wool grower. He further showed that the tax on wool not only paralyzed and bankrupted American industries and consigned thousands of workingmen to idleness and want, but that it protected the English mills and labor. He said:

I was in Washington a few days ago and I did not see a Protection Congressman from this city, or a Cabinet officer, or a high rate tax jobber who had one ounce of American woolen clothing on him. Not one. Every one of them is clad in English greatcoats, English coats, English vests, English pants, English underware, English socks—everything foreign but their shoes, which are American because the leather men have free, raw material, and the cravats, which are new American because raw silk is free. And these protection statesmen clad in foreign woolens from head to foot, howl about free trade when it is proposed to give them American woolens better and cheaper than their English, and give American mills and labor employment by free wool.

The long sought for, long clamored for consolidation of the city's debt has been secured and instead of the city paying six and seven per cent on a debt of $408,000 per annum, only five per cent will be paid in the future. At six per cent interest the city has been paying $28,560 annually for interest, but on account of consolidation $20,400 will be sufficient, thus making a saving of $8,160 each year, almost enough to pay the expenses of the public works department, fully enough for the maintenance of the water and gas committee. There is no reason why this step should not have been taken long ago.

The large majority of Dr. Montague in Haldimand, a constituency that is known to be have but a small majority either way, prompts the suspicion that there is ground for another appeal. It will be strange indeed if there should be so great a change of opinion since the last election. The doctor's qualities must have been strongly reinforced with something of more practical value than hand-shaking and baby kissing.

IN NARROW QUARTERS.

A North Carolina Family of Twenty-eight Lives in One Room.

In the western part of North Carolina and about seven miles west of Hot Springs there lives a family by the name of Brooks. It is very interesting one, and yet living so far off the quiet little town of Hot Springs has had his curiosity so aroused by stories of this family that they have hired teams and driven seven miles to the Brooks residence. This consists of a little low log cabin in an unsettled district and is occupied by father, mother, and twenty exceptionally handsome children.

Every one is a blonde, with golden yellow hair and peachy complexion, and all as ignorant, wild, and untutored as they are beautiful. In addition to the above family proper the two older girls are married. One is a widow with two children, and the other has three children and a husband. Both these little families are living with the old folks at home, making in all a family of twenty eight when none is missing. The house, or log cabin, consists of but one room, and that a very small one. On two sides of this are built seven berths, one above the other, against the wall, and they were evidently built with the cabin.

In these "boxes" the parents, children, and grandchildren lay themselves away when night comes on. Three times a day this interesting family may be seen at meals. The oldest members seat themselves about on the ground in front of the house "Indian fashion," and are favored with tin plates and iron spoons, while the younger ones stand around a rough home-made table inside the cabin, eating beans with a relish that is good to look upon. This is the principal diet; now and then they have a change, but it is of the same plain, cheap order. They are all healthy and robust, knowing nothing of sickness.

The father of this family, who has to "hustle" for the beans to fill the twenty-eight hungry mouths, makes as high as $18 some months, but oftener his income will not exceed $15 per month, which sum he earns by walking to Hot Springs to work in the mill of Frank Gahagan. The mother, with the baby in arms, seems contented and happy as she sits with one foot on the side of the home-made cradle, made of an ordinary pine box, with rockers sawed out of a rough board, which she every now and then gives a kick to keep the cradle moving, while she sings over and over a few lines of some old hymn she has learned. Everyone is struck with the remarkable beauty of the children, from the youngest to the oldest. The parents have found names for all but one, which is without a name as yet.

Lea any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE. Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

Fire Bells.

Bring us an alarm and it is heeded. This is to notify you that base substitution is practised when the great save pop corn sale is asked for. Putnam's Painless Corn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

"THE GLORIOUS CHRIST."

DR. TALMAGE'S DISCOURSE ON THE ONE THAT IS ABOVE ALL.

Words are the Bridge Between Soul and Soul—When we Come to Speak of God and Christ and Heaven We Need to Enlarge our Vocabulary.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 17.—At the Academy yesterday morning, Rev T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached on "The Glorious Christ." "He that cometh from above is above all." John iii., 31. The great preacher said:—

The most conspicuous character of history steps out upon the platform. The finger which diamonded with light, pointed down to him from the Bethlehem sky, was only a ratification of the finger of prophecy, the finger of genealogy, the finger of chronology, the finger of events, all five fingers pointing in one direction. Christ is the overtopping figure of all time. He is the vox humana of all music, the peaceful lie of sculpture, the most exquisite mingling of lights and shades in all painting, the acme of all climaxes, the dome of all cathedrals grandeur, and the peroration of all splendid language.

The Greek alphabet is made up of twenty-four different letters, and when Christ compared Himself to the first letter and the last letter, the alpha and the omega, He appropriated to Himself all the splendors that you can spell out either with those two letters and all the letters between them.

"I am the alpha and the omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." Or, if you prefer the words of the text, "above all."

What does it mean? It means, after you have piled up all Alpine and Himalayan altitudes, the glory of Christ would have to spread its wings and descend a thousand leagues to touch those summits. Pelion a high mountain; Ossa, a high mountain, and Olympus, a high mountain; but mythology tells us when the giants warred against the gods they piled up these three mountains, and from the top of them proposed to scale the heavens; but the height was not great enough, and there was a complete failure. And after all the giants—Isaiah and Paul, prophetic and apostolic giants; Raphael, and Michael Angelo, artistic giants; cherubim and seraphim and archangel, celestial giants—have failed to climb to the top of Christ's glory they might all unite in the words of the text and say: "He that cometh from above is above all."

First, Christ must be above all else in our preaching. There are so many books on homiletics scattered through the country that all laymen, as well as all clergymen, have made up their minds what sermons ought to be. That sermon is most effectual which most pointedly puts forth Christ as the pardon of all sin and the correction of all evil—individual, social, political, national. There is no reason why we should ring the endless change on a few phrases. There are those who think that if an exhortation or a discourse have frequent mention of justification, sanctification, covenant of works, and covenant of grace, that, therefore, it must be profoundly evangelical, while they are suspicious of a discourse which presents the same truth, but under different phraseology. Now I say there is nothing in all the opulent realm of Anglo-Saxondom, of all the word treasures that we inherit from the Latin and Greek and the Indo-European, but we have a right to marshal it in religious discussion. Christ sets the example. His illustrations were from the grass, the flowers, the spittle, the salve, the barnyard fowl, the crystals of salt, as well as from the seas and the stars; and we do not suppose, in our Sabbath school teaching and in our pulpit addresses, to be put on the limits.

I know that there is a great deal said in our day against words, as though they were nothing. They may be misused, but they have an imperial power. They are the bridge between soul and soul, between Almighty God and the human race. What did God write upon the tables of stone? Words. What did Christ utter on Mount Olivet? Words. Out of what did Christ strike the spark for the illumination of the universe? Out of words. "Let there be light," and light was. Of course, thought is the cargo, and words are only the ship; but how fast would your cargo get on without the ship? What you need, my friends, in all your work, in your Sabbath school class, in you reformatory institutions, and what we all need to enlarge our vocabulary when we come to speak about God and Christ and Heaven.

When we come to set forth the love of Christ we are going to take tenderest phraseology whenever we find it, and if it has has never been used in that direction before, all the more we shall use it. When we come to speak of the glory of Christ, the Conqueror, we are going to draw our similes from triumphal arch, and oratorio, and everything grand and stupendous. The French navy have eighteen flags with which they give signal, but those eighteen flags they can put into twenty-six different combinations. As I have to tell you that these standards of the cross may be lifted into combinations infinite and varieties everlasting. And let me say to those young men who come from the theological seminaries into our services every Sabbath, and are after a while going to preach Jesus Christ, you will have the largest liberty of unlimited resources. You only have to present Christ in your own way.

Jonathan Edwards preached Christ in the severest argument ever penned, and John Bunyan preached Christ in the sublimest allegory ever composed. Edward Payson, sick and exhausted, leaned up against the side of the pulpit and wept out his discourse, while George Whitefield, with the manner and the voice and the start of an actor, overwhelmed his auditory. It would have been a different thing if Jonathan Edwards had tried to write and dream about the pilgrim's progress to the celestial city, or John Bunyan had attempted an essay on the human will.

Brighter than the light, fresher than the fountains, deeper than the seas, are all these Gospel themes. Song has no melody, flowers have no sweetness, sunset sky no color compared with these glorious themes. These harvests of grace spring up quicker than we can sickle them. Kindling pulpits with their fire, and producing revolutions with their glory, they are the sweetest thought for the poet, and they are the most thrilling illustration for the orator, and they offer the most intense scene for the artist, and they are to the ambassador of the sky all enthusiasm. Complete pardon for direst guilt. Sweetest comfort for ghastliest agony. Brightest hope for grimmest death. Grandest resurrection for darkest sepulchre. Oh, what a Gospel to preach! Christ and in it. His birth, His suffering, His miracles, His parables, His sweat, His tears, His blood, His atonement. His death and His glorious themes! Do we exercise faith! Christ is its object. Do we have love? It fastens on Jesus. Have we a fondness for the church? It is because Christ died for it. Have we hope of heaven? It is because Jesus went ahead, the herald and the forerunner.

The royal robe of Demetrius was so costly, so beautiful, that after he had put it off as in amounted grace may much more abound."

"Oh, my sins, my sins," said Martin Luther to Staupitz, "my sins, my sins!" The fact is, that the brawny German student had found a Latin Bible that made him quake, and nothing else ever did make him quake; and when he found how, through Christ, he was pardoned and saved, he came to a friend, saying: "Come over and join us great and awful sinners saved by the grace of God. You seemed to be only a slender sinner, and you don't much extol the mercy of God; but we that have been such very awful sinners praise His grace the more now that we have been redeemed." Can it be that you are so desperately egotistical that you feel yourself in first rate spiritual trim, and that from the roof of the hair to the tip of the toe you are scarless and immaculate? What you need is a looking glass, and here is in the Bible. Poor, and wretched, and miserable, and blind, and naked from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, full of wounds and unheal'ng sores. Be honest in your then take the fact that Christ gathered up all the notes against us and paid them, and then offered us the receipt.

And how much we need him in our sorrow! We are independent of circumstances if we have His grace. Why, He made Paul sing in the dungeon, and under that grace St. John from desolate Patmos heard the blast of the apocalyptic trumpets. After all other candles have been snuffed out, this is the light that gets brighter and brighter unto the perfect day; and after, under the hard knocks of calamity, all the pools of worldly satisfaction have been trampled into deep mire, at the foot of the eternal rock the Christian, from cups of granite, lily rimmed, and winescented, quaffs out the thirst of his soul.

Again, I remark, that Christ is above all in dying alleviations.

I have such any sympathy with the morbidity abroad about our demise. The Emperor of Constantinople arranged that on the day of his dissolution the state officers should come and consult him about the tombstone that after a while he would need. And there are men who are monomaniacal on the subject of departure from this life by death, and the more they think of it the less they are prepared to go. This is an unmanliness not worthy of you, not worthy of me.

Saladin, the greatest conqueror of his day, while dying, ordered that the flag he had on him be carried after his death on his spear at the head of his army, and that then the soldier, ever and anon, should pause and say: "Behold, all that is left of Saladin, the emperor and conqueror! of all the states he conquered, of all the wealth he accumulated, nothing did he retain but this shroud." I have no sympathy with such behavior, or with such monomania. I am sure with much that we hear uttered in regard to departure from this life to the next. There is a commonsensical idea on this subject that you and I need to consider—that there are only two styles of departure.

A thousand feet underground, by light of torch tolling in a miner's shaft, a ledge of rock may fall upon us; and we may die a miner's death. Far out at sea, falling from the slippery rattlines and broken on the halyards, we may die a sailor's death. On mission of mercy in hospital amid broken bones and reeking aposnies and raging fevers, we may die a philanthropist's death. On the field of battle, serving God and our country, slugs through the heart, the gun carriage may roll over us, and we may die a patriot's death. But, after all, there are only two styles of departure—the death of the righteous and the death of the wicked—and we all want to die the former.

Great thoughts come in hour comes you may be at home. You want the hand of your kindred in your hand. You want your children to surround you. You want the light on your pillow from eyes that have long reflected your love. You want the room still. You do not want any curious strangers standing around watching you. You want your kindred from afar to to hear your last prayer. I think that is the wish of all of us. But is that all? Can earthly friends held up when the billows of death come up to the girdle? Can human voice charm open Heaven's gate? Can human hand pilot us through the narrows of death into Heaven's harbor? Can they earthly friendships shield us from the arrows of death, and in the hour when Satan shall practice upon us his infernal archery? No, no, no, 30? Alas! Poor soul, if that is all. Better die in the wilderness, far from tree shadow and from fountain, alone; vultures circling through the air waiting for your body, unknown to men, and to have no burial. If only Christ could say through the solitudes: "I will never leave thee, I will never forsake thee." From that pillow of stone a ladder would soar heaven-ward, angels coming and going; and across the solitude and the barrenness would come the sweet notes of heavenly minstrelsy.

Toward the last hour of our earthly residence we are speeding; When I see the sunset, I say: "One day has gone to live." When I see the spring blossoms scattered, I say: "Another season gone forever." When I close this Bible on Sabbath night, I say: "Another Sabbath departed." When I bury a friend, I say: "Another earthly attraction gone forever." What nimble feet the years have! The roebucks and the lightnings run not so fast. From decade to decade, from sky to sky, they go at a bound. There is a place for us, whether marked or not, where you and I will sleep, and the men are now living who will with solemn tread, carry us to our resting place. Ay, it is known in Heaven whether our departure will be a coronation or a banishment.

Stand on some high hill of heaven, and in all the radiant sweep, the most glorious object will be Jesus. Myriads gazing on the scars of His suffering, in silence first, afterward breaking forth into acclamation. The martyrs, all the purer for the flame through which they passed, will say: "This is Jesus, for whom we died." The apostles, all the happier for the shipwreck and the scourging through which they went will say: "This is the Jesus whom we preached at Corinth, and at Ephesus, and at Antioch, and at Jerusalem." Little children clad in white will say: "This is the Jesus who took us in His arms and blessed us, and when the storm of the world was very cold and loud, brought us into this beautiful place." The multitudes of the beard will say: "This is the Jesus who comforted us when our heart broke." Many who wandered clear off from God and plunged into vagabondism, but were saved by grace, will say: "This is the Jesus who found us. We were lost on the mountains, and He brought us home. We were guilty, and He has made us white as snow." Mercy boundless, grace unparalleled

Are You Sure You Know Your God?

One of the commonest mistakes made is by people in answering a question as to their age. You meet a young man who announces with an invitation to come and "smile" with him that he is "21 years old to-day." In nineteen cases out of twenty he is, as a matter of fact, but 20 years of age. He dates his age from his birthday, not from its first anniversary. I have no doubt that thousands upon thousands of young men have marched to the polls under the impression that they had reached the requisite 21 years and were entitled to vote, who were lacking of citizenship by a year or the greater part of it.

A WOMAN'S SOUND PLEA.

MRS. DR. FELTON'S VIEWS ON WOMEN AS WAGE EARNERS.

Through Centuries She Waited for Recognition—How the First Steps Were Taken—The Opening of New Avenues—Woman's Capacity for a Wider Sphere.

Forty years ago, unless a woman went forward as a missionary or appeared on the stage as an actress or dancer, she was unknown to the public outside her immediate family or neighborhood.

I well remember the first time I heard a good woman pray in public, which occurred during a revival excitement, and it was the talk of the town for days afterwards. Her well known piety scarcely protected her from open ribaldry and rude censure with outsiders, and even the members of her own church became suddenly familiar with St. Paul's manifesto upon the appearance of females in the public exercises of the church.

A few women in the world had made their mark as authors mostly across the water, but they were mere exceptions, forty years ago, and mostly confined to novelists of the sensational order.

In Georgia women were in strict retirement as to public efforts, either as wage-earners or public readers, until well Wesleyan Female colleges, broke the ice and made female education and public commencement exercises the attraction of the whole state. Female colleges for literary students sprung up quickly all over the country, while the demand for becoming a furore with the evangelical churches everywhere.

The Roman Catholic church has added academies to all its principal convents, until the convent proper has become almost an annex to the school rather than the parent stem of the order. This advance has been followed by medical colleges for women, training schools for nurses, and countless opportunities in the north and west for learning telegraphy and bookkeeping to make money.

New York's great manufacturer is greeted over by a Tennessee woman, a graduate in medicine; and there are scores of female physicians in lucrative practice in the very large cities. The public at least, awoke to the fact that female doctors were eminently proper for the treatment of delicate sensitive women, who have often been victims to indefinite suffering rather than endure treatment from other practitioners.

WOMEN AS PHYSICIANS.

Leaving out the benefit to the general public, medical instruction would appear to be a prize man for those who are intrusted with the infancy of the human race, at a period when the mortality is greatest and the patient most helpless. A mother who can read and write is, of course, a benefit to her offspring, but a mother who can nurse and physicit properly is a prime necessity. When you recollect that she has been forced heretofore to rely upon the directions and medical management of others, in taking care of her children at critical periods, it is plain that her power of usefulness has been improperly restricted, unless it can be shown that her mind is incapable of such instruction. The money side of this medical education is not the least of its benefits. Skill will command its substantial reward whenever it forges to the front. Some skillful physicians perhaps the best paid of all the professions, because "all will a man give for his life." If a woman can rise to some eminence in the practice of medicine, who will gainsay her right?

In my opinion the day will come when we men will be expelled from the healing art, and draw the pay proportionate to the service.

Forty years ago a woman clerk in Georgia was as rare a thing as Barnum's mathematical pig. To-day they do the greater part of the work in the dry goods establishments in the metropolitan cities, and are creeping in to the stores of our southern provincial towns. If woman must work they should be paid for it. While they can be sheltered, do it with all the chivalry and tenderness they merit, but when they are pressed into service by hunger and want, oh, for pity's sake, stop swindling them their place at home, and check the sneers that make the duty harder and the work more unpalatable.

Talk about heroism! There is nothing comparable to the struggle of a delicate woman with a pure white soul, who is forced to work outside because of misfortune or the neglect of those abler to do it, especially when she is made to feel the contempt of those women who are better cared for. I have no patience with a woman who will not give a word of cheer to her working sisters; and the day has already come when woman's outside work has become a benediction as well as a necessity. Suppose the women in our church is should decide to hold their hands and say, "Do without me," what would result? You well know that a full contribution box is the outcome of womanly generosity. When a woman's labor has its suitable reward the world's progress will advance by leagues rather than inches. The woman with pocket book authority will be a superior matter to the dependant petitioner, who may or may not feel the weight of a close fisted master's anger.

Ah! but it said, "My wife and daughters shall stay at home; I will work for them, and they shall divide my income and enjoy it." Exactly right, my dear sir, but how many will follow your example? Don't you know that laws are made for evil doers, not for those who are upright and just, and the protection of females in that line of their work is intended for those who have no such help or attention. Georgia waited nearly a hundred years before a woman was decided to be capable of owning her own property. She was only goods and chattels, like mules, and she passed to her owner in about the same legal way when she married.

WHO WILL DISPUTE IT?

Now that a woman is supposed to be capable of holding what she inherits, free from the debts and liabilities of a spendthrift husband, why should there be objection to legislation, which compels equal pay for equal labor, whether performed by a man or woman? Penniless women are ever the slaves of circumstances, and the question involves both humanity and justice. When women are allowed to practice medicine, teach school, keep books, set type, and all other trades and professions that their physical strength will allow, and get the pay the work deserves, there will be fewer unhappy marriages and perhaps much less of profligacy. This thing of marrying for a home has done more to make unhappiness than hard work at some trade will ever do for women. One is mental suffering, unrelieved forever, while the other takes only a good night's sleep to cure it.

I have watched these working women for many years, and I see no lack of womanly tenderness or genuine sympathy. In all that makes a woman really worthy, they never lose, and sometimes gain, by becoming wage earners. In Washington City, where there are more educated women at work than are congregated in any other place, I suppose, and where the most atrocious stories were told of profligate living and loss of character I found among those female department clerks some of the noblest, most faithful and most useful women in those of sickness that I ever saw or known. Their administrations were as tender and their sympathies as touching and their character as spotless as I ever found in more favored vocations. They worked, not for themselves, but those dependent on them, and it was a cruel wrong to fling a dark shade over their employment in public offices—to make the work unpalatable and degrading.

I have never seen a community where there were not some unworthy people, and there are always exceptions to general rules, but there are, I have no doubt, as many true, good women engaged in daily work for wages as you will find in any other class of our citizens, and the sooner the cloud is lifted, and the sky brightened for their benefit, the quicker our bounden duty will have been performed, the world improved financially and made better morally. Wo to the Scribes and Pharisees. Mrs. W. H. Felton in Atlanta Constitution.

MEN YOU HEAR OF.

Mr. Gladstone keeps six private secretaries at work.

Lord Napier, who died of the grippe recently, was a distinguished soldier.

Lew Wallace is very fond of good fiction. His favorite novel is "Ivanhoe."

The legacies bequeathed to the Pope during the past year amount to $800,000.

Postmaster General Wanamaker was once proprietor and editor of a newspaper.

D'Albert, the pianist, is a strict vegetarian and eats an enormous number of apples.

Perhaps the late Walker Blaine's most striking characteristic was his unfailing good humor. Nobody ever knew him to lose his temper.

Edison's head is unusually large and his forehead remarkably full. It is broad and set on a thick neck, and the shoulders below are broad and strong.

Gayarre, the late Spanish tenor, left 4,000,000 francs. His funeral at Madrid brought the whole population to the streets. His funeral car was covered with flowers.

The late John Goldrie Blanchet was collector of customs at Quebec and ex-speaker of the Canadian parliament. He was at one time the president of the Lewis and Kennebec railway.

An Intrepid Explorer.

"One of the most intrepid explorers of the day," says the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, "is a Parisian lady, Mme. le Ray, mother of Dr. Dutreuil de Rhins, who has been for several months engaged in eastern travel." After having visited Babylon and Nineveh, she traversed the Persian deserts, amid terrible privations, in order to reach India. For five days and five nights her little party had to subsist on water, without meeting a living soul, or even discovering the slightest trace of a human being. During all this time the cold was intense that Mme. le Ray's fingers were frostbitten, and her guides became seriously ill. She managed, at last, to reach the Persian Gulf, where she embarked for India. This rather beats the Bly-Bisland records of much ado about nothing.

"If a woman is pretty,
To me 'tis a matter of no moment
So she blonde or brunette,
Or the skin be like a rose petal."

An unhealthy woman is rarely, if ever, beautiful. The peculiar diseases to which so many of the sex are subject, are probable causes of pale sallow faces, blotched with unsightly pimples, dull, lustreless eyes and emaciated forms. Women so afflicted, can be permanently cured by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; and with the restoration of healthy vigor, that beauty which, combined with good qualities of head and heart, makes women angels of loveliness.

WARRANTED. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. It is a positive cure for all those painful disorders, irregularities and weaknesses with which so many women are afflicted.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASSN.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS

Purely Vegetable!
Perfectly Harmless!
UNEQUALED AS A LIVER PILL.

Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. One tiny pellet a dose. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

CATARRH,
CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. DIXON & SON, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes from the lungs and from the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which clogs the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing there is scarcely a place that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, render the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep; relieves the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste it soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teathing or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy and miserable existence. Free from the zest of life secretions, Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is help, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but deputates it by invigorating the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, over-uses so violently and with pain, like a drastic cathartic. It aids, but never voices, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes those diseased humour which tend to taint the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this standard medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a facsimile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

COT OF SORES.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into scrofula disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Farmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be effected.

NEIL MCNEIL, Leith, Ont.

THE BLOOD from which the constituents vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stom which is bilious or weak. Unsistered or ruined digestion may be insured, the secretive activity of the liver restored and the system efficiently nourished by the aid Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery the Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier in existence. Cures.

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices, Stock still very large and must be cleared out.

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,
HATTER & FURRIER.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries!
Direct from Switzerland
New Prints! New Sateens!
In New and Beautiful Designs
White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the Large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Hair all gone. Body covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on it. M.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year old was so bad with eczema that we had to bind his hands to keep him from tearing himself to pieces. His face was covered with one mass of sores. The doctors said we could do nothing for him but wrap him in cotton batting. We had tried everything we could hear of without avail, when we began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The first application gave him the greatest relief, and we continued the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES for about two months, when he was entirely cured. He is now a boy of three years, and not a blemish on his face. I can recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and that very mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for it.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway, Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore on his leg, and a skin disease of the scalp of eight years' standing. He was so badly at times that he was unable to have his leg amputated, but is able now to say he is now entirely well — sound and hearty. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. Keyes, merchant.

JOHN Y. MINOR, Druggist, Gainesville, Tex.

Cuticura Re-solvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to age. Crofula. Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; Soap, 35c.; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strains, Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 50 cents.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 60 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts, the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. REAPLE
Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the 24th Feb., 1890, at the same hour.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugar

THOS H. COOK

Family Grocer and Baker, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 132.

WE

Can state with confidence that we are among the Expensive, Highly Perfum

TOILET SOAPS

There is none that equal in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTLE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. White superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE,

BLOOD PURIFIER

AND

Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R. TEMPLETON

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Subscribed, ... $10,000,000
Invested Funds, ... 20,210,000
Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL,
Agent.

Office:—Exhibition Block, East Front St.

"The -:- Judge."

Margaret read them over slowly and reflected for a moment, they showed a great worldly knowledge and much liberality. It is no easy thing for a beautiful woman to forgive a man for hanging, even in the time of crushing trouble, to be protected from her when she advances with outstretched arms. Margaret's face turned hot when she remembered it. At the time her pity for him was too great for any feeling of personal chagrin to find room in her heart. But now the significant slight was borne in on her with sharpness. At such a time would not one have supposed that he would have turned to her for all comforting offices? As she turned it over and again in her mind she ratified the opinion she first arrived at. The secret of that night must have been one that somehow parted him from her. Margaret said to herself that she forgave him. She would go to him as soon as her father would go with her. Probably they would go in the afternoon; and then Harry would learn what her fealty was worth, and she would assure him that she would neither rest night or day till he was cleared. She thanked Heaven the time was past when she would have accepted proffered help of a woman. They had fortunately learned that a woman's help was valuable sometimes and under all circumstances. To tell the truth, there was a certain sorteness in Margaret's mood this morning. In times of comfort, in the midst of luxury and leisure, no one could be more tender than she. But underlying this was a practicability almost masculine in its character, and the necessities of the present hour brought this to the surface. She looked at her watch. The hour was wearing on and her father had not yet appeared.

"I will reason out the matter some other time," said she, with not a little confidence, for assumed confidence, is a great powers; and she called for her bonnet and cloak and went out. Now all this brave fronting had a good deal of shame in it after all. The poor child had a weight on her heart as well as on her heart. There was a chilly sinking sensation that almost paralyzed her, and she know if she gave way to it at all it would conquer her. The determination triumphed, and as she stepped out on the street she made a point of holding her head steady and high, so that if any were looking they should see she was careless. A girl more conventional might have thought it her place to stay immured in solitude, to refuse to see any one and to spend her time in useless regrets. But this independent American girl thought of doing nothing of the sort. She walked out this dull morning in the midst of madness, murder and mystery with her proud little head well up; as full of courage as any of her compatriots who laid down their lives for their country in times of trial. As she walked along absorbed in thought, her eye caught upon that of a passerby. For a second she thought that it belonged to a friend, and then she felt it did not and was about to look away, when the man raised his hat. Margaret gave a noncommittal bow in return.

"I saw you yesterday, Miss Barthwait," said the stranger.

"Yes?" Margaret cautiously responded.

"Yes, at the inquest. Will you take my card, Miss Barthwait? A reporter's impertinence is professional and you will perhaps pardon me for addressing you?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Will you mind if I walk a block or two with you? I dare say you are quite as much interested in the terrible affair as I."

"I dare say I am," Margaret said, with a sad little smile, "quite as much interested as you."

"Are the Leiters old friends of yours?"

"Very old friends indeed."

They broke the ice, and by degrees gained confidence enough in each other to talk about the details of the murder. Margaret would have liked to confess her relations to Harry, for then she could have talked to the young man several important questions. She was anxious to know how Harry's actions could be learned against his will; but this was a subject she could not bring herself to speak on. She was very much surprised at Dennis. He was not at all like a reporter, according to her ideas of that class. His mild blue eyes had in them a most kindly light. His manners were gentle, his movements slow, his voice soft. He asked her a great many questions about the dispositions of the dead man and of Harry, and questioned her concerning her impressions of Harry's possible guilt.

"The impressions of a friend sometimes count for a great deal in these matters," he said. "The law does not recognize their value, I know, but, if you will pardon me for saying so, the law is but a child thing."

"I know very well," replied Margaret, courteously, "that you men of the press often succeed in tracking a crime to its right source when the law fails."

"Your father would not like to hear you say so, Miss Barthwait. I have heard him inveigh bitterly against what he termed the interference of the press in the course of justice. 'This case is being tried by the court, not by the newspapers,' he will say, haughtily; 'but I assure you that many a criminal would escape if it were not for the newspapers.'

"Then, if you are used to dealing with such matters," said Margaret, looking at him futively, "perhaps you can tell me what you think about this affair. It seems mysterious to me."

"No crime is motiveless, Miss Barthwait."

"Do you think so? What could prompt a person to kill a pretty, innocent parrot, for instance?"

"Why," asked Pond quickly, "who killed a parrot?"

Margaret told him the story of her pet.

"I knew very well," replied Margaret, "that I said nothing about the rabbit after all. Then he plied her with what seemed to her the most extraordinary questions. He listened to her answers with deep attention, but made no notes. Margaret turned her steps toward home after a time, but still Pond kept by her. She began to wish he would go, fearing that, if her father should see her with him, he might reprimand her. And, indeed, the young man's questions were becoming most personal and impertinent. He asked how long she had been at home from school, if she and her father lived alone, how she spent her days and what they did in the evening. All this was disguised slightly under the veil of general conversation.

"It must be something of a mental strain," said Pond lightly, "for a young person to live with any one so astute and profound as your father. I should think his very presence would offer a continual reproach to levity."

"Oh! you do not know him," cried Margaret. "He is a close student, it is true; but he only studies after I go to bed, and I assure you he is one of the most responsive companions in ordinary circumstances. He is very fond of story-telling, and his stories are always humorous. Besides, he has the rare faculty of never repeating himself. Oliver Wendell Holmes says that one cannot use a good tool too often, but I do not think that applies to stories.

"If Judge Barthwait never repeats himself, I must believe—not to impeach his veracity—that he has a vivid imagination."

"Why, of course. I hope you are not one of those dull persons who require that a story shall be true, Mr. Pond. You might as well refuse to buy a beautiful picture because you do not know where it is painted."

Margaret dropped her head sadly. Why would this man talk on rapidly when he must see how heavy her heart was, and how hard it was for her to make fitting replies. But he was merciless and still kept up a fire of small talk, and Margaret saw that he was determined to accompany her to her very door. And indeed he did it, and only lifted his hat in farewell when her feet stood on the first step of her home. She nodded to him and lifted her dress preparatory to running up the stairs, when she was startled by the frightened yoodle of the greyhound, Nat. A second later the great animal came bounding around the house in a frenzy of terror.

His hair literally stood on end, his eyes were wild and glared out of his head, and when he saw his mistress he bounded to her side and then fell and lay there, breathing hard and and now at every limb.

"Great heavens!" cried Margaret, "What can the matter be! My poor Nat, what is there, you are safe, Nat. Put your head in my lap. Mr. Pond, I wish—" but when she looked up Pond was gone. "Well," said Margaret, indignantly, "he is a most extraordinary young man. I have been wanting to get rid of him all the morning and now at the very moment I want him, he is gone." He was not to be seen up or down the street, and Margaret felt that she had soothed the dog, and then went with the poor animal to his kennel. He hung back, crying piteously, but she insisted on dragging him with her. The neat kennel stood near the stable door, where it could be easily seen from the rear rooms of the house, though not from the kitchen, from which it was screened by a low lattice. As Margaret reached the back yard, she saw Pond just leaving it. He had been examining the kennel.

"What did you find?" she cried after him.

"The kennel seems to be all right. Some one must have scared the dog," Pond called back.

"Wait," cried Margaret, authoritatively, "wait, Mr. Pond. Nat is very much more peculiar—else what makes you look so—strange? Mysteries little and big seem to encompass us this last few dreadful days. What ails it, Mr. Pond?"

"I do not know," he said, pityingly, "I cannot tell. You are tired and nervous, Miss Barthwait. Do not let a little thing like that dwell in your memory. It is not worth while."

"I cannot help thinking that you saw something that you will not tell me. Nat has an almost human intelligence. I had no idea that he was in the yard yesterday I know. Such a dog as this is not easily frightened; I can assure you, and I know that his presence at a rough stranger would not alarm him. I cannot tell why it is, but everything seems to have grown mysterious to me within these last few days. Nothing is as it used to be."

"Miss Barthwait," said Pond softly, "you have been associated with a dreadful experience, and it is not strange that familiar things can take on a strange aspect. I can imagine how you feel. Before I leave you I want to know if I may ask a favor of you?"

"I think you may. What is it?"

"If the strange, odd or perplexity or mystery surrounds you, will you not let me know about it? Please separate me from my business. It is impossible that I have any selfish end to gain in asking you this. This tragedy may bring strange things to light, and the end is not yet. If you should need a friend, will you not call on me? I will be very proud of your confidence.

"I take your offer as 'tis meant, Mr. Pond. My father is an old man, immersed in his own affairs. His best old friend is dead. Harry Leiter, who has been like a son to him for years, is where he can neither help himself nor me. Therefore, if I need help I will let you know." She held out her hand, and the clasp of his, sympathetic and strong, made the tears roll down her cheeks. She turned away, with a gesture of deprecation for her weakness, and went into the house. Nat keeping close at her heels, like a frightened child. Margaret found her father in the library buried in a book. His morning papers lay beside him untouched, though one would have thought that, considering how nearly they touched him, he would have been reading them. But the judge had never been a great reader of newspapers. "It is impossible to keep with the literature of the day," he would say, "and the only way that one can find time to read the valuable books is by neglecting the newspapers." And it was often noticed that he cared little to talk upon current topics, unless they were of great importance. He had the instinct of a historian for recognizing what event would have a wide bearing, and in such events alone would he inform himself.

"Papa," cried Margaret to him, "you can not possibly imagine what a dreadful time I have been having with Nat. He acts as if he had gone insane. See here!"

The judge laid down his book and looked at the dog.

"What is it," he said. "Come here, Nat, old fellow. Come here, sir." But the dog broke away with a cry of terror and bounded up the stairs to Margaret's room, where she found him when she went to take off her wrappings. Margaret told him to be down on the rug and then hastened to her father, for there were matters of great importance to talk over.

The judge was reading again when Margaret entered the room, but she took his book out of his hand with her usual pretty tyranny and sat herself upon his knee.

"Well," said the judge, laying his forehead lovingly, "at what time shall we go to see Harry?" She was anxious to get him started upon the subject of the murder that she might tell him her theories about Harry's mysterious conduct.

"Go to see Harry!" exclaimed the judge, pushing her back and looking into her face sternly. "We shall not go to see Harry."

"Papa, what can you mean? He will think we have deserted him."

"My dear, are you going to be one of those nauseating creatures who make a here of every criminal? Do you intend to join the ranks of these absurd women who decorate a murderer's cell with flowers?"

"Father!" cried Margaret, starting from his arms, "it cannot be possible that you are referring to Harry! You do not mean that you think him guilty?"

"My child, let me ask if it is possible that you have for one moment supposed Harry innocent? My judgment is much better than yours in such matters. I cannot trust—I would say, I cannot permit you to make yourself ridiculous in this matter."

"You seem to utterly forget that I have a good thing in my stocks!"

"Margaret, the only thing you can do is to forget it. It must be done, my daughter."

"Papa, my heart cannot mean it, papa," her voice broke and the tears began to fall. She put up her hands to hide them and the drops trickled through her fingers and ran down them. The judge held out his arms to her, but she refused to see the gesture.

"I know best daughter," he said again.

"Papa, suppose, suppose, that you could ever be so unjust! Or so blind! You who have known Harry all his life, and you who know so well the misleading circumstantial evidence is! I cannot understand it!"

"Margaret, we have never had a hard word in our lives. Shall we have any now over a worthless ingrate and a criminal? I must go down town. Stay in quietly to-day. It is not meet that you should be seen much just now. I am very anxious that your name should not be connected in any way with this terrible affair. Come, daughter, kiss me. You will be very glad, some time, that I advised you as I have."

"It is evident," said the poor girl to herself after he had gone, "that Harry will not fight for himself. And if the grand jury decides against him he will be tried before papa. Could anything be more terrible? It seems like a horrible dream. Nothing can cure it would seem much worse than I do if it were really true. I wonder how we can take things so calmly when they come that it terrifies us to hear about. This does not seem—it cannot all be true—it cannot have happened to me, who have already been so happy and fortunate. She sat in the chair her father had left with her elbows on her knees, her face in her hand, for a long time.

TO BE CONTINUED

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their great remark... has success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

ACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pills. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of all adverse imitations which raise the question of priority, the original Prof. Loisette's system of memory training is recognized by envious would-be competitors, and is imitated. The attempts to rob him of his well-earned fame, (all of which demonstrate the acknowledged superiority and originality of the original) Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both hemispheres as absolutely the Standard Memory Culture. Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe, who have actually studied the System by correspondence, showing what the System is said to be, what it is, what it does, and what, after studying, that any person may expect to be capable of acquiring, if he or she will follow the instructions received, &c. For Prospectus, Terms, Testimonials, &c., address

PROF. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cents and $1.

Don't Peel

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively certain in its curative action to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moist are; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. It allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in the most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents.

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all gentlemen require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to miss it. Every Druggist sells it, it is money well spent. See Dorenwends advertisement in other column.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nervoline relieves headache, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nervoline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nervoline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy in the world. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervoline.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is used internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

"Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is never too cheap. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lumbago at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nervoline

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elie, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

THE GERMAN ELECTIONS.

SEVERE LOSSES SUSTAINED BY THE CARTEL PARTIES.

It is Said That the Government Will Be Unable to Secure a Majority in the Reichstag — Serious Illness of Lord Tennyson.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Twenty Socialists are known to be elected. Socialists will also contest 35 districts in which second ballots are necessary. The Centre party and the Liberals hold their ground. The Cartel parties have lost very heavily. The National Zeitung estimates from the returns thus far received that the Cartel parties have already lost 18 seats. The paper says that even if the Cartel parties the Government will be unable to secure a majority in the Reichstag.

The returns to date far account for 234 seats in the Reichstag. This leaves 163 seats to be accounted for. Of the 234 the election failed in 92 districts, making supplementary elections necessary.

The 143 members elected comprise: German Conservatives 22, Imperialists 10, National Liberals, Conservatives 20, Liberals 11, Socialists 20, Poles 3, Alsatians 10, Democrats 3, Danes 1, Independent Liberals 1.

The 92 districts in which there were no elections will be contested by: Conservatives 11, Imperialists 13, National Liberals 53, Centrists 14, German Liberals 36, Socialists 46, Guelphs, Poles and Danes 10.

The Preissinge Zeitung reckons the Cartel combination has lost 27 seats.

Soldiers Attack the Socialists.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Cavalry with drawn sabres and infantry with fixed bayonets were posted on the Hamburg frontier to prevent the meetings of the Socialists. The Socialists constantly jeered the soldiers, who finally charged them, severely wounding eight civilians. There has also been an exciting collision at Cottbers, a province of Brandenburg, between soldiers and civilians which has resulted in several wounds and much bloodshed.

The Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—In the House of Commons to-day Henry Matthews, Home Secretary, replying to Mr. Labouchere stated that Le Caron the spy had not received any payment from the Government since he appeared as a witness before the Parnell Commission. Mr. Labouchere demands an explicit assurance that a list of the witnesses summoned to appear before a Parnell Commission should be furnished before a vote was called for on the expenses of the Commission.

W. H. Smith said he could not give assurance that the Government would furnish any information in regard to the expenses of witnesses.

Mr. Stansfield's amendment for the formation of parochial councils subordinate to the county councils was defeated, 254 to 151.

Mr. Asquith moved to postpone business by an expression of regret that there was no mention of free education in primary schools.

Funeral of Joseph Biggar, M.P.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The funeral of the late Joseph Biggar, M.P., was the occasion of a great religious ceremony at the Roman Catholic Church in Clapham. In spite of the hostility of his sisters, some political opinions are diametrically opposed to those of their late brother, the Irish members of Parliament mustered in great force. Mr. T. C. O'Brien, M.P., and Mr. Michael Davitt, M.P., were among the pallbearers. After the ceremonies the body was escorted by the Irish members to the railway station and put on board the train for Liverpool, en route to Cavan, Ireland. On the arrival in Liverpool a painful scene occurred. The shell in which the coffin was enclosed proved to be large to go into the hearse, and men were sent hurrying here and there to find a screw-driver in order to take out the coffin. This caused a delay of an hour, but at last the procession was formed, consisting of 12 carriages and thousands of sympathizing Irishmen, who, marshalled four deep, formed a column over a mile long. The streets along the route to the boat were lined by enthusiastic yet respectful crowds.

Cholera in Mesopotamia.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The cholera is spreading in Mesopotamia.

Will Accept the Changes.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Lord Salisbury intimated to-day that he would accept the United States Senate's changes in the extradition treaty.

Wales' Interest in Legislation.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The persistent attendance of the Prince of Wales in Parliament is exciting comment. Ever since the season began His Royal Highness has never missed a night. When tired of the lords he strolls into the Commons, chaffs the Lord Chancellor in the first and the Speaker in the second, and drinks at the Peers' buffet. He even nods to the Irish members and is ball fellow well met with anybody.

Illness of Mr. Gladstone.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Mr. Gladstone is ill with catarrh.

Tennyson Seriously Ill.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Lord Tennyson is suffering from a severe attack of influenza at his home on the Isle of Wight. His condition is serious.

Cable Flashes.

The Turkish Government will construct shipyards and arsenals at Jeddah.

The election for members of the Portuguese Chamber of Deputies is fixed for March 27.

The Temps says the Russian loan was seven times covered by subscriptions in Paris alone.

A cargo of arms has been landed in Crete and the Russian squadron is ordered to Crotan waters.

Leprosy is spreading in New Caledonia. Three thousand aborigines and many convicts have been attacked.

Advices from the Cape say the Transvaal Government has forbidden the Boer expedition into Mashonaland.

Mr. Pettusen, the American Consul General at Paris, and his wife will give a reception to honor of Washington's birthday.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotence of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and sapping the victim of Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation.

Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess the great work. Beautiful, complete, 300 pages, royal 8vo. Price only $1.00 by binding, embossed, full gilt. Prize Medal Edition, plain, portrait, exposed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free; if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for the PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and associate consulting physicians may be consulted, confidentially by mail or in person, at the Office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all letters for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

AT

THE -- CRYSTAL -- HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS,
HANGING LAMPS,
SILVERWARE, CUTLERY,
DINNER & TEA SETS,
FANCY TEA SETS,
TOY & JERRY SETS,
PUNCH BOWLS, Etc., Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Cushions, Bijouxs, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch, Manager.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B. SCANTLEBURY'S

Headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $1,500,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plus without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

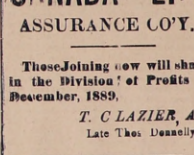
Losses paid in 1888 ..... $77,406.85.
Asset: Dec 31st 1888 ..... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs

JAMES BOOTH, Agent



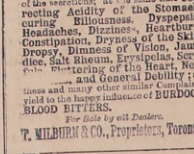
CANADA LIFE

ASSURANCE CO'Y

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt.
Late Thos. Donnelly.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.



Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other distressing Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Union Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.

Toronto Plate Glass Insurance Co'y Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

—THE—

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Also no equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval Round or Square Fire Pot

FITTED WITH

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Out or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN "HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, help dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its allowers. Makes a regular dressing this magnificent an acting to the hair a most desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the sale and manufacture of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5 for ladies and gentlemen. Bangs Frontpiece Wave Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorenwend is known in country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want any thing in a correct place to go to. Send for a circular wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing.

Hair Goods.

DR. THOMPSON'S BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN.

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U. E. THOMPSON

BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE.

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal but notice to be given.

WHAT WHERE

Wilkinson Plows, Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, giving an excellent variety to choose from. Chatham Fanning Mills, Cutters, Carriages, Spring Tooth harrows, Steel Harrows Queen Corn Cultivators, Steel Binders Reapers, Mowers, Rakes, Rollers, Cutters Threshers, Engines, new and second hand Monarch Thresher, Repairs for Waterous machinery and other implements.

All the above may be bought or ordered through

A. WHYANTASSEL, Agt.
Foothbridge Warehouse,
Belleville.

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS

TO WORK

Life & Accident

INSURANCE.

In the County of Hastings, apply to

S. BURROWS

THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. He also has a new process (with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less price than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

STOCK TAKING

—AT THE—

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods.

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 22 1890.

Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church METROPOLITAN BLOCK, — CAMPBELL ST GROUND FLOOR.
Rev. Wm. Henry Barnes, Rector.

IST SUNDAY IN LENT.

11 a m—What did St Paul mean by Baptism for the dead?

3 p m.—Sunday School and Pastor's Bible Class.

7 p m—The meeting place in the desert. Lenten services Tuesday and Thursday 4 p m, Wednesday and Friday 7:45 p m.

Bridge Street Methodist Church

SUNDAY, FEBY. 16TH.

Sermons at 11 a. m. to Royal Templars of Temperance by the Rev. E. M. Pope chaplain of the order.

Sermon at 7 p. m. by the pastor Rev J. M. Hodson B A Subject "Must we believe that the punishment of the finally important will be eternal."

Sunday school at 2:30 p. m.

Strangers welcome! to both church and Sunday school.

That Tax Remission.

It is worthy of note that Ald. Skinner, chairman of the court of Revision, opposed the remission of $100 on the taxes of John Bell, Q. C., on the ground that the city in its present financial position could not afford it. However, he was overruled by a majority of the members.

Surrounded by Water.

Owing to to the river overflowing its banks yesterday the firemen of No. 1 company presented a most ludicrous spectacle by endeavoring to reach terra firma in row boats. This is simply a verification of the predictions of Ald. Graham and Starling. Yet Belleville cannot say that she has felt the influence of her annual flood.

Church Chimes.

Mr. Herron, of Albert college, will occupy the pulpit at Holloway St. church to-morrow morning.

Rev. R. M. Pope will preach the first anniversary sermon of the Royal Templars of Temperance at Bridge St. church to morrow morning.

Tomorrow evening Rev. J. M. Hodson is to preach the second of the series of sermons on "Eternal punishment."

Fisk Jubilee Singers.

The famous "Fisk Jubilee Singers" are now on their last tour prior to starting for Europe, and our citizens will not have the opportunity of hearing them again for some time to come. Miss Jennie Gatewood, soprano, and Mr. Will D. Thweoer, humorous basso, appeared for the first time here, in the opera house last fall, and fairly captured the audience. Tickets are selling rapidly and no doubt a full house will greet them at the Tabernacle on Monday evening. Tickets only 25 Cents.

A Good Fellow

The Brockville Times in referring to Chief Newton's visit to that town in quest of Arnott says:—The chief is a splendid fellow—just about as good as our own chief—and while here made friends with everybody he met. The chief has as good an opinion of Brockville people as they have of him. Whoever he approached was willing to give all the information they possessed which shortened his trip materially and made his stay in the town a pleasant recration.

A Matter of Fact Story.

When Fisk produced "The Twelve Temptations" some eighteen years ago, Mr. Gilmore was then treasurer of a Philadelphia theatre. Little did he dream at that time, he would not only own "The Twelve Temptations," but half a dozen other famous spectacles as well, and be the proprietor and manager of not only the handsomest but the largest, newest and most popular theatre of Philadelphia, "The Central." This is an example of what honesty, sobriety and strict attention to business accomplish es. The great spectacle will be produced here on Saturday next, March 1st.

Hark! to the sound of humanity's wails!
Millions of people with aches and with ails.
Headaches and humors, a merciless flood,
Weakness of lungs and disorders of blood.
Yet there's a helper that certainly save
Thousands of people from premature graves.

The remedy is Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures coughs, relieves asthma, checks bronchitis purifies the blood, heals sores, eruptions and unsightly pimples and is without a rival for all the ills that spring from a disordered liver.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh remedy. Of druggists.

LENT.

Its Early Significance—Custom of the English Court.

Lent is now upon us. It was so called in allusion to the ancient custom of sprinkling the head with ashes. In the Roman Catholic church, on this day, the priest marked the sign of the cross with ashes on the foreheads of the people, saying in Latin: "Remember, man, that thou art dust, and unto dust shalt return." The word Lent is derived from a Saxon term, signifying the lengthening of the days. An former times an officer called the Kings Cock Crower crowed the hour each night during Lent, within the precincts of the palace, instead of proclaiming it in the ordinary manner of watchmen. It is narrated that, on the first Ash Wednesday after the accession of the House of Hanover, as the Prince of Wales, afterwards George II., sat down to supper, this officer abruptly entered the apartment, and according to accustomed usage, proclaimed in a sound resembling the shrill pipe of a cock that it was "past ten o'clock." Taken by surprise, the imperfectly acquainted with the English language, the astonished prince mistook the tremulation of the assumed crow as some mockery intended to insult him, and instantly rose to resent the affront, but was pacified by the interpreter. This incident put a stop to the custom, and the members of the royal family have since been left to the voice of reason and conscience to remind them of their errors and not to the voice of the cock, whose duty was called back Peter to repentance, which this fantastical and silly ceremony was meant, to typify. By modern custom, Ash Wednesday marks the cessation of dancing parties and other worldly amusements.

AMATEUR MINSTRELS

They Elect Officers and Become a Permanent Body.

A meeting of the officers of the Amateur Minstrels was held on Thursday evening last. Geo. Fax was chosen chairman in place of C. A. Bernard. J. Brasier was elected secretary and Alf. Overell treasurer; C. H. Hostage, Prof. Tourjee and F. Lewis were chosen the executive committee.

J. Brasier and Geo. Fax went to Trenton yesterday in answer to an invitation to play in that town. If they go it will be under the auspices of the Oddfellows, who have offered a certain guarantee. A meeting will be held tonight to consider the advisability of accepting the offer. It is probable that they will go to Napanee. The company will be thoroughly organized and will appear before the footlights at the opera house here again in April.

HOW HE LOST HIS LEGS.

The Awful Lesson Does not Stach His Appetite.

Hugh Griffin was arrested last night by Officer Morton for drunkness and abusive language. As the prisoner stumped into the police court he indeed presented a hard looking sight. Both legs were gone from the knee down and were replaced with stumps. Seven years ago the man had the misfortune to get so intoxicated that he was unable to reach the shanties which he was making for in Hungerford township near Hogg Lake. When he was awakened out of his stupor by a passer-by the victim was nearly frozen to death. He was sent to Kingston hospital by friends where his legs were amputated. This was one result of drink but the lesson has not been a fruitful one to Hugh Griffin. The magistrate could not sent him up.

TAKEN TO TORONTO.

The Flower of Toronto's Detective Force in the City.

Detective Cuddy was in the city yesterday and took William Meagher to Toronto. Cuddy is the officer who was shot by "Blinkey" Morgan in a side street several years ago. He had run his man down when Morgan drew his pistol and fired at his breast. The bullet passed through his outer garments without doing any injury to the detective, who before he sustained further injury had grappled with his man. "Blinky" Morgan got eight years for this offence, and the last words he said to the detective, "I'll be out in less than two years," proved true. In less than that time it will be remembered "Blinky" Morgan unfirmed a passage from his cell and succeeded in making good his escape, only to end his eventful career on the gallows a few years ago.

THE POPULAR NEWS MEDIUM.

The People Know Where to Seek to Procure the News

The sale of the daily edition of the ONTARIO on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, during the excitement of the murder of Hannah Cole, indicates that it is the popular news medium of the city. On Tuesday a second edition of 790 copies was disposed of, nearly double the regular edition. On Wednesday the paper was eagerly sought for to learn the new developements, a recognition that the ONTARIO would have the facts if any were going, and on Thursday the report of the inquest and subsequent charge number of extras. The average daily circulation for the three days was close upon 1,500 copies.

HIGH WATER.

The Commissioners Willing to Open a Channel.

The water in the river has materially abated this morning but citizens living in the vicinity of Flint & Holton's mill are in a distressing condition. A gang of men were employed to cut a channel in the ice near the light house. Street Inspector Taylor does not think that this will improve the situation as the bay is chocked full of anchor ice. Thos. Wills, one of the harbor commissioners says that the commissioners are willing to do anything in their power to avert a flood this spring if a remedy can be found. Mayor Tickell said yesterday that during the excitement he would see that some steps were taken by the city council to prevent a yearly repetition of these disastrous floods. "Something can surely be done" he said, "and it should not be deferred any longer.

Swedish Ladies' Concert.

Strong efforts are being made to bring this famous company here for one night's entertainment. The prospects for their appearance are good. They will likely be dated during the first week of March. Mr. Melvin R. Day, the popular humorist, will appear with them. The Boston Traveller says of him: "Mr. Melvin R. Day made his first bow in Melrose and established himself firmly in the favor of the audience. He is an imitator of fine taste and an elocutionist of most decided ability. Above all, he is a gentleman, never descending to buffoonery or cheap effects, but giving to all his renderings the work of a finished elocutionist. He has a good voice, and one which he uses with much effect alike in a serious and humorous composition.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.
ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N. S.

THE COLE INQUEST.

FURTHER EVIDENCE OF INTEREST AND PARTIES.

Arnott's Brother Tells who Warned the Accused to flee the Country—Arnott's Guilt Confirmed.

"Where is William Arnott?

This is the question which the police as yet have been unable to answer, and the evidence taken at the coroner's inquest last night will not bring the fugitive to any closer relationship with the crime with which he is accused. There was not a little of material evidence brought out. As the ONTARIO said last night enough evidence was given on Wednesday night to implicate William Arnott, and it has now had in the dock, but where is Arnott?

Geo. E. Henderson, Q. C., county crown attorney, was present at the adjournment at the inquest last night on account of illness. He stated to a reporter to-day that he had carefully examined the evidence as given on Wednesday night and found it sufficiently strong to warrant the jury to render a verdict of murder against William Arnott. He said the investigation last night was entirely unnecessary as no more convincing evidence could be given than that furnished on Wednesday night.

The Inquest.

Sergt. Down identified the clothes worn by the victim which were all tattered and torn.

R. C. Calhune, manager for the Rathbun company said he heard voices on the street on the night in question. He thought it was a scream.

Police officer Stoneburg swore that he had removed a telephone from Ald. Turner's on the night in question. He saw tracks, in the snow which looked as if someone had been dragged some feet. He had not examined them very closely at the time but subsequently thought that footprints in the ditch were made by a person wearing shoe-packs or rubbers. After going as far down the street as Foster avenue he returned to the police station.

Albert Clapper, sworn, said—During Monday night I saw a man and a woman coming out of the barn near Mr. Foster's house. The woman wore a short coat and light colored cloak. The man wore a long coat. They did not appear to be very drunk at the time. I should think it was about twenty-five minutes to eleven. I did not hear what they were saying all though they were speaking in a low tone. I heard no noise whatever during the night. The man whom I saw was taller than Walter Hargraves.

Richard Arnott, brother of Wm. Arnott testified that although he was twice in Nelson Lingham's barn on Tuesday morning he had not seen the body of the woman. He said that he did not even hear a groan. He said that his brother William did not sleep with him on Monday night although he generally did. Did not know what time his brother came home, did not see him in the house that morning, have not seen him since he slept with me on Saturday night, couldn't say whether I saw him on Monday night or not. Have not the slightest knowledge where my brother is.

Joseph Lynn, sworn said: Am a milk vendor. I left my house about six o'clock Tuesday morning. I met several men coming from the direction of Lingham's barn. They were talking excitedly. I do not know any of the men but supposed they were Lingham's teamsters. They were going north and then turned west towards Mr. Waddle's house.

Adolphus Burgoyne, hackman, swore that he was summoned to remove the woman from Lingham's barn, on Tuesday morning. She seemed to be in great pain Her nose was terribly swollen and she had a black eye.

James Arnott, brother of Wm. Arnott swore:—On Tuesday morning between eight and nine o'clock. Walter Hargraves came to our house and asked for my brother, Bill. He said that the woman we were with last night was dying at the hospital and that Bill had better skip out. I woke Bill up and told him what Hargraves said. He seemed surprised and told mother to pack a bag with something to eat, that he was going to work. We went up Bleecker avenue together where we met Hargraves. We walked on up the street to Lingham's hop yard and sat down a few minutes on the fence. He asked Hargraves what was the matter with the woman. Hargraves answered that he did not think she would live. Hargraves said that he had only taken the woman to the door and left her there. Billy asked Hargraves which way they had gone to the barn. Walter answered that they had gone up Alex. Patterson's lane and went into the barn by a rear way. After that Hargraves said that he (Hargraves) had gone home. Bill said that he thought Arnott was going towards Foley's woods. I do not know where he is now and have heard nothing of him since that morning. I do not know what time he came home Monday night. When he got up he looked pretty tough, as if he had been on a drunk. I did not know that he was going away in consequence of any trouble he had with the woman. I did not think he would have left here so soon if Hargraves had not come to the house and aroused him. I do not know that Hargraves was at Lingham's barn that night. He might not have been near the barn for all I know Hargraves said nothing about going away. Hargraves said nothing to me about any violence being inflicted on the woman.

John Hargraves, sworn, said:—Am brother of Walter Hargraves. He came home on Monday night at about twenty minutes to one o'clock. When I came home the same night I heard a cry of fire near Charles and Albert St. When I went up stairs I heard another noise. I went down to the door but didn't hear anything further until I returned upstairs again, when I heard someone running down the street. Had no conversation with my brother when he came home that night. Mrs. Arnott came to our house next morning and had a talk with my mother. She said she was sorry for the woman. There was nothing said that would implicate my brother in any crime. The night Coroner Johnston took him to his home at 10 30 a. m. for repairs.

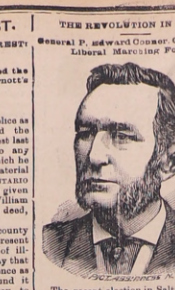
Ontario Tankard.

Walkerton captured the Ontario tankard. The Hamilton Thistles, the club that defeated the Belleville rink suffered defeat by the Walkerton men, the latter winning by three points. The final draw was between the Granites of Toronto and Walkerton, the latter won by three points.

For biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

THE REVOLUTION IN UTAH.

General P. Edward Connor Commander Liberal Marching Forces



The recent election in Salt Lake City, which gave the Gentiles supremacy above the Mormons, is regarded as the beginning of the end of Mormonism as a political institution. To the subject of this sketch the result is largely attributed.

General P. Edward Connor, in 1839, at the age of nineteen inlisted in the Florida war in the First Dragoons. He served five years. In 1846 he joined a Texas regiment and was commissioned a captain. The young soldier participated in several battles of the Mexican war, and was wounded at Buena Vista. He refused to leave the field, and for this gallant conduct was given a full captain's pension. On the outbreak of the civil war he tendered his services to the Governor of California, who appointed him Colonel of the Third California Infantry. He assumed command of the District of Utah, in August, 1862; and arrived at Salt Lake City October 20, and established Camp (now Fort) Douglas. In January, 1863, he fought the battle of Bear River, Idaho a most sanguinary Indian fight. He was promoted to Brigadier-General March 29 the same year, for gallant conduct at this battle, and received a letter from General Grant, dated May 4th, 1865, expressing appreciation of his administration of affairs in Utah. The District of the Plains was created for him, March, 1865. He fought the battle of Tongue River, Montana, September, 1865. In April of the same year he was promoted Brevet Major-General. He was mustered out of service, April 30, with the last of the Generals of Volunteers. General Conner was the first to engage in mining in Utah, and has spent a quarter of a million dollars in developing the mineral resources of the Territory. He built the first steam launch on Great Salt Lake, owned and started the first anti-Mormon news paper, and ran the first daily paper published in Utah. When the anti Mormons of Salt Lake City organized into clubs, marching companies and regiments under the name of the Liberal party, General Conner was their leader. He led them to victory

ONE AS GOOD AS ANOTHER.

An Ardant Lover That was not to be Disappointed

An exchange tells of a young man from Kitley township who became engaged to a maiden fair as Whitehorse, near Belleville station on the C. P. R., after a very brief but blissful courtship. The day was set, the clothes were bought, likewise the ring, when it suddenly occurred to the trusting couple that it might be as well to tell the young ladys parents. This the lovesick swain did after the most approved fashion, but great was his consternation and chagrin when the old man declared that the ceremony could not take place at least in the way it had been arranged. He said his eldest daugter was to wed first, his second next elder so on, and that if the young man was anxious to join his family circle he could marry his eldest daughter, but under no consideration would he allow his third daughter to go while two older sisters remained. The young man, after some thought, signified his willingness to the change of brides. The bride expectant handed her trousseau to her older sister and in three days afterwards the wedding took place.

A Positive Danger.

MR. EDITOR.—It is a well known fact that the majority of the people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seventenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath, dull, oppressive headache, offensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes, a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent headaches. There are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy—delays are proverbially dangerous and the sooner of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers—it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great value. Sold by all dealers or sent post free on receipt of price—50c for small or $1 for large size bottles by addressing FULFORD & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Fine Publication.

The enterprise of Messrs. McDermid & Logan, publishers, London, Ont. is one of the surprises of the age and shows what the mails and printing press of the present day an able of accomplishing. It is but a short time since Stanley emerged from the jungles of the Dark Continent, yet this live publishing firm are now offering to the Canadian public, a handsome, well printed volume of his travels and escapes in Africa. The book is admirably written, gives a vast amount of interesting information about the mysterious continent, its teeming population and the perils and misfortunes that the indomitable explorer had to contend with. The book is a marvel of interesting narrative interwoven with valuable information. To anyone desiring a good, pure, and healthy piece of entertainment. The excellence of the work recommends it to the public.

Consumption can be Cured

By proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specifies in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald Peditsodia, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

The Prescott band is said to have netted about $600 by the bazaar held last week.

WAR DECLARED.

A Babcock Maid Strikes out For Independence and Freedom.

"I'll smash your brains out, you hussy," cried Maria Baker at her house on the corner of Station and Albert street at ten o'clock this morning and she prepared to give Bella Babcock another drive under the nose. But Bella was too quick for her and by a dexterous movement only known to her clan, she brought her right hand around in truly pugilistic fashion and caught Maria near the back of the neck with telling force. Rachel Babcock, the mother and guardian angel of the flock, here felt it her duty to interfere and see that equal justice was meted out to all parties. But Bella had her fire up and nothing short of gore would satisfy her. She hauled off and gave her mother a swipe over the mouth and then began to yell blue murder. Officer Morton shortly this time poked his head into the affair and finally succeeded in restoring order. Nevertheless Bella is now in the cock of the walk, and says she will not have her rights interfered with

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

Alex. Waters is in Hamilton.

C. Robinson, Oshawa, is in town.

J. Baker, Kingston, is in the city.

G. A. Caton, Newburg, is in town.

A. S. Foster, Guelph, is in the city.

A. E. Mills, Boston, is at the Queen's

D. Ross, Picton, was in town yesterday.

R. S. Massin, Galt, is registered at the Queen's.

Dr. Potts and Chancellor Burwash are in the city.

W. R. Aylsworth, reeve of Dereonto, is in the city.

F. H. Green, Utica N. Y. is registered at the Queen's.

J. J. Crydale, was stopping at the Dominion yesterday.

H. E. Sayden, Amsterdam, N. Y. is registered at the Dominion.

Ed. Donald, private secretary to John Bell, Q. C., has returned from Toronto.

Jack Smiley, Kingston, formerly of Belleville, was in the city yesterday renewing old acquaintances.

Chancellor Burwash and Dr. Potts preached educational sermons at the Unica Methodist church, Prince Edward, last night. They lecture in Picton to-night.

Mrs. T. Caldwell of Winnipeg, is again revisiting the home of her childhood and is the guest of Miss Wallbridge at the White house.

Miss M. H. Keegan, formerly of this city, is in the South of France with her friends the Del'Aubiniere. They expect to be in London in April for the season, after which they will return to Canada.

TOWN TALK.

The amateur minstrels have decided to go to Trenton.

All the lunatics have been removed from the county gaol.

Not a single ice house at Cape Vincent has been filled yet.

A Taft, was fined $2 or thirty days at the police court to-day.

The cheese shipment for Belleville this week totals four carloads—7,000 boxes.

Ned Rooney has now seven trotting horses under his supervision at Prescott.

The curlers who went to Toronto have returned. They report having entertained but luck was dead against them.

PROBS.—Winds mostly west and southwest; fair weather, with light local snow; a little higher temperature.

When ordering your express goods or sending same to other points patronize the Dominion Express Company. S. Burrows agent.

H. Tammidge having leased the Belleville Opera house, will bill Trenton and Napanee for all attractions which come here. This is a new move and will be continued if it is found that it pays.

Parties going to Manitoba British Columbia or any other point on the Pacific coast will please call on S. Burrows, Ticket agent, who will give full information as to their weekly excursions.

Inspector of Charitable Institutions Coristi was in the city yesterday and inspected the county gaol, institution for deaf mutes and the hospital. He spoke in terms of praise of the management of all three institutions.

Social at the Tabernac

A very enjoyable social was given last evening, in the lecture room of the Tabernacle, by the Ladies Aid of the church, in the interest of the church. The chair was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Geo. H. Copeland, Ald. W. H. Gordon was called to the chair, the duties of which he discharged most creditably.

The musical part of the program was well sustained by Mrs. W. H. Gordon, Miss Edith Smith, Mr. Charles Caverly, and Mrs. Nash of Toronto.

Mrs. Nash charmed everybody last night, and the audience was delightfully reminded of years past by, when she was a resident of Belleville, and a great favorite in this locality. Profs Staunton and Smith were the accompanists. Recitations which were highly appreciated were given by Misses Spafford, McCrudden and Fleming, and Master Lobley. At the conclusion of the programme, choice refreshments were served. A little before ten o'clock this very interesting entertainment was brought to a close.

When I Go Home.

When I go home, when I go home to him!
I like to picture to myself his way
Of welcoming me, and the joy he shall say,
And mine reply; and will his eyes be dim.

With mist of joy-tears! Will my coming be
As dear a boon to him as he has dreamed!
Will, with glad and bewilderment that seemed
So sweet in fancy, find its verity.

When I come home! Or will some fancied change
Of speech, or look, or mien the one transform
Who used to wear for him a nameless charm,
Tempering his joy with shadows new and strange!

With shadows darkling for a little space,
And then, O, sweet beyond imagining,
The cadences, half sob, half song, will ring
With the old music, hallowing the place.

My glad heart has no room in it for doubt.
The morning glories clambering at the door,
With leaves and blooms and tendrils leaning o'er,
Flecked by the sunshine, cannot keep it out.

I love to fancy the felicities
That shall be mine upon that day of days,
The old endearing names, and tricks of phrase,
And smiles that haunted all my reveries.

If rain or sunshine be, or gloom or gleam,
The day of my return, sweet opulence
Of gladness, flooding mood and circumstance,
Shall smile across the midst with roseate beam.

When I go home again! When I go home!
My feet have strayed upon these journeyings
But my heart never; all my longing clings
To the old haunts: always my fancies come.

Back to the old abiding place to rest,
However I wander under alien skies;
And find forever there their paradise,
Love's very self answering my hearts behest.

WOMAN'S ENLARGED FIELD.

How She Has Gradually Conquered in the Labor World.

Many persons who cannot call to mind that "Adam Bede" was published as the "vile outpourings of a lewd woman's mind," when it was published. "Aurora Leigh" was written down as the "hysterical indecency of an erotic mind." Just the other day a leading journal called "The Story of an African Farm" as "this new piece of feminine filth," and its pure-minded, high-souled writer was treated to a lecture upon morals which might have been well suited to the pigsties of the disreputable house where the critics intended to have her sent to. The critic spoke most feelingly of "what it is decent for our young women to know and think."

Instances of this kind of treatment accorded to female writers are apt to put more or less truth into fiction; but facts about life are thought not desirable in literature by a certain type of critic, although the acts described are quite proper in real life.

The morals of the stage were to be lowered and woman to be made vicious and unwomanly when it was first suggested that such characters as Juliet might be better presented by a young girl than by a well bearded man.

The stage bore the change. So did the actress.

Colleges and homes were to be broken up when girls were first allowed to enter those highly moral portals on an equal footing with brothers.

The colleges still stand and the feminine A. B. appears in the parlor and home life almost as much as her brother.

Medicine and theology were to be degraded by her entrance, and the woman who murdered on her way to visit her first patient or coming home from her pastoral visits.

She has not yet called out the militia.

Above all it was beyond question when she entered law that she would demoralize the profession, be hissed in the court room and forever shunned in society.

Instead, the report comes that "the order was never so good in the court room. The place was cleaner and far less obscenity was indulged in than is usual in conducting such a case. The judge complimented her upon her strong presentation of the case."

Now, since the stage, the college, and the medicinal, theological and legal professions have borne up moderately well under the injudiction, and since woman herself has maintained the dignity of her sex, does it not seem the possible that she is now in need of a pause on the part of the guardians of the morals of literature if she says her say frankly therein! And since she has been able to keep herself almost as pure and upright as her brother, in all these other cases where dire disaster was predicted by him, it is suggested that a nervous spasm is unnecessary in this case also.—H. H. Gardner, in The Arena.

EVOLUTION OF THE LAW CLERK.

He is Green at the Start, But He Becomes Fresh and Knowing.

It is amusing to watch the evolution of the law clerk. The young fellows who begin their course in a lawyer's office—a compulsory service for all who intend to become members of the bar—are usually "green," often painfully so.

The beginner is, as a general thing, a round faced boy in his teens, who has been growing so big and awkward within the past year or two, that he does not know what to do with his hands and feet, and he feels the importance of his new position too keenly to indulge in any undue levity. When he is sent by his employer to the supreme court chambers, to adjourn a motion he listens to the talk of the great counselors with open mouthed awe, and scarcely dares to raise his voice to explain his mission when his case is called by the judge. He stops at the doors of all the court rooms he passes and often enters with some idea that he may be able to add to the stock of knowledge, and when he finally leaves the big white building he is oppressed with the greatness that will fall upon him when he, too, becomes an officer of the court, amicus curiae.

A year or two later the law clerk's face is sun round, and he has forgotten his respect for the majesty of the law. He smokes cigarettes even in the corridors of the superior court, where a notice warns him that it is prohibited. He knows a hundred other clerks intimately, and jokes and romps with any of them he finds while he waits until his case is reached, frequently requiring the court officers to order silence again and again. The veteran clerk of the supreme court chambers, who knows everybody, James McNerny, a brother of the Roman Catholic bishop of Albany, he calls "Mac" or even "Jim," as he flippantly asks for information. He discusses the methods of "Joe" Choate, "Dick" Ingersoll, "Abe" Hummel and other celebrities, and concludes that there is not a man who knows much law or amounts to "great shakes" in the conduct of a trial. He has become a "rounder," and his self importance is admirable to observe.

His idea of his own legal ability does not begin to diminish until the time comes near for him to be examined for admission to the bar. Then he discovers that he has had so little time to devote to his books that his knowledge on some points is a little shaky. The examinations in this judicial department have become much more difficult during the past few years, and applicants are very apt to "flunk." At about this period he begins to think that he might be rejected here, but that he surely knows enough to become a full fledged lawyer in the second department. If he concludes last it would be wise to avoid the New York examiners, he hises a room in Brooklyn, so that he can conscientiously swear to his residence in the second department, and waits until a term of court is held at Peekskill, when he goes up for examination. If he passes he returns to this city in high feather, and his name is in the course of a year stuck on the already formidable list in the Lawyers' Directory. He is a member of the bar—he knows that he knows it all, he feels his oats, and he is more objectionable than ever, unless he has been lucky enough to be connected with some one who has not tolerated any nonsense from him—New York Herald.

The Great Silver Spring.

"I drove out to the great Silver Spring, in the Oclawaha, yesterday, and if I knew it would fain have stayed for hours floating on its surface, looking down into the transcent depths," writes a correspondent of The Boston Transcript from Jacksonville. I cannot describe it. The basin is immense. There are many springs in one, and all have a different beauty. The water is clear as crystal, and one thinks the depth perhaps a few feet, when it is nearer a hundred. The lights and shadows are beautiful. The bottom a mosaic of such infinite beauty as the hand of the most skillful artisan has never been able to make. The colors range from the green of malachite to tints of the sky.

"Near the steamer landing bits of tin thrown overboard are converted seemingly into jewels a mermaid might have scattered from a full casket. In some places the water boils upwards like clouds of smoke, and as the particles separate it as though some unseen hand throwing was toward you diamonds. There are caves and grottoes far beneath, into which you peer. It is a fairy land—as other. Far in the depths, you know, sleeps Wenonah, the beautiful Indian maiden. Her lover, slain by her father's hand, called her across the jewels at the bottom of the spring. Happy Wenonah, to slumber amid such beauty."

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry Goods store—or by post. Address Box 405, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN'S
Tuner.

d1y

100 PAIRS SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

NEW GOODS

AT FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

40 Collars at 5 Cents each.

A. E. FISH & CO.

BANKRUPT SALE

Grant's Bankrupt Stock has been again marked down. Call in and note prices and you will be convinced that you can purchase

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

at prices never before offered in this city. This great Reduction sale commences on

SATURDAY, FEB. 22'D

FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCH, DINNER, AND ALL TIMES.

MENIER CHOCOLATE

THE HEALTHIEST AND THE BEST.

Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 5 GOLD MEDALS

ONCE USED, NEVER WITHOUT IT.

ASK FOR YELLOW WRAPPER.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

Not a Pimple on Baby.

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Head all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My little baby was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness, or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H CASEY, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin Beautifier externally, speedily terminate and cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price of CUTICURA, THE SOAP, 35.; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL Corporation Boston. For Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserve by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

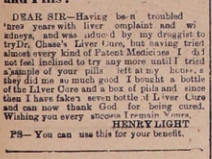
T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled three years with liver complaint and kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, as they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottles of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED



Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CURE FIT, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 25 years to perfect. We will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order must be for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompt attention, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made our establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist & Mfr. 134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD THROUGH ALL THEIR ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO SURGICAL BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF A CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASE.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY BELLEVILLE ONT.

CAPITAL - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates

Payment can be made to fall due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposits. No notice required of withdrawal.

OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines. No commission

J. P. O PHILLIPS, Manager

"The -:- Judge."

"Must work alone, she cried at last, starting up. "I will consider no one, I must find out the truth. Henceforth I have no friends. I will trust no one." And as she walked out of the room a drawn and stunned aged look came into her eyes, as for the first time all that she was to bear and suffer was borne in upon her by a painful presage.

CHAPTER VI.

WALKING the floor of her room she mused upon what she should do. Should she go to Harry alone? It was more than likely that they would not actually be married, but he would be, count-ing the hours and looking for her—anxious to ask her forgiveness for his unaccountable rudeness of the day before. How strange that her father should be cruel to her now of all times. He had never spoken a harsh word to her before in his life, and to choose this miserable time for it was doubly cruel. Though of course, one could not say that he had been exactly harsh—yet it was certain that he would be if she disobeyed him and visited Harry. She knew that he could be frightfully stern when he liked, and she feared to risk his displeasure. When the lunch bell rang she went to the dining-room, but the determination which had given her an appetite in the morning was dampened now, and, after sipping at a cup of tea absently, she went to the drawing room, and seating herself at the piano, played furiously for an hour, not conscious of what she was playing, but only furnishing a noisy accompaniment to her thoughts.

Lear in his misery and madness exulted in the roar of the tempest. "Howl and crack your cheeks," he cried in fierce joy. It was this feeling that made Margaret play on, and to choose whatever was most swelling, reckless and barbaric.

In the midst of this she heard the musical whirr of the door bell. A moment later the servant brought in the card of William McCook. Margaret's distressed heart cried that he might have come as a friend, although her instinct told her that this was not likely. But, womanlike, she determined to be diplomatic in all that affected Harry, and she therefore hastened to the little reception-room with that look and manner of cordiality that women of self-containment so easily assume. McCook rose with a look of well-bred sympathy on his face. Instead of the business suit which he usually wore during the day he had donned a suit of black and wore his Prince Albert buttoned well up. So unexceptable is woman, that Margaret was repelled by this very act of respect to the melancholy state of their fortunes and set it down promptly as affectation. She argued that this must be intended for a visit of ceremony of some sort or other, and that it lacked the spontaneity one would expect from an old friend in time of trouble.

"This is an odd time in the afternoon to call, Miss Margaret. But my time is not my own."

"No," said Margaret with gentle satire, and immediately hating her girl-like way with women of good training, "you belong to the commonwealth. McCook flushed a sharp glance at her. He was not prepared for this mood. Margaret mentioned him to a seat, and, finding a comfortable one for herself in the shade of the curtains, continued:

"But I am very glad to see that you are sometimes able to escape from the cares of State."

McCook could not for the life of him decide whether this was friendly banter or a gauntlet flung down.

"It hardly seems possible that so much has happened since we dined together the other evening," watching her, meanwhile, closely.

"Catastrophies always seem sudden," said Margaret, merely for the sake of replying, "yet who knows how long this terrible tragedy may have been hanging over the head of dear old uncle?"

"Do you think, then, that it may have been a deliberate murder?"

"I can not think. I can imagine no motive for anything so revolting. You are much better able to guess at the cause than I. I have never studied crime and its causes."

"If you had, Miss Margaret, you would have learned that a man seldom commits a crime unless he expects to gain something by it. The first question I ask is, who has profited by Uncle Leiber's death. I think heaven that it will remain for me to say that his murderer is brought to justice. I ask for no higher mission. I shall be the avenger of dear old man's death, Miss Margaret." Margaret smiled at him coldly. She was thinking, "he cannot even look heroic when he tries."

"Miss Margaret, I have come here to-day to ask you to join me in this. Lend me your woman's wit to help me avenge our kind old friend."

"I will willingly help you avenge him and clear Harry," said Margaret slowly.

"That is a bargain then," said McCook. "It is not alone in this that I want your help, Margaret. Dear little girl, I want your aid in everything. I want you for my wife. You must marry me. I shall carry your promise away with me."

His assurance gathered as he went on. He stooped over the girl and with strong and willful pose commanded her to return his look. In some dark and inexplainable way he seemed to threaten her. Margaret felt that if she refused her will she let him know by her blanched face that she did so.

"Promise me," she breathed tremblingly, "I cannot do that, Mr. McCook. I have no heart to give you."

"In whose keeping is it, then?" he asked in a low voice, but with such a fierce intensity that he seemed to Margaret to almost shriek the words. "You had a heart not long ago. I saw it looking out of your beautiful eyes. Where is it now? It should be mine, and it will be yet, Margaret."

"No," said she, trembling still, but looking him bravely in the eye. "I cannot call it back. You are quite right. It is held in keeping. It will never be mine to give again."

"Then I know who has it. But does he want it? You told me yourself the other night that he had not asked you for it."

"Since I told you that, Mr. McCook, I have become—I have promised."

"Then," said McCook sharply, "he must have asked you very soon after, for that night came the tragedy, and our friend was nowhere to be found; and yesterday I saw him drive you away as if he could not bear to look upon your pure face, or else as if he hated you. Which was it?"

"It was neither," cried Margaret, rising and tossing back her proud little head. "It was neither, sir."

"No? I beg your pardon, Miss Margaret. I did not mean to vex you. Pray sit down again, pray do. If it was neither, what was it?"

"How do I know?" said Margaret sagrily, wondering if she were not going to burst into wild tears, and saying to herself that she would rather die than do it. "I cannot read the minds of young men. You do not take trouble the way we do. If you have any regard for me, Mr. McCook, you will not continue this conversation. It seems a strange time to me to—think about such things."

"The time of trouble is the time that one wishes to protect the woman one loves."

"You are taking a strange way of doing it," returned she, but softening the words even as she spoke them, it being utterly strange to her to speak harsh words even when they were deserved."

"Better not argue that point. Help, Miss Margaret. It is honestly offered; and you may yet have cause to be thankful for it."

"I thank you from my heart for kindness that you may offer. If you wish to do me a real kindness, it will be by aiding Harry."

"You seem to forget my official position, Miss Margaret. If the grand jury decides against your friend, it will be my business to present the cause of the State."

"Mr. McCook, you know as well as I that it lies in your power to give him a great deal of aid. But I do not think you are willing to give it. You offer me aid, and when I specify what I wish you to do, you will not. Why do we talk together longer? We shall only make one another angry."

"You cannot make me angry, Miss Margaret. I like you none the less for being loyal to your friend. Your opinion of his—I would say, I am not surprised at the position you take. And yet I feel sure that you will change. I shall not lightly resign the love of the woman I love, be certain of that. I have loved her too long."

"Mr. McCook, why do you force me to say anything more to pain you and myself? I am under a terrible shadow. Unless Harry is cleared Ipshall never come out from under it. Why do you speak to me of this matter? Do you not see that I have no right to listen to it?"

"Miss Margaret, you will soon have the right. Even if you were married to Mr. Lester, the law would soon give you the right to listed to just such words."

"What do you mean?"

"The chances are that he will soon be dead to you and all his friends. You know what I mean. I can see that by your face. Tell me, if I prove him guilty, and so quite unworthy of your love, will you not retract what you have said to me to-day?"

"Have you known me so little purpose all these years, William McCook? I have nothing against you, or at least I had nothing until now, but it is not for me to care for you; it is not my destiny. And now that you have suggested this treacherous treatment of your friend, I shall distrust and dislike you always—and I'm very sorry to have to say it, but you force me to be plain." It began to dawn on McCook that the matter was hopeless, but this did not lessen his determination to do his utmost.

"One thing you will do well to keep in mind, Miss Margaret, and that is that no one in this world is benefited by the death of Henry Lester except his nephew. The fact is there for you to make much or little of. And it's best you should know it and weigh it. I do not apologize for having spoken to you of that other matter. I had to speak. I see you do not want my help, but still, if you ever need me—and you may do so yet—do not hesitate to come. Good afternoon."

"Oh, God in Heaven!" cried Margaret, as the door closed behind him, "what is going to become of me? How can hearts be made so hard?" and she climbed the stairs to where Nel had throwing her arms around his neck, wept as if joy had taken its departure from earth.

CHAPTER VII.

"Have tickets for "Julius Cesar" for this evening," said the judge that day at dinner, "but I suppose you will not care to go, Margaret?" The two were alone in the quiet dining-room. Now and then the solemn housekeeper stalked in and out like an undertaker at a funeral. She had a way of always seeming to preside over the demise of a dinner, and when she cleared away the remains it was with the manner of one who completed the last and obsequies. If she possessed any talents beyond those of a domestic sort, they consisted of an aptitude to discover the mournful and an instinct for smelling out coming catastrophies. Now, as she heard the judge make this remark, she shook her head doubtfully, and as it was a leading question, decided Margaret. She never could help entertaining a desire to shock Miranda.

"We may as well go," said she, feeling her heart lighten as her brooding misery gave way for a moment to the sense of irritation. "I shouldn't like to go in the dark, of course, but if we go quietly I see no harm in it."

"Julius Cesar isn't much of a diversion, in must be confessed," said the judge, "but I have a horror of the house this evening. I feel as if I should be haunted."

"Dear old papa!" murmured Margaret lovingly. "we both feel as if the ground had vanished from under us, poor dear, but I am sure we have need to love and trust each other more than ever before. Let us have no secrets from each other, dear."

"Secrets," cried the judge, peevishly, "pray why should we have any secrets? Women—even the most sensible of them—say remarkably childish things at times."

"Well," said Margaret, pouting a little and playing with her fork, "if you insist that I am not to think of poor Harry, then I have no choice but to have a secret from you. All I want is that you should let me be frank with you, dear."

"Margaret," returned the judge, flushing from some cause that Margaret could not discover, "I am sure your mother would never have spoken of affairs of the heart with the freedom that you do. I sometimes fear, daughter, that you have lost something of that deep—I cannot just tell how to put it—you have been, I would say, most unfortunate in being deprived of your mother's care."

"I know that better than any one else can," returned the girl, with a scarlet face, "and I am sure if the occasion arose, as it ordinary one that I would be as reticent as you could possibly desire. Of course, if poor mamma were alive, I would be her with these matters and be listened to with sympathy. I am certain she would never misunderstand me. Papa, I have no long ago lost her, I have no one to come to but you, and you listen to me like—like a block. You are quite right, I have always thought of you as most girls do their mothers."

Two tears rolled slowly down the soft cheeks and salted the soup.

"Well!" cried the judge, "I am a villain. Come over here, sweetheart, and kiss your old father. You are the loveliest woman in Chicago, dear. You can not wonder that I am tender of you, and shudder when I think of your name being associated with that of a man under suspicion."

Margaret had not the heart to break this comforting caress with another plea for Harry. She concluded to wait till a more auspicious time. As for going to the theater, she saw nothing disgraceful in that. She had not been raised according to conventional standards, and was not conscious of committing an offence against good breeding. All she wanted was to find a forgetfulness for an hour or two. So the carriage was called, and the judge in triumphant evening attire helped Margaret down the stairs to it at a quarter of 8.

TOBE CONTINUED

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their wonderful success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE

yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they could only cure

HEADACHE

they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head-is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which raise the theory and practice of Memory Training, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "Leetures against Memory" of the Prof.'s life labors, (all such depreciations are the highest possible testimony to the quality of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Acquiring Memory is recognized by both Hemispheres as making an Epoch in Memory Culture. Hundreds of testimonials from prominent people, in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his system by correspondence, showing that his System is and only while being studied, fifty extraordinarily, that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-numbering curve, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

Don't Foot

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its beneficial action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms, cramps, pains, cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sex sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nerviline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerviline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. WARNER'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in its most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken already weak constitutions. The Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are peculiarities of persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time by the renowned Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in color. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to miss very. Druggist sells it. If he does not get it, Rice Dorkwerth (Germany) and other column,

A Cure for Deafness,

THERE have been many remarkable cure of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in one minute and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottle only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline

To those who are anxious to stop the treadmill of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good

14,000,000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into savory, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies,

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It produces no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY OTHER INJURIOUS ADULTERANT.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. CHICAGO, ILL.

MANUFACTURERS OF THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKE.

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having been established thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $200,000 all paid up and invested with the Dominion Government of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

J. M CLARK District agent, Belleville

W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe

J. Martin agent Shelburg.

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMS SP

LIVERPOOL SERVIC

DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb. 27th from Halifax, Sat March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock,

SAILING DATES.

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 26th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 to $60, according to state and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

Saloon, staterooms, music room and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where the little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or

T C LAZIER Agent Belleville

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

REFERENCES—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY NURSERYMEN,

COLBORNE - - ONTARIO.

FOR MEN ONLY!

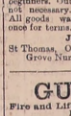
APOSITIVE Guaranteed to Cure Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Impotency, Blood and Skin Diseases, Loss of Power or Emissions in Old or Young, Robust, Noble Manhood Fully Restored, Impediments to Marriage removed, Unnatural Discharges Stricture, Varicocele and Hydrocele Cured. Sealed Pamphlet free. Consultation free. Medicine sent everywhere. Address THE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass.

CITY STEAM BAKERY

JAS. WALLACE.

Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Crush Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

Loss of Manhood



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 36 pages, 8 x 11, 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WH PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street

WANTED GOOD, reliable men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are not to be found elsewhere; which are in demand and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hixon Pear, Saunder Cue, Hilborn Blackberry, Moore's Ruby and Black champion currants, Moore Diamond Grape, etc.

We have every particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to

STONE & WELLINGTON

Toronto, Ont.

FIRE INSURANCE

"The Unterrnitioned First Classt Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $17,500,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 18s ..... $77,406.85.

Assets Dec 31st 1888, ... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance for Pinnacle St., upstairs

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

M. C. ROBLIN.

—ISSUES OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Co. Office Front St up Ang o-American.

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling $5,000,000

Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000

Invested Funds, ... 20,210,000

Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office:—Robertson Block, East Front St

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C LAZIER, Agt,

Late Thos Donnelly.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

—AT—

THE - CRYSTAL - HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS, HANGING LAMPS, SILVERWARE, CUTLERY, DINNER & TEA SETS, FANCY TEA SETS, TOM & JERRY SETS, PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly."

J. C. OVERELLS

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY! How Lost! How Regained,

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Medical Treatise on Manhood, Wrecked on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotence of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relations.

Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, sealed, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING FRESH DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD.

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Russia is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co, enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop and manufactory, Front St East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are not to be found elsewhere; which are in demand and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Hixon Pear, Saunder Cue, Hilborn Blackberry, Moore's Ruby and Black champion currants, Moore Diamond Grape, etc.

We have every particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to

STONE & WELLINGTON

Toronto, Ont.

WHAT WHERE

Wilkinson Flows, Nos. 2, 3, 4, & 5, Pearl Flows, Nos. 2, 3, 4, an excellent variety to choose from Chath in Fanning Mills with or without bagging, Spring Tooth Harrows, Steel Harrows Queen Corn Cultivators, Steel Binders Reapers, Mowers, Rakes, Tedders, Hay Tools, Threshing Engines, new and second hand Monarch Threshers. Repairs for Wat rous machinery and threshers.

All the above may be bought or ordered through

WHVANTASSEL, Agt

Foothbridge Warerooms,

Belleville.

BANKING OFFICE

—OF—

U.E. THOMPSON

DR OR ST., BELLEVILLE,

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Stocks, Grain, Provisions bought and sold subject to withdrawal.

STOCK TAKING

—AT THE—

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods,

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very popular. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1899

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 24 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
dly Tuner.

Do Not be Deceived.

All baking powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the purest and best, sold by all grocers.

Weather Record

It may be of interest to know what the weather record was a year ago. A friend has kindly handed in the following: Feb. 23rd, 1889, 22 below; 24th, 22 below; 25th 10 below.

Meagher Gets Thirty Days.

The young man Wm. Meagher whom Detective Ali. Cuddy took to Toronto on Friday, pleaded guilty in the police court Saturday to stealing a plane last September. He was committed to gaol for thirty at 30 Sunday morning partially consumed a barn belonging to J. Thompson Dundas street. The damage sustained was over $50 which is covered by insurance The origin of the fire is unknown although Mr. Thompson says it must have been the work of an incendiary.

A Barn Burned.

A Good Discourse.

Mr. Harron, student of Albert College preached to a large congregation in West Belleville Methodist church yesterday morning. He took for his text Matthew v, 8.

"Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God."

Easily Accounted for.

A funny story is told of a Picton girl who found a horse shoe, and, wishing for good luck, placed it under her pillow in company with her false teeth. In the morning in the hurry of dressing she substituted the shoe for her teeth, and were it for some time before she mistake was discovered.

Prices Compared.

The price of bread in the leading cities and towns of Ontario is as follows, per four pound loaf:—Toronto 12 cts; London 10 cts; Hamilton 10 cts; Ottawa 10 cts; St. Thomas 10 cts; Goderich 10 cts; Kingston 12 cts; Stratford 12cts; Guelph 11cts; Belleville 9c to 10cts; Woodstock 10c to 12cts; St. Catharines 8c to 12c.

Defective Fire System.

"Citizen" writes to the Kingston Whig that it was owing to the tardiness of the firemen in responding to the alarm that so much damage was done at the recent fatal fire. The chairman of water and gas committee says it was but four minutes after the alarm was given that the engines were at the fire. "Citizen" says it was fifteen minutes and asks for an investigation.

An Old Settler.

Mr. Chas Wright, of Kingsford, came to this country in 1834, landing at Northport. He went to his present home on the 5th concession of Tyendinaga in 1845. When Mr. Wright came to this country there was only a landing and storehouse at the present site of Deseronto, but it even then gave promise of becoming a place of importance as boats called regularly for passengers and freight.

A Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting will be held in the city hall on Thursday night next at eight o'clock under the direction of the united brotherhood of carpenters and joiners of America. The subject discussed will be 'United Labor, its aims and benefits.' Mayor Tickell will occupy the chair. First vice pres Floyd of Toronto, R. C. Clute, Q. C., P. J. M. Anderson and other prominent speakers will address the meeting.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This is not you that bass substitution is practised when the great sure pop corn cure is asked or. Putnam's Painless Corn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnam".

CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES.

VICTIMS OF STORGES ACCIDENT IN COURT

List of the Injured and What They Claim—The Railway Company Will Make a Big Fight

One of the greatest legal contests for damages against a railway company known in the history of Canada is now in progress in Toronto. The plaintiffs are those injured or affected by the St. George disaster and the defendants are the Grand Trunk Railway company.

The names of the plaintiffs and the amount of damages sued for are as follows:

Elizabeth Andrews, milliner, London, formerly head milliner with Geo. Ritchie & Co., Belleville, injured, $25,000.

Ann Eliza Swan, Woodstock, widow of Dr. Levi H Swan, killed, $25,000.

Dennis W. Kern, organ manufacturer, Mayor of Woodstock, injured $20,000.

John R. Marshall and his wife, Agnes Marshall, Regina, N. W. T., both injured $20,000.

Thomas W. Martin, jeweller, Woodstock, executor for Jonathan Martin, who left a widow and six children, killed, $20,000.

Martha Peers, widow of Joseph Peers, retired farmer, Woodstock, killed, $20,000.

Richard W. Knight, land and financial agent, Woodstock, injured, $12,000.

Elizabeth Francis, widow of Arthur W. Francis, printer and publisher, Woodstock killed, $20,000.

Daniel Peacock, contractor and builder, Woodstock, injured, $20,000.

Ida McLeod, saleswoman, injured, $10,000.

George Forbes, gentleman, Woodstock, injured, $10,000.

James C. Hyslop, bricklayer, Goderich, injured, $25,000.

W. E. Sandford, superintend Childrens Home, Hamilton, executor for Mary Jane Evans, widow, who died from injuries received, $20,000.

Robert Hilton, carriage painter, injured $5,000.

Charles Higgins, proprietor Rossin house billiard room, Toronto, whose wife Minerva Higgins, died from injuries received $25,000.

Honorary Le Queene, commercial traveller, Cleveland, Ohio, injured $25,000.

Stephen Budden, North Dorchester, injured $15,000, and his wife, Elizabeth Budden, injured, $10,000.

The best legal talent in the Province has been retained on both sides: For the plaintiffs, Blount, Q C; G T Blackstock, Q C; Beard, Q C; Walter, Read, Black, Bird, Wallace, Smith, McMullen, Garrow, Tytler, Lazier, R M Murdock and Marquis have been retained, while Dalton McCarty, Q. C; Osler, Q C; Aylesworth, Q C; J Bell, Q C, and Wallace Nesbitt will act for the defendants.

The first questions to be settled are, Was the railway company responsible for the accident, and can it be held liable for the damages? Should the plaintiffs fail to establish these facts, then they would, of course, be nonsuited, and in view of this fact the plaintiffs have combined and have decided to try the questions named. The plaintiffs claim that the engine attached to the train was negligently and carelessly drawn, that it was out of repair, that the speed at which the train was moving was at a dangerously high rate, that the switch was out of repair and had been left open, that the engine wheel was worn out also that it had a crank or flaw, that the driver was unaccustomed and incompetent, that the curve was at a dangerous point of the road, and that the bridge was defective and had been negligently constructed.

Mr. Blackstock opened the case for the plaintiffs pointing out that the present proceedure was simply to establish the accountability of the railway company, and the jurors in the present case had nothing to do in the question of damages, should the jury find the company liable, then each of the plaintiffs cases could be argued on its merits and such damages as the trial jury might see fit to award would be granted

Among other witnesses Wm. Stewart a switchman in the employ of the company testified that he had been switching a couple of miles from the bridge for fourteen years, and for the past two years was acting at the St. George switch, where there were two main line and one side switch. The bridge was rebuilt in 1878. Within two weeks of the accident some repairs were made to the bridge, under the direction of Hall, the foreman. Some of the needle-beams were removed from the bridge on this occasion, and these were used as firewood.

Were they sound needlebeams? asked Mr. Lount.

The witness hesitated considerably before answering the question and ultimately described the beams as a "little decayed." All the old needle-beams were carted away and at the time of the accident there were none of them about.

After the accident did you get any of the needle-beams taken from the bridge? Witness replied in the affirmative and was closely questioned as to the condition of the timber. He could not be induced to give a definite answer on the point. "I cannot say; some of it might have been a little decayed."

The case is still in progress.

Eternal Punishment

Rev. J. M. Hodson of Bridge St. church preached his second sermon on eternal punishment. Sunday evening to a large congregation. He gave statistics showing the number of times that the work 'everlasting' was used in the New Testament, the different senses in which it was used and that in every case the meaning was distinct and clear and asked why, granting that there was no dispute about the meaning when used to convey another thought, there should be difference of opinion as to the meaning when applied to future punishment. Those eminent divines who preached the doctrine that the unrighteous were utterly destroyed when through with this world while the righteous inherited life everlasting, or who believed that after a season of punishment they would be admitted to God's presence, were men of large sympathies and had preached as they would like to have it and had shaded the meaning of certain passages of scripture to support their doctrine. He had searched God's word and could find no hope held out in a single passage that there would be any change in the condition of those who died out of Christ after death. There seemed to be a fixed law that rendered it impossible. On the other hand he found much that should induce man to turn with his whole heart and seek God's righteousness. This life was only a life of probation. They who fitted themselves for God's kingdom would be admitted, those who omitted to improve the opportunity would be shut out.

SYMPTOMS—Dry skin; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue turns to form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

A SOCIAL EVENT.

An at Home at a Bay City Palatial Residence.

Toronto Saturday night of 22nd inst. contained the following:

Mrs. J. P. C. Phillips gave an At Home musicale at Glenmere, on Monday, February 10, from four to seven. A large number of invitations had been issued and universally accepted. The handsome residence was not crowded but comfortably filled. Ever since Christmas, society has been so dull, everybody being ill or convalescent that one could not gather enough friends for even a small evening. This then was the first break in the cold monotony and all were in the best of humor; the afternoon was bright, the atmosphere crisp, and driving and walking all that could be desired; the beautiful rooms were darkened, well lit with gas, filled with flowers, and warm and cheerful. Cheerfulness is a new feature in afternoon teas. There was none of that stiffness usual upon such occasions. Mrs. Phillips did the honors with a grace that made every one feel at home. The 15th. Batt. orchestra band under the leadership of Prof. Riggs sustained their high reputation and discoursed sweet and classic music from an alcove in the drawing room. Mrs. Campbell of Argyle Lodge gave a fine piano solo with her usual and well known taste. Mrs. Caldwell of Toronto and Miss Maud Burdette gave a duet, "The Mocking Bird," by Alfred Pease. Mrs. Caldwell was in splendid voice, and our own beautiful songstress, Miss Burdett, did herself full justice. Mr. Warrington of Toronto also lent his kind assistance, and gave a solo in fine voice. Altogether the entertainment was delightful. The refreshments were served in the spacious dining room. Among those present were Mrs. John Bell, who wore a handsome black corded silk gown, trimmed with black white and velvet brocade, and black hat; Mrs. Warrington, sage green silk, trimmed with velvet and sapphire lace, hat and plumes of sage green; Mrs. W. Northrap of Offendene wore tan silk trimmed with velvet bonnet to match; Miss Nora Clench of Toronto, cream directoire gown, dove colored walking hat, fur boa; Mrs. Caldwell of Toronto, fawn silk, handsomely trimmed; Mrs. Potts, black silk trimmed with jet large hat with ostrich plumes; Miss Egan, cardinal surah silk, Gainsboro' hat; Miss Tempe Falkiner, cream nun's veiling, beaver boa, black velvet hat trimmed with white flowers and plumes; Miss Edith Simpson, brown suit, hat to match, wolf boa and muff; Miss Mary Falkiner, cream dress trimmed with black velvet, Gainsboro' hat; Miss Annie Wallbridge, brown dress and jacket with fawn vest and applique trimmings and a brown hat; Miss Edith Simpson, brown costume, wolf boa and muff, Miss O'Hare, black cashmere dress, white felt hat with white plumes; Miss Murvey, electric blue silk, cream bonnet. The hostess, Mrs. Phillips, wore a peacock blue plush gown en traine, trimmed with figured china silk and silver brocade.

THE COLE MURDER CASE.

Hargraves Discharged on Murder charge—Arnott Still Wanted

The Coroner's jury on Saturday night resumed their investigation into the death of Hannah Cole. Rufus Boyle who was with Walter Hargraves on the night in question swore that he left his friend on the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas street about eleven o'clock at night. The witness testified that Hargraves had subsequently told him a story similar to that which he (Hargraves) had sworn in the box. The witness said that this was all he knew about the matter.

Coroner Dr. Willson then delivered his charge to the jury who shortly adjourned and brought in the following verdict:

"That she said Hannah Cole whose body was found in a dying condition in the bars of Nelson Linham, in the city of Belleville, on the 18th day of February, 1899; that the said Hannah Cole was removed therefrom to the hospital in the said city and died two hours after, and that the said Hannah Cole came to her death by violence and exposure, said violence inflicted by one William Arnott."

When Walter Hargraves was arraigned at the police court to-day the magistrate dismissed him on the charge of murder, but was ordered to give sureties to appear against Arnott at the next assize.

Yesterday the police visited the houses of several relatives of Arnott at which he was supposed to be secreted, but without finding a clue to his whereabouts.

ENGINES HALF HUMAN.

Some of the Superstitions of Locomotive Engineers.

A great many tales have been told about railroad engineers and the queer notions they have about their "pets," as they call them. Some of these stories look all right in print, but in reality they are pure inventions. The Globe-Democrat correspondent resolved to interview a number of railroad engineers in view of several their experiences with locomotives, and to find out, if possible, whether engineers, as a rule, are superstitious.

Creston is quite a railroad town, and is the end of a division. It is no trick at all to meet a half dozen railroad engineers, and as they are all good fellows, an interview is cheerfully granted.

Tom H——s is one of the oldest and most reliable engineers on the C., B. & Q. railroad. Being asked concerning his locomotives and their engineers, he said:

"A locomotive engine is, to my mind, as near human as any inanimate object can be. Sometimes I think that they are more than half human. Of course that's all fancy, though. I have driven this engine, No. 485, for ten or fifteen years, and I know every inch of her, and know how to manage the old lady. Some days she gets cross and doesn't seem to care a short working. Then I have to coax her. Other days she'll feel bad and take on at a dreadful rate; then I've got to doctor her carefully. We follow have a way of tending to these little ailments. As a general rule my engine is in good trim and goes like a bird. She acts like a human, trembling with excitement if there is a prospect for fast running.

"Do I believe in presentments? Well, I'll have to say yes. The night we went into a ditch near Malvern, smashing up things badly, I told Jim (the fireman) an hour before the accident happened that something was coming, because I felt queer. She didn't want to go, and when I crowded her she pounded badly, seeming to drag like, along the rails. When the poor girl popped over on her back in the ditch I thought she groaned awfully. I believe the engine smells danger ahead, somehow, and then goes to trembling and pounding. I testify she does always did.

It is almost amusing to note the myraid of queer fancies that engineers have about certain things. Yet, as far as known, these fancies do not bother them from being brave and trustworthy men. While they may have many a superstitious fear that an accident is impending, it does not unnerve them, and is more likely to keep them on a sharp lookout. Many an engineer believes that his fate is only a question of time, while others believe themselves to be insured against accidents.

Some of the herbs in Halls Hair Renewer, that wonderful preparation for restoring the color and thickening the growth on bald heads, grow plentifully in New England.

SOMETHING ABOUT FISH

A LOCAL DEALER TALKS ABOUT THE CONSUMPTION IN LENT.

Where Frozen Fish Come From and How They are Prepared—Demand for Bay of Quinte Bull Heads—Salmon Fishing on the Fraser.

I suppose the fish business is looking up now that lent has begun, said a reporter to a prominent fish dealer today.

Yes, its looking up a little. But the trade during lent is nothing to what is used to be. I can remember when people used to eat fish every day and I believe nothing but fish. The season on the whole, however, has been a poor one. There are not nearly as many fish this year as last winter.

I suppose its mostly frozen fish this time of the year?

Yes, frozen fresh and salt fish, but mostly frozen this time of year.

Where do you get your supplies from?

We get nearly all our fresh water fish from Manitoba, and our sea fish from St. John and Halifax, such as codfish, haddock and herring, and some small fish as smelts and flounders, but the bulk of our supply of this market comes from Manitoba.

What is the process of freezing?

It is done artificially, and in the fall of the year, September and October. I do not fully understand the process of freezing, but I know the fish are put in large galvanized iron pans and then stowed away in immense refrigerator rooms, where they remain until winter, and are then shipped all over the continent.

Then frozen fish must be an important industry up there?

Yes, the business has grown considerably within the last three or four years, and I think now there are fully six hundred tons of fish frozen by the artificial process in Winnipeg every year which sells at an average price of $100 per ton.

Where do they sell it all?

They find a good market for it in American cities, and sell large quantities in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago and in other large places.

Is the weather not cold enough up there to freeze fish without resorting to artificial means.

Yes, but the difficulties are too great to catch them in the winter. They do catch some by cutting holes in the ice and dragging the net along under the ice, but it is a very slow and cold process.

What kind of fish do you principally catch in the bay?

Mostly bull heads, white fish, pickerell and pike.

And where do you get your salmon?

The salmon all come from British Columbia. We get it fresh packed, in ice, and it only takes six days to come by express from British Columbia to Belleville.

How much fish can Belleville dispose of in the course of a year?

There is on an average from twenty-two to twenty-five tons of fish, salt and frozen consumed in Belleville every year. There are also some twenty-five tons sent through the country.

Do the local dealers ship many to foreign parts.

About five hundred barrels a year. These mostly go to the United States. It is remarkable how the demand is yearly increasing in the American market for bull heads commonly known as mud cats. I can remember when there was very little call for these fish but now we find a ready market for all we can procure. The sequently sold him a great deal more than Americans esteem them a great delicacy.

How many fisherman are generally engaged on the bay.

I guess there must be at least a hundred. Most of them had just got located near Point Anne when I last visited that there were no fish in the vicinity. I saw several fish shanties going through the city this morning on their way to the head of the bay near Trenton.

How about canned fish?

That I don't know very much about, as it is out of my line, but I know it is a very profitable business out in British Columbia. There is a firm there; said the fish merchant as he pointed to an elaborate advertising card or calendar that hung on the wall, that cleared one-hundred and fifty thousand last season.

I suppose that is an exceptional case?

Yes, that firm being a very large one made more than the others, but the last was a very good season on the Fraser, and all the canneries made money.

How many canneries are there on the Fraser?

There are fifteen, I think, altogether and I can safely say the profits of each during the last season were from $10,000 to $50,000 and one firm in particular, the one I mentioned, in New Westminster. I know for a fact cleared one hundred and fifty thousand dollars during last season. What market do they sell to?

They ship it all direct to England, except what little is required to supply the Canadian market.

Do they sell none in the United States?

No, the high tariff shuts them out of that market.

And where do the Americans get their supply from.

From the Columbia river.

Is the business as profitable on the Columbia as on the Fraser.

No, I think not. The Columbia has been rather overdone. At all events, the salmon are not as plentiful as in the Fraser river, and the Americans are now getting large quantities from Alaska.

TOWN TALK.

Jubilee Singers—Tabernacle tonight.—25cts.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers are stopping at the Queen's.

Mrs. Denyes, Zion hill, buried a child yesterday.

Joshua Cryslor Palmer was fined $2 at the police court today for drunkenness.

For restoring the color, thickening the growth, and beautifying the hair, and for preventing baldness, Halls Hairs Renewer is unsurpassed.

The great spectacular "Twelve Tempations" will be put on on Saturday night.

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Halls Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

Rev. R. M. Pope preached an eloquent sermon to the Royal Templars of Temperance at Bridge street Methodist church yesterday morning. There was a large audience present.

Prof. Shepard is expected at Albert College to-morrow. Anyone desiring lessons in elocution will communicate at once with Prof. Dyer.

PROBS.—South to south west winds, mostly cloudy and mild with local rain or sleet, followed tonight by north and north west winds and weather turning colder.

Don't throw away your old rubber boots and shoes says an exchange. Save them for the agents of the chewing gum factories who are now buying them up in all parts of the country. Pulverized rubber boots and overshoes flavored with vanilla, strawberry and other extracts, make the choicest of chewing gum.

FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured.

A STUDENT BOUNCED.

A Student of Queens in Serious Trouble.

The medical students, during the past two days, says the News, have been trying the young man whom they suspected of having sent the anonymous letter to the Johnson brothers, telling them their fathers body was in the river. Some time ago a student was sent to Belleville and Tweed for information, and he returned with the fact that the suspected person came from near Tweed. It was also learned that the letters first went to Toronto and then to the Belleville lawyer who negotiated with the Johnsons. Friday night the students court sat till 12 o clock, and the result was they decided to dismiss the young man. The handwriting of six students was compared with the anonymous letter sent to the Johnson Bros, and several experts agreed that it was written by the suspected man. It is understood that the young man, who is one of the cleverest students in the college, will not appeal to the faculty.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private Queens.

F. Lockett has returned from Toronto.

L E Monow B ston is registered at the Queen's.

F. H. Sanders, New York is at the Queen's.

S J Young, Trenton, is the Anglo American.

J C Scripture, Colborne was in the city on Saturday.

Miss Brown and Miss Waite, Trenton, are in the city.

Donald Ross, Picton, is in the city visiting friends.

J. Wansley, Springbrook, is registered at the Kyle house.

Miss Bain, of Winnipeg, formerly of Belleville is in the city.

A D McRossie and wife, of Napanee, was in the city yesterday.

Dr. Cryan and Geo. Boulter, Demorestville, were at the Kyle House yesterday.

W. R. Macaulay and M. McKiffon, Picton, were registered at the Kyle house yesterday.

Nature Has Provided.

A remedy for every ache and pain and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wrenching the secrets of her domain. A new and wonderful discovery has recently been made by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain, sickness, or nerve pain cure, represents in very concentrated form the most potent pain relieving substitutes known to medical science, and strange to say it is composed of substitutes solely vegetable in origin. Polson's Nerviline is the most prompt, certain and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Sold in 10 and 25 cent bottles by all dealers in medicines.

Should not be Without it.

SIRS,—We have used your Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for severe coughs and coldsand can recommend it to be just what is represented to be. We would not be without it. H. SAUNE,
Ottarsat, Ont

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

NEW GOODS

FISH'S FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

400 Collars at 5 Cents each.

A E FISH & CO

BANKRUPT SALE

Grant's Bankrupt Stock has been again marked down. Call in and note prices and be convinced that you can purchase

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

at prices never before offered in this city. This great Reduction sale commences on

SATURDAY, FEB. 22'D

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles,
Coon Coats,
Corsican, Lamb & other coats
Black and Grey Robes,
Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries!
Direct from Switzerland
New Prints! New Sateens!
In New and Beautiful Designs
White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

Headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCH, DINNER, AND ALL TIMES.

MENIER CHOCOLATE

THE HEALTHIEST AND THE BEST.

Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 3 GOLD MEDALS

ONCE USED, NEVER WITHOUT IT.

ASK FOR YELLOW WRAPPER.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris, Salt, Barrows, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
PLUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: TUESDAY FEBRUARY 25, 1890 | NO 47

Business Directory.

Flint Anderson & Campbell.
BARRISTERS Conveyancers Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville Ontario Chambers Office—Front St opposite Ritchie's. Branch office—Deseronto. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, C. J. M. ANDERSON, W. H. CAMPBELL, B. C. L.

Fred E. Redick
BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. Interest at 6 per cent

W A F. Campbell
SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 to loan at 6% on easy terms Low charges Office—Bridge street, Belleville, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,
(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.)
BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c. — Office Mc Annany Building, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon good land security.

William N. Ponton
BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer. Office over Express Co'y Telegraph Office, Thompson Block, Bridge Street, Belleville. Private funds to loan Agent of Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A Ferguson,
BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville. 24dwly.

Sherry & Macaulay
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers Notaries, Public, etc. Office next door office of U. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co. Bridge street Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY, Private and company funds to loan at low net rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c., Victoria Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., | F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace (Office at Court House)

McDonald & Ormam
SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for the National Investment Loaning Co. — Office in Campbell Buildi ags, opposite Post Office Belleville. 27 W cor Block Madoc. A. MCDONALD. D Cream

Bell & Biggar
BARRISTERS Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets Belleville, Ontario. JOHN BELL, Q. C. W H BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

R. TRACY, M.D.
CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, next door Bank Montreal. d w

T PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon
GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto: Member of the Ontario Veterinary Society. OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas' old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty. References J F Wiser Esq., and Ed. Rooney, stock yards Telephone connection

Ellsworth Embury M. D., C. M.
QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Licentiate of Ontario Physician and Surgeon of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty Office and Residence over Holland's Jewelry store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.
DR. LYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. E Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Manor Eye and Ear Infirmary. 256 College Avenue Toronto.

S M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.F.H.M.S
(HOMŒOPATHIST)
Graduate of Fulte University of Medicine, Diagnostic Fellow of the Macnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Licentiate in Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery, New York. Office and residence, Front St., in the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbott

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGille University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Pembroke Ont

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES
General Agent Insurance and Real Estate Money to Loan etc.
Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville,

G. Foster
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Moira Huntington

Charlie Butler
Issuer Marriage Licences and County and city Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases Terms Reasonable. A order left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attent on. Office, Centre Block, East Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,
SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,
SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford's Building, Front Street Belleville.

FREE - TRADE
—BETWEEN—
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to s
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890.
Anglo-American Block.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age. CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

WANTED.
ABOUT 17 feet long must be good apply at this office.

BILL BOARDS or vacant places to erect the same for billing the Opera House. 43t Apply at H. TAMMAGE, Manager.

EMPLOYMENT wanted by a young man of good business experience with good references competent to manage books. Good penman. W. T. C. Address Box 748.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address MAY BROTHERS, Nurserymen, Rochester, N Y. Feb 13 6td

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

A SERVANT GIRL. Apply to MRS. M. C. ROBLIN, corner Bon and Hotel St.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING
FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.
A GOOD livery stable barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in Belleville. Have ninety stalls from the post office Apply to ADAM HENRY, Front Street.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $375,278.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belle

HOLIDAY GOODS
PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

OPERA -- HOUSE
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
The Second Edition of
MR WM J GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $35,000.
——Forming in its entirety——
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70
PRICES:
Parquette, $1; Orchestra Chairs 75c; Pit and Balcony 50c; Gallery 35c. Plan open Monday at Prof Riggs.

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS

BUY SUGAR NOW
They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.
"We know whereof we speak"
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND!
SIMPLE, LOGICAL AND BRIEF. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Individual instruction. Satisfaction guaranteed. Terms low. For further information call at the late residence of Mr. Stephen O'Brien, corner Frank and Moira sts.
DANIEL KITCHINSON.

Stop that
CHRONIC COUGH NOW!
For if you do not it may become consumptive. For Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility and Wasting Diseases, there is nothing like
SCOTT'S
EMULSION
Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES
Of Lime and Soda.
It is almost as palatable as milk. Far better than other so-called Emulsions. A wonderful flesh producer.
SCOTT'S EMULSION
is put up in a salmon color wrapper. Be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Dealers at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the co-partnership heretofore existing between John Weir and Edward Roe, as Livery men in the City of Belleville, has been this day dissolved by mutual consent
The business will hereafter be carried on by Edward Roe, who will be pleased to have a continuance of the firms old patronage and will endeavour to please all who may favour him with business. All debts owing by the late firm, and all accounts due to them will be settled by them at their former place of business.
Dated this 24th day of February 1890.
Witness,
E. GUSS POSTER. JOHN WEIR. EDWARD ROE. 24d.

Sufferers
FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.
Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."
Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."
"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.
"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.
"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.
"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.
Ayer's Pills,
PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 6 Bridge street on
Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890
at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.
S. R. EAPLE
Manager.
ADJOURNED
The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the 24th inst. at 3 o'clock, P.M., at the same hour.

DAIRYMEN,
OF
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us.
W. W. CHOWN & CO.

ONTARIO LICENSE LAWS.

IMPORTANT AMENDMENTS PROPOSED IN THE HOUSE.

Provisions that Will Set Saloon-Keepers and Prohibitionists on the Qui Vive—Majority of Electors to Have a Voice—Local Option.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—A most important bill relating to the Ontario License Laws has been introduced in the House by the Provincial Secretary.

The first amendment in the measure is perhaps of the greatest moment. Subsection 14 of section 11 of the Liquor License Act is repealed and the following substituted therefor:

In the case of an application for a tavern or shop license by a person who is not at the time of making such application a licensee under this act, or as to premises which are not then licensed, the petition must be accompanied by a certificate signed by a majority of the electors entitled to vote at the election for the Legislative Assembly in the polling sub-division in which the premises sought to be licensed are situated, and the said majority must include at least one-third of the electors who are at the time of the application residents within such polling sub-division.

Provision is also made for the clerk of the municipality to certify in cases of dispute as to the required majority.

In unorganized districts the required certificate shall be signed by at least 10 out of the 20 householders residing nearest to the premises in which the applicant proposes to carry on the business for which the license is required.

Another important clause is this relating to the sale of liquor on vessels:

No bar-room shall be kept or maintained for the sale of liquor on any vessel upon which the sale of liquor may be licensed under this act, nor shall any liquor be sold or supplied in any room or place on such vessel used as a bar-room.

The clauses relating to the amount to be paid for licenses are also amended.

The penalties for infringements of the act are then dealt with.

Relating to the sale of liquor to minors, it is enacted that any licensed person who allows liquor of any kind by sale or otherwise to be supplied to a minor who is not a resident on the premises, or a bona fide guest or lodger, shall, as well as the person who actually supplies the liquor, be liable to a penalty of not less than $10 and not exceeding $20 for each offence.

Another clause relates to the powers of inspectors, policemen, constables or officers in dealing with unlicensed premises.

The last clause dealt with the powers of municipal councils as to prohibiting the sale of liquor and enacts:

The council of every township, city, town and incorporated village may pass bylaws for prohibiting the sale by retail of spirituous, fermented or other manufactured liquors in any tavern, inn or other house or place of public entertainment, and for prohibiting altogether the sale thereof in shops and places other than houses of public entertainment: Provided that the bylaw, before the final passing thereof, has been duly approved of by the electors of the municipality in the manner provided by the sections in that behalf of the Municipal Act. Provided further that nothing in this section contained shall be construed into an exercise of jurisdiction by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario beyond the revival of the provisions of this section which were in force at the date of the passing of the British North America Act, and which subsequent legislation of this province purported to repeal.

The U. S. Silver Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Silver Bill to be reported by the Senate Committee on Finance has been drawn up after consultation with the Senatorial advocates of free silver coinage. The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the purchase of silver bullion from 2 to 4½ millions a month. The bill abolishes the requirement that $2,000,000 of silver shall be coined monthly. The secretary is also authorized to purchase gold bullion in unrestricted quantities. Upon this gold and silver bullion the secretary shall issue treasury notes in such denominations as he shall see fit, to be redeemable in lawful money.

Peggy Martin's Strong Tipple.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 24.—Early yesterday morning an elderly woman named Nancy Martin, alias Balaam, aged 61, who lived with her son Henry in Johnston's lane, London South, drank a quantity of carbolic acid out of a bottle, and before medical assistance could be secured was reduced to its effects. Whether she drank the poison with suicidal intention or by mistake is unknown. She was a general domestic servant and known in the neighborhood by the children as "Peggy" Martin.

The Plunger's Prison Life.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Jubilee Plunger Benson's friends, who have just returned from Nice, report that the plunger is working in the prison laundry and he does not like it. He is forced to wash the jailor's shirts and other clothes and the under garments of his wife and daughters. He is penitent and unhappy, and talks of entering a religious order. At first he refused the prison diet, but after two days hunger forced him to eat. He looks very comical in his parti-colored suit of yellow and black and wept when he first put it on. "I," exclaimed he, "who never in my life wore less than three shirts a day, and shirts at twelve and six each; oh!" and he glanced with intense horror at his combination suit of black and tan, "oh, it is perfectly disgusting!"

Labouchere Weakens.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Henry Labouchere has weakened in the matter of the Cleveland-street scandal and has consented to give up his promised exposure at the request, it is said, of Mr. Labouchere himself backed by the most powerful pressure of the aristocracy, which naturally wishes to hush up this awful scandal which will now blow over like other short lived squalls.

The Duke May Learn a Trade.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The Duke of Orleans was to-day removed to the prison of Clairvaux. The principal industry in which prisoners there are employed is spinning cotton and flax.

Death of John L. Cassidy.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—The death is announced of one of Montreal's wealthiest citizens, Mr. John L. Cassidy, the largest wholesale dealer in crockery here. He leaves a widow but no children.

The Belleville Murder.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 24.—Walter Hargraves, who was to-day discharged on the charge of murdering Hannah Cole, was bound over to appear as a witness against William Arnott.

Emin to Return to the Soudan.

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Emin Pasha writes that he has declined the Khedive's offer of the Governorship of Eastern Soudan and that he is resolved to return to Wadelar and reconquer that country for Germany.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam which cure me entirely. I highly recommend

A REIGN OF TERROR.

Dynamite Outrages in Havana—A Railway Station Blown Up.

HAVANA, Feb. 24.—An attempt was made to blow up the Antilla Cubana cigar factory last night. A dynamite bomb was exploded close to the walls of the main building, but the factory was not seriously damaged. Hardly had the people recovered from their fright when a tremendous explosion took place this morning in the Bahanas Railway station on the Plaza Dexarmay. This, although powder was used, was terribly effective. The station was totally destroyed.

Traffic was active at the time and the building was thronged with employes and passengers. Thirty injured have been taken from the ruins, some of whom may die. Others are missing.

On the top of this disastrous outrage news comes from Cardenas that the warehouses of Henri Turrieta have been destroyed by fire. The losses are estimated at $200,000, on which the insurances amount to $95,000. There is great excitement and alarm in Havana over these events, coming at a time when the Government is without a head. The authorities are paralyzed.

Since the strong hand of Captain General Salamanca has been withdrawn from Havana, increasing in numbers and audacity. They have seized two wealthy men of Puerto Principe and carried them off to the mountains where they hold them for ransom. Similar cases have occurred in other parts of the island.

A MOUNTAIN OF WATER.

The Arizona Disaster—Terrible Loss of Life and Property.

PHŒNIX, Ariz., Feb. 24.—A courier from the Lower Hassayampa reports a tremendous mountain of water came down the Hassayampa at 2 o'clock Saturday morning and 34 men lost their lives at the lower dam where they were at work; 31 were whites and three Chinese. The town of Wickenberg is all right. The loss of life in the valley between Wickenberg and the dam may not be known for some days, but is doubtless considerable and may reach thirty or forty. The courier states the upper dam had undoubtedly broken and carried the lower dam below down with it. The loss of property in the dams alone will reach $800,000.

The fall of rain and snow has been very heavy in the mountains and the water here is very high. Salt River rose 17 feet in 15 hours Saturday. The railway bridge across it is washed away for 200 feet and half the track on the river bank is gone.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—There were no receipts from farmers at St. Lawrence Market yesterday and the supply was small, but there was no demand and prices were nominally unchanged.

PRODUCE.

Poultry—Receipts were almost nil and prices purely nominal. Turkeys, 16c and 14c; geese, 6c to 9c; chickens, 50c to 70c; ducks, 80c to $1.

Dressed Hogs—Dealers are getting sufficient supplies from the street and prices are steady at $5.50 to $6.

Eggs—The market is well supplied and there is a fair trade doing. Prices are steady, but selling at 15c. There is no inquiry for limed.

Butter—There is a good demand for choice tub, which brings 17 and 18c. Good rolls find ready sale at 14 to 16c. Low grades and medium sell slowly at 8c up.

Potatoes—There is a steady trade doing. Cars on track, 55c.; small lots out of store, 60 to 70c.

Baled hay—Offerings of mixed are liberal, but very little choice is coming in. There does not seem to be much demand even for the best. Strictly No. 1 timothy would hardly bring $10.50 to $10 on track, and mixed is not wanted at any price. It offers as low as $7.

Baled straw—Offerings are large and there is only a moderate demand. Oat offers at $6 on track.

STREET MARKETS.

Wheat—Unchanged. Sales—150 bushels at 87c for white, 84c for red, 81c for spring and 66c for goose.

Barley—Steady, with light deliveries. Sales—1000 bushels at 38c to 44c.

Peas—About 100 bushels sold at 54c to 56c.

Oats—Steady. Sales—300 bushels at 31c to 33c.

Hay—Offerings were moderate, but it was wet, and the demand poor. A few loads of extra choice brought $12 to $12.50, but ordinary timothy sold at $10. Clover and mixed sold at $7 to $9.

Straw—Offerings were light and prices unchanged at $6 to $7.50.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports: Wheat, steady; demand poor; holders offer moderately. Corn, easy; demand poor. Spring wheat, 7s 3½d; red winter, 6s 11½d; No. 1 Cal., 7s 3½d. Corn, 3s 7½d. Peas, 5s 8d. Pork, 53s 6d. Lard, 31s 9d. Bacon, long clear, heavy, 28s, and light, 28s 7d; short clear, 28s. Tallow, 34s 3d. Cheese, 51s.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT.

Floating cargoes—Wheat, nil; corn, steady. Cargoes on passage—Wheat, quiet but steady; corn, quiet. Mark Lane—Wheat, steady; American corn steady and Danube quiet; English and foreign and American quiet. French country markets quiet. Weather in England cold. Liverpool—Spot wheat firmly held; corn, downward tendency.

Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—The special committee of the City Council appointed to consider what aid should be given by Toronto towards the restoration of the university met yesterday. A proposition for a grant of $100,000 was carried conditionally on the university letting the city have the 15 acres in the rear of the college for a park for 42 years, and if this was not accepted the grant to be $50,000 without conditions.

The International Law and Order Convention closed last night. "The State of the Country in Relation to Law and Order" was the principal topic discussed.

Attempted Dynamite Outrage.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—Dominique Postingal, a blacksmith, is charged with attempting to blow up with dynamite the house in which his wife and two children reside with her uncle's family. Postingal has not lived with his wife for two years.

The Cotton Oil Trust May Sell.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The order enjoining the trustees of the American Cotton Oil Trust from disposing of the property to the American Cotton Oil Company of New Jersey or any other company, was vacated to-day by Judge Wallace.

The Candle Truth.
USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for croup and throat; it never

BALFOUR'S DESPOTISM.

ALLEGED ILLEGAL VIOLENCE AT EVICTIONS.

The Cause of Some Hot Talk and a Division in the Imperial House of Commons—Agitation Caused by Chamberlain's Charge—General Cable News.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Morley gave notice that he would move as an amendment to W. H. Smith's motion that the House adopt the Parnell report:

That the House reprobates the charges of the gravest and most obvious falsehoods based upon calumny that have been made against members of the House, and while expressing satisfaction at the exposure made of the evildoers regrets the wrong inflicted and the suffering and loss endured through those acts of flagrant iniquity.

Sir Charles Edward Lewis, member for Antrim, gave notice that he would move:

That the House deplores that Messrs Dillon and O'Brien and seven other members have by an official commission been declared parties to a treasonable conspiracy and that Mr. Parnell and many others have been declared parties to a criminal conspiracy, and that the House finds the conduct of such members deserving of severe condemnation.

Mr. Sexton moved to adjourn. His purpose was to call the attention of the House to the illegal violence used by the Irish Executive during the Clongorey evictions. In the dead of night a body of emergency men assisted by a body of armed police burned the houses over the heads of the tenants to be evicted, making many families homeless, while charitable neighbours who endeavored to provide shelter for the victims were roughly assailed, the police marching to the farm where huts were in course of erection and arresting the workmen in gross violation of law. Another lawless outrage of the police was their breaking into tenants' houses and arresting seventeen workmen. Could the police break into houses for the purpose of making arrests except upon a charge of felony? What was the charge against these workmen? Father Kinsella, who had tried to protect them, had been sent to prison by a complacent magistrate for opposing the illegal command of a police officer. All of which proved once again that Ireland was not governed by law but was ruled by a horde of unscrupulous instruments of a practically absolute ministry.

Mr. Balfour denied that the police had destroyed the property of tenants. Mr. Sexton, he said, appeared to think that evicted persons should be allowed to violate the law with impunity. Poverty might excuse much, but it could not excuse organized and wholesale lawlessness. The men evicted at Clongorey were, however, rich enough to subscribe to the plan of campaign. They were rich enough to offer the land agent certain payments on condition that their holdings were let out of prison. Certainly landlords should be sparing in the use of violent methods of eviction, yet if it was once admitted that the law must be defied when ever resistance was backed by a powerful conspiracy a most injurious blow would be struck at the order and prosperity of Ireland. [Cheers.]

Sir Charles Russell maintained that the Government procedure in Ireland constituted a system that could not long stand beside that of a country governed according to constitutional principles. [Hear, hear!] The proceedings at Clongorey presented an instance where the police measures were purely arbitrary, without either legal sanction or moral justification. The despotism of Mr. Balfour directly endangered the peace of the country. The House should remember the case of Clongorey as another instance of how Mr. Balfour always stood by the police in enforcing the law, however brutal their conduct or however great the interference with the rights and liberty of individuals. [Cheers.]

The House voted against the motion to adjourn, 196 to 154.

Morley Denies the Bargain.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—There is much agitation in Parliamentary circles over the allegation by Mr. Chamberlain that the Gladstone party has made a bargain with the Parnell party to the purpose of unconditional national education, agreeing to abandon opposition to Catholic schools for the Irish support on other things. Mr. Morley denies that there is any such compact. He declares he has never spoken on the subject to any Parnellite.

Gladstone Preparing a Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Mr. Gladstone is studying the report of the Parnell commission. He is expected to make a brilliant speech upon it in the course of the debate of W. H. Smith's motion that the House accept and approve the report.

Repulsed with Great Slaughter.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Information reached here to-day that 500 of the King of Dahomey's troops attacked the French posts at Kotonou, Senegal. The French repulsed them and killed 60 of their number.

Funeral of Mr. Biggar.

BELFAST, Feb. 24.—The remains of Mr. Biggar were interred at Carmoney to-day. A large number of friends and sympathizers attended the funeral. Many Parnellite members of the House of Commons were present.

Election Riot in Portugal.

LISBON, Feb. 24.—During the election at Cembra there was a riot. The district administrator was shot and seriously wounded. Several supporters of the Government were injured.

Tennyson's Condition Serious.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Lord Tennyson's condition to-night is serious.

Young Abraham Lincoln has had another relapse and it is feared that the end is near.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 25 per cent Cream Tarta and English Soda hence is the best that can be made RIGHT HON. A. J. BALFOUR.

ACTUATED BY JEALOUSY.

Further Details of the Quadruple Murder at St. Alban.

QUEBEC, Feb. 24.—Further details of the horrible quadruple murder at St. Alban in Portneuf County have been received. Dubois committed the crime in a fit of wild rage, occasioned by unfounded jealousy of his wife.

During the day the neighbors, suspecting something extraordinary had occurred to the inmates of the dwelling on account of the deadly stillness that prevailed around it, entered the building and to their utter dismay beheld the mangled and bleeding bodies of Mrs. Dubois, wife of the murderer, and of Mrs. Olympe Thibault, his mother-in-law, lying on the floor with their skulls opened and smashed to a jelly, their bosoms open and the entrails hanging out. Portions of brains were scattered about the place in pools of blood, but the horrors ended not there.

Opening a door that led to a bedroom they discovered the bodies of the two children, also cut and torn in a most barbarous manner. The four-months' old baby was entirely beheaded, while another cut exhibited the heart and lungs. The elder boy, as he lay on a bed, appeared to have died in terrible agony. His legs were hacked to pieces and the body showed indications of having been hack repeatedly before receiving the fatal blow.

The news spread like wildfire among the parishioners of St. Alban and posses were organized to go in pursuit of the fiend. He was arrested late last night in a wood by a man named Naud, and he is held in custody until the arrival of the provincial police, who are now on their way to the scene of the murder. Coroner Belleau has also gone to St. Alban to hold an inquest on the bodies of the victims.

The opinion of the people of St. Alban is that Dubois was jealous of his wife, who, however, gave him no cause to be jealous. She had enjoyed a good reputation in the County of Portneuf, but Dubois, the murderer, was considered a dangerous character and had several times acted in an unmanly way towards his wife. He had also a grudge against the mother-in-law, whom he accused of conniving clandestinely to his prejudice.

Dubois was born in Canada but was brought up in the States where he learned to speak English very well. This got him the nickname of the Frenchman among his fellow-parishioners. He was a beggar by profession and for more success in this business he associated with his brother-in-law Thibault, who is blind. Dubois is of colossal build and is exceedingly ferocious. Two years ago he left his wife and went away wandering about leaving her in the greatest misery. He came back to her some time ago and ill-treated her shamefully. Knowing his wickedness no one dared to interfere lest they should get "done up."

Sunday while the villagers were at mass Dubois after having quarreled with his wife went at the back of the house and got a chopping axe, entered the house and assailed his wife and mother-in-law, who he soon butchered. Next he coolly murdered his two boys and threw the four bodies in the cellar from where he had brought his boy Thibault, the blind beggar and brother-in-law of Dubois, who appears to have been present at the onslaught.

Dubois manifested a desire of being brought to Quebec, where he said he could obtain justice. He also declared that he did not know what he was about when he murdered his victims. The parishioners of St. Alban are of opinion that Dubois was idiotic but Mayor Naud holds the contrary.

THE FERTILIZER CASE.

A Decision for the Plaintiff—A Toronto Lad Lost in the Wilds.

HAMILTON, Feb. 24.—The "Sure Growth" Fertilizer case was disposed of this morning, Judge Muir delivering written judgment for the plaintiff, Freeman, for the full amount of his claim and costs. Mr. Freeman, it will be remembered, sued on a note for $120, given in payment of a quantity of the Sure Growth Fertilizer manufactured in this city. The defendant contended that acting on the representations made by the plaintiff in his catalog he had purchased the "Sure Growth" Fertilizer, but the material was a failure and he counter-claimed for damages. The counter-claim was dismissed.

A 15-year old lad named Joseph Phillips was sent from Toronto to this city on Saturday on business for his father. The lad, confused by the loneliness at the Hamilton station, got on another train and went to Harrisburg. There he stayed Saturday night and paid all the money he had for his board. He walked to this city and Mayor McLellan gave him a pass back to Toronto this morning. He promised to send the price of the ticket back as soon as he got home.

The glories of Corktown as the fighting quarter of the city were revived at the Police Court this morning. John, best known as "Cash" Teehan and David Tyner, worthy representatives of the fighting element in that classic district, were charged with being drunk and disorderly and assaulting William Bowering on Saturday night. In the latter charge the accused were sent to the Central Prison for a six-months term.

A petition from the city, containing 26 feet of signatures, has been forwarded to Adam Brown, M.P., to help his pigeon bill.

W. A. Howell of Jerseyville had three market baskets containing fowl and cans of turpentine, stolen out of his wagon in the James-street market on Saturday.

A grocery store at the corner of Strachan and Macnab-streets, owned by J. Small, was broken into last night and $30 worth of tobacco was stolen. The burglars got in at the back window.

BRETHREN FALL OUT.

Another Exciting Episode in the Nova Scotia Supreme Court.

HALIFAX, Feb. 24.—In the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia to-day on an appeal from a judgment of Judge Townsend's, Judges Weatherbee and Graham reversed opinion sustaining the appeal. Judge Ritchie contra. Judge Townsend thereupon concurred with Judge Ritchie, causing the appeal to be lost. It is unprecedented in this court for a judge to take part in the decision of an appeal from a judgment rendered by him, and Judge Weatherbee made some sarcastic allusions to his brother Townsend's conduct, whereupon the latter remarked in a very emphatic manner that he didn't propose to listen to any reflections upon his judicial conduct from the bench, gathered up his papers and retired with the promise that he would bring Judge Weatherbee's conduct before the full bench.

His Mistake Forgiven.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 24.—Ernest Stephenson, who was suspended some time ago by the Grand Trunk Railway on account of the accident at the junction cut west of Hamilton, while on duty at that office, has been reinstated and resumed his duty as night operator at Wyoming station.

Do Not be Deceived.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 24 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month, per month.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.

ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.

ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.

READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is $1.

CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.

Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of,

THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The Duel language debate in the House of Commons is over. As the matter stands now, the French language will continue to be used in printing the statutes in the North west courts, while the Northwest Assembly is to be authorized to dispense with French in its proceedings after the next election. Mr. McCarthy has announced his intention to reintroduce his bill at the next session of parliament.

Sir Richard Cartwright spoke at the annual banquet of the New York Board of Trade on Friday night in response to the toast of "The United States and Canada." Sir Richard expressed his hope that free trade relations would one day prevail between the two countries and pointed out that even with the present high tariff Canada ranked fourth in the list of customers of the Republic. His argument against the hope of annexation entertained by some Americans was patriotic. The speech is of interest to Canadians and will be found in another column.

The Ottawa Free Press states that Conservatives have requested that paper to attack the government and demand an investigation of the charges against Commissioner Herchimer of the mounted police. He is represented as being totally incompetent to fill the position and it is further stated that the force is losing in efficiency owing to mismanagement. The Free Press properly decided not to be used as a cat' paw by men who do not possess the courage to use the Conservative press for the purpose required. In fact the kickers are conservative publishers, yet they will submit to mismanagement and injustice rather than take the government to task. This is a fair example of what cravans the Conservatives are. Sir John may practice any iniquity that he chooses, he is certain that his tools will screen him for the sake of what government patronage may be pleased to give them, deny what charges the Liberal press may bring and remain blind to his mismanagement, however flagrant it may be. If the press would be more united in pointing to errors on the part of those in power there would be more honesty in the management of public affairs and the influence of the press would be greatly increased and that too without any financial sacrifice. The day is coming but it is not yet.

A Woman in the Case.

There always is. She is the power behind the throne. A woman's influence over the man who loves her is often absolute. To wield so great a power to guide, strengthen and help her husband, a woman's mind should be clear and healthy. It cannot be if she is suffering from any functional derangement. How many a home is made unhappy because she who should be its life and light is a wretched, depressed, morbid invalid! Wives, mothers and daughters, why suffer from "female complaints" which are sapping your lives away when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will renew your health and and gladden those about you! It has restored happiness to many a saddened life. Why endure martyrdom when relief is so easy! In its special field there never was a restorative like the "Favorite Prescription."

To cleanse the stomach, liver and system generally, use Dr. Pierces Pellets, 25 cents.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich. 4wly

Nature Has Provided

A remedy for every ache and pain and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wresting the secrets of her domain. A late and wonderful discovery has recently been made by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain. Nervline, or nerve pain cure, represents in very concentrated form the most potent pain relieving substitutes known to medical science, and strange to say it is composed of substitutes solely vegetable in origin. Polson's Nervline is the most prompt, certain and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Sold in 10 and 25 cent bottles, by all dealers in medicines.

Some of the herbs in Hall's Hair Renewer, that wonderful preparation for restoring the color and thickening the growth of hair, grow plentifully in New England.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be affected.

THE FISHERIES DISPUTE.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE ON THE WAY TO WASHINGTON

The Minister of Marine Sent on an Important Mission in Response to a Despatch from Sir Julian Pauncefote—Other Capital Topics.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—Hon. Charles H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is now on his way to Washington as a representative of the Canadian Government in the negotiations pending between Great Britain and the United States for the settlement of the fisheries dispute.

This information was unexpectedly brought out in the House this afternoon in response to a question by Mr. Jones of Halifax. Mr. Jones had asked whether or not the Government intended to appoint a Canadian commissioner to participate in the fishery negotiations at Washington.

Sir John's answer was a surprise. "There has been no formal commission issued," he said, "but the Minister of Marine and Fisheries left at 1.30 this afternoon to represent Canada at Washington."

That was all the information given to the House but it was learned subsequently that Mr. Tupper's hasty departure for Washington was the result of a message received by the Governor-General on Sunday evening from Sir Julian Pauncefote stating that formal negotiations were about to commence and inviting the presence of a Canadian Government representative. The matter was considered in council this morning and it was decided that Mr. Tupper should go.

The House was in a passive mood to-day and good progress was made with the order paper. Private bills had precedence and four of these were read a third time and passed without discussion. Among the four were bills incorporating the Tilsonburg, Lake Erie & Pacific Railway Company and incorporating the Canada Cable Company.

Eighteen were read a second time and referred to committee. These included:

To confer on the Commissioner of Patents certain powers.

For the relief of Samuel May.

To incorporate the Hamilton Junction Railway.

Respecting the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

Respecting the Grand Trunk, Georgian Bay & Lake Erie Company.

Respecting the Don Improvement, Toronto.

To incorporate the Victoria & Sault Ste. Marie Junction Railway Company.

Respecting the Central Ontario Railway.

To incorporate the North Canadian Atlantic Railway & Steamship Company.

To incorporate the River Detroit Winter Railway Bridge Company.

To incorporate the Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic Railway Company.

To incorporate the Thousand Islands Bridge & Railway Company.

Mr. McMillan moved that the House go into committee of the whole to consider this resolution:

That it is expedient to remove the duty and place on the free list all grains and seeds which do not ripen in Canada, but which are now largely imported and sown for the production of food for cattle, under the system of feeding called soiling and ensilage now largely adopted by the farmers of Canada.

The mover and Mr. Rowand spoke on behalf of the resolution and then Mr. Bowell asked that it be withdrawn because the matter being one pertaining to the tariff the Government could not discuss it in advance of the Budget speech.

A long discussion followed, which was continued after recess. Finally at 10 o'clock the House divided, the resolution being lost, 59 to 84. The vote was on party lines, save that Mr. Kirkpatrick went with the Opposition.

The speeches of Hon. Messrs. Bowell and Foster were confirmatory of the announcement made in this correspondence last week that free corn is altogether likely to be proclaimed in the Budget.

The House adjourned soon after the division.

THE COMBINES BILL.

Clark Wallace's Proposed Trades Union Amendment.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—This is the amending clause affecting trades unions which Clarke Wallace intends to propose for his anti-combines bill: "The following provisions of this act shall not be held to repeal section 22 of the Trades Unions Act so far as such section applies to trade unions which are combinations, whether temporary or permanent, for regulating the relations between workmen and masters, but shall be held to repeal the said section so far as such section applies to trade unions which are combinations, whether temporary or permanent, for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business."

Mr. Lavergne has given notice of a series of inquiries respecting flogging as a punishment in penitentiaries, and asks whether the Government is aware that about one month ago a convict in Stoney Mountain penitentiary was flogged for attempting to escape and two days after the flogging he was declared insane and sent to the Kingston Asylum.

It is understood that the duty on lime is to be reduced to one-half that paid at present.

CHICAGO HAS THE FAIR.

Congress Selects the Windy City as the Site for the Columbian Show.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Chicago has the fair. The eighth official ballot was:

Chicago	157
New York	107
St. Louis	36
Washington	18
Total	307
Necessary to a choice	154

Chicago, which led from the first ballot, thus had 3 more than necessary for choice. The announcement was greeted with cheers and the House adjourned.

Profits of the Paris Exposition.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The net profits from the exposition held here will reach $1,800,000.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

MOBILE, Feb. 24.—The tugboat Flora D. blew up yesterday in Mobile River, 35 miles above the city. The vessel had stopped for repairs to the engine and the captain was on the bank putting on a hawser when the boiler exploded with a terrible report and the boat was blown almost to pieces and sank immediately. Engineer Grimsby and his son were killed. The colored cook was also killed. Pilot Rowell was badly cut about the head and is in the hospital. Capt. Hall was slightly injured.

East Northumberland Reformers.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 24.—The Reformers of East Northumberland in convention here today selected Henry T. Young as their candidate to contest the riding for the Ontario Assembly. The selection of a candidate for the Commons was postponed.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL CO., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this no animal to phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it a sacred authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise.

"There was a frog who lived in a spring,
He caught such a cold he could not sing."

Poor, unfortunate Batrachian! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "feathered tribe" is utterly spoiled by "cold in the head," or on the lungs, or both combined. For the above mentioned "croaker" we are not aware that any remedy was ever devised; but we rejoice to know that all human singers may keep their heads clear and throats in tune by the timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by druggists.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh in the Head, no matter of how long standing, while for all laryngeal, bronchial, throat and lung affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively unequaled. It cures the worst lingering coughs and builds up the flesh and strength of those who have been reduced by wasting disease. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all diseases for which it is recommended, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it refunded.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

Dr. PIERCE'S PELLETS

regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. They are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. One a Dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

CATARRH,

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—MRS. WINSLOW'S Soothing syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothe the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teathing or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind Racked by incumerable pangs, restless by day, eepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pessured by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of lifeseems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, ever does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartic. It aids, but never forces, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. It thoroughly removes those diseased humours which tend to impair the health, induce urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this extraordinary medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents Ask fos Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

Amherst Acknowledgmouts.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

Consumption can be Cured

By proper,healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specities in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Peditcodia, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.,
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,

FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y
Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.
Co'y's Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

DR DORENWEND'S

GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnincent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.

Hair Goods.

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known throughout country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you want any thing in correct place to go to. Send for the new circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS
TO WORK
Life & Accident
INSURANCE,
In the County of Hastings; apply to
S BURROWS

WE

Can state with confidence that ever am o the Expensive, Highly Perfum

TOILET SOAPS

There is none t a qual in all respects

PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

GIVEN AWAY!

With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sugar

THOS H. COOK,

Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville, Telephone 132.

—THE—
GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE
With Pat't Duplex Grate

Has no equal as an Efficient, Economical an Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.

—CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH—

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

—FITTED WITH—

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Gra or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

LOOK HERE!

NEW CURE AG'T

—Will be at the—

ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,

Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communication by letter address

NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

MONEY FOR ALL

WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Ever'ns, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first-class stock. Handsomest outfit. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurseries, Rochester, N.Y. 13|8wdw

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILIA FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,

—AND—

Chocolate Creams

Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
INCLUDING
Macaroons, Toy Crackers, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coconut Sugar Wafers
Queen Biscuits—Bonbon biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE

A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS

We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES & C.,

Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER

ass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc.,

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Ritchie's

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890
The Home Seeker	Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.
The Health Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.
The Manufacturer	takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist	takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America, takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher	takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the Natural Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone	will receive maps, book and guide of the region reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G P & T A St Paul, Minn.

Burdock Blood Bitters

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROWSY FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACID OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 220 acres, three miles from Belleville, most of soil, 60 acres new land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply Feb. 6 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE

Good morning

HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT,
78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

THE PILLS
Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the
LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS,
They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions.
For Children and the aged they are priceless.
To all Female Complaints are invaluable.

THE OINTMENT
is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism.
For disorders of the Chest it has no rival; and
For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds,
Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no rival; and for contracted and stiff joints it acts like a charm.

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots.
If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious!

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF
THE GREAT STRENGTH GIVER

IT SUPPLIES
Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Banannas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!

Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

There is hardly any other disease which embitters the health and happiness of the lives of thousands of families as HERNIA OR

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm: it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the man, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE
RUPTURE OR DEFORMITY
can only be treated by
Mechanical Treatment

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Chas Cluthe, Surgical Machinest, 134 King West, Tor.
Will visit professionally, Belleville Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

I CURE FITS!

THOUSANDS OF BOTTLES GIVEN AWAY YEARLY.

When I say Cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of Fits, Epilepsy or Falling Sickness a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to Cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my Infallible Remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address:—H. G. ROOT, M.C., Branch Office, 186 WEST ADELAIDE STREET, TORONTO.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old, Bad with Eczema Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

Cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when two years old was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with one large scab like a crust, and your doctors said it was incurable. Doctors gave him up. Doctors gave him up. I began using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and before one bottle was used the scab began to come off, and in about six months time I recommended the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and successful cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for doing so.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. It an old sore of eight years' long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have a leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—cured as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H Carey, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of all Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily and permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled these years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a Sample of your pills which I got from a friend they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Shapeworm Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc. Promptness, always in stock. Prompt dealing, and the very honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE Surgical Machinist & Mfr. 124 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS A PURE CURE FOR BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, CONSTIPATION, SICK HEADACHE, and DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO SURGICAL DRUGS FOR THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY BELLEVILLE, ONT.

CAPITAL - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates

Terms can be made to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

FOUR PER CENT interest allowed on Deposits. No notice required of withdrawal

OFFICE—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent No fines No commission

J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

"The -:- Judge."

"You are certainly the most dressed man of your age of the country," said Margaret, proudly and half tenderingly. "Now when I get to your age I shall be dowdy. Dowdy is a lovely feminine adjective, isn't it? How many disagreeable things are purely feminine!"

"Daughters, for instance," said the judge with loving accent.

Margaret nestles close to him, and he threw his arm about her. So, side by side, they rode to the end of their journey, neither speaking but both filled with comfort for the time in spite of the widening breach between them. Perhaps the consciousness of this breach and all that must inevitably come from it, caused them to draw closer together, as if to shield their love from harm. As lovers find their passions increasing in their parting seems important, so these two felt the danger in which their affectionate trustfulness stood, and both strove to protect it. Margaret had never looked more beautiful. Her anxiety lent an almost dazzling brilliancy to her eyes; her cheeks were flushed to a deep crimson; her mouth tremulous; her carriage full of pride that was most delicate. Her pleasant cloak of black satin draped her from shoulder to shoe; a close fitting cap of velvet, circled with plumes, covered her dainty head, and in her hand she carried a prodigious fan of sable plumes, which she waved with a slow and stately motion. Never gave the young man in the row behind her the idea of the plumes on a hearse. Indeed, the young man behind her was filled with inglorious thoughts. For the first time in his life he was suffering with a pain at the heart—the sort of a pain that youth knows often eat. That morning he had come upon life in that strange and awful way that it is appointed to all to do. He had, in short, seen a woman. Men may live among women for many years without seeing them. And when the knowledge of all that a woman is for man is conveyed to them there follows one of two things—unspeakable happiness or indescribable misery.

"I know I'm imaginative," said Dennis Pond to himself, watching the slow movement of those plumes and breathing in the perfume that blew from off them, but this is not imagination. If it were I should not be so sure that it was hopeless." He was in that sensitive state where all his perceptions were sharpened. He knew that Margaret was watching the play listlessly, but that the judge was concentrating on it all that keen critical faculty that had made him famous. And, indeed, the production was well worth the attention. There was the high and melancholy Brutus moving on a plane above his fellows, and speaking through the mellowed and splendid tones of Edwin Booth; there was the classic Cassius of Lane, with its undertone of tenderness; there was the fiery Antony—not the Antony of Shakespeare, to be sure, but one that the public applauded; and there was the rasping red impulsive yet calculating Cassius of Barrett. The young man behind Margaret was conscious that it was on this man that the judge fixed his closest attention. Each changing passion of the man elicited a sympathetic understanding in the judge. Margaret's eyes wandered over the house restlessly, but not once did the judge take his eyes off the stage, and the young man took out his sketch book and drew a rough outline of the back of his head, writing underneath, "Intensity expressed by the back of the head," and smiling at himself at the idea afterward.

At length came the scene in the forum. Cæsar, crowned and haughty, enters. The judge raised his glass and fixed it on the face of Cassius. There came the plea, the refusal, the awful immobility of the senators, the fated unsuspicion of Cæsar; then the swift rush—the thrusts—the slundering end. Margaret raised her hand to shut out the terrible scene; but the judge, with his eyes still fixed on Cassius, raised unconsciously from his seat and stood there staring till Margaret touched him on the arm. As he felt her touch he started, looked around with a blank and ast down, saying in a half-audible voice, which was meant to apologize for his absorption:

"Lawrence Barrett has done that as no other living man could do it." There was a sound of "Ah, sh" from his neighbors, and he relapsed into silence. Perhaps he was mortified at the exhibition of emotion he had been guilty of. At any rate he seemed restless and flushed, and at the end of the act he said something to Margaret which the young man could not catch, and they left the house. As they did so, Margaret's eye fell on Pond and she bowed with a smile as sweet and yet so mournful that the young man actually lowered his head to hide the tears that sprang to them. His heart beat so that it almost suffocated him, and he arose suddenly and rushed into the open air.

Margaret slept but little that night, and several times she thought she heard her father moving about his room, as if he, too, were restless and disturbed.

There were others who for similar reasons were wakeful that night.

Harry Leiter paced the cell many hundred times. A dull light shone in from the corridor and threw the line of bars across his path. He stepped on these shadows with something of the same feeling that a man might have who trod on burning ploughshares. Again and again he tried to review the evidence against him, and to make it plain to himself why he should be suspected of that crime; but, try as hard as he might, he could not understand it all. Margaret filled his mind, and around her he saw floating a simbus of blood. His uncle's death and her horrible falsity were hopelessly commingled in his mind. The earth was turned to blackness by these maddening events. The universe had stopped—the world would revolve no longer. Harry could have sworn that he had been physically bruised. From head to foot he felt as though he had been touch. Each sound that reached his ears caused an acute pain. Had any one suggested that his suffering was purely mental he would have laughed at them and held out his aching arms to show them the bruises which he felt, but did not take the trouble to look for. Indignation toward Margaret he did not feel, neither did anger form a part of his grief for his lost friend—his murdered companion whom that of late he had kissed every night of his life. His clearness of vision was departing and a murky cloud was drawing over him through which he could see nothing. And he forgot that the sky lay beyond that cloud. Night gave place to a gray morning and found him still pacing the floor. The gas was put out; the light streamed in coldly and searchingly. Harry looked at it with dull comprehension, and then threw himself on his cot and slept heavily.

The morning was half spent when he was aroused by a touch on the shoulder. He looked up and saw one of the guards standing over him. "What is it?" asked Harry sullenly; "why could you not let me sleep?"

"A young lady has called, sir. You can see her if you like."

"I want to see no one," said Harry angrily. "Who is it?"

"I'll find out, sir," said the man. He was back again in a moment.

"Miss Earthwalt is her name. I forgot to mention that, of course, I must be present when you see her."

"I will be excused to the lady," Harry returned more gently, suddenly remembering that he was speaking to a man who might talk and anxious to protect Margaret from him. "You will please say to her that I will be excused, and that I think it best that she should not call again." The man was gone a long time with this message, and then returned with a heated countenance.

"The young lady won't believe you sent the message. She says she will not go away without seeing you, or at least without having a line from you, and she sent in this for you to write on. Don't you think you had better see her? Woman folks takes things hard, and for some reason—"

"Give me the tablet," interrupted Harry sternly. Margaret had sent him a little ivory tablet with a bit of gold attached for a pencil. Harry opened it and looked through the leaves. There was a shopping memorandum on it, and a fantastic line from Aldrich, and a proverb from the Koran. He read them with an unmoving face and wrote on the first page:

"I beg that you will go away and return no more. Your presence here adds to my misery. Believe me there are other conditions that you will find more interesting than concerning yourself with my melancholy fortune. You are acting as well as yourself the mortification of calling at this shameful place, for I shall never see you if I can help myself."

As might be expected, the guard read this on his way out.

"Well," he soliloquized, "I did think there was a mistake somewhere and that we had got the wrong man shut up here, but I guess he's a pretty tough nut after all." He handed the tablet to Margaret with an apologetic look.

"He is cranky, miss. He ain't used to this kind of thing. I wouldn't mind what a man said under—"

"Thank you," said Margaret, reading the message with an immovable face. "I dare say you are right. Thank you for your trouble, sir. Good morning."

"Good morning, ma'am. He must be a chump," he added to himself, "to send a girl like that away. I don't do my mind no hurt to have a good woman a-fighting for him."

Margaret got back into the carriage and read the note over and over. Then she carefully erased it and put the tablet back in her pocket.

"I can find no excuse for this," she said aloud. "His desire is not to protect me. The mood in which he wrote that was an angry one. I can tell the mood in which a note was written—I always could. I must tread a hard path, it seems. I must work alone, and for a man who does not want me to, and who may only reward me with his dislike after I have succeeded—if I do." After the habit of the young she sank to the bottom of her sea of misery immediately. There is always something a little theatrical about the young. They do not like judicious mediums. They must have extremes. Margaret went to work immediately to conceal her visit to the jail. No one should ever know how Harry had disdained her assistance. Had he asked for help she would have aided him openly in spite of her father's anger. But now, for every reason she was anxious to hide the fact that she had visited the jail. She ordered the man to drive to State street. She stopped there for an hour, buying she knew not what and bowing to a dozen friends. When she went out she stopped for a moment as the man opened the door for her.

"Robert," she said, with her foot on the step, "it will be best if we do not mention that we went to the jail this morning. I dare say you will not, but I felt I must speak of it. We have always been good friends, and I am sure you will oblige me. Let no one hear of this little present to your mother, Robert—just as a reminder of my gratitude, you know, for the secret you are going to keep for me."

She blushed and dropped a coin in his hand, and then drew back in the carriage and drawing the curtains, was hidden to view. Robert dropped the heavy coin in his pocket.

"I ain't above takin' money," he reflected, "but I'll be hanged if I'd ha' told anyhow."

CHAPTER VIII

THE editor of the Chronicle was a man distinguished by some traits that made him the butt of the jocular photographer and the amusement of his friends. For one thing, he was fond of being public spirited. The public derived almost as much benefit from his journalistic exploits as did the corporation of which he was president, and for which he worked. He was never afraid, for instance, to take up a matter because it was unpopular, if by so doing he could add a cause that seemed to him deserving of advocacy. He possessed a large ambition, but it was impersonal in its nature. He was pleased when he was concerned in matters of national importance, not only in a political, but in an educational and moral way as well. And his interest came, not from any individual advantage that he expected to derive, but from the pleasure that it gave him to deal with large matters and to be at with men of distinction and brains. Consequently, as he was always hunting out the hidden ways of some oppressor, or tracking some notorious rascal to the ground, his office was filled from morning till night with people who had come on similar pursuits. He was a sallow, dyspeptic-looking man, with teeth that gleamed out of his worn face with a frightful brilliancy. Original, indefatigable, daring, curious, eccentric, he possessed the very qualities that go to make up the successful journalist, and though but a young man, he was already known as the most distinguished newspaper man in the West.

Ida and Henry Leiter had been warm friends. The man of business, keeping his eye upon the happenings of the whole world, and managing a place that was scattered over the length and breadth of two continents, found the quiet elegance of the Leiter house a rest and solace. The bland old man, with his golden hair, his collection of famous books, his penchant for rare woods, his soft enunciation and courtly manners, seemed like a quiet portion of another world after the hurry and fret, the disappointment and conflict of the day. When the terrible taking off of this friend of his became known to him he sent for his most accomplished man—one who combined the education of a detective with that of a journalist. The Chronicle made a point of employing such men, and its pages were noted for the diversity with which they let down before the public the true inwardness of many crimes and mysteries that the courts dealt with indifferently. From the first day Pond had reported to his superior every fact and incident, every impression that bore on the matter. He had dilated upon the personal appearance of each person who came to Leiter's house, how, how, how

STOCK TAKING

AT THE

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE

We will not complete our Stock taking before the end of this month, as our Removal threw us a month later than usual. Until we are through with it, we will continue clearing out

All Remnants, All Odds and Ends of Stock, and all Winter Goods at Reduced Price

We are giving Great Bargains in these Goods.

READY MADE CLOTHING.

We have also received a consignment of ready made clothing which we are offering very cheap to clear it out. Overcoats very cheap. Ladies' Fur Jackets very Cheap.

CARPETS

While Stock taking we are offering

REMNANTS OF CARPETS AT AND BELOW COST.

Some of the patterns have plenty in them for medium sized rooms,

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 25 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
d1y Tuner.

At Goldsmith's

Uptown Fish store received to-day, cod and halibut 8cts per lb. Fresh halibut in steaks, boil lobster, brook trout, frozen fresh white, red fish, flounders, sea herring, smoked halibut, etc. Imported lock fine herring by the dozen. All kinds pickled fish.

Lottery Case at Sarnia.

Zera Semon was before Mayor Watson of Sarnia, on Saturday. Zera is well known throughout Ontario as the successful proprietor of a kind of variety show and lottery enterprise, and Chief Winfield charged him with transgressing the lottery act. Zera was fined $20 and costs amounting to $47.

Kingston Races.

The Kingston races were announced for to-day. Over twenty-five strange horses were in the city from Trenton, Belleville, Gananoque, Brockville, Napanee, Ogdensburg, Cape Vincent, Harrowsmith, Carleton Place, Morrisburg, Ottawa, Iroquois and Tamworth. It was feared here that the weather would cause a postponement of the races.

A Deputation.

This morning the Rev. C. R. Flanders, B. A., Mr. Henry Millen, Mr. Wm. Tees, of Montreal and Mr. A. Berry, architect Carleton Place, visited the city for the purpose of seeing Bridge St. Sunday school rooms, as the Notre Dame St. Methodist church people with which they are connected, is about to build a new church. The were delighted with all they saw, and think the Sunday school rooms the most practical they have ever seen. The deputation left for Montreal at 12 45 this afternoon. This is the third deputation to visit these rooms in three months.

Sons of Canada.

The Grand Lodge meeting of the Sons of Canada at Toronto has decided to hold the next meeting in Peterborough. During the past year 17 new lodges, with a membership of 359, were organized. The receipts of the year, exclusive of the endowment fund, were, $1,222,50. A graded scale of insurance was adopted. The following District Deputies were appointed No. 1, E. M. Carlton, Toronto; No. 2, G. F. Waite, Port Perry; No. 3, W. C. Mudge, Peterboro; No. 4, J. H. Magill, Port Hope; No. 5, F. S. Wallbridge, Belleville; No. 6, J. Robb, Stratford; No. 7, F. G. Westlake, London; No. 8, C. H. Frillett, Waterloo.

TOWN TALK.

J. Shannessy has been arrested at Kingston charged with attempted assault on a little girl.

Haines & Lockett have purchased the bankrupt stock of boots and shoes from J. Bull, Trenton.

Archbishop Cleary has given $25 for the relief of the Liston family the victims of the late disastrous fire.

The new St. Andrews church Kingston was opened on Sundry. Rev. Mr. Mackie the pastor preached without assistance.

J. M. Harley, of Thurlow, has added to his large stock, a blood bull from J. C. Hanley's well known stock farm at Read.

PERS.—Strong winds and gales east, shifting to north-west, cloudy with rain, turning to snow, followed by decidedly colder weather.

The Sunday school classes under Mr. T. S. Clark and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn will give an entertainment to the senior scholars of the school this evening.

A team of horses belonging to Charles Clarke of Fig Island, ran away on Front street yesterday. A young lady who was in the way narrowly escape injury as the animals swept past her.

Rev. John Burton, Toronto formerly pastor of the John street Presbyterian church of this city has started a Sunday afternoon class for the study of social topics from a bible point of view.

Let quality, not quantity, be the test of a medicine. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the concentrated extract of the best and purest ingredients. Medical men everywhere, recommend it as the purest and most economical blood medicine in the market.

A WRONG ARREST.

A JAY SPORT SEIZED FOR A TEXAS BOODLER.

He Answers the Description to a Dot But the Arrest of the Culprit at St. John Secured his Release.

A gentleman giving his name as A. H. Morron, of Boston, Mass, arrived in the city on Saturday and registered at the Queen's hotel. F. H. Landers, of New York city also registered the same day and it was not long before the two gentlemen struck up a close acquaintance. The New York gentleman give it out that he was an extensive ranch-owner of Texas, and appeared to be a well-to-do gentleman who always had plenty of cash, and was not afraid to spend it among the boys. Taken altogether he was a genial whole-souled fellow. On Sunday, together with a Belleville friend they paid a short visit to Trenton where they were hospitably entertained and the best in the town was none too good for the American visitors. Police Officer Coleman passed them in the street and at once aired the Boston man up as Fred A. Walton, the missing clerk of the Pacific Express Company at Dallas, Texas, who is charged with embezzling $35,000. As there was a reward of $2,500 offered for his capture it is safe to say that the vigilent policeman was in high glee over his good luck and it was not long before he had the trio safely locked up behind the bars in the little police station near the wharf. The officers then commenced to study the features of the alleged embezzler and compare them with a photograph of the original sent out by Pinkerton's detective agency. To say that the officer was amazed is but mildly representing the case. The man behind the bars corresponded in every detail to the photograph which he held in his hand. The embezzler was represented on the circular as being five feet eight or nine inches in height, dark complexioned beardless, with a slight scar across the back of the head and another over the right eye The prisoner, however, did not have the scar on the back of his head which Dalton bore. The latter also had a perfect set of teeth while Morran's were extensively filled with gold. They both looked about twenty four or five years of age. When the officer handed his prisoner Walton's likeness he was struck with the striking resemblance which it bore to himself and stated he himself would hardly have been able to distinguish the two photographs when placed side by side. Mr. Ventress, proprietor of the Proctor house identified the Belleville gentlemen and Magistrate Gordon was soon telephoned for. He stated that he would exact a light bail for their appearance in police court this morning when he discharged them regretting the fact that they had been placed to the inconvenience of being compelled to remain behind the bars for half an hour.

Fred. A. Walton the real embezzler was arrested in St. John's, N. B., on Saturday night by Detective Kings, of that city, and Detective Gross, of Montreal.

An Excellent Company.

The Albany, N. Y. Argus, says of the Swedish Ladies Concert Co., of Stockholm and Melvin R. Day, of Boston: "The Swedish Ladies Octette, from Stockholm, which now for the first time visits America, is composed of excellent voices, fresh, beautiful and well trained. They present their extensive repertoire finely, with great feeling, and with that peculiar quality of tone which is a characteristic of voices in their native land. Wherever they have appeared they have awakened the greatest enthusiasm by their beautiful singing and careful delivery.

A large audience greeted Melvin R. Day impersonator, from the Park at Jermain Hall, last evening. Mr. Day quite overwhelmed himself with applause, double encores being frequent. Mr. Day exhibited a careful effort at truthful delineation of character, and his comic selections showed originality and a very decided cleverness.

The company will appear at the opera house here on the evening of March 7th. Those signing the guarantee lists at T. C. Lazier's office will have first choice of seats.

The Tennesseeans.

The seating room of the Tabernacle was taxed to its utmost last evening to greet the Fisk Tennesseans. Frequent encores awarded the efforts of the company and the individual members, and the greatest satisfaction was expressed on all hands. Miss Jennie Gatewood possesses a remarkable soprano voice making the upper registers with greater ease and precision than she does the lower notes where she seems at times to be faulty. Mr. J. W. Harris has an excellent voice and sang well The basso was good, but brother Thompson did too much bellowing, for effect to be appreciated. The elocutionist was a dumper to the good points that the company possess, but no doubt she did her level best. The melodies were good, The enthusiasm of the class meeting, led by Miss Jennie Gatewood, gave a fine glimpse of the spirit of the old time down south camp meeting. The company were brought here by the Epworth League of the Tabernacle and the attendance warrants the assumption that their coffers will be liberally replenished as a result.

Twelve Temptations.

The revival of "The Twelve Temptations," after a lapse of eighteen years, and upon such a stupendous scale, is the most striking illustration possible of the advance in the methods of spectacular production. Eighteen years ago such a production was only possible in New York and some of the larger cities.

The salary list of Gilmore's 'Twelve Temptations' is said to be nearly $1,500 weekly.

The combined strength of the ballet corps is represented by twenty-eight accomplished dancers.

Mlle Marie Bonfanti, Mlle Eloise and Mons. Victor Chiado are the leading dancers in Gilmore's company.

The scenery is said to cost nine thousand dollars, while the costuming and armour was nearly as much.

The dramatic cast is indeed an elaborate one, comprising twenty-three persons to unfold the story.

Sixty-eight people form the travelling strength of the company, which is the largest spectacular organization on the road.

The principal specialties introduced comprise the Brothers Savinella, the Topsy Turvey Troupe, Les Freres Caron and the Brother's Judge. The company will appear here on Saturday night

Young Peoples Entertainment.

The Y. P. L. of John St. Presbyterian church had a successful meeting in the hall last night. A. Brignall occupied the chair. Geo. Fax, W. H. Campbell and F. Lewis, rendered solos which were well received by the large assembly. Prof. Coleman and Miss Coleman rendered a vocal duet, while Mrs. How and Miss McRae contributed an instrumental duet to the delight of all present. J. J. B. Flint, gave an essay on the life and works of Charles Dickens and it is needless to say that the audience listened to Mr. Flint in wrapt attention and when he had concluded he was loudly applauded. Refreshments were served during the evening.

James Kellar, Duluth, is registered at the Kyle houses

SQUABBLE OVER A GIRL.

She Left her Foster Parents to Keep House for a Bachelor.

John Daly, Debra Lucas and Amos Lucas, of Thurlow township were arraigned before the magistrate today on a charge of unlawfully enticing a girl by the name of Maggie Woodcock under fourteen years of age from Patrick Naphan's house where she had been taken to be brought up. It appears that the girl's parents had died some years ago and she was given into the keeping of her grandmother, Mrs Woodcock, of Huntingdon. Upon the death of the latter the girl, on March 1st last, went to live with Mr. and Mrs. Naphan's, where she was regarded as one of the family until February first last when she left and took up her abode in the house of John Daly, a neighbor. She gave no reason for her strange course except that Mr. Naphan had on one occasion kicked her while she was performing her duties about his house.

When Mr. Naphan was put into the box he contradicted this statement. Hestated that he had not assaulted her any more than to push her aside with the foot. She was not willing to perform her housework and on several occasions had allowed quantities of baked apples to be burned while instructed to dry them over a stove. It was on one of these occasions that Mr. Naphan had entered the kitchen and perceived that the apples were being destroyed while the girl was having herself about something else. He was annoyed at her stupidity and pushed her aside in the manner stated.

His wife also swore that she had given the girl plenty of opportunity to learn and allowed her every privilege about the house She said the girl was subborn and obstinate and knew literally nothing of housework when she come to reside with her. On February the first last Debrah Lucas had come to Mrs. Naphan's and asked if Maggie could come out with her. Mrs. Naphan replied in the firmative, and that was the last time she had seen the girl until one night last week, when she knocked at the door, Mrs. Naphan asked her if she was coming in when John Daly called out from the road that Maggie wanted her clothes, Mrs. Naphon refused to hand them over until Mr. Naphan came home when the girl left.

Mr. Daly a bachelor wanted her to keep house and she seemed satisfied with her new duties. The Naphan family assert that the girl is flighty and does not know her mind. Judgement was reserved until next Tuesday.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

An American Horsebuyers Experience With a Mad Stallion.

Not long ago a local horse dealer, who has a wide reputation, advertised through the ONTARIO that he would, on a certain date be at Belleville to buy a car load of horses for an American named Place. The paper containing the card found its way to the hands of a woman at Madoc who for fourteen years had been watching and waiting for a husband who went from home on a sunny day in spring and forgot to return. His name was Place and he too had been a horse buyer wherever the opportunity offered The woman naturally concluded that her recreant other half had plucked up courage enough to return to his native county probably trusting to lapse of time to heal all wounds and thus prevent any unpleasant consequences. The heroine of our tale, however, was built the other way. She made a note of the date that he would be at the Queen's, and made arrangements to be a guest at the same house at the same time. A lawyer was interviewed and she was convinced that she had good ground for action. When the day arrived the woman accompanied by her son came to the city and swore out a warrant for the horse buyer. She sent the son to the Queen's to reconnoitre but he returned with the intelligence that his paternal relative was not there. The mother was not convinced and decided that she would go herself and charge the wrong doer with his perfidious life. She took the precaution to place officer Stoneberg in the window at the police station while she arranged that she should take a place at the sitting room window at the Queen's and signal him when to drop in with the warrant. Accordingly she went to the Queen's and a bell boy informed Mr. Place that a lady wished to see him in the sitting room upstairs. The dealer in equines tidied himself up as best he could on a short notice and climbed the stair. The wronged woman had not counted upon being confronted by the wrong man and in her confusion she told her story to the startled dealer. However, the signal was not given and the horse buyer expressed his sympathy and was allowed to depart in peace.

Still at Large.

Wm. Arnott wanted for the murder of Hannah Cole in this city, is still at large. The man wanted is described as 26 years of age, 6 feet 1 in. in height and weighs 190 pounds. He has a rather dark complexion, brown moustache, knock-knees, rather stiff in legs when walking, large feet, big raw-boned man, not corpulent, pointing or sloping shoulders long neck. When last seen was dressed in persian lamb cap with peak, double breasted black beaver cloth overcoat, felt stockings with heavy rubbers. The Chief of Police requests all police officers and trainmen to keep a sharp lookout for him and arrest. Telegraph or write all information to Chief Newton, Belleville.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private Men.

Y. C. Conly, Yorker is in town.

W. H. Hope, Chicago, is in town.

J. Coughlin, Prescott, is at the Queen's.

J. H. Taylor, Kingston, is at the Queen's.

Ald. Munley is in Indianapolis visiting friends.

A. R. Baxter, Quincy, Mass. is at the Kyle house.

J. M. Poitras, Deseronto, is registered at the Queen's.

A. E. Robinson, Toronto, is stopping at the Queen's.

M. Slack, New York, is stopping at the Anglo American.

J. H. Thompson is registered at the Anglo American.

Mrs. A. A. Macdonald, Madoc, was in the city yesterday.

W. R. Aylsworth, reeve of Deseronto, was in the city yesterday.

Thos. Ritchie is in New York. He will arrive home next week.

The Jubilee Singers stopped at the Anglo American while in the city.

E. B. Wagner, Napanee, is in the city.

F.S. Lazier, Duluth, Minn., is in the city.

C. T. Rokeshawe, Hamilton, is in the city in the interests of the Dominion directory.

John Kehoe, a wealthy ranch owner of Salt Lake City, Utah, formerly of Belleville, is in the city renewing old acquaintances.

Do Not be Deceived.

All baking powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the purest and best, sold by all grocers.

TRADE RELATIONS.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT MAKES A SPEECH IN NEW YORK.

He Speaks of Political and Trade Relations of Canada and the United States—The Evils of Artificial Barriers—A Closer Union Mutually Beneficial—Mistakes of Politicians at Home and Abroad—Influence of Sentiment.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—At the annual banquet of the Board of Trade meeting on Friday night Sir Richard Cartwright, in replying to the toast of "The United States and Canada," said:—It was most true that Canada and the United States, were in a very peculiar position. Of no two countries might it be more correctly said that they were at once so near and yet so far; so easily accessible to each other, and in many important respects so little known; having so many things in common, race, religion, laws, language, and constitution, all substantial alike, and yet kept apart by such purely artificial barriers. It was time, he thought, to see if there was no possibility of improving this state of things, and of bringing this sort of commercial war, for that was really the effect of two hostile tariffs, to an end. Sir Richard observed that he believed many public men as well as business men in the United States thought so, and that it would be to the mutual advantage of both countries.

RESOURCES OF CANADA.

Canada he said, had a vast area, almost as large as the United States, and able to sustain a population as large as the present population of the United States. There was very partially developed, but it contained immense stores of raw material. It offered a wide and profitable field for capital. It has vast broadtracks of fertile lands, lines of transit likely to be of great value to the United States. He went on to say that in any negotiation he was not only ready, but anxious, to see that the people of the United States got a full equivalent for what they gave; that for every dollar a Canadian made, a citizen of the United States should make another; for every privilege and concession they granted they should receive another in return. He desired no one-sided bargain, and for the best of all reasons, that unless the arrangement was mutually beneficial it could never be permanent, and a temporary arrangement would do Canada harm instead of good.

INCREASE OF TRADE.

Sir Richard then went on to point out that such a treaty as was proposed was for commercial purposes equal to creating an entire new tier of Northern States, and that even as it was Canadian trade with the United States per capita was larger than the trade with the United States with any other country. Canada, he said, stood forth in the list of the customers of the United States, and if one considered the export trade, the United States sold Canada about as much as they did the whole continent of South America, with Mexico thrown in. As to the possibilities of expansion that could best be judged from the fact that while the whole foreign trade of the United States, both export and import, was between fourteen and fifteen hundred millions their inter-State trade was computed to be ten thousand million. There was therefore fair reason to expect that if these meddling barriers were removed the trade with Canada might be trebled or quadrupled, and would certainly rank second only to that with England.

MISTAKES OF POLITICIANS.

The obstacles, Sir Richard said, were two fold. One lay in the existence of certain sinister interests. When the day arrived he nominced the project as only another name for annexation; the other with certain politicans at Washington, who denounced the project as certain to destroy all tendency to annexation. The latter paid but a poor compliment to the institutions of the United States by using this argument, which meant that the better the Canadians became acquainted with the United States the less likely they were to cast in their lot with them. One thing, however, was certain. To propose to the people of Canada to barter their allegiance for trade privileges was the very best way to enlist every sentiment of manliness and self-respect against such a proposal. The connection of Canada with Great Britain was purely voluntary. British statesmen were even ostentatious in offering to let her settle her own destiny. Nevertheless, though ever since the early part of the century every intelligent Canadian had known that union with the United States would have promoted the material advantages of Canada for three generations no political party had made annexation a plank nor had any public man of note advocated it. It might be a matter of sentiment, but he spoke to citizens of a nation which had shown itself willing to lavish blood and treasure as no other people had ever done where a question of national life was at stake. [No man could foresee the future, but he was sure that if union came it would be by authorities was brought about it must be by other considerations than the advantages of free trade, potent though it might be.

WHAT CANADA NEEDS.

Sir. Richard went on to point out that he desired to bring the people and public men of Canada and the United States into close contact, and that he was certain from his own experience as a Minister that nothing but good could come of it. He said that Canada needed direct representation at Washington, and power to make her own treaties, and closed by observing that the well-being and prosperity of the United States powerfully affected the prosperity of Canada, and because as a matter of fact, taking Canada all through there was scarcely a Canadian family in most portions of the Dominion which had not to-day a son or brother or near kinsman in the United States.

At the conclusion of Sir Richard's speech a spontaneous compliment was paid him by immediately electing him by a standing vote, amid great enthusiasm an honorary member of the board. This hearty action by an organization of leading merchants in the metropolis of trade was interpreted as significant of the growth of the cause of closer commercial relations between the two countries, which Sir Richard advocated most effectually on that occasion.

CANADIAN FAIR.

The Recent Meeting of Exhibitors at Ottawa—Election of Officers.

A. B. Mallory, secretary of the Bay of Quinte Agricultural society and J. M. Farley, vice president, attended the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Fairs held at Ottawa last week.

A committee consisting of Messrs J. M. Farley, C. R. Smith, Newman, McFarlane and Cook, was appointed to consider and report upon the question of the distribution of grants to the Provincial association.

The following officers were elected Mr. Mallory 1st vice-president, Mr. Wilson of Appleton, 2nd vice president. Mr. McFarlane, of Oxford, secretary and treasurer Messrs. Farley and Mallory express their thanks to Senator Read and H. Corby, M. P., for their kindness in showing them about the city.

MEETING OF DAIRYMEN.

Dairying and Like Pursuits Must Take the Place of Grain Growing.

The annual meeting of patrons of the Sprague creamery and cheese factory was held Saturday, Feb. 22nd., at 1 o'clock in the town hall, Robins Mills. The attendance of patrons and others was large and the meeting was quite lively.

P. V. Beech, Esq. presided as chairman and John W. Gibson, Esq., as Sec.

The auditor's report was presented to the meeting showing receipts of milk for season of 1889 to be 777,778 lbs., this showing a make of 50,974 lbs cheese, 16,164 lbs of butter and 4½ gals. cream, total receipts in cash $7,148.01, also a return to patrons of 194,614 lbs skimmed milk for feeding.

The chairman congratulated the patrons on the good results of the seasons operations, and announced to the meeting that the subject would be given relating to the dairy industry.

John Sprague was first called to address the meeting. He first remarked that the dairy industry has now become the most important factor of the farmer's income. He called the attention of his patrons to the need of great care of milk; cleanliness of all utensils; creating their milk and reminding them that the success of the factory depended on their sending in good clean and sweet milk. He spoke of the production of milk and advised the use of corn feed and the silo, and referred to the need of improvement in breed of cows, advising the introduction of the Jersey cattle into our native herds. WmAnderson followed, first remarking that in his opinion the time had gone by when we as farmers can compete in growing grain with the west and showed that it cost as much to grow one bushel of grain here as it cost to grow five bushels in Manitoba. With such competition as this with our partially exhausted soils and low prices, we, as farmers, cannot succeed unless we change our line of farming. Farmers should look these matters fair in the face and make use of means within their reach such as giving attention to the production of cheese, butter, pork, and beef.

W. J. Osborne followed with a few remarks agreeing with the preceding speakers that there must of necessity be some change in our farming operation and in his opinion farmers will have to give their attention to some other source of income than growing grain.

D. Benson, Esq. in response to a call from the chairman said this meeting had been of interest to him. He thought farmers should often meet and talk over matters of interest to themselves. He reviewed the past of this country, the era of growing wheat followed by the barley growing era and showed that we had taken from our soils properties required to grow those cereals remarking that the only profit now in growing barley went to the U.S. goverment in a duty revenue of ten cents a bushel. He closed by urging those present to turn their attention to other modes of farming than the one pursued in the past. The following officers were elected for the coming year, John Sprague, salesman and Treas; D. Benson and W. J. Osborne auditors.—COM.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

Mr. A. Robinson Would Like to Discuss the Question.

To the Editor of the ONTARIO.

Sir.—I see by our city papers that Mr. Hodson, pastor of Bridge street church, is considerably exercised over the matter of the destiny of the wicked; and it appears he teaches that the unrighteous shall be doomed by God to never ending misery or torment. Now, this is a very serious for controversy, I hereby invite Mr. Hodson to a friendly discussion of this subject with myself, through the press. I would take the negative of any proposition he nominced the project as only another name for annexation; the other with certain politicans at Washington, who denounced the project as certain to destroy all tendency to annexation. The latter paid but a poor compliment to the institutions of the United States by using this argument, which meant that the better the Canadians became acquainted with the United States the less likely they were to cast in their lot with them. One thing, however, was certain. To propose to the people of Canada to barter their allegiance for trade privileges was the very best way to enlist every sentiment of manliness and self-respect against such a proposal. The connection of Canada with Great Britain was purely voluntary. British statesmen were even ostentatious in offering to let her settle her own destiny. Nevertheless, though ever since the early part of the century every intelligent Canadian had known that union with the United States would have promoted the material advantages of Canada for three generations no political party had made annexation a plank nor had any public man of note advocated it. It might be a matter of sentiment, but he spoke to citizens of a nation which had shown itself willing to lavish blood and treasure as no other people had ever done where a question of national life was at stake. [No man could foresee the future, but he was sure that if union came it would be by authorities was brought about it must be by other considerations than the advantages of free trade, potent though it might be.

Respectfully,
A. ROBINSON.

Belleville Feb. 25th, 1890.

For restoring the color, thickening the growth, and beautifying the hair, and for preventing baldness, Halls Hair Renewer is unsurpassed.

100 PAIRS SCOTCH AND ENGLISH PANTINGS NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

$4.75

AT

A. N. RED & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

BANKRUPT SALE

Grant's Bankrupt Stock has been again marked down. Call in and note prices and be convinced that you can purchase

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

at prices never before offered in this city This great Reduction sale commences on

SATURDAY, FEB. 22'D

CLEARING SALE OF FURS,

AT PRICES MADE TO SUIT THE HARD TIMES

We are offering Great Bargains in the Following Goods:

Astrachan Mantles, Coon Coats, Corsican, Lamb & other coats Black and Grey Robes, Gloves and Mitts

Also a Large Stock of all kinds of Fur and Imitation Caps very Low Prices. Stock still very large and must be cleared out

COME - AND - GET - BARGAINS.

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries!

Direct from Switzerland

New Prints! New Sateens!

In New and Beautiful Designs

White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

Headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

30 Million Pounds

MENIER CHOCOLATE

DRANK AND EATEN EVERY YEAR.

WHY? BECAUSE of all CHOCOLATES It is the purest and best.

Paris Exposition, 1889 3 GRAND PRIZES, 3 GOLD MEDALS.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER.

—FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.—

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraulic Cements, Plaster Paris Salt, Charcoal and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL.

20TH YEAR — BELLEVILLE, ONT: WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY ~~26~~ 26 1890 — NO 48

In the High Court of Justice

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Sussaten vs Walker.

In pursuance of the judgment or order of reference made in this action and dated the 11th day of January 1890, there will be sold by public auction with the approbation of Samuel Shaw Lazier, Esquire, local master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at Belleville on

Thursday the 13th Day of March A. D 1890

at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon at the Chambers of the said Master in the City of Belleville, the following valuable foundry, premises, assets and effects belonging to the firm of J. M. Walker & Co., of the City of Belleville, viz:—

Parcel No. 1—Consisting of a portion of the island and the foundry premises and known as all and singular that certain parcel or track of land and situated, lying and being composed of all that part of lot No. 8 in the 1st Concession of Thurlow and of the Gore on the west side of Front street in the City of Belleville and better known as follows:—commencing at the south east angle of lot 1 as laid down on a plan of William Coleman's estate, then along the west side of Front street 53½ feet to a stone monument, then south 39 degrees west 87 2-3 et to a stone monument, then north 43 degrees 15 feet, then north 15 degrees 25 minutes west of a stone monument; then north 19½ degrees east 17 feet and 4 inches, to a line between 4 and 5 of Stevens block thence following the said line between 4 and 5-17 feet to the river Moira, thence northerly to the centre of the said river, thence southerly along the centre of the main channel as known on the said plan 17 chains more or less to a point in the southern point of the island, thence north 55 degrees east one chain and thirty links more or less to the eastern bank of the reservoir where it joins the main channel of said river, thence northerly along the eastern bank of the reservoir to the south western angle of said lot number one shown on said plan, thence easterly along the said line between lots numbers one and two as shown on said plan to Front street reserving a right of way as shown on said plan 20 feet wide from Front street to the said river and which plan is registered in the registry office of said county on the seventeenth day of February A. D. 1873 called a plan of William Coleman's estate less the parts thereof heretofore sold to James McIlquhan, Isabella Maria Murney and James Wallace; the part of the island now offered for sale being all that part north of that heretofore sold to James McIlquhan and being all of the island north of the southern boundry of the lane running from Front street to the island immediately north of the Albion Hotel.

Upon that part of this parcel known as the foundry premises is erected a substantial 3½ story stone foundry and machine shop about 66x40 with a stone moulding and blacksmith shop attached, about 60x30 one story now occupied by Messrs J. M. Walker & Co: also to the south of the main premises is erected a substantial wooden building about 30x30 used as a wood shop. The premises are situate about the centre of the city of Belleville upon the river Moira with one of the best dams and water privileges along the river.

These premises will be sold subject to mortgage of $6,000 to the Hamilton assurance and investment Society on which the interest is paid to the 1st January, 1890 and with them will be conveyed all the interest of the firm of J M Walker & Co, in the adjoining premises occupied by them under lease from Silas Celon and Byre estate, of which full particulars will be given on application on the premises or at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor

There will be sold with the foundry premises all the machinery, fixed and movable, necessary for the carrying on of the business which can be inspected on the premises, and of which a full inventory can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor, and on the foundry premises.

Parcel No 2—Manufactured and unmanufactured stock on said premises according to a survey which can be seen at the office of the plaintiff's solicitor and on the foundry premises. The value is about $6,000. The stock will be sold at a price on the dollar and subject to a checking of the inventory in case any of the stock has been manufactured or sold.

Parcel No 3—The tools in use in said business as per inventory which can be seen as above at about the value of $400, and which can be seen on the premises.

Parcel No 4—Book debts and accounts of the face value of about $8,000, and notes and judgments of about the face value of $7,500 to be sold per favorably to be seen as above at a price on the dollar. The said property will be sold subject to reserve bids fixed by the Master.

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. of the purchase money cash at the time of sale, the balance within thirty days of sale without interest. In all respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale at this court.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of W B Northrup, Esq, J P Wilkie, Esq., and J Parker Thomas, Esq, Belleville, and at the foundry premises.

S S LAZIER,
Master.

W B NORTHRUP
Plff's Solicitor.

Dated this 11th Day of February 1890.
13 15 19 22

FREE - TRADE

—BETWEEN—

CANADA & THE UNITED ST's

Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy

HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.

The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.

It will pay you to s

S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 6 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. REAPLE
Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the March 3rd, 1890, at the same our.

OPERA -- HOUSE

SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST

A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH

The Second Edition of

MR WM J GILMORE'S

Magnificent Spectacle

THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS

Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale

Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $35,000.

——Forming in its entirety——

The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display

Seen in this Country.

70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70

PRICES:

Parquette, $1; Orchestra Chairs 75c; Pit and Balcony 50c; Gallery 35c. Plan open Monday at Prof Rose.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the co-partner ship heretofore existing between John Weir and Edward Roe, as bakery men in the City of Belleville, has been this day dissolved by mutual consent.

The business will hereafter be carried on by Edward Roe, who will be pleased to have a continuance of the firms old patronage and will endeavour to please all who may favour him with business. All debts owing by the late firm, and all accounts due to them will be settled by them at their former place of business.

Dated this 24th day of February 1890.

Witness,
E. GUSS PRYOR } JOHN WEIR.
EDWARD ROE.
2d.

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS

A full Line of—

Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at

D. M. WATERS

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Roe, Brockway Center, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

Improvement

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggists.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained, induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND!

SIMPLE, LEGIBLE AND BRIEF. Students attain a speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Individual instruction. Satisfaction guaranteed. Terms low. For further information call at the late residence of Mr. Stephen O'Brien, corner Front and Moira sts.

DANIEL KETCHESON.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

SKIFF WANTED.

ABOUT 17 feet long must be good apply at this office.

EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.

THE Members of the all aces will please meet at 4:30 o. m. on Friday of this week in the Young Men's Hall Bridge St. East for the consideration of very important matters.

G. J. DINSMAN
1 t d Secretary.
Belleville 26 Feb. 1890.

WANTED.

BILL BOARDS or vacant places to erect the same for billing the Opera House. 33d Apply to
H. TAMMAGE
Manager.

EMPLOYMENT wanted by a young man of good business experience with good references competent to manage books. Good penman.

W. T. C.
Address Box 142.

THREE good men to sell for us, either on salary or commission. Address
Max Ex turers, Nurserymen,
Feb 13 6d Rochester, N. Y.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent Special inducement now; fact selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block up Stairs

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to
ADAM HENRY,
Front Street.
6t

SCOTT'S EMULSION

DOES CURE

CONSUMPTION

in its First Stages.

Palatable as Milk.

Be sure you get the genuine in Salmon color wrapper; sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

BUY SUGAR NOW

They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from

TEASING YOU

to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.

"We know whereof we speak"

Wolmsley & Spafford

Family Grocers.

Victoria Building.

SUN

Life Assurance Co. of Canada

Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.

Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.58
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurance in force $12,000,000.

James Little,
General Agent, Belle

DAIRYMEN,

OF

EASTERN ONTARIO,

While in the City try and make time to call upon

W-W CHOWN & CO

Front Street

We are the Largest dealers in this section in

Cheese Factory Goods.

and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,

W. W. CHOWN & CO.,

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester N. Y. Mention this paper.

Who Chews the Gum

Row & Co., of Brockville, are running large quantities of Tamarac gum and has placed some in the hands of the druggists and grocers in this city. It is good. Try it.
DICKENS & SON, Agents.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

A Batch of New Bills Introduced—The Liquor Question.

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—The biggest batch of bills presented any day this session was introduced at the Assembly yesterday, among them being one by Mr. Meredith respecting registry offices. The measure gives to county councils the power of appointing registrars and enables councils to pass bylaws for funding the fees of the office and for the payment of the registrar and clerks by salaries. It also provides that with regard to present incumbents the salary shall be fixed by the county council. The present incumbent will be entitled to retain his office if he so desires.

Mr. Harcourt introduced a bill to incorporate the Dunnville, Allercliffe & Southern Railway Company. The line to run from Dunnville through Moulton Township to Allarcliffe station on the Canada Southern Railway Company, thence through to Southville in Lincoln county.

Mr. Harcourt also introduced a bill respecting the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company, placing the capital at $1,200,000.

The Speaker presented to the House the report of the commission of judges appointed to report on the private bills to see that no injustice is done to private interests.

The Attorney-General then moved for the second reading of the bill for expediting the decision of constitutional and other provincial questions. The measure provides for the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to refer any constitutional question, particularly such as relate to the constitutionality of the provincial statutes, to the courts of Ontario. There is at present somewhat similar provision, but the difference is that under the present law an action is to be brought, which is disposed of with by the proposed legislation. Similar legislation exists in the Old Country for referring matters to the Privy Council and in the Dominion for reference to the Superior Court. The difference between this law and other laws is that an appeal here made to the Supreme Court. The bill then received its second reading.

The Provincial Treasurer also secured a second reading of his bill respecting the establishment of a House of refuge.

Mr. Drury also got a second reading of the bill to amend the act to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among horses and other animals.

Mr. Gibson of Hamilton then moved for the second reading of his bill to amend the Liquor License Act. In explaining its provisions Mr. Gibson stated that while the temperance organizations reflected public opinion they were also always in advance of public opinion.

In other sections, including that relating to the selling of liquor on vessels, were also fully explained.

The last section of the bill was the most important of all, conferring as it does upon municipal councils the power to prohibit the sale of liquor. This was nothing more or less than a restoration to these municipalities of the powers they once possessed. "We are not giving everything that has been asked but we are giving to the public a pretty large installment of the legislation that has been asked," said Mr. Gibson.

The abolition of bar-room drinking had not been granted because public opinion, it was believed, would not have warranted it. Nor had the prohibiting of the sale of liquor on public holidays been granted.

DOWN BY THE SEA.

An Involuntary Trip to England—A Big Hotel Scheme.

HALIFAX, Feb. 25.—The Allan liner Caspian from Liverpool brought 18 passengers who purchased tickets at Halifax on Jan. 26 for St. Johns, Newfoundland, by the Caspian. When off the coast of Newfoundland on the homeward trip the captain considered the floating ice and bad condition of the harbor too dangerous to make an attempt to land the St. Johns passengers, so they were carried to Liverpool where they lived for two weeks at the expense of the Allans.

American and local capitalists are negotiating for a block of land just south of Government House on which to erect a $300,000 hotel.

A servant girl named Charlotte Duff died from the effects of tight lacing which she practiced to conceal the fact that she was shortly to become a mother.

CAMPBELLFORD CHAT.

Completion of the Waterworks System—The March of Improvement.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25.—The completion of the waterworks system here was finalized to-day by a test, which was most satisfactory in every respect. Several large streams were thrown over the highest buildings, including the steeple of the Methodist Church.

The system of electric lighting, both arc and incandescent, for street and domestic purposes will be completed in about a fortnight.

The new public school will be opened next Monday, containing nine rooms and costing about $13,000. The architect was Mr. M. B. Aylesworth of Toronto.

Work on the Grand Trunk short line and new bridge is progressing rapidly.

THE P.E.I. SENSATION.

Mrs. Weeks in the Police Court Charged with Murder.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Feb. 25.—The case of Mrs. Weeks, charged with attempted murder by poisoning of Mrs. Sutherland, wife of the law partner of L. H. Davies, M.P., was begun in the police court this morning. Dr. Johnston, family physician of the Sutherlands, was the only witness. He testified to the illness of Mrs. Sutherland, his attendance upon her and the discovery of arsenic in her medicine.

The case will be continued to-morrow.

Washington Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—In the House a bill was passed authorizing the Secretary of State to appoint two suitable persons to represent the United States at the International Conference in reference to the protection of industrial property to be held at Madrid on April 1.

The House Committee on Claims has decided to report a bill providing for the payment of Court of Claims Spoliation Claims. It is estimated it will require an appropriation of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Losses Caused by Fire.

WARSAW, N.H., Feb. 25.—The works of the Merrimack Globe Hosiery were burned to-day. Loss $40,000.

The Candid Truth.

USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific for all throat and lung troubles.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Cream Tartar and English Soda house in the best hat can be made

PRINCETON'S MYSTERY.

THE NAME OF THE MURDERED MAN STILL UNKNOWN.

A Cigar Case Inscribed with the Name "F. C. Benwell" Found in the Vicinity of the Body—Means Taken to Prevent Identification.

PRINCETON, Feb. 25.—There is great excitement in this usually quiet and peaceful neighborhood. Since last Friday there has been but one topic of conversation—the mystery surrounding the antecedents and the untimely taking-off of the unknown man whose body, frozen stiff and with two ghastly bullet wounds in the head, was found on that morning by the brothers Elridge.

One clue after another which seemed likely to afford some trace to the identity of the murdered man has been followed, but in every case has only led to a dead wall of uncertainty and the mystery enveloping the tragedy deepens day by day.

THE UNKNOWN VICTIM.

The story developed at the inquest held by Coroner McLay was substantially as follows: Joseph and George Elridge were going to work about 11 o'clock Friday morning when they discovered the body of a man lying on a pile of saplings.

A more forlorn or dreary spot could hardly be selected for the execution of such a dastardly deed. It is a lone, swampy wood, surrounded by a rough-looking country, and the bleakness of the location is made the more weird by its wintry environment. The place is about 3½ miles west of Princeton and not more than 9 miles from Woodstock. It is on the Hersey farm. At this point there is a forest about three-quarters of a mile long. About one-third of this distance from the east end there had recently been some of the cedar trees burned on the right-hand side. It was here that the villain or villains alighted and disposed of the body, carrying it a distance of about 10 yards inward. Straight back from this spot there is a small lake, and it is supposed by some that it was the murderers' first intention to carry it through the woods to the lake, but finding the task both hazardous and dangerous relinquished the attempt. There is not a house within sight of the spot, the nearest being on the outskirts of the wood—that of Mr. John Rabb.

In the back of the head were two bullet wounds, by means of which death had evidently been produced. One of the ankles looked as if it was broken, but as the body was frozen stiff it was difficult to determine. The hat, a brown one, was found a short distance to the south of the body, the necktie between the body and the hat and the collar about the same distance from the body, but removed from the necktie.

The head showed undoubted traces of Indian blood. Leaving out the question of the dark color of the skin, which might be to some extent post mortem, the features were strikingly Indian. The forehead recedes considerably, the nose is Roman and rather prominent and the upper lip very thick and projecting. His eyes were of a greyish-blue tint and his hair black. He wore no beard and had evidently been recently shaved. His age is estimated at between 23 and 24 years. He was 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighed about 140 pounds. One feature that might furnish some clue was his teeth. The two front ones in the upper jaw had each a speck of gold-filling about the size of a large pin head almost directly in the centre.

Deceased was dressed in a small brown-checked ulster overcoat, checked tweed coat and vest, black pants with gray stripes, fine new and unworn shoes, brown felt hat, clean linen shirt, collar and pearl cuff buttons. His coat, vest and trousers were unbuttoned. He wore a white shirt, which still looked as if it were fresh from the laundry. His underclothing was of the finest French wool and from his shirt and undershirt and the top of his stockings a small piece had been very neatly cut, apparently by a pair of scissors and evidently for the purpose of removing the name of the wearer.

The pockets were empty save for a small quantity of tobacco, and the right-hand trousers' pocket was turned out. The body was lying on a pile of saplings and was about six inches above the ground, except one foot, which was resting on the ground. It might not, the doctors thought, have been there more than 24 hours; it could not have been there, according to the condition of the climate, longer than since the preceding Monday. A clot of blood hanging from the wound behind the ear would seem to indicate that death was comparatively recent. The position of the remains in the brush pile is taken as evidence that it was carefully placed there.

A pair of gold-rimmed eye-glasses, a cigar holder and a strong leather cigar case containing two cigars of apparently good quality were found in the vicinity. On the inside of the case was inscribed in clear and distinct letters the name:

F. C. BENWELL.

Besides the articles belonging to the deceased already enumerated an upper teeth plate made of solid gold and having three false teeth was worn by him, also a velvet collar button of solid gold and a gold breast stud. The clothes of deceased were entirely free from blood stains with the exception of a small spot on the neck of the waterproof ulster overcoat.

After the body had been thawed out and the clothing removed two yellowish-green bruises were found on the body, one about the size of a man's hand on the right groin and one about the size of a silver dollar on the pit of the stomach. These might have been caused in the removal of the body, by contact with the wagon or with the limb of a tree. They do not look as if they were caused by a kick.

In the back of the head were found two bullet wounds, one behind the left ear and one just above the nape of the neck joins the head. The position of the wounds are evidence that the man did not commit suicide. On the skull bone surrounding two holes were found flattened out. They were thirty-two calibre and had, from their course through the bone, been fired in an upward direction. The hair around the wound on the neck was burned, showing that the shot had been fired from a revolver not far from the head. A quantity of powder was found in the deep wound. There were no other marks, either birth marks or any other kind, on the body.

As has been already stated every precaution was taken to remove all marks of identification. Not even a scrap of paper was to be found on him. His cuff buttons also conveyed no clue to further any evidence to work upon. These were of mother of pearl inlaid in silver. Across the back was a small bar with a hole in the centre and a spring arrangement by means of which the shank was fastened in. Below this little bar was engraved the name "W. West." An examination showed that the name was evidently either stamped or engraved before the bar was put on for the top strokes of the "W" were covered by the bar. The conclusion to be drawn from this was that "W. West" was either the name of the maker or the name of the owner of the buttons. A reporter consulted a local jeweler and ascertained that "W. West" is the name of the patentee of a kind of cuff button corresponding to the one described, so that that clue may be considered disposed of.

The more the mystery is looked into the more mysterious it becomes. The unfortunate man was evidently the victim of an ingenious and deep-laid plot. The theory generally accepted here is that the body was brought from some distance—from certain circumstances it is supposed to have come from the east. The spot in which it was found is the most lonely in the township. The swamp is seldom visited, and had it not been for the fact that the Elridge brothers wanted a tamarac pole they would never have found the remains of the murdered man might have lain undiscovered for many a day.

The probabilities are that the body was brought in a vehicle of some kind to a point on the road nearly opposite the spot where it was discovered. The foot marks from the road to the spot are at an angle with the road, as if the sleighs had stopped too soon. These tracks appear to have been made by some foot-wear with a flat sole, such as moccasins or worn overshoes or rubbers. From the bed of saplings to the road the footmarks indicate that the man after depositing his ghastly burden had been careful to leave as little and as unreliable a record of his course as possible. The steps were taken in a straight line as they were at all regular. He appears to have jumped from hillock to hillock, stepping in the snow only where it was absolutely necessary for him to do so.

Undertaker Swartz is positive that he saw the deceased, or a man closely resembling him, at Drumbo on nomination day (in December last) in company with an Indian and singing Indian war songs.

Four seedy-looking wretches were noticed here a few days ago and suspicion points strongly to them.

The police are very reticent in regard to parties that may be suspected of the murder. However, the following particulars have been gleaned in reference to two suspicious persons who were in the vicinity about the time the murder is supposed to have been committed—that is, since Wednesday night. It appears that two men, one of whom was a resident of Woodstock, hired a rig from a liveryman in that town on Wednesday night to drive to Princeton, stating that they would return by 4 o'clock next morning, as they wished to catch the early train for Sarnia. One returned late in the afternoon of Thursday the worse of liquor. Late on Thursday night two men called at Mr. Kipp's house in Burford and enquired the way to Princeton, Gobles and Drumbo and received the desired information. Shortly after they had passed at the door of Mr. Lancaster, two miles west of Princeton, and entered into a long conversation with him, the nature of which it is thought better to withhold. They enquired, however, about the same places as before. They next turned up at Mr. Adam Oliver's, two miles north of Woodstock, and enquired the way to Princeton. On being shown they immediately crossed the road to Mr. Young's place and again asked the same question. They yet another time enquired at a house on the 4th concession between there and Drumbo. These men are said to have acted as if under the influence of liquor—at least they in some of these cases pretended to be drunk.

On Thursday afternoon and on Friday two rather well-dressed young men, still having the seedy appearance of tramps, were seen hanging around Woodstock. They went to the Duke House and tried to make it appear that they were strangers to each other. They conducted themselves in a very free manner and made a considerable display of money, one of them volunteering to change a $10 bill for a farmer, while the other at another time entered the bar and asked for the change of a "tenner." One of these men also took three long drinks of whiskey in rapid succession. About 2½ they went to the railway station together and asked to be accommodated with commercial travelers' tickets as far as Dundas. As they could not produce travelers' certificates Mr. Larmour, the station agent, refused to sell them tickets at any away. Ultimately they returned as the train was about to start, and one of them purchased an ordinary ticket to Dundas, the other boarded the train from the north side without a ticket.

Nothing new has been learned as to the exact place and time of the murder; but there is little doubt that it was committed at no great distance from Princeton, but the fact that the murdered man is a stranger would imply that he had been brought from a distance. The probability is that there is more behind the murder than mere robbery. The fact that the body was found in one of the most inaccessible spots in Blenheim township with some of the pockets of the clothing turned inside out would certainly indicate robbery, but the fact that the strips of shirts, underclothing and stockings of deceased were removed, and that every attempt was made to defy identification, would suggest not only robbery but something else. Many circumstances point to the remains being that of a young Englishman newly arrived.

Every article worn by the deceased, even to the sleeve links and stockings, were of English make—the buttons and brass bearing the names of English firms.

Do Not be Deceived.

Alli Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 25 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for Six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—18 per week.
THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE a publisher every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.
ADVERTISEMENTS in the DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.
ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY CHRONICLE, 10 cent per line each insertion.
READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is $1.
CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.
Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of,
THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The uselessness of the Canadian senate has been frequently discussed and anyone who has a lingering hope that that body is a benefit to the country may have it dispelled by examining the records of their sessions. So far the most of the time is taken up in discussing the feasibility of adjournment. Still if the public should judge them by the quantity of supplies they consume the impression would be left that they are a hard working lot. The Montreal Star says there are seventy-eight senators and last year they spent $12,412 for stationery or an average of over $159 each. The reason must have been an important question as it took 99 thermometers to keep the old gentlemen posted. Some of them appear to have required two of these instruments, probably to gauge the temperature of the space between the wind and their nobility. Twelve of them were supplied with tourists' cases—why not all of them? It took 432 gold pencils to go round about five and a half dozen each on an average. Of pocket knives they required 372, and so on through the list down to razor strops and pieces of ribbon. We do not imagine that these articles were divided among senators like so much plunder. Officials and others may have assisted in the boodling, but it looks bad as should be stopped.

The American house of representatives have voted the World's fair of 1892, to Chicago. New York made a stubborn fight but the western men were victorious and are highly elated with their success. Canadians will be pleased with the vote as the travel over the continent will take many tourists through this country. The excellent railway accomodations of this country will no doubt be fully represented across the ocean and Canada will come in for her share of the benefits to be derived from having the great show held inland.

A number of farmers of Ameliasburg, Ill successful men, had a short discussion at the annual meeting of the Sprague Creamery Company on Saturday last. The uppermost thought in their remarks was that farmers of this section must change their mode of labor if they would succeed in life. The Western states and Manitoba can raise grain so cheaply that there is no money in it for the Ontario farmers and the men who are succeeding best today are those who are turning their attention to dairying and stock raising.

The Intelligencer argues that because Mr. Coulter was defeated in Haldimand Mr. Vermilyea is bound to meet a similar fate in East Hastings. This may be a conclusive and satisfactory argument to that doughty journal, but it does not strike the public that way. The electors of the East Riding have had enough of Sgt-re head representation and will not be apt to reject a man of ability who has proven himself possessed of capacity to manage their affairs. Mr. Vermilyea will redeem the riding and Mr. Hudson and his supporters know that the game is up with them.

Recently the Catholic Orphan Asylum of New York city took fire and although there were 400 children in the building at the time the alarm was given all were in the open air uninjured in less than two minutes after the warning. This happy result was attained through the children having daily what is called "fire drill" which is practised in all schools in American cities. The pupils are divided into squads and are drilled to rise with alacrity at a given signal and under squad captains march out systematically. There is no telling where the next school house to burn may be located and it certainly would do no harm for the management of the Central school to give the question some consideration.

Nature Has Provided

A remedy for every ache and pain and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wrenching the secrets of her domain. A new and wonderful discovery has recently been made by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain. Nerviline, or nerve pain cure, represents in very concentrated form the most potent pain relieving substitutes known to medical science, and strange to say it is composed of substitutes solely vegetable in origin. Polson's Nerviline is the most prompt, certain and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Sold in 10 and 25 cent bottles by all dealers in medicines.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Easy on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. "Lane's Specific Remedy is a invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL, QUE Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctors bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession and a cure will be effected.

THE POSSIBLE UTOPIA.

HOW TO REACH THE IDEAL STATE ABOUT WHICH WE DREAM.

Human Nature Is Rich in Resources, and Needs Only to Be Cultivated Properly and Lifted Up—The Forces of Religion, Philanthropy and Culture.

Apropos of the current discussion respecting a Utopian state of society and the way to reach it, we wonder whether any one has thought of calculating the results which would rapidly follow if every individual would honestly try to do the best he knows how to do in the sphere in which he is placed. Human nature is exceedingly rich in resources, and its vast powers have never yet been half utilized. Every one is conscious of being able to do a great deal better than he ever does. Most of us choose our tasks unwisely, we waste time, we loiter and we dawdle, we do but imperfectly what we might do in such a way that it would bring us credit and advancement. Then there is the large number of people at the top of society who are beyond the necessity of labor, and who only amuse themselves in life, and the larger number at the bottom of society who are too indolent or too vicious to do any useful thing. It is evident that if every individual would find some useful occupation, such as he is naturally fitted to succeed in, and would perform all its duties to the best of his powers, society without going aside from its present lines of development would rapidly approach that perfect state, of the ultimate coming of which Isaiah prophesied and Plato dreamed.

In the first place, we should instantly get rid of our police forces and standing armies, all prisons, most asylums, the larger part of our law courts and all those forces and institutions which are occupied with certain classes in order and in settling the disputes of others. Most of the non-producing professional men, the lawyers, the doctors and the judges, would lose their employment and could go about some better business in the world, which would have few disputes to settle and less and less diseases to heal as time goes by. The great array of idlers would be at work, either increasing production or shortening the hours of labor of those who are now industrious. The poor, except in the comparatively few cases of accident or misfortune, would have enough and to spare through the practice of the virtues of industry and economy. There would be no idle women and no lazy men living a useless life upon the interest of inherited money, for each would find some nobler task, either of self culture or in the unpaid service of the arts or the sciences. Business, exempt from its present losses through dishonesty and fraud, would be carried on with a freedom and profit now impossible; every manufactured article would be better made and every purchase would be cheaper, the public gaining immensely thereby.

A thousand conveniences would be possible in a society in which every member was industrious and the most were well to do, even Mr. Bellamy's fanciful picture of social prosperity and happiness being surpassed. The intellectual life of mankind would be wondrously quickened. The sciences would reveal a thousand yet undreamed of truths, invention would adapt the laws of nature to the use of man in directions yet undiscovered, what sermons we might hear in the churches from clergymen now using only half their power, and then free from the necessity of spending so much time in extortation to do the things we so well know ought to be done! What books might be written by authors who now trifle with their powers! What editorials we might read in every morning's paper, the result of accurate knowledge and perfect style, acquired by years of patient toil! Amusements, too, would be a thousand times more delightful as man discovered the resources of his intellectual and moral being, and learned to find his recreation in using the higher gifts of his nature instead of the lower.

In order to the realization of an ideal state of society like this it is not necessary that any new direction be given to human progress. All the panaceas that have been reported to date, the nationalization of land, or the various phases of socialism, are deficient in the same fatal respects. They take no account of human nature. The defects in the existing state of things lie not in society but in individuals. They exist in men who make no wise or good use of powers and opportunities which they now possess, and would undoubtedly act in the same way amid other conditions. Ideal surrounding would be of little use to men who have the disposition to be idle, or intemperate, or vicious, or to prey upon their fellows. No reform in institutions can ever remove the consequences of these vices. It is the vast number of parasites, that prey upon the social body and sap its vital forces, that retards human progress and prevents it from reaching the ideal of which it is capable and which has been in the minds of its poets and philosophers since the world began. Without saying that present conditions are all that they should be, it is perfectly evident that any one of sound health, using his forces and opportunities at their best, whatever his sphere in life, may find happiness enough and a sufficient degree of wealth. What humanity needs is, not to listen to the fanciful teachings of idealists, but some inspiration which will lead its individuals to use their present resources.

It is this inspiration which the combined forces of religion philanthropy and culture are seeking to impart. Varied in their lines of effort, they are all working to this end. The time has been when religion was too much occupied with the concerns of another life; but it is being more clearly recognized that, as Epictetus said, the concern how to live wisely in this world is the great and master thing; that, indeed, any other possible life is dependent upon the kind of life that is lived here. Clear now in its perception of this fact, the best religious influences of our time are uniting with those of philosophy and culture in teaching men and women how to use this life to the best advantage. Whatever hopes of progress society has lie in the success of these efforts. Their sphere of labor lies mainly among those who are not now industrious, sober, economical of their resources, or virtuous in life. Whoever among these classes is saved from vice or idleness is so much dead weight lifted from the wheels of progress, and adds an equal strength to the power which impels them onward.—Providence Journal.

The Equality of Death.

Death comes equally to us all, and makes us all equal when he comes. The ashes of an oak in the chimney are no epitaph of that, to tell me how high, or how large, that was; it tells me not what flocks it sheltered while it stood, not what men it hurt when it fell. The ashes of that person' grave is speechless, too; it says nothing, it distinguishes nothing. As soon the dust of a wretch whom thou wouldst not, as of a prince whom thou couldst not look upon, will trouble thine eyes if the wind blow it thither; and when a whirlwind hath blown the dust of the churchyard into the church, and the man sweeps out the dust of the church into the churchyard, who will undertake to sift those again, and to pronounce, "This is the patrician, this is the noble flower, and this the plebeian bran?"—John Donne.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL CO., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal is phenomial sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it sacred authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

"The Old Oaken Bucket,
The Iron-bound Bucket,
The Moss-covered Bucket," is very likely the one that has conveyed poisons to your system from some old well, whose waters have become contaminated from sewers, vaults, or percolations from the soil. To eradicate these poisons from the system and save yourself a spell of malarial, typhoid or bilious fever, and to keep the liver, kidneys and lungs in a healthy and vigorous condition, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It arouses all the excretory organs into activity, thereby cleansing and purifying the system, freeing it from all manner of blood-poisons, no matter from what cause they have arisen. All diseases originating from a torpid or deranged liver or from impure blood, yield to its wonderful curative properties. It regulates the stomach and bowels, promotes the appetite and digestion, and cures Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," and Chronic Diarrhœa. Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands and Tumors disappear under its use.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the only blood and liver medicine, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of its being satisfactory or curing in every case, or money paid for it will be promptly returned.

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DISP. MED. ASS'N.

CATARRH,
CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It severs fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately stops the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, and is the cause of that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, render ing the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces nature quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind.

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the seat of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but deputates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it exercises no violent purgative with pain, like drastic cathartics. It aids but never voices, Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes these diseased humour which most vitiate the blood, corrects the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scientific medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents Ask fos Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

Amberst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

Consumption can be Cured

By proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specifies in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Peditoodia, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

THE WESTERN
Assurance Company.
FIRE AND MARINE INS.
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.,
FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.
Accident Insurance Co'y of North America.
Forth Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.
WM. SMEATON
Late Pope and Fenwick

ARE YOU
ONE OF THEM?
In 1890

The Home Seeker takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.
The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Helena Hot Springs and Broadwater Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.
The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.
The Traveller takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone who will receive maps, too and rates on the region reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. St Paul, Minn.

WANTED
SPECIAL AGENTS
TO WORK
Life & Accident
INSURANCE.
In the County of Hastings; apply to
S BURROWS

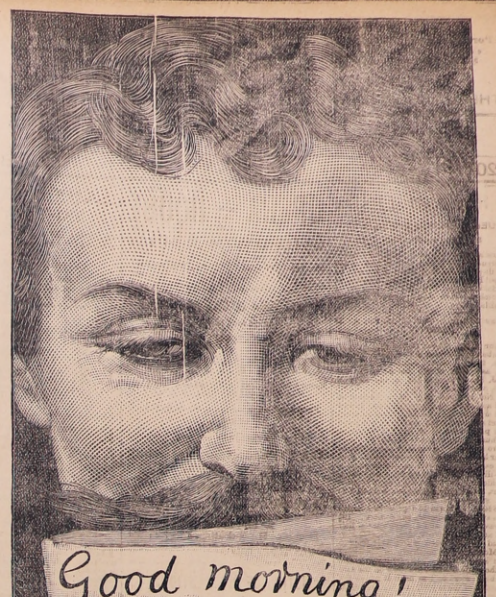
ATTENTION.
SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.
Lot 34 in 2nd Concession of Sidney, 220 acres, three miles from Belleville, best of soil, 90 acres now land, wood, etc.
100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville, when the bridge is built. Spencer farm. Apply
Feb 8 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL

BOOK BINDING
TAMMADGE

WE
Can't state with confidence that we are the Expensive, Highly Perfume
TOILET SOAPS
There is none to equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread, except Sundays.
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville, Telephone 137.

THE
GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE
With Pat't Duplex Grate
Has no equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH
Oval round or Square Fire Pot
FITTED WITH
Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Grate or any other kind of Grate.
FOSTER & FOSTER



CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES
Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the
—HOLIDAY SEASON—
is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS.
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILY FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
AND
Chocolate Creams
Small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated Boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
Excelsior
Macaroons, Toy Crackcells, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coconut SugarWafers
Assorted Biscuits—Bendoir biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade)
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES &c.
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS,
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
PHILLIP'S BEST MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc., etc.
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street opp Bitchie's

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT,
78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT
THE PILLS
Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the
LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS.
They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions.
In all Female Complaints are invaluable.
For Children and the aged they are priceless.
THE OINTMENT
For Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism.
For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, and all Skin Disorders it has no equal.
For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all stiff Contractions and all Diseases it has no rival; and for contracted and stiff joints it acts like a charm.
To Manufacturers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots.
If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR.
JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF
THE
GREAT STRENGTH GIVER
IT SUPPLIES
Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.
Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Banannas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!
Just in to-day at
CONGER BROS.

There is hardly any other disease which undermines the health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or
RUPTURE
It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.
In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.
SUFFERER, BE WISE
RUPTURE OR DEFORMITY
can only be treated by
Mechanical Treatment
After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 0 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.
Chas Cluthe, Surgical Machinest, 134 King West, To
Will visit professionally, Belleville Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Eczema Head all gone. Still covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say too much in praise of the Cuticura Remedies. My boy when one year ago was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with a crust which the doctor said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Discovering a cure from physicians I began the use of the Cuticura Remedies, and I can say truthfully, with the most perfect success, that his hair is now in full and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the Cuticura Remedies to my mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and believe that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my patients who has been cured by using the Cuticura Remedies, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—expended a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H. H. Gates, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price: Cuticura, 75c. Soap, 35; Resolvent, $1.50. Prepared by the Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserve by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

HACYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. A safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LIVER & KIDNEY CURE

T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled 'ard years with liver complaint and wi kidney, and was advised by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, a they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottles of Liver Cure and am now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CURE FITS, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send for stamps for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompt, honorable dealing, and the very best goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist & Mfr., 134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

"THEY ARE MILD THOROUGH AND EFFICIENT."

"I FIND BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS A VALUABLE AID TO BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS IN THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES."

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

HASTINGS

LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY, BELLEVILLE, ONT.

CAPITAL - - - - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates.

Payment can be made to full due at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Four per cent interest allowed on deposits. No notice required of withdrawal.

Office—Robertson Block, east Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent. No fines. No commission.

J. T. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

"The -:- Judge."

As the actress has another year on his hands, but Dunsmore had not known what was to befall him. No sooner had he met Margaret than his heart, his mind, his energy, were in danger of becoming the slaved. A depression such as he had never experienced in all his happy-go-lucky life weighed upon him. He was convinced that Margaret and Harry were betrothed, and he felt sure that Harry was innocent, but there was circumstantial evidence of his guilt that would convict him, unless he or some one else struck the scent of the guilty man. The fact that the clearing of Harry would lessen Pond's chances with Margaret did not, however, have the slightest effect on Pond's determination. Men are already well on the road to villainy when they can consider the details of personal treachery. Pond had too much self-respect to entertain for a moment an idea that he would have been ashamed to put into words. Besides, there was his ambition tugging the other way. If he discovered the murderer of Henry Leiter his fortune was made, for Melton R. Steele, of the Daily Chronicle, never forgot a piece of brilliant work or allowed it to go unrewarded.

Pond bravely essayed, therefore, to put Margaret out of his mind, both sleeping and waking, and, though he did not succeed in this, he managed at least to keep his ambition uppermost and his love well under, in spite of the torment at his heart, which seemed to be weighed down with something almost palpable—or at least, so he would have sworn if he permitted himself to talk about it or even to soliloquize, after the manner of heroes in plays.

One of the first things he did was to visit McCook. But though the attorney knew the value of being courteous to the people of the press, he would say nothing. Pond was quick to perceive a certain rancor in his manner of speaking about the murder, and he would not pry into it until he had found what prompted it. He was averse to dragging Miss Barthwait's name into the conversation, but the professional instinct was strong and everything else gave way before it.

"Young Mr. Leiter is an old friend of yours, I think, Mr. McCook" he ventured. McCook rubbed his hands over his smooth, fat chin and reflected. His eyes narrowed like a cat's in a bright room. All of a sudden Pond took an intense dislike to him.

"We have known each other since boyhood," he said at length.

"You consider the evidence strong against him?"

"I decline to say, sir. My professional duty will not permit me to pass any judgment upon the case of a man whom I shall in all probability have to try for the state."

"It is a very difficult position," went on Dennis, with an affectation of sympathy. "One must naturally shrink from trying a friend. Such a case is surely rare. Of course we have all read of stern fathers who have preserved the law at the price of their son's lives, and all that. But it is not very often that one good fellow has to turn his back on a friend and make a conscientious effort to send him to the penitentiary."

"A man in my position has no business with any friends."

"Do you mean to say that a man may well expect to turn to enthusiasm? Such cynicism goes a little too far, Mr. McCook. It shows you are an amateur at scoffing. I dare say you are also well acquainted with Miss Barthwait, that lovely girl I saw at the inquest?" Pond fired this question out explosively. His heart beat so for a minute with dread at McCook's reply and disgust at his own impertinence, that he lit a cigar to hide his confusion.

"Certainly," said McCook severely, "and if there is any one thing that can add to the deep damnation of the old gentleman's taking off, it is the fact that Miss Barthwait should be associated with it in any way." There was a pallor about his nostrils as he spoke, but his lips did not quiver, for he, too, lit a cigar. The weed is a great resource to men.

"I fancy," said Pond, in a tone of perfect indifference, "that she has a particular interest in young Mr. Leiter."

"A man in my position has no business with any friends."

"Do you mean to say that a man may well expect to turn to enthusiasm? Such cynicism goes a little too far, Mr. McCook. It shows you are an amateur at scoffing. I dare say you are also well acquainted with Miss Barthwait, that lovely girl I saw at the inquest?" Pond fired this question out explosively. His heart beat so for a minute with dread at McCook's reply and disgust at his own impertinence, that he lit a cigar to hide his confusion.

"Certainly," said McCook severely, "and if there is any one thing that can add to the deep damnation of the old gentleman's taking off, it is the fact that Miss Barthwait should be associated with it in any way." There was a pallor about his nostrils as he spoke, but his lips did not quiver, for he, too, lit a cigar. The weed is a great resource to men.

"I fancy," said Pond, in a tone of perfect indifference, "that she has a particular interest in young Mr. Leiter."

His cigar had gone out, and it apparently took all his attention to relight it.

McCook looked at him suspiciously, but could make nothing of him. He concluded that the reporter was merely impertinent.

"If Miss Barthwait is so unfortunate as to have any connection with that gentleman, she doubtless will end it," he said, indiscreetly. Pond had got what he wanted. He learned that McCook disliked Leiter, and that he loved Margaret. The man's voice, his expression, told him all that his words did not convey.

"From all I have seen, Mr. McCook, I gather that you have suspected Leiter of the crime from the first."

"I have told you distinctly, sir, that I would say nothing on the subject."

"It isn't possible, is it," said the inquisitorial Pond, "that you and Leiter are rivals."

"Mr. Pond," cried the attorney; "I desire to end this interview. You are asking questions that you have no right to ask, sir."

"See here, Mr. McCook, you will try this case before the court. I must try it by myself. Straws show which way the wind blows. I am looking for straws."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that you must feel as I do that it is not in the nature of things for young Leiter to have committed that murder. What I want to find out is why you insist on talking as if you believed he did."

"I have not insisted on talking so. On the contrary, I have refused to talk." Pond rose and buttoned his coat with smiling nonchalance.

"I am much obliged to you, Mr. McCook, for the aid you have given me.

"Well, I should be sorry to know what infernal nonsense you intend to dish up for the public. If you bring Miss Barthwait's name in this, it will be worse for you."

"My dear fellow," said Pond slowly and with an infantile smile, "I may look like a cad, but I am not one. Good afternoon."

He got a cutting reply. The next thing he did was to call on Harry Leiter. He had always liked Leiter. They knew each other, being as they were fellow bohemians. They were apt to meet at midnight in search of clams after a day's work. Harry did a deal of desultory work for the Chronicle also, being an especially happy paragrapher. Indeed, he was as full of quips and gibes as a jester of the merry old courts. He was welcomed in the rollicking life of the bohemian hodge-podge with the same good-humored ease that he met in fashionable society, and was himself happy everywhere. It was even hinted that he knew more of social affairs than lay far below this smooth and verdant crust. And he himself owned that he liked humanity wherever he found it. His careless and gay stride made him a remarkable figure on the street, where he walked among careworn men with the glad heartiness of a triumphant Adonis, born to eternal youth. Pond could hardly believe that the figure with wild eyes and ghastly face that he saw behind the bars was his old friend. Harry looked up at him dully, but did not take the hand that Pond pushed through the bars.

"For God's sake, old man!" said Pond in a hurried whisper, "don't look so. It will all come out right. Your friends will stand by you."

Harry laughed a miserable, mocking laugh that had a sound of madness in it.

"I wish to heaven," Pond went on, "that you could give me a hint of what to do. My time is my own. I will devote myself to your service. Come, I am not a greenhorn, as you know. Give me a pointer and I swear the thing will be straightened out."

Harry left his cot and came to the bars.

"My boy," he said, "what I say now is to my friend and not to the professional man.

"Great God, Leiter, you don't think I would give you away, I swear."

"Well, then, I think I would rather it straightened out. I had sooner die than not!"

Pond stared blankly at him a moment. Then he took an opposite tack.

"You look horribly like a guilty man, Leiter," he said distinctly and coldly. "Are you one? Did you murder your uncle?"

The dejection and the fatal dullness vanished from Harry's face. Harry drew himself up with the old familiar hauteur. His eyes flashed, his hands involuntarily clinched.

"So you take me for a cowardly villian, do you?" he began, but Pond cut him short.

"That is what every one will call you if you do not help me to prove your innocence. Now, what are you going to do about it? There is something more the matter with you than grief for your uncle. What is it? I swear if you tell me it will never betray your secret. Where were you that night, Leiter?"

"I cannot tell," cried Harry, stretching out his hands with a gesture of despair.

"Do you mean that you don't know? Were you drugged—or drunk?"

"Neither. Old man, it is not my secret."

"There's a woman in the secret, of course," ventured Pond. A swift wave of color swept over Harry's face.

"Well, then, I must say, Leiter, I thought you kept free from affairs of that sort."

"It was no affair. The woman is not in the secret, if there is such a secret. I did not speak to a woman that night, nor was I near one. It's no use, Pond. I thank you, but the thing is too tight."

"Well, if you want to die without standing to your guns or making a decent defence it can't be helped. But you mustn't blacken me or any of the rest of your friends for thinking such a course cowardly."

"It's anything but that," cried Harry, firing up again. "If I could clear myself, do you not suppose I would?"

"Then you are making a sacrifice of yourself for some one else. You are a darned fool. If I were you and had a magnificent girl like Miss Barthwait working for me, you had better believe I would not give up."

"It is nothing you can understand," said Harry, coldly, turning away to pace the cell. Pond noticed the altered demeanor in a moment, and determined to probe a little deeper.

"I have had a talk with Miss Barthwait," he said, "she is determined to work for you. I never saw such a plucky and enthusiastic woman. You are a lucky dog in some respects, I, iter." But he received no answer. He peered through the bars to catch a glimpse of Harry's face. It had grown much paler, and every muscle stood as if he were placing a terrible restraint upon himself.

"He is suffering on her account," said Pond to himself. "It is evident that he loves her, and yet he does not care to live, or even to be cleared of the suspicion of this crime. Then his suit must be absolutely hopeless. I'll try another brutal experiment."

"I hear Miss Barthwait is engaged to be married to McCook," he said aloud with a gossiping air.

"It's a lie!" cried Harry. Then he stopped suddenly. He drooped his head, his face purpled with pain and mortification. "How should I know? I dare say she is after all. What do I care?"

"Nothing, of course. Here, I'll leave this case of cigars for you. Are they dark enough to suit you? She's sweet girl, that's all. Good-bye, old man. If I can do anything for you, let me know." He went back to his room and spent the rest of the day jotting down every remark he had heard spoken that day.

"By the light of future events," he reflected, "the least of these chance speeches may give me the clue." For the life of him he could not eat, and he stayed in his room all day long.

It was then too late to get anything at his boarding house, and as he was beginning to feel the pangs of hunger, he determined to go down town to a restaurant. He walked moodily down North Clark street. Great masses of snow were falling and the atmosphere was heavy. The tinkle of the car bells hardly reached his ear, so muffled was the sound of the dull air. The voices of men as they passed him had a far-away sound that was almost grotesque, and their figures seemed to loom up to gigantic height in the uncanny gloaming.

Tennyson's hero in "The Princess" was subject to what the poet vaguely designated "recent seizures." Pond was the victim of a "weird seizure" this evening. Everything about him seemed as unsubstantial as the semblance of a dream. Those airy loads of snow, the silent figures moving by, the yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerveline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it could not be obtained for a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerveline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in one hour, takes the sharp shooting pains lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's Nerve pain cure Nerveline.

To lessen mortality and stop the season of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. For all diseases arising from impure blood, such as Pimples, Biliousness, Boils, Tumors, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elmira, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."

14 000 000 in One Day.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and all the evils of this troublesome disease are prevented by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. Within their all-powerful power is shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents. Five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

Is truly a wonderful mechanical instruction which wins the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations of Pretenders, and the strongest testimonials of those who expose to robbing under the guise of a system, all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and priority of his teaching. Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized today in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of the Press, of Royalty, of the public who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, but afterwards that any book can be memorized in a single reading, without Rules, Rules, Rules, Practice, Practice, Terms, Circulars, Testimonials, Prospectus, free. Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

Don't Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

Nerve Pain Cures.

Polson's Nerveline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerveline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerveline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerveline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nerveline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerveline is the best remedy in the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerveline.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and when it is properly taken, it is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Piles! Itching Piles

Symptoms—Moistures, intense Itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. Blood and flesh seems to form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Wayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Dyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

Death Dealing Drugs

Such as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. The Dandelion Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To relax the fibres to life and energy of the roots is a simple matter. If taken in time Dr. Dorenwende Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature's simplest laws. Stimulant to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to make very. Dr. Dorenwende's Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature's simplest laws. Stimulant to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to make

A Cure for Deafness.

There have been many remarkable cure of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, and is useful internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST

CONTAINING NO Alum, Ammonia, Phosphates, OR ANY OTHER ADULTERANT.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. CHICAGO ILL.

THE CELEBRATED EAGLE BRAND YEAST CAKES.

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N

This company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the usual exceptions, and farm property; take no commercial or manufactured risks, and are therefore not subject to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty-two years, they can point to a more or less successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Last year they issued 50,000 policies, per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000. Capital, $600,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of $100,000. Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F. M. CLARK, District agent, Coleville P.O.

W. HARVEY agent, Vanhorn P.O.

J. Martin agent Stirling.

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th from Halifax, Sat March, 1st. Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th. Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26 h.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock,

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, Thursday, Feb. 19th. Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool—Cabin $50 $60 $65, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal salons forward.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown, Glasgow or Belfast.

"The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of Cabin Passengers."

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

"Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where but little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or T. C. LAZIER Agent Belleville.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write us for terms, which are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

References.—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY NURSERYMEN, COLBORNE ONTARIO.

FOR MEN ONLY!

POSITIVE For Lost or Failing Manhood, Nervous Debility, Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Abuse or Excess, Sexual Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, Wasting Diseases, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Blotches on the Face, Premature Decay, Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Seminal Emissions, Spermatorrhoea, Impotency, Syphilis, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Piles, Kidney and Urinary Complaints, Consumption, Insanity, Premature Old Age, Etc. Full strength, development and tone given to every part and function of the body. Sent sealed, 50 cents per box, 6 boxes for $2.50. Address, Medical Institute, 24 Tonge St. Toronto, Ont.

CITY STEAM BAKERY

JAS. WALLACE.

Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Ask for his Jubilee Cough Drops best made. Excellent for Public Speakers. TRY THEM.

Loss of Manhood

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon, 300 pages, 8vo, 125 prescriptions for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Gold and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P. O. Box 1895, Boston, Mass. Dr. W. H. PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 25 years' practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men. Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

WANTED.

GOOD, reliable men can find permanent employment. Good wages paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods warranted first-class. Write at once for terms.

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont., Gen. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

GUARDIAN

Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England.

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Sterling
Cash & Securities $10,000,000
Invested Funds 20,210,000

Fire Risks Accepted at Current Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office—Roberts Block, East Front St.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt, Late Thos Donnelly.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY

—AT—

THE - CRYSTAL - HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS, HANGING LAMPS, SILVERWARE, CUTLERY, DINNER & TEA SETS, FANCY TEA SETS, TOILET SETS, PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc. for accompaniment.

W. J. REID & CO

Benj. Birch. Manager

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS

Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is

HALMA,

A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly"

J. C. OVERELL'S

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH, VITALITY!

How Lost! How Regained,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

A Scientific and Standard Popular Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES

Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxation, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskilled pretenders. Possess this great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King

For sale only at

R. TEMPLETON

HACYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

CURES COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS ETC.

OYSTERS!

ARRIVING DAILY

—AT—

DICKENS & SON

Dr LOW'S WORM SYRUP

DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEETAS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

AN XTENISVE

—ASSORTMENT OF—

FANCY BALL PROGRAMS

Just opened out at the

"ONTARIO" OFFICE

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

FIRE INSURANCE

The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital $15,000,000.00

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL, of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1886 ..... $77,406.86.
Assets Dec 31st 1886 ..... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance on Pinnacle St., upstairs.

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

M. C. ROBLIN,

—ISSUER OF—

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St up. Ang o-American.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Mr. A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Montreal, is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His furs are equal to (with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantage not attained by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sold for. Shop adjoining Front St. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, thus carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions, and the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofulous Humors, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness, and General Debility; all these and many other similar complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; previous experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; we pay cash weekly, and give no commission; Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling hardy grown, nearly Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Kilton Pear, Saunder Peach, Hilborn Raspberry, Moore's Diamond Raspberry, Champion currants, Moore Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable for the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to

STONE & WELLINGTON, Toronto, Ont.

WHAT WHERE

Wilkinson Plows, Nos. 2, 3, 4, $ & 7 sold 30 giving such excellent variety to choose from. Cloth in Fanning Mills with or without baggers. Spring Tooth Harrows, Steel Harrows. Queen Corn Cutters, Wood Pitless Reaper, Mowers, Rakes, Roslaco Cutters Thresher, Engines, now on the road with Monarch Threshers. Repairs for Wilkinson machinery and other makes.

All the above may be bought or order sold through

WHYANTASSEL, Agt
Foothbridge Warerooms,
Belleville.

BANKING OFFICE

OF

U. E. THOMPSON

Bridge St., Belleville.

American Currency and Drafts bought and sold.

Deposits received, subject to withdrawal at notice.

Interest allowed.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

NEW SPRING GOODS

1890!

NEW PRINTS,
NEW TABLE LINENS,
NEW TOWELLINGS,
NEW WHITE COTTONS,
NEW EMBROIDERIES,
NEW ART MUSLINS.

And a Variety of other Goods suitable for the early spring trade.

REMEMBER we are now in our new Premises, the large four story building across the street, south, from the old stand.

NEW CARPETS.

20 Bales New Carpets, Curtain Materials, etc., now arriving in bond.

We show a Fine Assortment of patterns this spring. Don't fail to see them.

No climbing of stairs to our carpet rooms. They are reached by our Hydraulic Passenger Elevator—the only one in the city.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville. Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 26 1890.

Piano Tuning

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
Tuner.
dly

A Belleville Boy Abroad

John A. Forin in a private letter from Vancouver, B. C. speaks in glowing terms of the future of that country. He is successfully located and is doing a good law business.

At Goldsmith's

Uptown Fish store received to-day, cod and halibut fcts per lb. Fresh halibut in steaks, shell lobster, brook trout, frozen fresh white, red fish, flounders, sea herring, smoked halibut, etc. Imported lock fine herring by the dozen. All kinds pickled fish.

As True as Gospel.

In response to the query, "What is home without a newspaper?" an exchange replies: "It is a place where old hats are stuffed into window panes, where the children are like pigs, the wife an aboriginal savage, and the husband with a panorama of the Dismal Swamp painted on his shirt bosom."

Hymenial.

J. L. Maguire, son of James Maguire, proprietor of the Albion hotel was married yesterday at Napanee to Miss Hattie Sills. The happy couple will spend their honeymoon at the capital. They will arrive in the city on Friday where they will reside in future.

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kingdom of Peterborough celebrated their golden wedding on Monday. Mr. Kingdom is 84 years of age, Mrs. Kingdom 74 years. At the gathering there were about fifty persons present, including seven of their children, nineteen grand children and a number of intimate friends.

They Had a Good Time.

The nearly four hundred and fifty persons who were entertained by the young men of Mr. T. S. Clarke and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn's Sunday school classes, in Bridge St. Sunday school last night, had an exceedingly pleasant time. The guests were the members of the senior division of Bridge St. Sunday School, numbering 378 the officers and teachers of the school and the teachers of the mission school. The repast furnished was A 1, and the whole proceedings of the most informal character.

Lying Does not Pay.

An advertising manager says a noticeable thing about advertising of late years is the gradual increase in the truthfulness of it. People are learning that it does not pay to lie in an advertisement any better that it does any where else. The theory that "a sucker's born every minute and he's just as likely to come in here as anywhere else," won't do for a permanent thing. I think there has been a noticeable improvement in this respect lately, and that business men are rapidly learning that honesty is the best policy in an advertisement as well as outside of it.

The Bay Bridge.

The sub structure of the Bay of Quinte bridge is being pushed forward by the contractors as rapidly as possible. The contractors state that the work will be completed in the spring of next year and the bridge opened for traffic. It is understood that if a settlement is not arrived at the company will be compelled to go to arbitration over a piece of land on which the southern extremity of the bridge will rest. The Brown Manufacturing Co. are now building the superstructure in the foundry and as soon as practical will commence operations

Fire Alarms.

The Cortland automatic fire alarm system was given a test at Toronto recently and proved entirely successful. Mr. C. G. L. Kalso of this city is manager for the company. The manufacturers claim that with this fire alarm system it is impossible for a fire to gain any headway without apprising the occupants of the building and giving an alarm to the fireman, thus reducing the danger and loss from fire to a minimum. Their ideas on this subject were concurred in by all who saw the test. A lighted match was placed at one of the thermostats, which immediately set all the bells in the building ringing, and in the remarkably short time of 50 seconds from the instant the match was applied the firemen were at the front door ready for any emergency.

Some of the herbs in Hails Hair Renewer, that wonderful preparation for restoring the color and thickening the growth of hair, grow plentifully in New England.

TREBLE DAMAGES AND COSTS

A Suit Growing out of the use of Illegal Measures

A novel suit was heard before Police Magistrate Flint this morning, the complainant being Mr. J. W. Phillips, of Phillipston who prosecuted Mr. S. Patterson, cider manufacturer, Toronto and Belleville for $4.50 being treble the damages and costs sustained by him in the sale to the defendant of a quantity of apples. Mr. Phillips brought his action under the 67th section of the Weights and Measures Act which provides that any person aggrieved by the use of any measure which is unjust may recover treble damages and cost. R. C. Clute Esq. Q. C. appeared for the defendant and took exception to the jurisdiction of the police magistrate contending the complainant should have brought a civil action and not a criminal one. After the evidence of Mr. Johnson inspector of weights and measures, and complainant had been heard and Mr. Patterson's employes here for the defence,—the evidence being a complete contradiction of the complaintants, the police magistrate took the case into consideration and will give judgment tomorrow morning.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

A. W. Carscallen, Marmora is in the city.

E. Sexsmith, Brighton, is at the Anglo American.

W. K. Harley, Brantford, is at the Kyle house.

A. McMahon, Toronto, is stopping at the Dominion.

John Collins and D. Wright, Hastings, are at the Dominion.

T. A. O'Rourke, barrister, Trenton, was in the city yesterday.

C. Schoonnaker, New York, is registered at the Kyle house.

M Stock, New York, is stopping at the Anglo American.

W. W. Carter, and D. J. Felson, Deseronto, are at the Dominion.

W. A. F. Campbell, barrister, Stirling, was registered at the Anglo American yesterday.

TOWN TALK.

Sleighing is fast disappearing.

The cells were empty last night.

The civic committee will meet to-morrow night.

The next Dominion census will be taken on April 4th, 1891.

The mild weather has dampened the ardor of local curlers.

If the crow is the forerunner of spring our winter is at an end.

Prons—North to north west winds, closing colder weather.

Board walks are in a bad condition where the snow has not been shovelled off.

Andrew Stewart was arrested to-day for the larceny of a brace and bit from N. Wilhelmy.

The position of assistant chief of the Kingston fire brigade is vacant, and there are twenty applicants for it.

Walter Fanning shipped a car load of horses to central New York, and a car load of drivers is wanted at once.

The Swedish Ladies appear here on March 4th. This is looked forward to as a musical event of the present season.

A large quantity of ice is being shipped from Belleville to Toronto. The harvest has been a poor one in that city this season.

John Gurney, of Wallbridge, who had his hand smashed by the falling of a tree while chopping in the woodsaw a days ago is improving.

A freight train ran off the track near Whitby this morning smashing seventeen cars. The express at noon was several hours late.

The "Twelve Temptations" Co. opened their Ottawa engagement to a crowded house. Nearly half the audience was made up of ladies.

Another carload of people left Waterlown Monday to take up their residence at Dayton, Ohio. They are employees of the Davis Sewing Machine Co.

On account of the soft weather the Kingston races which were to have commenced yesterday have had to be postponed. They will come off as soon as the weather will permit.

In spite of the rain the water in the river fell several inches last night. If the cold weather had continued a flood would have been inevitable as the mouth of the river was filled with anchor ice.

Fred. Cobb, tailor, reported to the police yesterday that he had been robbed of $54. It was subsequently found in a drawer at his home.

H. Corby, M. P., and Hon. M. Bowell, M. P., will be asked to oppose the proposed increase of $3 a ton on scrap iron The duty is now $2 a ton.

At the Ottawa races "Goldie," of Prescott, won the 2:40 contest. "Sorrel George" won second place in the free for all. W. Stewart's "Factory Girl" secured third position in the five mile race.

The hand of affliction is again heavily laid on the Rev. S. G. Bland, Kingston. His eyesight is rapidly failing, and he has been forced to consult Dr. Buller, of Montreal.

J. Fraser, hatter, is opening his spring goods. He has a fine assortment which will bear inspection. The styles are very choice and from the best manufacturers in America and England.

Let quality, not quantity, be the test of a medicine. Ayer's Sarsaprilla is the concentrated extract of the best and purest ingredients. Medical men everywhere, recommend it as the surest and most economical blood medicine in the market.

A new car just turned out from the G. T. R. car works in Hamilton is fitted with reclining seats for ladies and gentlemen, with lavatories and every modern convenience in the way of heating, etc. It is stated that the Grand Trunk will shortly introduce these cars on all express trains.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Essay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL. Que Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

The Twelve Temptations.

The Empire says:—The simple announcement that Mr. Gilmore's magnificent spectacle The Twelve Temptations, will begin a week's engagement at the Grand opera house, commencing Monday evening next, will be welcome news to the theatre goers of Toronto, who have implicit confidence in any attraction that bears his name. The production this season will be characterized by the introduction of entirely new scenery, ballets, premiers, costumes and astonding variations by the diverest of specialty performers. The company numbers seventy persons, and is considered to be the equal of the London Gaiety company, which in its "make up" it strongly resembles.

Gilmore will appear here on Saturday

IN MEMORIAM

Isaac Garratt a Centenarian Dies in Iowa.

Died, Tuesday, Dec. 10, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. V. Carpenter, of Indianola, Iowa, Isaac Garratt, father of Caleb Garratt, of Pennfield, aged 99 years 7 months and 26 days.

Isaac Garratt was born in Duchess county, N. Y., April 14, 1790. When 8 years of age, his parents removed to Canada where he lived till manhood. In the war of 1812, he was in the British militia, but never was in actual service. Shortly after he returned to New York, where in 1815, he was married to Esther Carman, with whom he lived nearly sixty years. Returning again to Canada he lived there until 1834, when he again moved to Seneca, co., N. Y., where he cast his first vote for a presidential candidate in 1836. In 1845 he moved to Michigan, and in 1848 onto the farm in Pennfield where he resided until 1884, when he went to Iowa and remained until his death. He leaves five children, three daughters living in Iowa, one son in New York and one here. His wife died in 1872.

Isaac Garratt was a man of upright character and sterling integrity. His life almost spanned the life of constitutional government in this country. He went to sleep surrounded by friends who loved him. His long life of a century ended in peace.

The above is taken from a Battle Creek, (Mich.) exchange. Deceased was well known in Prince Edward county and was a brother of the late William Garratt, of Wellington. He was also an uncle to Constable Garratt, of this city and has numerous connections all over the county.

BOB INGERSOLL ON TOBACCO

He Likes it Himself and Thinks it Good for anybody to Eat.

At a banquet in New York last week Col. Bob. Ingersoll was asked to respond to the toast. "Tobacco," which he did in the following terms:

"Now as to my toast, I am called upon to speak for the divine plant called tobacco. I have loved it all my life, that is since I was 10 years old, and I liked the first chew of old plug I put into my mouth as well as I do now. There is too much hypocrisy about the use of tobacco; thousands use it and lie about it. I want you to use it and defend its use, because it adds something to the value and happiness of life. In spite of the thunders of the pulpit and the anathemas of physicians, its use is increasing and this is because the brain of man craves it. What would we do without it? Think of waiting for a train without tobacco? All use tobacco and are the better for it. Have the courage of your happiness and defend its use.

"Tobacco is a luxury, and, on that account I want the tax on it removed. No matter what necessaries cost, I want cheap luxuries. They say luxuries should be taxed because the rich pay for them. Why labor pays all the taxes in the world! It is the only solvent thing beneath the stars! The diamonds which glisten on the bosom of beauty are paid for by labor. I want tobacco absolutely free in these United States. (Applause). Some want poor devils to do all the work in this world and smoke in the next. I want them to smoke in this. The fumes which arose from the pipe of peace of the Indian were as different from the clouds of war as heaven and hell—are there any such places?

"Tobacco is the best plant that grows on the face of the earth Personally, I would rather do without any other vegetable. I pity the ancients who had to do without it, and I envy Columbus, who was the first European to see its smoke rise over the fair Isle of Cuba. This new world has given no better gift to mankind than the celestial leaf. Gentlemen, give us straight goods, and future generations will rise up and call you blessed.

Stirling Items.

Miss Hayden of Camden East, has been spending a couple of weeks visiting at Mrs. Rodd's.

The Rathbun company are taking out a great many oak and hemlock logs on the oak hills and have a number of hands employed cutting and hauling to the Stirling station.

Dr. G. W. Faulkner is still confined to his house through illness. His medical advisors have cautioned him to be very careful lest his ailment should take a very serious form.

The Baptists of this place held their anniversary services last Sunday. Rev. P. Clifton Parker of Peterboro, gave very eloquent and instructive sermons. The morning service commencing at 10 was attented and passed off very pleasantly, proving financially a success.

The Rolling Mills.

The work of establishing the Rolling Mills is progressing slowly and the people are waiting active operations. The managers allege that delay in getting their plant from the works at Pittsburg is hindering them. It is understood that the government is being urged by the Rolling Mills proprietors to increase the duty on scrap iron from two to five dollars per ton. Those most active in this movement are the mill owners of the maritime provinces where pig iron is plentiful and handy. If they can succeed in influencing the government other mill owners will find it difficult to get raw material and the business will become unprofitable.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belts and Appliances and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich

dly

Should not be Without it.

SIRS,—We have used your Haggard's Pectoral Balsam for severe coughs and coldsand can recommend it to be just what is represented to be. We would not be without it. H. SAMUEL Cataract, Ont

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hails Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends pursuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This to not you that base substitution is practise when the great sure pop corn cure is asked or. Putnam's Painless Corn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

TYENDINAGA COUNCIL.

Last Meeting of the Old Council and First Meeting of the New.

The council met on Tuesday, the 14th day of January, 1890, president, William McLaren, reeve; Albert Pitman, 1st deputy reeve; William E. Gillespie, 2nd deputy reeve; John C. Meagher and Patrick A. Shannon, councillors.

On motion the following accounts were placed on the pay list for payment.

James Holcomb, stone and gravel at Province's creek on boundary, $25; Patrick Boland, job on Freeman's bridge, $30; Prosper W. Randall, stone at lot 28, third concession, $20; Dickson English, 312 rods grading on side road between lots 20 and 21 leading from the 3rd to the 2nd line, $200; Joseph Walsh, culvert at lot 13 on the 5th concession, $9; Michael Shannon, stone on Jones' hill, 7th concession, $25; the clerk, levying school rates, etc., $25.

On motion the taxes of James W. Dafoe were remitted.

On motion the following grants were made. Fisher creek bridge in the 5th concession, $20; Sucker creek bridge, Slash road, $50; York road, east of Matthew Hill's, $55; school section No. 30, the usual grant of $50.

On motion the council adjourned sine die.

New Council.

The council met for organization at the town hall, Melrose, on Monday, January 20th, 1890.

The following named gentlemen constitute the municipal board for the township of Tyendinaga for the year 1890.

Michael Corrigan, reeve; George Monro, 1st deputy reeve; Michael Kennedy, 2nd deputy reeve; John C. Meagher, and Levi Gould councillors.

The members elect being all present severally made and subscribed their declarations of office and qualification.

The clerk not being present the reading of the minutes of last meeting was omitted.

On motion Samuel Osborne was granted for services as clerk, $5.

The council went into committee on by-laws when the reeve introduced a by-law to appoint auditors of the treasurer's books for the year 1889; a by-law to appoint assessors of the township for the year 1890 which had their usual readings in committee, were confirmed sealed and numbered.

Under by-law No. 383, Arthur McFarlane and James Hanley were appointed auditors. Under bylaw No. 384, James McCauley and John McFarlane were appointed assessors, and under by-law No. 385, John Egan was appointed road surveyor.

Council adjourned to meet on the 4th day of February, 1890 members all present.

On motion the following accounts were placed on the pay list for payment

Dickson English, salary as road surveyor $45; James Elliott, gravel 70 cents; G. A. Whiteman, medical attendance upon Charles Yeomans, $3.50; clerk, postage, 66 cents; Charles Leroy, wood for Angelina Barrage, $1.15; Intelligencer printing Co., $6; A. Culbertson, care of Charles Yeomans, $3; M. Palmer, gravel, $8.25.

On motion 100 yards of gravel was ordered to be hacked on the side road between lots 25 and 26, 7th concession.

On motion the statute labor tax of Samuel Davenport and John Foley were remitted.

On motion of Mr. Corrigan, seconded by Mr. Meagher, it was resolved that $150 be granted on the Town line road between the townships of Richmond and Tyendinaga, to be expended under the supervision of our road surveyor, on condition that Richmond expend an equal item on said road.

On motion the poor on the list were paid their quarterly allowance, $44.

Under bylaw, No. 387, A. D. Walker, M. D., was appointed chairman, H. P. Redner, Medical Health Officer, A. B. Randall, secretary, M. Corrigan, S. Hudson, M. D. and P. Nash, members of a local board of health. Said bylaw together with a by-law to appoint certain township officers for the year 1890, and a bylaw to enable the municipality to remit taxes in certain cases, after receiving their third readings were confirmed signed sealed and numbered.

Council adjourned till the third Tuesday in April. A. B. RANDALL, Clerk.

The Ladies Home Journal

Mrs. President Harrison holds the position of honor in the March Ladies' Home Journal as the subject of an unusually interesting article 'Mrs. Harrison in the White House' by A. J. Halford, brother of the President's private secretary. Mr. Halford certainly presents the best picture of domestic life in the Executive Mansion ever printed. Mrs. Harrison has personally authorized this article, and a new and a most beautiful portrait of her accompanies views of her own room, Mrs. McKee's room and other apartments in the White House not usually photographed. The famous English novelist The Duchess tells young women, in a most readable article, 'How To Marry Well,' while Dr. Talmage also talks to them about love of society and fashion in a way girls will like and profit by. A clear article on 'A Man's Ideas of Home Comfort' is by Percy Vere, while a prominent New York editor sketches 'The Hours and Haunts of Walter Scott' beautifully illustrated. Maud Howe, Mrs. Whitney and Kate Tannatt Woods furnish splendidly illustrated stories; Louise Chandler Moulton and Rose Hawtick Thorpe each has a poem; while other articles cover such entertaining topics as 'How Women Can make money,' 'Fancy Work for Odd Moments,' 'Side-Talks With Girls,' 'Work for Young Authors,' 'What Constitutes Success,' 'All About Flowers,' 'Practical Housekeeping,' 'Hints for Home Dress making,' 'Fresh Leaves Latest Fashions,' Games, stories, poems for children, needle work for the industrious, suggestions for mothers, and a thousand and one other things cover every subject in which women are interested. The Journal is certainly a splendid magazine, growing better all the time, and yet is kept at its low price of One Dollar a year. Published at 433-435 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

A Woman in the Case.

There always is. She is the power behind the throne. A woman's influence over the man who loves her is often absolute. To wield so great a power to guide, strengthen and help her husband, a woman mind should be clear and healthy. It cannot be if she is suffering from any functional derangement. How many a home is made unhappy because she who should be its life and light is a wretched, depressed, morbid invalid! Wives, mothers and daughters, why suffer from "female complaints" which are sapping your lives away when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will renew your health and and gladden those about you! It has restored happiness to many a saddened life. Why endure martyrdom when relief is so easy? In its special field there never was a restorative like the "Favorite Prescription."

To cleanse the stomach, liver and system generally, use Dr. Pierces Pellets, 25 cents.

Do Not be Deceived

All baking powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the purest and best, sold by all grocers.

AN ANNEXATIONIST.

Mayor Derbyshire's big Heart Will Get Him Into Trouble.

Mayor Derbyshire of Brockville was at the Oswego County Farmers Institute last week and made an address. All who know the handsome six footer know what an ardent admirer of the ladies he is. He never can talk unless they are present and always manages to slide in ahead of everybody else with a vote of thanks to them for their presence. He had just as much blarney for the ladies of Oswego County last week as he had for the ladies of Hastings county last December. He said of them at Oswego, "They inspire a little feeling of patriotism in my breast and I would not mind in the least the annexation of one or two of them to my own country." One would think that his deep rooted admiration for the sex would have led him into annexation long ago. The result of his not practising what he implies by his speeches will, if persisted in, bring him into discredit as a trifler and it will be a sad day for Derby when the ladies turn the cold shoulder on him.

An Important Matter.

MR. EDITOR.—It is a well known fact that the majority of the people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seventenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stage to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath, dull, oppressive headache, nasive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes, a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. There are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy—delays are proverbially dangerous and the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers—it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. Sold by all dealers or sent post free on receipt of price—50c for small or $1 for large size bottles by addressing FULFORD & Co., Brockville, Ont.

For restoring the color, thickening the growth, and beautifying the hair, and for preventing baldness, Hails Hairs Renewer a unsurpassed.

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

BANKRUPT SALE

Grant's Bankrupt Stock has been again marked down. Call in and note prices and be convinced that you can purchase

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

at prices never before offered in this city. This great Reduction sale commences on

SATURDAY, FEB. 22'D

JUST -- OPENED -- OUT.

FIRST SHIPMENT

—OF—

NEW SPRING HATS

NEWEST,
CHEAPEST,
NOBBIEST.

Call and see them! No Trouble to Show Goods!

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

☞ N. B.—The balance of Furs will be cleared out cheap, to make room for new Goods.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries!
Direct from Switzerland
New Prints! New Sateens!
In New and Beautiful Designs
White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO,

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW

MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

NEW GOODS

AT FISH'S FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

400 Collars at 5 Cents each;

A E FISH & CO

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

☞ adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

30 Million Pounds

MENIER CHOCOLATE

DRANK AND EATEN EVERY YEAR.

WHY? BECAUSE of all CHOCOLATES It is the purest and best.

Paris Exposition, 1889 { 3 GRAND PRIZES. 8 GOLD MEDALS.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER.

—FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.—

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

—FOR—
Portland and Hydraul Cements, Plaster Paris Salt, Wheat and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HEW TO THE LINE —LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: THURSDAY FEBRUARY 27, 1890 | NO 49

DAIRYMEN,
—OF—
EASTERN ONTARIO,
While in the City try and make time to call upon
W W CHOWN & CO
Front Street
We are the Largest dealers in this section in
Cheese Factory Goods.
and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,
W. W. CHOWN & CO.;

BUY SUGAR NOW
They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from
TEASING YOU
to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.
'We know whereof we speak'
Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

SUN
Life Assurance Co. of Canada
Issues an absolutely unconditional policy. You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding the policy.
Income for 1888 ..... $575,273.54
Assets now over $2,900,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.
James Little,
General Agent, Belleville

RECAMIER PREPAR'TIONS
—A full Line of—
Mrs. Harriet-Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at
D. M. WATERS
HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER
Fancy Goods
FINE PERFUME, etc
CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 6 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts, the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. REAPLE
Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the March 3 d, 1890, at the same our.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the co-partnership heretofore existing between John Weir and Edward Roe, as Livery men in the city of Belleville, has been this day dissolved by mutual consent.

The business will hereafter be carried on by Edward Roe, who will be pleased to have a continuance of the firms old patronage and will endeavour to please all who may favour him with business. All debts owing by the late firm, and all accounts due to the same will be settled by them at their former place of business.

Dated this 24th day of February 1890.
Witness,
J. GUSS POSTER } JOHN WEIR
EDWARD ROE.
2id.

WANTED SALESMEN to sell Nursery Stock. All goods Warranted. FIRST CLASS Permanent, pleasant, profitable positions for the right men. Good salaries and expenses paid weekly. Liberal inducements to beginners. No previous experience necessary. Outfit free. Write for terms, giving age.
CHARLES H. CHASE Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. Mention this Paper

OPERA -- HOUSE
SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST
A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH
The Second Edition of
MR WM J GILMORE'S
Magnificent Spectacle
THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS
Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale
Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $35,000.
——Forming in its entirety——
The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display
Seen in this Country.
70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70
PRICES:
Parquette, $1; Orchestra Chairs 75c; Pit and Balcony 50c; Gallery 35c. Plan open Monday at Prof Riggs.

People Wonder
WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.
Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an Improvement
in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."
"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence." — O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggists.
"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his feet. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia." — A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

FREE - TRADE
BETWE EN
CANADA & THE UNITED ST'S
Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy
HATS.
TRUNKS.
SHIRTS.
NECKWEAR.
The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.
It will pay you to s
S G RETALLACK'S
New Styles for 1890,
Anglo-American Block.

SCOTT'S
EMULSION
DOES CURE
CONSUMPTION
In its First Stages.
Palatable as Milk.
Be sure you get the genuine in Salmon color wrapper; sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

SHORTHAND! SHORTHAND!
SIMPLE, LOGICAL AND BRIEF. Students advance at speed of 100 to 150 words per minute in 3 months. Individual instruction. Satisfaction guaranteed. Terms low. For further information call at the residence of Mr. Stephen O'Brien, corner Frank and Moira sts.
DANIEL KETCHESON.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that the plan, profile and book of reference showing the lands required for the roadway and approach to the Bay of Quinte Bridge through the village of Ferry Point, in the Township of Ameliasburg, in the County of Prince Edward, were deposited in the Registry Office for the said County, on the 24th Day of February, A. D. 1890, in accordance with the Statutes in that behalf made and provided.
U. E. THOMPSON,
Secretary and Treasurer
B. of Q. Bridge Co'y.
Belleville Feby 26, 1890. 1td

WANTED.

BILL BOARDS or vacant places to erect the same for billing the Opera House, 43ti Apply to H. TAMMAGE. Manager.

EMPLOYMENT wanted by a young man of good address & experience with good references competent to manage books. Good penman.
W. T. C.
Address Box '42.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay. Salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th Feb. 7 Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House with barn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Possession can be had from the post office. Apply to ADAM HENRY, 6t Front Street.

SKIFF WANTED.

ABOUT 17 feet long must be good apply at this office.

BALFOUR'S BIG TASK.

A LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT BILL FOR IRELAND.

Lord Randolph Churchill Says the Government Has Missed a Golden Opportunity —The German Socialists' Gains— General Cable News.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Mr. Balfour is engaged in preparing a bill to give to Ireland a system of local self-government. His scheme is said to be based upon the idea of treating the Irish as to local government just as the English and the Scotch are treated in regard to the same subject.

Missed a Golden Opportunity.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Lord Randolph Churchill spoke at Paddington to-day on the constructive policy of the government in proposing to extend local self-government and land purchase in Ireland. He promised to do his best in assisting the government in these measures. He was also pleased at the attitude of the government on the education question. He regretted that the opposition in the Tory party had persuaded the government to postpone free education for it had thereby missed a golden opportunity that might not present itself again.

A Precocious Prisoner.

CHESTER, Feb. 26.—Elizabeth Roberts, a child of 9 years whose precocious interest in the Maybrick trial led her to emulate the part of the heroine of that drama, has been sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for attempting to poison a lady whom her father, a widower, was going to marry and of whom she disapproved as a stepmother.

Death of Young Lincoln.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Abraham Lincoln, the only son of Minister and Mrs. Lincoln and grandson of "Old Abe," died to-night. All the members of the family were at his bedside.

William Yields to Bismarck.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—A Berlin correspondent believes Bismarck's decision to retain office is the outcome of the long interview he had with the Emperor yesterday, in which the Emperor probably yielded on the points of difference between them and consented to the presentation of a new Socialist Bill.

Albanian Raids in Servia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 26.—A band of Albanians made a descent upon the villages of Babigak, Robacic, and Bulrush in old Servia and plundered them. Many inhabitants were tortured to induce them to join the robbers. A battalion of Turkish troops has been despatched to the scene, but they are powerless against the marauders.

Harcourt's Harsh Harangue.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt speaking at Bath referred to the Parnell investigation and the report of the Commission and said: "The Times is branded with eternal infamy and is a monument of lasting disgrace to English journalism."

The Lion to Lie Down with the Lamb.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—The French Government has accepted the invitation of Germany to take part in the Berlin Labor Conference.

Roumanian Towns Invaded by Wolves.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 26.—The cold has been so intense in this part of the country that whole packs of starving wolves have invaded the towns and villages, devouring all before them. In Bessarabia a mail cart was attacked and the horses devoured. Horses were eaten up by the ravenous brutes. Hunting parties have organized for the destruction of the wolves under the leadership of the heir presumptive to the throne.

The German Socialists' Gains.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—The vote of the Socialists in the recent election compared with the last previous election in 1887 shows a gain of 567,465 votes. The gain of the German Liberals compared in the same way is 224,000. The Cartellers have lost 1,000,000 votes and the Centre party 206,957 votes.

Says Parnell Was Acquitted.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Mr. Charles Russell speaking to-day at Cambridge declared Mr. Parnell and his colleagues had been acquitted of every charge affecting their honesty or political honor. Whatever crime attended the Irish movement was due not to the organizers but to the reckless and irresponsible persons who hung like a fringe on every popular movement.

ALICE NASH'S FATE.

A 17-Year-Old Simcoe Girl the Victim of a Criminal Operation.

SIMCOE, Feb. 26.—Alice Nash, a 17-year-old step-daughter of James Petty, died here to-day of blood poisoning, resulting from a criminal operation performed about two weeks ago. It is not known whether she had an accomplice in the fatal act. Coroner Stanton has begun an inquest.

PRINCETON'S UNKNOWN.

EVIDENCE WHICH MAY HELP TO IDENTIFY HIM.

Witnesses at the Inquest Think They Recognize the Murdered Man's Features —It Is Believed He Was a Hebrew Peddler of Cheap Jewelry.

PRINCETON, Feb. 26.—The most intense excitement still prevails here, not less than 1000 people from Paris, Woodstock and other places in the vicinity coming to the village in a single day, anxious for the slightest details respecting the unknown man whose body lies here awaiting identification.

There have been two sittings of the coroner's jury, at which evidence was taken which may throw some light on the question of identity, but the mystery surrounding the murder is just about as dark as ever. The most positive feature here is that the dead man was a peddler of cheap jewelry and that Hebrew blood ran in his veins. The proceedings at the inquest on Monday set at rest the suggestion of suicide.

Drs. Taylor and Staples furnished a written document containing the result of their medical examination. They gave this opinion:

"Death was produced by injury to the brain caused by two pistol shots fired by some hand as yet unknown, but other than dangerous, either one of which was sufficient to produce death."

The doctors also stated that the shots were fired at close quarters, that death was probably instantaneous and that there would not be much blood from the wounds.

George Fowler testified that he lived in Drumbo and owned a furniture store in Waterford. "A year ago last fall," said the witness, "I saw the deceased in Waterford. I think he was a jewelry and tinware peddler. I was there three or four days at the time and saw him. I considered him a sharp. He was dressed in the same style of clothes as I saw here, and I recognize him by his face. He said he was one of a party running jewelry stores in the country, one in Brantford and one in Waterford."

Alfred Laycock, miller and farmer, residing two miles west of Gobles, said that he thought he saw the deceased in Drumbo about four years ago selling jewelry and bought from him 25 cents worth. Witness also believed that he saw the deceased selling jewelry in Woodstock last Dominion Day.

An examination at Woodstock proves that no other license issued on that day or within some days of it. The only jewelry seller who has been in Woodstock for a couple of years past that would correspond with the dead man was a few named Levi Isaac, who has been there on different occasions. Isaac's complexion and height correspond with those of the dead man and there are some similarities in the features of the two, notably the nose and upper lip. There is no record of Isaac having been at Woodstock since December, 1888. A number of Woodstock people who have seen either the dead man or his photograph profess to remember having seen the face, some of them associating it with cheap jewelry.

Some other witnesses—Messrs. Oliver, Lancaster and Young—were heard, but Corones McLay thought it his duty to keep their evidence from the reporters. It is learned, however, that they testified only to the presence of two individuals in the neighborhood on Wednesday night or Thursday morning. One of these was a Woodstock man and the other a resident of Princeton. But the former's first move on learning that there was any suspicion attaching to him was to visit the Chief of Police, it is not believed that any importance attaches to the evidence supressed.

The inquest was adjourned at this point until to-night, when a number of witnesses gave unimportant evidence, at the conclusion of which an adjournment was taken until Friday, March 7.

The theory that the murderer had met his death in a house of ill-fame is firmly held by many people. The fact that none of his clothes showed any blood marks would indicate, they say, that he was undressed when the murder was committed, and was afterwards dressed, taken away and deposited in the swamp where he was found. This theory is further borne out by the fact that the name marks on his clothing were cut out with a pair of scissors. This, the adherents of this theory say, points to a woman being in the case. Diligent enquiries failed to locate any such house in the immediate vicinity of where the body was discovered, but a great many persons were found who stated that they had often heard of such a place in that quarter. It is well known, however, that there is a notorious den between Paris and Brantford. The murder might have been committed there and the body afterwards driven to Mud Lake to be deposited in its murky waters.

John McKay of the North American Hotel at Woodstock states that about ten days ago a man closely resembling the deceased and having a decidedly English accent was in his hotel and sold a package of German cement and some similar preparations to his bar tender. The man wore a plaid water-proof slightly overcoat, the same as worn by the murdered man, but he had a light mustache. McKay is almost confident that they are one and the same person, the mustache having since been shaved off. The opinion prevails here that deceased's face was shaved after death.

The absence of blood on the deceased's clothing is now accounted for by the shots having been fired close up to the man's head. The powder in this way seared the wounds and prevented a free escape of blood.

Death of a Noted Educationist.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 26.—News is received here of the death of Dr. M. B. Anderson at Lake Helen, Fla., where he had been spending the winter for his health. Dr. Anderson was one of the leading educators of the country. He was president of the Rochester University from 1850 to 1888, and prior to that time was editor of The New York Observer and a professor in and President of Colby University at Waterville, Me. He was a member of the Niagara Reservation Commission and held many offices in many important Baptist Associations.

A Deputy Sheriff Assassinated.

SPRINGFIELD, La., Feb. 26.—Monday night Deputy Sheriff J. C. White was killed here, Harmon Kitchen dangerously wounded and William White shot at several times. The three men were on horseback. Lucien Morgan and one Hale have been arrested, charged with the crime.

Father and Son Murdered.

CHARLESTON, Feb. 26.—Bob Pope, a white man of bad character, and his son aged 11 were shot dead Monday night while riding from Cumming's mill to their home in Hampton County. The murderer is supposed to be a white man.

WHILE working in a lumber camp a year ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I got no relief until I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam which cured me entirely. I highly recommend

ANTI-RITUALISTS WIN.

A Hamilton Church Trouble—An Alderman's Wife Resigns.

HAMILTON, Feb. 26.—There was a lively meeting of Church of Ascension members last night. A resolution was finally passed urging Rev. Mr. Crawford "to accede to the wishes of the congregation and discontinue the changes made in the service." Of the 126 voters in the church 70 were for the resolution and there were no negative ballots cast. The anti-ritualists are elated by their victory.

The Railway Committee of the City Council met yesterday afternoon and put the finishing touches on the by-law, and now it is in shape to be printed. A clause has been inserted providing for running powers over the T., H. & B. for the Niagara Central, also provision relating to opening streets and proceeding with public works across the tracks of the company.

Wyeth & McCully, manufacturers of farm sleds, etc., at Newark, O., have written to Mayor McLellan enquiring what inducements the city can offer for the establishment of a branch factory here.

Nannie Scruggs, the demented girl from Virginia, is still in the jail here, and the Inspector of Asylums and Prisons has refused to admit her to the asylum as she belongs to the United States. The police are at a loss what to do with her. She has been in jail for a year.

E. Goodrich, an agent for Stone & Wellington, nurserymen, Toronto, fell on the sidewalk at Dundas yesterday and broke his leg. He was brought to the city hospital today.

By a consent order made by Judge Muir this morning, Alld. Fitzgerald, one of the prosecutatives of ward five, was unseated because he did not have the qualification required by law.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

Seventeen Cars Wrecked on the Grand Trunk at Whitby.

WHITBY, Feb. 26.—A serious accident occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway here this morning, by which the company suffers a heavy loss by the destruction of rolling stock and damage to freight. The mishap occurred about 3 o'clock at what is called the diamond crossing, where the G.T.R. tracks cross the Midland track. The wrecked train was in charge of Conductor James Moxim, one of the oldest and most reliable conductors on the line. The train was composed of 17 freight cars loaded with grain, consisting of barley, oats and corn, and a caboose. The locomotive and tender passed over the crossing all right, but the wheels of the first car disdodged the diamond point and it jumped the track. The cars behind also became derailed and in a moment the 17 cars were piled one on the top of another in fearful confusion, the contents of the cars being strewn all about the spot and mixed together. The train hands miraculously escaped any injury whatever, but the cars are nearly totally wrecked.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Charged with Selling Lottery Tickets—Newspapers Summoned.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—Frank Adams, 46 Elm-Grove, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Morality Inspector Archabold on a warrant charging him with a breach of the Lottery Act in that he sold tickets for the Louisiana State Lottery. The arrest was made in Mr. Adams' office in the Yonge-street Arcade. Later in the afternoon summonses were served on The Mail, News and World demanding an appearance in the Police Court to answer an information charging the newspapers named with publishing lottery advertisements.

CAPITAL SKATING.

M. Rubenstein of Montreal Wins the Fancy Championship.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—The skating competition was resumed this morning, the ice still being very soft. About 1[illegible] the last figure was skated and the three judges, Messrs. F. M. Larmouth of Montreal, Gamble Geddes of Toronto and R. H. Haycock of Ottawa, then compared notes and summed up matters, the result was as follows, the figures of the competitors being the average of the marks awarded each by the three judges, total possible marks 420:

1. M. Rubenstein, Montreal	341¾
2. L. C. Pereira, Ottawa	325¾
3. C. D. Phillips, New York	[illegible]
4. A. Rubenstein, Montreal	311

Abandoned to Their Fate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The steamship Ems, which arrived here this morning, encountered fine gales and heavy seas Friday and Saturday. Saturday a wrecked sailing vessel was sighted. All her masts were broken off and she did not carry a rag of sail. A flag of distress was flying. Nine men were seen upon the wreck. Despite the terrible sea Captain Jungst of the Ems had a boat lowered and an officer and seven men entered it to attempt a rescue. The boat was immediately capsized and one of the crew lost. Captain Jungst thought it madness to make another attempt and proceeded on his voyage.

The New Party in Lambton.

WYOMING, Feb. 26.—A convention of the adherents of Canada's new party in the county of Lambton was held here this afternoon, representatives from the east and west ridings being in attendance. It was decided that Mr. Charles Colter, surgeon-dentist, of Petrolea, be the candidate of the new party for the west riding and Mr. Samuel Barnes of Warwick township for the east riding at the next general election for the Assembly. In the evening a public meeting was addressed by Principal Austin of St. Thomas, the candidates and others.

Three New Oil Gushers.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 26.—The sudden break in oil was caused by three new gushers coming in since yesterday. One well, the Horton, Orange & Co. on the Sheffield district, poured off 40,000 barrels an hour and is now doing 80 barrels. The second well was struck on the Pennsylvania-road four miles out from Allegheny City, pouring 500 barrels an hour, tank the first 24 hours. This afternoon the third well opened up in the Butler field at a 60-barrel-an-hour rate.

The Pan American.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The International American conference to-day adopted the report already published of the Committee on Railroads recommending that measures be taken for the construction of a railroad connecting all or a majority of the nations represented in the conference.

Eva Will Contest the Divorce Suit.

TRENTON, N.J., Feb. 26.—It is learned that Eva, the wife of Robert Ray Hamilton, has decided to contest the latter's suit for divorce.

Congressman Randall Reported Dead.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—At 2 a.m. there is a rumor that Congressman Randall is dead.

The Candid Truth.
USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find it better remedy for it. Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific, 50c. and $1.00.

THE FRANCHISE ACT.

DR. WILSON'S REPEAL MOTION LOST IN THE HOUSE.

Mining Machinery Probably to Be Placed on the Free List—The Orange Incorporation Bill Passes the Banking and Finance Committee.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—In the expectation that free mining machinery will be included in the long list of tariff changes looked for in the Budget the House this afternoon refused by a vote of 110 to 77 to pass a resolution to that effect in advance.

The subject was introduced by Dr. Platt, who moved that machinery designed for use in mining operations should not be subject to customs duty when imported into Canada for mining purposes. This resolution was warmly championed by Messrs. Mara, Barnard, Prior and Davis on behalf of the mining industry of British Columbia and the Northwest. All were very outspoken in condemnation of the duty as a bar to the development of mining and Mr. Mara read a letter from an English capitalist in which the duty was characterized as nothing but blackmail upon those desiring to operate in mining.

Messrs. Dawson, Charlton, Armstrong, Mulock, Cook and Casey spoke up for the Ontario miners and Mr. Jones of Halifax for those of Nova Scotia.

On behalf of the manufacturers, Mr. Curran of Montreal and Messrs. Brown and McKay of Hamilton claimed that all the machinery required could be manufactured in the country. This, however, was disputed, it being pointed out that the cost of acquiring patents for all the latest improvements and of maintaining the plant for making all kinds of machinery would be too great to make the business profitable in Canada.

In view of the contention that our manufacturers would suffer by free machinery Mr. Mulock moved an amendment so as to include in the motion only such machinery as is not made in Canada.

The motion and amendment were opposed by Hon. George Foster on the ground that tariff changes were to be dealt with all together in the Budget and from the manner in which he spoke of the attention given by the Government to the question of mining machinery for many months past, it was inferred that some concession at least was to be expected.

Mr. Mara then came to the rescue with a resolution adjourning the debate until after the budget. This was carried by 110 to 77, the Opposition voting solidly against any postponement of decision.

These private bills were to-day considered in committee and read a third time and passed.

Weldon (St. John)—Respecting the Northern & Western Railway Company and to change the name to the Canada Central Railway Company.

Patterson (Essex)—Relating to the Canada Southern Bridge Company.

Wallace—Respecting the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway Company of Canada.

Ives—Respecting the Hereford Railway Company.

Shanly—Respecting the Northwestern Coal & Navigation Company.

Sproule—To incorporate the Mount Forest, Markdale & Meaford Railway Company.

Weldon (St. John)—Respecting the New Brunswick Railway Company.

Kirkpatrick—To amend the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Dr. Wilson's motion for repeal of the Franchise Act was advanced from the Liberal benches at the evening sitting, the Government members taking no part in the discussion. At 12¾ the House divided, the motion being lost by 77 yeas to 99 nays.

Mr. Smith of Ontario and several French Conservatives voted with the minority.

The House adjourned at 1 o'clock.

THE ORANGE BILL.

Passed by the Committee on Banking and Commerce.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—The act to incorporate the Grand Orange Lodge of British America was before the Committee on Banking and Commerce this morning and passed after some slight amendments. There was no vote taken. Mr. Curran, M.P., said he would offer no objections at present, but he would move in the House an amendment, the nature of which he would not now state. It is, however, said that this amendment will be to the effect that the bill will not have effect in provinces where the majority of the people do not want it. Mr. Davies and others argued that the association was asking from Parliament powers which it did not possess to grant. This was overruled. Clause 10 was struck out and another substituted for the registration of all new lodges in either city or county registry offices. An amendment was also made more clearly stating what were provincial and what were subordinate lodges.

THE WORK OF THE WINDS.

Disastrous Cyclone in Tennessee and Arkansas—Several Lives Lost.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 26.—The woman killed by the cyclone near Brownsville was Mrs. James Cooper. The storm struck Brownsville while its inhabitants slept and had done its terrible work before the real situation was realized. It came from a southwesterly direction and was preceded by a rumbling noise which lasted a few seconds and then burst upon the town in appalling fury. Residences rocked like cradles and heavy brick buildings trembled like leaves as the storm swept by. The storm did much damage at other places.

At Marianna, Ark., the new Christian Church was completely demolished. Lesser cotton shed was blown away and the roofs of several other buildings were lifted off. Three miles from town a negro schoolhouse with 65 children in it was blown from its foundation but no one was hurt.

The White River at Batesville, Ark., rose eight feet in a few hours, washing away culverts and delaying trains badly.

Three houses were blown down near Riverside and several buildings flattened out in the southeastern portion of the county.

The Hot Springs old observatory, which has stood for years on the summit of Hot Springs mountain, was leveled by the gale.

The storm played havoc with the entire country between Hot Springs and the Ouachita River. Many farm houses were torn to atoms and the path of the storm is one mass of wrecked timber. Large trees were uprooted and in many places the roads are completely blockaded by fallen timber. That lives were lost is more than probable, owing to the destruction of so many farm houses. Considerable damage was done to buildings and fences at Little Rock and at Alexander a schoolhouse was blown down and nine children injured.

THE SMART CASE.

Judge Ferguson Gives the Children to the Mother—The Father Castigated.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Justice Ferguson gave his decision in what is known as "the Smart case," wherein the petitioner Smart of Port Hope sought the custody of his children, who were in the possession of his wife, who had to leave him on account of illtreatment and other irregularities on his part.

The decision of the Judge shows these stories in so far as the mother is concerned to have been utterly false, and the petitioner Smart to be a man wholly lost to even the remotest sense of morality.

The petitioner in his petition sets fort that he was a practising barrister and solicitor at Port Hope; that the infant children are the issue of the marriage, the dates of their respective births showing that their ages are 14, 12 and 9 years, the youngest being a boy, the other two girls; that in September, 1885, the respondent left the bed and board of the petitioner, taking the three infant children with her and that she has ever since lived apart from him; that she retains the custody of the children and refuses to deliver them up to the petitioner although possession of them was demanded by him.

The petitioner Smart made further charges against the respondent, which were of such a character that the Judge decided to hear the case privately.

The following sentences from the written judgment of the learned judge best show the utterly unfounded character of these charges have been and how wronged and injured the children and mother were:

"It seemed to be conceded at the trial, and I do not see how it can be otherwise, that all ideas of these two people ever coming together again and living as man and wife must be abandoned and put entirely out of the case and out of consideration. It is fully understood that the charges and accusations that I have alluded to were in fact made by the petitioner against, I think, and in the meanest and most contemptible manner, and that he still persists in making them.

"They are fully denied by the respondent. I was called upon to weigh these charges and deplorable spectacle of a wife in the witness box denying that there was any foundation for any one of these charges and accusations or any one of them. Counsel, I think, properly and I apprehend rightly, to ask her in regard to them seriatim. When I consider the monstrous nature of the charges, the fact that they are positively denied, that owing to the nature of them it was not possible to call other witnesses in regard to them, and that, judging by the demeanor of the witnesses, I have no hesitation in saying and finding that although made upon the oath of the petitioner they are without foundation in fact, and that I cannot but believe that they were falsely, wickedly and foolishly made, with a view of making or in an endeavor to make it appear that there was some foundation for the marital troubles and some excuse for giving way to and indulging in drink to excess so continuously and being guilty of other things that were charged against him, which he does not deny.

"These charges were so made on oath by this petitioner after he professed to have established the excessive use of strong drink, and he still persists in making them, as I understand, desires to have the supposed benefit of them in this litigation with his wife. I am unable to understand how it it is that any man can act thus and I apprehend rightly, to ask her in regard to them seriatim. When I consider the monstrous nature of the charges, the fact that they are positively denied, that owing to the nature of them it was not possible to call other witnesses in regard to them, and judging by the demeanor of the witnesses, I have no hesitation in saying and finding that although made upon the oath of the petitioner they are without foundation in fact, and that I cannot but believe that they were falsely, wickedly and foolishly made, with a view of making or in an endeavor to make it appear that there was some foundation for the marital troubles and some excuse for giving way to and indulging in drink to excess so continuously and being guilty of other things that were charged against him, which he does not deny.

"These charges were so made on oath by this petitioner after he professed to have established the excessive use of strong drink, and he still persists in making them, as I understand, desires to have the supposed benefit of them in this litigation with his wife. I am unable to understand how it it is that any man can act thus and who is so base as to make and persist in making such accusations against his wife in the manner in which this man has made them, even if it were for a moment assumed that the accusations were founded in truth; even in such a case I think there are no adjectives or qualifying words in our language sufficiently expressive to properly stamp the quality of the mind and character of the man who would do so on the degree of his superlative meanness. How much more is required to describe the character of the man who does so on oath when the accusations and charges are false?

"It may be required why the accusations and charges are not stated here. They appear in the evidence, and it was considered necessary as a matter of law and practice to state some of the charges in pleading. They are, however, wholly unfit to appear in any book, report or other publication. The case was heard in camera, and I think properly so. No good that I can perceive can arise from again writing the disgusting things here. On the contrary the tendency would, I think, be to or towards evil, and I do not see the necessity of doing it, even if one's pen did not refuse to do the writing. Those who nevertheless want to know the full particulars must resort to the evidence.

"I may here say that some of these accusations were made to the petitioner's own relatives, his brother and sister, not upon oath, however, which, to my mind, adds if possible to the depth of meanness and degradation exhibited, the whole demonstrating, I think, that the man had become lost to all sense of social propriety and that he entertained no proper ideas in regard to intercourse between members of the same family.

"To say that his conduct as stated by himself is 'beastly' would, I think, be to do the brute creation and the brute creation. The fact of his stating it, the character of the accusations he makes against his wife (which accusations are, as I have said, in my opinion false), and the manner in which he makes the accusations render the matter worse and worse if possible. I was not before aware that the world contained such a man either in barbarous or in civilized life; I am astounded and much at a loss to comprehend how it happens that any person brought up and educated as the petitioner must have been, has such a character as he, apparently without compunction or shame, demonstrates that he possesses. His habitual intemperance, if fair, and the manner in which he makes the accusations render the matter worse and worse if possible. I was not before aware that the world contained such a man either in barbarous or in civilized life; I am astounded and much at a loss to comprehend how it happens that any person brought up and educated as the petitioner must have been, has such a character as he, apparently without compunction or shame, demonstrates that he possesses. His habitual intemperance, if fair, and the manner in which he makes the accusations render the matter worse and worse if possible. I was not before aware that the world contained such a man either in barbarous or in civilized life; I am astounded and much at a loss to comprehend how it happens that any person brought up and educated as the petitioner must have been, has such a character as he, apparently without compunction or shame, demonstrates that he possesses. His habitual intemperance, if fair, and the manner in which he makes the accusations render the matter worse and worse if possible. I was not before aware that the world contained such a man

"I think there should be an order that the children remain in the care and custody of their mother until further order, she giving such security to the court for the proper education and maintenance of the children as may be required, which I apprehend she is prepared and willing to do.

"There will be no order made upon the petitioner except as above. The petitioner will pay the respondent her costs.

"As, however, the agreement of the 23rd November, 1885, contains what appears to be a reasonable provision respecting the access of the father to his children, I order that a similar provision be embodied in this order giving the custody to the mother."

Judgment accordingly.

Do No be Deceive.
All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by all druggists.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tarta and English Soda hence is the best that can be made

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 27 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six months a year, or Fifty Cents a month—15c. per week.
THE WEEKLY ONTARIO is published every Thursday morning, and sent, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar.
ADVERTISEMENTS—The Daily Ontario first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line. Advertisements not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.
ADVERTISEMENTS in Weekly Ontario, 10 cent per line each insertion.
READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attended the charge for funeral notices is $1.
CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.
Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of
THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

The Quebec Legislature will be asked by Mr. Mercier this week to give $10,000 to be applied to the restoration of Toronto University. Mr. Mercier has not forgotten the time when Ontario, touched by the sufferings entailed by the fires in Saguenay County with true sisterly affection voted money for the relief of the sufferers. This act of Mr. Mercier is heaping coals of fire on the head of the equal rights agitators.

Another incident has transpired in the house which shows conclusively that the farmers of Canada need not look to Sir John and his government for any favors. Mr. McMillan, Huron, moved for a committee of the whole in the house to consider the application of farmers for the free entry of grains and seeds which do not ripen in Canada, but which are now largely imported and sown for the production of food for cattle under the system of feeding called ensiling and ensilage, now largely adopted by the farmers of Canada. Prof. Robertson when addressing the dairymen's convention here in January urged farmers to build silos, and the free entry of the seed would be of great advantage to the farmer in carrying out the professor's recommendation. The government refused the request and voted down the resolution. Salt was at one time extensively used for manure but the government put a duty on it and made it so dear that it had to be given up. A week or so ago the farmers wanted a rebate on corn imported for stock raising, the rebate to be paid when the stock was exported, but the government, although distillers are allowed a rebate on corn imported for export liquor, voted down the bill in the interest of the farmer and refused to allow the bill in the interest of the distillers to be reached. Farmers also wanted the duty lowered or abolished on binder twine but Sir John's government said no. Fishermen, however, can import twine and cordage free of duty. These facts should convince the farmer that they need not hope for legislation from Sir John and his followers that will be of any benefit to them. Manufacturers and other capitalists, however, who have money to shell out when Sir John wants funds to pay election expenses can get free raw material for the asking.

How to Marry Well.

What girls should never forget, is to be neat! Not prim, or but daintily so. The girl well go up, with irreproachable gloves and shoes that fit, though her gown be only cotton, yet if it be well laundered out, may compete with the richest, while the slovenly dresser, who scorns or forgets to give attention to details, is passed over by the discontented eye, though her gown may be a masterpiece of Worth.

A girl should learn to put her gown on properly. No creature living takes more heed of externals than your orthodox man. He may not know the price, color or material of your clothes, but he will know to a nicety whether you are well or badly gowned.

One special point I would impress upon the girl who desires, (as all girls do) to arrange themselves well, to make a good marriage—is to be gentle. The cause for vivacity, for the free and easy style, that border so closely on the manners of the demimond that distinguished the society of ten years ago has providentially died a natural death. Now a days it is an sensible enough to look for comfort in their married lives, And surely the knowledge that ones future wife has a heart as tender as it is sympathetic should, and does, go far to arrange a man's decision of who shall be the partner of his daily life.

—The Duchess in Ladies House Journal.

An Important Matter.

Mr. Editor.—It is a well known fact that the majority of the people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seventenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath, dull, oppressive headacae, ensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; at times watery eyes, a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. There are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy—delays are proverbially dangerous and the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other suffers—it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. Sold by all dealers or sent post free on receipt of price—50c for small or $1 for large size bottles by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cut or scrs.—Symptoms, headache loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into scuts disease. It is a wise saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save month of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be affected.

For restoring the color, thickening the growth, and beautifying the hair, and for preventing baldness, Hall's Hair Renewer is unsurpassed.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

A RADICAL WARNING TO THE SALISBURY GOVERNMENT.

America's Contributions to the Travel League—Young Abraham Lincoln at the Palace of Death—The Coming Labor Conference at Berlin.

London, Feb. 25.—Mr. Cobb, Radical, announced in the House of Commons to-day that if the motion asking the House to adopt the report of the Parnell Commission with the amendment censuring the Parnellites is carried he will move a resolution declaring that the House deplores that it appears from the dates in the report and the evidence submitted to the Commission that when the Parnellites were engaged in alleged treasonable conspiracies many members of the Government, especially Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour, were in close alliance and treaty with those members—("Cries of "Oh! Oh!" and laughter and cheers)—and Lord Salisbury and the other members of the Government deserve severe condemnation.

The American donations to the Land League received during the last fortnight amount to $50,000.

Young Abraham Lincoln to-night is breathing very heavily, is in great pain and has occasional convulsions. The specialists who have been in consultation are hopeless of his recovery. It is said his latest seizure resembles that which threatened the life of the young King of Spain.

Gladstone Rapidly Recovering.

London, Feb. 25.—Mr. Gladstone is rapidly recovering from his catarrhal trouble.

For General Disarmament.

Brussels, Feb. 25.—In the Senate to-day M. VanPut urged that the delegates to the Berlin Labor Conference should propose a European conference looking to general disarmament. The speaker was cheered.

They Will Confer in French.

Berlin, Feb. 28.—Baron Von Berlepsch, Prussian Minister of Commerce, will preside over the Labor Conference. The discussions of the conference will be carried on in French.

To Mitigate Siberia's Horrors.

London, Feb. 25.—A committee has been formed in London with branches at Newcastle and other places, to endeavor to secure a mitigation of the treatment accorded political prisoners in Siberia. A number of workmen's clubs and Radical and Socialist associations will hold a demonstration in Hyde Park March 9 in favor of the exiles in Siberia.

Orleans' Prison Treatment.

Paris, Feb. 25.—The Duke of Orleans, now in the prison at Clairvaux, is treated as a political prisoner. The list of persons permitted to visit him has been curtailed.

Lord Mayor Isaacs Is Mad.

London, Feb. 25.—The Lord Mayor of London is charged with using his official position to float stock companies. He is indignant at the allegation.

The Behring Sea Question.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—The Russian Minister at Washington has been instructed to present the views of his government regarding the Behring Sea negotiations at Washington, particularly touching protection of seals during the breeding season.

Home Rule for Scotland and Wales.

London, Feb. 25.—Delegates favoring Home Rule for Scotland and delegates representing the Liberals of South Wales at a conference here to-day agreed to co-operate to obtain Home Rule for Scotland and Wales.

The Swiss Labor Conference Abandoned.

Berne, Feb. 25.—It is officially announced that the Swiss Labor Conference has been abandoned.

RECIPROCAL GENEROSITY.

Text of Premier Mercier's Resolution in Aid of Toronto University.

Quebec, Feb. 25.—The following is Premier Mercier's resolution respecting the destruction by fire of the Toronto University, which was distributed to-day and will be placed on orders on Thursday:

Whereas, on the occasion of destructive fires in the Saguenay district in 1870 the Legislature of Ontario unanimously voted on the 10th day of January, 1871, the sum of $5000 in aid of the sufferers by reason thereof, which sum was immediately thereafter paid;

Whereas, with simple interest since the said date the said sum would now make $10,700,

Whereas by the destruction by fire of the university buildings of the University of Toronto in the city of Toronto and Province of Ontario on the night of Feb. 14 a loss of upwards of $500,000 has been occasioned to the trustees of that university and to the people of the Province of Ontario;

Whereas, it is but just that this Legislature, as a token of gratitude for the generous grant made in 1871 to the people of this province who suffered by the Saguenay fires, should contribute to aid the sufferers by the destruction of the said university;

Be it therefore resolved, that the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council be authorized to pay the sum of $10,000 in aid of the reconstruction of the Toronto University destroyed by fire as above set forth.

THE ARIZONA DISASTER.

Twenty-five Bodies Recovered—The Survivors Destitute.

Prescott, Ariz., Feb. 25.—The worst fears in regard to the Walnut Grove disaster are realized. Two prospectors arrived last night from the upper dam. They say they camped about the dam Friday night. At about 1 o'clock Saturday morning the dam broke, the water rushing down the narrow canyon in a solid body 80 feet high. One man was rescued from the top of a tree. They state not even a remnant of the dam exists. The immense body of water, 1½ miles wide and 50 feet deep, was emptied in an hour. They had talked with many from the smaller dam 25 miles below who said that up to Saturday evening 25 bodies had been recovered. The survivors were in the greatest destitution, having neither provisions nor clothing. Coarse grain sacks were being used in lieu of clothes. The camp of workmen engaged in building a flume has not been heard from and it is feared all are lost. No news has yet been received here from Wickenburg or from the settlements below the dam.

That Awful Country.

St. Louis, Feb. 25.—A special says a hurricane swept over part of northern Texas today. The Masonic Hall in Gainesville was torn to pieces, the Court House unroofed, the Santa Fe Railway station wrecked and 20 buildings blown down. Several persons were injured.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

The special announcement which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of this valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing, same) is removed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which affect this noble animal to phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it the standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

HE MARCHED WITH SHERMAN TO THE SEA;

Trudged all the way on foot, over mountain and through morass, carrying knapsack and gun, slept on brush heaps to keep out of the wet, caught cold, from the effects of which his friends thought he would never recover. Lingering with slow consumption for many years, he saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advertised in a country newspaper, and he determined to try it. A few bottles worked a change; six months continued use cured him. Always too independent to ask his country for a pension, he now says he needs none. He helped save his country, he saved himself! Consumption is Lung-scrofula. For scrofula, in all its myriad forms, the "Discovery" is an unequaled remedy. It cleanses the system of all blood-taints from whatever cause arising, and cures all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, and kindred ailments. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all diseases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded. Sold by druggists.

Copyright, 1889, by WORLD'S DIS. MED. ASS'N.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY cures the worst cases, no matter of how long standing. 50 cents, by druggists.

CATARRH,
CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby give relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Advice to Mothers—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natura quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is verypleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teathing or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, sleepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pessimized by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poison and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but depurates it by increasing the action of the liver and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it never does so violently and with pain, like drastic cathartics. It aids but never voices. Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes those diseases humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling it from the circulation. Experience has proved that this scandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents Ask fos Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

Amherst Acknowledgments.

ACKNOWLEDGE the good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim I to be.
Allan A. Clarke Amherst, N.S

Consumption can be Cured

By proper, healthful exercises, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specities in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Pedricodo, N. B., says: "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

THE WESTERN
Assurance Company.
FIRE AND MARINE INS.
NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO..
FIRE & LIFE INS.,
Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co's.
Accident Insurance Coy of North America.
for Plate Glass Insurance Co'y
Agency "White Star Line S.
WM. SMEATON
Late Pope and Fenwick

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?
In 1890

The Home Seeker	takes 163 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the Manitoba Railway.
The Health Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, Hot and Hot Springs and Mineral water Sanitarium.
The Fortune Seeker	takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.
The Manufacturer	takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.
The Tourist	takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery of America.
The Traveller	takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.
The Teacher	takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the National Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.
Anyone	will receive maps, books and guides of the trip, free of charge, if addressed by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. St Paul, Minn.

ATTENTION.

Splendid farms in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 84 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 229 acres, three miles from Belleville, best of soil, 60 acres new land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville when the bridge is built. Splendid farm. Apply Feb 6 Flint, Anderson & Campbell.

WANTED
SPECIAL AGENTS
TO WORK
Life & Accident
INSURANCE,
In the County of Hastings; apply to
S BURROWS

BOOK BINDING
TAMMADGE
WE
Can state with confidence that we are the Expensive, Highly Perfum'd
TOILET SOAPS
There is none to equal in all respects
PURE
WHITE CASTILE SOAP.
Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet. While superior it is not half as expensive as the common toilet Soap sold by Grocers.
We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.
L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

GIVEN AWAY!
With every Dollar's Worth of Goods purchased I will give away One Loaf of Bread except Sugar
THOS H. COOK
Family Grocers and Bakers, Bridge Street, Belleville. Telephone 152.

THE
GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE
"With Pat't Duplex Grate
Has no equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed.
Can be supplied with
Oval round or Square Fire Pot
FITTED WITH
Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Can or any other kind of Grate.
FOSTER & FOSTER

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN
"HAIR MAGIC"
Preparations, helps dragging nature and with proper use will produce a fine head of hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent preparation for the hair is much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5.
Hair Goods.
for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpieces Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A Dorenwend is known in every country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you wish to be correct places to go to. Send for particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention this paper when writing.

LOOK HERE!
NEW CURE AGT
Will be at the
ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL,
Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism and Catarrh of any kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For consultation by letter address
NEW CURE AGENTS,
Box 248, Trenton, Ont.
24dw

MONEY FOR ALL
WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms, and secure choice of territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BROTHERS Nurserymen, Rochester. 13|8w|w

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES
Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the
—HOLIDAY SEASON—
is now very complete, embracing
FINEST TABLE RAISINS,
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
New Grenoble Walnuts,
New Soft Shell Almonds,
New Sicilia Filberts,
A Fine Assortment of
Cadbury's English Bonbons,
and
Chocolate Creams
mail Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade
Huntley and Palmer's
CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS
Including
Macaroons, Toy Crackcelle, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coconut SugarWafers
queen Biscuits — Bondoir biscuits — Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits
CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!!
(Specially for the Holiday Trade).
ROQUEFORT CHEESE
A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas
CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.
OYSTERS! OYSTERS
We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays
WINES, &C.,
Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of
CHAMPAGNE,
CLARETS
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.
ALES AND PORTER
ass's, Guiness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling
Phillip's Best Milwaukee Lager,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc.,
WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front St cor. opp Pitchie's

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from impoverished LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

Good morning
HAVE YOU USED PEARS' SOAP?

Manufactured only at Thomas Holloway's Establishment,
78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT
THE PILLS
Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the
LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS.
They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions.
In all Female Complaints are invaluable.
For Children and the aged they are priceless.
THE OINTMENT
is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for Gout and Rheumatism.
For disorders of the Chest it has no equal.
For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no rival; and for contracted and stiff joints it acts like a charm.
To Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots.
If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR.
JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF
THE
GREAT STRENGTH GIVER
IT SUPPLIES
Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

FIRST OF THE SEASON
Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Banannas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!
Just in to-day at
CONGER BROS

I CURE FITS! THOUSANDS OF BOTTLES GIVEN AWAY YEARLY.
When I say Cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of Fits, Epilepsy or Falling Sickness a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to Cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my Infallible Remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address:—H. G. ROOT, M.C., Branch Office, 186 WEST ADELAIDE STREET, TORONTO.

There is hardly any other disease which unexamined sps health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or
RUPTURE
It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and impairs devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.
In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.
SUFFERER, BE WISE
RUPTURE DEFORMITY
can only be treated by Mechanical Treatment.
After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.
Chas Cluthe, Surgical Machinest, 134 King West, To
Will visit professionally, Belleville Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Had with Hoosena Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy who was one year old was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctor said would heal and that his hair would never grow again. Seeing an ad. in a few papers, I began to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now thick and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most economical and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that every physician who has afflicted child will thank me for such advice.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. A sore on the leg, a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so badly affected he feared he would have this leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He was intangible to use his name which is H H Gaess, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pgs. 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES

Sharp Aches, Dull Pains Strain Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster, 30 cents.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. It is safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

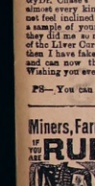
T. EDMANSON & CO., Agents for Dr. Fennell's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled "more years with liver complaint and with kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Fennell's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicines I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left with me, and they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours,

HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. RUPTURED OR DEFORMED



Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of the kind in Canada. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE and RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a certain cure when took 30 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order made especially for each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Plasters, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Promptness, honorable dealing and the very best of goods, have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE Surgical Machinist & Mfr. 134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

A PURE CURE

FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER, AND BOWELS. THEY ARE MILD, THOROUGH AND PROMPT IN ACTION, AND FOR A VALUABLE AND TONIC BLOOD PURIFIER, A PURE CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A Specialist's medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY

BELLEVILLE ONT.

CAPITAL - - - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farm or City property at lowest current rates.

Money can be made to pay full due at any month. No fees required or withdrawal.

OFFICE—Robertson Block, east side Front Street.

Borrowed loans at 7 per cent. No fines. Possession.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

"The -:- Judge."

CHAPTER IX.

HERE are a few catastrophes so great that they can disturb the small things of life. A frightful storm may rage upon the ocean, and the little rills that trickle down from the uplands still sing and sparkle in their way, undisturbed. And the pleasant little duties of Margaret's life remained unaltered. She arranged the flowers each morning in the bare kitchen table, she brought in and warmed her father's paper, she saw to the weekly washing and continued to embroider the Irish linen bed shams in impossible shamrocks. Not a word did she hear from Harry. His conduct was a mystery she could not fathom.

"It is strange," she often remarked to herself, "that I sleep and quietly think, and still enjoy beautiful days and that I can awake in the morning without pain. I must be a hopelessly healthy person. I hope I am not cold blooded."

The truth about her was that her mind was entirely without reality. She had never been given to the fine mental hysterics that afflict the age. She had not been in the habit of attending emotional dramas of the doubtful school, nor did she read the novels of Balzac or Zola, nor the weak imitations of them by Sallus. Margaret was not a very well educated young woman. She knew, to tell the truth, far more about text books than about literature. Her thought and feelings were therefore her own and not those of some conscience-stricken maid of another race and condition of morality. She was not fond of soliloquizing and as she had a growing desire to have some one near her that she could talk to, she begged her father one morning to get her a maid or a companion.

"I want a sort of paid friend, you see, papa. Some one that I can talk to whether I bore her or not. I do not care to go out as I used and the house seems terribly large to me. Let me have a little maid."

"You know nothing about maids, Margaret," said the judge, who was immediately opposed to the idea. "They are all tattlers. Your affairs will be known all over the city."

"I shall make a cautious selection, if you will only give your consent," pleaded the girl. "I think you can hardly imagine how dull it is here all day. There is not very much to look forward to. Life seems very uninteresting to me at present." She could not resist the temptation now and then to let him known that she was suffering. She felt that he had no sympathy with her and she could not quite forgive him for it.

"I do not like another stranger in the house," he said coldly. Margaret sprang up from the table in a little passion.

"Can you not let me have some compensation for all I am suffering?" she cried. "I get no help from those I have a right to expect it from. Can you wonder that I want to see if money cannot supply what—" she stopped suddenly and threw her arms around the judge's neck.

"I do love him, papa, and there is no one to help me or even say a word all day."

The judge rubbed one long hand over her sunny hair. It felt deliciously warm and womanly.

"I should think that you would wish to keep your thoughts to yourself at such a time," he said kindly, "and not take a stranger into your confidence."

"What do you suppose I am going to do?" said she impatiently. "I merely want some one to help me pass the days. I am not going to get a common servant. I want some one who will not be fond of me. I am sure we need not be so afraid of being spied on. We do nothing that we are afraid of being found out, I hope."

"Afraid of having found out!" cried the judge angrily. "I wish you would get over the habit of talking at random, Margaret. So many women say everything they think, no matter how preposterous the thought. For heaven's sake get the girl, whoever she is."

"I beg your pardon, papa," said Margaret, in a hurt tone, "I am sure I did not mean to bother. I will not get any one if you do not like the idea. I meant no harm. I know I am impertinent sometimes. Forgive me." She kissed him and went out of the room. The day seemed an unusually long one to her. The heavy curtains at her window shut out the dull winter light, and she began low over her work as she sat in her low chair plodding over her embroidery. She worked at it with as much persistency as if she were earning her daily bread by it, and as she worked she thought. She had visited every place where it seemed at all likely that Harry would go, and without finding any trace of that night visit. In spite of his coldness she had tried to communicate with him by leaving notes at his office, but they returned unopened. If she went out for a walk she was sure to find herself near the gloomy house in which he was kept, till she had grown to have a horror of solitary walks. Her fashionable friends treated her in a manner that was calculated to be the most seemly for the trying circumstances, but their studied efforts to be kind hurt the poor girl more than their neglect would have done.

"Society is never more disagreeable," she said to herself, "than when it undertakes to be magnanimous." She had not been long out of school and it so chanced that she had no intimate friend excepting the two unfortunate women who bore the name of Leiter. Mrs. McCook had not been near the house since the tragedy and Margaret had instinctively kept away from her since that scene with her son. It was not strange, therefore, that the girl was lonely. This day she felt deeply aggrieved. She thought that her friends were treating her with particular animosity, and as she brought up all her troubles before her mind's eye she fell into a paroxysm of self pity. In the midst of this, and while the tears were falling down on the linen she still held, the solemn footfall of a stranger made her approach. She had recently taken to wearing a band of crepe around her head. Not that she had lost any friend, but Margaret could learn of, but that she thought it gave her a sort a melancholy dignity.

"There's a young woman comin' behind me, miss," she said, almost with tears now would have thought who was not acquainted with her peculiarities, "who says the judge sent her up to me about getting a place as maid."

"Send her right in," cried Margaret cordially, smiling to think how soon her father had repented. She was secretly a little proud of having him in training. Lydia, the moorfowl, left for the kitchen and a little maid entered. As she lifted the curtain and came in the room, Margaret could have laughed aloud at the irresistible figure she made. She was short and plump. A cloak of dark blue covered her from head to foot, and on a head of fiery red curls sat a cap of muskrat fur. Freckles, large and red, spotted her flushed and delicate skin, and a pair of humorous eyes shone out upon the young lady in azure honesty.

"Come in," said Margaret. "I am Miss Barthwait. Did my father ask you to see me?"

"Yes," said the young woman in a ringing voice and breaking into a smile that revealed a set of beautiful teeth, "I was on the street car talking with a friend and saying that I would like very much to live with some young lady in the city, and your father heard me and asked me up to his office. When I had told him all about my self he sent me up."

"Perhaps you might tell me over again. What sort of a place did you want? Why do you leave home? I am sure you have never been away never."

"Could you tell that, really? Papa is a farmer out here near Lawndale. There are other girls at home and there is no room for me. I thought I would like to take care of myself—but not exactly as a servant, Miss Barthwait." Margaret made a deprecatory gesture.

"Oh, of course," she murmured.

"I've been through common school," went on the little damsel in a voice very much too loud for the necessities of the occasion. "And I can read well, and write a little and sew. I know how to take care of sick people, and I would be very glad to do any work about the house." But she got no farther. She had unfastened her cloak and let it fall back from her shoulders. As she did so the pink ribbon made its appearance around her neck, and on this was an ornament that fixed Margaret's attention. It was not quite in the nature of an execution, such a toy as a connoisseur in gems would affect, and certainly the last thing that one would expect to see in the possession of a little farmer girl.

"Tell me," said Margaret excitedly, "where you got that beautiful intaglio you wear on your neck." She tried in vain to speak with indifference. She felt the blood rush into her cheeks and knew that the her breath was making a noise as it came hotly between her quivering lips. The little maid turned and looked at her.

"I have only had it a little while," she said; "father was going to town one morning when he found a young gentleman lying on the snow. Father thought he was frozen at first. He picked him up and put him in the waggon and drove him into town. Before he had reached the city the young man had come to himself, and when he left he gave father this old silk waist. Father didn't think much of it; but I thought it beautiful, and so he gave it to me."

"Allow me," gasped Margaret, fingering it tremblingly. "Could you tell me the date, my dear, when this was found. I mean when the young man was found?"

"Why, the truth is, Miss Barthwait, I am not very good at remembering dates and one day is so much like another on the farm that commonly we know very little about them. And yet I think I could remember this after all, for father was making an effort to get to town to buy a dress for ma. It was ma's birthday and that was on the 15th of January—or at least—

"Try to think, my dear," whispered Margaret, seizing the cold, plump hands in hers and looking straight in the pretty blue eyes. "Try to be sure."

"Yes, I am quite sure, Miss Barthwait. It was the 15th. Ma's birthday comes on the 16th and this was the day before."

"Take off your cloak," said Margaret, taking it off for her as she spoke. "I am sure you are going to stay with me. I am a very lonely girl and I need a friend. Take off your hat. We shall have some tea. Kindly push that bell behind you. Now sit down and tell me something more about the young man. Did your father think he had—had been drinking?"

"No, no, he did not think that. He thought he was exhausted or confused. He didn'd seem quite in his right mind."

"Perhaps he had been drugged or hit on the head."

"Perhaps. I did not see him, of course. Father thought him a very handsome young man, and he said he could see he was a gentleman with elegant manners, just from the way he parted from him. I always felt interested in him."

"Of course," said Margaret, clasping her hands, "naturally."

"When he left," went on the little damsel, stretching out her feet to the fire, "he gave pa this. He didn't want it, you know. Pa doesn't care for fancy things, so he gave it to me."

"Where did the strange young man go when he left your father?" inquired the listener, growing too absorbed to care what her visitor might think of her unaccountable curiosity.

"Pa said he saw him go into a Turkish bath house."

"Where—where?" gasped Margaret. The blue eyes of her small guest were beginning to open very wide, and her cheeks to flush a deeper crimson.

"It was on Monroe, near State, I think I heard pa mention it. You see we have so few things to talk about that we are apt to make much of little. It's strange that it should interest you so much, Miss Barthwait."

"My dear," sobbed Margaret, finding that her composure must go, and instinctively deciding to let it go dramatically, "it is not at all strange, for that young man is my own dear Harry, and he is being tried for a murder that was committed that night. You see, if I could prove where he was, I might save him from all suspicion."

The little stranger fell to trembling with excitement and sympathy. She patted Margaret's shoulder with her plump palm and cooed like a sun bathed dove.

"I shall just stay on and help you, poor, dear child. I beg your pardon, Miss Barthwait, but you won't mind, will you? Don't you cry now, don't you do it. Maybe we will be able to prove exactly what he was doing. It almost seems as if I had been guided here. Don't you think that people are sometimes guided? Think if I had not worn that charm?"

"Think, think!" sobbed Margaret. "Kiss me, my dear. I am so thankful I have found a friend. I have been terribly lonesome. I've tried to be brave, but I'm only a girl, and girls need friends." Then the two sat down and cried together. Then rivetted their friendship.

Later in the day they were both enrolled, entering remarkable shamrocks on their sheets, and the little damsel had sent home for her trunk. That evening—or rather in the early dusk that preceded evening—the two made their way to the bath house, where it was supposed that Harry had gone on that fateful night. To their surprise, they were met the door by a gesticulative Frenchman, who shrieked, with a wild flinging about of his arms, that they were on the wrong side, and that to reach the ladies' bath they must go through the hairstore—the latter word not translated. But Margaret calmly persisted, and they were finally admitted to the ladies' apartments. Even here, the warm moisture from the hot room flosted out to them laden with a strange perfume, luxurious and oriental. The little damsel stared around with wide eyes, but Margaret kept her lids over hers, lest the tears in them should attract attention. It took a good deal of persuasion on her part to induce the man to examine his books for the night, and he had to confess that a dear friend of hers had disappeared. She said she had heard of his being at the bath-room on the 15th of January. She wished to make sure.

The man smelled a romance, and being a Frenchman that conquered him. He refused in two languages—and then yielded. Sure enough the gentleman had been there. No, he remembered nothing about him. He had evidently come early in the morning, for his name was the first on that day's list. Could he escort the lady to her carriage? No! He saluted her then, and was delighted to have been of service. And so he bowed the young woman out, and dreamt of Margaret's face for fifteen minutes—which was a long time for a man like him. There was no doubt thing that Margaret was very comely. The little damsel, whose name, by the way, was Jeanne Whitfield, thought so too. That evening as Margaret sat playing one of those ever sweet things of Chopin's that women love, as they do all confections, the little damsel sitting beside her could hardly conceal her enthusiasm. For one thing, there were Margaret's hands, which, though the damsel to herself, would have made her famous if she had been one of those great ladies that Louise Mulbach writes about.

TO BE CONTINUED

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

CURE SICK HEADACHE

Sick Headache and relieve all the trouble incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK HEADACHE

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured is the home of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., N. Y.

Small Pills. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adhered institutional prejudice against the Prof. Loisette System of the Original, in spite of the grossly misrepresentations by envious would-be imitations, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, full of which demonstrate his undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching, Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized today in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. To Prospectus, post free, gives opinions of people of all parts of the globe who have adopted the Art, Testimonials, Prospectus, Specimen Page, etc., sent free on application. While being studied, the entire system may be learned in a single evening, and when learned, it is for life. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address,

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

Don't Fool

away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is guaranteed to cure in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin and scalp, and all scrofulous affections, or money paid for it will be refunded.

Nature Has Provided.

A remedy for every disease and pain and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wresting the secrets of her domain. A most wonderful discovery has recently been made by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain. Nervoline, or nerve pain cure, represented in very concentrated form the most potent pain relieving substitutes known to medical science, and strange to say it is composed of substitutes wholly vegetable in character. Nervoline is the most prompt, certain and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Sold in 10 and 25 cent bottles by all dealers in medicines.

Nerve Pain Cure.

Polson's Nervoline for headache, sciatica, chills and spasms. Nervoline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nervoline cures headache, sea sickness and numerous complaints. Nervoline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica. Nervoline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nervoline is the best remedy is the best remedy in the world, and only costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nervoline.

Scotts Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites

sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Piles! Itching Piles

SYMPTOMS—Moist are; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching, as if pin worms; commencing from a form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore, and discharging quantities of matter and blood. Dr. Bosanko's Pile Ointment 50 cents, 8 x 12 prescription

Death Dealing Drugs

SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are are remedies better left alone. They often cause more suffering than the disease they are intended to cure. Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair

There are times when it becomes required to pay special attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplys fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get it. You can get it of any Druggist. Price 75 cents. Dr. Dorenwends Great German Hair Magic.

A Cure for Deafness.

THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and sprains, is used internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervoline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute some back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure. Nervoline.

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good.

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST.

CONTAINS NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY ADULTERATION SUBSTANCE.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT. CHICAGO, ILL.

THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKE.

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y.

THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the usual outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and have no agents, from foot to sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to a honorable and successful career, having now nearly two million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Dominion Government of $100,000. Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company safe and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK

W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe

J. Martin agent Shirling.

DOMINION LINE

—OF—

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIP

LIVERPOOL SERVICE

DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb. 27th

from Halifax, Sat March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Port and April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock,

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, about Feb. 19th.

Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool: Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow

Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London Glasgow, Queenstown, Belfast.

The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

"Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ship, where but little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or

T C LAZIER Agent Belleville

SALESMEN WANTED.

Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and supply are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Write for terms which are very liberal, before engaging with any other house.

REFERENCES—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman & Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY NURSERYMEN,

COLBORNE — ONTARIO.

FOR MEN ONLY!

A POSITIVE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD, Nervous Debility, Nightly Emissions, Lost Vitality, Impotency, and other DISEASES resulting from Indiscretion, Secret Habits, Youthful Errors, Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Blotches on Face, Premature Decay, Loss of Memory, Pimples on Face, Aversion to Society, Lassitude, Pain in Back, Dizziness, Weak Eyes, Nervous Headache, Universal Lassitude, Wakefulness, Bad Dreams, Nervous Irritability, Sexual Weakness, Impotency, Diminished Sexual Power, Lost Manhood, Premature Old Age, Wasting of the Organs, Consumption, Insanity, Epilepsy, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Weakness, Kidney Complaints

NEW SPRING GOODS!

1890!

NEW PRINTS,
NEW TABLE LINENS,
NEW TOWELLINGS,
NEW WHITE COTTONS,
NEW EMBROIDERIES,
NEW ART MUSLINS,

And a Variety of other Goods suitable for the early spring trade.

REMEMBER we are now in our new Premises, the large four story building across the street, south, from the old land.

NEW CARPETS.

50 Bales New Carpets, Curtain Materials, etc., now arriving in bond.

We show a Fine Assortment of Patterns this spring. Don't fail to see them.

No climbing of stairs to our carpet rooms. They are reached by our Hydraulic Passenger Elevator—the only one in the city.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb. 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 27 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Dennessys' Dry Goods store—or by post. Address Box 98, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
Tuner.

At Goldsmith's

Own fish store received to-day, cod although distillerablut 5cts per lb. Fresh halibut in corn imported fshell lobster, brook trout, frozen down the bill in thite, red fish, flounders, sea herring, and refused to allo halibut, etc. Imported lock fine of the distillers to by the dozen. All kinds pickled also wanted the duty on binder twine but is and no. Fishermen, twine and cordage fredice magistrate gave judgment facts should convince th in the case of Phillips vs need not hope for legustaining the contention of R. John and his followers in Q C., that he had no benefit to them. Manuh the case. it was not a crimi capitalists, however, whl the plaintiff should bring shell out when Sir vohbl court.

pay election expenses

The Ladies Attend.

—iced from the press of Ottawa, saw to g and other places that there is Objectionable in the performance

What girls shou lmore company which will appear nat! Not primh Twelve Temptations on Saturday girl well go up, w! The performances are largely at and when that fied by ladies.

cotton, yet it fi compete with enly dresser,

attention to discontente stated that Charles Finkle formerly of be a mast Belleville was in a critical state and not

A girl expected to live. It appears that la grippe properly had developed into a more serious disease

heed until the doctors state that he may not recover. His brothers, William and Jake, left for Toronto last night.

mas.

on m know bad

Hymenial.

Thos. Hatton, station master at Eldorado, was married at the Methodist parsonage, Frankford, on the 26th inst. to Miss Mary E. Sharp, of Murray township. After the ceremony the happy couple took the train south to Trenton and thence east by the Grand Trunk to spend part of the honeymoon.

Resolutions of Sympathy

At a meeting of the Bridge St. officials last night resolutions were passed in reference to the death of the Rev. R. Robinson and of sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace. Another young man attending Albert College. Mr. C. Cotter was recommended to the examining board of the conference for the preliminary examinations.

Clothes Line Thieves

Clothes line thieves are always on deck. On Tuesday night last Wm. Warham detected a man in his yard at an early hour in the act of cutting the line. As soon as the man saw that he was detected he climbed over the fence in double quick time and disappeared. Another instance similar to this occurred a few nights ago on east Bridge street.

The House Will be Warm

Those who felt the cold atmosphere at the Opera House at the Norah Clench concert need not have any apprehensions for the like occurring again this season. One of the furnaces had broken down during the day but it has now been repaired and Manager Tammadge gives every assurance that with another register that he has just put in, the house will be comfortable and cosy on Saturday night.

Evangelistic Campaign.

Next week the Rev. Dr. Searles and the Whyte Brothers, come to our city to assist in a series of Gospel meetings in Bridge St. church. Of the first gentleman we need say nothing as hundreds of citizens have heard and know him, the Whyte Bros., however, come to us as complete strangers, but bring with them a reputation of godly men who are by the power of gospel song winning hundreds to the right.

Tablet to the Late Major Short.

Messrs. Pritchard & Andrews, engravers Ottawa, have just completed a handsome brass plate 35½ by 23½ to the order of the Canadian artillery officers in memory of the late Major Charles John Short, of Quebec the tablet bears the motto, Quo Fas Et Gloria Ducunt, and reads, In memory of Major Charles John Short, commanding "B" battery, Canadian artillery, who lost his life in discharge of his duty at the great fire at St. Sauveur, Quebec, on 16th May, 1889, aged 42 years. The tablet is erected by his brother officers in affectionate remembrance."

MARRIED.

HATTON—SHARP—At the Methodist parsonage Frankford, Feby. 26th 1890 by the Rev. S. A. Dupraw, Mr Thos. Hatton, station master at Eldorado to Miss Mary Eliza Sharp of the township of Murray FOUL PLAY.

A DEAD BODY OF A NEWMARKET MAN FOUND IN HIS CELLAR.

Shot Through the Heart and Robbed—The Murderer Unknown.

NEWMARKET, Ont. Feb27.—What appears to be a case of foul murder was discovered here last night. The body of Robert A. Smith, merchant of this place and but recently married was found in the cellar of his house late last evening with a bullet hole through the heart. A small revolver lay beside the body and from the appearance of the clothing, robbery has been the object of the deed the pockets having been emptied and the watch chain ripped from his vest. It was also discovered that some drawers upstairs had been ransacked. A small door leading to the cellar under an outside staircase was found removed. A postmortem examination is now taking place.

THE LATE PROF GREENE.

Resolutions of Condolence From Deaf Mutes at Toronto.

At a meeting of the Toronto Adult Deaf Mute Society, held at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday, the 23rd February, the following resolutions were passed, as expressing the sympathy of the members with the family of the late Prof. S. T. Greene:—"Resolved.—It being the will of the all-wise and Almighty Father to remove from us by death our dearly beloved friend and counsellor, S. T. Greene; 1st, that we humbly submit ourselves to the will of the Almighty; 2nd, that we have lost a noble and unselfish worker on our behalf, one who could and was ever willing to help us along through the thorny paths of life, and whose unfailing zeal has contributed greatly to our happiness and prosperity; 3rd, that we hereby offer our heartfelt sympathy with his wife and children in their sudden bereavement; 4th, we rejoice in the sure and certain hope that our friend is safe now from the storms of this life in the arms of Him who sent him in our midst to be an enlightenment for those who, suffering the like heavy afflictions were by his means converted into happy and useful members of society. Thus from the seeds of the good works he had sown even in his lifetime he reaped an abundant harvest. His memory will always be cherished by us, and his untimely loss deplored; 5, resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent to his wife and family, to the Institution for Deaf Mutes at Belleville, and to the daily press of the same place."

DIVISION COURT LIST

Evil-less Oath Causes a Prominent Feature of the Proceedings

The following huddless cata cases will be tired by jury at the next sitting of the division court Mar 4: W D Fuller v D A DeLong, et al; W D Fuller v John J Ingles, et al; W D Fuller v Riley Vanslyke and John H Bonisteel; Daniel Phillips v Joseph Brason; William Dafoe v John Osterhout; W D Fuller v W Townsend. The following will be tried without a jury: W D Fuller v Richard Bailey; S Burrows v German Bailey; S Burrows v George Green, et al; Bank of Montreal v D A Delong; W D Fuller v Robert Elliott; Dr Yonker v J W Adams; Elias Huffman v John Roblin; James Lennox v Cyrus Giles; Bank of Montreal v James Hockey et al; John J B Flint v W B Robinson. Other suits: M A Roblin v Pudelia Roblin; Mary Ann Hull v Mary Dame; H Jones v Peter Bristol; C H Vermilyea v Thos Downs; George Isaac Boyce v Mrs Ellen Vivian et al; S S Wallbridge v W Hurst; James Connistine & Co v G A Landon; John Gilbert v Robert Backus; Merchants Bank v Jas S Ostrom; The following cases were laid over from last court: J P Peace, et al v O Donovan; J S Powley vs W S Woof and A E Woof; Caverly Bros, P C, George A McIntyre, P D, William Hope, garnishee; W A Lingham v. Robt Day; Geo D Dickson, Q C, v. Mrs W H Ross; H James v. Peter McPherson, et al; J Wright v. J C Keith; James Hennessy v. John Taugher, Jas. Hennessy v. William Harding; Pitceathley & Kelso v. Charles Doran; J B Ostrom v. John Miller and James Knox; McAlpine Tobacco Co. v. P B McGuire; W Leonard vs Joe Langman; Pope & Fenwick vs W. J. Jones; P J Drake, P C Garrett Vader, P D, Gilbert Jones, garnishee

Max and Canadian Girls

Max O'Rell, who is on a visit to this country is credited with the following remarks about our girls: "Very favorable particularly the Canadian girls. In all my travels I have never seen so many pretty members of the fair sex, and you Canadian fellows are to be envied. The American, though bright, vivacious and charming, are pale and insipid; but here the cold wind seems to whip the warm color into their faces and with their jaunty fur hats they look exquisite. One can tell that they have plenty of healthy sport, and I could feast my eyes on them all day. At the ball in Toronto to which I was invited I never saw so many pretty women together before."

Grand Opera House.

The Twelve Temptations drew an immense throng to the Grand Opera house and fierce was the struggle to obtain tickets and seats. The audience was chiefly composed of the starner sex, although there was nothing in the piece itself nor in the costuming to have offended the most susceptible lady. The piece is a wild melody of absurdities strung together by a meagre and timeworn plot and serves to introduce pantomimists, acrobats, ingenious transformation scenes, gorgeous ballets, marches, songs, etc. As a whole the production seemed to meet the wishes of the audience and the applause was frequent and prolonged. The corps de ballet led by Bonfanti, were exceptionally good and went through their graceful manoeuvres in a faultless manner.—Ottawa Free Press Tuesday Feb. 26th.

A Woman in the Case.

There always is. She is the power behind the throne A woman's influence over the man who loves her is often absolute. To wield so great a power to guide, strengthen and help her husband, a woman's mind should be clear and healthy. It cannot be if she is suffering from any functional derangement. How many a home is made unhappy because she who should be its life and light is a wretched, depressed, morbid invalid! Wives, mothers and daughters, why suffer from "female complaints" which are sapping your lives away when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will renew your health and gladden those about you! It has restored happiness to many a saddened life. Why endure martyrdom when relief is so easy? In its special field there never was a restorative like the "Favorite Prescription."

To cleanse the stomach, liver and system generally, use Dr. Pierces Pellets, 25 cents.

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, securing alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

TALK WITH THE BOYS.

M Quad Says They had Best Stick to the Farm.

ENTERPRISE, INS, FEB. 20, 1890.

M. QUAD:

Dear Sir—I have been taking the Free Press for three years and have read with much interest your "Talks with the Boys." I am 20 years of age, and live on a farm; but I very much dislike farm labor. My desire is to be a clerk, but my father says that I had better stay in the country than to go to the city, and he will not let me go. He says there is no chance for a country boy in a city. Please advise me as to the best. A SUBSCRIBER.

Your father is pretty level headed on this subject, and after you have looked at the case in all its bearings you will be more reconciled to your present avocation. You have been learning to farm ever since you were old enough to pull weeds. By this time you must know all about it. Make a change to something else and you throw away what it has taken you years to learn.

You want to be a clerk. What kind of a clerk? There are clerks who wish they had been horse to become farmers because you have seen them dressed up and apparently enjoying themselves, you argue that it is a capital avocation. The hours of a clerk are as long as a farmer's and many of them work for less money than a farmer's hired man. Now and then a smart one will get ahead over by circumstances but the old saying "Once a clerk always a slave," holds pretty good. In the cities no men are worked harder or poorer paid, and no class of mental man have harder work to make both ends meet.

The chance for a country boy in a city depends upon what he comes for, how much ambition he has got, and the way he has been brought up. If he comes to fill a place and will do what is right he will get along well. If he comes to look for work he will stand a poor show. Stick right where you are and to what you have learned, and if you have push and energy and farm intelligently, you will be better off at 30 than any five clerks you know of put together.

THE LISTON FAMILY.

Thankful for Past Favors—What They Would Like Done.

John Liston and family of Kingston who narrowly escaped cremation by the burning of their dwelling are now in the hospital doing as well as can be expected. A number of benevolent people, touched by the sad affliction of the family, have sent in liberal donations and the Rathbun Company, for whom the injured man laboured, have assumed the responsibility of having their present wants fully supplied. A News reporter visited Mr. Liston and asked him what he meant to do when he recovered from his injuries. His reply was that he felt overwhelmed with the kindness of the people and would like them to build and furnish a house. By this means he would not have to pay rent, he said, and it would be something that he would have to remember their kindness by. He also stated that he would like to have the property near his work. The News does not state what the subscriptions amount to.

MRS FOSTER'S CASE.

London Truth Comments Unfavorably Upon the Incident.

LONDON, Feb 16.—Labouchere in Truth discourses as follows upon a recent Ottawa sensation.

"Lady Stanley, following, it is stated the royal precedent, has declined to invite Mrs. Foster, the wife of one of the Canadian ministers, to a reception after a state dinner, which Mrs. Foster was required officially to attend, because she was divorced from her first husband for desertion on his part. If this be so, Lady Stanley has done an exceedingly foolish thing, and one which the entire Canadian cabinet ought to resent by declining to hold any social relations with Lord and Lady Stanley. The Canadian law allows divorce for desertion. I presume that Mrs. Foster is not a criminal for having most wisely taken advantage of the law when her first husband deserted her; nor, as remarriage was legally permissable, is she a criminal for marrying Mr. Foster. Lady Stanley of course, has a perfect right to lay down any rules that she pleases—whether sensible or the reverse—as to whom she admits to her private friendship. But, as the wife of the governor-general of the dominion, giving official receptions with the money voted for this purpose by the Canadians, she has no right to act upon her personal fads."

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

To be Granted by the Government of Quebec Province for Toronto University.

A Quebec despatch says Mr. Mercier's sympathy with the sister province of Ontario in the disaster which has overtaken it in the burning of Toronto University will assume the practical form of a substantial gift of money. In the resolutions which he will offer this week the legislature will be asked to vote $10,000 for the purpose and in these reference will also be made to the time when Ontario, with sisterly affection, sent contributions when our own people were afflicted by great calamities such as the great fires in Saguenay county in 1871.

L'Electeur says that Mr. Mercier had a capital idea in proposing to the House to vote $10,000 in aid of the Toronto university. and this at a moment when, not far from the ruins of the hitherto splendid structure, the abolition of the Separate schools is undergoing discussion. A Catholic province so violently slandered as Quebec is, comes forward with a helping hand to her sorrow-stricken sister and offers her substantial proof of her sympathy to help her to rebuild a Protestant university. The example is simply grand and noble. Hon. Mr. Mercier is in this instance the faithful interpreter of the chivalric sentiments of the French race of which he is a magnificent representative. That act of tolerance when compared with so much excess of fanaticism is to us a masterly piece of policy. What false notions will be dissipated what an amount of fanaticism will disappear, how many will blush at the slanders they lavished on us. Education is a sacred cause to all peoples and to all races, and when Quebec in the name of education tends a helping hand to her sister province, can Ontario refuse to the Catholic minority the free exercise of its educational rights.

The Public Meeting.

The carpenters and joiners will hold a public meeting in the city hall tonight for the discussion of labor topics. Several speakers will address the meeting.

Mock Parliament.

A lively and interesting meeting will be held this evening when the Hon. Alexander Walker, leader of the equal rights party in the house, will introduce a resolution providing for the total abolition of French as an official language in Canada. This motion is much more radical than the one introduced by Mr. McCarthy in the Dominion Parliament and will interested in the Dual language question will have an opportunity of hearing it fully and ably discussed.

De Not be Deceived

All baking powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the purest and best, sold by all grocers.

LAW AND ORDER.

AN EFFORT TO ORGANIZE A BRANCH LEAGUE IN THIS CITY.

Mr Barnes Before the Ministerial Association—The Platform of the League.

Rev. W. H. Barnes, pastor of the Reformed Episcopal church is endeavoring to organize a Belleville branch of the "Law and order league of America." At the last meeting of the ministerial association the rev. gentleman read an interesting paper on the subject. The work he has undertaken is a new idea to Belleville, but not so in the Dominion. The first Canadian organization of the kind was formed in Montreal some years ago. Finding that the law was by no means rigidly enforced in that city, some of those interested in questions of public morality put themselves in communication with the law and order league, and Colonel Dudley went from Boston to the city on the St. Lawrence, held several meetings, formed a league and did some other excellent work. Three years ago Judge Bonney of Chicago, Col. Dudley and others went to Hamilton to speak on this subject of the enforcement of the law, and there they met Mr. J. J. MacLaren, who became interested in the work and took the necessary steps for the organization of a league in Toronto. The Law and Order League invited the Citizens' League of the United States to hold its annual meeting there this year and the invitation was accepted. It is understood that during the session it proposed the name of the league will be changed, with a view to giving the organization more of an international character.

"The Law and Order league has adopted as one of the chief planks of its platform the theory that it is a duty incumbent upon good citizens to enforce all laws that are passed for the protection and well being of society; that when officers are under adverse influences and are unwilling to perform their duty, it then becomes the duty of good citizens so combine together and compel the proper performance of their functions on the part of the officers.

"The Law and Order Leagues do not intend to assume the responsibilities nor to usurp the powers or duties of public officers. They are founded upon the assumption that the lawless classes—those who thrive by lax administration of the law combine together and exert an organized influence against the enforcement of law, and make it necessary that good citizens who desire the well being of society should also combine together in order that their influence may be brought to bear to secure the faithful execution of the laws.

The logic of the movement is that under free Governments like those of the United States and Canada, while the people need all the law making the law enforcing power at their command, it is still necessary that they should form a bond of union to see that their officers, who are the public servants, faithfully perform their duties."

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

W. Coe, Madoc, is in the city.

A. S. Foster, Guelph, is in the city.

J. McDonald, Petrolia is at the Queen's.

Harford Ashley, was in Yarker to-day.

W. J. Brown, Toronto, is in the city.

John Boswell, New York is at the Kyle house.

James Kellar, Duluth, is stopping at the Kyle house.

W. Morrison, Toronto is registered at the Queen's.

Geo. Simes, Quebec is stopping at the Dominion.

C. Robson, Oshawa, will attend college in Belleville.

Father O'Brien, Read, was in the city yesterday.

Archie Riddle, York branch, is a guest at the Queen's.

Thos. Tambly, Sherbrook, is registered at the Dominion.

Jas. A. Luther, Chicago, is registered at the Kyle house.

J. W. Hammond, Montreal, is stopping at the Kyle house.

W. Lee, of the Brown Manufacturing Co., is in Toronto.

H. B. Hungerford of Belleville is travelling for a Montreal house.

Geo. Tritles, who has been attending college here left for Chicago last night.

W. R. Aylsworth, reeve of Deseronto, and N. Vermilyea, warden, returned from Toronto yesterday.

H. Lloyd, first vice president of the carpenters and joiners of America who will speak in the city hall tonight is a guest at the Kyle house.

TOWN TALK.

The civic committee will meet to-night.

The water in the river fell considerably last night.

Seven tramps sought protection in the police station last night.

John Newman died at the hospital yesterday of consumption.

The charge of larceny against Andrew Stewart was laid over until to-morrow.

The W. C. T. U., will (D. V.) meet in the E. T. hall, Friday, 28th inst., 3 p. m.

PROBS.—North to east winds, mostly cloudy, with light local snow or rain; stationary or a little lower temperature.

A communication asks why the bicycle club don't organize. Billy Lingham, the former captain is in Toronto and will no doubt resign his office. The annual meeting of the club will be held in March.

E. Snell an extensive cattle dealer of Guelph who has been in the city visiting relatives for several days returned home last night. He made himself a popular favorite among the boys.

Let quality, not quantity, be the test of a medicine. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the concentrated extract of the best and purest ingredients. Medical men everywhere recommend it as the surest and most economical blood medicine in the market.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his hydrophobia proposed to Dr. Lane Kerlay on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., MONTREAL. Que Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

SYMPTOMS—No sure; intense itching and stinging, most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia. Syman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

"FOR YEARS I suffered from dyspepsia in its worst forms, and after trying all means in my power to no purpose, friends persuaded me try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after using five bottles I was completely cured.

A FICKLE LOVER.

How Louis Mantel Attempted to Elope Consubial Happiness.

Oswego Palladium.

MANTEL—DEMARS—In Montreal, February 15th, 1890 by the Rev. Father Saigains Mr. Louis Mantel and Miss Anna May DeMars of this city.

The above notice occasioned a good deal of comment in First ward, where the parties are known. Louis Mantel, a good looking Frenchman, arrived here some time ago from Montreal and was soon a favorite with our French citizens. Early last spring he formed the acquaintance of Annie May DeMars, a pretty French girl. Annie was sixteen, and between them there sprang up a strong attachment. Sundays they attended church together, and it was an open secret that the two were engaged to be married. The good looking young man was an attentive lover, and Annie and her friends had the most implicit confidence in him.

The engagement was announced to friends several weeks ago and the marriage day set for February 12th. The marriage bans were twice published, and guests had been invited to the wedding. The Monday before the ceremony was to have been Mantel called upon his bride elect and urged the postponing of the wedding for a week, which would have it take place on Shrove Tuesday night. Miss DeMars and her friends consented.

The next heard was that Mantel was missing and after some inquiry it was learned that he had left for Montreal, where it was hinted he had left a sweetheart whom his father insisted he should marry. Miss DeMars was indignant, but she wasted no time in tears and determined upon following the fickle Canadian. Her friends protested against her action but nothing they could say would induce her to change her mind. She packed her wedding garments and taking a train was soon on her way to the historic city. She evidently found her week kneed lover and according ly they were married.

Should not be Witout it.

SIRS,—Without your Shgyard's Pectoral Balsam for severe coughs and coldsand can recommend it to be just what is represented to be. We would not be without it. H. SAMS.

Calmest, Ont

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Halls Hair Renewer to restore the colour of my hair.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This is not so when you that base substitution is practise when the great sure pop corn cure is asked or. Putnam's Painless Corn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a mountain of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

Some of the herbs in Halls Hair Renewer, that wonderful preparation for restoring the color and thickening the growth of hair, grow plentifully in New England.

BANKRUPT SALE

Grant's Bankrupt Stock has been again marked down. Call in and note prices and be convinced that you can purchase

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

at prices never before offered in this city. This great Reduction sale commences on

SATURDAY, FEB. 22'D

JUST -- OPENED -- OUT.

FIRST SHIPMENT

—OF—

NEW SPRING HATS

NEWEST,
CHEAPEST,
NOBBIEST.

Call and see them!

No Trouble to Show Goods!

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

☞ N. B.—The balance of Furs will be cleared out cheap, to make room for new Goods.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS -- OF -- REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

100 PAIRS

—o—

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

PANTINGS

—|o|—

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries!

Direct from Switzerland

New Prints! New Sateens!

In New and Beautiful Designs

White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

—ALSO—

The Grey and Brown Holland.

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B SCANTLEBURY'S

☞ adquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

NEW GOODS

AT FISH'S AT FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

—|o|—

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

—o—

400 Collars at 5 Cents each;

A E FISH & CO

MENIER CHOCOLATE

Paris Exposition, 1889 | 3 GRAND PRIZES. 3 GOLD MEDALS.

LARGEST CHOCOLATE MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD

YEARLY SALE EXCEEDS 30,000,000 POUNDS.

PUREST, HEALTHIEST AND BEST.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER Menier Chocolates and take no others.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.

Cements, Plaster Paris
Salt, Charcoal, and Drain Tile.
—TRY—
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

The Daily Ontario.

WE ARE SELLING
LUMBER, LATH, SHINGLES
And all building Materials
At Close Prices.
THE RATHBUN CO'Y

HOW TO FIX THE LINE—LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY WILL

20TH YEAR | BELLEVILLE, ONT: FRIDAY FEBRUARY 28, 1890 | NO 50

Business Directory.

Flint Anderson & Campbell.

BARRISTERS, Conveyancers, Notaries & Solicitors for Canadian Banks of Commerce, Belleville Ontario. Office—First flat opposite Ritchie's Drug Store. Money to loan at 6 per cent. JOHN J. B. FLINT, Q.C. J. ANDERSON. W. H. CAMPBELL.

Fred E. Redick

BARRISTER, Solicitor Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. Office in Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan. In sums at 6 per cent

W. A. P. Campbell

SOLICITOR in the Supreme Court, Notary Public, Conveyancer, etc. $200,000 to loan at 6% on easy terms. Law Charges Moderate. Office, Bridge street, Belleville, Ont.

Francis S. Wallbridge,

(SUCCESSOR TO HON. LEWIS WALLBRIDGE, Q.C.) BARRISTER, Solicitor, &c., Office Market Square, corner of Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ont. Private Money to loan at 6 per cent. upon good land security.

William N. Ponton

BARRISTER Solicitor, Notary Public Conveyancer. Office over Express Co's Telegraph Office, Thompson Block, Bridge Street, Belleville. Private funds to loan Agent of Trust & Loan Company of Canada

John A. Ferin,

BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, &c. Office Ashley Block, Front Street, Belleville.

Sherry & Macaulay

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Conveyancers Notaries, Public, etc. Office next door office of U. E. Thompson and Canadian Express Co. Bridge street Belleville, Ont. GEO. J. SHERRY, C. D. MACAULAY. Private and company funds to loan at low set rates of interest

Henderson & Henderson

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, &c., Victoria Block, corner of Front and Hotel streets Belleville, Ont. GEO. E. HENDERSON Q.C., | F. G. HENDERSON County Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace (Office at Court House)

McDonald & Cream

SOLICITORS in Supreme Court, Notary Public. Money to loan. Agents for National Investment Loan Co. Office in Campbell Building, opposite Post Office Belleville. W. A. McDONALD. D. CREAM

Bell & Biggar

BARRISTERS | Attorneys etc. Offices—Corner Bridge and Front streets Belleville, Ontario. JOHN BELL, Q. C. W. H. BIGGAR.

MEDICAL.

R. TRACY, M.D.

CORONER County of Hastings. Office and Residence, Hotel street, first door North of Montreal.

F. PURVIS, Veterinary Surgeon

GRADUATE of Ontario Veterinary College Toronto; Member of the Ontario Veterinary College. OFFICE—Front St., Belleville (Douglas Old Stand.) Dentistry a specialty.

J. F. Wallace

Sole & Son, and Ed. Rooney, Brockville Telephone connection

Elizabeth Bunbury, M.D., C.M.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, Graduate of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Diseases of women and Children a specialty. Office and Residence over Holloway's jewelry store, and opposite Room formerly occupied by Dr. Farley, Front St.

EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

DR RYERSON, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S., E. Lecturer on the Eye, Ear and Throat Trinity Medical College Toronto, and Surgeon to the Mercer Eye and Ear Infirmary. 270 College Avenue Toronto.

S. M. Cooke, M.D., C.M.P.H.M.S

(HOMŒOPATHIST)

Graduate of Pulte University of Medicine, Cincinnati, Fellow of the Mahnemannian Medical society of Ohio, and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons Ontario. Specialties: Midwifery, New Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery. New York. Office and residence, Front St., the Robertson block, formerly occupied by Dr Abbott

D. W. Faulkner, M.D.C.M.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon, and Accoucheur, Graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Licentiate and member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ont. Late Clinical Clerk Montreal General Hospital. Office and residence Foxboro Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. G. VANDUSEN,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

General Agent Insurance and Real Estate Money to Loan etc. Office in Centre Block, Front St., Belleville.

G. Foster

ISSUER of Marriage Licences, Moira Huntington

Charles Butler

Issuer Marriage Licences and County and City Auctioneer. Prompt attention in all cases Terms liberal. Orders left at the office of J. G. Vandusen will receive prompt attention. Office, Centre Block, Main Front Street Belleville.

DENTISTS.

Geo. W. Walker, L.D.S.,

SURGEON Dentist, Front street, Belleville. Office—Directly opposite the Anglo American Hotel next to Bank of Commerce. d w

M. D. Ward,

SURGICAL and Mechanical Dentist. Office—Bedford Block, Front Street Belleville.

DAIRYMEN,

—OF—

EASTERN ONTARIO,

While in the City try and make time to call upon

W W CHOWN & CO

Front Street

We are the Largest dealers in this section in

Cheese Factory Goods.

and will be pleased to see as many of our old customers and any other that can call on us,

W. W. CHOWN & CO.

SUN

Life Assurance Co. of Canada

Issues an absolutely unconditional policy You can go where you like and do what you like without voiding he policy.

Income for 1888 ..... $575,373.58.
Assets now over $2,000,000.00
Life assurances in force $12,000,000.

James Little,
General Agent, Belle

BUY SUGAR NOW

They are at the lowest and the quality is excellent. We had an enormous stock, and would refrain from

TEASING YOU

to purchase from us if it were in your interests to do so, but it is not.

"We know whereof we speak"

Walmsley & Spafford
Family Grocers.
Victoria Buildings.

HOLIDAY GOODS

PLUSH AND LEATHER

Fancy Goods

FINE PERFUME, etc

CHARLES F. CLARK
CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST.
Front Street.

NOTICE

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Belleville Gas Company will be held at the Co's office No. 6 Bridge street on

Monday Feb. 17th, A. D. 1890

at the hour of twelve o'clock noon for the purposes of receiving the annual statement of accounts, the Election of a Board of Directors and other purposes.

S. REAPLE
Manager.

ADJOURNED

The above meeting is hereby adjourned until Monday the March 3rd, 1890, at the same hour.

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

Improvement

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. J. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, A. G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Atkwell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the co-partnership heretofore existing between John Weir and Edward Roe, as Livery men in the City of Belleville, has been this day dissolved by mutual consent.

The business will be carried on by Edward Roe, who will be pleased to have a continuance of the firms old patronage and will endeavour to please all who may favour him with business. All debts owing by the late firm, and all accounts due to them will be settled by them at the former place of business.

Dated this 24th day of February 1890.

Witness,
E. GUSS FOSTER. } JOHN WEIR.
EDWARD ROE.
2td.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

CARPETS CLEANED.

I AM now prepared to clean carpets by a perfect and improved process which does away with old custom of pounding and unnecessary labor. The carpets are not removed from the floor, thus doing away with the long dreaded labor of putting the house into confusion. The following references will bear testimony to the class of people who I refer to: Gordon Hewitt, Dr Cook, T S Carman, Cal Brown, L H Henderson, D R Robertson, W H Northrup and many others. Address leave at W A SHAW, City.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

In the Matter of William Severs of the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings Brewer and Maltster. Insolvent.

NOTICE is hereby given that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me the undersigned, William Hope, of the City of Belleville, sheriff of the County of Hastings, of his estate and effects as trustee for the benefit of all his creditors in pursuance of chapter 124 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario 1887.

A meeting of the creditors of the said William Severs will be held at my office in the Court House in said city of Belleville on Monday the 10th Day of March 1890

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon for the appointment of inspectors and giving directions as to the disposal of the estate.

All creditors of the said estate are required to file their claims proved by affidavit as require by said act on or before the date of said meeting.

Dated at Belleville this 27th day of February, 1890.

W. HOPE, Assignee,
Belleville, Ont.

WANTED.

EMPLOYMENT wanted by a young man of good business experience with good references competent to manage books. Good penman.

W. T. C.
Address Box '42.

RELIABLE local and travelling salesmen Position permanent. Special inducement now; fast selling specialties. Don't delay salary from start. Brown Bros., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y.

LANDSCAPE PAINTING

FRED RICHARDSON will resume his lessons in Drawing and Painting lessons on Tuesday 11th. Feb. 7. Studio Metropolitan Block, up Stairs

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

A GOOD House will burn and outbuildings in thorough repair, in one of the best localities in the city. Five minutes walk from the post office. Apply to

ADAM HENRY,
Front Street.

SKIFF WANTED.

ABOUT 17 feet long must be good apply at this office.

FREE - TRADE

BETWEEN

CANADA & THE UNITED ST's

Is no doubt the Question of the Day, but the Question of the Hour is where to buy

HATS,
TRUNKS,
SHIRTS,
NECKWEAR.

The Cheapest, Best and Most Stylish.

It will pay you to a

S G RETALLACK'S

New Styles for 1890,
Anglo American Block.

I took Cold,
I took Sick,
I TOOK

SCOTT'S EMULSION

RESULT:

I take My Meals,
I take My Rest,

AND I AM VIGOROUS ENOUGH TO TAKE ANYTHING I CAN LAY MY HANDS ON;

getting fat too, FOR Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda NOT ONLY CURED MY Incipient Consumption BUT BUILT ME UP, AND I AM PUTTING

FLESH ON MY BONES

AT THE RATE OF A POUND A DAY. I TAKE IT JUST AS EASILY AS I DO MILK." Scott's Emulsion is put up in 50c. and $1 size; color wrappers. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

OPERA -- HOUSE

SATURDAY, MARCH 1ST

A TRULY GORGEOUS TRIUMPH

The Second Edition of

MR WM J GILMORE'S

Magnificent Spectacle

THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS

Rewritten, Revised and produced under the Management of Mr. Chas. H. Yale

Produced at an Actual Cash Outlay of $35 000.

——Forming in its entirety——

The Grandest Ballet and Scenic Display

Seen in this Country.

70 PEOPLE on the STAGE 70

PRICES:

Parquette, $1; Orchestra Chairs 75c; Pit and Balcony 50c; Gallery 35c. Plan open Monday at Prof Riggs.

THE ALIEN LABOR LAW.

WHY MR. TAYLOR PROPOSED HIS RETALIATION MEASURE.

How the Member for South Leeds Prevented the Enforcement of the American Act Against His Constituents—The Bird Bill Advanced a Stage.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—The feature of to-day's proceedings in the Commons was the discussion on the motion by Mr. Taylor for a second reading of his bill for prohibiting the importation of alien contract labor. His recital of his experience in this connection was highly interesting. His constituency (South Leeds) borders on the St. Lawrence River opposite the Thousand Islands and hundreds of residents on this side cross in the summer months to the American side to obtain employment at the various watering places. These were notified last year that they must either become United States citizens or cease to work there and many of them who did not wish to break up their homes in Canada were forced to leave their employment.

It seems that Mr. Taylor was fully equal to the emergency. The Government could not interfere in the interests of his constituents, so he himself issued a manifesto signed by his own hand and with his own name notifying all concerned that unless his constituents were allowed to continue unmolested in their employment he would cause the Fisheries Act to be put in force against all Americans found fishing in Canadian waters. This Act provides for confiscation of all boats and tackle and prosecution of persons found using them in our waters.

Mr. Taylor read this manifesto to the hotel-keepers on the American side, knowing that were their guests prohibitited from fishing in Canadian waters their business would be greatly interfered with, and the result was that the hotel men issued instructions that the interference Mr. Taylor complained of should cease. Had this settlement not been effected he had made arrangements to have his threat carried into effect, the fishery officer at Gananoque, who was also a magistrate, being prepared to take the responsibility of seizing the first American outfit found fishing in the neighborhood.

The House laughed a good deal at Mr. Taylor's grave recital of the manner in which he had taken the law into his own hands, but he insisted that he was perfectly within his rights as a Canadian citizen. Sir Richard Cartwright dryly observed that this was the first time he was aware that Canada possessed a Lord High Admiral and Peter Mitchell scolded Mr. Taylor for presuming to think that his commission as Conservative whip gave him authority to enter upon a filibustering expedition in the St. Lawrence.

Sir John Macdonald then made a short speech in which he said that while a discussion would do no harm he hoped that the bill would not be pressed to a division just now. This very unneighborly law, he believed, had not been intended to apply against Canada, but as it was found it did apply we would have to wait for Congress to modify it, as the United States Administration had no power to make exception of Canada.

Mr. Laurier advised that Mr. Taylor's bill should at once be set upon, as retaliation was not wise or dignified. He rather blamed the Government for not having made strong representations to the United States.

Hon. Peter Mitchell blamed them too, and these insinuations from the other great parties brought the Minister of Justice to the rescue of his own. These gentlemen must be in a jocular mood, said Sir John Thompson, when they suggested that our Government were derelict in their duty in not acting upon the United States that Canada should be exempted. The law plainly applied to Canada just as well as it did to Italy and no exception could be given to Canada which was not given to Great Britain as well. Were Canada exempted it would probably be made the landing ground for all the world desiring to evade the law of the United States. This was not the only law which operated to the inconvenience of Canadian citizens resident along the border, for another noteworthy instance of annoyance was the taxation of Canadian currency found in possession of United States banks whilst United States currency passed free in Canada and was not even discounted in places contiguous to the border.

It seems that Canadian laborers who suffer by exclusion from the States under this law have to thank not the "grinding monopolists" but the labor organizations of the United States. Sir John Thompson showed that the alien labor law was passed there at the instance of the labor interests, and the gentleman, he said, who had secured its passage would not consent to the exemption of Canada from its operations. There was no warrant for the assertion that the Canadian Government had not done all that they could in this matter and he made the interesting reservation that within the last few months two members of the Government had waited upon the United States Secretary of State and had as formally and as strongly as possible protested against the application to Canada of the labor law and the taxation on Canadian currency. The reply they got had been that the laws in question having been adopted by Congress the President or the administration had no authority to interfere with their application.

The action taken had not originated with the United States, but was at the instance of leaders of the labor movement. When a few months ago he had entered Boston by steamer the Canadian steamer was towed into quarantine officer, the customs officer and a representative of the Knights of Labor clothed with authority from Washington to prevent any Canadian passenger who might be excluded under this alien labor law. The Knights of Labor compelled the Government to carry out the law to its fullest extent and every person who knew the state of the labor agitation knew that it was impossible to secure any abatement.

This matter had not only been considered by the Canadian Government, but full representations had been made to Her Majesty's Government by the Imperial consulate in the United States. He agreed with Sir John Macdonald that this legislation was not in the first place intended to be applied to Canada, but since then it had been designedly applied against this country. He considered, however, that it would be unwise to retaliate by harsh and irritative legislation, and in considering this question we must always remember that whereas in the United States there is no desire to encourage further immigration the conditions in Canada are different, population being one of our chief needs.

The discussion was continued by a great many members, Hon. David Mills leading off with the prescription of a Canadian representative at Washington as a safeguard against such trouble. Messrs. Ferguson of Welland and Denison of Toronto showed how harshly this law had affected Canadians of their acquaintance.

At 11½ Sir John Macdonald moved adjournment of the debate and the House rose.

Mr. Dewey "Dicky Bird Bill"—he says he is proud to have it so—got the second reading to-day. The promoter made an eloquent speech in its support and promised to withdraw in committee the objectionable features relating to other forms of cruelty if only the clause relating to pigeon shooting were allowed to become law.

Col. Tisdale moved the six months hoist and the members being called in 81 stood up for the hoist and 91 against it. Nicholas Flood Davin voted on both sides, but explained amidst the laughter of the House that he favored the bill and his first vote was a mistake. The bill was then read a second time.

The reciprocity-in-wrecking bills headed the order paper for to-day, but when the time came for them to be taken up Sir John Macdonald asked that their consideration be deferred for the present as Her Majesty's Government were now carrying on correspondence with Washington on the subject of wrecking and coasting. They were pressing strongly Canada's contention on the subject and it would not be fitting for Canada to pass a bill upon the subject now.

Mr. Charlton suggested that the bills be referred to a fishing committee, reading being deferred for the present. This was assented to by Mr. Kirkpatrick. Mr. Patterson of Essex, who introduced the other bill, said nothing and the three stood.

The question box daily attended to before the House proceeds to the transaction of business proved more interesting than usual to-day. Hon. Edward Blake was chief interrogator and opened with the enquiry whether there had been any correspondence between the Government of Canada and the Imperial Government or the Government of Newfoundland respecting the relations between Newfoundland and Canada, and if there such correspondence will be brought down forthwith.

The Premier answered that such correspondence had been going on, but it could not well be brought down in its imperfect state without the consent of the other Government.

Mr. Blake then enquired whether there has been any correspondence between the Government of Canada and the Imperial Government respecting relations between Canada and Jamaica.

Sir John Macdonald replied that there had been no such correspondence recently.

Mr. Jones of Halifax, then questioned concerning the Jamaica exhibition and asked what part, if any, Canada intended to take. In reply Sir John Macdonald said the matter had been referred to the Minister of Agriculture to be dealt with.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Emin Pasha is out and takes long walks.

The Ohio River has reached a flood stage.

Heavy rains continue to prevail in Arizona.

Major Wissmann will attack Kilwain in April.

The Riforma (Rome) declares that England and Italy are in perfect harmony on African affairs.

Mr. Parnell has been absent from the House of Commons for a week in consequence of illness.

The Sultan of Zanzibar has released some untried prisoners who have been kept in prison 18 years.

Mr. Gladstone returned to the House Thursday. He conversed for a long time with Mr. Chamberlain.

Edward Thomas Charton is dead at Paris, aged 83. He was a senator, a member of the institute an author and a journalist.

The House of Commons has authorized the expenditure of $20,000,000 in improving and extending the military barracks throughout the country.

Luitpold of Bavaria and the Grand Duke of Baden have notified Emperor William that they do not approve of his policy toward Socialism.

The Duke of Seville has been pardoned by the Queen. He was condemned to banishment in 1888 for speaking of Her Majesty in insulting terms.

The Turkish consul at the Piræus announces that all Cretan refugees will be granted free passports to return to their homes with the exception of 10 notorious men.

The Lincoln National Bank of Lancaster, Pa., has reopened for business, the stockholders having made good the loss occasioned by the defalcation of Cashier Shaub.

At the New York billiard tournament Ives defeated Heiser, 500 to 199. Ives played 20 and Heiser 19 innings. Schaefer beat Daly, 500 to 366. Schaefer played 27 and Daly 19 innings.

Austria, Italy, Holland, Switzerland, Denmark and Sweden have accepted invitations to the Berlin labor conference. Neither Prince Bismarck nor Count Herbert Bismarck will attend.

A land slide occurred near Quinnemont, W. Va., on the Chesapeake & Ohio, covering the track for 300 feet. A freight train of 20 loaded cars ran into the slide and all were wrecked. Nobody hurt.

The report that E. C. De Feyer, representing an English syndicate, had negotiated with the Woolner Bros. of Peoria for a controlling interest in the whisky trust is denied by the Woolners and De Feyer.

The London Times correspondent at Vienna reports that Prince Bismarck had actually resigned and surrendered the seals of office, but that he withdrew his resignation at the earnest request of the Emperor.

The Politisch Sachrichten (Berlin) says the Emperor conducted the discussion in the Council of State with admirable circumspection. The Emperor breakfasted with the consort Prince Bismarck was present at the debate but was absent from the breakfast.

The report of Lord Hartington's commission on the army and navy will appear next week. It is severe on the war office system which it finds to be extravagant, cumbrous and inefficient. It proposes to abolish the position of commander-in-chief, now held by the Duke of Cambridge.

The Candid Truth.

USE Hagyard's Yellow Oil this winter time for croup and I must say I find no better remedy for it.—Minnie Reid Listowel, Ont. Yellow Oil is a specific, croup, sore throat; is never

MURDER OR SUICIDE.

NEWMARKET'S TRAGEDY LOOKS LIKE THE LATTER.

Some Circumstances Make It Appear that Robert A. Smith Killed His Own Life—No Money or Valuables Stolen—The Deadly Revolver.

NEWMARKET, Feb. 28.—Domestic tragedies have of late been rife in Canada. Murder, suicide, outrage have each been prominently before the public. To-day Newmarket has its ghastly sensation, in the tragic end of one of its well-known tradesmen, whether by his own hand or as the result of "murder's foul deed" is not yet decided.

The gruesome story is soon told. Robert A. Smith, 37 years, in the prime of life, recently married, of good character and alleged to be doing a good business in Main street in groceries and earthenware, arranged Wednesday night to follow his wife and his sister to a church concert. The promise was adapted, and on the ladies returning home the tragic reason of Mr. Smith's non-appearance was discovered.

The store was in disorder and in the cellar beneath the dead body was found with gory surroundings. There was a bullet wound in the left breast and a revolver lay on the floor about 10 feet away. The hands of the deceased were smeared with powder; his trousers pockets were turned inside out, but his gold watch was intact. This was remarkable as the cash drawers had apparently been rifled and a purse was missing from the bedroom. The deceased kept a revolver in the house similar to the one found in the cellar, and it is singular that if this be not the same one the other is missing. Only one of the five chambers had been fired, the other being bullet-loaded. There were no marks of violence on the body or indications of any struggle. The pieces of money found on the floor represent the amount that was in the missing purse.

THE DEAD MAN.

Deceased was a son of the late R. H. Smith of Newmarket and nephew of the late Sheriff Smith of Simcoe. He was church warden, an Oddfellow and Forester and had his life insured in $3000.

PROBABLY MURDER.

A Grand Trunk Foreman at Point St. Charles Shot by a Workman.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—Samuel McNeil, locomotive foreman of the Grand Trunk Railway at Point St. Charles, was shot in the head this morning by a man named Sugrue, employed as a cleaner. The difficulty arose over some instruction given by McNeil. He is not expected to recover. Sugrue has been arrested.

PRINCETON'S MYSTERY.

The Victim Thought to Be Oscar Scarff of British Columbia.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 27.—The Standard says: The Princeton murder mystery is likely to be solved very soon. The body of the dead man has been identified as that of Oscar Scarff of British Columbia.

Mrs. Miller, who resides within four miles of the spot where the body was found, was in town to-day and related the following facts: Three or four weeks ago a young man from British Columbia arrived in the neighborhood on a visit to the Turnbulls. His name was Oscar Scarff and he was a relative of Turnbull's wife. A few days ago he left to visit friends in either Petrolea or Sarnia, and that was the last seen of him alive. Tuesday the Turnbulls drove to Princeton and recognized the body as that of the friend who had been stopping with them. A dark mustache which he had when he left had been shaved off. The body was positively identified by a scar on the leg.

The murdered man was engaged in the seal fishing business for several years, and when he came here he had $600 in his pocket.

The body having been identified, all that remains for the detectives to do is to ferret out the murderer, which it is thought will not be a very difficult task.

WAS IT AN ELOPEMENT?

An Ingersoll Doctor and a Married Woman Arrested on That Charge.

DETROIT, Feb. 27.—On complaint of Christopher Andrews of Ingersoll, Ont., Dr. Moses Edgar Tripp of that place and Mrs. Andrews were arrested here to-day. Andrews claims that his wife and the doctor were eloping and taking the former's five children, ranging in age from 14-year-old Emmeline to a 5-months-old baby, with them. He did not care what became of his wife but wanted to have the children. Mrs. Andrews says that she had not eloped with the doctor but had been forced to leave her husband on account of his cruelty and was seeking a new home in the States and that the doctor was merely assisting her in endeavoring to find a place where she could support herself and her children. A story is corroborated by the doctor, in whose family Mrs. Andrews has been employed in taking care of his mother, and by the eldest girl, who tells a sad story of violence and abuse on the part of her father. The doctor is 47 years old and Mrs. Andrews 35.

Mrs. Lawless Sues for Support.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—Maud Mary Chamberlain, whose marriage with Sydney C. Lawless, the son of a wealthy Hull merchant, forced upon the groom, it is alleged at the point of a pistol, created quite a sensation some months ago, applied to Judge Doutre Lefrintre to-day for leave to bring an action in forma pauperis against her husband and his parents for support. Judgment was reserved.

Horse Thieves at Whitby.

WHITBY, Feb. 27.—A horse thief got in his work here last night. A black mare, buggy and harness were taken out of W. J. Spurrill's stable. Chief of Police McBrien has telegraphed a description to all important points.

Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from pure 99 per cent Crystal Tartar and English Soda hence is the best that can be made

ASSAILED ON ALL SIDES.

French Papers Pitching Into the Proposed $10,000 University Grant.

QUEBEC, Feb. 27.—La Canadien of to-day says: "Let us hope that the Cabinet won't persist in having the $10,000 voted for the Toronto University. There are no serious reasons to create such a precedent. The province of Ontario is rich and has already given us a good example on the subject. If we remember well the Toronto councillors thought not to vote anything at all in aid of the St. Sulpice fire. Hon. Mr. Mercier, who is a clever man, is not on courtly terms with the English-speaking Canadians, against whom he has often battled, and he now seeks his way clear to make amends and reconquer his lost popularity."

L'Etendard says the Premier is trying to pander to the English vote and adds: "Let us be charitable to Catholics, Protestants, Hebrews or infidels, let us give to all who are in need, no matter their origin or their religion. But can Catholics aid in the reconstruction of a university where error and scorn are taught? We leave those who can answer this question to do so."

Le Courrier de St. Hyacinthe, edited by Hon. Mr. De LaBruere, ex-Speaker of the Legislative Council, is opposed to voting the amount on the ground that the university is not in need of the sum.

Le Quotidien, a Conservative organ at Levis, is most violent against the idea: "Mr. Mercier is to put his hands in the public purse to take $10,000 which he is to forward to the Sassenachs of Toronto to help them rebuild their university. While they will rebuild that building upon a scale of greater magnificence our humble houses of education in this province will ask in vain for assistance. Instead of favoring a strange university, a manufactory of fanatics who have no other desire than to crush, no, to destroy our language, why should not Mr. Mercier employ these $10,000 in helping to educate the poor children who, with their talents and intelligence, might in their mature years defend our race against the aggressions of lunatics and foreigners."

To Aid in Restoring the Library.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—A meeting of graduates, undergraduates and friends of the University of Toronto has been called for Saturday, March 1, at 3½ p.m. in the council chamber, for the purpose of organizing to assist in the restoration of the unfortunate library. Invitations are heartily extended to all graduates and members of the university residing in the counties of Waterloo, Wellington and Perth. There is quite a number of university men residing in this district, and Berlin is a convenient point for them all to come together. The meeting of Saturday ought to be a success.

TO STOP THE LEAK.

The U. S. Senate's Precautions—Projected Pan-American Railroad.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Under a new rule which the Senate went into executive session to-day, the press lobby has been cut off from the gallery, in which is located the Capitol office of the Associated Press, as well as committee rooms on the gallery floor were cleared and strict watch kept over them until the Senate doors were reopened. The door leading into the document room from the corridor, 50 feet from the Senate door, was locked to keep out any newspaper men who might have succeeded in evading the cordon of guards at the bottom of the stairs. The doorkeepers hereafter have been ordered to stay within six feet of the doors, but now they must move to a minimum distance of ten feet. This rule in several instances pushes the doorkeepers into committee rooms on the opposite side of the corridors. Heretofore it has been regarded as sufficient to shut and lock the two doors which separate the press gallery and press lobby. The walls of the Senate chamber are four feet thick and the doors are heavy, making it impossible to understand from the outside what is being said in the chamber.

In the House to-day Mr. Buckalew (Penn.) introduced a joint resolution authorizing the President to cause a reconnaissance to be made for a line of railroad extending south through the Central American states, Columbia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia to the city of Sucre and to detail officers in the public service to prosecute the work.

GOING WEST.

The People of Huron County Prefer Manitoba to Dakota.

CLINTON, Feb. 27.—A meeting of 100 farmers and others who are thinking of moving westward was held today in the Town Hall. Two or eleven of the traveling agents of American Western roads attended and used their influence to induce the settlers to go to Minnesota, Dakota and other United States points. Addresses showing the advantages of the various countries were delivered by A. J. McMillan, the Manitoba Government agent, Deputy Governor Purvis of Dakota and J. P. Fitzgerald of Calgary. Quite a hot discussion ensued between McMillan and Purvis—the meeting evidently being very favorable to the former. Thirteen a number gave in their names to go west. About 80 will go from here next month to Manitoba and others will follow later. The Dakota people claim to have captured two men.

THE NIAGARA CENTRAL.

Sir Hector's Committee Reports the Hamilton Branch Bill.

OTTAWA, Feb.—A meeting of the Railway Committee was held this morning, Sir Hector Langevin in the chair, when the reading of a couple of Northwest bills an act respecting the St. Catharines & Niagara Central Railway was considered. The company's sake power to extend its Hamilton branch line from a point near the city of Hamilton, through said city to a point near the village of Burlington, and also power to issue bonds to the amount of $80,000, such bonds to be in lieu of certain first preference mortgage bonds delivered to the city of Hamilton by the company under a certain bylaw of that city. The bill was reported.

Regarded as an Alien.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Acting Secretary Batchelor has informed the trustees of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lewisburg, Pa., that the Canadian clergyman called by them is regarded as an "alien" within the meaning of the Alien Contract Labor Law. The minister was born in the United States of American parents and when three years of age was taken to Canada by his father who subsequently became a citizen of the Dominion.

A Counterfeiter Caught.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 27.—Charles Sottell, a Swiss, was arrested at Guadaymas yesterday for counterfeiting American money. It is stated he has brand counterfeiting shops throughout the state of Sonora.

Rubber Goods Advanced 10 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—At the meeting of rubber goods manufacturers held here yesterday it was decided to advance prices 10 per cent.

Do No be Deceive...

All Baking Powders are not equally good. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powders is the purest and best, sold by druggists.

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 28 1890

THE DAILY ONTARIO is published every evening except Sunday, and delivered by careful carriers to all parts of the City for six Dollars a year, or Fifty Cents a month—payable monthly.
THE WEEKLY ONTARIO is published every Thursday morning, and sent out, post paid, to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain for One Dollar per annum.
ADVERTISEMENTS in DAILY ONTARIO first insertion 10 cents per nonpareil line; each subsequent consecutive insertion, 5 cents per line; when not inserted every day, 10 cents per line each insertion.
ADVERTISEMENTS in WEEKLY ONTARIO, 10 cent per line each insertion.
READING MATTER NOTICES, 15 cents per line each insertion.
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS—50 cents each insertion. Write notice of funeral attached the charge for death notices is 25 cents.
CONTRACTS made for business advertisements for one month or longer at reduced rates.
Remittances, Drafts, Cheques, and Post Office Orders should be made payable to the order of
THOS. S. CARMAN,
Belleville, Ont.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Hon. M. Bowell, when parliament was discussing that question of admitting seed or oneilage free of duty, inclined the application of the former and said "It's a small matter" If it was a small matter in the eyes of the minister of customs it is all the more reason why a little liberality should be shown to a class that have had every boon denied that they have asked for. It only shows all the more conclusively that the farmers need look for no favors from Sir John or his government. With a poor market for their produce and the government refusing every request to cheapen stock raising the lot of the farmer is becoming a hard one to endure.

The letter to the Globe from Haldimand which appears in another column, explains how the Intelligencer could be so cock sure that Mr. Vermilyea would meet with a fate in the east riding of Hastings similar to that met by Mr. Coulter in Haldimand When it is understood how Mr. Coulter came to be buried under so great a majority, and that the Intelligencer is the recognized pocket-organ of the minister of customs, and must from the very nature of things draw inspiration from an indisputable source, it is no wonder the Intelligencer can ignore the superior fitness of Mr. Vermilyea and relying on the old adage, "Money makes the mare go," confidently forecast his defeat. There is no doubt that the defeat of the Mowat government would greatly enchance the chances of success of the conservative party for the dominion and the Dominion government will leave no stone unturned to strengthen its chances to win. The little episode between Mr. W. F. Hudson and hotel-keeper Wood of Canifton shows what Mr. Wood has reported to in the past and he will no doubt resort to the same corrupt practices when pitted against a stronger opponent.

The misunderstanding between the Rev. E. P. Crawford, formerly of Brockville, rector of the church of Ascension, Hamilton, and the evangelical members of his church has taken a definite shape and it would appear that the evangelical party had triumphed. The total number of voters in the church is 128. At a vestry meeting on Tuesday 70 of the 128 were present and after a long discussion the following resolution was adopted:

"That, whereas the congregation of the church of the Ascension from its inception, nearly forty years ago, has been distinctively evangelical in its character this vestry deeply regrets the acceptance of the Rev. E. P. Crawford of the rectorship of the church in view of his unwillingness to conduct the services in the same manner as they have been conducted in the past, and would urge that Mr. Crawford accede to the wishes of the congregation, discontinue the changes made and restore the evening communion."

As further proof that Mr. Vermilyea is regarded by the Conservatives of the east riding as the strongest candidate that has opposed Mr. Hudson, prominent members of that party waited upon and urged Mr. H. B. Rathbun to enter the field against Mr. Vermilyea. To sooth Mr. Hudson's pride it was represented to him that he could contest the riding against Mr. Burdett Q. C., the present Dominion member. This was a subtile scheme. The Conservatives knew that if Mr. W. F. Hudson did so he was sure to be defeated and that defeat was certain. Mr. Hudson could do as well as Mr. White in a contest for the Dominion so that there would be nothing to lose in that quarter, but with Mr. Rathbun in the field the influence of the Rathbun company would be concentrated upon their candidate instead of divided as it is likely to be, and the chances to win in the contest for the Legislature would be greatly strengthened. The scheme although cleverly conceived miscarried for the very simple reason that Mr. Rathbun firmly and positively refused to entertain their proposition.

An Important Matter.

MR. EDITOR.—It is a well known fact that the majority of the people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seventenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath, dull, oppressive headache, nasive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchal tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes, a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. There are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy—delays are proverbially dangerous and the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers—it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. Sold by all dealers or sent post free on receipt of price—50c for small or $1 for large size bottles by addressing FULFORD & Co., Brockville, Ont.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

PAUNCEFOTE SAID NOT TO HITCH WITH SALISBURY.

It is Rumored That Sir Charles Tupper Will Visit Washington at Once—Russia Preparing For Army Manœuvres on a Big Scale.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister at Washington, being found not quite sympathetic to Lord Salisbury on many important questions of policy, will in future be assisted by a high official from here, probably Sir Charles Tupper, whose mission, however, will be very temporary. He will probably sail this week.

The difficulty arises through Lord Stanley, Lord Salisbury and Sir Julian Pauncefote holding divergent opinions on the fisheries question and the situation in Canada, which causes the despatches between the three to be slightly incoherent.

It is rumored in high quarters that Sir Julian Pauncefote will shortly be superseded.

Not Relieved at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—Nothing is known here of the reported three-cornered disagreement between the Canadian Government, Lord Salisbury and Minister Pauncefote or of the dispatching of an envoy from London to assist in the deliberations now proceeding at Washington. It is stated on good authority here that the whole thing is a canard.

Negotiations Proceeding Satisfactorily.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—Having read a newspaper clipping with which he was armed, Hon. Peter Mitchell enquired in the House to-day what the Government thought of the information therein contained to the effect that the United States had abandoned the contention that Behring's is a closed sea and that the Russian Ambassador was to take part in negotiations respecting a close season for sealing.

Sir John Macdonald said he did not think it well that this subject should be brought up from day to day while the negotiations were in progress. He might say, however, that his information from Washington was that everything is looking as satisfactory as Canada could wish.

Some Hope for Master Lincoln.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—In consequence of the erroneous report that Mr. Lincoln's son was dead, a large number of cable messages of sympathy and condolence from the United States were received to-day by the Minister, who expressed his own and Mr. Lincoln's appreciation of so much kind regard.

Minister Lincoln stated this afternoon that the doctors say his son surprised all about him by not only surviving the night but by showing sufficient strength this morning to permit the tapping operation, which greatly relieved the heart and lungs from effusion. It was pronounced that this operation, because of the patient's feeble condition, would be fatal, but it has at least temporarily reversed the hopeless condition of the patient. Additional measures were taken this afternoon to prevent a dangerous accumulation of pus. Another operation was performed which afforded great relief to the patient. A train was inserted in the affected part and the matter is now flowing freely from it. Though Master Lincoln is still in great danger his physicians and parents are not without hopes of his recovery.

At midnight Mr. Lincoln's son was resting easily.

Liverpool Dockmen on Strike.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 27.—Two thousand men employed on the North docks have struck because their demand for higher wages was refused.

The Portuguese Anglophobes.

LISBON, Feb. 27.—The Northern Patriotic League of Portugal appealed to the Government to cancel the exequatur of Mr. Crawford, the British consul at Oporto. Senhor Pimentel in reply says he sees no good reason for such a proceeding.

The subscriptions to the National Defence Fund for the first ten days reached $400,000.

The Behring Sea Question Unsettled.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Sir James Fergusson, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, denied in the House of Commons to-day that the Behring Sea question had been settled. Negotiations, he said, are still proceeding.

The Forth Bridge.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The opening of the Forth bridge, which is set for Tuesday next, is exciting universal interest throughout England. The Prince of Wales is to be the central figure of the ceremony and engineers are coming from all parts of Europe. Forty railway magnates from France have recently signified their intention of being in the party. Following the ceremony the invited guests will make a hurried tour of Liverpool, principally to inspect the wonderful sidings of the London & Northwestern Railway where nightly 6000 cars are shunted and shifted entirely by gravity. After this they will inspect the Mersey tunnel.

The Pneumatoscope.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—At a meeting of the Medical Society Dr. Jamczewski showed an important invention called the pneumatoscope, which permits an exact differential diagnosis of all affections of the lungs. The instrument has two auditory tubes connected with an ear piece for the physician. The inner tube has a swinging membrane which when placed in the patient's mouth registers the different irregularities of sound caused by disease of the lungs and the bronchial tubes.

The Russian Army Manœuvres.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 27.—The Russian army manœuvres for next summer will be on the most colossal scale.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

The $160,000 University Grant Passes Its Second Reading.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—The Minister of Education yesterday in the Assembly moved the second reading of the bill giving to Toronto University the sum of $160,000 to aid in the reconstruction of her buildings. The bill was sent through its second stage and referred to a committee of the whole House without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Hardy's bill to regulate mining operations and the bill to amend the general mining act were read a second time, as were also the Attorney-General's bill to further amend the act to secure wives and children the benefit of life insurance and the bill providing for security for costs on certain actions against justices of the peace.

A Translator in Trouble.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—A writ was issued today against F. X. Demers, translator of the House of Commons, for damages for the alleged seduction of Rosa Beeson, aged 17 years. Demers is between 40 and 50 years of age. The girl is said to be very pretty.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

THE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr B. J. KENDALL Co., of Enosburgh Falls Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the horse, and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enable to obtain a copy of that valuable work FREE by sending their address (and enclosing a two cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work To every lover of the horse it is indispensable as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this so animal its phenomial sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it secard authority. Mention this paper when send for "Treatise.

"WHAT MEDICINES ARE MOST CALLED FOR?"

asked the reporter of an old druggist.

"Dr. Pierce's preparations, he replied. "They are sold under a positive guarantee that they will, in every case, give satisfaction, or the money is promptly refunded. His 'Favorite Prescription,' for all those chronic weaknesses, nervous and other derangements peculiar to women, is used with unfailing success. It cures weak backs, bearing-down sensations, irregularities and weakness common to the sex, and being the most perfect of tonic medicines builds up and strengthens the entire system. The demand for it is constant, and I am conversant with scores of cases cured by it."

Returning after a few moments' absence, the venerable witcher of the pestle remarked, "the number of sarsaparillas and other, so called, 'blood medicines' in legion; but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery outsells them all and it is the only blood purifier out of the many which I am obliged to keep upon my shelves, that is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all cases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it is refunded."

"In the line of Pills," remarked the old gentleman, "the little Sugar-coated 'Pellets' put up by Dr. Pierce lead all others, both in amount of sales and the general satisfaction they give my customers."

Copyright, 1888, by WORLD'S DISP. MED. ASS'N.

$500 OFFERED

for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It is mild, soothing and healing properties, it cures the worst cases, no matter of how long standing. By druggists, 50 cents.

CATARRH,

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS—HAY FEVER

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. DIXON & SON, 303 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Toronto Globe.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

For coughs, colds bronchitis, and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them try one bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—Mrs. WINSLOW'S Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste It soothes the child, softens the gums allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other kind

Racked by innumerable pangs, restless by day, eepless at night, rising unrefreshed in the morning, without appetites and pestered by varying and perplexing symptoms, the dyspeptic takes indeed a gloomy view of humane existence. For him the zest of life seems gone. Heartburn oppression at the pit of the stomach, and the attendant annoyances of constipation and biliousness, combine to render him utterly wretched. But there is, if he will but take advantage of it, a reliable source of relief from all this misery. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is, as its name imports, a botanic preparation, free from mineral poisons and an all-sufficient remedy for indigestion in its most obstinate form. It not only enriches the blood by enabling the digestive organs to convert the food received into nutriment, but invigorates it by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, the natural outlets for its impurities. But while it relaxes the bowels, it opens and strengthens them, unlike a drastic cathartic. It aids but never vices. Nature, invigorating as well as purifying and regulating the system. I thoroughly removes the most diseased humour which tend to vitiate the blood, purifies the urinary secretion, and promotes a flow of healthy bile into the natural channel, besides expelling from the circulation, Experience has proved that this scandar medicine is a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, kidney complaints, scrofula erysipelas, salt rheum, lumpage and all impurities of the blood. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature Sold by all medicine dealers.

Amherst Gazette, December 4th, 1888.

ACKNOWLEDGE the great good I received from Burdock Blood Bitters. I had constipation, irregular bowels and accumulation of wind, causing severe pain in my stomach. Two bottles of B. B. B. cured me. It is all you claim it to be.

ALLAN A. CLARKE, Amherst, N.S

Consumption can be Cured

By proper, healthful exercise, and the judicious use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, which contains the healing and strength giving virtues of these two valuable specifies in their fullest form. Dr. D. D. McDonald, Pedicodia, N. B., says "I have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion with good results. It is especially useful in persons of consumptive tendencies." Sold by Druggists, at 50c. and $1.00.

THE WESTERN

Assurance Company.

FIRE AND MARINE INS.

NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE INSURANCE CO.

FIRE & LIFE INS.,

Lion Provident and Live Stock Ins. Co'y.

Accident Insurance Coy. of North America.

Royal Plate Glass Insurance Co'y

Agency "White Star Line S.

WM. SMEATON

Late Pope and Fenwick

ARE YOU ONE OF THEM?

In 1890

The Home Seeker Takes 160 free acres in the famous Milk River Valley of Montana, reached by the MANITOBA RAILWAY.

The Health Seeker takes the Manitoba to the lakes and woods of the Northwest, He can Hot Springs and Broad water Sanitarium.

The Fortune Seeker takes the Manitoba to the Glorious opportunity of the four new States.

The Manufacturer takes the Manitoba to the Great Falls of the Missouri.

The Tourist takes the Manitoba through the Grandest scenery in America.

The Traveller takes the Manitoba Palace, Dining and Sleeping Car line to Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and the Pacific coast.

The Teacher takes the Manitoba cheap excursions from St. Paul to Lake Minnetonka, the Park Region, the Great Lakes, the Rockies, the Natural Park, the Pacific Ocean, California and Alaska.

Anyone will receive maps, boxes guides of the region reached by the St. Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, by writing F. Whitney, G. P. & T. A. St Paul, Minn.

ATTENTION.

SPLENDID FARMS in Sidney and Ameliasburg, for sale or exchange. No money down required.

Lot 34 in 3rd Concession of Sidney, 229 acres, three miles from Belleville, best of soil, 60 acres now land, wood, etc.

100 acres in Ameliasburg on bay shore opposite Belleville. Will be a suburb of Belleville when the bridge is built. Spencer farm, Apply Feb 6 FLINT, ANDERSON & CAMPBELL.

WANTED

SPECIAL AGENTS

TO WORK

Life & Accident

INSURANCE,

In the County of Hastings; apply to

S BURROWS

BOOK BINDING

TAMMADGE

WE

Can assure with confidence that we are the Exponents, Highly Perfum

TOILET SOAPS

There is none to equal in all respects

PURE

WHITE CASTILE SOAP.

Which is manufactured from the best Olive Oil and may be used freely in the nursery or for the Toilet While superior it is not half as expensive as the common Toilet Soap sold by Grocers.

We hold a quantity which we imported direct from the South of France and which is very fine.

L. W. YEOMANS & CO.

RECAMIER PREPARTIONS

A full Line of

Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer's Celebrated Toilet Preparations at

D.M. WATERS

THE

GRAND UNIVERSAL RANGE

With Pat't Duplex Grate

Has no equal as an Efficient, Economical and Perfect Baking Apparatus. Every Stove guaranteed

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

Oval round or Square Fire Pot

FITTED WITH

Duplex Dockash Anti-Clinker Draw Co n or any other kind of Grate.

FOSTER & FOSTER

IMPERIAL CREAM TARTAR BAKING POWDER

TRADE MARK

PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST,

CONTAINING NO Alum, Ammonia, Lime, Phosphates, OR ANY INGREDIENT OF QUESTIONABLE HEALTHFULNESS.

E. W. GILLETT, TORONTO, ONT.

MANUFACTURER OF

THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKE.

DR DORENWEND'S GREAT GERMAN

"HAIR MAGIC"

Preparations, helps dragging nature and will proper use will produce a luxuriant hair and keep it its natural color. As a regular dressing this magnificent imparting to the hair a much desired softness and beauty. Be sure also that you get the genuine, the seal and signature of A. Dorenwend Toronto. Price $1.00 per bottle 6 bottles for $5

Hair Goods,

for ladies and gentlemen Bangs Frontpiece Waves Wigs Switches and Toupees. A. Dorwend is known in country over as the leading Hair Goods Manufacturer and when you wanany in a correct place to go to. Send for the circulars wherein you will find full particulars of all kinds of Hair Goods and how to dress the hair to best advantage. Mention his paper wh n writing

CHRISTMAS SUPPLIES

Our assortment of FINE GROCERIES and other supplies for the

—HOLIDAY SEASON—

is now very complete, embracing

FINEST TABLE RAISINS.
FRESH MALAGA GRAPES,
FINE TABLE FIGS,
SWEET FLORIDA ORANGES,
FRESH TABLE PRUNES, in jars
NEW GRENOBLE WALNUTS,
NEW SOFT SHELL ALMONDS,
NEW SICILY FILBERTS,
A Fine Assortment of

Cadbury's English Bonbons,

AND

Chocolate Creams

small Fancy Hampers, and Decorated boxes, imported Direct, especially for Christmas Trade

Huntley and Palmer's

CELEBRATED ENGLISH BISCUITS

INCLUDING

Macaroons, Toy Crackers, Cheese Biscuits
Mixed Biscuits—Colonial Biscuits
Milk biscuits Ginger biscuits
Vanilla Sugar Wafers
Chocolate Sugar Wafers
Raspberry Sugar Wafers
Lemon Sugar Wafers
Coconut Sugar Wafers

Lemon Biscuits—Bondoir biscuits—Albert biscuits—Thin Arrowroot biscuits

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!

(Specially for the Holiday Trade)

ROQUEFORT CHEESE

A Case of this Famous French Cheese just received for Christmas

CANADIAN PRIZE CHEESE,
PRIME OLD CHEESE.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS

We have large supplies ordered from the leading Packers in Baltimore for the Holidays

WINES &C.,

Our Stock includes all the Leading and most popular brands of

CHAMPAGNE.
CLARETS.
PORTS,
SHERRIES, ETC.

ALES AND PORTER

Bass's, Guinness's, Dows, Labatts, Carling

PHILLIP'S BEER MILWAUKEE LAGER,
Montreal Ginger Ale, Montreal Soda, Apollinaris Water, etc.,!

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

Grocers and Wine Merchants
33 and 37 Bridge Street
Also Front Street cor Pitcher's

BOVRIL'S BLOOD BUILDERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS STOMACH, OR WEAK OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

SPECIAL MONTREAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE Wonder of The Age A NEW Improved for DYE

ECLIPSE DYES

Nothing but Water — required in using —

10c package. For sale everywhere. If your dealer does not keep them, send direct to the manufacturers

COTTINGHAM, ROBERTSON & CO. MONTREAL.

PLATE GLASS

A large stock always on hand.

Window Glass

Best Brands—A large assortment.

SILVERED MIRRORS

ALL SIZES.

A. RAMSAY & SON, MONTREAL,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PAINTS, VARNISHES & COLORS.

THE GREAT OLD ENGLISH REMEDY

OF PURELY VEGETABLE INGREDIENTS WITHOUT MERCURY, USED BY THE ENGLISH PEOPLE FOR OVER 120 YEARS.

Cockle's Pills

COMPOUND ANTIBILIOUS PILLS.

These Pills consist of a careful and peculiar admixture of the best and mildest vegetable specimens and the pure extract of Flowers of Chamomile. They will be found a most efficacious remedy for derangements of the digestive organs, and for obstructions and torpid action of the liver and spleen, which produce indigestion and the general variety of bilious and liver complaints, sold by all Chemists.

WHOLESALE AGENTS:

EVANS AND SONS, LIMITED, MONTREAL.

McLAREN'S CELEBRATED

PURE HONEST GOODS.

COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.

SAFE INGREDIENTS

NO ALUM.

Only McLAREN'S is Genuine.

Manufactured only at THOMAS HOLLOWAY'S ESTABLISHMENT, 78, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS & OINTMENT

THE PILLS

Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS. They invigorate and restore to health Debilitated Constitutions. In all Female Complaints are invaluable. For Children and the aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT

For Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, For Gout and Rheumatism, For disorders of the Chest it has no equal. For Sore Throats, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases it has no rival; and for contracted and stiff joints it acts like a charm.

It is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers.

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Boxes and Pots. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

A POWERFUL INVIGORATOR

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

THE GREAT STRENGTH GIVER

IT SUPPLIES

Nourishment for Flesh Muscle & Bone.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Fresh Strawberry Pine Apples!
Fancy Limon Banannas!
Sweet Tangerine Oranges!

Just in to-day at

CONGER BROS.

I CURE FITS! THOUSANDS OF BOTTLES GIVEN AWAY YEARLY.

When I say Cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of Fits, Epilepsy or Falling Sickness a life long study. I warrant my remedy to Cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my Infallible Remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address:—H. G. ROOT, M.C., Branch Office, 186 WEST ADELAIDE STREET, TORONTO.

There is hardly any other disease which uncermines the health and happiness of hundreds of thousands of families as HERNIA or

RUPTURE

It creeps into almost every household as a worm; it causes nervous debility, impairs the memory, extinguishes the spark which invigorates the relations of life in domestic circles, and imparts devotion to the most sacred institutions of marriage, morality, etc.

In addition to the above it especially affects the men, both physically and socially, of all ages and positions; it destroys energy and wears out the human machine ten-fold quicker than age or labor.

SUFFERER, BE WISE

RUPTURE DEFORMITY

can only be treated by

Mechanical Treatment.

After all have failed to hold your rupture come to me and I will do for you what others have failed to do. CLUB FEET made straight without cutting or pain in 6 months. Patented. SPINAL cases a specialty. The best appliances made to correct any deformity of the human frame.

Chas Cluthe, Surgical Machinest, 134 King We

Will visit professionally, Belleville Queen's Hotel, Friday and Saturday, March 21st and 22nd.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Baby one year old. Bad with Eczema. Hair all gone. Skin covered with eruptions. Cured by Cuticura. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

Cured by Cuticura

cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy when one year of age was so bad with eczema that we lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions which the doctors said was scald head and that his hair would never grow again. Upwards of a year from phys cians, I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to the world as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children and feel that a Mother who has an afflicted child withstands me me for so doing.

MRS. M E WOODSUM, Norway Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name which is H H CASON, merchant.

JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist Gainesboro Tenn.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood Purifier and purest and best of Humor Cures, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, speedily, permanently cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, scrofulous, and hereditary diseases and humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, from pimple to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 75c. SOAP, 35c; RESOLVENT, $1.50. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORPORATION Boston. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp preserved by CUTICURA Soap. Absolutely pure.

EVERY MUSCLE ACHES Sharp Aches, Dull Pains, Strain, Weakness relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain killing strengthening plaster. 30 cents.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LIVER AND KIDNEY CURE

T. EDMANSON & CO., Aged 11 Y., Chase's Liver Cure and Pills:—

DEAR SIR—Having been troubled with my liver complaint and kidneys, and was induced by my druggist to try Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, but having tried almost every kind of Patent Medicine I did not feel inclined to try any more until I tried a sample of your pills left at my house, they did me so much good I bought a bottle of the Liver Cure and a box of pills and since then I have taken seven bottle of Liver Cure and can now thank God for being cured. Wishing you every success I remain Yours, HENRY LIGHT

PS—You can use this for your benefit.

Miners, Farmers, Mechanics, etc. IF YOU ARE RUPTURED OR DEFORMED

Send direct to the largest, oldest and most reliable establishment of its kind. CLUB FEET, SPINAL DISEASE AND RUPTURE a specialty. Send 6c. stamp for valuable information of a system which took 20 years to perfect. Will supply you by mail at Toronto prices with Trusses. Every order satisfactorily filled each case and sent same day. A supply of Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, Elastic Stockings, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, Batteries, Crutches, etc., always in stock. Prompt, honorable dealing, and the very best goods have made my establishment so favorably known.

Address CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist & Mfr., 134 KING STREET WEST, - TORONTO, ONTARIO

BURDOCK PILLS A SURE CURE FOR BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, AND DISEASES OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. THEY ACT MILDLY BUT THOROUGHLY AND PROMPTLY ON THE LIVER, REGULATE THE BOWELS, PURIFY THE BLOOD, EFFECT A PERMANENT CURE AND FORM A VALUABLE AID TO THE TREATMENT AND CURE OF CHRONIC AND OBSTINATE DISEASES.

TO WEAK MEN Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

HASTINGS LOAN AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY BELLEVILLE, ONT.

CAPITAL - - - - - $250,000

MONEY TO LOAN on Farms or City property at lowest current rates.

Payment can be made to full close at any season of the year to suit borrowers. No delay in obtaining the money beyond the time necessary employed in the investigation of claims.

MORTGAGES PURCHASED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Four per cent interest allowed on Deposit. No notice required of withdrawal.

OFFICE—Rotherham Block, East Side Front Street.

Straight loans at 7 per cent. No fines. No commission.

J. T. C. PHILLIPS, Manager.

"The -:- Judge."

WAS a most brilliant action on the piano could not make them musical. They were wonderfully fair, but not a dead white. They glowed warmly, and even the nails had a delicate flush like tinted porcelain. Margaret's face was interesting because of its expression, but her hands were beautiful with the beauty of perfect molding and color.

What the little damsel was thinking, some one else was also thinking in another part of the city. Let the lights be ever so low, or his eyes be ever so dim, still Harry Leiter saw those beautiful hands and heard mysterious melodies that they played—heard them day and night. They played pure melodies, and in vain did his tired brain try to force them to jangle jribald ballads and coarse music. Always there came back to his shrinking, yet fascinated ears, the same lovely strains. Now it was Schubert's serenade, dying in melancholy tenderness; again, it was "The Wanderer," full of divine despair; sometimes it was a resonant chorus from the great master whom Margaret loved above all others. And she could be false and yet play those true things—those creations that embody the best that God has given to man, and that in their perfection rival the creatures of the great musician! Yet she was incapable of feeling, and could not know that she was committing sacrilege. If she had accepted his devotion poured so passionately at her feet, and known all the time that she was lying and laughing, she, of course, could play a hymn to Truth with her degraded hands and see no inconsistency and suffer no remorse. A coarser man than Harry would have raged at the falsity of his mistress, but he could hardly have suffered as Harry did. All his life he had been given to dreams. The chastening influence of his uncle had been around him since infancy. A poem had been his pastime, the possession of a new scene or a fair picture his greatest reward. It was a strange atmosphere in which to raise a lad in the nineteenth century, and in a place like City like Chicago, and it might have made a mental weakling out of a different sort of a man. But physically, Harry had the embodiment of strength, and he was protected by a spontaneous sense of humor which never deserted him, and which kept him at all times from being ridiculous. It made him love life, and all sorts of life.

He could drink cheap wine in the fantastic little Italian restaurant with the dusky musicians from the west side theatres with the same grace and enjoyment that he quaffed an after-dinner glass and told his most delicious stories at the most fashionable residence on Dearborn avenue. But now no merry spirit of mirth lightened his misery. The accent of the attendant, at which he had smiled for a day or two, had become familiar. He heard nothing but Margaret's melodies swelling louder and louder. So it made no impression on him at all when a note from a friend conveyed the simple intelligence that he would call on him the next day and see about securing defence—The grand jury had held him to the Criminal Court.

He really felt little interest in the matter. But as he lay down he saw in his dozing a man climbing, with fatal familiarity, the lattice to Margaret's window. He saw the light flare up in that room and burn brightly for a time, then it went out. There was nothing but the night and its silence. And so he dropped to sleep with her music ringing in his ears.

CHAPTER X.

A TRANSFORMATION was taking place in William McCook. Until now he had preserved his self-respect. He had been in the habit of settling down at any convert meanness in which he might indulge, and as eccentricity of character, or as one of the necessary incidents of business. But this life was a climax, and he was dimly conscious of it. All his life—even since he had felt or reasoned—he had thought Margaret Barthwait the centre of the universe. Around her all his thoughts had clustered from early boyhood. At college he had been a brilliant student, and every honor had been earned for her. At the same time he had been able to lead the life of almost reckless pleasure, which he kept diligently from her ears. Selfish, vain, aggressive, he had been far from popular. And to this, he was indifferent. It was in the favor of the professors, and when he left school and entered business he still had the faculty for winning the favor of those in power. Perhaps one reason for this was the ability he showed as an organizer. Scheming men recognized in him a powerful ally. He was just the man to give valuable aid to a political machine if once his own interests were involved. His worst qualities had, therefore, procured him his friends. As his successes increased, his arrogance grew, till at last it became so great that he thought he had only to desire anything to get it. Margaret's rejection of him, and for a man whom he despised as effeminate and insignificant, instead of humiliating him filled him with bitterness. He was determined to be revenged. And on the day that he openly admitted to himself that he would be avenged by fair means or foul, he lost his self-respect. From that moment he became a very dangerous man. From that moment he knew, and his weeping guardian angel knew, that he would stop at nothing. From that moment he was given up to greed of place and temporal money. Success was not worth much to him without Margaret, and his first step was, therefore to secure her.

As soon as it was declared that Harry was to be tried for the murder of his uncle, and fixed that McCook was to represent the State in the case, he set every energy to the campaign in hand. He was a coarse man, and like all coarse men, had a sort of clouded intelligence, or he would have recognized the fact that hurting Harry's chances could not help his own, nor could he realize that a woman of Margaret's character would infinitely prefer a guilty man to one who could work against a friend. But McCook believed that Margaret would think him the victim of his position, as, indeed, he was, to an extent. He did not give her credit for the shrewdness to discover the animus of his work. He had never had very much respect for her intellect, nor for the intellect of any woman. Men of his stamp are not apt to have. He was from no feeling of mental affinity that he loved her. The love of such men is a sensuous feeling. It may be taken as a very abstract passion, existing in them from their birth just as much as their muscular strength. Reason does not direct the course of it. And when once it is fixed it becomes a sort of insanity.

He sat in his office late one afternoon, when Dennis Pond entered. Pond lifted his hat with the most elaborate ceremony, which put McCook on his guard immediately. He thought he was mocking, and it may have been possible. The young newspaper man had been known to do worse things.

"I am perfectly aware that you are not dying to see me," said Pond with a well-developed smile, "but the truth is, Mr. McCook, I couldn't stay away any longer." McCook with difficulty refrained from throwing him out of the office. There was something about the fellow's good-natured insolence that infuriated him. He nodded in an icy manner that may be said to belong peculiarly to Chicago. In no other city of the world are business and professional men so puffed up with pride, or possessed with so little courtesy. Having thus made an effort to transfix Pond with the Chicago stare, he awaited his further remarks in an attitude that said: "My disagreeable and unwelcome friend, I have something less than two minutes to devote to your ease. This look caused Pond to leisurely unbutton his overcoat, take it off, hang it on a peg, and sit down. Next he took out his cigar case, and then he passed his cigar case to McCook. The attorney refused with a shake of the head. Pond drew forth a cigar, lit it, puffed at it slowly and said:

"Thank goodness, I've got nothing to do but talk to you all the afternoon."

This was more than the attorney could stand.

"Then, sir," he retorted, angrily, "I am a very unfortunate man, for I have not the time to listen."

"Dear, dear," ejaculated Pond, in a pained tone, "and the matter was so interesting, too."

McCook, hardly able to contain his temper, had taken up his pen and began writing again.

"You see," Pond went on, nibbling at the end of his cigar, "I think I have stumbled upon the man who killed poor old Leiter."

He would not have been the man he was, had he not caught the look that darted into the attorney's eyes at these words. They had been angry before, and they were angry still, yet they underwent a change and a terrible one. A lion may wear an expression of rage when he meets a foe, and prepares to fight him. But it is nothing to the rage he feels when his prey is torn from him. McCook did not trust himself to say much. He only guided his voice into an interrogatory tone and murmured:

"Well?"

"That is why," Pond went on, picking up a paper and stopping to read a paragraph and laugh over it, "that I am so sorry you have no time to listen. Of course I thought that you, as a conscientious man, would be glad to hear that you might not suffer the painful duty of prosecuting your friend."

"Certainly," said McCook, off his guard, and forgetting what he had said to Pond on that very subject the last time he had seen him. "I will make time to listen to anything that concerns business, of course."

Pond digressed, and trifled and yawned through the story of the murder on the wharf. He told how the marks on the face had resembled those that disfigured counterfeit coins of the old collector. He all but proved that the two crimes must have been committed by the same man.

"And the strangest thing of all," he continued, looking at McCook with a sudden sharpness, "is that the figure of the man who did the killing was certainly familiar. Mr. McCook, have you any idea, could you make any wild guess as to whom that person could be?"

"How should I?" asked McCook, impatiently. "What means could I have for knowing?"

"Well, you are a shrewd man," said Pond, in the first sincere accents he had used, "and I thought you might have suspected some one of leading a strange, half-insane life. I don't know how to express myself. But I cannot understand why that figure looked so familiar. You know what a faithful mechanical machine the mind is! When I saw that figure, I remembered afterward, that I thought of you. Now, I do not misunderstand me. It did not bear the faintest resemblance to you. But I thought of you. There must have been some unclassified connection of ideas in that. This happened, mind you, before I had any reason to suspect him of anything. I simply watched him as I might any other man. My ideas is that it was some one that I had some time seen with you. Try to help me out. Try to think of any half mad friend, or any one likely to have complex associations.

"I confess your clues are too slight for me. And I do not at all agree with you in thinking that the man who murdered Mr. Leiter was the one who killed this beggar. The fact that both victims were killed in the same way argues nothing. No one has a better opportunity than yourself for knowing that crimes are frequently epidemic. As long as the papers make a practice of publishing all the details of murders and suicides and other crimes, so long will these crimes become epidemic. Not long ago a love-sick girl in this city killed herself by taking rat poison. Within three months six girls had followed the example in this city, and people fell to taking rat poison all over the United States. I can remember when a melancholy and philosophy-mad German threw himself from the waterworks tower and dashed his brains out on the pavement. In a short time three of his countrymen followed his example, and it became necessary to put a railing around the tower. The railing is there still, a monument to the mimetic insanity of the unbalanced."

"You cannot possibly remember the circumstances any better than I do," said Pond, with a boyish grin. "For in the heat of the excitement I had occasion to superintend a suicide there myself." Pond paused to give his joke jolly fellows. We were all High School lads, and bent on a little relaxation after examination. Each of us carried up with us a harmless looking bottle, and we drank it on the top of the tower we began to quarrel with each other frightfully. People who were passing looked up and looked up with apprehension. Finally one of us fired a pistol shot. A man was seen to fall over and over, limply to the ground. The crowd came to pick him up. One thoughtful citizen barricaded the door so that we could not get out, and signaled for the police. It is hardly necessary to say that the figure on the pavement was a man of straw. When the trick was discovered there was as much anger expressed at us as if we had been of flesh and blood. You might forgive a man for having killed another, but it is impossible to forgive one for having made you ridiculous. We were arrested, and slept in the police station. It was my only experience. I didn't mind it much, but my father refused to allow bands to pay me for a month." Pond blushed little at the remembrance of that part of the story. McCook looked at him with illconcealed contempt while he put on his overshoes and coat.

"Well, I'm much obliged to you for your suggestions, Mr. Pond," he said, politely. "but I can not take any stock in your discovery."

"If I were in your place, Mr. McCook," said Pond, still with perfect good nature, "I would look into the matter before I pronounced on it in that way. If I had an old friend whose life was at stake."

"I know my duty, sir," the attorney returned, rising and putting his hands behind him.

"Now don't be melodramatic," said Pond with a yawn. "Of course if you need to see your friend hung it's none of my affair."

"In my profession I have no friends," McCook stiffly replied.

"I guess that's so," replied Pond with a peculiar intonation.

"What do you mean, sir?" gasped McCook, white and trembling.

"I mean," said Pond with a fine sparkle in his eye and manner of intolerable sweetness, "that I have given you one last chance to prove yourself a good fellow. You have refused to do it. I think and you can take it as an insult or not, as you please—that you want to see that poor lad hung. You know the reason better than I do. Good day, sir."

He got out unawares. After he left, McCook had a consultation with himself. He wondered what Pond was going to do. And in conclusion he made up his mind that come what would, this investigation should receive no aid from him.

"I believe in the defence to look it up, anyway," he said, but it was not to quiet his conscience, for that needed no more quieting. It was dead as a door nail, and the murderer was still rejoicing over his freedom from its hated surveillance.

TO BE CONTINUED

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their remarkable success has been shown in curing SICK Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured HEADACHE they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of the claims which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the misrepresentations by envious imitators and competitors, and in spite of base attempts to rob him of the fruit of his labors, the Loisette Method remains the undoubted superiority and popularity of its teachings. Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized by all as both the most complete and scientific Memory Culture. Prospectus (sent post free) gives full particulars, testimonials, etc., of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his pupils and only which have studied, "before and afterwards," that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering, etc., etc. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials, address Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.

Don't Foot away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the liver, lungs and kidneys, and all obstinate afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

Nature Has Provided A remedy for every ailment and pain and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wresting the secrets of her domain. A new and wonderful discovery has recently been made by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain. Nervoline, or nerve pain cure, represents in very concentrated form the most potent pain relieving substitutes known to medical science, and strange to say it is composed of substitutes wholly vegetable in origin. Polson's Nervoline is the most prompt, certain and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Sold in 10 and 25 cent bottles by all dealers in medicine.

Nerve Pain Cure. Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills and spasms. Nerviline cures vomiting and diarrhea cholera and dysentery. Nerviline cures headache, sea sickness and summer complaint. Nerviline cures neuralgia, toothache, lumbago and sciatica Nerviline cures sprains, bruises cuts, etc. Polson's Nerviline is the best remedy in the world and costs 10 and 25 cents to try it. Sample and large bottles, at any drug store. Try Polsons Nerviline.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Sawyer's Son, Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient and can be tolerated by almost anyone, especially where the plain oil itself cannot be borne. Sold by all druggists, 50 cent and $1.

Piles! Itching Piles SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging most at night; worse by scratching. It allowed to continue turns to form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore, very painful, and discharge quantity of matter and bleeding, hasis ulceration, and in in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail on 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal wholesale agents Death Dealing Drugs SUCH as Calomel, Morphine, etc are not needed where better left alone. They often weaken strong constitutions. This Burdock Blood Bitters never does, it contains no mineral or other poison, and cures all diseases arising from a disordered liver, kidneys, bowels, and blood by unlocking the secretions and removing all impurities.

Peculiarities of The Hair There are times when it is not one require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if care is taken for a few months. Ayer's Hair Vigor, Gray Hair, Dandruff, Great German Hair Magic will do the work, it works in accordance with nature supplies fresh nourishment to the glands keeping the hair natural and in shade. Be sure to get it. You cannot afford to make every Dyeing and rub it. It is nasty and dirty. Use Dyeing Hair Vigor, another column.

A Cure for Deafness. THERE have been many remarkable cures of deafness made by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great household remedy for pain, inflammation and soreness Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, sore throat and croup, cures pain internally and externally for all pains and injuries.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25cts sold by all druggists and country dealers Use Polson's nerve pain cure Nerviline

To lessen mortality and stop the ravages of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples, Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good.

LOOK HERE! NEW CURE AGT Will be at the ANGLO AMERICAN HOTEL, Belleville, every Saturday for the next three months, to dispose of remedies that will cure Rheumatism, and also stop pain of any kind. A number of tests will be made free of cost to convince those who doubt the assertion. For communications address

NEW CURE AGENTS, Box 248, Trenton, Ont.

2d4w

MONEY FOR ALL WANTED a good energetic man, or men, to sell our Fruit Trees, Roses, Shrubs, Ornamentals, etc. Permanent employment. Write at once for terms and secure a good territory. We sell only first class stock. Handsome outfit free. Address MAY BRO THERS Nurseries, Rochester, N.Y. 13g8wdw

AGRICULTURAL INSURANCE CO OF WATERTOWN N.Y. THIS company insure nothing more hazardous than dwellings with the outbuildings, and farm property; take no commercial or manufacturing risks, and are therefore very select in sweeping fires, making a safe security for the home. Having done business for thirty two years, they can point to an honorable and successful career, having now nearly $70 million in assets. Are writing 70,000 policies per annum, with a yearly income of over $800,000 Capital, $500,000 all paid up, and a deposit with the Insurance Department of 100,000 Parties desiring to insure their city dwelling or farm property will find this company a safe one and at rates reasonable.

F M CLARK Loring agent, Belleville

W HARVEY agent, Ivanhoe

J. Martin agent Stirling.

DOMINION LINE —OF— ROYAL MAIL STEAMS SP

LIVERPOOL SERVIC DATES OF SAILING

Sarnia, from Portland, Thursday, Feb 27th from Halifax, Sat March, 1st, Oregon, from Portland Thur March 13th; from Halifax Sat. March 15th, Vancouver, from Portland April 10th, from Halifax April 12th, Oregon from Portland April 24th, from Halifax, April 26th.

Bristol service for Avonmouth Dock,

SAILING DATES

Texas, from Portland, Saturday Feb. 18th, Toronto, from Portland, about Feb. 28th

Rates of passage, Montreal or Quebec to Liverpool - Cabin $50 to $60, according to steamer and position of Stateroom with equal saloon privileges.

Second Cabin $30 to Liverpool or Glasgow Steerage $20 to Liverpool, Londonderry, London, Queenstown or Glasgow or Belfast.

"The accommodation for Second cabin in these steamers is exceptionally good, and well worth the attention of the travelling public.

The Vancouver is lighted throughout with Electric Light, and has proved herself one of the fastest steamers in the Atlantic trade.

"Saloon, staterooms, music rooms and bath rooms in these steamers are amid ships, where but little motion is felt, and they carry neither cattle nor sheep.

For freight and passage apply to the Grand Trunk Railway offices, or to DAVID TORRANCE & Co. Hospital street, Montreal, or T C LAZIER Agent Belleville

SALESMEN WANTED. Having done business in Canada for the past 30 years, our reputation and responsibility are well known. We pay salary and expenses from the start, if everything is satisfactory. No previous experience required. Positions are very liberal, before engaging with any other firm.

REFERENCES—Bradstreet's or Dun Wiman and Co's Commercial Agencies, well known to business men, or Standard Bank, Colborne, Ont.

CHASE BROTHERS' COMPANY NURSERYMEN, COLBORNE - - ONTARIO.

FOR MEN ONLY! A POSITIVE CURE For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY Weakness of Body and Mind. Effects of Errors or Excesses in Older or Young, Robust, Noble Manhood Fully Restored. Impotency, Sleeplessness, Nervous Spasms, Lost Power, Wakefulness, Premature Decay, Wasting Weakness, Lassitude, Pimples, Blotches, Emissions, Spermatorrhoea, Impotency, Loss of Power in either sex, Lost Manhood, Wasting Diseases, and all results of Indiscretion or Excess. Full strength, development and tone given to every part of the body. Free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO. BUFFALO, N. Y.

CITY STEAM BAKERY JAS. WALLACE. Manufacturer of Fine Biscuits and Confectionery. Also Dealer in Fruits, Nuts, Candies, best made. Excellent for Public Speakers TRY THEM.

Loss of Manhood THE SCIENCE OF LIFE the great Medical Work of the age on manhood, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries consequent thereon 300 pages, 8v, 125 prescription for all diseases. Cloth, full gilt, only $1, by mail, sealed. Illustrative sample free to all young and middle aged men. Send now. The Good and Jewelled Medal awarded to the author by the National Medical Association. Address P O Box 1895, Boston, Mass. or Dr. WH PARKER, graduate of Harvard Medical College, 24 years practice in Boston, who may be consulted confidentially. Specialty, diseases of men Office, No 4 Bulfinch Street.

WANTED GOOD, reliable men to sell our Nursery stock. Permanent employment. Good SALARY and extraordinary inducements to beginners. Outfit free. Previous experience not necessary. Established over 20 years. All goods guaranteed first class Write at once for terms. Address

J. W. MACKAY

St Thomas, Ont., Geo. Manager for Maple Grove Nurseries. (Mention this paper)

GUARDIAN Fire and Life Assurance Company of London England.

Paid up Capital, One Million Pounds Stg Capital Subscribed, ... $10,000,000 Invested Funds, ... 20,219,000 Fire Risks Accepted at Lowest Rates.

W. H. CAMPBELL, AGENT.

Office:—Robertson Block, East Front S

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y.

Those Joining now will share in the Division of Profits in December, 1889.

T. C. LAZIER, Agt, Late Thos. Donnelly.

NEW - GOODS - ARRIVING - DAILY —AT— THE - CRYSTAL - HALL

Among which are the following:—

BED ROOM SETS, HANGING LAMPS, SILVERWARE, CUTLERY, DINNER & TEA SETS, FANCY TEA SETS, TOM & JERRY SETS, PUNCH BOWLS, Etc. Etc.

We would call special attention to our large assortment of White China also Brass Plaques, Tambourines, Banjoes, Drums, Bells, etc for decorating

W. J. REID & CO Benj. Birch, Manager.

WINTER EVENING AMUSEMENTS Games of all kinds for Indoors and the latest out is HALMA, A very popular Game also is "The Spider and the Fly." J. C. OVERELLS

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY How Lost! How Regained, THE SCIENCE OF LIFE KNOW THYSELF. THE SCIENCE OF LIFE A Scientific Medical Treatise on the Errors of Youth, Premature Decline, Nervous and Physical Debility, Impurities of the Blood.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY AND UNTOLD MISERIES Resulting from Folly, Vice, Ignorance, Excesses or Overtaxing, Enervating and unfitting the victim for Work, Business, the Married or Social Relation. Avoid unskillful pretenders. Possess the great work. It contains 300 pages, royal 8vo. Beautiful binding, embossed, full gilt. Price only $1.00 by mail, postpaid, concealed in plain wrapper. Illustrative Prospectus Free, if you apply now. The distinguished author, Wm. H. Parker, M. D., received the GOLD AND JEWELLED MEDAL from the National Medical Association for this PRIZE ESSAY on NERVOUS and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Dr. Parker and a corps of Assistant Physicians may be consulted, confidentially, by mail or in person, at the office of THE PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass., to whom all orders for books or letters for advice should be directed as above.

THE GREAT INDIAN MIXTURE, BLOOD PURIFIER AND Indian Pain King For sale only at R TEMPLETON

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM CURES COUGHS COLDS HOARSENESS, ETC.

OYSTERS! ARRIVING FRESH DAILY —AT— DICKENS & SON

DR LOW'S WORM SYRUP DESTROYS AND REMOVES WORMS OF ALL KINDS IN CHILDREN OR ADULTS. SWEET AS SYRUP AND CANNOT HARM THE MOST DELICATE CHILD

AN XTENISVE —ASSORTMENT OF— FANCY BALL PROGRAMS Just opened out at the "ONTARIO" OFFICE

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

FIRE INSURANCE The Undermentioned First Class Fire Insurance Companies guarantee absolute security to insurers against loss or damage to property by fire.

THE LANCASHIRE, of Manchester, Eng. Capital ..... $12,300,000.00.

THE WATERLOO MUTUAL, of Waterloo Ontario, accepts risks on the cash plan without premium note, or on the mutual system. Established 1863.

Losses paid in 1888, ... $77,400.88. Assets Dec 31st 1888, ... $186,266.72.

THE LONDON & LANCASHIRE, of Liverpool, England. Capital $12,000,000.00.

No charge for Policy or survey on city property.

OFFICE—Corner Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. Belleville. Entrance for Pinnacle St., upstair

JAMES BOOTH, Agent

M. C. ROBLIN. —ISSUER OF— MARRIAGE LICENSES Agent for the Lancashire Insurance Front St opp Ann's American

TO THE PUBLIC. MR A. DULMAGE having secured the services of a practical manufacturer of furs from Toronto, is now prepared to fill all orders entrusted to him. His 25 years experience with the Hudson Bay Co. enables him to select skins with advantages not had by other manufacturers, as all work is done on his own premises. He can supply the wants of customers at a less cost than imported goods can be sole for. Shop and manufactory, Front st. East Opposite City Hall, Belleville.

THE KEY TO HEALTH. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the nervous; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

For Sale by all Dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. FONTHILL NURSERIES, largest in Canada. We want reliable, energetic men to sell our Nursery stock; all experience not necessary; any man with tact and energy can succeed; terms liberal, either salary or commission. Outfit free.

Our agents have many advantages, such as selling home grown, hardy Canadian stock. Choice New Specialties, which are of value, and which can only be secured from us, such as a complete list of New Russian Apples, the Gibson Pear, Saunder Plum, Hilborn Raspberry, Moore's Ruby and Jack champion currants, Moore's Diamond Grape etc. etc.

We have given particular attention to the propagation of Hardy Varieties suitable to the Northern sections of Canada.

For terms apply to STONE & WELLINGTON Toronto, Ont.

WHAT Wilkinson Plows, Nos. 2, 8, 4, 5 & 7, and 30, giving an excellent variety to choose from Chatham Fanning Mills with or without baggers, Spring Tooth harrows Steel Harrows Queen Corn Cultivators, Steel Buffalo Reapers, Mowers, Rakes, Knives, Guards Threshing Engines, new and second hand Monarch Thresher. Repairs for Waterloo machines and other makes.

WHERE All the above may be bought or ordered through WHYANTASSEL, Agt Foothbridge Warerooms, Belleville.

BANKING OFFICE —OF— U. E. THOMPSON BRIDGE ST., BELLEVILLE, American Currency and Drafts bought and sold. Money received, subject to w d drawn without notice.

NEW SPRING GOODS!

1890!

NEW PRINTS,
NEW TABLE LINENS,
NEW TOWELLINGS,
NEW WHITE COTTONS,
NEW EMBROIDERIES,
NEW ART MUSLINS,

And a Variety of other Goods suitable for the early spring trade.

REMEMBER we are now in our new Premises, the large four-story building across the street, south, from the old land,

NEW CARPETS.

20 Bales New Carpets, Curtain Materials, etc., now arriving in Stand.

We show a Fine Assortment of patters this spring. Don't fail to see them.

No climbing of stairs to our carpet rooms. They are reached by our Hydraulic Passenger Elevator—the only one in the city.

Jas. W. Dunnet

Glasgow Warehouse, New Stand Belleville.
Feb, 1890

The Daily Ontario

BELLEVILLE, FEBRUARY 28 1890.

Piano Tuning.

All orders left at Mr. Hennessys' Dry goods store—or by post. Address Box 408, Belleville will be attended to by

S. R. HUFFMAN.
d1y Tuner.

Violating The Liquor Law

Michael Hinch, of Stoco, was fined $28 by police court this morning for selling liquor during prohibited hours on Sunday, Feb. 2nd.

Hallwell at Liberty.

J. W. Hallwell, who has been confined in goal for two weeks in default of being able to give sureties to keep the peace was dismissed by Judge Lazier today.

Hymenial.

Thos Stewart and Emma M. Brown were married at Deseronto on the 26th inst by Rev. Rural Dean Stanton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. T. A. Brown. The honeymoon will be spent in Rochester New York.

At Goldsmith's

Uptown Fish store received to-day, cod and halibut 5cts per lb. Fresh halibut in steaks, shell lobster, brook trout, finnan, fresh white, red fish, finnon haddies, sea herring, smoked halibut, etc. Imported lock fine herring by the dozen. All kinds pickled fish.

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Ferguson of Victoria University and Mr. Miller of Queens University will deliver addresses in the college chapel tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Subject Y. M. C. A. work. It is hoped that many of the friends of Y. M. C. A. work will be present. A hearty invitation is extended to all.

A Farmer Absconds.

A farmer living near Rossmore who is deeply involved financially, packed up his goods last night and left for parts as yet unknown. He has a wife and one child who accompanied him. It is stated that he is several years in arrears with his rent. A Belleville gentleman holds a chattel mortgage against his farm stock.

The Civic Machinery.

The committee on market and city property last night and recommended the payment of the following accounts: Belleville Gas Co., $102 29; R. C. Rolph, 85cts; Downey Co., $56 50.

The fire committee recommended that the gas company be paid $65.05.

The executive committee meets to-night.

The Baptist Mission.

A pleasant evening was spent at the residence of Mr. H. Wallis, Yeomans St. last evening, when the re-organized Mission band of Willing Workers of the Baptist church, were entertained by Mrs. Wallis, they having become defunct through her recent illness. The programme consisted chiefly of recitations, songs and solos by the children, but the feature of the evening was the Indian club swinging by Mr. Wallis and Mrs. W. W. Bourne. After the programme was brought to a close, refreshments were served to the children. After the doxology the children dispersed to their homes.

Always Succeeding.

The success of Belleville boys who have launched out for themselves would furnish material for an interesting column. Prominent among those who are now mounting to success are the proprietors of Hamilton Business College, Messrs. F. Spencer and Chas. R. McCullough who were formerly teachers in the Ontario Business College. At one of their entertainments recently there was a gay attendance when the gold medal for general proficiency in the winter's night school, was awarded by ex-mayor Doran. The friends of the principals will be pleased to learn that they are meeting with phenomenal success.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

About Prominent Politicians and Private People.

Fred Lingham is in South Africa.

P. Ragan, Michigan, is at the Kyle House.

A. A. McDonald, barrister, Madoc, is in the city.

Capt. O'Flynn, of Trenton, is stopping at the Dominion.

Capt. Christie of Picton, is registered at the Kyle House.

J. J. Goodhue, St. Albans, N. Y., is registered at the Queens'.

W. J. Gibson and J. B. Turner, Gananoque, are at the Queens.'

R. Grass and wife, Trenton, was registered at the Anglo American.

Geo. D. Dickson, who has been confined to his house for the past two months was able to attend to his office duties today

NINE HOUR MOVEMENT

CARPENTERS AND JOINERS IN OPEN COUNCIL.

Practical Addresses in Support of Organization—What Local Notables had to say on the Subject—A Large and Enthusiastic Meeting

The mass meeting held in the city hall last night under the auspices of the carpenters and joiners union was a decided success. It was one of the most enthusiastic assemblies ever held in Belleville for discussion of interests relating to labor.

Mayor Tickell presided. On the platform were, R. C. Clute, Q. C., P. J. M. Anderson, Ald. Yeomans, Luscombe and Gordon, Rev. Dr. George, and H. Lloyd, of Toronto.

Mayor Tickell in a few introductory remarks stated his views fully and clearly on the subject. "United labor, its aims and benefits," proving and showing that he was heartily in favor of the shortening of the hours of labor that their time would be spent in the elevation of themselves both intellectually and morally. The secretary read letters of regret from S. B. Burdett, M. P., H. Corby, M. P. and Ald Hanley who were unable to be present.

Ex-Ald. Anderson said that he was in sympathy with any movement that would give the laboring people benefits which they do not now possess and which rightly belonged to them. He said if you see a cloud gathering it is always best to prepare for a storm. We reap every day of great men with large fortunes, who die, and leave their money to who, generally us lawyers or people who need it more. (Laughter.) They earn these fortunes without any great effort, while perhaps their employees are unable to earn enough to keep body and soul together. You should stand shoulder to shoulder and say, "We will not allow this oppression to tyranize us.' This it too prevalent in countries across the water. Fair play is fair play and anyone who does an honest day's work should receive an honest day's pay. It is not long ago when it was considered a crime to call a meeting of this character for free discussion. It is right that you should publicly discuss any scheme to promote your own interests. In Russia a man is exiled if he speaks freely or complains of his lot. If carpenters earn their living in nine hours they have a right to the other hour. The time they had to themselves would not be spent in dissipation but in self improvement. Your employers interests are your interests. You must be wary of the associations that are antagonistic to labor. You see perhaps the president of some large concern getting a salary of $10,000 a year for setting around seeing that the men who earn 90 cents to $1.00 a day are losing no time. Perhaps this year business is rather dull. The directors meet and discuss the situation and finally conclude that they must reduce the men's wages five cents a man per day, while the president still continues to draw his full salary. But these men workingmen are those who feed him, I say again my best wishes are with you in your movement and that may you succeed is my earnest desire.

Ex. Ald. Johnson, said he was in hearty sympathy with the nine hour movement. He could not see why labor and capital was so much at variance. Mechanics had a perfect right to band themselves into organizations as well as doctors, lawyers, and all professions. Workingmen possess the same right in the shape of hewers of wood of all other classes. If I thought, he said this movement possessed any motive by which you would seek to place all men on one footing, regardless of their capabilities, it would meet with my strongest opposition but I know you are not working in that direction. If I thought this extra hour would be spent in idleness and dissapation I would say it would mean deterioration to yourself instead of improvement. You should devote it to your intellectual, moral and spiritual culture. The man who is most honored and thought of, is the honest man who earns his living by the swea' of his brow, but he is not having his rights and that is what you are trying to get for him by your movement, if I understand correctly. A day is made of 24 hours and to my idea should be divided into three parts One third to be devoted to labor, one-third to recreation and the other third to sleep and rest. What is now a nine hoor movement will certainly become an eight hour movement. If your time is divided that way you will have a chance to become a man as God intended you to be. This movement is now becoming international and it will not be long before Canadians will be on the top of the ladder. It used to be that storekeepers kept their stores open till ten p. m., but now their day's work closes at six o'clock. The key of the book of knowledge has been laying just above the reach of the workingmen but by this movement it will then be within the reach of millions of otherwise unlucky souls. Brains have never been confined to one class and the humblest man may have the greatest scope for intellectual truths but he must have the time to exercise and practise what he knows, and also the wives of these working men would be benefitted as much as themselves. Their labor is far more tiresome than you have any idea. I want them to have the full benefit of this movement and my earnest wish is that you will win and that at no distant day.

R. C. Clute then gave a stirring, practical address. He said: To-night's meeting was only one of thousands that were being held throughout the world and the result was that knowledge was gradually creeping in the minds of the people. Every man by a reasonable day's pay ought to be able to earn sufficient to comfortably support his family and give him ample time for recreation and improving his intellect in eight or nine hours. It depends upon you to say what shall constitute a day's work. It is your own fault if your agitation is not attended with success. The time is only coming that the object which you have in view is nearing its maturity. The atmosphere is permeated with a feeling that the men who earn the money are not getting their due, and that legislation must be had that will ensure them their just rights. How can legislation be had. Only one way and that is by united action. The workingmen have my earnest and deep sympathy and always will. I was a workingman myself, and I am proud of the fact. What you want is a free library and that is what I always advocated. With it everyone may become alive with regard to matters pertaining to their interests and welfare. To succeed you must take action and enlist men that you know are in sympathy with your motives. You should be able to earn in eight hours sufficient to support yourself and family comfortably. What you do want is higher wages, cheaper living and shorter hours and it is merely on the way. We send men to parliament and regard them as our masters when they are our servants. Why should one party stay in legislation for years, if you, you are to blame if they turn a deaf ear to your appeals. Laboring men of Canada, if they unite under prudent leaders can make the parliament of the country. You have the ballot and it is the ballot that does the business all that you now require is union. What I would advocate would be direct taxation, by that means the elector can tell exactly what his political servants are costing him and he would soon find out if his servants were doing their duty. He closed his eloquent speech amid great cheering.

Vice-president Henry Lloyd, of the Labor Organization, the speaker of the evening was the next to address the meeting. He said the workingmen do not seek to unhearve the present condition of things, but hope to win by just arguments and union. The theory was to pay a man according to his work and not all men equal. We do not advocate strikes. We know too much what they mean. The first man, generally, who says strike, without first a fair discussion and mature consideration is always the first man to crawl back to work at his old wages. Why not discuss the trouble with the employer and settle it amicably. If the boss does not meet us halfway, then and not till then, discuss or advise a strike. Show me a city where labor is well organized and I will show you a city where no strikes are necessary. To show the advantages of united labor he compared the wages of the hod carriers of New York city with the machinists of the same place. The hod carriers are united in one organization while the machinists are not. The result was that the hod carriers earn $5 a week more than the machinists and every other week in New York city there is a difference between the machinists and their employers. It would be better for employees and employers if all branches of labor were in one organization where differences could be considered and business transacted in the most harmonious manner. We would then be united by a common brotherhood and what would be our neighbors interest would be ours. He wanted to see all workingmen politicians, but not party politicians. I sat at nineteen a rabid tory, but my eyes were opened to my folly. I am now an independent man. The day is at hand when the independent men will settle the elections. I believe in eight hours, and why? Because machinery has stepped in and robbed many of us of work, and by shortening the hours of labor all men will have an equal chance to earn their livelihood. Fifteen years ago two man made 25 pair of boots in 5 days; now by the aid of machinery 2 men can make 350 pairs of boots in one day. Take the sewing machine. I know women who work from sunrise till sunset, in Toronto, making five shirts and only get 60 cents a dozen. There are rich classes of people who are being robbed, the small contractors and store keepers, and the workingmen and the farmers. It is almost beyond credit the amount of mortgages upon the farms in Ontario and the farmers in some instances are unable to pay even the interest upon these mortgages. They have been robbed and for what purpose? To allow the millionaire and capitalist to live on the best of the land. If the farmer is not prosperous it is impossible for anyone else to be so. The great principle that we advocate is given every man an honest chance to earn an honest living. I can see in the horizon a bright gleam of hope for the movement which we are agitating.

Mr. Henry Pringle moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers and particularly to Mr. Lloyd for the able address, coupling with it his sympathy with the movement which was seconded by Mr. L. W. Yeomans which closed one of the most successful meetings ever held in the interests of labor organization in this city.

TOWN TALK.

A boy fell and broke his leg near Albert college last night.

Geo. Hill, of this city had his fingers taken off in the Whitby smash up.

The hull-less oat cases which were to be tried on March fourth have been laid over until the same date.

Rev. J. M. Hodson will shortly commence a series of lectures before the students of Albert College.

Andrew Stewart was committed for trial at the police court today for the larceny of a brace and bit from N. Wilhelmy.

The vital statistics for February are: Births, 13; marriages 13; deaths 24. The death rate is exceptionally large this month.

James Maloney, of west Catharine street fell in the Anglo American yard last night and sustained a severe injury about the left temple. Dr. Ross had him removed to his house.

PROB.—East to north east winds, cloudy with rain or snow followed by north west to west winds and colder weather.

Sterling Items.

Sterling lodge A. O. U. W.' is booming.

Moira lodge A. O. U W will have on the 28th, a tea meeting at which Mr. J. J. B. Flint, and others prominent in the order, will speak.

Dr. Sprague, P. M. W., was elected representative of Sterling lodge to Grand Lodge of A. O. U. W., lately held in Toronto.

Judson, son of our respected townsman, Benjamin Bush, leaves here soon for Minneapolis to engage in business.

James Haggerty, B. Sc., is at Ottawa attending the Dominion Dairyman's Association.

Rev. Mr. Macdonald will have a grand gathering as usual at the Hubble Hill tea meeting, March 6th.

Walter S. Martin has opened out an immense stock of boots and shoes in the Steadman Block.

A circulating library has been started here with some eighty members.

A Woman in the Case.

There always is. She is the power behind the throne. A woman's influence over the man who loves her is often absolute. To wield so great a power to guide, strengthen and help her husband, a woman mind should be clear and healthy. It cannot be if she is suffering from any functional derangement. How many a home is made unhappy because she who should be its life and light is a wretched, depressed, morbid invalid! Wives, mothers and daughters, why suffer from "female complaints" which are sapping your lives away when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will renew your health and and gladden those about you? It has restored happiness to many a saddened life. Why and to many women when relief is so easy! In its special field there never was a restorative like the "Favorite Prescription."

To cleanse the stomach, liver and system generally, use Dr. Pierces Pellets. 25 cents.

To Nervous Men.

If you will us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dye's Celebrated Electric Voltaic Belt and Appliances and their harming effects upon the nervous debilitated system and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, manhood and health. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich

d&wly

The Learned Societies.

Through their members have testified to the great efficiency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It provokes no line of demarcation, scouring alike the good will of the highest and the most humble, and with strict impartiality, removing with equal alacrity the corns of each. Try Putnam' Painless Corn Extractor.

THE TALE IS TOLD.

TWAS A FAMOUS VICTORY—THE HALDIMAND CONTEST.

An Unvarnished Statement of Tory Corruption Coercion and Intimidation.

The result of the Haldimand election, especially the heavy majority for Dr. Montague was startling and the OBSERVATORY at once ascribed it to bribery and corruption. The Globe thought it impossible that the Conservative party would be so bold as to resort to the wholesale bribery that must be necessary to secure the majority, but when the subjoined letter appeared that paper declared that the contest is without parallel in the political history of the country and calls upon the party to institute a searching legal investigation and disfranchise, if possible, the guilty parties.

TO THE EDITOR:—In to-day's issue of the Globe you make certain comments in regard to this election, and deem it probable that, though bribery was committed on a large scale, the result might, to a certain extent, be attributed to other causes. In this you are certainly mistaken. There never was a time when the meetings held in the Reform interest were so well attended, and the great body of the solid men of the party were so united and enthusiastic. The falling off was due solely to bribery, and the amount of money spent by the Conservatives was incredible. In the first place, they had to satisfy some old claims, real or imaginary, on the part of their own friends, and in single instances they had to pay from $60 to $80 while many of their supporters were hawking themselves around for sale to the Reformers, and threating that they would not vote unless they got $10 or more. There were several hundreds of these camp-followers. In the Indian Reserve the corruption during the day was most barefaced. The polling took place in a private house. Within ten yards of this was a small log shop provided with lock and key, the latter being in the custody of the Conservatives. Into this Col. Tisdale, M. P., would take an Indian voter, lock the door and try and persuade him to vote for Montague. If he failed, Mr. Moir, of St. Mary's, would take the Indian under his care and interview him in the shop, first locking the door. It would be passing strange if their arguments did not succeed. Then R. W. Richmond and other Tory workers took Indian voters to the barn to pursuade them. Dr. Montague tried to pull an Indian into the polling booth, The dinky voter said he had been promised money the last two elections and he must have spot cash, and broke loose from the doughty doctor. Then a tory worker took the Indian away in a buggy for a short drive and pursuaded him, so that on his return he voted. About noon there was a great lull in the voting. Dr. Montague and his friends could not get an Indian to vote, and it was soon discovered that there was something wrong. A council of war was held and the doctor started for Hagersville in great haste and soon returned with Roters Birmingham, who inspired them all with vitality, and voting was soon resumed in earnest. Then the scenes began to be ludicrous. Dr. Montague and one of his workers would sally out into the yard and find an Indian who had been duly pursuaded, and take him by the arms and fairly carry him to the poll.

In the white district the plan of campaign was first to satisfy all their own camp followers, and then to purchase about twelve in each sub division out of the reform camp. All of the deputy returning officers were appointed by the president of the tory association, and some of these who were nominated refused to act cept on account of the conditions sought to be imposed on them. Those whose timidity and unfairness had been conspicuous in previous elections were all reappointed. It appears that the briber, who at this election was generally an outsider, paid the voter a certain sum, sold him that the deputy returning officer would be able to tell at the polls how he voted, and if the voter carried out his bargain he would get a further sum. At several polls the change in the majority was from 20 to 24. The scheme worked much more successfully than any of the tory managers supposed to be possible, and their success has thoroughly alarmed them. That the result is wholly attributal to this circumstance is proved by the following facts:—As No. 5, Rainham; No. 7, North Cayuga; Nos. 12, 13, and 14, Oneida, the calculations made by the reformers were completely realized, and a slightly larger vote was polled for Mr. Coulter than was anticipated. In these the bribing machinery of the tories was either not attempted or proved unsuccessful. There was no local or general question which could effect the other 24 subdivisions which would not equally effect these five, which extended nearly through the centre of the county from the north to the south. If a fair vote had been polled Mr Coulter's majority on the present list would have been at least 200, but by bribery of a wholesale and notoriously open character it has been converted into a minority of over 200. This the lesson taught by our experience, and it is grave enough to strike all who have any conscience or moral principle, with alarm. That so many peoplesare purchasable is bad enough; that such an enormous amount of money as was required for that purpose should be furnished by the Dominion Government or with its connivance is horrible and that there is so little public opinion and sound morality in the land as to permit and endorse such outrages is still more deplorable. HALDIMAND.

Let quality, not quantity, be the test of a medicine. Ayer's Sarsaprilla is the concentrated extract of the best and purest ingredients. Medical men everywhere, recommend it as the surest and most economical blood medicine in the market.

Let any young man who is uneasy about his physical condition read Dr. Lane's Key on nervous diseases mailed free to any address. Lane's Specific Remedy is an invaluable preparation for the permanent cure of all diseases resulting from evil indulgence. Sold at $1.00 per package or sent on receipt of price to any address free of charge. THE LANE MEDICINE CO., Montreal, Que. Sold by D. M. Waters Belleville.

RELEASED FROM GAOL.

The Minister of Justice Liberates Joseph Snider.

Joseph Snider of Thorlow, who was committed to goal for three months on Jan. 6th last for assaulting Peter McDougall and inflicting grevious injuries on his nose, was handed an order from the minister of justice today releasing him from custody. It is needless to state that Joe was overcome at his good fortune and is extravagant in his thanks to the friends who interfered in his behalf. It will be remembered that he had also to serve thirty days for abusive language and a seven dollar fine.

FROM THE PACIFIC.

A Tedious Passage Through the Rocky Mountains.

D. O. Roblin, traveller for H. Corby, M. P., in a private letter from Victoria, B. C., says the worst trip he ever experience on the road was his last one through to the Pacific coast. When he reached Winnipeg the cold was intense and snow slides from that city to the coast was frequently encountered. The C. P. R. officials state that it was the worst trip they ever made. Fortunately there were very few passengers aboard the provisions held out until the snow blocades were cut through. The trip across the sound was made with the greatest danger to life and property. The gale was terrific and several times the captain felt that the ship would be dashed on the shore. He was able, however, to keep her in open water until the storm abated when he put into Victoria with very little damage sustained.

Should not be Without it.

SIRS,—We have used your Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for severe coughs and coldsand can recommend it to be just what it is represented to be. We would not be without it. H. SARINE,
Ottawa, Ont

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hall's Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

Fire Bells.

Bring out an alarm and it is heeded. This is not you when a substitution is tactise when the great sure pop corn cure is asked or. Putnam's PainlessCorn extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnams."

Over 14,000,000 bushels of wheat were recently sold in New York city in a single day. What a monument of magnificent bread this would make if properly reduced and made into snowy, sweet, palatable loaves with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. It is sold by all grocers.

Some of the herbs in Halls Hair Renewer, that wonderful preparation for restoring the color and thickening the growth of hair, grow plentifully in New England.

SYMPTOMS—NO SURE; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue form a form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors, at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son Philadelphia Tyman, Sons & Co., wholesale agents Montreal.

BANKRUPT SALE

Grant's Bankrupt Stock has been again marked down. Call in and note prices and be convinced that you can purchase

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, TRUNKS AND VALISES.

at prices never before offered in this city. This great Reduction sale commences on

SATURDAY, FEB. 22'D

JUST -- OPENED -- OUT.

FIRST SHIPMENT

OF

NEW SPRING HATS

NEWEST,
CHEAPEST,
NOBBIEST.

Call and see them! No Trouble to Show Goods!

J. BRASIER,

HATTER & FURRIER.

☞ N. B.—The balance of Furs will be cleared out cheap, to make room for new Goods.

GREAT REMNANT SALE.

Owing to the large quantities of Goods we have sold in past two months, we have

HUNDREDS - OF - REMNANTS

In all kinds of Goods left, which we have marked down to half their original price. Ladies' Mantles and Mantle Cloths will be offered at cost price during this month.

100 PAIRS

SCOTCH AND ENGLISH

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON

PANTINGS

ORIGINAL PRICE $7.00

NOW MADE TO ORDER ONLY

$4.75

—AT—

A. N. REID & CO.

Remnants of all kinds sold cheap.

NEW GOODS

New Embroideries!

Direct from Switzerland

New Prints! New Sateens!

In New and Beautiful Designs

White Cottons, etc., etc.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.

NEW GOODS

A. T. FISH'S

6 CASES JUST OPENED

NEW NECKWEAR!
NEW UNDERWEAR!
NEW KID GLOVES!
NEW HOSIERY!

SEE OUR NEW UNDERLINED SHIRT—CHEAP.

4 Collars at 5 Cents each.

A. T. FISH & CO.

THE NEWEST

Of Fine Stationery is the

Sub Rosa Note Paper & Envelopes

ALSO

The Grey and Brown Holland

With Envelopes to match. These are very pretty Goods and not expensive. Ask to see them at

C. B. SCANTLEBURY'S

☞ headquarter for School Books and Fine Stationery.

MENIER CHOCOLATE

Paris Exposition, 1889 } 3 GRAND PRIZES. 3 GOLD MEDALS.

LARGEST CHOCOLATE MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD

YEARLY SALE EXCEEDS 30,000,000 POUNDS.

PUREST, HEALTHIEST AND BEST.

Ask for YELLOW WRAPPER Menier Chocolates and take no others.

For Sale Everywhere.

BRANCH HOUSE, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK.

DAVID CRAWFORD, Montreal Agent.